Respect, Mr. Walbridge, comes from without. You cannot give it to yourself like a Royal Grant. It must be given to you by people who believe you worthy of their esteem. If You forget your own position, and dignity, and pride, and concern yourself more with those around you, will not your friends think better of you for it? Surely that is of more value than sitting around in your old age with the lonely consolation of thinking that you're a great guy.

Dennis P. O'Brien

Enough To Gag A Maggot

To The Editor:

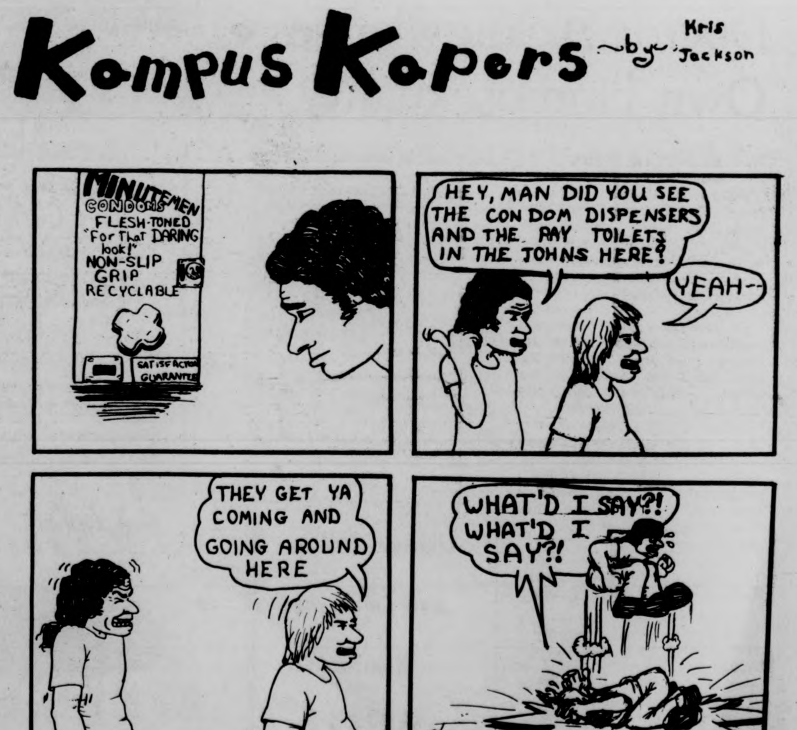
I am writing in response to the September 28, 1973 letter to the editor by George Carey. In that letter Mr. Carey insults the Marching Band, and says that the songs played are "enough to gag a maggot."

I would like to say that I am sorry that the Band spoils your afternoon tennis playing, BUT I WON'T. The Band is made up of about 150 dedicated and hardworking men and women, who go out after classes and work hard to put together a show that will entertain the crowd at the football games.

It is not our intention to ruin your game, but if it does, may I suggest that you choose a different time to play, for the Band will not stop rehearsing, and they will not stop putting together halftime shows that please the public.

As for you, Mr. Carey, I am curious as to whether you are now gagged, for it is you who are the maggot.

Richard Manburg



Kompus Kopers ~by~ Kris Jackson
MINUTEMEN CONDOMS
FLESH-TONED
"For That DARING look!"
NON-SLIP GRIP
RECYCLABLE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
HEY, MAN DID YOU SEE THE CONDOM DISPENSERS AND THE PAY TOILETS IN THE JOHNS HERE?
YEAH--
THEY GET YA COMING AND GOING AROUND HERE
WHAT'D I SAY?! WHAT'D I SAY?!
10/3

More Letters To The Editor

Support For African Liberation

To The Editor:

The signing of the recent peace accords bringing peace to Vietnam was a great victory for the heroic Vietnamese people. As we all know despite severe setbacks in Vietnam U.S. imperialism continues to plunder, rape and murder the people of Cambodia. The greatest lesson of our times has been that U.S. imperialism with all its advanced war technology cannot defeat or thwart a united peoples struggle.

With the uneasy peace in Vietnam (U.S. puppet governments continue their duty in sabotaging the treaty) progressives particularly those in the Afro-American population have turned their eyes and attention to Southern Africa. This area represents the last bastion of colonialism on the African continent; the peoples of this region are engaged in battles for their lives, freedom and the right to determine their own future. They are trying to reclaim their cultural heritage, restore integrity of their history so long distorted by imperialist historians. This area is caught in the grips of classical Portuguese colonialism and Apartheid which is the most barbaric form of racism since slavery.

The peoples of Angola, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands are involved in a life and death struggled against Portuguese colonialism. Their liberation struggles are met with systematic torture and devastating napalm and bombs supplied to Portugal through NATO and marked "Made in USA." The U.S. is the backbone of Portuguese colonialism supplying over 400 million dollars of direct aid.

The fascist regimes of South Africa and Zimbabwe (Rhodesia) continue to exploit and oppress the indigenous inhabitants. The Republic of South Africa represents the major beachhead of world imperialism in Africa.

South Africa, the key to U.S. imperialist plans in Africa offers U.S. corporations profit returns three times higher than any other country in the world. The existence of great sources of cheap labor coupled with the presence foreign industry makes South Africa the strongest economic power on the continent.

Israel, with its long historical and economic ties with South Africa, is a small imperialist-created state with direct access to African countries and continues to play a disruptive role in Africa.

To pursue its aggression in Africa, the U.S. ruling class is employing Israel, Rhodesia, South Africa and Portugal as gendarme (police) nations in order to expand its investments, recolonize Africa, reverse the social and economic progress of independent African countries and halt the advances of the current African liberation movements that are fighting Portuguese colonialism and white minority rule governments.

The vast military expenditures have failed to stop the growth of many African liberation movements. Africa's heroic veterans of the political and military liberation struggles are fighting with inconquerable spirit. The many heroes of Africa's freedom struggle are known and praised in many parts of the world, but they are little known in the United States because information about them has been suppressed.

Afro-Americans have begun a number of spontaneous as well as organized actions in support of African liberation struggles. Black dock-workers in Louisiana refused to unload Rhodesian chrome; boycotts have been launched against such supporters of colonialism and racism in Africa as the Gulf and Polaroid companies.

We appeal to Afro-Americans to join us in building a permanent, ongoing national movement around support for African liberation struggles; a conference to found this movement will be held in Chicago on the 19, 20 and 21st of October.

Gerald Sommerville
Preparatory Committee for the founding of a national Conference for Solidarity with African Movements

More Bitter Feelings

To The Editor:

There can never be any true equality when one deals with women's rights, jobs or whatever. Is the U.S. a true democracy or is Russia a country of true communism? All this shit about equality is all an unattainable state that no government, person or animal can ever achieve. Equality is an idealistic term which many people ascribe to, but when one gets down to the nitty gritty, it's all in your mind and everybody else's also.

We then have these terms such as competition, superiority, majority, sexism, and etc. used by people. Aren't those the words that we as people have no need for? All the bickering about man vs. woman and woman vs. man does nothing but intensify relations amongst the two groups. Add that with the terminology used by both sexes as weapons for attack, and what you get is more bitter feelings.

Until we all realize that we're brothers and sisters, we will all be drowning in our own shit.

Al DaSilva
Jim Dennis

RESEARCH
thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material
SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

Casting your ballot is like . . . finding the extra nickel that lets you buy a beer at the Bluewall.

Fix That Crapper

To The Editor:

We are writing this because we feel we have a legitimate gripe against the Physical Plant.

We have one shithouse on our floor with three hoppers. About two weeks ago, one of these crappers broke down. It is a mess. Physical Plant was notified. Their reply was that fixing our toilet would have to be put off because the work list had piled up so much. You could say that either they work on a first come-first serve basis or they have priorities.

Well, even if the work orders have piled up, doesn't fixing a broken down hopper come under emergency maintenance? You are not talking about a broken down fixture of something which COULD be put off a week. You are not talking about a mere inconvience, we've learned to live with that. What you are talking about is a HEALTH HAZARD. Leaving that mess in a broken down toilet spreads germs that can cause illnesses. Because of this reason, shouldn't a broken down toilet be on top of any priority list?

And yet, Steve Smith took a photo that appeared in the Collegian showing two Physical Plant workers resting their butts not working. And yet two weeks have gone by without our crapper being fixed.

So, please, for sanitary reasons, if not for any other, get off your asses and please fix that crapper!

Fourth Floor
Thatcher House

Doctor Acknowledges Own Homosexuality

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

BELLE MEAD, N.J. (AP) — A 49-year-old doctor and former New York City health official was praised by fellow physicians when he acknowledged publicly Wednesday that he has been a homosexual for 30 years.

Dr. Howard J. Brown received sustained applause when he finished his address to some 600 physicians, and several in the audience said such a public statement was long overdue.

Brown urged his fellow doctors at a symposium on human sexuality to help patients accept rather than conceal homosexuality. He said medicine should forget the idea that homosexuality can be treated by psychotherapy.

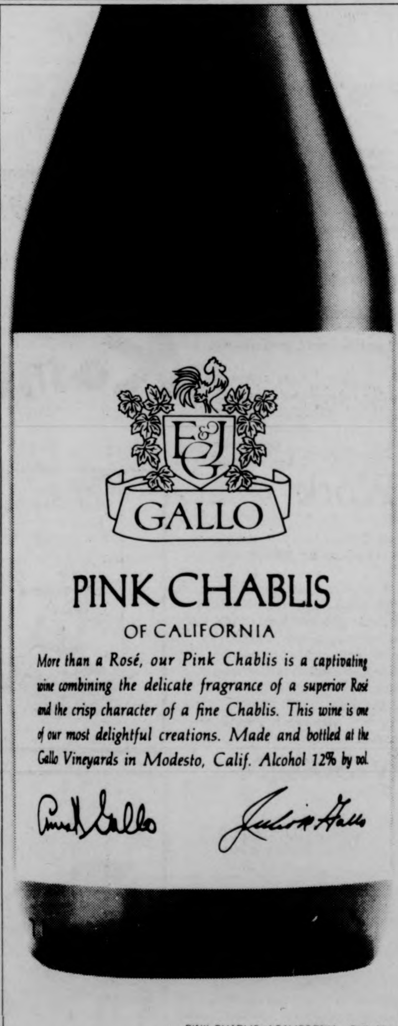
"Physicians can be most helpful by accepting the homosexual's lifestyle," Brown said. "it is important for the physicians to reject the idea that homosexuality is a treatable abnormality. There is very little indication that it can be treated. Homosexuals are not changed by psychotherapy."

Brown a bachelor, served for 18 months as health services administrator, in the administration of Mayor John Lindsay. Now an associate professor of clinical medicine at the New York University Medical School, Brown said he wished he had acknowledged his homosexuality years ago.

"I wish now I had back the years to live more openly and freely," he said. "To be a homosexual is not to be unhappy."

He urged the physicians to first "accept homosexuals as human beings and then I would suggest you send them to a gay activist group...to help free them from the fear and agony of secrecy."

UMass Police New Emergency Number 5-3111



GALLO
PINK CHABLIS
OF CALIFORNIA
More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating wine combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Rosé and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled at the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.
TIME Magazine reports:
"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."
Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81.
More than a Rosé.
PINK CHABLIS of CALIFORNIA — Gallo Vineyards, Modesto, California.

Beef Prices Are Dropping, But Lower Supplies Seen

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-The president of the American National Cattlemen's Association predicted yesterday that prices of some beef cuts would drop by as much as 30 per cent in the next few weeks.

Appropriately shod in pointed-toe, black leather cowboy boots with white stitching, John R. Trotman settled back at a news conference in a Manhattan hotel to present the rancher's side of the story and to try to convince consumers that beef is really a bargain food.

He said the price paid for live cattle had dropped from a high of 56 cents a pound in August to 40 cents per pound last week and said that retail prices should reflect the reduction shortly.

Trotman said he came to New York on behalf of all cattlemen who have been "experiencing the most bewildering series of ups and downs in their history."

He argued that fluctuating prices and government controls had hurt the cattlemen as well as the consumer. The average rancher, he said, owns less than he could have earned by putting the money in a savings account paying four per cent interest.

Right now, said Trotman, "the news we bring is good news. Beef prices already are down and we expect them to go even lower. Beef is a bargain again."

Trotman denied that he was worried about reports that consumers got used to doing without beef because of high prices and shortages during the freeze that ended early last month. He said people were eating more beef than ever before, although he admitted "a lot of urbanites changed their eating habits" during the freeze on beef prices.

Consumers were warned not to get too complacent about beef prices even if they do decline. Trotman said that because of the freeze, fewer cattle than normal were placed in feedlots in August and said this would mean lower supplies starting in December.

Lovelace Grabs "Wilde Oscar"

"Last Tango" Voted "Worst Movie"

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)-Bernardo Bertolucci's "Last Tango in Paris" was named the Worst Movie of the Year Wednesday by the Harvard University Lampoon, a humor magazine.

The Lampoon said only the flip of a coin gave that award to "Last Tango in Paris" instead of to "The Poseidon Adventure," which received "the very respectable consolation prizes of Worst Film of the Century for the century ending 1973 and Worst Performance by a Cast in Tote."

The Lampoon chose nine other films as the worst of the year, in order: "The Candidate," "The Getaway," "Sounder," "Deliverance," "Play it As It Lays," "The Emigrants," "What's Up, Doc?," "Man of la Mancha" and "The Man."

The magazine gave its "Kirk Douglas Award for the Worst Actor of the Year" to Robert Redford, "whose performance in 'The Candidate' as a slick, shallow, ambitious, empty-headed glamour boy was frighteningly convincing."

Ali MacGraw was given "The Natalie Wood Award for the Worst Actress of the Year for her performance in 'The Getaway.'"

The awards are normally issued each April but were delayed through the summer, the Lampoon said, "by a deadlock in the balloting. Editors were unable to choose between the twin horrors of 'Last Tango in Paris' and 'The Poseidon Adventure' even after a long, hot summer of deliberations. The controversy raged through 44 ballots and countless screenings of each film until the flip of a quarter spelled doom for 'Last Tango'.

Among the other awards was one called The Wilde Oscar, "Conferred upon that performer who was been willing to flout convention and risk worldly damnation in the pursuit of artistic fulfillment: to Linda Lovelace, for her disturbingly enthusiastic job of unnatural acting in 'Deep Throat.'"

The Lampoon said "Last Tango in Paris" was named worst movie of the year because of "Bertolucci's vulgar exploitation of the Brando image and the machismo myth; for the suggestion that we ought to be captivated by the brassy child-woman appeal of Maria Schneider; for usurping its position as the Topic of Conversation, imposing itself on our aesthetic consciousness and affecting a strangehold on our press...and because we distinctly saw Brando's dead wife breathe during the bereavement scene."

DINNER and a MOVIE
for two $7.50
at
THE CHEQUERS
Pork Cutlet & Spaghetti dinner for two with salad and garlic bread, then off to CAMPUS CINEMAS for your choice of a movie.
Tonight and Every Thursday Night!

Mass. Mayoral Race Results

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Massachusetts mayors won primary elections Tuesday and will be candidates for re-election in general balloting next month.

Republican Mayor Richard Wainwright of Brockton ran unopposed and drew 910 votes. He will be opposed next month by Democrat Davis E. Crosby, who outpolled Henry P. Landry, 7,293 to 891.

Salem Mayor Gene A. Levesque received 5,740 votes to win a three-way contest with Henry J. O'Donnell and Albert D. Kopiecki, who drew 5,461 and 166 votes respectively.

In somerville, Mayor Lester Ralph received 9,704 votes to swamp opponents Edward Sweeney and Charles Chisholm

Black Leads Atlanta Primary

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Maynard Jackson, trying to become Atlanta's first black mayor, says voters should consider candidates "by character, not by color" in the Oct. 16 runoff election between him and incumbent Sam Massell.

Jackson, 35, the city's vice mayor, led an 11-man field in Tuesday's election, but got only 46.6 per cent of the vote, necessitating the runoff. Massell polled only 19.8 per cent, edging former congressman Charles Weltner out of the runoff by less than 700 votes.

Jackson termed the outcome "a victory for all classes and races."

Notice

Today may be the first day of the rest of your life, but tomorrow is the last day to drop-add or choose pass-fail for the semester.

Tomorrow, Friday, October 5 is THE DEADLINE.

Casting your ballot is like . . . getting a good count.

GO WITH HONEYWELL PENTAX . . . the system you'll never outgrow!
Perfect pictures—perfect price!
HONEYWELL SP500

HONEYWELL
PENTAX
While they last at pre-devaluation prices.
$169.50

Super-Multi-Coated Takumar Lenses
• No other lens in the world—at any price— can outperform Super-Multi-Coated Takumars
• Exclusive multi-layer coating cuts surface reflection— transmits up to 50% more light!
• Harmful ultraviolet rays are reflected: ghost images are drastically reduced
• Super-multi-coating is a harder. tougher coating
135mm F3.5 Telephoto Lens
$99.50

Honeywell Strobonar 100
A whole new way to take flash pictures — a HONEYWELL STROBONAR 100 Electronic Flash unit. Think of it as a flash-bulb you can use over and over again. • Easy to operate. • Economical - about 1c per flash. • Powered by two replaceable AA batteries (not included). • Guide number 25 with ASA 25 film. • Locking Hot Shoe.
List $34.95 Now $19.95
TRIPOD CAMERA SHOP INC
Northampton Amherst
219 Main St.
Northampton
584-6040
98 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst
253-3039

Famous for having the CHEAPEST in NEW & USED clothes
OLD WEIRD HAROLD'S
NEW & USED CLOTHING
Rt. 9, Hadley
NEW Male Jeans only $5.00
Get ready for the cold with super-warm
Snorkel Parkas only $20.00
USED FUR COATS & JACKETS
all kinds $15.00 - $40.00
LEATHER & SUEDE JACKETS
as well as
CORDUROY & DENIM JACKETS and PANTS along with the usual — flannel shirts, pea coats, vests, reindeer sweaters, etc.

State Hires Taxmen

By STEVEN A. COHEN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The state Department of Corporations and Taxation hired 23 new tax examiners this week, the first group of new employes being recruited to fill more than 160 department positions recently approved by the legislature.

One of those hired was Allan N. Breen of Lawrence, son of Deputy Commissioner Daniel Breen, who serves on the four-member screening committee reviewing applicants for the jobs.

A department spokesman said the father disqualified himself from the review of his son's application.

The personnel are being hired to fill slots in the new department bureaus of auditing and compliance.

But according to one high level department source, the new bureaus are "starting off backwards. They have no plan; they're just hiring people."

The new jobs, created by the appropriations bill approved by the legislature before the start of the current fiscal year, actually are positions governed by civil service.

In the absence of a civil service list, however, the appointments being made now are provisional. This means that these people "by virtue of experience are going to be better qualified" when it comes time to take the Civil Service examination from which the lists are established, according to a personnel spokesman.

The Civil Service regulations then essentially will lock them into their jobs, assuming that the examinations are held eventually and they are picked for the permanent positions.

Tax Commissioner Nicholas Metaxas said in a telephone interview that the department is getting a total of 166 new positions.

He said the department already has a "couple hundred" people working in auditing and compliance programs but the expansion provided the impetus for creating the two new bureaus.

Despite the "couple hundred" people who have been working on auditing and compliance already, the state has a dismal record in prosecuting tax offenders.

R.I. Newspaper Reports Nixon Shirking Tax Duty

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) - A Rhode Island newspaper reported Wednesday that President Nixon paid a total of $1,670 in federal income taxes in 1971 and 1972 and received refunds totaling $131,503 for the two-year period.

The Providence Journal-Bulletin said its report was based on documents provided by government sources. However, it said it could not obtain the President's complete tax returns, "so it is uncertain exactly how such large refunds were possible."

"Taxes paid by the Nixons in 1970-71 are roughly equivalent to taxes paid by someone who earns about $7,000 a year, claims one exemption and does not itemize deductions, according to tax manuals," the report said. The White House has refused to say whether Nixon paid federal income taxes for 1970 and 1971. Nixon issued personal finance statements in 1968, 1969 and 1972, and said at a news conference last month the Internal Revenue Service audited his tax returns for 1970 and 1971 and ordered no change.

"The President filed income tax returns for these years and followed normal procedures. As the President has said, his tax returns for 1971 and 1972 received a complete audit and the Internal Revenue Service ordered no change."

White House spokesmen have said in the past that the audit encompassed a review of earlier Nixon tax returns, including that for 1970.

New Bill Before Congress:

Getting The Tracks Together

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, introduced legislation Wednesday to consolidate all of the nation's railroads into a single private corporation.

Acknowledging that his proposal probably would "not have great impact this session of Congress," Saxbe outlined a plan he described as a "workable alternative to the inevitable nationalization of our railroads."

The bill would establish an American Railroad Consolidation Commission which would draw up a formula for merging all the privately owned railroads in the United States, except Alaska and Hawaii, into one money-making corporation.

Calling the other rail bills now before the Senate "bandaid" solutions, Saxbe said his plan would not cost the federal government any money. Citing figures that railroads nationwide earned a net income of $5 million last year, Saxbe said the new corporation would attract private investors who currently are unwilling to risk money on many of the country's falling rail lines.

Maine Central Railroad president C. Spenser Miller, who sat with Saxbe, said the elimination of competing lines under the consolidation plan would result in savings of between $500 million and $1 billion dollars.

ROTC UMies Win Scholarships

Two UMass juniors have won two-year Air Force ROTC scholarships that will pay full tuition, books and fees, according to Col. Paul H. Fisher, professor of air science.

Scholarship recipients are AFROTC cadets Christopher P. Murphy of Abington, a psychology major; and Stuart J. Zerneri, a political science major from Hatfield. Both have excelled academically and were rated as outstanding during a six-week field training session this summer. Following commissioning in June of 1975, both men will go on to Air Force pilot training.

Are you tired of campus food? How about a good home cooked meal?

ST. REGIS
RESTAURANT

Open
Mon.-Sat.
6 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sun.
8 a.m. - 9 p.m.

— can offer you:
— SEAFOOD - STEAK - CHOPS - CHICKEN
— SPAGHETTI - SANDWICHES - much, much, more
— DAILY SPECIALS
— LIQUOR served with meals
— All at GREAT Prices

28 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
(Intersection of Rt. 9 and Rt. 5, Downtown Northampton)

If the idea of spending four years in a cold and impersonal dorm doesn't appeal, maybe YOU should consider...

ZETA NU

336 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
Near Intersection of Fearing Street
545-2162

For less money than you're paying now, YOU could be eating and living better! We have the best cook on campus as well as the atmosphere of "being at home." Of course, we also feature a full social life typical of Greek living. (Traditions such as spanking and hazing have no place at Zetu Nu.)

Many have said that Zeta Nu has a lot to offer. But, come down and see for yourself...

OPEN RUSH
THURSDAY, OCT. 4
7:30 p.m.
Refreshments!

THE HUNGRY-U
submarine sandwiches & PIZZA

BESIDES SELLING DELICIOUS POTATO SALAD, COLD SODA, MILK, THICK SHAKES, SMALL BAGS OF POTATO CHIPS AND THINGS, PLUS GREAT KINDS OF SANDWICHES LIKE ROAST BEEF, ITALIAN COLD CUTS, HAM & CHEESE, TURKEY HOT PASTROMI, ITALIAN SWEET SAUSAGE, MEATBALL, PEPPER STEAK & TUNA FISH, WE NOW SELL FANTASTIC DILL PICKLES. STOP BY AND SEE US FOR A NICE LITTLE PICNIC ORDER TO GO, OR EVEN TO ENJOY IN OUR NEW DINING ROOM.

OH, AND WE HAVE PIZZA TOO, LIKE MUSHROOM, PEPPERONI AND SO ON...

103 N. PLEASANT
AMHERST
MASSACHUSETTS
256-6350

Mass. Tax Rate "Highest"

BOSTON (AP-The 1972 property tax rate in Massachusetts was "probably the highest in the nation," according to the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation.

A study released by the group Wednesday said the average property tax rate in the state was about $58 per $1,000 valuation.

"This situation is not new," an accompanying statement said. "The latest figures simply show that our dependence on property taxes relative to other taxes is deepening."

The report said property and personal income taxes account for 76 per cent of all state and local revenue, compared to 52 per cent nationally.

This year, the report said, Massachusetts will raise more than $4 billion in state and local taxes.

Other statistics provided by the foundation:

-Massachusetts ranks third among the 14 largest states and eighth nationally in generally spending at $650 per capita.

-Massachusetts taxes rank sixth nationally in proportion to population at $549 per capita.

-Between 1962 and 1971, Massachusetts dropped from third to fifth in per capita taxation.

Mass. College System Under Revaluation

BOSTON (AP) — The master plan for reorganizing and reevaluating the state college system, more than 18 months in the making, is to be unveiled publicly Nov. 3, according to Philip Lowe, chairman of the planning committee.

The major theme of the state colleges in the years ahead will be recruitment of minority students, Lowe said.

Noting that only 3.7 per cent of the total enrollment in the state college system is comprised of minorities, the committee has called for an "outreach program" to begin March 1, 1974.

Each college president is to submit to the planning committee on that date a format for recruiting, counseling and tutoring students who do not meet the college's current standards for admission, Lowe said.

The planning committee also proposes a program designed to "facilitate student mobility and transfer." The program requires each state college to increase the number of transfer seats at the junior year level to accept students with associate degrees from two-year state and private colleges.

Lesbian Denied Child Custody

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) A mother of four children has asked the California Supreme Court to rule that she cannot be deprived of her children because she is a lesbian.

Carol Parrott of El Verano, Calif., is appealing a court decision upholding a juvenile judge's order removing two children from her custody. The judge has denied the charges filed in Mrs. Parrott's petition Tuesday.

Mrs. Parrott has four daughters ranging in age from seven to eleven. Mrs. Parrott and her husband are separated.

In 1971, Mrs. Parrott was convicted of possessing marijuana and narcotics paraphernalia and her children were given to the custody of an aunt and uncle who, in 1972, asked to be relieved of the duty.

Two girls were placed in a foster home and the others, Tammy and Toni, were returned to Mrs. Parrott's custody.

According to the court petition, Juvenile Judge Lincoln Mahan later placed Tammy and Toni in a foster home after social welfare officials found Mrs. Parrott living with another woman.

The petition contends the relationship, without any evidence that the children were harmed, was "a totally inadequate basis" for taking the children from their mother.

There was no evidence of parental inadequacy or dereliction, the petition said, adding that Mrs. Parrott's right to privacy had been violated.

Learning of the petition, Judge Mahan said, "I did not remove the children from the foster home because the mother's conduct was having an adverse effect on the two youngsters."

In a separate legal action, Mrs. Parrott also is attempting to regain custody of her other two children now living in a foster home in another state.

NEED A TYPIST?

Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service.

Call 584-0743

AMERICA'S LARGEST COAST TO COAST RECORD STORES

OPENING VERY SOON IN AMHERST

We're a few steps from the Triangle Office

discount records

257 Triangle Amherst 237-5876

CLOSED SATURDAY
OPEN SUNDAYS.
9:30 AM TO 9 PM DAILY ★ SUNDAY 9:30 AM TO 6 PM

PARSONS TABLES
16" X 16" X 15"
Elsewhere $5.95 to $12.95
OUR PRICE $2.99

CONTACT PAPER 15¢ yard

PLASTIC DECORATOR SHELF CUBE
USED VERTICALLY FOR RECORD STORAGE.
USED HORIZONTALLY FOR MAGAZINES + NEWSPAPERS.
REG $19.95
GOLD • RED WHITE • BLACK
OUR PRICE $6.00
SLIDING DRAWERS
THEIR $3.95
OURS $2.50

27" X 54" THROW RUGS $3.99

HARTZ MOUNTAIN PET SUPPLIES 50% OFF

YOUR BASIC 14" x 14" x 15"
OPEN CUBE
• GOLD • WHITE •
• BLACK • RED •
Elsewhere $12.95 to $14.95
OUR PRICE: $3.99

ETAGERES

MOULDED PLASTIC SHELF UNITS
EACH SHELF
their $9.95; OUR $3.99
• GOLD • WHITE
• BLACK • RED

dupont SAYELLE KNITTING YARN $2.00 POUND STRAIGHT SKEINS

HOLYOKE SALVAGE dba
BUILDING 451
449 HIGH ST DOWNTOWN HOLYOKE 536 5480

DON'T BE DRAGIN' ASS

VOTE

Student Senate Elections Oct. 2, 3, 4

PHYLLIS BROWN

Resident Students in Dorms
5 p.m. - 9 p.m.

Commuters
Dukes Rm. S.U.
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

New Africa House
9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

Greeks in Sorority & Fraternity Houses

Amherst College Masquers Prepare Kopits' "Indians"

The Amherst College Masquers have begun rehearsals for Arthur Kopit's "Indians", the Masquers' Fall production. A stirring drama based upon Buffalo Bill Cody and the exploitation of the American Indian, "Indians" will be performed in Amherst College's Kirby Theater at 8 p.m. on the evenings of Friday, Nov. 2 through Sunday, Nov. 4 and Thursday, Nov. 8 through Sunday, Nov. 11.

The production will be directed by Allan Albert, a 1967 graduate of Amherst who is currently at the College as a visiting professor of dramatic arts. A director of national repute, Albert is best-known for his work as the artistic director of "The Proposition", an improvisational production which has run in Boston since 1969 and in New York since 1971.

Allan Albert brings to "Indians" and to the Amherst College Department of Dramatic Arts a wealth of experience and a strong vitality. Tickets for "Indians" go on sale Wednesday, Oct. 24, and all seats are reserved at $2 each. For reservations, call 542-2277, or visit the Kirby Theater box office between 10 a.m. or 5 p.m. Tickets should be picked up no later than 7:30 the evening of the performance.

Engineering, Asian Jobs And Trophic Lakes

The UMass department of mechanical and aerospace engineering is hosting two visiting faculty from Eastern Europe during this academic year.

Mr. Leonid Calmaciuc was born in Telita, Romania, and is principal research engineer at the Center of Solid Mechanics in Bucharest. He received his diploma in engineering in mechanisms and machine design at the Institute of Mechanical Engineering, Bucharest, in 1956. He also has studied in China, Russian, and Poland.

Mr. Piotr Rusek was born in Bielsko, Poland, and is an assistant professor at the Institute of Basic Problems of Machine Design in Cracow, Poland. He received his master's degree in mechanical engineering at Cracow Institute of Technology in 1961 and his Doctor of Technical Science at the Academy of Mining and Metallurgy in Cracow in 1970. He has worked in the general areas of manufacturing.

***

UMass has been selected as one of the 60 colleges and universities across the nation to nominate participants in a major new Asian program, the Luce Scholars Program.

***

Rinzy Williams, a student at Amherst Regional High School, did research last summer in the chemistry laboratory at UMass, working under the direction of Dr. O. T. Zajicek on a research project entitled "An Investigation into the Trophic States of Lakes."

He was one of approximately 100 U.S. high school students chosen to participate in Catalyst, a unique program sponsored at 79 colleges and universities in 39 states by the American Chemical Society.

Jazz Bassist Mingus To Perform

Charles Mingus, considered by many to be the world's greatest jazz bassist, will perform in concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday Oct. 14 in the Amherst College Cage.

A jazz musician of notable stature since the early Forties, Mingus was chosen "Jazz Man of the Year" by Downbeat Magazine in 1964. As a composer, arranger and producer, he has gained the reputation of a master craftsman. Over the years he has performed with the giants of jazz, including Duke Ellington, Lionel Hampton, Charlie Parker, Stan Getz and Art Tatum.

Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the door and in advance at the following locations: in Amherst at Faces of Earth, the University of Massachusetts Bookstore, and Hampshire College's Uroboros Bookstore; in Northampton at Del Padre Music.

Education And China

The National Alternative Schools Program, School of Education, invites the community to a presentation by Dr. Robert Chin, who will be speaking on "Alternative Schools And China." Dr. Chin is an authority on the subjects of education, social change theory, and the People's Republic of China. It is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m., today in Hasbrouck, Room 134.

HAWAII - $299
1 week, incl. everything but food.
Leslie Halfond
546-6861 sunSensor™ lenses by Corning

Also available in photo sun, the dark SunSensor™ lense.
Bausch & Lomb Ray-Ban Aviator Sunglasses always in stock
With or without Prescription don call
Amherst's First Optician
56 MAIN ST. 253-7002

MDC Classifieds

What's in Bolles "BOOT CELLAR"?

BOOTS FOR EITHER SEX — dunham
Clarks OF ENGLAND
— Olof Daughters
FRYE
Revelations and more!
BOLLES SHOES
8 MAIN ST. AMHERST
Daily 9:00-5:30; Fri. till 9:00
"Home of the Boot Cellar"

LOONEY TUNES
Quality Audio Components
Take a right on East St. off Rt. 9 just past Weird Harold's
LOONEY TUNES is pleased to announce that we are now authorized dealers for SENNHEISER HEADPHONES, ADC CARTRIDGES and SPEAKERS and H.H. SCOTT'S COMPONENTS.
In honor of this we offer these fantastic discounts:
★ Sennheiser HD - 414 Headphones
List $42.95
Looney Priced at $24 95 each ★ ADC - 303 AX Speakers
10" woofer, 1½" wide dispersion tweeters
List $100 -
Looney Priced $65 each ★ ADC - XT 6 Speakers
List $58 each
Looney Priced $41 75 each
Open 10-7, Mon.-Sat.

Attorney For Students:

Security Deposits-Getting Them Back

By RICHARD C. HOWLAND

On October 1 last year's Amherst Area apartment dwellers stood ready to receive an estimated $600,000 in security deposit refunds from the area's landlords. The money is held as security against damage and for the "full and faithful performance" of the lease or oral tenancy contract. Roughly $30,000 in interest was earned for the tenants over the year.

Most tenants received the fair return of their money plus the five percent lawful interest less damages over which they did not disagree within the thirty days provided by law (Chapter 186 Section 15B).

This statute, (which was drafted in its present form by this office and was legislated through the efforts of Senator John Olver of Amherst (and the University) provides a fair and prompt procedure for protection of tenants' deposits.

After a tenancy is lawfully ended the landlord has thirty days to inspect, discover and repair any damage to his property. The tenant then has the statutory right to receive the total of the original security deposit plus interest at five percent less any damage for which an itemized bill has been submitted. The deduction for damage should not be for "reasonable wear and tear" and ordinarily does not apply to cleaning unless the apartment is left in disastrous condition.

If the tenant does not receive the refund expected within the specified thirty days or if the tenant disputes either responsibility for the damage, the amount assessed or that the deductions are proper, then there are several options available.

The simplest course of action is to contact the landlord directly and try to work the matter out, particularly if the amount in dispute is not great.

Of course, there are many instances in which the tenant reluctantly agrees that the deductions are fair or the disagreement is too small to be worth further action.

Finally, there is the Small Claims Court. This is a court that has jurisdiction of claims up to $400 and which can award damages of up to $800 under certain statutes. The procedures in the court are simple. Each side presents its reasons why it disputes of defends the claim. A brief decision is usually mailed the following day to each part and ordinarily there is no appeal. The cost to the plaintiff is $3.45 and the services of a lawyer are ordinarily not required.

To make a claim a plaintiff needs only to go to the District Court where the landlord lives or operates his business. There a complaint form is filled out with the assistance of a clerk and the $3.54 paid (which is recovered if the plaintiff wins). For a security deposit claim the plaintiff might say "wrongful withholding of security deposit claim $200 plus interest of $10.00 and pursuant to Chapter 186 Section 15B demand or claim for $420 is hereby made." Ask the clerk if there are any questions about what to claim or how to fill out the form.

The Court then sends written notice to both parties of the claim and the date and time for hearing (usually three to six weeks). On the appointed day, if the defendant denies the claim, both parties have their turn at telling the judge their view of the dispute. The decision is mailed, usually within a day to both parties. The law does not permit an appeal from a Small Claims judgement except in very rare and unusual cases.

Before tenants who have not received security deposit refunds begin to invest $3.54 in an action against the landlord some attempt at communication is suggested. Rarely has a Court awarded the double penalty where payment has been received although late.

Tenants who are entering the second year of a leasehold or tenacy are reminded that the landlord is required to pay interest at 5 per cent for each security deposit held for one year and for each year.

Casiac

Friday the 13th comes on a Saturday in October but Friday, is the last day for drop-add and pass-fail.

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Mess" (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Hello, Zolle" (22)
MISTER ROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLES "The Marriage Machine" (30)
GOMER PYLE "Grandpa Pyle, Fortune Teller" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "How to Build A Boat" (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy and the Plumber" (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "The Crow Ganef" (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Oil For The Lamps of Hogan" (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "Oedipus at Colonus" (18)
MAKING THINGS GROW (24)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "Tune In Next Year" (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night Of the Plague" (40)
ZOOM! (57)
6:15 NATIONAL GOVERNMENT (24)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
ANIMAL WORLD (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 THE STARLOST (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "The Making Of a Councilman" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Mohawk." (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 THRILLSEEKERS (8)
MOVIE "A Bullet Is Waiting" (18)
HOLLYWOOD AND THE STARS "The Funny Men" Part I. (22)
MAYORAL CANDIDATE FREE TIME (24)
WAIT TILL YOUR FATHER GETS HOME "Lady Detective" (30)
DRAGNET "The Grenade" (40)
THE OPEN DOOR (57)
8:00 THE WALTONS "The Theft" (3)
MOVIE "The Wild Bunch" (3)
KUNG FU "The Assassin" (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
IRONSIDE "Fragile Is the House of Cards" (22) (30)
MAYORAL DEBATE (24)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "The Purple Room" (27; DEBUT: PHANTOM INDIA (57)
10:00 STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO "Before I Die." (8) (40)
NBC FOLLIES (22) (30)
WATERGATE SUMMARY (24)
NEWS (27)
MARTIN AGRONSKY: EVENING EDITION (57)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
CHANGING MUSIC (57)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (8) (18) (22) (30) (40
11:30 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)
12:00 MOVIE "A Matter Of Innocence" (3)
1:00 NEWS (8) (22) (30) (40)
1:55 NEWS, WEATHER (3)

The Twilight Zone

narrated by

Rod Serling

4 half-hour segments from the first season (1959) of the original T.V. series.

Fri., Oct. 5 7 - 9 - 11 Mahar

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON
Only Area Showing
7:00 - 9:15
"LIZA MINNELLI — THE NEW MISS SHOW BIZ!" —Time Magazine
CABARET
PG
Technicolor® Distributed by Allied Artists
Liza Minnelli Michael York
Mon.-Tues. — ADULTS $1

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

Warm your cockles with Dean Swift Fancy Sniffing Snuff. Send name, etc. for free samples. Dean Swift Ltd., Box 2009, San Fran., Calif.
tf10-5

Gay commune has farm, now peopling, living and loving together. P.O. Box 723, Amherst, Ma.
tf10/9

Calculators — new, fully guaranteed, Texas Inst., $90. Also Bowmar, Commodore, etc. Call Jack, 6-6930.
tf10-5

Open House, Theta Chi (Next to Newman Center), Thursday, October 4th.
tf10-4

Anyone owning a Dan Armstrong Guitar please call John. I need a model to repair the wiring on mine. 549-1347.
tf10-4

Womans touch needed. Own bedrm & small rent 4 occasional hs help & sitting. Shud hv gd head & own car. Write 20D CPI. #406, No. Amherst.
tf10-5

Want to rap? Call the Gay Line 545-0154, Monday thru Wednesday 7-10 p.m.
tf10-4

Stoney: We know it was you! We want an encore!! Washington.
tf10-5

To the men of the 6th Floor Kennedy, it is time for a piece of "Punaaaa"!! (Grand Teton) D.J., Chuckie, Bob, Fran, Mike, Steve, Dave??
tf10-4

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

Student Activities Policy Council needs involved people. Submit resume at the Student Senate Office, 420 SU by 10/10. Any questions, call David Booker, 5-0341.
tf10-10

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.
tf10-17

PERSONAL

Happy birthday Roger B. from the Brownies in 302, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308!! J.F.
10-4

Newts of Sylvan Unite. Vote Mike Narkewicz for area vice-president. The Newt that knows.
10-4

A.A. — say hi to Fury and take good care of him while I'm away.
10-4

Experienced nude model — will pose for class or individual artist for $3 per hour, regular customer(s) less. Call Theresa, 6-8373.
tf10-5

If you want a nude model try Teresa, but if you just want a nude try me. I'm free! Gypsy Rose Jennifer. Call 6-8310, day or nite.
10-4

Sexual consciousness raising will be discussed Thursday eve. 7:30, 9:30 by Dr. Read. Rms. 904-908 Campus Center. Everyone welcome. SHL.
10-4

Casting your ballot is like ... finding out there is no final.
10-4

C.C. Devi — our physics darling and perpetual cutie — Michael Golas, keep smiling 'cus she's cool. Stage Bug.
tf10-5

Garage wanted — Lockable - within 10 miles of campus. Call Jack 549-6468, leave message.
tf10-10

Drummer lkg for Gig 13 exp. serious musicians only. Call 549-6431 Blve lve msge. I'm new in town call if I know of the above.
tf10-5

I'm looking for a stepvan metro or pick up truck, auto. transmission. Call Paul 253-3511 or 665-3405.
tf10-5

Wanted — couch or sofa or reasonable facsimile, will negotiate price. Call 665-2901 mornings, 9-11.
tf10-5

WANTED

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth.
tf10-12

Bus driver trainees, must be student, have class 2 permit. Call 5-0056, 5-2086 or apply at Bus Garage, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
tf10-9

SERVICES

Portraits, situations, objects — forgeries. Call Doorknob Enterprises, 546-5785 for appt.
tf10-5

Companion needed for elderly handicapped woman. Friday nights, 10 p.m. to 6 a.m., and Sat. nites, 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. Call 256-8819.
tf10-4

Music lessons in flute, oboe, violin, recorder, piccolo, Fr. horn & bassoon. B.S. in music education. Studies at N.E. Conserv. Call 549-1402.
tf10-4

Astrologer does birthcharts (horoscopes) with complete accuracy. Interpretation and counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386.
tf10-5

Typing — Reliable, reasonable, manuscripts, term papers, theses, disserta, IBM Selectric typewriter. Mary Lou 253-7352.
tf10-10

Fantastic value — 31-pc. Dynaware Cook-N-Serve ensemble made by Anchor-Hocking. Few remaining from Atlantic Coast Fair. Sold for $79.50 must sell. Cost's nothing to look. Now only $15.00 will come to home, dorm, or apt. Guaranteed. Call 546-1293 evenings, keep trying.
tf10-4

Bike problems? Will do most bicycle repairs on campus, inexpensive. Call Tom after 5, 584-4985.
tf10-9

ROOMMATE WANTED

Mature roommate wanted — share house, 12 mi. from campus. 75/mo. & util. Call Linda, 283-3408.
tf10-5

Bdrm available for 1 or 2 clean, consid., friendly people (pref. fem) near S'lnd bus, trees and fields ($95 for 1). 665-3648 5-7 only!
tf10-4-5

Roommate wanted to share apt. in Sunderland. Own room, $75 per mo., incl. utilities, on bus line. Call Nancy, SaM, or Kim, 665-4176.
tf10-11

HELP WANTED

Part & full day office work available immediately, experience necessary. Sandy's Secretarial Service, 584-1000.
tf10-10

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-4:00 a.m.
Call 967-6888
ask for Charlotte.

Piano accompianist needed for ballet classes in Gfld., approx times 4-7:30, MWF. Call collect after 8 p.m. 773-5179, Mrs. Louis Gexler.
tf10-10

Cashiers, concession, doorman, asst man. Part-time: Eves or wknds, 3 days/wk. Call 533-3300 or apply in person. Victory Theatre, Hol.
tf10-10

All dorm residents and commuters who are members of a sorority or fraternity, vote in your respective houses for the Student Senate elections.
tf10-4

..Casting your ballot is like... getting your car towed back because the police made a mistake.
10-4

FOR RENT

Half a gd hs ina woods, 2 share 4 some 1 needing lots of space & quiet. $175 inclusive. Call 549-1204 weekdays 4:45 to 5:15.
tf10-5

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.
tf10/18

Large fur. room with ½ bath in private home, $60 per mo. Want one able to babysit for 1 child, 1 hr. 3 nights a week. 256-8948 after 3 p.m.
tf10-11

ENTERTAINMENT

Steve the DJ says, try me, you'll like me. Powerful PA and 1000's of records. Ring me at 467-2842 for more information.
tf10-85

The Twilight Zone" narrated by Rod Serling. 4 half hr. shows from the original 1959 T.V. series, Fri., Oct. 5 at 7-9-11 in Mahar.
tf10-5

Need a band? Call Stan's Bands, represents all area bands. Call 256-0316.
tf10-5

Rock music is ALHAMBRA for your dorm party or other booking. Call Jeff (in 102, 5-2642 or Warren, 863-9216. Reasonable rates.
tf10-5

Casting your ballot is like a Moody Blues concert.
10-4

ROOMS WANTED

Commuter couple needs room to sleep Wed. & Thurs. Contact David Letters at Collegian Office.
tf10-5

4 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton, 584-3428.
tf10-12

ROOMS FOR RENT

Furn. lg. rm $90. Huge rm. $120 incl util, kitchen, yard new! Bus rts nearby, good local girls, pref 66 Market, NHampt. 584-0927.
tf10-4

Of Interest...

Fighting Red Tape

Do you hate taking the language requirement? Have you ever gotten a parking ticket you thought was unjustified? You can do something about injustices like these by applying to sit as a student representative on one of the University committees that deals with such things. (Pick up an application in 420 Student Union and return it by next Wednesday.) There are several important committees that need people: SEARCH COMMITTEE FOR THE DIRECTOR OF THE NEW FINE ARTS CENTER PARKING APPEALS BOARD -reviews appeals on all parking tickets FOREIGN LANGUAGE (REQUIREMENT) REVIEW BOARD-Reviews all cases of persons asking to be exempted from the requirement MARRIED STUDENT HOUSING - reviews U policies in this area HEALTH COUNCIL+reviews University Health policies STATUS OF WOMEN SPACE AND CALENDAR-reviews University Calendar and Space allocation LIBRARY COMMITTEE-reviews library policies For more information call Jeff Howard at 5-0341.

M.A.R.Y.

M.A.R.Y. program is having a general meeting for all people who are interested in being back-ups today at the campus center room 805 at 7 p.m.

State Rep. Collins

State Representative James Collins will hold his regular office hours this Friday for residents of Amherst, Hadley, and Pelham, Collins will meet with constituents at the Campus Center on the University of Massachusetts campus from 9 to 11 a.m., Amherst Town Hall from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and Hadley Town Hall from 3 to 5 p.m.

The 2nd Hampshire District legislator may also be contacted weekdays at the State House in Boston, 727-8946, or weekends at 67 Butterfield Terrace, Amherst, 549-6886.

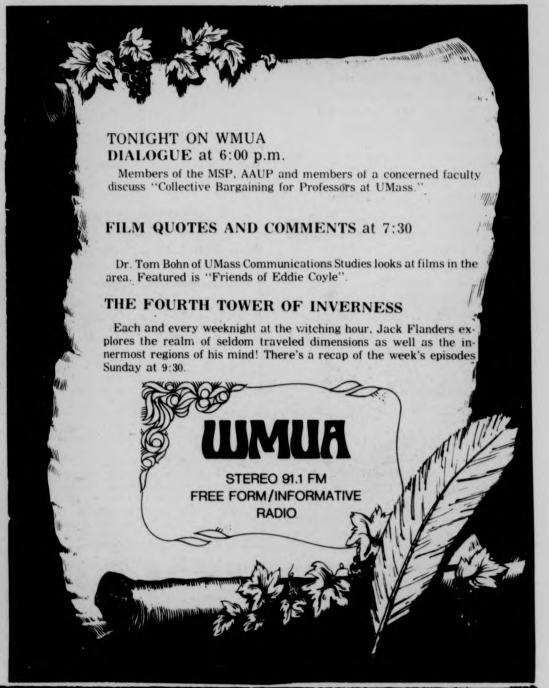
Collective Bargaining Debate On WMUA

The UMass Public Debate Program and WMUA present "Dialogue: Collective Bargaining." Should the UMass faculty adopt collective bargaining in their negotiations with the UMass administration? Proponents Stanley Young (Department of Management) and David Biddle (Department of History) will face opponents Seymour Shapiro (Botany Department) and Terrence Burke (Geography Department) on WMUA (91.1 FM) at 6:00 p.m. today.

The issue of collective bargaining will be decided by faculty ballot on November 15 and 16. The UMass chapter of the Massachusetts Society of Professors and the American Association of University Professors have campaigned vigorously for adoption of a collective bargaining stance for the past year. The Committee of Concerned Faculty has opposed such a move.

Questioned by Ms. Terry Hofmann of the Public Debate Program, the representatives of the MSP-AAUP and the CCF will be challenged to support their positions relative to collective bargaining and to assess the impact such a move could have on the university community.

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550



TONIGHT ON WMUA
DIALOGUE at 6:00 p.m.
Members of the MSP, AAUP and members of a concerned faculty discuss "Collective Bargaining for Professors at UMass."

FILM QUOTES AND COMMENTS at 7:30
Dr. Tom Bohn of UMass Communications Studies looks at films in the area. Featured is "Friends of Eddie Coyle".

THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS
Each and every weeknight at the witching hour, Jack Flanders explores the realm of seldom traveled dimensions as well as the innermost regions of his mind! There's a recap of the week's episodes Sunday at 9:30.

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE RADIO

ADULTS ONLY!
Skin Flick
Friday Only!
Campus Swingers
Meet the sensual girls... with tight pants and loose ideas!
Watch them earn their credits!
X RATED Shown at 11:30
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST., AMHERST
253-5426

Ample Free Parking
NOW!
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
THRU TUES.
A 1943 ACADEMY AWARD WINNING CLASSIC
"CASABLANCA"
Starring
Humphrey Bogart
Ingrid Bergman
Claude Rains
Sydney Greenstreet
Peter Lorre
— Plus a Short Feature —
"Amblin" A new look at the Now Generation.
Complete Shows Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

Now Playing
CALVIN Theatre
KING ST., NORTHAMPTON
Thru Tues.
584-2310
THE LAST OF SHEILA
Richard Benjamin, Dyan Cannon
James Coburn, Joan Hackett
PG
Raquel Welch
James Mason
Ian McShane
Shown Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

1971 Capri 1600, grey, 47,000 miles, ex. cond., will discuss price. Call 584-7741 or see at Bak Citgo in Northampton.
tf10-5

1971 Honda 350 exc cond., 4700 mi $500 w 2 helmets; 4 ft blacklite with many posters and fluorescent nets $25. Call Dave 256-0302.
tf10-5

1 pr. leather Wellington boots. Worn about 5 times, size 8 1/2D. Cost $30, will sell for $20 or best offer. 665-4259 after 5 p.m.
tf10-4

Skis for sale: 1 pair of Graves fiber glass — Brand new condition 195 cm $80. Call 546-7018. Ask for Bob.
tf10-4

1973 Suzuki GT250, 1700 mi, excellent cond. $650, 533-5052.
tf10-5

Winter coat Sz. 15-16 rust, boot length w/belt, hood. Fur trimmed on hood cuffs bought last season, very reasonable. Call Kathy 5-0344.
tf10-5

1965 International Travelall, new brakes, clutch, good rubber, 4 on floor. Must be seen. Call David 549-1528, leave message, price is $550!
tf10-10

Guitar Yamaha, Classical, excel. cond. $50 with case. Al 6-4756.
tf10-4

TV — RCA, B&W 18" screen w/UHF. Good condition. $50. Call Michele at 546-7319. Keep trying!
tf10-4

180 w. stereo complex v good cond. Inc. BSR turntbl. 8-track slide, push cntrs, big 2' spks. 10" woof 5" horn. pd. $350. $270 or best, 1 yr old 6-6023.
tf10-5

FOR SALE

Two KLH Model six speakers, good condition. $120, please call Tom 549-3726.
tf10-4

Typewriter Olympia manual 13" carr. half-space, case, $50. 584-6106 evenings.
tf10-5

71 Yamaha 200cc — Exc. cond. $375. Call 549-3534. Between 5-6 p.m.
tf10-4

For sale Martin 12 string guitar. Retails for $500. Best offer over $390.00 takes it. Call 498-2871.
tf10-5

VW — Parts, battery under guaranty. Good tires, starter etc. Call 256-6182. 6-7 p.m.
tf10-5

Couch — $25, good condition; Women's 3 speed 26" Columbia Bicycle 2 yrs. old $25; blow hair dryer $5. Call 549-6647 after 6 p.m.
tf10-10

Nikor — 50mm Fl. 4 lens new, $75. Sony TC-55 cassette player and recorder inc. AC-DC adapter & batt-charger. New $115. Call 1-567-3511.
tf10-5

Kelty backpack and frame, med. $35. Eureka pup tent with rain fly $40. Alto Recorder $10. Call 268-7453 (Williamsburg).
tf10-5

Snow tires — two studded — E78x14, excellent condition 253-9862.
tf10-5

1970 Ford Cortina, low mileage, air gauges, Am-FM, radials, tach, 108 h.p., $1150, way under book value, wood instr. panel, clock. 407 Puffton, 549-0525.
tf10-11

Raleigh 3 speed girls, green, $65. Call 253-7452 after 7 p.m.
tf10-9

Calculators — brands - Tex. Inst., Bowmar, Commodore and more. Call John Crowley, 256-0680.
10-4

Leslie organ speaker and-or Farfisa duo compact organ for sale. Both in fine shape. Call Jane for details, 253-7668.
tf10-5

FOR SALE

Two week old tires, 650-13, one pair snows, one regular, reasonable offer accepted. Call 253-7854 anytime.
tf10-5

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart. Montague Center.
tf10-15

RIDE WANTED

To Balt.-Wash., D.C. area. Will pay some expenses. Call Dave, 6-9417.
tf10-4

Ride to Boston and back to Amherst is wanted Tuesdays and Thursdays for entire school year, will share expense. Call 549-4572.
tf10-4

Ride south wanted — am going to D.C., Maryland area, but any ride in that direction will help. To lv. Oct. 4 or 5. Bruce, 6-8615.
tf10-5

RIDERS WANTED

Need riders (or ride) Boston to Amherst and return every Mon. and Wedn. leave early morning ret. late aft. Larry 524-0162 (Bos #)
tf10-4

FREE APARTMENT

Free furnished room in beautiful location in return for sharing light housekeeping & child sitting. Call Cathy Adams at 549-6421 or 545-0519.
tf10-9

LOST

Lost my fly fishing reel Sun. night, not worth much; only to me. Please return to Mark or Tom in 403 Hamlin or Lost & Found. Sm. reward.
tf10-5

FREE

Free — two dogs, sisters, half Shepherd, half Collie, 8 mos. old. Outdoor dogs, good watch dogs, shots, spayed. Call 536-5253.
tf10-5

INSTRUCTION

Energy crisis — 1 cr. mini-course, no pre-req., physics 190 C., M-W-F, 11:15, Oct. 10 to Nov. 9. Call Prof. Hoffman, 545-0933 for details.
tf10-10

AUTO FOR SALE

1968 Chevelle 396, 4 on the floor, best offer. Call Jeff, 253-9031.
tf10-4

1967 VW Squareback, new tires, needs some body and engine work, $400. Call Sam after 5:00, 549-3997.
tf10-5

1967 Ford Galaxie 500, 2 door hardtop, excellent condition. Call 527-2770 after 6:00 p.m., any evening.
tf10-5

1965 Pontiac Lemans. Call 253-3502 after 5:00 p.m., $250.
tf10-5

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price, 665-3344.
tf10-12

1961 Valiant, positively conditioned, only $100. Call 546-5086.
tf10-5

72 Int. 1/2 ton PU V8, 4x4, $2950. Can be seen at 149 Summer St. Apt. 67, No. Amherst, weekdays after 5 p.m.
tf10-5

VW Bus '71 w/rebuilt engine — like starting off with a new car! Blue w/snows, asking $1,699. Call 323-7779 Belchertown.
tf10-5

1970 VW, only 27000 miles, excellent running condition, snow tires, $1050, will dicker, call Paul 545-0431 day, 253-5215 evenings.
tf10-9

AUTO FOR SALE

$45 and YOU CAN OWN the ugliest most disgusting 1960 VALIANT HONEST AL has ever seen. 6 cyl std trans. some tires used daily. 64 Chevy 2 WAGON, 6 cyl std. trans, RUSTY BUT RELIABLE. Tires $75. 66 DODGE DART mech excel throughout SLANT 6 std trans 2 dr. sedan looks gd — No rust $425 WANTED DARTS - VALIANTS - LANCERS in any cond. 586-3819.
tf10-5

71 Ply. Cricket, must sell, need tuition money: 4 cyl. std. 4 sp. trans., Rack and Pinion steering, exc. mil. Call Jim 6-5234.
tf10-5

1966 VW Bus - New brakes, new tires, rebuilt engine, inspected, body in good shape. $350. Call or see Cindy, 511 Grayson, 546-6819.
tf10-10

1966 Chevy — PS, PB, 283cid AT, runs but has blow-by in one cyl only. $75. Call Ed at 549-6722. Call after 5:00.
tf10-4

1966 Chevy Wagon, Fall Inspection Sticker, dependable, economical. (6 cylinder). Real good car, asking $300 will haggle 253-3952.
tf10-5

1971 Fiat 850 h.t. racer, 26,000 mi., new tires, AM-FM, exc. cond., must sell by Nov., best offer (retail over $1800). Call Jim (413) 783-2807.
tf10-9

1965 Plymouth Barracuda, exc. body and engine cond., V-8, new shocks, good tires, must be seen, $325. Call Al, 546-7691.
tf10-11

1966 Chevy Impala, 8 cyl. auto., very dependable. 584-5685 after 5 p.m.
tf10-9

Cream Puff, $200 firm, 1963 Pontiac, economical engine, recently rebuilt; will soon need brakes. Come and see at 24 Cowls Rd.
tf10-9

For sale — 1964 Chevelle convertible, black with white top, 6 cylinder standard, asking $295. Call 546-7414.
tf10-5

Notices

APPLICATIONS DUE

Applications for all committee positions and university positions representing SW are due today by 4 p.m. in JQA Lobby.

BDIC

Meeting today, Thurs., for staff and students of the BDIC Human Services Project, Tobin 423, 5 p.m.

BELCHERTOWN BUS

Belchertown bus route extension petition is now on Commuter Office door near Hatch S.U.B. Please help us before cold weather comes.

BRIDGE PLAYERS

Duplicate Rating Point Bridge game tonight, C.C. 174-176, 7:30.

COIN CLUB

Elections and trading tonight in 811 C.C. at 7:30. If you have Mercury head dimes and buffalo nickels, then come see what you can get for them.

CONCERT COMMITTEE

Set up and arrangement Committee meeting Thurs., Oct. 4 in S.U. Council Chambers 7-9 p.m.

DVP MEETING

Tonight, Oct. 4, at 7:00 in Rm. 168-170 C.C.

FREE FILM

Tonight at 9:00 p.m. in C.C. 165, the Amherst Film Co-op presents Sergei Eisenstein's classic, Potempkin, admission is free.

GAY WOMEN CAUCUS

Meeting Thursday, 4 East Dickinson Lounge, all women are welcome. We are now R.S.O. 367. further discussion on coffeehouse, buffet, speakers bureau and office space.

HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

Will meet tonight at 4:30 rm. 805 C.C. All interested people are invited to attend.

ITALIAN CLUB MEETING

October 4, 7:30, 3rd floor Lounge, Herter Hall. All interested students and professors are welcome. Refreshments served.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

The bus leaves from Hasbrouck at 6:30 and stops at Patterson House (Sunset Ave. side in Southwest) at 6:35. All are welcome to come.

OPEN HOUSE

Beers, punch, 8-?, next to Newman Center.

PARACHUTE CLASS STARTING SOON

Come Oct. 11 at 7:00 in C.C. 101 to get all the info on making your first parachute jump or how to continue jumping very inexpensively. Class is the 18th and 19th of Oct. and you'll jump the 20th. Come on out and foliage freak with us at 2800'.

PI LAMBDA PHI

All university men are invited to an open rush Thurs., Oct. 4 at 8:30 p.m., 14 Elm St. Call 256-0463 for info and rides. Sports movies featured.

PUMPKINS

Buy one for yourself, your roommate, or a friend on Thursday and Friday in the C.C. Concourse. Sponsored by Alpha Zeta, agricultural honor fraternity.

REP NEEDED

5 College Student Co-ordinating Board needs another rep. from UMass. For info call Jean 6-7482.

RUSH TONIGHT

At the Zeta Nu Fraternity, 336 North Pleasant St. Find out what Greek living is all about!

SEXUAL CONSCIOUSNESS RAISING

Dr. Donald Read will conduct an evening of Sexual Con. Raising Thursday evening, Oct. 4, 7:30-9:30, rm. 904-908, C.C. Everyone welcome.

SKI PATROL

Meeting tonight at 6:30 in 903 C.C. Bring first aid packs, and money for National Dues. If you want to be registered, dues must be in. New members welcome.

STUDENT AUTO WORKSHOP

Shop is open Tues, W, Th, 3-11 p.m.; Sat. 9-5, Sun, 10-4. Located on bottom of C.C. Garage, parking permit level, near space 122 C. Work on your car.

SW ASSEMBLY MEETING

The SW Assembly meets tonight in Hampden Aud. at 7:30. All are invited.

WOMEN OF CENTRAL AREA

Tonight! Women's activity night! Films! Folk dancing (no experience necessary) bring food to share for pot luck dinner. 6 p.m., 125 Hills North.

WUMV

Position now open on the Management Board. Nominations open until Monday at 5 p.m. See Bill. Election Monday at 8 p.m., 167 C.C.

LOST

"The Complete Works of Shakespeare." Last seen in W21 Machmer. I need it desperately--I'm not made of money and can't afford another one! Call Fran 6-9848.

LOST

Oct. 2 in the vicinity of Boyden, one gold ring with one purple and two red stones. Call Nancy 326 at 5.2510. Reward!

LOST

Who stole my Bhagavad Gita that's a heavy Sin. My name is on the book cover. If you read the Blessed Gita fine, then return it. If you need Spiritual help that much to steal it while I was in the Bathroom you have a problem.

LOST

A long white hair, grey tippings, blue eye is on Vet's diet. If found please call Elizabeth 549-6801.

FOUND

Puppy, 8-10 wks., male - black and brown. In School of Ed., Oct. 3. Owner or anyone interested please call Amy 6-4127.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Qualifications are reviewed. You get chance to prove or display abilities. Accent is on ambition, career, potential, sense of authority. Make room for yourself at more elevated position. Capricorn may wield heavy hand.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Expand horizons; gain perspective. Take initiative in creating style, position. Study Aries message. Study, be aware of language and learning process. Be the opposite of provincial. Finish projects. Leave no loose ends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): One who makes promises may not be able to back them. Be aware of it and protect your interests. Leo, Aquarius persons could be involved. Money, tax benefits, co-operative plans are likely to be accented.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis is on partnership, marriage. Give plenty of attention to public relations. Be sure you are correctly quoted. Some around you may be envious. Listen and observe. You have plenty to learn and you are in position to gain knowledge.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Associates may be confused. Key is to be versatile. Don't feel there is only one path to accomplishment. Use material at hand. Sagittarius, Gemini persons could figure prominently. Check health resolutions.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Create, feel, find emotional-creative outlet. Be ready for change, travel, variety. Tear down for purposes of rebuilding. Become more aware of details. Read between the lines and study fine print. Children are in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Perceive and analyze. Piece together bits of information and come up with complete story. Don't be satisfied with superficial explanations. Ask questions. Get to basics. Older person may have experience but you must not be dissuaded from own style.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Home, family relationships and surprise visits could dominate, Taurus, Libra persons figure prominently. Make deal with one who argued with you in past. Compromise now means ultimate progress. Act accordingly.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis is on solidifying assets. Discern difference between legitimate offer and mere speculation. Pisces, Virgo persons could play significant roles. Pay and collect. Fill in gaps. Don't sell yourself short.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle is high and you get what you need. You can persuade, sell and even dominate. Make new starts. Emphasize personality and special abilities. Success marks efforts. Material gains also are likely to be featured.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Work behind the scenes. Do more and talk less about what you do. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Aries, Libra persons might figure in important ways. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Co-operate in charitable project.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Look beyond the immediate. Fresh look will reveal much. Give full play to creative forces within. Leo, Aquarius could be in picture. Emphasis is on what you desire--and romantic interlude. One who is poetic whispers sweet nothings.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are forthright, attract Scorpio, Leo and Aquarius persons and will find this month, October, one of your most significant periods in 1973. You are basically truthful, at times outrageously frank and highly creative.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Neckpieces
5 Simians
9 Give heed
11 Begins
13 Latin conjunction 14 Studio
16 Exclamation
17 Unit of Siamese currency
19 Sows
20 Music: as written
21 Harvest
23 Pigeon pea
24 Imitated
25 Irritates
27 Was mistaken
29 Sign of zodiac
30 Exist
31 Groans
33 Tint
35 Fat of swine
36 Man's nickname
38 Trade for money
40 Possessive pronoun
41 Bogged down
43 Inlet
44 Saint (abbr.)
45 Lamp
47 Roman gods
48 Cylindrical
50 Seesaw
52 Soaks
53 Spider's traps

DOWN

1 Distasteful
2 Bone
3 Indonesian tribesman
4 Places
5 The sweetsop
6 Equality
7 Teutonic deity
8 Declared
9 Shakespearian king
10 Wants
11 Move sidewise
12 Edible fish
15 Meadow
18 Clothesmakers
20 Racer
22 Beg 24 Tapestry
26 Vast age
28 Cheer
31 Substance
32 Glisten
33 Rain and hail
34 Omits from pronunciation
35 Roster
37 Skill
39 Den
41 Small rugs
42 Delineated
45 Permit
46 Born
49 Note of scale
51 Tuberculosis

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

RANG AIDE SEW
ALEA USED TRI HATRED EN ANT
MAID ANTES
ATTESTED OE
PAINT NEE SAT
SI TESTING LE
ELL REI TALON
EA ASSERTED RESTS TARN ITS OF TSETSE
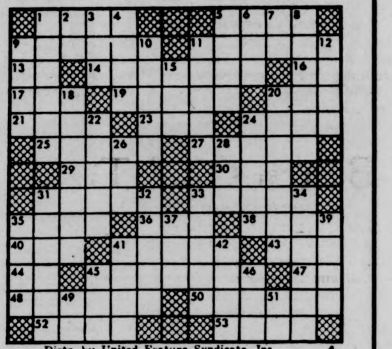
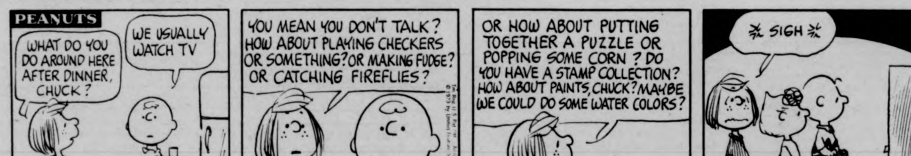
TOO LINE ROTA
ANN ERIS SEAT



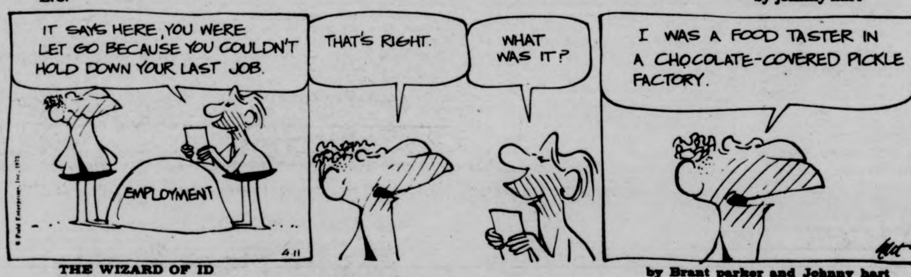
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 4

PEANUTS



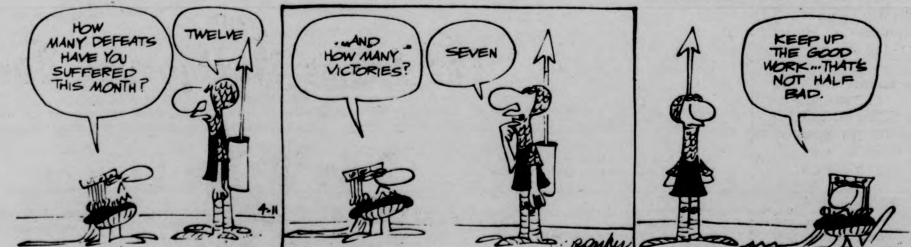
WHAT DO YOU DO AROUND HERE AFTER DINNER, CHUCK?
WE USUALLY WATCH TV
YOU MEAN YOU DON'T TALK? HOW ABOUT PLAYING CHECKERS OR SOMETHING? OR MAKING FUDGE? OR CATCHING FIREFLIES?
OR HOW ABOUT PUTTING TOGETHER A PUZZLE OR POPPING SOME CORN? DO YOU HAVE A STAMP COLLECTION? HOW ABOUT PAINTS, CHUCK? MAYBE WE COULD DO SOME WATER COLORS?
SIGH
10-4
SCHULZ

B.C. by johnny hart



IT SAYS HERE, YOU WERE LET GO BECAUSE YOU COULDN'T HOLD DOWN YOUR LAST JOB.
EMPLOYMENT
THAT'S RIGHT.
WHAT WAS IT?
I WAS A FOOD TASTER IN A CHOCOLATE-COVERED PICKLE FACTORY.
4-11
hart

THE WIZARD OF ID by Brant parker and Johnny hart



HOW MANY DEFEATS HAVE YOU SUFFERED THIS MONTH?
TWELVE
...AND HOW MANY VICTORIES?
SEVEN
KEEP UP THE GOOD WORK...THAT'S NOT HALF BAD.
4-11
B parker
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973

24 HR TEL 733-5131
SHOWCASE CINEMAS 12345
We Honor MASTER CHARGE and BANK AMERICARD
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD WEST SPFLD
WESTWORLD Where nothing can possibly go worng PG YUL BRYNNER
Eves. - 7:30-9:20
Sat. & Sun. - 2:00-3:40-5:30-7:30-9:30
Bang the drum slowly PG "★★★★! HIGHEST RATING!" N.Y. Daily News
Eves. - 7:30-9:30
Sat. & Sun. - 1:30-3:20-5:20-7:30-9:30
HEAVY TRAFFIC X
Eves. - 7:30-9:20 Sat. & Sun. - 2:00-3:50-5:40-7:40-9:40
Hit! R BILLY DEE WILLIAMS
Eves. - 7:30-10:00
Sat. & Sun. - 2:00-4:30-7:20-10:00
WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

J.J. Jennings

The One That Got Away

By FRED WEISS

J. J. Jennings...U.P.I. running back of the week; Nations leading scorer (8 T.D.'s in two games); player of the week in the East. J. J. Jennings, Holyoke Massachusetts' favorite son. J.J. Jennings star running back for the Scarlet Knights of Rutgers University (the State University of New Jersey); who will play against the Minutemen this Saturday at New Brunswick, N.J.

There are many phrases and descriptions regarding Jennings circulating throughout the nation this week. The New York Times featured his name (in big print) on page one of their Sunday Sports section; describing his "five touchdown" exploits last Saturday against Princeton. However, around the Pioneer Valley in general and the UMass Campus in particular, the opinion of Jennings is a solution of frustration mixed with admiration-J.J. Jennings is known as the "one that got away".

But why? Surely the University of Massachusetts program is every bit as good and probably better than the one at Rutgers. Amherst is in the middle of the beautiful Pioneer Valley while New Brunswick is a decaying old city. Didn't J.J. want to stay around and bask in the glories that local heroes are bestowed? Apparently not.

According to a reliable source who was active in the UMass football program at the time that Jennings was being recruited, J.J. probably wanted to get away from home"!

He went on, "Sure we wanted Jennings. He was one of our prime prospects. But the Rutgers Alumni did a fine job, getting on the scene quite early...they did an exceedingly fine job."

Holyoke's J.J. Jennings

Rutgers has a great football team this year. Good Defense. Good Offense. There's even talk down in New Brunswick of an undefeated season. Without J.J. Jennings, the Scarlet Knights would be lucky to reach .500 in the won-lost department. Last year Jennings led Rutgers to a 7-4 record.

So far this year Rutgers has played two games. They've won both of them, beating both Lehigh and Princeton very impressively. In those two games J.J. has carried the ball 75 times, running through the line against the Lehigh defense, and around the line against Princeton.

Larry Pasquale, the defensive backfield coach for the Minutemen looked to the past to describe the Rutgers Star that his team will try to contain. "The kid reminds me of Calvin Hill..a big strong type of guy; strong balance, outstanding third and fourth effort. There's no way that one man can tackle him." Pasquale coached at Boston University a few years ago, and had a chance to observe Hill first hand during the B.U.-Yale confrontations. Hill went on to be a first round draft choice of the Dallas Cowboys.

Can Jennings do the same? There is really no way to tell.

It seems every good team has a "Jennings". Then again there is always the injury factor. J.J. has one thing going for him he's getting better and better. Some of those who saw him play in high school describe him as "good-but not great". He didn't even play ball at Rutgers his freshman year, and had to wait until the second to last game of his Sophomore year to really play any amount of time at all. Since that time J.J. has been a legend around New Brunswick.

J.J. Jennings . . . U.P.i. running back of the week; Nations leading scorer. UMass running attack...32 carriew for four yards against Harvard last week. One can't blame UMass Coach Dick MacPherson if he allows himself the luxury of a dream or two this Saturday. Just think: with Jennings' running, Pennington's arm, and Berra and Hadjusak's receiving, perhaps UMass would be in the Boardwalk Bowl again this year, but in reality Jennings is "the one that got away."

(AP Wirephoto)

LAST TANGO FOR WILLIE MAYS - Although he's been through this ritual a few times with the Giants, the Say Hey Kid just loves a locker room celebration. This affair took place on Monday when the New York Mets defeated the Chicago Cubs 6-4 to clinch their second National League East title. Mays will retire after the season.

Bench Glad To Be Back

By NORM CLARKE
ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

CINCINNATI (AP) Johnny Bench's longest season is nearing an end, and his powerful swing has erased most of the doubts.

"I've been very fortunate, indeed," said the Cincinnati Reds' 25-year old superstar.

"I'm here and we're in the playoffs again," said Bench, the National League's Most Valuable Player a year ago when he hit 40 home runs.

Six months ago, on the heels of a major operation that clouded his luminous career, the young catcher was rushed into the 1973 season with little time to regain his strength.

And though he has finished second in the National League in runs batted in and his arm remains the most feared in baseball, Bench says, "It's not all there...I'm not pleased."

His batting average suffered, dropping to .253 when he closed out the season with only five hits in his last 39 at-bats over the last three weeks.

"I'm physically strong, it's just that split second-that 124th of a second-that could have made the difference," said Bench as the Reds await the National League playoffs.

"I have to believe there were a lot of balls I would have gotten to had it not been for the operation. For one, I wasn't able to do the usual weight work or isometrics in the spring. I think that hurt," he said.

"It's understandable, I guess. I have to look at it realistically. We won, that's the important thing."

"I had hoped for 30-35 homers and 100 RBI," he noted. He reached the latter goal with 104 RBI, but his home run production dropped to 25-lowest since his rookie year six seasons ago when he had 15.

An ugly crescent-shaped scar etched across his chest remains as a permanent reminder of a career once jeopardized.

It began a year ago with a routine September checkup. A spot on his lung was detected. Told of its presence, Bench went on a seven-game home run binge. He batted .333 in the World Series, but it didn't prevent Cincinnati's losing to Oakland.

Notices

MEN'S SWIM TEAM-All swimming candidates have physicals today in the infirmary at 5:30 PM.

IM-ALL IM paddleball and handball players are requested to report to the IM office 215 Boyden as soon as possible to pick up match schedules. Schedules will commence Tuesday October 9.

MEN'S GYMNASTICS TEAM-Any freshman or sophomore interested in becoming a manager please contact Tom Dunn 224 Boyden 5-2341 or Jay Aronstein 586-2409 after 6.

top of the campus restaurant
featuring
Greg Bullen
from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday
seating for cocktails - 9:30 p.m.
FINE FOOD IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RELAXED DINING.
ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAYS AND SATURDAYS
BEST VIEW OF AMHERST.
DISCOUNTS FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR GUESTS
PHONE 549-6000 FOR RESERVATIONS

WMUA
needs an assistant to the chief engineer. If you have practical electronic experience, apply in person at WMUA, 42 Marston Hall. Speak to chief engineer Gary McAuliffe.

HARVEST MOON PARTY
at Lambda Delta Phi
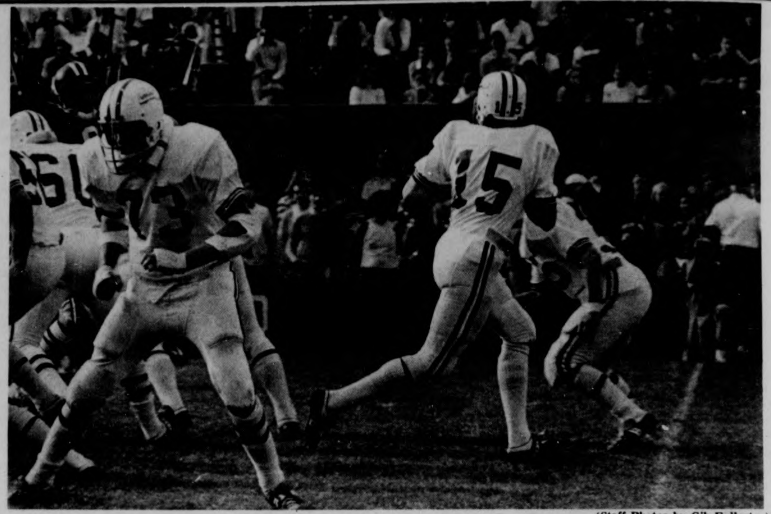
389 N. Pleasant St.
Fireside Singing and Refreshments
Start at 7:30 Thursday, Oct. 4
Come down or Call for rides (5-0939)

Amherst Entertainment Committee and Three Thumbs Productions.
presents
A Dirt Floor Boogie
with
The James Montgomery Band
and
Duke & The Drivers
Amherst College Cage, Fri., Oct. 5th 8:00 p.m.
Tickets $2.50 C.C. Concourse

Were you part of the crowd at ancient Harvard Stadium Saturday? If you were, have fun with this picture trying to find out if you are in it.



(Staff Photos by Gib Fullerton)

Offensive tackle Brad Calnan gets set to throw a block on a Crimson defender setting up a pocket while at the same time affording reserve quarterback Fred Kelliher the opportunity to drop back for a pass.

Mac Defends Call Ending 1st Half

By STEVE CROWE

It may have been the only thing he did right all afternoon at Harvard, and the Collegian criticized the play as a stupid call. Coach Dick MacPherson was referring to his decision to run out the clock at the end of the first half, yesterday at the Varsity M luncheon at the Neuman Center.

Actually, the article he was referring to was Bill Ballou's story on the game in which he called that play, "the saddest part of the day."

There were 32 seconds left on the clock in the first half, UMass had the ball on their own 24 yard line with a fourth down and six situation, and MacPherson decided to let the clock run out.

What Mac wanted to do was to prevent Harvard from scoring again (the score was 14-7, Harvard) before halftime, and he felt "it was to our advantage not to kick the football." Andy Dutkanicz, the punter, had been under extreme pressure all day and his kick may have been blocked or run back, or the snap may have been fumbled.

In any case, Harvard would have been in position to score again.

So with 32 seconds, the Minutemen let the clock run down until the officials called them for delay of game. After a five yard penalty, the stage was set for the controversial finaly play of the half.

Bob Wolfe took a hand-off from Peil Pennington and a ran the sweep for minus ten yards before running the sound of the gun.

But Wolfe made a mistake on that play.

"He wasn't supposed to run out of bounds," said Mac.

Why didn't the quarterback just fall on the ball, the traditional way of running out the clock?

"Time-out!! snapped MacPherson, clapping his hands in the "time-out T" sign, he explained it to this reporter before the luncheon. "Their defense would have called time-out as soon as Peil hit the ground and then they would have had time to kick a field goal."

MacPherson said that the players and coaches congratulated him on that play. "If I had it to do over again," said Mac, "I think I would do the same thing."

Also speaking at the luncheon were players, Dave Yushinsky, Ralph Ledger, and Bob Harris, the defensive line coach and chief scout who gave the scouting report on Rutgers.

Briefly Rutgers is a veteran team with seven letterman on the 35 points game offensive team and nine on the defense (which allows only 13 ppg.) Their offense IS JJ Jennings (see page 23), who carries the ball 3 out of 4 plays.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Playoff Dates

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Saturday, October 6
Oakland at Baltimore 1 p.m.
Sunday, October 7
Oakland at Baltimore 2 p.m.
Monday, October 8
Baltimore at Oakland 3:30 p.m.
(if necessary)
Tuesday, October 9
Baltimore at Oakland 3:30 p.m.
Wednesday, October 10
Baltimore at Oakland 3:30 p.m.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Saturday, October 6
New York at Cincinnati 4 p.m.
Sunday, October 7
New York at Cincinnati 4 p.m.
Monday, October 8
Cincinnati at New York 2 p.m.
(if necessary)
Tuesday, October 9
Cincinnati at New York 2 p.m.
Wednesday, October 10
Cincinnati at New York 2 p.m.

WORLD SERIES DATES
Saturday, October 13
American League City 2 or 4 p.m.
Sunday, October 14
American League City 2 or 4:30 p.m.
Tuesday, October 16
National League City 8:30 p.m.
Wednesday, October 17
National League City 8:30 p.m.
(if necessary)
Thursday, October 18
National League City 8:30 p.m.
Saturday, October 20
American League City 2 or 4 p.m.
Sunday, October 21
American League City 2 or 4:30 p.m.

Netters Tie UConn During Downpour

By MDC STAFF

STORRS, Conn.----"The spooks come out after dark around here," or so said Coach Kosakowski as his tennis match was forced to terminate early due to thunder and lightening over the campus of UConn.

The match is technically recorded as a tie, "even though we were well on our way to a victory," and brings the fall tennis record to 1-0-1.

Top-seed for UMass Bob Schpeiser lost 6-4, 6-4 in two sets while the number two UMass netman, Mark Brass, won in two sets 6-4, 7-6. Third-seed Barnaby Kalen took the first set 6-4 while dropping the second set 0-6 and then fighting back in the third and final set only to lose on the final serve 6-7.

Don Douglas lost 6-7, 6-4, 6-7, in his bid that almost came out a winner while Christ Post came out of nowhere in his sixth spot to take his match in two sets, 6-2, 6-3.

Just as the doubles competition commenced the rain came down and the teams went to the lockerrooms. The absence of Fred Braley and Gary Ney from the starting six hurt the Minutemen's effort.

Bill Ballou

The UMass Athlete

The UMass athlete exists in a Purgatory of attention.

He is far from the heaven of a Nebraska, where the football coach, depending on the size of the Governor's win in the last election, is either the first or second most powerful man in the state.

And he is far from the hell of a Quinsigamond Community College, where the game here has no place to go after the event except the Friendly's at the corner where he can relive his exploits and count the flavors.

It is easy to be winner. There are lots of stories about you in the Globe and you get little criticism. It's not so easy when you lose.

To what extent should a college athlete be criticized? At UMass he is subject of much publicity, at least in the campus media. As in all sports pages the praise flows like beer at a rush. The less pleasant comments appear only out of necessity to make the pages seem objective.

Coaches protect "their men". The athlete is the reason for their employment. At UMass the one thing common to all coaches is that they won't knock one of their men in public. One thing common to the public is that when they talk about an athlete it is usually in negative terms.

Where is the happy medium? What does the athlete deserve? He isn't a pro, yet it is likely that he's on scholarship. He chooses to perform publicly, yet he may prefer to remain as anonymous as he can.

The coaches are overprotective, the public overcritical. Strangely, the athlete can be more objective about how he should be treated than anyone else. "All I ask," he for the most part says, "is that you be fair. If I'm bad, say it. If I'm good, I like to hear that as well."

He accepts that the right of the press to criticize will be abused. He accepts that as he stands in line at the Hatch the folks in front of him will occasionally express an ignorant opinion or two. He likes the publicity, and chances are that his parents get the Collegian.

But he has a private life. It shouldn't be public information that he almost got kicked off the team for drinking too much, but maybe it should be public information in some cases that the main reason he's playing a sport is because his father always wanted to be a hero and since he couldn't, well dammit, Johnny's gonna be one.

If he plays badly he won't get traded, and he doesn't have to worry about 20,000 hostile fans calling his home and wishing evil things on him and his wife. But he knows that if he drops that popup and lets the winning run score, or if he fumbles on the two and his team loses, he's got to walk into the Dining Commons tomorrow and look everyone in the eye. And he knows that they all know him.

The pains of being an athlete can hurt. More than the physical pain, it's the pride and the integrity that get wounded. Yet he chooses his life, and by and large he doesn't know what he'd do without the sweaty locker rooms, the cheers, the newsprint, the feeling in the stomach the day of the game.

"Sports is the toy department of life," says Howard Cosell. It's possible the only intelligent thing he's ever said. The athlete that loves his sport because it's fun can relate it all as being a sport is lucky. He's found a toy worth playing with.

The one who takes himself too seriously and is taken too seriously by others is a loser.

UMass Hosts 1st Local Women's Regatta

The first women's regatta ever held in this area will get underway Saturday morning at 10:30. UMass will be the host team for this event on the Connecticut River downstream from the Calvin Coolidge Bridge. Other competing schools will be Wesleyan University, Middletown High School, Boston University, Wellesley College, and Trinity.

This race will kick off the fall season for the UMass women. On subsequent weeks, the women will travel to Lowell, Boston, Hartford, and Syracuse. The oarswomen will participate in the Lowell Regatta on Sunday, October 14. The following Sunday, the crew will enter the annual Head of the Charles Regatta.

Travelling to Hartford on October 27, the women will row in the Trinity-hosted Connecticut Fall Regatta. On November third, the women will either travel to Cambridge to row against Radcliffe or to New Haven to battle Yale. The third annual Hadley Henley will be held November 4th and will feature intersquad races of the entire crew club. The fall season will end with one final race in Syracuse, New York on November 10th.

This hard-working crew, consisting of university women from all walks of life, are under the guidance of Coach Bob Spousta. They get up every weekday morning at six a.m. to practice on the cold Connecticut in preparation for their races. Pitted against a natural hazard such as fog, the crew rolls 5-6 miles every morning. When fog does keep them land-bound, they continue their training by running a 2.7 mile course along the river and by doing calisthenics.

Returning for their second season of competition are veteran oarswomen Mary Miley, Debbie Kirchmer, Mimi Brown, Barbara O'Reilly, and captain Missy Mayer. New crew members include Cherie Chase, Karen Youngquist, Janet Wilson, JoAnn Andreas, Gail Geddes, Sally Baybutt, Holly Olander, Rosemary Sellew, Shelia Sullivan, and coxswains Donna Blackburn and Lynn Zoino.

The regatta is sponsored by Burger King and the franchise is providing free food for the oarswomen.

The Inside Page

J.J. Jennings

UMass must stop the no. 1 scorer in the country this Saturday at Rutgers. He comes from Holyoke, Mass. See story on page 23.

New England's Largest College Daily

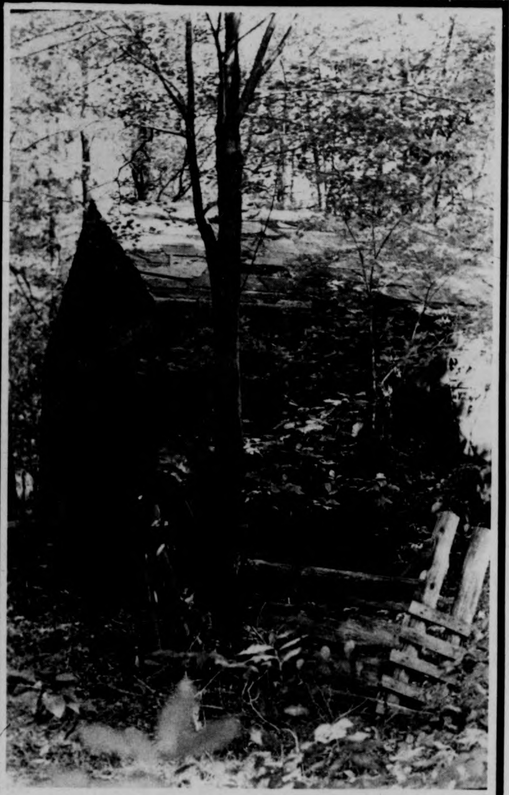
The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 23, 28 Pages, Two Sections
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
FRIDAY, OCTOBER, 5, 1973

Weather

We in the newspaper business are often up with the cock.



Staff Photo/Cindy Gonet

Sleeping in a big barn bed wouldn't be too cool in the winter, but think of the lovely, lovely leaves during the autumn as you look out the window to check the new day.

Area Foliage At Its Best

By DAVID LETTERS

For peak foliage, you are now in the right place at the right time. The Columbus Day week-end is traditionally the peak weekend of this area recent frosts have combined with unusually warm weather for a peak holiday this weekend.

The colors in their brilliant, dancing array presently fill the countryside in a manner fit to suit the foliage lover's eye. Wherever one looks, the colors burst with this annual statement of Mother Nature. It is here, all you have to do is enjoy it. Besides hopping a train you can cruise through the country in a car or walk in the lands.

The nearby Quabbin Reservoir with its outline of evergreen pines is bordered with spruces, elms, birches, maples, apple, cherry, willow and other colorful trees.

The colors are here for enjoyment. One merely has to open his eyes to perceive. If a car is not available, a walk in any direction from (or on) campus can be enough to satisfy. If you want to ride and observe, Southern Vermont, New Hampshire and all of Massachusetts are peaking.

Most newspapers in New England have or will publish maps specifically designed for the finest foliage tours. These maps will generally place you on interstate highways and are designed to cover the greatest mileage. It is not necessary to travel great distances and definitely not advisable to travel the interstates as traffic will be heavy.

In order not to jam the roads with our map, we suggest the reader open a map of New England. See those large lines with Interstate numbers traveling in all directions? If you look closer, you will notice smaller black lines which are county and state roads, many former main highways. With the advent of the modern interstate highway system, the lesser known and smoother roads receive less use and are much better for an enjoyable foliage ride. Route 3B in New Hampshire is an excellent ride which should have little traffic, good rest areas and grand foliage.

The Holyoke Mountain range offers excellent foliage, as do all highpoint New England. Mt. Monadnock, Mt. Washington and other well known mountains will be jammed. Mom and Dad will take the kids, paper and plastic wrappers will litter the area and the general vibes of hoards of city people may turn you off. We suggest you find a lesser known spot for foliage. Any McDonald's, Citgo or state map can be your guide.

On-season lodging rates are presently in effect in the foliage area. Do not expect to get a deal because summer has passed and ski season has not started.

Take the map and follow the smaller roads and enjoy yourself. It is here and it is free. Just like Christmas, it comes only once a year - don't miss this natural beauty of New England.

UMass Employee Involved In Wounded Knee Trial

By STEVE TRIPOLI

Douglas Phelps, an employee of the Student Center for Educational Research at UMass, has been named as a defendant on an indictment from the U.S. District Court of Wyoming along with Vernon Bellecourt and Tonia Ackerman. The three were charged with conspiracy to aid and abet a riot at Wounded Knee, South Dakota last April by transporting food, medicen, and money to the occupiers.

They have also been charged in the indictment with obstructing law enforcement officers "lawfully engaged in the lawful performance of their official duties incident to and during the commission of a civil disorder" at Wounded Knee "by a mass physical presence and caravan march into Wounded Knee through Federal Blockades and contrary to Federal Edict."

Bellecourt is a National Director of the American Indian Movement (AIM), and Ms. Ackerman is an Indian activist.

The village of Wounded Knee was occupied last spring by a group of mostly Oglala Sioux Indians demanding the right to self determination and that existing treaties with the government be honored.

When the indictment was handed down on May 24 a warrant for the arrest of the three was also handed down. Bellecourt was arrested in July after getting out of a plane in Chicago. He had been out of the country. Ms. Ackerman turned herself in on September 28, and Phelps did the same on September 26th, both in New York City. A hearing for the case is scheduled for next Wednesday in New York City.

The indictment, which is 6 pages long, states that the three as part of the conspiracy arranged prepublicity for rallies on the Colorado University at the Boulder campus. It claims that they then conducted speeches at the rallies where they exhorted people to go to Wounded Knee "in support of the Wounded Knee disorder and riot."

The trio were arrested in Nebraska on April 28. The reason the indictment was handed down in Wyoming is because that state is one through which they passed on the way to South Dakota. Daily Collegian reporter Nathan Gorenstein was arrested near Cheyenne, Wyoming and later released late last April as part of the same wave of arrests.

Phelps is also on the National Board of the National Student Association, which was characterized by former speechwriter for President Nixon Patrick Buchanan as an organization which opposed President Nixon while enjoying tax exempt status. Buchanan made the charge in testimony before the Senate Watergate committee on September 27.

The organization, which is on the now famous "enemies list" released a while ago, is now in court over the tax exempt question after an Internal Revenue Service investigation.

Phelps, Bellecourt, and Ackerman have been specifically accused of violating three sections of Title 18 of the United States Code. They are:

-Section 2101 (a), (D): "Whoever travels in interstate or foreign commerce or uses any facility of interstate or foreign commerce, including, but not limited to, the mail, telegraph, telephone, radio, or television, with intent to aid or abet any person in inciting or participating in or carrying on a riot or committing any act of violence in furtherance of a riot; and who either during the course of any such travel or use or thereafter performs or attempts to perform any other overt act for any purpose specified in subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) of this paragraph-

Shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

-Section 231 (a) (3): "...Whoever commits or attempts to commit any act to obstruct, impede, or interfere with any fireman or law enforcement officer lawfully engaged in the lawful performance of his official duties incident to and during the commission of a civil disorder which in any way or degree obstructs, delays, or adversely affects commerce or the movement of any article or commodity in commerce or the conduct or performance of any federally protected function-

Shall be fined not more than $10,000, or imprisoned not more than five years, or both."

-Section 371: "If two or more persons conspire either to commit any offense against the United States, or to defraud the United States, or any agency thereof in any manner or for any purpose, and one or more of such persons do any act to affect the object of the conspiracy, each shall be fined not more than $10,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both..."

If the case is removed to Wyoming at Wednesday's hearing, the trio, according to Phelps, are expected to plead not guilty when arraigned. Phelps is now free on personal recognizance, meaning that no bail was required but if he does not appear in New York next week it will be the equivalent of jumping bail. He is being represented by the National American Civil Liberties Union.

Staff Photo/Kevin Mack

Harry Johansson of Duke Ellington's band, last night at Bowker Auditorium.

Ellington At Bowker: Non-Stop Energy

By DAVID LETTERS

The sell out audience at Bowker Auditorium bopped, swung and performed the slide in their seats as the Master of Composition, the Duke of Jazz, Mr. Edward Kennedy 'Duke' Ellington led them through four generations of great jazz as he displayed his proficiency as a band leader and performer which has pleased audiences throughout the world.

The evening of the Fine Arts Council of UMass started with one of the many Ellington jump tunes and set the stage as The Duke and band performed 26 songs in ninety minutes. The great Ellington standards of 'Satin Doll', 'Mood Indigo', 'Sophisticated Lady' brought memories to many and enlightened the younger generation.

Many of The Duke's compositions are written to spotlight members of the band and the band itself, it did as, sax and trombone solos repeatedly brought ovations for the proficiency displayed.

Harry Carney has been with The Duke since 1927, it's no wonder, as he grinded out a sax solo which had silver haired ladies in their light sixties on their feet, clapping hands and performing what might be called a 1930 boogie. For what seemed to last over a minute Harry wailed on a single E flat note which had more power than the average rock group of today.

Perfection must be a byword with Duke as that is what the mildy crazy audience received all evening as he took it on a musical trip from 1927 with the 'Creole Love Song' featuring a powerful bass clarinet solo and crying coronet refrain to the extremely hip modern 'Afro Eurasian Eclipse Suite'.

Staff Photo/Kevin Mack

Duke Ellington's Band wowed two sold out shows last night in Bowker Auditorium.

Let the rockers and boppers know that Mr. Ellington layed it on down last night with the tightest band to visit Amherst since the decline of big bands. James Brown, Isaac Hayes, Jethro Tull take a look and learn from the master. Everyone please stand and take note that Ms. Anita Moore, the foxy vocalist for Duke can belt it out in a manner seldom heard in any music circles. Rock-forget it- last night it was pure Ellington jazz that had the mind and vibes of all.

With his son Mercer on trumpet, Chuck Connors on 'bone, and Joe Benjamin on bass, the evening cruised with a polite calm energy which is typical of great jazz. Standing ovations were frequent as the 74 year young master rapped, slowly danced, and played.

Harold Johanson sounded like a bull frog as he belted out 'Hello Dolly' and the 'Basin Street Blues'. His deep horney voice truly sounded as if it was in New Orleans.

It was non-stop energy and music as the band became a living percussion session shacking, knocking and rocking with a variety of instruments that should make the Moody Blues take note. Tony Watkins sang and danced as the audience came to its feet and Stockbridge rocked. The man exhibited a vocal range as varied as his very Afro madris jacket. John Coles brought back memories of listening to mom and dad as they swung with their 78's and 'Lullabye of Birdland'.

The Duke has performed throughout the world and his famous saying of "We Love You Madly" was repeated in many languages as The Duke displayed a beautiful on-stage personality. It did not sound like hype as Duke repeated in over 30 languages: "We love you madly."

At the end of the show UMass professor Max Roach, a jazz legend himself, aptly expressed the feelings of all when he presented Duke a gift from the Pan-African Culture Group of UMass for the appreciation to the great achievement of The Duke "and the honor and respect with which he has displayed himself." Rarely at UMass has the student body ever appreciated a statement from a faculty member. Right on, Mr. Roach and thank you Duke for the historical trip-"We do love you madly."

Shooting The Breeze With The Bees

By SHELLEY LAUZON

Imagine yourself walking into the typical department store one afternoon. A salesperson behind the counter approaches you.

"May I help you with something?," she asks.

"Oh yes, I'd like 3 pounds of bees please!",

Sounds a little far-fetched, and it wouldn't occur in a department store, but you can buy bees, by the pound, and even have them shipped to you through the mail.

Staff Photo/David Less

"Practical Beekeeping" lets you run your own hive.

Professor H. H. Hagedorn of the Entomology Department is teaching a course entitled "Practical Beekeeping" to 19 students interested in running their own hives. The course meets at the apiary, which is located across from the New Africa House on the way up the hill, so don't be surprised if you see a few people dressed in white suits with veils over their faces walking around followed by a swarm of bees!

There are 9 beehives at the apiary, and the average annual production of honey is 60 pounds, which Prof. Hagedorn feels is good for the area. He explained that fewer pollen crops are produced here than elsewhere, resulting in lower honey production. The honey bee colony is not at full strength this year, but Prof. Hagedorn expects a much stronger, earlier-producing colony next season as well as a larger honey crop.

The process of starting a colony is a complicated one. The Queen bee and workers are put together in a brood chamber: the workers build the comb on a manufactured frame of beeswax, and when this is completed the Queen lays her eggs. The baby bees, after hatching, are fed Royal jelly, pollen, and honey. They pupate, spin a cocoon, and as an adult bee gnaw their way through the cell and come out.

Bees are fed sugar syrup but they need pollen to feed to the baby bees and to make honey. Worker bees leave the hive to get the pollen and nectar; they differ from the Queen in the amount of Royal jelly they are given as a baby bee. Both the worker and Queen are female, but the Queen receives more jelly and can thus lay a massive amount of eggs. The worker cannot lay eggs, and differs from the Queen in that the Queen is larger, has different structures, and all the instincts for mating as opposed to the worker's instinct to get pollen nectar.

The honey is produced from the nectar the bee takes from the flower. Most nectar is sucrose (a form of sugar), and is mixed with bee enzymes to change it to glucose and other forms of sugar. Water is taken out, the mixture is stored in the cells of the comb, and capped with beeswax when the process is finished.

A full strength colony at its peak in the summer will number 60,000 bees, in winter 30,000. Prof. Hagedorn explained that a bee emerging in June will live only 6 weeks, while a bee emerging in September or October will live 6 months. The reason, he said, is due to much more work in the summer.

A swarm, or a mass of wild bees, occurs when a beehive is too crowded. The colony will divide itself in half and move elsewhere to form a new hive. Prof. Hagedorn noted that a good beekeeper will keep enough food and space available to the bees to prevent swarming.

Honey extraction is done once a season here. The hive is dismantled, the honey combs taken out, and brought in to air and dry. Then, a special knife is slightly heated and used to scrape off the caps of wax and let the honey flow into a vat. After it is all scraped, it is placed in a barrel and spun-the centrifugal force pulls the honey out one side at a time from the comb. After this process is completed, the mixture is strained and the honey is ready for use. Honey wine, or mead, is one produce made from the mixture; others include jams and jellies, spreads, and the regular honey syrup. Honey flavor will differ depending on the source of the nectar; summer honey is light and usually from clover and wild flowers, while fall honey is very dark with a strong pronounced flavor from goldenrod and asters.

Prof. Hagedorn hopes to offer the course in the spring, with a lab in the fall for honey extraction and preparation. A course entitled "Insect Societies" (Ants, Bees, Wasps, and Termites) will be team-taught by Prof. Hagedorn and Dr. A. Stuart of the Zoology Department next spring as well.

Staff Photo/David Less

Now this looks like something out of a Grade-Bee science-fiction flick!

Loyalty Oath Not To Be Challenged

By ED GORMAN

The Massachusetts Loyalty Oath will not be challenged in the State Legislature this year according to Sen. John Olver (D-Amherst). Sen. Olver said that the repeal bill, which was defeated soundly last May in the House of Representatives, "would not be reconsidered."

Sen. Olver and Rep. James Collins (D-Amherst) sponsored the bill which called for the repeal of the Mass. Loyalty Oath. The Oath must be taken by all state employees prior to being hired.

The bill was defeated by a vote of 147-84 in the House after winning favorable support from the Legislature's Joint Committee on Public Service, receiving a 10-3 recommendation.

The law was challenged in the courts by two University of Massachusetts (Amherst and Boston groups) and another from Berkshire Community college and Pittsfield. The challenge was halted by the House's decision.

Last May the floor fight against the bill was lead by Rep. Charles Doyle (D-Boston) who said that supporters of the bill were "viewing patriotism in a contemptuous and condescending manner."

Doyle charged that, "there is a certain element in the Democratic Party who will not be satisfied until Jane Fonda is nominated for Governor and Joan Baez for Lt. Governor."

Doyle said that "The only ones who would favor this bill are the effete and the pseudo-intellectuals of our Commonwealth."

Sen. Olver said yesterday that the bill would not be reconsidered because of the "lack of support during the first consideration."

Olver had sponsored the bill because he felt that the legislature should "stop questioning the patriotism of our own citizens and rather call upon our own citizens to begin solving the many problems of our state and country."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports); 545-0731 (business).

Second-class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

CUSTOM Black & White film processing and boxframing for working professionals & semipros
Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

THE POTS & PLANTS SHOP
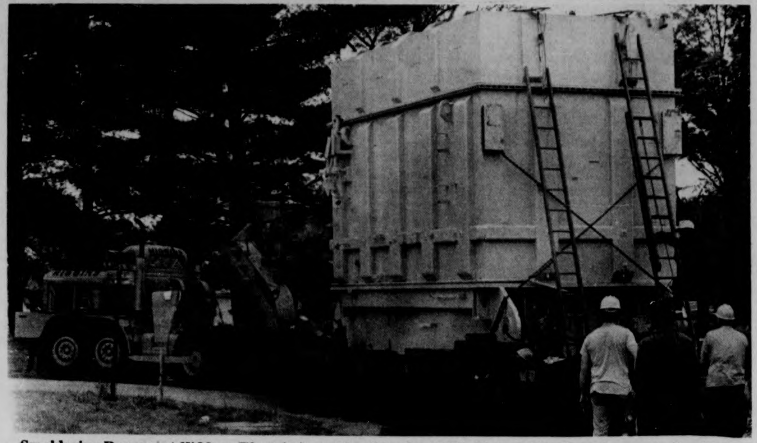
featuring the largest plants in Amherst at the corner of McClellan & N. Pleasant St.



Smoldering Pavement-W Mass Electric is moving this giant 25 ft. high, 318 ton transformer to its plant in Ludlow. It took the 100 ton, 80 wheel truck 2 hrs. to go a 1/4 mi. and another 2 hrs. to make the corner. The monster will be crawling down rt. 21 today. If you were going to use 21-don't.

Election Results

As the Collegian went to press last night the Student Senate Election results were incomplete. However, in the referendum, it appeared that a heavy margin of voters felt that there should be a yearbook at all and there was a seven to one ratio in favor of having the student Index funded by the Student Activities Fee.

The questions as to whether the Yearbook should be published for Seniors only or funded through the Senior Commencement Fee were heavily put down by the voters.

At this time only one half of the results from the dorms had been recorded. There was also an incomplete listing for the Fraternities and Sororities.

Although the commuter voting turnout was poor, all those on the ballot were voted in. They are:

Barbara Bagley, Walter Roman, Alvin Schmit, Buffy Weisman, Barry M. Kray, Cathy Corbett, Martin J. Miller, William Michael Sullivan, Dana Marchant, Dave Drolet, Skip Casper, Mark L. Mawrence, Jane S. Holappa, Marty Kelley, Richard Allen, Gerald F. Morton, Jim Dellemonico, David Pira, Mario Terranova, Walter Spaderna, John O'Keefe, Elyse V. Cann, James W. Reardon, Jr., Marshall Tom Spriggs, Eric Aalto, Daniel D. Friedmann, Lisa Noble, James Cooros, Smokey Singleton.

Orchard Hill Goes Beserk!

By ED GORMAN

So what was all that commotion on Orchard Hill Wednesday night? That commotion, which may be better labeled mass insanity, was this semester's first "Battle of the Bowl."

At approximately 10 p.m. a student in Webster House voiced his opinion of rival Dickinson House by screaming from a balcony "Dickinson sucks!!!" However a Dickinson House resident would not stand for such degradation of his "home" and retorted in just as loud a voice "Webster sucks more." And so the first shots were fired.

Within 15 minutes the balconies of all four Orchard Hill dorms were mobbed with lunatics ranting and raving about the bad points of the other dorms (some of which they had probably never been in). The yelling and swearing was not enough to satisfy some of the burnouts so they employed a variety of fireworks to do the talking for them. After an hour or so of revisiting Viet Nam the bournouts ran out of fireworks (or saved them for a rematch at a later date) and again turned to a fusilage of obscenities.

Anyone venturing under a balcony of any of the dorms was welcomed with a barrel of water from above. A salesman from Domino's Pizza barely escaped a sure soaking from the 7th floor of Dickinson when 10 gallons of chilly water landed a mere two feet from its target.

Although all floors of all the dorms participated in the display of insanity a few stood out. The 7th floor of Dickinson was the grand winner (loser???) due to a variety of original battle cries and weapons. The 7th floor had a trumpeteer, an electric guitar player, a whistle, and a half-dozen screaming madmen to support a generous supply of eggs, tomatoes and bottles which were thrown with abandon.

Second place was a virtual tie between the 7th floors of Webster and Grayson Houses. Webster boasted a few good arms as they plastered Dickinson House with a variety of vegetables and fruit, not to mention every roll of toilet paper in the dorm.

The mass insanity of acid intensity ended shortly after 1 a.m. when the power outlets to the 7th floor Dickinson Lounge were shut off ending all the fun for the electric guitarist.

Obviously the UMass rat race had gotten to enough people on Orchard Hill by Wednesday night to call for the total release of pent up tensions in the form of obscenities and noise in every way, shape and form imaginable.

The Physical Plant spent over two hours Thursday morning cleaning the remnants of Wednesday's insanity.

A rematch will be played sometime this semester when enough Orchard Hill student's parents supply them with enough eggs, and the screaming madmen get their voices back.

Allen's Appointment A Routine Action

President Robert Wood's recent announcement that Dean Dwight Allen will serve as a part-time adviser to the President's Office is a routine action in which a member of the faculty contributes expertise to the University on an advisory basis.

In the past the University and campus administrations have frequently reached out for the part-time advice of faculty specialists. Dean Allen's advisory role, therefore, is not out of the ordinary.

President Wood has informed Chancellor Bromery that Dean Allen's primary role will be to advise the University with respect to external education programs and joint efforts with other institutions of higher education.

Dean Allen's part-time advisory function will not interfere with his main and continuing responsibility to guide the School of Education on the Amherst campus. Furthermore, there is a complete understanding that academic policies will continue to be formulated by the faculty through appropriate campus governance procedures.

IMHE: New Location And Service

IMHE, the Institute for Man and His Environment at UMass, has a new location and is offering a new service.

The new service is the Advisory Office for Environmental Affairs, for students who want to take courses in environmental subjects. IMHE defines its role as catalyst--listing environment-related courses available on campus, developing interest in such courses and advising students on environmental study programs.

The advisors are Botany Professor Carl Swanson, who is also associate IMHE director for educational affairs, and Craig Zimrig, psychology department graduate student. They see students during office hours or by appointment. Full information is available from the IMHE office at 545-0648.

Minority Admissions Level Off

By MARK PARISI

Minority admissions, now the highest they have ever been, are beginning to level off and will stay that way in proportion to the number of graduating seniors and transfer students.

Mrs. Suzanne Fields of the admissions office, said that minority admissions have doubled each year for the last three years. Because of this, UMass is above the national average in this department.

As of Fall 1972, UMass was ranked sixteenth in the nation, with 5.82 per cent of its students belonging to a minority group. According to Federal statistics, this is a one per cent rise from the previous two years, making UMass one of nineteen colleges to enroll minorities in proportion to the state population.

Mrs. Fields explained the method in which a minority student is admitted. First, if he wishes to do so, he is asked to submit a sheet stating his nationality. Then he gives several references to the Admissions office from people other than guidance counselors.

"This is so the student won't 'get lost in the shuffle'. We have a person, such as a volunteer worker who is close to the individual give an honest view of the applicant. This is a better and more objective view than a guidance counselor would give," Mrs. Fields stated.

She explained that each minority student is encouraged to have an interview with a representative from the Admissions office to discuss personal and financial problems. This is done because the admissions people realize that much more than academic averages are involved with minority cases. She says that high average and low board scores mean that the person has much more talent than numbers alone indicate.

If he is admitted, the minority student is, brought into the supervision of the Committee for the Collegiate Education of Black Students (C.C.E.B.S.). Official material from CCEBS states its purpose as, "to consider any low income or minority student who would have difficulty entering college without asistance." When asked her opinion on the type of job CCEBS has done, she answered, "Despite having financial problems, CCEBS has done a 'good job' with minority students." She said that eighty per cent of the class of 1973 lasted the full four years. She also said that these students had the same academic averages as white students with the same education.

UMass
Police
Emergency
5-3111

TRAIL BIKE SEASON IS HERE
AND VALLEY MOTORSPORTS HAS THE FINEST.

MONARK 125 c.c.   KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c.
FROM THE PROFESSIONAL MONARK 125 c.c. TO THE POWERFUL KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c. WE HAVE THE TRAIL BIKE FOR YOU THIS FALL.
VALLEY MOTOR SPORTS
King St., Northampton

BART AUTO
Paint & Body Specialists
When you make contact — contact us.
*Foreign & domestic collision work
*Windshields replaced
*State license insurance estimates
Rte. 9, Belchertown
256-8712
2 1/2 miles past Rusty Scupper on the left

FALL SEMESTER - ISRAEL

Brandeis University — The Jacob Hiatt Institute
Study in Jerusalem — July-December, 1974

Juniors and Seniors eligible

Four courses — Hebrew not required — Earn 16 credits

Cost: $1850 — tuition, room, board
Financial Aid available

Application deadline March 1st
For information write:

The Jacob Hiatt Institute
Brandeis University
Waltham, Massachusetts 02154

In The Nation And The World

(AP Wirephoto)

WASHINGTON--ANOTHER QUESTION--Donald Segretti, a political saboteur financed with Nixon campaign funds, is surrounded by newsmen as he listens to question outside U.S. District Court in Washington after pleading guilty to three charges of violating federal election laws during the 1972 Democratic presidential primary in Florida.

Republican Saboteurs Admit Guilt

WASHINGTON (AP) -Two admitted political saboteurs told the Senate Watergate committee yesterday they tried to disrupt the 1972 Florida primary campaign of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie and other Democratic presidential contenders.

Martin Douglas Kelly, 24, of Miami apologized for dirty tricks which he said ranged from preparing bogus letters and advertising to paying a girl to run naked in front of a hotel where the Maine senator was staying yelling, "Muskie, I love you."

But Robert M. Benz, 29, yesterday's other witness, made no apology for his work against campaigns of Democratic presidential contenders in the Tampa area. He said he was motivated primarily by revenge for what he called Democratic dirty tricks in previous campaigns.

The two Florida Young Republicans, both accomplices of political trickster Donald H. Segretti, appeared at the first committee session not televised live on commercial networks.

Segretti, 32, a California attorney who said he took his orders from a White House aide, has pleaded guilty to three federal misdemeanor charges arising from political sabotage efforts he directed in the Florida primary.

After hearing Benz and Kelly, the committee recessed until next Tuesday when the panel tentatively decided to hear more testimony about GOP dirty tricks against Democrats.

Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said the committee hopes to wind up its investigation of dirty tricks next week, then take a two-week break to coincide with the recess already planned by the full Senate.

Benz got into a shouting match with Ervin, when he blamed Democrats for virtually stealing the 1960 presidential election.

And he drew sharp reactions from Ervin when he said he wouldn't be surprised if some of the Watergate panel senators had condoned covert intelligence gathering in their own campaigns.

Kelly said that after he was recruited by Segretti, his operations "began with pranks, but . . .began to get more and more intense."

"I knew some of these things were illegal," he said. "I was weaving my own spider web and I couldn't get out of it."

Both Benz and Kelly said they received $150 a month plus their expenses from Segretti. They said they didn't know Segretti had been hired by Dwight L. Chapin, then President Nixon's appointments secretary.

Benz said the money wasn't his main incentive.

"I felt if the Democrats got a little dose of their own kind of activities, they would be a little reluctant to do this to us in the future," he said.

He claimed Democrats had played dirty tricks against him in 1970 when he was the county campaign manager in the unsuccessful U. S. Senate compaign of Rep. William Cramer, R-Fla.

Benz reacted angrily when Ervin asked: "Can you tell me any time in the history of the United States when aides to the President of the United States provided money to spread libel and slander among candidates of the opposing political party?"

"Where were you in 1960 when it was accused that a campaign was stolen?" Benz asked Ervin of the race between Nixon and Democrat John F. Kennedy.

"I was here in the United States and I never heard of a campaign being stolen in the testimony of any credible witness," Ervin replied.

Kelly described for senators a campaign of disruption that included bogus letters, fake news releases, misleading posters and advertisements, counterfeit invitations and stink bombs.

Kelly said he did not begin to feel guilt or shame for his activities until they were over. And he maintained throughout his testimony that his activities were intended to confuse and antagonize candidates, not to influence votes.

"We expected the candidates to become upset and to cause discord and malcontent," he said. "We wanted to get them backbiting at each other and to feel that they were being sabotaged by each other."

Probe Continues

Jury Indicts Maryland Official

BALTIMORE (AP) - A special federal grand jury investigating allegations of political corruption against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew returned an indictment against another man Thursday.

It accused N. Dale Anderson, the Democrat who succeeded Agnew as chief executive of Baltimore County, of evading $67,833 in federal-income tax for 1969 through 1972.

Anderson, 56, the first Maryland official to be indicted in the present probe, was charged in a previous indictment with extortion, bribery and conspiracy in a kickback scheme involving architects and consulting engineers doing business with the county.

Similar allegations against Agnew, which the vice president has denounced as "damned lies," now are being heard by the jury in strict secrecy and under heavy security. U.S. marshal continue to block courthouse corridors to shield witnesses and jurors from newsmen.

Agnew's lawyers are seeking to halt the grand jury probe on constitutional grounds, claiming a vice president can neither be indicted nor tried in criminal court.

They also are searching for the sources of news leaks about the investigation which Agnew claims originated in the Justice Department and which he says are denying him the right of a fair and impartial hearing by the jury.

U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman granted the lawyers unprecedented subpoena power Wednesday after directing the jurors to ignore news stories while they weigh the evidence.

Joel Kline, a Montgomery County, Md., land developer who reportedly has raised funds for Agnew, was the first witness before the panel Thursday, spending nearly an hour in the jury room.

Shielded by his lawyer, Kline declined to tell newsmen the substance of his testimony or whether it even concerned the vice president. He acknowledged, however, that he had appeared voluntarily, without immunity, and was cooperating.

Kline was once considered for appointment as Maryland's banking commissioner by Gov. Marvin Mandel, who succeeded Agnew. The developer has been reported as telling federal investigators he collected more than $100,000 for Agnew and other politicians and laundered the money to disguise its sources. But sources close to the case said the report was erroneous.

Another witness was Ormsby S. "Dutch" Moore, who was executive secretary to Agnew between 1962-66 when Agnew was county executive.

Moore huddled with the prosecutors in the office of U.S. Atty. George Beall in the morning before going before the jury in the afternoon. He, too, declined to say why he was called.

In all, the grand jury met for more than six hours and heard between four and six witnesses yesterday.

Crime, Racial Tension High In Boston

BOSTON (AP) - A man who was fishing near Dorchester's Columbia Point housing project was killed Thursday after being stoned by a band of 30-40 black youths, police said.

Officers said the victim, about 55 years old and still not identified, was white. Police said witnesses told them the youths were black.

The man's body was found floating face down in the ocean after the stoning.

It was the second fatality involving whites and blacks in the city in two days. These and other violent incidents led to mounting racial tensions, prompting the closing of two area schools Thursday.

Tuesday night a young white woman suffered fatal burns when she was forced to douse herself with gasoline and was set afire. Police said the woman told them before she died that she had been accosted by six black youths who forced her to pour the gasoline on herself and then tossed a match at her.

The woman, Evelyn Rene Wagler, had been living in the nearby prodominantly black Roxbury section of the city. She died a few hours later.

Sgt. Charles Deary of the Boston Police Department, said reports received by police identified those who attacked the man as black youths.

Police said the man was found in the water wearing fishing boots near the housing project where most residents are black and Spanish speaking. The project has 1,500 units.

Earlier Thursday two schools in the Columbia Point housing project area were emptied by police in what they said was an effort to prevent further trouble after some 100 to 200 youths-armed with clubs-gathered near one of the schools.

"home cooking"
at the Bluewall
friday & saturday
9pm - 1AM

ALL BICYCLES
25% off
Quality Bicycles at Prices
You'll Never See Again
End of the Season. Let's unload them Read about our
GUARANTEED BUY BACK SERVICE
Buy a new bicycle from us in September and we'll buy it back from you in May.
Example: buy a bicycle for $75.00 we'll give you 1/3 of your purchase price back — $25.00
You ride the bike for 9 mos. for only $50.00
$50 plus 9 mos. equals $5.55 per mo.
Free Pick up & delivery to area campus for repair —
We finance bicycle purchases
The Bike Broker, Inc.
585-3865 19 Damon Rd.
NORTHAMPTON
Hours 9-6 Daily
Sat. 9-5
BANKAMERICARD

(AP Wirephoto)

VIENNA,--HOLD TALKS--Israeli Premier Golda Meir and Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky shown during discussion in Vienna, Mrs. Meir flew to Vienna for a face-to-face attempt to persuade Kreisky to go back on his pledge to close a transit camp for migrating Soviet Jews.

Watergate Tapes

"'Committee Can't Sue Nixon''

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Nixon's lawyer argued in federal court yesterday that the Senate Watergate committee had no authority to sue the President for Watergate-related tape recording and that the court lacks jurisdiction in the case.

Charles Alan Wright said that, in demanding White House tapes of presidential conversations, the Watergate panel was acting more like a grand jury than a Senate committee.

Samuel Dash, chief counsel for the committee, responded that "we have a unique situation hence...this is the first case in which the President himself may be involved in criminal activity."

Dash said that if accusations of presidential involvement in the Watergate cover-up are true, then the President is "using executive privilege as a shield to protect himself."

Wright and Dash appeared in U.S. District Court to argue the Watergate committee's civil suit asking Judge John J. Sirica to declare the panel had a legal right to demand the White House tapes.

In asking Sirica to dismiss the suit, Wright said, "The committee has broad legislative powers but no power to expose for the sake of exposure."

Dash replied, "There is no exposure for exposure's sake. The President...still is a citizen under the law."

Wright claimed that the court lacked jurisdiction to rule on the committee's suit because no money amount was involved in the matter. He referred to a statute that gives federal courts authority to decide cases involving more than $10,000 in damages.

Dash had claimed that the additional staff work required, should the committee have to write its report without the controversial tapes, would far exceed that amount.

Dash urged Sirica to consider his earlier order demanding that Nixon turn over the tapes as a precedent in the committee's suit.

"That order is a precedent and we rely on it," Dash said in referring to Sirica's opinion of Aug. 28.

In a suit brought by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, Sirica had ordered the President to permit him to hear Watergate-related tapes to determine if the White House claim that they must be kept secret is valid.

The committee had subpoeaned five tapes and then filed a civil suit asking for a ruling upholding the legality of its demand.

"What in effect the President is arguing," said Dash, "is that we should conduct a factual inquiry but not too much...don't try to find out who did it."

The tapes recordings are said to contain Nixon conversations about the Watergate affair.

Dash said the committee has a responsibility to investigate presidential campaign activities and "if it is established that the criminality of the President existed it would call for drastic legislation...we cannot get drastic change unless we have full public support."

Dash also argued that the committee's responsibility "is certainly not inferior to that of the special prosecutor."

In fact, in the long run, he said it might be "even more important that our committee perform its functions...it is the Congress that might prevent this from ever happening again."

Asked by Sirica if the tapes were essential to the committee completing its work Dash replied, "Obviously we're not out of business if we don't get the tapes."

But he added they would be essential if the committee is to file a full report on the Watergate scandal.

Sirica's ruling in the tapes case brought by Cox is under review by the U.S. Court of Appeals, which is expected to issue an order this week.

The un-dormitories.
Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/month, (utilities included)
CALL 413-665-3856

Wholesale Feed Prices Mark Record Decline

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Farm, feed and processed food prices plunged a record 6 per cent in September to pace the biggest one-month decline in wholesale prices in 25 years, the government said Thursday.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers called the drop in wholesale prices "a welcome sign that the worst of the big 1973 surge of inflation is behind us."

But AFL-CIO President George Meany, noting that wholesale prices were still 16.6 per cent above a year ago, said there is no evidence this is the start of a trend.

He predicted this "will prove to be only a momentary pause and prices will bounce up again" once the Cost of Living Council approves price increase requests.

The September drop in wholesale food prices is expected to begin showing up on supermarket shelves in the coming weeks.

Stein cautioned, however, that consumers should not expect all of the decrease to be translated into an equal decline in retail food prices as retailers move to recover costs frozen during the mid-summer price freeze.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said, "It would be encouraging if we could view these figures as the start of a trend. But there is no evidence that this is so."

"It is interesting to note," Meany said, "that the September decline does not even begin to compensate for the whopping 6.2 per cent increase in August."

Wholesale prices increased 5.8 per cent in August on an unadjusted basis and 6.2 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Nevertheless, he said it would "contribute to a leveling out of retail prices in the future."

The Labor Department's Wholesale Price Index showed the over-all decline in wholesale prices last month was 1.8 per cent on an unadjusted basis, the most in any month since a 1.9 per cent drop in February 1948. Seasonally adjusted, the decline was 1.5 per cent, matching the February 1948 low on the same basis.

Last month's drop in wholesale prices followed the biggest one-month rise in 27 years, a leap of 5.8 per cent from July to August, the period during which the administration lifted the freeze on food prices. During the freeze in July, prices fell 1.3 per cent.

Consumer finished goods, these products nearest the retail end of the wholesale chain, fell seven-tenths of 1 per cent last month, following a sharp 3.8 per cent increase in August.

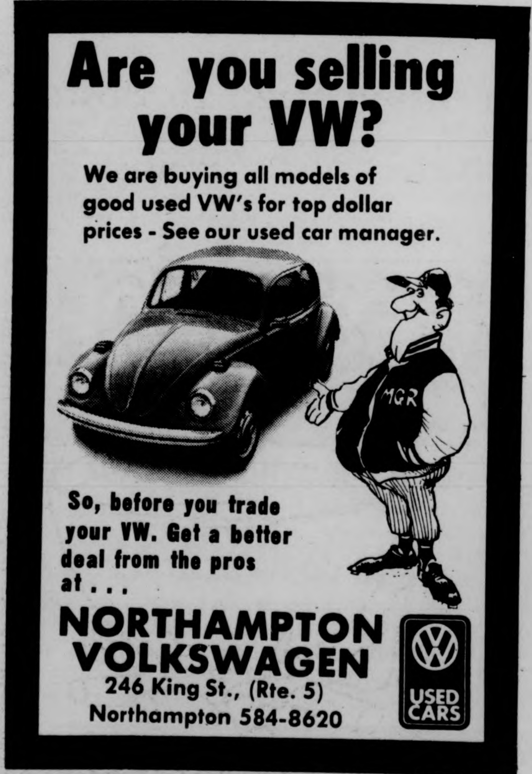
Prices of farm products fell 6 per cent last month-the sharpest decline in 25 years-and followed a record 23.1 per cent increase in August.

The government said the decline was chiefly the result of lower prices for livestock and corn, fresh and dried vegetables, live poultry and eggs. Raw cotton and milk prices increased, however.

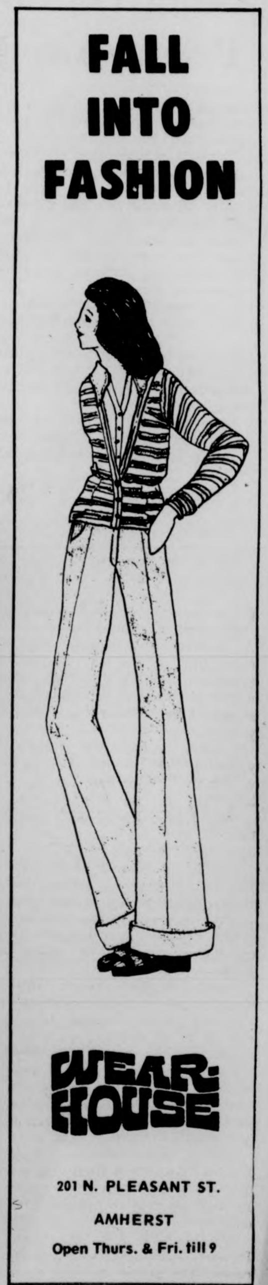
Despite the big September drop, farm product prices were still 55.8 per cent higher than a year ago, with grains up 111.4 per cent; livestock up 43.1 per cent; live poultry 101.7 per cent; milk 29.2 per cent and eggs 66.7 per cent.

Prices of processed foods and feeds, the next step in the wholesale food chain, also fell 6 per cent last month, reflecting declines in animal feed, meat and processed poultry prices.

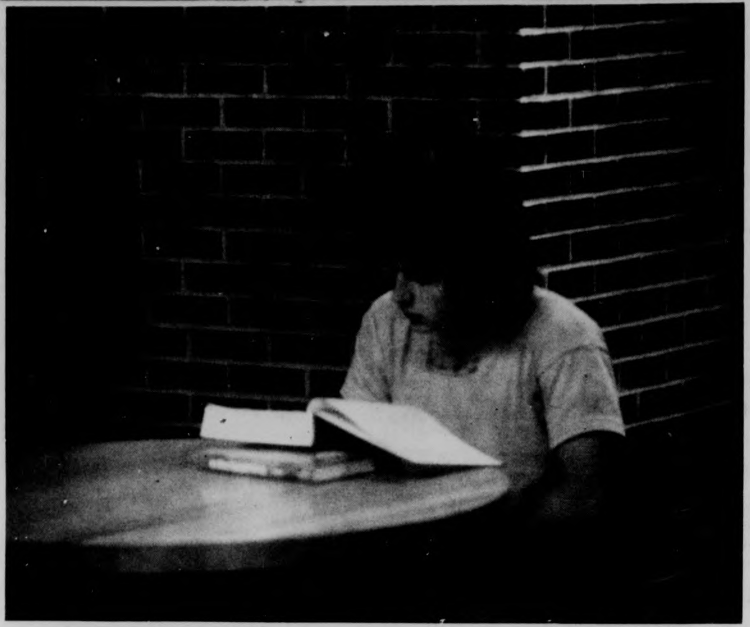
When combined with the drop in farm product prices, the 63er-all decline in the category of farm products.



Are you selling your VW?
We are buying all models of good used VW's for top dollar prices - See our used car manager.
So, before you trade your VW. Get a better deal from the pros at . . .
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN
246 King St., (Rte. 5)
Northampton 584-8620
USED CARS



FALL INTO FASHION
WEAR-HOUSE
201 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
Open Thurs. & Fri. till 9



Staff Photo/Harry Charych

Catching up on all that studying so that he won't have to sacrifice any of his playtime on this long weekend coming up. By the way, if you haven't heard, there is no school on Monday.

James Montgomery At Amherst Tonight

On what many consider to be a trip to the top, the James Montgomery Band will stop and perform tonight, 8 p.m., at Amherst college. Admission is $2.50.

The band, which hails from Boston, was formed in 1971 by James Montgomery, who arrived in that city from Detroit. The band currently consists of Montgomery, who plays harp; bassist Billy Mather, who has also played for John Lee Hooker; Peter Malick, who plays guitar and was once musical director of "Hair"; David Case on organ; Chuck Purro, drummer, who has played with Van Morrison; and Peter Boll guitarist, who has performed solo around New England.

The band signed a recording contract with Capricorn Records over the summer. The contract, which was negotiated by Nat Weiss, one-time partner of Brian Epstein climaxes so far, a career which saw Montgomery assemble musicians from his home town (Detroit) and his new town (Boston) into a versatile unit which plays rock as well as blues.

In their early years, the band played small clubs in and around Cambridge. They built up an initial following at "The Candlelight", and "Jack's", two college-town nightspots.

Also appearing will be "Duke And The Drivers".

Yom Kippur Guest On WMUA

This Sunday, at 8:00 p.m., the Smith College Department of Music will sponsor an organ recital by William MacGowan, Organist-Choirmaster of the Episcopal Church of Bethseda-by-the-Sea, Palm Beach, Florida. The recital will be held in Helen Hills Chapel, and will be open to the public free of charge.

The program will include the following works: Magnificat on the Ninth Tone,, by Samuel Scheidt (1587-1654); Johann Sebastian Bach's Choral Prelude: We All Believe in One God, Father; Cesar Franck's Fantasy in A Major (1878); Maurice Durufle's Choral Variations on the Theme Veni Creator (1930); and the adagio and finale from Symphonie III of Louis Vierne (1870-1937).

Congress Compromises On Pres. Power In Undeclared War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees agreed today on a compromise bill limiting the President's power to engage in undeclared war for more than 60 days.

The compromise bill apparently meets none of the objecties of President Nixon, who said earlier that he would vote it.

The bill would provide for extension of the 60-day war-making limit only in the event of written certification from the President that continued hostilities are necessary to protect troops withdrawing from the field, unless Congress authorizes further action.

The extended period cold be for no more than 30 days without congressional approval.

The bill states the conclusion of Congress that the constitutional powers of the president as commander-in-chief to introduce U.S. armed forces into hostilities or situations which could lead to hostilities can be exercised ony through:

Declaration of war, a specific statutory authorization, of "a national emergency created by attack upon the United States, its territories or possessions, or its armed forces."

The bill sets up a procedure for speedy congressional review of situations in which U.S. troops are engaged in hostilities.

It requires the President also to consult in advance with the Congress and to report in detail on any military action he may undertake.

The bill provides that Congress can terminate any undeclared war prior to the expiration of the 60-day deadline, or the 30-day emergency extension, by concurrent resolution which is not subject to presidential vote.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the bill does not infringe upon the constitutional authority of the President and that he should sign it.

But even if it is vetoed, Fulbright said, "it will stand as a clear declaration of principles by the Congress and I don't think it can be ignored."

The 60-day compromise modified the 120-day limit voted earlier by the House and a 30-day limit passed by the Senate.

Nixon To Rule On Lt. Calley Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley Jr. believed he was carrying out a legal order at My Lai and so was guilty of nothing more than an honest mistake, his lawyers said in court yesterday.

"Lt. Calley harbored no malice," said Army Lawyer Capt. J. Houston Gordon. "He did not have the mind of a murderer."

Gordon asked the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the final arbiter of American military courts, to reverse Calley's conviction for murder and his 20-year sentence at hard labor. No decision from the three presidentially appointed civilians on the court is expected for several weeks.

Then the secretary of the Army and President Nixon will review the decision, Nixon has said he will look at it personally.

There is some chance that civilian federal courts might be asked to review the Calley case, but Army lawyers in the Pentagon said Thursday's hearing is likely to be the last formal appeal on behalf of the 29-year-old lieutenant.

Calley was convicted March 29, 1971, of murdering at least 22 Vietnamese civilians and assault with intent to murder a Vietnamese child. Testimony at his court-martial showed hundreds of civilians died as Calley's platoon swept through the village March 16, 1968.

Gordon said his client is less intelligent than most officers. He said Calley sincerely believed he was carrying out a legitimate order to kill the civilian population of My Lai.

Organ Recital At Smith

At sundown today Jews throughout the world will begin the observance of the most holy of holy days in the Jewish calendar--Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement. With this observance comes a unique set of melodies and prayers that gives this holiday its special significance.

Today at 6 p.m., WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will broadcast a special program on the Yom Kippur holiday. The program is being presented as a feature of the WMUA News and Public Affairs Department and will be hosted by Kenneth Mosakowski.

Mosakowski's guest for the pretaped 30-minute program will be Howard Wolff, a fifth-year architecture student at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in Troy, N.Y., who is officiating as cantor during the High Holy Days for the Amherst Jewish community.

RESEARCH
thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material
SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

Bryn Mawr BOOK SALE
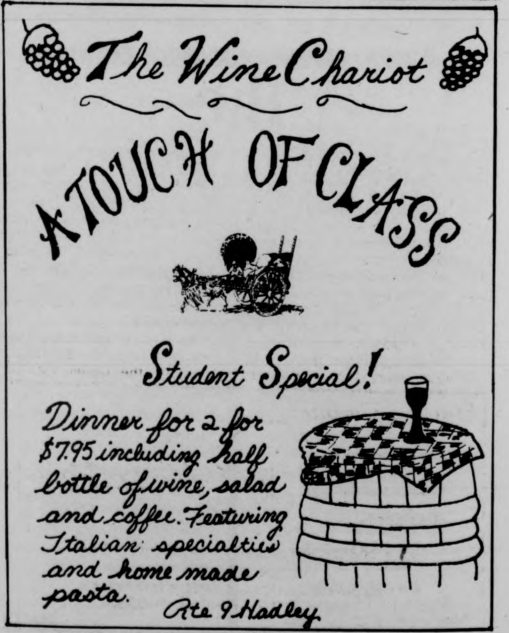
373 Huron Ave.
Cambridge
RE-OPENING
OCT. 6, 10 a.m.
Open Tues.-Sat. at 10 a.m.
Open Tues. Evenings, 7-9

BELL'S PIZZA HOUSE
HOT OVEN GRINDERS
FREE DELIVERY ON CAMPUS

BELL'S
BELL'S
BELL'S

"The largest selling pizza in Western Mass. — Must be a reason."
65 UNIVERSITY DRIVE
Tel. 256-8011
Tel. 253-9051



The Wine Chariot
A TOUCH OF CLASS
Student Special!
Dinner for 2 for $7.95 including half bottle of wine, salad and coffee. Featuring Italian specialties and home made pasta.
Rte 9 Hadley

Martian Craters To Have Ancient Names

BOSTON (AP)-Marine 9 photographs are giving scientists a look at hundreds of Martian features never seen before, and a group of astronomers have just given names to places our descendants may some day visit.

Because they have been the ones doing the naming-astronomers' names were attached to most of the 150 craters mapped last month at the conference of the International Astronomical Union in Sydney Australia.

But in an effort to modify this tradition, established with the naming of hundreds of lunar features, Prof. Carl Sagan of Cornell University came up with an entirely new type of name.

Ten of the 11 "canals" photographed on the planet have been given the name for Mars in different ancient languages.

Their new names are the names given to the red planet by the earliest earth-bound observers.

The two most ancient civilizarions to have words for Mars were the Sumerians, who called it Simud, and the Akkadians who called it Shalbatana.

"Personally, I am very pleased," says Thorkild Jacobsen, professor of Assyriology at Harvard University, who gave Sagan the names, "because I do think that the Sumerians were the first civilized people to do observations in astronomy. It's only right that we should do that for them."

Jacobsen said that, at a guess, Simud means "the red ray." He says no one knows the literal meaning of Shalbatana, but that it may mean "the one who keeps the mass death going," similar to the Greek Area now the name for another channel and the Latin Mars both names for the god of war.

Anyway, says Jacobsen, all the names given up to now are "bearingly conservative."

Other channels are named Nirgal, from the Babylonians; Al-Qahira in Old Arabic; Ma'Adim in Hebrew; Mangala in Sanskirt; Huo Hsing in Chinese; Kasei in Japanese, and Auqakuh in the Inca language of Quechua.

The 11th channel, a 3,000 mile-long "rift valley" unlike the others, is now named Vallis Marineris, for Mariner 9 itself.

"We've almost run out of astronomiers, and there are an enormous number of other planet features to be named." Sagan says. "It's such a big solar system."

Other space probes are on their way to Venus, Mercury and Jupiter; and, Sagan says, "that's just for openers."

Thieu Walks Out On Vietnam Talks

PARIS (AP) — The political talks between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong were indefinitely suspended Thursday after Viet Cong State Minister Nguyen Van Thieu walked out of the 28th session without waiting for the other side to speak.

Thieu said his walkout marked a protest against what he termed Saigon's "continuous and flagrant violation" of the cease-fire signed in Paris more than eight months ago.

South Vietnamese Deputy Premier Nguyen Luu Vien said the walkout displayed "a discourteous and insolent attitude unacceptable among well-educated people and unacceptable and intolerable among negotiaters seeking a peaceful solution."

Thieu stressed that he was only walking out of the 28th session, and demanded that the stalled conference should continue October 11 as though nothing had happened.

Vien angrily rejected the date set by Thieu and told newsmen the talks would resume only when the two sides had reached agreement on a date. Conference sources said nonetheless they expected the two delegations to resume their talks before the end of the month, particularly in view of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's forthcoming visit to Peking.

The talks were arranged between Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho during their talks here last winter and were explicitly required under the January 28 cease-fire. The agreement called on the rival South Vietnamese regimes to "hold consultations in a spirit of national reconciliation and concord" to agree on South Vietnam's political future.

The talks soon settled into a weekly routine of mutual accusation and abuse, and thus far have made no progress whatever toward agreement on the proposed national reconciliation council which is to organize South Vietnamese elections.

ENGLISH ED SELECTION

The English Education Committee is beginning the selection process for student teachers. If you are interested in student teaching Spring 1974, please stop by Bartlett 474 now.

Guess Who's Coming To "Last Supper"?

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

FLORENCE, Italy (AP)-Pietro Annigoni, painter of queens, presidents and popes will have a mystery guest for dinner in the massive "Last Supper" he is painting on the wall of an 18th century Italian church.

"Judas will be recognizable as one of my enemies," said the maestro with a smile of silken malice. "I am reviving the Renaissance custom of putting your friends in heaven and your foes in hell."

Will Judas be a prominent world figure?

"No, I am not a political person," replied the Florentine master who attained world prominence in 1955 with his controversial portrait of a windswept Queen Elizabeth II wrapped in the robes of the Order of the Garter. "Let us just say one of the art entourage."

A critic perhaps?

Annigoni's smile lit up. "Wait and see, wait and see."

He avoided further identification of the Judas model and fairly danced across the floor of his Florence studio to show a cardboard mockup of the fresco that will cover more than 100 square yards on the curved wall behind the main altar in the little church at Ponte Obuggianese in northern Italy.

"The scene," he said, "will be the classical one when Christ announces that one of the twelve is about to betray him. It is difficult following in the path of the great masters, especially Da Vinci, and, of course, Christ will be a problem."

Annigoni took time out from the church project to do profiles of Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips for silver medallions commemorating their wedding next month.

He has done portraits of Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, Pope John XXIII, the shah and empress of Iran, Princess Margaret, the Duke of Edinburgh, the Duchess of Kent, the maharanee of Jaipur and, in 1970, another portrait of Elizabeth II.

"I thought she looked sadder than when I painted her 15 years before," he recalled. "Something had changed. She seemed no longer surrounded by the great devotion that had attended her as a young queen."

For the first and more famous portrait, done for the Fishmongers Company, the queen sat for 16 sittings of an hour or more. "She was a difficult subject. She had trouble keeping the feeling of the pose."

President Kennedy was even more difficult, Annigoni said. The artist painted him in the Oval Office at the White House "and people kept running in and out with affairs of state and what not."

Pope John was "very ill and a bit irascible. It was just a few months before he died."

Does a modern artist find it cause for an inferiority complex, working in the city of Michelangelo, Giotto, Da Vinci, Botticelli and other great masters?

HAWAII - $299
1 week, incl. everything but food.
Leslie Halfond
546-6861

Fine Instruments at Reasonable Prices Repairs and Resorations
The Guitar Workshop
Complete Selection of Scores and Sheet Music
Specializing in Handmade Guitars and Vintage Instruments
AMHERST CARRIAGE SHOPS
OPEN 9:30-6:00, Mon.-Sat.
549-1728

Housing Legislation Topic On WMUA Monday

Monday at 10 p.m., WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1FM) will broadcast a discussion on current housing conditions in the U.S. and proposed national housing legislation.

The program is being presented as a special feature of "Focus," WMUA's weekly public affairs series moderated by Kenneth Mosakowski.

Mosakowski's special guest for the live, 60-minute forum will be George Scheurer of Amherst, who works for the Federally-funded Experimental Housing Allowance Program (EHAP) in Springfield. Scheurer is presently setting up an agenda for a national conference on housing legislation which will take place in Tulsa, Oklahoma, this November.

Interested listeners are invited to call in questions during the live broadcast.

Center for Jewish Studies at U.Mass.
Course Listings at Hillel (302 S.U.)
Accredited courses must be registered under Judaic Studies 385.

KUNG FU ACADEMY

now opening for new enrollment in WING CHUN STYLE
and
TAI CHI STYLE
The only Kung Fu school in Western New England Area
Master in Charge A. Chan
CALL 549-6223 after 4:00 p.m.

Student Activities Policy Council

Any student involved in any of the following: on campus publications, campus service organizations, campus cultural organizations, social action and political organizations, academic organizations, off campus service organizations, concert committee, other special interest groups, or residence halls — you are needed on the STUDENT ACTIVITIES POLICY COUNCIL. All interested persons should apply by October 10 by submitting a brief resume of their activities and a statement as to why you wish to be considered for this appointment to the STUDENT SENATE OFFICE, 420 S.U. Any questions: Contact David Booker, 5-0341.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Steve Feld
NIGHT STAFF	Joanne Dominicki, Susan Waiconan
EDITORIAL	Jerry Lazar
SPORTS	John Bock
DARKROOM	Emmett Schmarsow, Joe Martins, Harry Charych, Kevin Mack, Michael Rosenfield
AD LAYOUT	Deena Strauss

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

The World Must Know

By MARCUS EIBEL

Due to the lies and half-truths printed daily in bourgeois presses many of the world's most oppressed peoples remain hidden from view. We know of Vietnams, Cambodias, but we know nothing of the tiny Kingdom of Inner Albania.

For years, the oppressed peoples of Inner Albania have fought a valiant struggle against the agents of capitalism and monopolistic imperalism in the form of their reactionary, decadent and fascistic King Ramses II. The justified struggles of Inner Albanian freedom fighters have been thwarted by murder, torture, and repressive actions by C.I.A. agents serving on behalf of the king, and monopolistic Capitalist interests. Agents of I.T.T. and A.T. & T. have been seen in the capital of Adrakam daily in the process of committing adventurous and exploitive activities.

The leader of the IAFFO, the Inner Albania Freedom Fighters Organization, Chairman Otto Igreck, has fought a valiant struggle in the face of overwhelming odds. Scores of peace-loving citizens are carted off daily to be incarcerated in the dungeons of Ibn Abat Prison outside of the capital, and never seen again. The just struggles of the people of Inner Albania must not go unnoticed. All of the great powers refuse to help the poor, and oppressed peoples of Inner Albania. But the just cries of the oppressed, exploited peace-loving citizens of Inner Albania, must not go unheeded. THE WORLD MUST KNOW!

Marcus Eibel is a Collegian Commentator.

Letters To The Editor must be submitted by 5:00 p.m.

UMIES
by McGilvray
HERBIE!
CRAZY OTTO!
WHAT ARE YOU DOING BACK HERE?
WELP, I FIGGERED EVEN THIS IS BETTER THEN WORKIN.
GRATEFUL DEAD
WELP, THIS SUMMER, ME AN' POTATOHEAD WENT CROSS COUNTRY IN HIS VAN, MAN. GOT DESTROYED AT WATKINS GLEN! SAW THE DEAD AND ALLMAN BROS. IN D.C., TOO! DID SOME ACID IN DISNEY WORLD AND SAW GOD AT THE GRAND CANYON!
WHAT HAVE YOU BEEN DOING?
WANT TO GET STONED?
DO A BEAR SHIT IN THE WOODS?
TO BE CONT.

Gary Gomes

And So It Go(m)es

HERRPART I: So This is the Way the Gomes Ends?

This, ladies and gentlemen, is the last thing I'm going to write for the Collegian for quite a fewmonths. Why? Glad you asked, if you were asking. . .

I am in no mood to write for a suburban gig, which is what the Collegian is, unfortunately I might add, turning into no one individual's fault, understand now. It's just the way that things are developing at such a clip that I can't make heads or tails out of this operation. I can point to some things that I have written over the past two years with a great deal of pride, sort of as a pathmaker for the newspaper, but some of the other things I've come up with have not been followed up on, a fact which saddens me.

So, someone asks me, if your work is not done, why are you giving up? Isn't that the cheap way out?

Maybe. I don't know. The only thing that I'm struck with is that I've gotten little if any written feedback on what I've written, probably due to people either deliberately or unconsciously, negatively or positively, misunderstanding what I write. (I do not write "Stream of Consciousness".)

I wrote about UMass, and I needn't say to anyone that I apologize for my style of writing. I like it, and I've written in about five other idioms on the Collegian.. . .and written a lot.

EAREND PT. ZWEI (2): Dedicated To You But You Weren't Listening

One thing that a lot of people don't (or didn't) realize about my writing was that I was approaching the entire thing from a musician's ear (some might argue about my musicality, but I'm not prepared to deal with that hear) . . .and I WANTED TO MAKE MY INK SING.

After I wrote a few articles this year, I realized I was right in the middle of the proverbial slump. . .and that I had begun repeating myself, particularly in the editorials, and I got no desire to stagnate just so I can see my name in WHITE OVER BLACK once a week. This one doesn't think it's worth it to gratify an unknown like the ego at the cost of space. Also, and probably more important, is the fact that I want to MAKE SOUNDS, rather than just report on them. I want to get back to my lovely little ACE TONE electronic organ and see how far into the abyss I can move it. Consequently, a ceasage of writing in Poor Richard's (the best I'll do is a sporadic encounter) will ensue. I shall not repeat and repeat to deaf ears. Overgeneralization? Yes, it is. . .but I don't think it's unfair.

All that I've been aiming at over the past year is a general FREEDOM OF FORM (that is, it relates fact, but the vehicle is not obstructed by "prettiness" or a moral "ass"thetics). It should be indicated by a willingness to reach the community of UMass, through the means at hand, and ask that guy down in Southwest and that woman up on Orchard Hill what they're thinking, and let them contribute.

TO ALL OF YOU: THIS IS YOUR NEWSPAPER, GODAMMIT! TREAT IT AS SUCH! The doors were broken down a looonng time ago, and it's up to you to utilize them for your sake and for the sake of your peers. With that final message from the retreating organgrinder, I bid you all well. Don't disappoint yourselves, okay?

And on that note (G sharp, I believe it was), I ask you to WAKE UP, and believe it or not, I STILL WISH YOU REALIZATION.

Gary Gomes is a Collegian columnist.

Bob Estelle

N.Y. Baseball-1973

New York is a crazy town. Remember that when you read the following:

The date is April 4, 1973. The favorite to win the American League East is the New York Yankees. The "experts" said that the arrival of Graig Nettles and Matty Alou would make the Yankees champs. The "experts" also said that the New York Mets had an outside chance but the only reason being that Pittsburgh Pirate star Roberto Clemente had been killed in a plane accident. No hitting, they said, was the reason.

The date is May, 1973. The Yankees start to pick up momentum and go into first place. The Mets are in second place and all kinds of strange injuries start to happen. Pitcher Jon Matlack gets a cracked skull from a line drive, Buddy Harrelson breaks his wrist and so does Jerry Grote. And the Mets go down into the doldrums.

The date is June 1973. The Yankees are rolling along at a pace of ten games over .500. The Mets are now in sixth place. The injuries hitting deficiencies, et al are too much. The bad rap is blamed on Yogi Berra for the lack of hitting and on Bob Scheffing for trading away Nolan Ryan, Ken Singleton and Amos Otis, all having good seasons. But the Mets' MVP is a man whom Scheffing traded for-Felix Millan. The trading away of Otis was bad and the same for Ryan. But there was no way anyone could tell that Rusty Staub would hurt his wrists. Yet the New York Post asked who should be fired: Berra, Scheffing or both?

The date is July, 1973. Same thing.

The date is August, 1973. The Yankees start sliding. They get no pitching and no defense. The Mets stay the same.

The date is September, 1973. The Mets are climbing out of the doldrums. The Yankees concede defeat by shipping Matty Alou and brother Felipe to the Cardinals and Expos, respectively, hoping that one of those teams will kill the Mets' chances. It doesn't happen.

Cincinnati finishes with the best record in baseball. Baltimore gets the second best. But the Dodgers get the third best and don't make the playoffs because of Cincinnati (You shouldda stayed in Brooklyn, Walter!).

The Reds, Orioles and A's win their divisions with a couple of weeks left. Now you have the wild NL East that is a repeat of last year's AL East, only worse. Eight major league teams finish with better records. But only three of those teams make the playoffs. The NL East is a mockery.

Now we have tha Amazin' Mets who won their division and go to Cincinnati to face the Reds tomorrow. You have to give them credit. They came back in their own amazin' way to do it. Amazin', amazin', amazin', amazin'. . .

The moral of this story is contained in the words of "You Gotta Have Heart".

..Bob Estelle is a Collegian Columnist.

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed, and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

Letters To The Editor

Unfair, Unworkable And Absurd

Dear Chancellor Bromery:

You are, undoubtedly, as heartily "sick" of the present parking situation as any of us; however, since you bear the primary responsibility for it, I felt you should be kept informed of all current developments. Without going into the many reasons why the system is unfair, unworkable, and absurd, I would like to tell you what happened to me.

On August 7th, the day I received the computer form, I returned the form with three lot choices together with my check. I don't know exactly what day it was received by the Parking Office, but on August 17th, they cashed my check. Last week, when I still had received no stickers, I inquired at the Parking Office and was told not to worry and the stickers had been mailed. Yesterday, (October 1st) I went in again to check. This time I was told that unfortunately I had not gotten any of my choices and that I would now be sent a refund and could begin the selection process again. The girl informed me that on the very first day of accepting lot requests, the lots I had asked for had been filled.

Why, I ask you, was my check cashed a week later when it was already known that I could not have the lots I had asked for?

Why was I not informed then so that I could make another choice while half-decent lots were still available?

Why is the office waiting until the last minute to inform people that they were not assigned lots?

Why did they give me incorrect information last week?

What will you do to compensate me for your system's foul up?

This is not only an inconvenience, it is a real handicap to my pursuit of an education at the University of Massachusetts. Because I can't afford the Amherst rents, I commute from home - a round trip of 60 miles a day. What's more, I have two 8 a.m. classes a week. Would you like to bet on the odds that I will ever make those classes on time? Even if I leave my house at 6:30 a.m., I still can't be sure of arriving in time to catch a bus from the stadium lot. Of course, I suppose there is the possibility of getting a core lot, but I can't afford the $50.

I hold you personally responsible for this whole mess, and I would appreciate answers from you to the questions that I have asked.

Jean L. Kaczmarczyk

Freedom For Men

To The Editor:

It is my opinion that all women belong in the kitchen; but why? First of all, women are sexist objects and should be treated as such. After all a women is nothing but a good fuck. They are inferior and as such the only need for them is to take care of man's home. Any good man will tell you, even the pussy-whipped ones will tell you, the only need they see in a women is to take care of their home and sex, and if you don't have a home then all you need is sex. You never see men prostitutes.

Secondly, women just go to college to look for a man and because of this they screw up men. Looking back into American History, you all remember that from high school, Delilah fucked up Samson's head, she's the typical scum that has come under the general heading of women.

In conclusion I feel that the MDC has printed many letters on this subject. I feel that this is the letter to end all letters on this controversial subject....freedom for men, right on Tim Walbridge.

Doug Chabinsky

What's The Big Deal About Chile?

To The Editor:

Please be objective. Because of the events that have recently occured in Chile, much has been said about the "dirty and fascist" defense of the democracy employed in the developing countries. Even more condemnation has been brought down upon the role of U.S. Imperialism in these matters. I would like to ask your unbiased response to two questions.

Firstly, it appears to me that by arguing about the number of dead, atrocities, executions and refugees in Chile we are looking at only one side of the question. Why is it that we do not burn with similar intensity and vocalize our sentiments with equal candour over the Soviet takeover of Praha in 1968? Or Budapest in 1956? Or have we forgotten the Berlin Wall so soon? And what of the deportation of the intellectuals, writers and artists to Siberia? I have no wish to defend the highly unpopular brand of capitalism that we suffer under here in the United States but we must also look at the alternatives as they exist now. Why is it that so many want to escape from the modern "socialist democracies"? Imperialism and human avarice knows no political boundaries or idealogical differneces. I was in Praha immediately before the Russian invasion of that city and the people that I talked to could see no difference between the impending Soviet takeover and the Nazi invasion of the Second World War.

My second point is that although I agree that the disparity between the poverty of the third world nations and the prosperity of the developed countries is our most shocking calumny I do not believe that the solution lies in total revolution. It is very easy to get excited in a public meeting about the injustices in Chile and cheer the socialist leaders on as they get into their cars and drive down the road consuming their allotment of gasoline. These guys have about as much "proliteriat work ethic" as Andy Capp. They are the ones that are telling you what to do! We must be careful not to substitute one form of mass avarice for another, more violent, genre.

Eric Drouart & Russel Keziere

What About...?

To The Editor:

If Mr. Goulding will look at the entire situation, how could a country that is at war have any other attitude?

Look at the attitude of the government of Syria. When two Israeli reconnaissance planes "we're on a routine sea patrol to see what was going on in the area", at least 8 Syrian Mig jets were sent up to destroy the two Israeli planes. I'm going to give Syria the benefit of the doubt, because the Israelis claim 13 Syrian jets were shot down. No matter how you look at it the Syrians sent up at least 4 to 6 times as many jets.

Who runs and what are the attitudes of the Syrian government?

In Mr. Goulding's case of the shooting down of an unarmed passenger jet, I can say nothing. But, I ask you to remember that after having athletes kidnapped and murdered, after the wholesale slaughter in an international airport and after having an Ambassador killed, one is prone to overact.

What about our Ambassadors who were killed? What about the Pan American 707 jet the Palestinians blew up in 1970? Who will pay the 24,258,759 dollars? Who will pay for all the American companies that have stolen or nationalized? May I also make a comment about the odds against Israel.

Syria and Egypt we already know about. Lets look at the meeting between King Hussein of Jordan and Sadat of Egypt in Cairo. They were once again talking about unity, if their wishes come true the odds will be 3 to 1.

What about King Faisal of Saudi Arabia? With all the pressure on him from the other Arabs, I would say the Israelis better keep more than an eye on them. If the worst happens the odds will then be up to 4 to 1.

Then what about American oil companies. They may be able to afford the loss but they are still American.

Let's talk about the Russians. You know, of course, Dan that the boys in red are picking up the tab, for not one but four countries. How can they pay so much when their economy is so bad?

What about those SAM Missiles in Egypt?

As for that remark about South Africa, how the hell can you compare a country that is at war with one that's not. The rules do not apply in these cases. As for your choice of words, what may be security to one may just be plain "self preservation" to another.

Could you please answer my question as soon as possible?

Dan Kibe

Dialogue, Not Monologue

To The Editor:

I was saddened to read Mr. A. Alle's letter of September 28 "Persecuted Minorities Not Terrorists". It contained numerous exaggerations and distortions of historical events and outright falsifications (eg. that Israel has built concentration camps in the Sinai). I cannot honor such statements with answers. It saddened me to see the anger and hatred contained in such writing. I am not sure of Mr. Alle's purpose in writing his letter, but it certainly could not have been a peaceful one. Therefore, I have decided that it is best not to add fuel to the fires of hostility which have been burning both Jew and Arab.

Let us reflect on the goals that we share. We are both for national self determination for all peoples. We are both for human and civil rights for all peoples. We are both against the use of force by either side. We are both for a peaceful and just solution to the middle-east conflict.

I am not an Israeli but I have lived in Israel. I am a Jew. I understand and sympathize with the aspirations of the Palestinian nation. So do many Israelis and many Jews. We want the Arab people to understand that we also regard the land as our homeland. Many believe, as I do, that there is room there for both peoples to live out their national existence harmoniously and creatively.

So instead of talking at each other let us begin to talk to one another and to listen to one another. Let us join together and creatively seek peace. Let us build on our common goals and help advance the cause of peace.

Let us put an end to monologue and attempt to enter into dialogue. If not now, when?

Rabbi Aryeh Meir
director of Hillel

You Can't Win 'Em All

To The Editor:

After reading the two editorials in yesterday's Collegian (Thurs., Oct. 4), I have mixed emotions about the contents of each of the editorials.

On the one hand, Matt Tackeff's editorial was a very clear-headed analysis of the true consequences of "detente" with the Communist nations. Tackeff's ability to delve behind the rhetoric of liberalism makes his editorials a pleasure to read.

On the other hand, Steve Anderson's trashy editorial, "Father, Son and Lucky Host" insults the intellect of the reader. His sickly attempts at humor consist of mocking those things which Christians and Jews hold sacred. Unfortunately Mr. Anderson seemingly can't come up with a humorous column with out degenerating into slurs of one kind or another.

In the future, let's hope for more editorials of Tackeff's caliber and less non-sensical garbage.

Robert E. Kelly

Going To Bed Hungry

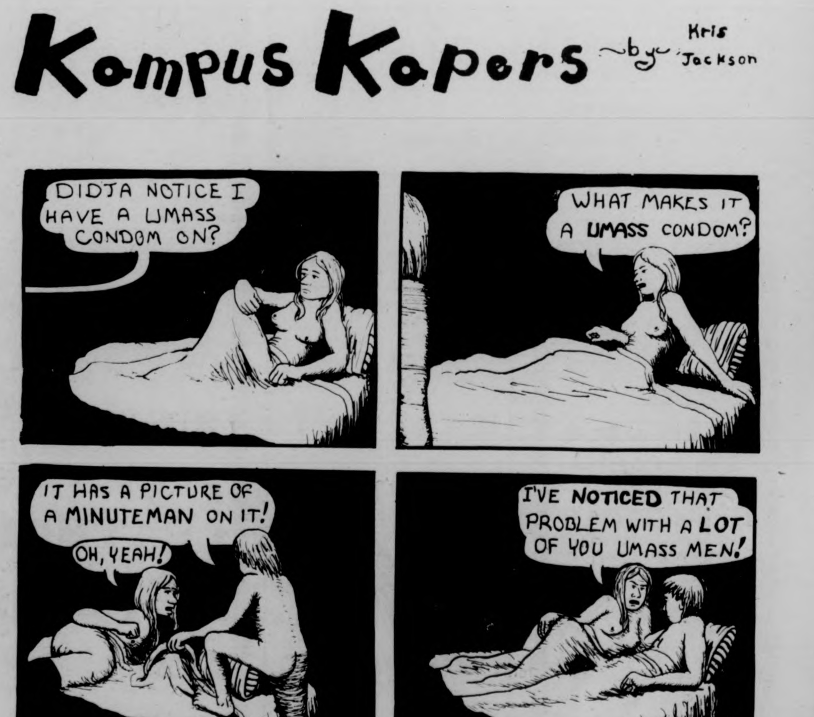
To The Editor:

We've all suffered under the University policy of mandatory meal tickets. Even last year, when three meal choices and unlimited seconds were offered, howls of disgust were constantly raised over the quality of the food. But this year, my God, this year's food service makes last year's seem like a dream.

Today I waited to be served for five minutes, while a student argued with some D.C. ladies over how much seconds he was entitled to for 15¢ in meal stubs. He claimed two hotdogs with buns, one lady said one hotdog with bun, and another lady said it was 15¢ for the hotdog and 15¢ for the bun. (There is one good effect of the new policy, though. It creates more jobs, because now it takes two people to rip the ticket out of the book and collect it, while formerly only one person was provided for this difficult task.)

Well, I guess what I'm complaining about is that for the price I used to pay for ten filling meals per week, I now go to bed hungry. The best solution that I can see is that, this being a state school, let's get some state help. Write your state senator or rep and let him know of the situation here.

David Devault



Kampus Kapers ~by~ Kris Jackson
DIDJA NOTICE I HAVE A UMASS CONDOM ON?
WHAT MAKES IT A UMASS CONDOM?
IT HAS A PICTURE OF A MINUTEMAN ON IT!
OH, YEAH!
I'VE NOTICED THAT PROBLEM WITH A LOT OF YOU UMASS MEN!

More Letters To The Editor

Timothy P. Walbridge Responds

To The Editor:

Without trying to initiate some sort of drawn out Collegian debate which would only result in repetition and boredom, I would like to submit another article which responds to those people who, on 3 Oct. 73, wrote in answer to my letter to the editor.

1) "Closet Case Joe". Sorry Charlie.

2) Stephanie H. Aronson. Apparently I should have written an article about myself. With such a personal, point blank attack, I should've given you more to work with than a half dozen paragraphs, centered around only one aspect. Your line, "did some sweet young thing, a mere female hurt your big male ego," is not exactly the most original analysis of my attitude that I've ever heard. It seems some women, yourself possibly among them, feel that any man who seems to be somewhat wary and bitter towards women must be suffering some deep inner trauma from a broken love affair. Rather in depth analysis based on so little. What good would the kick in the ass do. Please don't say anything so original as "give you a headache."

3) Susan Rheaume. Anytime someone writes an article or says something as obviously directed as what I said, his or hers worst trap is generalization. By definition, there are exceptions. Whether you happen to be one of these exceptions or not, there is no way I could possibly know from a few paragraphs. For what it's worth (pardon me while I set myself up), I do not consider myself a blatant sexist. I am however, if you will excuse the subjectivity of my analysis, extremely straight forward to the point of being blatant. Sometimes you have to scream "murder!" to keep someone from being "merely" beaten-up. Point of agreement, "most of the gripes you have must be resolved on an individual level."

4) Cynthia M. Jacques. If the nuturing of dating and other male-female rituals has been perpetrated equally by males, which I unfortunately know for a fact it has, who then is responsible for the confusion and "separationists ideology" concerning the understanding of what you call the core of the real Feminist Movement. My name was on that article, but I know a lot of men, not claiming a majority but significance, that feel women's lib. is absurd. If it is a case of misunderstanding, where is the explanation? If I'm simply too ignorant to see it, that still doesn't give me or a lot of other males anything to relate to. When you have a dozen dissimilar negative reenforcements, it's a little tricky to just say, "well it's a stage the movement's going through." I'd be glad to work with you or anyone who's fed up with the bull. But a person needs to know what everyone else is working for before he can orientate himself in a movement.

5) Laura M. Simeone. By passing your first two paragraphs centered around instant analysis of my sexual orientation and fears, I would like to ask some questions concerning your apparent view of women's liberation. If feminists are trying, not to take away men's self-respect, but to teach other women to develop respect for themselves "which has so long been denied them," how are they going about this process? If female self-opinion is to change, the change cannot be isolated, so what else is affected? Certainly a woman's relationship with a man must alter in the process. But to what extent and how. If I or any man has a distorted idea of what self-respect and respect for others is, whose going to let us know about it and how? If women have been made, through society, to feel like cheap commodities, what has man been made to feel like? The sucker maybe. Sarcasm is not my purpose, I'm asking questions and I have one more. Who decides what the "positive implications for all people" are? Women? Maybe what we need is a Peoples Liberation movement based on doctrines and beliefs from men and women.

Timothy P. Walbridge

Midnight Rumblers

To all Residents of the Sylvan Residence Area:

As a recently transferred and transplanted student to this college, I observe numerable and varying phenomena each and everyday. Many of these observations are worthwhile, a part of "the learning process" I wished to pursue here at the University.

One thing, though, I cannot understand. I suppose Midnight Rowdiness will be a perpetual ritual, but tell me please, why?

Is it too much to ask of an individual to be considerate and respectful towards another person? Since when, I would like to know? Not everyone has their first class at 1:25 and can afford to listen to "fuck you", etc., from 12:00 to 3:00 a.m. There is no need of this. Sexual frustrations, anxieties, the blues, whatever the reason, can be vented in a healthier way than disturbing the peace of mind of a neighbor in Cashin or McNamara who may have had an exhausting day and require a good night's sleep.

Incidentally, to all you Cashinites and McNamarians (I am a McNamara resident) did it ever occur to you that you might have better control over yourselves if you caught a decent night's sleep?

I am sick of hearing, for instance, "WHAT'S THE COLOR OF SHIT?" To which is replied, "BROWN". (As in Brown Residence)

F Troop! Cut it out. Come on, Bugle Boy, no one rises that early. We know you are a clown. If your productivity in life consists of nothing but playing bugles at 1 a.m. then you'd be much better off if you relocated in Buglevania, where all bugle players sound the Reveille at 1 a.m. You're just not getting the appreciation that would be awarded you there.

By the way, this seems to be mostly a men's game. What I mean is, the voices I hear loudly screeching to be the loudest are 20-1 with the men leading. Excuse me, the word "men" is very misleading. These are little boys. They cannot fit any definition I have for a truly whole man (or woman for that matter). Please, boys, stop playing your little games. You may not be bothered by your actions, but others are. This world would be a better place if we all stepped back and thought exactly what effect we are producing on our environment. This has been voiced many times, but it is true. Please be more considerate after 12:00 a.m.

(I was awakened at 1:00, and decided to write this.)

Debra Klein

Burgers Without Lettuce

To The Editor:

To those bunch of S(ch) nooks who had the rocks to criticize the Student Senate in general and Nick Aposotola in particular: Go take a flying fuck at the rolling donut.

Although I've never followed the Student Senate, I took particular interest in their action to ban lettuce from the Dining Commons because I feel a bit of compassion for people that earn about 1800 dollars a year and whose average life expectancy is 49 years.

It's obvious to me that you bourgeois pigs don't give a shit how other people are forced to live and that an important priority in your lives is that your hamburgers always have lettuce. What aspirations!

Since without lettuce, your lives would amount to little more than the flash of Cosmic Diarrhea, you might try soaking this page in water and using as a substitute (you poor suffering slobs), or better yet, try wet toilet paper.

Michael Ugolini

top of the campus restaurant
featuring Greg Bullen
from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday
seating for cocktails - 9:30 p.m.
FINE FOOD IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RELAXED DINING.
ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAYS AND SATURDAYS
BEST VIEW OF AMHERST.
DISCOUNTS FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR GUESTS
PHONE 549-6000 FOR RESERVATIONS.

DOWNSTAIRS in our Women's Department
Pants by HAPPY LEGS
NEW DIGS
LANDLUBBER MS
Tops by MATCH II
Bago
San Francisco
Shirt Works
UPSTAIRS
JEANS by LEVI
LEE LANDLUBBER
WEAR-HOUSE
201 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
Open Thurs. & Fri. till 9

$2.00
Discount on Any pair of $4.99
& up moccasins in stock with this ad.
25 different styles
3,000 prs. in stock
The Moc
Shoppe
AMHERST
CARRIAGE SHOPS
Good through Oct. 6

Famous for having the CHEAPEST in NEW & USED clothes
OLD WEIRD HAROLD'S
NEW & USED CLOTHING
Rt. 9, Hadley
NEW Male Jeans
only $5.00
Get ready for the cold with super-warm
Snorkel Parkas only $20.00
USED
all kinds
FUR
COATS & JACKETS
$15.00 - $40.00
LEATHER & SUEDE JACKETS
as well as
CORDUROY & DENIM JACKETS and PANTS
along with the usual — flannel shirts, pea coats, vests,
reindeer sweaters, etc.

Peace Studies: A New Kind Of Course

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer

For an increasing number of college students the study of peace has replaced the protest of war.

Today, 50 colleges and universities across the country offer major or minor programs in peace studies. Five years ago, at the height of the anti-war movement, only one school offered such courses.

At the University of Pennsylvania, students can obtain a doctorate in peace science. A year ago Colgate University established the first professorship of peace.

This fall, 300 campuses are using peace studies material, according to the Institute for World Order in New York City. Spokesmen said the institute receives some 250 inquiries per month from junior and senior high schools, which are also establishing courses of study.

"Our problem and excitement is that interest is growing so rapidly. It's been happening since about 1970," said Franklin Wallin, institute president.

Proponents of such studies don't discount the power of protest. They point to the Vietnam war and public opinion's role in the American withdrawal. But they are hopeful that the peace education movement will go beyond Vietnam.

The growing interest in peace studies stems in part form frustration of some who participated in the protests of the 1960s.

Joe Fahey, acting director of Manhattan College's Peace Studies Institute, said of protest in the 1960s:

"I realized that the problem of war was much deeper than the Vietnam war and protests were not enough to stop it. We decided to make peace our career."

Others see peace studies as part of a growing worldwide concern, building over the past few decades.

"These peace studies programs are part of a global, political and social movement. The bright, moral, pragmatic minds are coalescing. We may be at a moment in history where it's possible to abolish war," said Saul Mendlovitz, director of the World Order Models Project, an effort by teams of researchers around the globe to find better ways to live.

How does one study peace?

Courses vary greatly in subject matter, but most start with the promise that war is not inevitable, practical solutions can and must be found.

"The nature of the liberal arts program has been that war is an acceptible means of conflict resolution. It's become a predominant myth in society," said Chuck Appel, a 20-year-old senior at Manhattan College. "But you've got to teach that nonviolent resolution is the best way to solve problems."

The peace science approach is also interdisciplinary. One course may include math, history, government and psychology - in a rounded technique of problem-solving.

"In the past, sociology, economics, each had its own piecemeal approach. We felt the problem of world conflict requires a full attack," said Walter Isard, chairman of the peace science department at the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Professors also stress that courses take a rigorous, unemotional look at world problems, and that facts and understanding - not rhetoric - are their tools.

Courses range from the University of Colorado's "Sociological Analysis of Revolution" to Harvard College's "History and Theory of Non-Violence."

Lalit Aggarwal, 29, the first candidate for a doctorate in peace science at Penn, is trying to develop a universally applicable framework for solving conflicts at all levels, urban to international.

As an architect and city planner, he felt solutions to urban disputes very inadequate.

"But it's not enough to just say, 'I don't like it.' One should be able to suggest a possible alternative. The program has helped me put my ideas in a more rigorous, precise form," said Aggarwal, who plans to work with an international agency when he completes his degree.

At Manhattan College some 17 courses with an emphasis on peace are offered in various departments. About 40 majors study such subjects as "War and Violence in Western Literature" and "Biology of Human Behavior."

The program is flourishing now on a campus with a strong ROTC contingent - and some radicals who grumbled when the peace major was established.

Students To Be Picked For Fellowships

The University has been invited to nominate four seniors and one recent graduate for the Danforth Graduate Fellowsips to be awarded in March, 1974, according to Prof. James W. Shaw, Associate Dean, College of Arts & Sciences, 210 South College, the Liaison Officer for the Foundation on this campus.

The Fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Missouri, are open to men and women of any race, creed, or citizenship who have a serious interest in teaching and-or administration in colleges or universities as a career, and who plan to study for a Ph.D. in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applicants may be single or married, must be less than 35 years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate.

Approximately 100 Fellowships will be awarded. The University of Massachusettts has had two fellowships awarded in recent years (Dan Brown '71 and Melissa Smith '73) and one honorable mention (Leonard Grzanka '72). Candidates must be nominated by Liaison Officers of their undergraduate institutions. The Foundation does not accept direct applications for the Fellowships. Interested students are urged to consult Dean Shaw immediately.

All applicants for these Fellowships must take the Graduate Record Examination. October 9 is the last date on which the Educational Testing Service will accept applications with a $3.50 penalty fee for the October 27 examination, and November 13 is the final date to register for the December 8 exam.

Danforth Graduate Fellows are eligible for four years of financial assistance with a maximum annual living stipend of $2,025 for single Fellows and $2,200 for married Fellows, plus tuition and fees. Dependency allowances are available. Financial need is not a condition for consideration.

AMHERST OPTICAL
Sunsensor Lenses
Polish Contact Lenses
SUNSENSOR™ Light lenses. It's a comfort glass.
sunSensor™
SUNSENSOR™ Dark Lenses. It's a sunglass.
195 NORTH PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST, MASS.
256-6403
170 UNIVERSITY DRIVE
AMHERST, MASS.
253-5412

CAMBRIDGE
TEA AND SPICE
next to the Pub in Amherst
10-5:30 mon.-sat.
Everything
50% off except bulk food

MDC
Classifieds
Sell

NO DOUBT
IT'S 'THE GIN MILL'
Rte. 181
Bondsville, Ma.
Free Music, beer only a quarter a glass, or $1.75 for 2 half gallon pitchers.
Cable T.V.
On Sat. & Sun. we feature steamed clams - steamed in beer.

EMS
Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.
SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT
CAMPING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT
POST OFFICE BOX 12 AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01002
Tel. (413) 253-5081
Located on Route 9 at the Amherst-Hadley town line
(413) 253-9504
FALL RENTAL EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11-13 ONLY
30-50 per cent off on all rental equipment depending on condition including down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, framepacks, & tents
PRE-SEASON SKI-TOURING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off most models of touring skis, boots, bindings and poles. Brands on sale include EMS Asnes, Bonna, EMS Madshus, Rieber, Falk VM poles, Rottefella and others.
MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off on many models of down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, frame and day packs, down-filled parkas, tents, gloves, mittens and many other items.
Brands on sale include Alpine Designs, North Face, Gerry, EMS, Janus, Camp Trails, Rough Rider, Bergens, etc.
ALL BICYCLE PACKS 20 per cent OFF
Supply limited
Store Hours.. 9-9, Mon.-Fri.
9-5:30, Sat.

(AP Wirephoto)

CAPE ARAGO, Ore.--NO GO--Malcolm Forbes, left, publisher of Forbes Magazine, demonstrates his 95,000 cubic foot hot air balloon for spectators after a strong westward wind forced cancellation of start of a cross-country voyage. Forbes said the flight, which could cost up to $100,000, is a publicity gimmick for his magazine.

Of Interest...

Chess Tournament Offered

The Campus Center Program Council will sponsor an open chess tournament this weekend with at least $500 in cash prizes, plus six trophies. The winner will receive $100, with other awards going to winners in various U.S. Chess Federation rating classes. New (unrated) players can compete for the $50 prize for Top Unrated.

All players must belong to the U.S. Chess Federation ($8, under 20 $4) and the Massachusetts Chess Association ($2.50, under 18 $1). Each of these memberships includes a magazine subscription and eligibility for other events. Tournament entry fee is $12 in advance, $15 at the door, but those playing in their first rated tournament can get a "package"--$15 to cover entry fee plus all necessary dues.

Registration closes 11:30 a.m. Saturday in Campus Center Room 809. Everyone will play six games (no knockouts); rounds start at noon and 6:00 p.m. Saturday, 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, and 9:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. Monday (Columbus Day). Players are asked to bring chess sets if possible. For full information and advance registration, contact Jim Lane, 104 Hamlin House, 546-9393.

Accounting Conference In Offing

An Accounting and auditing conference focusing on current problems and new developments will be held at the UMass Campus Center Nov. 2 and 3, the Division of Continuing Education has announced.

Specifically, the conference is designed to bring the accounting practitioner up to date on current developments from the Financial Accounting Standards Board and Auditing Standards Executive Committee.

Sponsors, with the Division of Continuing Education, are the Massachusetts Society of Public Accountants and the accounting department of the UMass School of Business Administration.

Registration is now open; full details are available from the Division of Continuing Education, 920 Campus Center, or the Massachusetts Society of Certified Public Accountants, One Central Plaza, Boston 02108.

Energy Group Formed

An Energy Conservation Committee has been formed to lead a campus-wide effort to conserve electricity, heat and other energy at UMass in Amherst.

The administration-faculty-student committee is led by Kenneth Dean, a staff associate in the Office of Administrative Services. Its goal is to identify and implement short- and long-term steps to conserve all forms of energy on campus, to develop an implementation plan and to set up ways of measuring progress of the plan.

The action is part of a statewide University effort begun by President Robert Wood, who states that the University, as a public institution, "has a responsibility to do all that it can to employ energy conservation measures."

Specializing in pizzas, hot-oven grinders and spaghetti . . .

★ PIZZARAMA ★

355 College St., Amherst (Rte. 9)
253-3808

25c Off any order with this ad

Limit one discount per customer. Expires 10-14

A YOM KIPPUR (DAY OF ATONEMENT) MESSAGE TO THE UMASS. COMMUNITY

"Man was created on the last day of creation so that if he becomes overbearing and haughty, he can be told — even the flea was created before you." (Talmud Sanhedrin 38a)

Yom Kippur is a reminder that responsibility to our fellow man is essential to remaining human. In loving our fellow man we begin to understand the meaning of "You shall love the Lord your God".

Schedule of Services in C.C. Auditorium

Friday, Oct. 5, 6:15 p.m.
Kol Nidre

Saturday, Oct. 6, 9:00 a.m., morning service — Yizkor. 4:30 p.m., closing service, havdalah and break fast.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands! tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688. tf10/19

1971 Capri 1600, grey, 47,000 miles, ex. cond., will discuss price. Call 584-7741 or see at Bak Citgo in Northampton. tf10-5

1971 Honda 350 exc cond., 4700 mi $500 w 2 helmets; 4 ft blacklite with many posters and fluorescent nets $25. Call Dave 256-0302. tf10-5

1973 Suzuki GT250, 1700 mi, excellent cond. $650, 533-5052. tf10-5

Winter coat Sz. 15-16 rust, boot length w/belt, hood. Fur trimmed on hood cuffs bought last season, very reasonable. Call Kathy 5-0344. tf10-5

1965 International Travelall, new brakes, clutch, good rubber, 4 on floor. Must be seen. Call David 549-1528, leave message, price is $550! tf10-10

180 w. stereo complex v good cond. Inc. BSR turntbl. 8-track slide, push cntrs, big 2' spks. 10" woof 5" horn. pd. $350. $270 or best. 1 yr old 6-6023. tf10-5

Typewriter Olympia manual 13" carr. half-space, case, $50. 584-6106 evenings. tf10-5

For sale Martin 12 string guitar. Retails for $500. Best offer over $390.00 takes it. Call 498-2871. tf10-5

VW — Parts, battery under guaranty. Good tires, starter etc. Call 256-6182. 6-7 p.m. tf10-5

Leslie organ speaker and-or Farfisa duo compact organ for sale. Both in fine shape. Call Jane for details, 253-7668. tf10-5

FOR SALE

Couch — $25, good condition; Women's 3 speed 26" Columbia Bicycle 2 yrs. old $25; blow hair dryer $5. Call 549-6647 after 6 p.m. tf10-10

Nikor — 50mm F1. 4 lens new, $75. Sony TC-55 cassette player and recorder inc. AC-DC adapter & batt-charger. New $115. Call 1-567-3511. tf10-5

Kelty backpack and frame, med. $35. Eureka pup tent with rain fly $40. Alto Recorder $10. Call 268-7453 (Williamsburg). tf10-5

Snow tires — two studded — E78x14, excellent condition 253-9862. tf10-5

1970 Ford Cortina, low mileage, air gauges, Am-FM, radials, tach, 108 h.p., $1150, way under book value, wood instr. panel, clock. 407 Puffton, 549-0525. tf10-11

Raleigh 3 speed girls, green, $65. Call 253-7452 after 7 p.m. tf10-9

Two week old tires, 650-13, one pair snows, one regular, reasonable offer accepted. Call 253-7854 anytime. tf10-5

Guinea pigs — angoras (Peruvian) and regular short hairs. Call after 6 p.m., 533-2940. tf10-9

For sale — 1966 MGB, good condition, many new parts and extras, $600.00 or best offer. Call 549-1387. tf10-12

Scuba-Dacor DBL hose, Scubair SGL hose, USD 72 & twn. 50 tanks, speargun & fins; also car cassette player & alum. 6' folding cot. 256-0481. tf10-11

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart. Montague Center. tf10-15

FREE

Free — two dogs, sisters, half Shepherd, half Collie, 8 mos. old. Outdoor dogs, good watch dogs, shots, spayed. Call 536-5253. tf10-5

ROOMMATE WANTED

Mature roommate wanted — share house, 12 mi. from campus. 75/mo. & util. Call Linda, 283-3408. tf10-5

Roommate wanted to share apt. in Sunderland. Own room, $75 per mo., incl. utilities, on bus line. Call Nancy, SaM, or Kim, 665-4176. tf10-11

WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

RIDE WANTED

Ride south wanted — am going to D.C., Maryland area, but any ride in that direction will help. To lv. Oct. 4 or 5. Bruce, 6-8615. tf10-5

Ride to Belchertown State School or B-town from UMass, Weds. & Fri. Must be there by 1 p.m., will pay. Call Ginny, 549-4492 evenings. tf10-9

FREE APARTMENT

Free furnished room in beautiful location in return for sharing light housekeeping & child sitting. Call Cathy Adams at 549-6421 or 545-0519. tf10-9

LOST

Lost my fly fishing reel Sun. night, not worth much; only to me. Please return to Mark or Tom in 403 Hamlin or Lost & Found. Sm. reward. tf10-5

Lost on 10-2 near WOPE, 1 pr. black mtl. rimmed eyeglasses. Return to Noella Corriveou, 314 Butterfield, 545-2418. tf10-9

Commuter couple needs room to sleep Wed. & Thurs. Contact David Letters at Collegian Office. tf10-5

1 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton, 584-3428. tf10-12

INSTRUCTION

Energy crisis — 1 cr. mini-course, no pre-req., physics 190 C., M-W-F, 11:15, Oct. 10 to Nov. 9. Call Prof. Hoffman, 545-0933 for details. tf10-10

AUTO FOR SALE

1967 VW Squareback, new tires, needs some body and engine work, $400. Call Sam after 5:00, 549-3997. tf10-5

1967 Ford Galaxie 500, 2 door hardtop, excellent condition. Call 527-2770 after 6:00 p.m., any evening. tf10-5

1965 Pontiac Lemans. Call 253-3502 after 5:00 p.m., $250. tf10-5

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price, 665-3344. tf10-12

1961 Valiant, positively conditioned, only $100. Call 546-5086. tf10-5

72 Int. 1/2 ton PU V8, 4x4, $2950. Can be seen at 149 Summer St. Apt. 67, No. Amherst, weekdays after 5 p.m. tf10-5

VW Bus '71 w/rebuilt engine — like starting off with a new car! Blue w/snows, asking $1,699. Call 323-7779 Belchertown. tf10-5

1970 VW, only 27000 miles, excellent running condition, snow tires, $1050, will dicker, call Paul 545-0431 day, 253-5215 evenings. tf10-9

AUTO FOR SALE

$45 and YOU CAN OWN the ugliest most disgusting 1960 VALIANT HONEST AL has ever seen. 6 cyl std trans. some tires used daily. 64 Chevy 2 WAGON, 6 cyl std. trans, RUSTY BUT RELIABLE. Tires $75. 66 DODGE DART mech excel throughout SLANT 6 std trans 2 dr. sedan looks gd — No rust $425 WANTED DARTS - VALIANTS - LANCERS in any cond. 586-3819. tf10-5

71 Ply. Cricket, must sell, need tuition money: 4 cyl. std. 4 sp. trans., Rack and Pinion steering, exc. mil. Call Jim 6-5234. tf10-5

1966 VW Bus - New brakes, new tires, rebuilt engine, inspected, body in good shape. $350. Call or see Cindy, 511 Grayson, 546-6819. tf10-10

1966 Chevy Wagon, Fall Inspection Sticker, dependable, economical. (6 cylinder). Real good car, asking $300 will haggle 253-3952. tf10-5

1971 Fiat 850 h.t. racer, 26,000 mi., new tires, AM-FM, exc. cond., must sell by Nov., best offer (retail over $1800). Call Jim (413) 783-2807. tf10-9

1965 Plymouth Barracuda, exc. body and engine cond., V-8, new shocks, good tires, must be seen, $325. Call Al, 546-7691. tf10-11

1966 Chevy Impala, 8 cyl. auto., very dependable. 584-5685 after 5 p.m. tf10-9

Cream Puff, $200 firm, 1963 Pontiac, economical engine, recently rebuilt; will soon need brakes. Come and see at 24 Cowls Rd. tf10-9

For sale — 1964 Chevelle convertible, black with white top, 6 cylinder standard, asking $295. Call 546-7414. tf10-5

1959-60 Alfa Romero GT Sprint, hardtop, runs like a dream. Classic, used for dependable daily transportation, $750 firm. Call 6-7433. tf10-12

Reward Offered In Boston Murder

By GUY DARST
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Mayor Kevin H. White offered a $5,000 reward yesterday for information on six youths who burned a young woman to death in what White called "one of the most horrible crimes" in Boston history.

"The people of this city are suffering through one of the most horrible crimes in its history-a crime that would make every decent person wince in shame that this atrocity, the death of this girl, could happen in Boston," White told newsmen.

The white victim, Evelyn Renee Wagler, 24, was beaten until she agreed to pour gasoline over herself Tuesday night by a gang of six youths who then tossed a match and set her afire, police said.

Mrs. Wagler, a German-born Swiss who came here from Chicago last week to find work and live with friends, died four hours later. She suffered second and third degree burns over her entire body.

White and Police Commissioner Robert G. DiGrazia both deplored the lack of cooperation by persons who might have witnessed the brutal slaying.

"It is hard for us to believe that such a crime could happen on a well-lighted thoroughfare at 9:30 at night without someone having witnessed at least part of it," DiGrazia said.

Several calls were received by police Wednesday night, but most were described as crank calls. Detectives continued to comb the rough, predominantly black Roxbury section Thursday without leads.

DiGrazia insisted the murder was not racially motivated.

But officers said Mrs. Wagler told police on her hospital deathbed she thought she recognized in her group of tormentors three men who had accosted her earlier in the week, called her "honkie" and told her to "get out of this part of town."

Mayor White said "It wasn't a racial question, it's isolated insanity. Four black men tried to save the girl's life."

He added: "People are preoccupied with-and fear-the macabre. The entertainment industry has capitalized on this since the early '30's."

The murder occurred only two nights after a television movie "Fuzz" was shown in Boston and nationwide depicting similar attacks.

Ironically, the movie was made in Boston with the help of the city. DiGrazia on Wednesday called it "disturbing" that Mrs. Wagler was burned to death in the same fashion that the movie showed. "It's about time that the public demanded an end to violence such as this in our movies and on television," he said.

Robert Bennett, station manager of the local ABC affiliate which showed the movie, said it was shown with police consent and had officers objected beforehand, "we would have gladly reconsidered running the film."

Referring to the mid-1960's incident in which a New York woman was stabbed to death while 38 persons ignored her screams for help. White said, "A stigma fell over New York and her citizens. Let there be no stigma in Boston."

Mrs. Wagler's husband, Mark, 29, from whom she had been separated for more than a year, wept as he told the Chicago Sun-Times his wife's death was "incredible, horrid."

"Yet I can feel no malice. It was caused by our system that spawns places like Roxbury and turns people against people. That's the way Renee would have looked at it too." He said "the last thing she'd have wanted was for her death to be used to inflame people, to create a circus."

Wagler, a free-lance author, literary critic and former schoolteacher, said his wife had worked part-time as a carpenter and "it was her dream to learn how to be a truck driver. She wanted to explore life, she was looking for answers. She was a very determined girl."

Mrs. Wagler arrived in Boston from Chicago Sunday to live with five girl friends, one white and four black, in Roxbury. She drove around the city all day Tuesday-her last day alive-looking for a job and ran out of gas two blocks from her new home. She walked to a service station 11 blocks away, bought two gallons, and was jumped by the six youths on her way back to the car.

They forced her into a vacant lot, told her to pour the gasoline on herself, and when she refused, beat and threatened her. She then complied and one youth flicked a match on her.

She rolled on the ground, trying to put out the flames, and, still smouldering, walked to a liquor store where she calmly asked the clerk "Will you please call an ambulance?"

She walked out but the clerk and four customers caught her and smothered her with a blanket. A police car took her to City Hospital where she died four hours later.

Television Tonight

ENSIGN O'TOOLE (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES (22)
MISTER ROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES (30)
GOMER PYLE (40)
5:30 THE REAL MCCOYS (18)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
AMERICA "Inventing A Nation" (18)
ZOOM! (24) (57)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
BOOKBEAT (24)
CHALLENGING SEA (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 WORLD AT WAR (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "The Curse of the Petrie People." (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
MOVIE "Rogues of Sherwood Forest" (18)
LET'S MAKE A DEAL (22)
WALL STREET WEEK (24)
THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES (30)
NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR "The Human Element" (40)
A SMALL CITY GARDEN (57)
8:00 CALUCCI'S DEPT (3)
THE BRADY BUNCH "Never Too Young" (8) (40)
SANFOD AND SON "Presenting the Three Segrees." (22) (30)
WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW (24) (57)
8:30 THE ODD COUPLE "That Was NoLady" (8) (40)
THE GIRL WITH SOMETHING EXTRA (22) (30)
ARTHUR PRYSOCK (24)
WALL STREET WEEK (57)
9:00 MOVIE "The Wrecking Crew" (3)
ROOM 222 (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
NEEDLES AND PINS "No Way To Treat a Relative" (22) (30)
VIDEO DRAMA I "The Carriage" (24)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "The Big Blackout" (27)
MASTERPIECE THEATRE "End Game" (57)
9:30 ADAM'S RIB "Separate Vacation" (8) (40)
BRIAN KEITH SHOW "Austin Moves In." (22) (30)
10:00 LOVE, AMERICAN STYLE "Love and the Memento", "Love and the Stutter." "Love and the Single Husband,"; "Love and the High Spirits." (8) (40)
DEAN MARTIN COMEDY HOUR (22) (30)
ALL AMERICAN INDIAN DAYS (24)
NEWS (27)
WISEMAN FESTIVAL (57)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "AVery Special Flavor" (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)
1:00 THE MIDNIGHT SPECIAL (22) (30)

Handmade
Silver
Jewelry
The Leather Shed
199 N. Pleasant St.
AMHERST
Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30

TONIGHT AT 6:00 p.m. - The best in Jazz with All WILL!
TOMORROW AT 1:20 p.m. - UMASS vs. RUTGERS
Football live from Alumni Stadium, with Don Gorski doing play by play and Larry Convoy on color.
SUNDAY NIGHT at 10:10 p.m. -
INTERNATIONAL MUSIC
Joe C. welcomes Stanley Kwong, who'll be performing Chinese classical, folk, and opera music on classic instruments. Also featured are contemporary recordings from China.
MONDAY NIGHT AT 10 p.m. - FOCUS -
Ken Mosakowski's guest is Joe Scheurer, program representative for the Experimental Housing Alliance of Springfield. Calls are welcome at 545-2876.
And of course THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS every weeknight at midnight, with a complete recap Sunday night at 9:30!

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE
RADIO

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

AUTO FOR SALE

Porsches, 356, 1600 SSC, $400 up; Chev., 1966 station wagon, new trans. & ball joints; Saab 96S radials. 323-7327, trades. tf10-11

1970 9 pass. Kingswood Estate wagon, 37,000 mi., auto. trans., power steering, power brakes, roof rack, mileage good, great family car. Paul, 253-7646. tf10-12

1966 MGB, blown engine, but 4 new 14-inch tires and wire wheels. Call Mark, 665-4390, best offer. tf10-12

1968 Volvo station wagon, 145S, new stick, AM-FM, snows, very good cond., 25 m.p.g. Can be seen days on campus. About $1250 firm, 367-2826. tf10-10

1966 Landrover, needs new third gear, all new valves, top etc., $900 now or $1200 when fixed. Possible trade for VW. Call 413-268-7892. tf10-10

PERSONAL

Warm your cockles with Dean Swift Fancy Sniffing Snuff. Send name, etc. for free samples. Dean Swift Ltd., Box 2009, San Fran., Calif. tf10-5

Gay commune has farm, now peopling, living and loving together. P.O. Box 723, Amherst, Ma. tf10/9

Calculators — new, fully guaranteed, Texas Inst., $90. Also Bowmar, Commodore, etc. Call Jack, 6-6930. tf10-5

Womans touch needed. Own bedrm & small rent 4 occasional hs help & sitting. Shud hv gd head & own car. Write 20D CPL #406, No. Amherst. tf10-5

Stoney: We know it was you! We want an encore!! Washington. tf10-5

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst. Mass. 01002. tf11-11

I'm looking for a stepvan metro or pick up truck, auto. transmission. Call Paul 253-3511 or 665-3405. tf10-5

PERSONAL

Student Activities Policy Council needs involved people. Submit resume at the Student Senate Office, 420 SU by 10/10. Any questions, call David Booker. 5-0341. tf10-10

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362. tf10-17

Garage wanted — Lockable - within 10 miles of campus. Call Jack 549-6468, leave message. tf10-10

Drummer lkg for Gig 13 exp. serious musicians only. Call 549-6431 Blve lve msge. I'm new in town call if U know of the above. tf10-5

C.C. Devi — our physics darling and perpetual cutie — Michael Golas, keep smiling 'cus she's cool. Stage Bug. tf10-5

Experienced nude model — will pose for class or individual artist for $3 per hour, regular customer(s) less. Call Theresa, 6-8373. tf10-5

Wanted — couch or sofa or reasonable facsimile, will negotiate price. Call 665-2904 mornings, 9-11. tf10-5

Happy 20th, Chris H., from the girls of Coolidge 17. Do you want to thank us together or individually? 10-5

Whoever found my yellow notebook — Mythology 225 — please call 6-4073, reward. tf10-11

Nikki at 6-8045, I love you. Call me at Charlie's. Fred Smith. 10-5

Deb — almost three years: we've only just begun. I love you, G.A. 10-5

PERSONAL

Blind duck will ask you for turkey, but beware, when he asks you to make his banana cream for good eats. Call Loony Qunie, 549-1913. 10-5

S.A.N. — we aim to please at Room of Desire. You'll fit right in, but standing room only. 10-5

Dear Buns — happy 33rd birthday to the best Finance Co. a girl ever had. I'm still in lust with you. What a cute woodpecker! Love 38-9. 10-5

Irma F. — you told me to stop sending cards and flowers. Is this better? Have a nice day — Leo. 10-5

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

New Triumph 500 motorcycle, slightly chopped, need money fast. First $795.00 takes it. Call 549-0302. 10-5

WANTED

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth. tf10-12

Bus driver trainees, must be student, have class 2 permit. Call 5-0056, 5-2086 or apply at Bus Garage, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. tf10-9

Needed — lead guitar and drummer, must have instrument and trans. Paid rehearsal time. Call Mike between 3 and 5, 527-9830. tf10-12

Dehumidifier, freezer; also need volleyball set for Oct. 13, will rent or buy. For sale — humidifier, $5. Bob or Suzanne, 256-0503. tf10-10

Wanted — used floor loom or large table loom, must be at least a four harness. Phone 533-9406 anytime. tf10-10

Sm. house to rent — Conway, Colrain vicinity, two bdrm. pref. 323-6628 after 5. tf10-11

SERVICES

Portraits, situations, objects — forgeries. Call Doorknob Enterprises, 546-5785 for appt. 10-5

Astrologer does birthcharts (horoscopes) with complete accuracy. Interpretation and counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386. tf10-5

Typing — Reliable, reasonable, manuscripts, term papers, theses, disserta, IBM Selectric typewriter. Mary Lou 253-7352. tf10-10

Bike problems? Will do most bicycle repairs on campus, inexpensive. Call Tom after 5, 584-4985. tf10-9

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051. tf10-26

Need a typist? Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service. Call 584-0743. tf10-12

FOR RENT

For rent — 5 room apt. in the country. Please call 323-4876, keep trying. tf10-9

Half a gd hs ina woods, 2 share 4 some 1 needing lots of space & quiet. $175 inclusive. Call 549-1204 weekdays 4:45 to 5:15. tf10-5

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373. tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700. tf10/18

Large fur. room with ½ bath in private home, $60 per mo. Want one able to babysit for 1 child, 1 hr. 3 nights a week. 256-8948 after 3 p.m. tf10-11

HELP WANTED

Part & full day office work available immediately, experience necessary. Sandy's Secretarial Service. 584-1000. tf10-10

SPEED TYPIST
In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

Piano accompanist needed for ballet classes in Gfld., approx times 4-5:30, MWF. Call collect after 8 p.m. 773-5179, Mrs. Louis Gexler. tf10-10

Cashiers, concession, doorman, asst man. Part-time: Eves or wknds, 3 days/wk. Call 533-3300 or apply in person. Victory Theatre, Hol. tf10-10

Student experienced in tech. inking and or drafting on a reg. hourly part-time basis. Phone 5-2548 or 5-2008. tf10-9

Wanted — person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for free board. tf10-10

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings. tf10-16

ENTERTAINMENT

Steve the DJ says, try me, you'll like me. Powerful PA and 1000's of records. Ring me at 467-2842 for more information. tf10-8

The Twilight Zone" narrated by Rod Serling. 4 half hr. shows from the original 1959 T.V. series, Fri., Oct. 5 at 7-9-11 in Mahar. tf10-5

Need a band? Call Stan's Bands, represents all area bands. Call 256-0316. tf10-5

Rock music is ALHAMBRA for your dorm party or other booking. Call Jeff (in 102, 5-2642 or Warren, 863-9216. Reasonable rates. tf10-5

Notices

BAHA'I ASSOCIATION:
Meeting this Sunday 10-7 at 3:00. Important elections and consultation. Mail complete ballots to Box 912 C.C., if unable to attend. Rm. 903, C.C.

BELCHERTOWN BUS PETITION:
Are you happy with no Belchertown bus? Sign petition at Commuter Office and other places in C.C. Table on C.C. Concourse, today. Questions--323-4098.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS:
Bus to Belchertown leaves tomorrow from Whitmore at 12:45 Return to Campus by 4:00 p.m. Old friends, new friends welcome. See you there. Questions? Call Jay 253-5897.

BICYCLE TOUR:
Monday at 9:30 a.m. Meet in front of the S.U.B. for a preliminary Montague Plains tour. The real one is scheduled for 10-14.

BIKE RACE:
Starts at West End of Mass. Ave., Sunday 2 p.m. Classes for beginners. For info call Mark at 256-8723.

BOLTWOOD-INFIRMARY PROGRAM
Infirmary program cancelled Monday 10-8. Program will run Thursday night, 10-11. Any questions call Chris 549-4476. Other programs, contact your supervisor.

COLLEGE CHURCH:
Bus to Church begins at Newman Center 8:43, Waiting Station 8:45, Hamlin House 8:48, SW Horseshoe 8:50. Same route one hour later.

DANCE FREE:
Those interested in creative movement, improvisation or free dancing come and join us tonight at 8:30. Check C.C. Information Desk for Rm. number.

FAMILY TIME:
All Christians are invited to a time of fellowship with their brothers and sisters. 7:00 pm in the Colonial Lounge S.U.B. Acts 2:44-47.

FRENCH MAJORS:
Mandatory meeting Tuesday, 10-9, 7:30 p.m., 3rd floor lounge, Herter. Please attend!

JAPANESE AMERICAN CLUB:
Sukiyaki Party, 10-12, 6:30 p.m. Admission. Money must be paid by 10-8 in 804 Thompson. All members and interested people invited.

LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES INFORMATION:
Free 5-College Latin American Studies Newsletter available at Information Desk in the C.C.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB:
Pepperall Motocross is Sat., 10-13. If you care to go all are welcome. Find out about this exciting sport first hand. Call Jim at 6-7151.

POSITION FOR GRAD STUDENT:
Open in Project 10 (Pierpont House). Part time position for a community organizer with skills and experience in Recreation-Phys. ed. Applications due at the Project Office by 4:30 p.m. 10-10. Call 5-0811 for info.

SCIENCE FICTION SOCIETY:
We are inventorying tomorrow. Members please attend. 11:30 a.m. in the library.

S.W.A.P.:
Committee meeting, Monday at 8:00 p.m. in room 168-170 C.C. All interested are welcome.

TWILIGHT ZONE:
4 Half-hour segments from the first year (1959) of the original T.V. series are showing tonight, at 7-9-11 in Mahar.

WUMV:
Election for management board position to be held Monday at 8 p.m., 167 C.C. Members urged to attend.

LOST:
On 10-1 black wallet between GRC. and Dickinson. Please turn in to C.C. lost and found. No questions asked.

FOUND:
Joseph Beals, Marsh St., Springfield: I found your wallet 10-2 near Mahar. Call Kathy 546-7390.

PINNING:
Patricia M. Avolio Class '74 S.A.M., Kevin F. Moram Class '73 Salem State.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

Pollution Control Grants Awarded

Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control grants totaling $325,000 have been awarded for research by UMass environmental engineers in three key water pollution areas.

The state grants will support a study by Dr. Francis A. DiGiano on the removal of the water pollutants phosphorus and nitrogen; a second study by Dr. Lawrence N. Kuzminski on what happens to lead, cadmium and other heavy metals in Massachusetts lakes; and a third by Drs. Donald D. Adrian and Tsuan H. Feng on new methods of sewage plant sludge disposal.

Dr. DiGiano will study both physical and chemical means of removing phosphorous and nitrogen, two primary causes of eutrophication in lakes. Phosphorous and nitrogen over-feed algae and other plant life, chocking the lake and lowering water quality. Using experimental equipment already located at the Amherst Sewage Treatment Plant from previous research, DiGiano will work on an advanced water treatment pilot plant.

Heavy metals in lake water can get into the food chain and in some instances--as in the case of lead or arsenic--be a health hazard if the level is excessive. Dr. Kuzminski will study the concentration of seven heavy metals in several Massachusetts lakes, including measurements of metal accumulation in aquatic life and bottom deposits.

The study by Drs. Adrian and Feng will be a field evaluation of new methods of sewage plant sludge disposal and at the same time, a look at alternative methods of septic tank truck waste disposal at local sewage treatment plants.

MDC Classifieds

LET US DO THE WALKING TO YOU
FREE DELIVERY
Weekdays 7-11 Weekends 7-1
STUDENT SPECIAL
- 2 Pieces of Chicken
- Hot Buttered Corn
- Mashed Potatoes & Gravy
FREE Soda
Kentucky Fried Chicken
256-8745
RT. 9 HADLEY

MEET THE COLLEGE
HEROS
AT THE HUNGRY-U
103 N. PLEASANT ST.
253-9080
PIZZAS TOO!!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Virgo keeps accurate records. The native of this zodiacal sign insists on paying bills on time. Virgo is neat and punctual. Virgo is dependable and perceptive. The intelligence level of Virgo is generally high, due in the main to an insatiable curiosity. Virgo reads and becomes informed. Virgo investigates and ties loose ends. Virgo usually gets to the job and gets it done. The Virgo woman is charming and the Virgo man can be precise. Man or woman, the Virgo native is a champion of fair play. In November, many born under this sign will be putting ideas into action and the month can be one of exciting changes and new starts.

- - -

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Business proposition may require more legal maneuvering than you suspect. Past methods, procedures may not suffice. Know it and reorder priorities. One who holds position of authority is interested in you. Conduct yourself in responsible manner.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Situations and persons, usually quiet, now become conspicuous. You come in contact with creative, independent persons. You are in position to learn. Key is to be patient. Breakthrough is due. Grand opportunity may be upcoming.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Follow through on hunch. Your intuition now is apt to be sharply honed. Aquarian could play significant role. Emphasis is on ability to pick right place at right time. Speculative matters appeal. Trust your own judgment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Hold off on final decisions. Explore. Get best possible deal by investigating, asking questions. Mate, partner may expect some changes--in quick fashion. Don't dally in showing that you are attentive. Gemini, Sagittarius could play prominent roles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You will be displaying abilities, expressing opinions. Obtain valid hint from Cancer message. Be intellectually curious without making final commitment. One close to you could be involved in dispute among relatives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Many around you now may be living in world of illusion. And some want plenty without doing anything in return. Know it and proceed with caution. Emotions tend to dominate. But you would be wise to give logic equal time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Home becomes a brighter place, even though there is some controversy. Purchase of luxury item could be on agenda. Remembering special anniversary would be major public relations move. You need more goodwill. Get it!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be trying to accomplish too many tasks at once. Be more selective. Avoid tendency toward self-deception. See in light of greater practicality. Pisces, Virgo persons could figure prominently. Relative lets cat out of bag.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis is on money, reward for past efforts, results. Wishes are fulfilled in unorthodox manner. Surprises are featured--you are given more authority. With this comes additional responsibility. Don't expect something for nothing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Doors open as if in a flash. Recognition, previously withheld, becomes available. Strike independent stance. Be confident. Personal magnetism is at peak. Opportunity abounds. Trust yourself. Don't delegate duties.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Creative abilities are emphasized. Your individual style becomes apparent as you hear sound of your own voice. Leo is likely to be in picture. Much activity occurs behind the scenes. Long-distance call could affect plans.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Be aware of costs. Compare offers. Study alternatives. What you thought you wanted may now seem flimsy. Don't berate yourself. You do have right to change--and to live your own life. Young person can provide answers.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are creative, attractive to opposite sex, restless and have an inquiring mind. You seldom accept surface indications--instead you dig deep for answers. Many born under Gemini and Virgo are drawn to your sphere. In November, you get chance to be more independent, with 7th, 16th and 25th, your most important days of that month.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS
1 Cushion
4 Dim
9 Chart
12 A state (abbr.)
13 One borne
14 Arabian garment
15 Scorched
17 Experienced
19 Avarice
21 Place
22 Escape
24 Plunge
26 Lampreys
29 Ventilated
31 Republican party (init.)
33 Obscure
34 World organization (abbr.)
35 Recent
37 Dance step
39 Symbol for nickel
40 Permit
42 Armed conflict
44 Ship of the desert
46 Jog
48 Aeriform fluid
50 Boundary
51 Uppermost part
53 Take unlawfully
55 More obese
58 Commands
61 Native metal
62 Citrus fruit
64 King Arthur's lance 65 Prohibit 66 River ducks
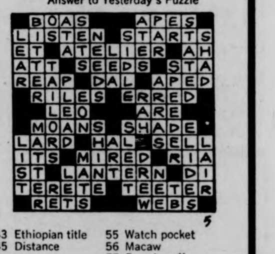
67 Pigpen

DOWN
1 Dance step
2 Mohammedan name
3 Peril
4 Liberate
5 Helped
6 Cyprinoid fish
7 Openwork fabric
8 Snare
9 Entangled
10 Man's nickname
11 Cushion
16 Color
18 Petition
20 Excavate
22 Shortcoming
23 Sea-going vessel
25 Parent (colloq.)
27 Kind of fabric
28 Facial expression
30 Condensed moisture
32 Moccasin
36 Move from side to side
38 Dinner course
41 Waver
43 Ethiopian title
45 Distance runners
47 Small child
49 Backless seat
52 Animal's coat
54 Sea eagles
55 Watch pocket
56 Macaw
57 Female ruff
59 Decay
60 Vessel's curved planking
63 Parent (colloq.)

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



BOAS APES
LISTEN STARTS
ET ATELIER AH
ATT SEEDS STA REAP DAL APED
RILES ERRED
LEO ARE MOANS SHADE
LARD HAL SELL ITS MIRED RIA
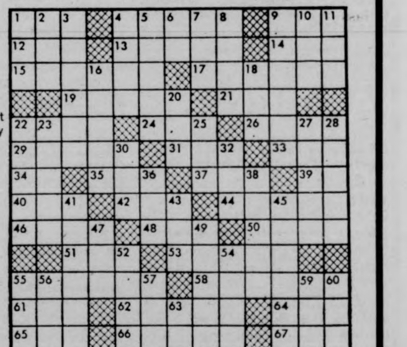
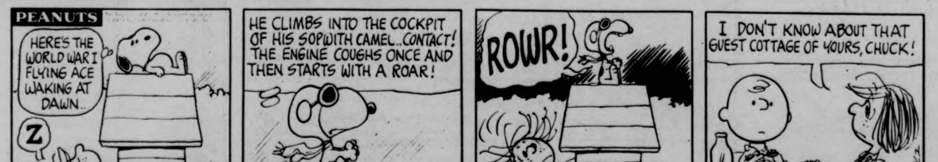
ST LANTERN DI
TERETE TEETER
RETS WEBS

5

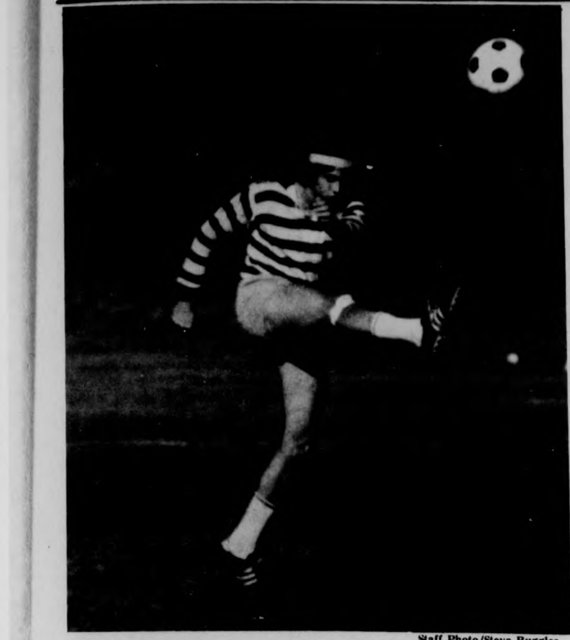


Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 5



PEANUTS
HERE'S THE WORLD WAR I FLYING ACE WAKING AT DAWN..
Z
HE CLIMBS INTO THE COCKPIT OF HIS SOPWITH CAMEL..CONTACT! THE ENGINE COUGHS ONCE AND THEN STARTS WITH A ROAR!
ROWR!
I DON'T KNOW ABOUT THAT GUEST COTTAGE OF YOURS, CHUCK!
10-5

Injured Booters Face WPI



Staff Photo/Steve Ruggles

Carl Vercollone gets off a big clearing boot. The play of the UMass goaltender will be a big factor as the injury-riddled Minutemen take on WPI tomorrow in Worcester.

By STEVE DECOSTA

The UMass soccer team travels to Worcester tomorrow to take on Worcester Polytechnical Institute in which the Minutemen could be without the services of leading scorer Tom Coburn.

Coburn, who was named Yankee Conference lineman of the week for his four-goal performance against BC, is listed as doubtful for tomorrow's tilt as a result of a bruised knee sustained in the Minutemen's 1-0 loss to Maine last weekend. Coburn was injured sometime during the contest and continued to play as the effects of the injury did not become apparent until after the game. He has not practiced with the team this week.

Coburn is only one of coach Al Rufe's walking wounded. Mike Nugent, starting halfback, suffered a sprained ankle in the Maine game, but is expected to play. Substitute midfielder Steve Sormonti has knee problems and has not practiced for the last week.

The injury -problem stretches all the way into the goal. Back-up goaltender Paul Pelloquin is also bothered by a knee problem and starter Carl Vercollone is plagued by a lot of nagging little injuries. Both are expected to be ready although they may not be at peak efficiency.

The Minutemen are faced with yet another problem. WPI play their home games on one of the smallest fields in New England and the UMass booters will have to make quick adjustments in their game plan in order to prevent an early runaway by their hosts.

The team spent most of the week working on offense. Rufe praised his defense for its play in the Maine game and cited the inability fo the forwards to get off the good percentage shots as the reason for the 1-0 defeat.

In order to put more scoring punch in the Minuteman attack, Rufe has been concentrating on passing. Against WPI the booters hope to play more of a ball-control type of game, dribbling less, passing more, and looking for the good shot instead of just banging the ball toward the net every time the opportunity appears.

The key to this type of attack will be the ability of the booters to keep the ball on the ground. Too often in the last two games have attempted passes been picked off because they were just lofted into the air, making them easy prey for the opponent's defense.

KICKING IT AROUND-In their only game this year, WPI defeated AIC 3-1. The Minutemen played AIC in a scrimmage and beat them 7-1 although that was early in the season and the Yellowjackets were missing many of their better players.

Ali-Frazier Rematch Set For February

NEW YORK (AP)-Almost three years and three defeats later Joe Frazier and Muhammed Ali will fight again, and one of the promoters said Thursday he was confident that they would make more than the $2.5 million each earned in the first match.

The two former world heavyweight champions will hold their rematch Feb. 4, 1974, in Madison Square Garden if a solution to a state non-resident tax can be worked out.

Arum said an agreement which would pave the way for a Feb. 4 fight in the Garden would be based on further relief from previous taxation and the taxing of income from only the live gate and New York State ancillary money for the next fight.

The guarantees for the rematch are $850,000 compared to the $2.5 million apiece for the first fight. However, there were no options for the first fight while in a rematch each man would have an option of 32 per cent of all income. Bob Arum, president of Top Rank, Inc., and Ali's attorney, said he was sure the percentages would surpass $2.5 million each.

A spokesman for the New York State Tax Commission and Arum both denied a published report that a solution had been reached.

However, Arum said he was confident the tax problem could be worked out and the bout would be held in the Garden, site of the first match March 8, 1971, which was known as "The Fight" and which Frazier, then champion, won on a 15-round decision.

Reds Got It!

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP)-If the National League playoffs between Cincinnati and the New York Mets boil down to a battle of bullpens, the Reds' relievers "are the best-by far," says their pitching coach, Larry Shepard.

"The Mets might have an edge overall with Tom Seaver, but our bullpen is the best in the league," said Shepard Thursday as the Reds worked out at Riverfront Stadium.

"Tug Mcgraw is a fine reliever, but that's it for the Mets. We're three-deep. Depth-wise we've got one of the best pitching staffs in baseball," added Shepard.

Cincinnati's Big Three of Pedro Borbon, Tom hall and Clay Carroll has a combined streak of 15 victories in their last 16 decisions.

Women Stickers, 4-2 Over Bridgewater

By BETH O'BRIEN

A lot of hustle, a little fancy stickwork, a solid defense and a pinch of finesse earned the UMass field hockey team their second win of the season, this time victimizing Bridgewater State, 4-2. The UMass J.V.'s, again falling victim to bad passing, tied their contest with the Bridgewater J.V.'s, 1-1.

The UMass varsity got off to a quick start, dominating play from the opening whistle and pressing the Bridgewater goalie, causing a frustrated spectator to comment," How much more pressure can they stand?" Quite a bit, it seemed, as Bridgewater commandeered a quick rush downfield that resulted in the first score of the game.

Play evened out as the game progressed, and UMass got on the scoreboard a short time later. The front-line team of Wendy Alpaugh and Elaine Senosk, assisting and scoring respectively, clicked for the score which hit the far corner from 10 feet out.

The momentum swung to UMass and they tallied again as Senosk pushed an Alpaugh rebound into the net.

The halftime whistle found UMass ahead, 2-1, in a game featuring excellent passing and solid freehits with the famous "Nazar scoop" frequently in evidence.

The second half opened with an Alpaugh score from in close and UMass was flying.

Not to be denied, Bridgewater gathered their offense together and mounted an attack culminating in a high bounding drive from the top of the circle that settled in the twine, and it was 3-2, UMass with the heat back on.

UMass lagged a bit while Bridgewater went all out to tie it up, but the home defense held. The Mass offense rejuvenated itself and carried play to the Bridgewater goal. Wing Joanne Lorey took a rebound of a shot on goal and pushed it home for a bit of icing on the cake. Final score, 4-2, UMass. The victory over Bridgewater, one of the threats in the league, will undoubtedly lift the spirits of the UMass squad.

The UMass-Bridgewater J.V. game directly preceded the varsity contest and it was a hard-fought 1-1 tie. Center half back Debbie McCulloch gave UMass an early lead with a drive from the top of the circle. The Bridgewater offense displayed a more accurate and thoughtful passing game, but the UMass defense was equal to the task.

UMass goalie Jean Kenfield was spectacularly cool and calm in the net, waiting until the last second before committing herself, and saving at least two sure goals.

Sue LaPada and Debbie McCulloch nailed down the right half back and center half back spots effectively and were keys to the strong defense.

Bridgewater got the equalizer on a perfect scoop at which the goalie had no chance; spoiling the J.V.'s hopes for their third win of the season.

Next opponents are the highly touted Springfield squads who will be coming to town on Monday, October 15th.

Notices

BASKETBALL-There will be a meeting for all basketball candidates on October 12 (Friday) at 4:00 p.m. in Boyden 249.

BOWLING-The rolloff for the UMass Intercollegiate Bowling Team will be held on Wednesday, October 10, and Monday October 15. Attendance both nights is required. The rolloffs will begin at 6:30 at the Boyden lanes. For further info. and to sign up contact Dave Dimmick in 523 Grayson or call 546-7002.

Play Ball!

American League
Oakland (Blue) at Baltimore (Palmer) 1 PM
National League
New York (Seaver) at Cincinnati (Billingham) 4 PM

Interested in spending five weeks in Italy in Spring 1974? Includes tours of Rome, Florence, Venice, Pisa, and Milan. Earn up to 15 hours of college credit. Several programs to choose from. All at moderate cost. For additional information write Dr. Edward Davis, chairman of the History Department, or, Dr. Olindo Dragone, chairman of the Language Department, American International College, Springfield, Mass., 01109.

SUNDAY NIGHT ONLY!
7 FULL HOURS!
5 COMPLETE FEATURES!
DUSK TO DAWN SHOW
1 "DEATH OF A HOOKER" at 7:50
2 "THE STEPDAUGHTER" AT 8:45
3 "KILLING OF SISTER GEORGE"
4 "CANDY" AT 12:30
5 "GRISSUM GANG" AT 2:30
REFRESHMENT CENTER OPEN ALL NIGHT!
HADLEY
Rt. 9 - Hadley
NEXT TO THE JOLLY BULL DRIVE IN 584-2645

SAUNA
at STEARNS MOTOR LODGE
Exit 21, Interstate 91
W. Hatfield, Mass. 01088
(413) 247-5601
*By the hour
*Season passes available

GERMAN PARTS
WE'VE GOT A PART FOR YOU!
and if we don't, we'll get it.
AT ALLIED MOTOR PARTS, INC.
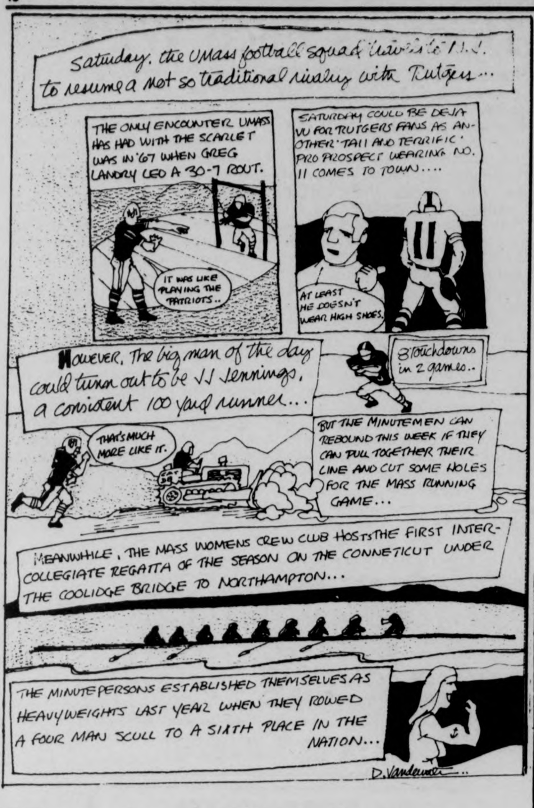
BRITISH JAPANESE
319 MAIN ST., AMHERST
256-8341
256-8342
Chilton's Repair Manuals
PARTS AMERICAN PARTS



Saturday, the UMass football squad travels to N.J. to resume a not so traditional rivalry with Rutgers...
THE ONLY ENCOUNTER UMASS HAS HAD WITH THE SCARLET WAS IN '67 WHEN GREG LANDRY LED A 30-7 ROUT.
IT WAS LIKE PLAYING THE PATRIOTS..
SATURDAY COULD BE DEJA VU FOR RUTGERS FANS AS ANOTHER TALL AND TERRIFIC PRO PROSPECT WEARING NO. 11 COMES TO TOWN....
AT LEAST HE DOESN'T WEAR HIGH SHOES.
However, The big man of the day could turn out to be JJ Jennings, a consistent 100 yard runner...
8 touchdowns in 2 games..
THAT'S MUCH MORE LIKE IT.
BUT THE MINUTEMEN CAN REBOUND THIS WEEK IF THEY CAN PULL TOGETHER THEIR LINE AND CUT SOME HOLES FOR THE MASS RUNNING GAME...
MEANWHILE, THE MASS WOMENS CREW CLUB HOSTS THE FIRST INTER-COLLEGIATE REGATTA OF THE SEASON ON THE CONNETICUT UNDER THE COOLIDGE BRIDGE TO NORTHAMPTON...
THE MINUTEPERSONS ESTABLISHED THEMSELVES AS HEAVYWEIGHTS LAST YEAR WHEN THEY ROWED A FOUR MAN SCULL TO A SIXTH PLACE IN THE NATION...
D. Vanderwater...

Gridders At Rutgers, Key On Running Game

By BILL BALLOU

If you've gotten the impression by reading the sports pages lately that UMass is heading for New Jersey tomorrow to take on the Jennings University Jenningsmen, you are mistaken.

The Minutemen are playing Rutgers, and the Scarlet Knights have been known throughout the years to have some pretty good football teams.

J.J. Jennings is the man, though, that the Knights rely on for their big play. He leads the nation in scoring and last week scored five touchdowns.

How good is he? "J.J. Jennings is a very, very, fine back." says Dick MacPherson. But he doesn't look upon stopping Jennings as an impossible task.

"If we react and tackle well," he said,"I think we'll be able to contain him. If we don't then he'll give us a hard time."

The Scarlet Knights can pass, too, but it isn't their game, naturally enough.

"The way they beat you," MacPherson said, "is by taking advantage of your mistakes and popping it over quick. If we can stay away from making those mistakes and giving them the ball where they can do that, we'll be all right. But we've got to keep them out of good field position."

As far as the Minutemen go, it looks like they'll be better off physically than it seemed at the beginning of the week.

Most of the nagging injuries have cleared up and Dave Yushinsky, who missed last week's game, is back.

It would seem that UMass is going to have to attack Rutgers via the passing game, since they haven't had any success running and pass defense is the Rutger's weak spot. Which means that once again all UMass eyes will be on Peil Pennington.

Pennington can't help but feel the pressure. MacPherson says that Pennington can handle it. "You know, Peil's the type of player who responds to something like this. I remember two years ago against New Hampshire when they told their men that Mark Tripucka was a better quarterback than Peil. He went out and completed his first eight passes and something like 10 out of his first 11."

Pennington's favorite target, Tim Berra, will be going back to his home state and playing in front of his brothers, who decided to stay home and watch Timmy rather than accompany their mother to Cincinnatti to watch the National League playoffs.

The Minutemen will have Paul St. Onge once again at fullback, where, last week he gave them the best blocking from a fullback they've had this season. Mac Pherson's hoping from some yardage out of him, too, and remains confident that he's found the man for the job.

Most of the papers are making the Minutemen heavy underdogs, and Rutgers fans are pointing at an undefeated season. If you intend to drive down it'll take you about five hours. Get off the New Jersey turnpike at exit nine and ask directions.

Game time is 1:30 p.m.

WMUA

WMUA will be carrying the game tomorrow live from Rutgers. Game time is 1:30; air time 1:20. Join Don Gorski and Larry Convoy as they bring you all the action live from New Jersey. WMUA 91.1 FM.

WUMV

WUMV-TV will present a sports doubleheader this Sunday night at the Bluewall starting at 7:45. The first attraction will be the UMass-Rutgers football game featuring the nation's leading scorer J.J. Jennings. The nightcap will feature pro basketball at its best as the New York Knicks take on the New York Mets and former UMass star Julius Erving. The game was originally played Thursday night in Nassau Coliseum.

Harriers Battle Highly Rated NU

By SCOTT HAYES

Fighting for the top spot in the New England Cross Country Poll along with Harvard, Northeastern, and Providence, is the UMass Cross Country team.

Harvard defeated Northeastern, the pre-season favorite, early in the season, 21-34 and nipped UMass 27-30 on Tuesday. UMass, however, gets a shot at Northeastern tomorrow when they travel to Van Cortland Park in New York to take on St. John's and Northeastern in a tri-meet.

The Minutemen have already knocked off third-ranked Providence 24-34, and came close to beating Harvard three days ago. Saturday's meet should prove to be a test for the harriers, who haven't beaten the Huskies since 1969.

St. John's, 2-1 overall, has picked up wins over Central Connecticut and Fordham while dropping a decision to Army. Paul Mascalli and Al Soto, returning from last season, pace the squad.

St. John's may have a slight edge over UMass and Northeastern because their home course is Van Cortland Park. Many of the team members are from the New York area and they have been running in Van Cortland Park since high school, and know what it takes to compete successfully on the course. The course itself is a hilly, difficult, and demanding one which runs partly through a horse trail. The UMass harriers are hoping that the course will help them against Northeastern. The Huskies are accustomed to Franklin Park in Boston, their home course which is flat and fast. UMass, however, is used to its own mountainous course running through the apple orchards, and the UMass course is comparable to Van Cortland Park.

team.

Harvard defeated Northeastern, the pre-season favorite, early in the season, 21-34 and nipped UMass 27-30 on Tuesday. UMass, however, gets a shot at Northeastern tomorrow when they travel to Van Cortland Park in New York to take on St. John's and Northeastern in a tri-meet.

The Minutemen have already knocked off third-ranked Providence 24-34, and came close to beating Harvard three days ago. Saturday's meet should prove to be a test for the harriers, who haven't beaten the Huskies since 1969.

St. John's, 2-1 overall, has picked up wins over Central Connecticut and Fordham while dropping a decision to Army. Paul Mascalli and Al Soto, returning from last season, pace the squad.

St. John's may have a slight edge over UMass and Northeastern because their home course is Van Cortland Park. Many of the team members are from the New York area and they have been running in Van Cortland Park since high school, and know what it takes to compete successfully on the course. The course itself is a hilly, difficult, and demanding one which runs partly through a horse trail. The UMass harriers are hoping that the course will help them against Northeastern. The Huskies are accustomed to Franklin Park in Boston, their home course which is flat and fast. UMass, however, is used to its own mountainous course running through the apple orchards, and the UMass course is comparable to Van Cortland Park.

Although Northeastern has all the runners of last year's New England Championship team, except Dave Goldsmith, returning, the Huskies are not in top shape as they were last year. Goldsmith is not running this season, but freshman Mike Buckley, the New England high school two-mile champion, has proven that he can fill in adequately. Buckley finished fourth against able Harvard.

Ken Flanders and Buckley provide the punch for the Huskies. Along with Flanders and Buckley, Joe Crowley and Bill Rowe could give the UMass quartet of Bill Gillin, Randy Thomas, Tom Maguire, and Paul Segersten some stiff competition.

There is no doubt that tomorrow's meet is an important one. Northeastern and UMass are well-matched. UMass runners know what they must do to win--run their best and get five runners across the finish line before Northeastern. Coach Ken O'Brien summed up the outcome of a meet between two top teams when he said, "It's just a matter of who's the hottest on that given day."

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

UMass Hosts ECAC Golf Tournament

By JOHN BOCK

It isn't often that Minuteman golf coach Fan Gaudette and his charges get a chance to host a team at the Hickory Ridge Golf Club and thus have the home course advantage. It is a lot less than often that they get a chance to show their stuff against the best in New England all at one time.

They get that chance this Friday and Saturday as they host the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association's New England Regional Golf Tournament. The Tourney is one of four that are being held this week throughout the ECAC's member schools. The other three are being held in Annapolis, Maryland, Bethpage, Long Island, and Syracuse, New York.

The finalists of these regional tournaments will assemble at the Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton, Massachusetts. Some 35 teams involving 30-70 players are going to be teeing off today. In the field are defending team medalists Central Connecticut State College and second place finishers Harvard and Salem State College.

Last year a 69 was low score but two Minutemen made it with 75's. Both are back and in contention this year. Senior Captain Frank Agostino and Junior Joe Artman qualified for last year's ECAC finals and will lead Jim Duane, John Lasek, and Dave Kern in hopes of all five garnering a pot at Pleasant Valley.

Thus far in their fall season the UMass golfers have triumphed in a triangular with Stonehill and Bryant Colleges and took second place in a ten team tournament at Western Connecticut State College. Joe Artman was the medalist in that tourney.

Coach Gaudette characterizes his team's chances as "very promising." "We have a little advantage in it being our course. The course is in excellent condition and it will be a very fair test of any golfer's skill."

Steve DeCosta

Great Baseball Pattern Of '73

You could call it the Great Baseball Pattern of 1973. It was the year they were giving away pennants and it seemed like nobody wanted in on the action.

Everyone remembers the recently concluded NL East race where four inept teams played something akin to baseball in an effort to see which three could successfully throw away the most "golden opportunities." And we all know by now that the Cardinals, Pirates, and Expos won, saddling the Mets with the added burden of the playoffs.

But the NL East was not the only division in which madness reigned. They all had their early season heroes who played like Babe Ruth and Cy Young reincarnated for a month or so then faded to obscurity faster than you could say Bill Rohr.

The NL West is a perfect example. Not just one, but two teams set the division on fire in the early going only to have their own tails singed in the ashes.

The San Francisco Giants, who always start strong, held to their pattern this year until June when they fell into what is becoming known as the annual San Francisco swoon.

No sooner did the Giants disappear then the Dodger stepped in to take command. Everybody raved. "Alston's a genius." "All those rookies are super". "The start of the next great baseball dynasty."

The dynasty lasted about two months, and now the Reds are the NL West champs. I'm convinced that if the season was a month longer the Houston Astros would have been the next Gas House Gang.

But let us not forget the American League, especially in the year of baseball's newest innovation and saving grace, the designated hitter. The White Sox couldn't be beaten for three months. Wilbur Wood even had a chance to win 20 games before the All-Star break. But then the three-day rotation started catching up with Wilbur and his mates, Dick Allen was hurt, and the rest of the Sox decided to hibernate through the summer, allowing Oakland to waltz to another championship.

The White Sox may have folded but at least they had an excuse. The Yankees were not so lucky; no injuries, no excuses, just plain old bumbling.

Right from the start the raves were pouring in. "A return to the glory days," everyone cried. The pin stripes once more struck awe in the hearts of players and fans alike. Bobby Murcer was the new Mantle and Graig Nettles, Matty Alou, Sam McDowell, and Pat Dobson were gifts from the devil. Sparky Lyle was mowing down the best of them and everything looked rosy in the Bronx.

After that, who knows what happened. Maybe Horace Clarke became contagious. But the pinstripes alone no longer assure a winner and the Yanks, not about to break the Great Baseball Pattern of 1973, floundered, sank, and eventually drowned beneath the Orioles September rush.

And so, by the grace of the almighty baseball god and with a lot of help from their enemies, the Mets, Reds, Athletics, and Orioles head into the playoffs. Now that the Great Baseball Pattern of 1973 has seemingly run its course, what are we to expect?

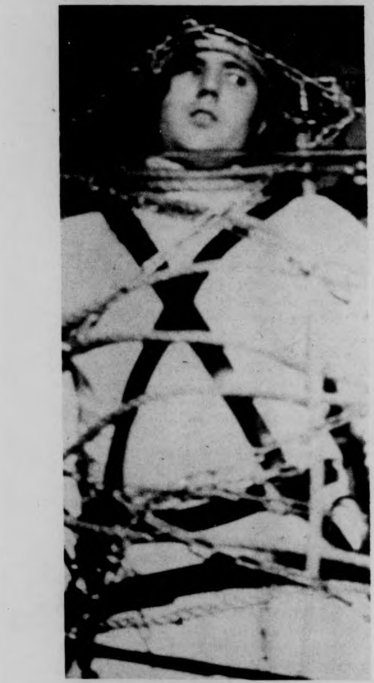
In all likelihood, the Mets will win it all, simply because there is no logical reason why they should. With a lot of luck and a little shoe polish (remember '69?) anything could happen.

POOR RICHARD'S

Volume 3 Issue 4

Methinks I hear some of you say, "Must a man afford himself no leisure?"

October 5, 1973



Bigelow's Big Show

By Barbara Voorhees

That l on his face!

Shackled and chained and bound to a board with manacles and chains and ropes around his head, his legs, his neck, his chest and his arms and four seconds away from having a door loaded with 21 knives slam into his body ...

BIGELOW!!!

And with that look on his face like you can only understand if you thought about being in the same place.

A lot of writhing and contorting and 4...3...2...a sharp jerk and ... Holy shit, he's done it. He's escaped. Slam!

And hundreds and hundreds of UMies are off of the edges of their seats and onto their feet, cheering, whistling, stomping. Cause he's the greatest.

A few hours earlier this pudgy character dressed in a white turtleneck, blue cardigan and red pants and wearing tan loafer-style hush puppies (Good God!) and I think a little bit of Vitalis in his hair walked into the Distinguished Visitors Program office.

I was hanging around waiting for THE Norman Bigelow, Houdini reincarnated, to show so I didn't give this character a second look.

Till someone says, "I'd like you to meet Norman Bigelow."

So I sat around the DVP office with this pudgy character who just happened to be Bigelow for about an hour or so. There were a lot of questions from everyone there and Norman just sat and answered them real quiet like and smiled a lot and squirmed in his chair every now and then and looked up apprehensively everytime someone new walked in the door.

"Being a locksmith is my natural function in life but I haven't been locksmithing for three years now," he tells you His grandfather gave him the money to go to locksmith's school.

He's 29 and has been married for 10 years and has two kids. He says his wife doesn't have any objections to his second occupation but that it means he's away a lot. Last year he worked five shows a week but this year he'd like to only do three a week.

His wife takes care of his boa constrictor. He's sent away for five tarantulas for one of his new tricks, "They're in the mail now," and he says she'll take care of them too although she doesn't know it yet.

He carries one of those big manilla envelopes around with him 'cause he says he can't remember anything and he keeps all kinds of papers and notes to himself in the envelope. Only once in awhile he forgets where he put the envelope. "I don't forget stuff during my act though," he reassures you.

The only time he gets at all emphatic about anything is when he talks about being Houdini.

"I feel and I have always felt that I am Houdini. If anybody is, I am," he tells you.

All the escape type stuff started when he was 8 years old. He says he thinks he had a visit with Houdini and that Houdini gave him some type of instructions. After that he read a lot of books and got help in his escapes from a guy named Frank Reno of Southbridge.

"I can't say that I really believe in reincarnation when it is taken to mean the moving of the spirit from one body to another. However, I do believe in inheriting memories and energies."

When Bigelow was 8 he read about the Houdini sack escape. At the day camp he was attending, he had his fellow campers tie him up, place him in a burlap bag and drop him into the lake. He escaped.

In the following years he began doing more tricks for his Boy Scout troop, church affairs and parties.

Now down at the Student Union Ballroom, Bigelow and his crew set up their equipment and Bigelow walks around sipping on a Cott's grape soda and looking for his envelope which he has misplaced already.

He doesn't eat before a performance. When asked why, he blushes a little and says, well, he's a little overweight. Pudgy. And if he's full it slows him down. And there ain't no slowing down in his business.

Rick Dennis, the long-haired magician who works along with Bigelow and acts as his MC, is walking around the ballroom practicing fire eating. He sticks a lit torch into his mouth and pulls it out unlit and makes a big face and says "Eeeeecccckkkk!"

A nice, harried lady from Channel 5 showed up at the ballroom about an hour before showtime and said, "Oh, I know I'm late, Mr. Bigelow, but couldn't we please do an interview?", and Bigelow smiles and shuffles his feet around a little and says, "Well, o.k."

Bigelow acts real uncomfortable under the hot lights that the Channel 5 crew put on him and he starts sweating, but he's real nice to the lady and answers all her questions with a smile.

He says that he's been locked out of his car and house many times. He

(continued on page 4)

Photos: Larry Stein

Inside:

λ
McGilvray

Questing After Dignity

Out of the closets and onto the streets. Gay Americans Day wakes and shakes the once straight-laced Beantown, or Nick writes a letter. Read Jim La Macchia's impressions on Page 3

Pablo Neruda — A Tribute

Chile's political situation is not the only thing that's hurting. Neruda's gone, but Zoe Best has not forgotten him on Page 9

An Exercise in Bad Taste

Is she really Divine? Will the Eggman over cometh? What's wrong with selling babies anyway? Bob Nesti's review of Pink Flamingos reveals the battle of just who is the filthiest person alive on Page 11 is a weekly magazine of the Daily Collegian.

Poor Richard's

Volume 3, Issue 4
October 5, 1973

Contributors

Zoe Best
Ken Blanchard
Sherm Boyson
Jon Carr
Jeff Clayton
Mark Cuddy
Bob Estelle
B. J.
Kris Jackson
Jim LaMacchia
Don McGilvray
David Miller
David Santos
David Sokol
Buffy Spencer
Larry Stein
Solid Vodka
Barbara Voorhees
Lori Ann Yeslow

Editor
Patrick Coffey

Asst. Editor
Joyce Kosofsky

Music
Mike Kostek

Weekend
Bob Nesti

POOR RICHARD'S welcomes unsolicited manuscripts, photographs, and sketches. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all material will be printed.

All manuscripts must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and are subject to editing for content or length. Deadline for the Friday edition is Wednesday noon.

Letters to the editor are accepted for perusal and or publication. Sometimes we need a good chuckle.

POOR RICHARD'S
McGILVRAY

Pictured here: Our spiritual Mentor and most avid reader, Big Ben.

A UMie Behind Bars

by Buffy Spencer

It wasn't as frightening as I expected. You could drive right in through an open gate, you pressed a door bell, the guard opened the door and asked who you'd like to see. He was brusque with us (somehow he reminded me of the southern sheriff who sells cars on television) but maybe it was just impatience at our ignorance of prison procedure.

The place I am talking about is Berkshire County House of Correction. Six days ago a UMass sophomore, a former phys. ed. major, voluntarily entered this jail to study prison conditions and possible inmate programs. Her name is Donna Cowdrey and she has 82 more days to count off before she leaves.

There were no bars to talk through when I went to see Donna. There were just turquoise tables with token partitions in the middle and chairs on either side. A wife and her two young children were visiting one inmate, another very young looking inmate was holding a young girl's hands and looked almost oblivious to where he was. Some men stood watching from inside the entrance to their cell block, a momentary relief from the boredom of their day.

Donna entered smiling in jeans and a PE T-shirt. She was obviously happy to see someone from the "outside world" (she asked her friends not to visit for the first three weeks) but it was more than that. She is filled with a visible optimism about what she is doing.

Women in Pittsfield are not at any time locked in their individual cells. Men are, from about 9:00 in the evening till early morning. Donna is free to roam around the cell block. In it is a TV, a humane addition to the prison as a time-killer. It is always on. Here the women can congregate. Right now Donna is sharing the block with only three women, who are awaiting a court decision. One of them has her small baby with her. They are in for breaking and entering and illegal possession of firearms. Their husbands are in the men's section of the prison.

I asked Donna to describe her individual cell. She shrugged and smiled and said, "It's a prison". The cell is big enough for a bed, the bed she compared to a sack of flour. I think the best word to describe the physical condition of the prison is "old". The food is in the mashed potatoes and gravy line. She joked about it being "a helluva way to get out of a meal ticket". The women, unlike the men, don't even leave the cell block for meals.

Donna describes Berkshire as an "active prison", comparatively-speaking. There is a work-study program in conjunction with Berkshire Community College working toward degree credits. Some inmates hold jobs in cleaners or hairdressers — they are earning money and it breaks up the day. The prison is trying to establish a program where inmates set up recreation programs at Belchertown. When we came Donna was tutoring inmates, some with no better than an eighth grade education, to set up reports correctly for the Belchertown program. Donna attends open meetings, for inmates and prison administration, three days a week.

I asked her how the guards treated her. She described them as pleasant and really "human" to the prisoners. I noticed that too while I was sitting there talking. Inmates and guards called each other by first names. There was plenty of talking and kidding going on.

The question most people want answered is "Do they know?" They do. In order to remain incognito she would have had to sacrifice a chance to work with prison programs. Instead she feels she may have sacrificed the trust of her fellow inmates. They are cautious of what they say in front of her, even possibly feeling that she is a direct channel to the administration.

She doesn't know what special privileges she would be granted — she hasn't asked for any. But they did let us continue talking after visitng hours were over.

We asked Donna to describe her usual day. She gets up at about 10:00, sleeping through breakfast which is brought up at 6:45. She tries then to exercise, as a PE major she misses that. Lunch is brought in at 11:30. In the afternoon she goes to meetings or writes letters. Late afternoon and evening are the toughest.

She says she does a lot of thinking. She has a rocking chair where she spends a lot of time, just staring through her big, barred window. She slept a lot at first but then found she couldn't sleep at night. Now she tries to keep active through the day. She had lost her conception of time. Most of the day is spent waiting for meals to come up — not the food but for a break in the monotony.

After three weeks, which is a sort of probationary time, she will be able to go outside — if she can find a guard to take her.

Again, it wasn't as frightening as I expected. It isn't "Women in Chains" (she saw that movie, too). But still I would look up and see each prisoner being searched as he re-entered the cell block from the visiting room. Donna is earning part of her fifteen BDIC credits in loneliness and frustration. She admits that in a month some of her cheerful optimism may have disappeared but she feels she has the commitment to pull her through.

She has the same commitment four UMass graduates and one undergrad had when they did the same this past summer. Patty Algina, Andy Zaikis, William Woods, and Ron Capaldo are working for graduate degrees in corrections at AIC. Dianne LeBlanc is here in University Without Walls. All five are helping to keep the programs at Pittsfield going, to expand them, and to provide counseling. They are also compiling their prison journals and publishing a book.

Donna left us, smiling to return to her cell block. We came back to UMass.

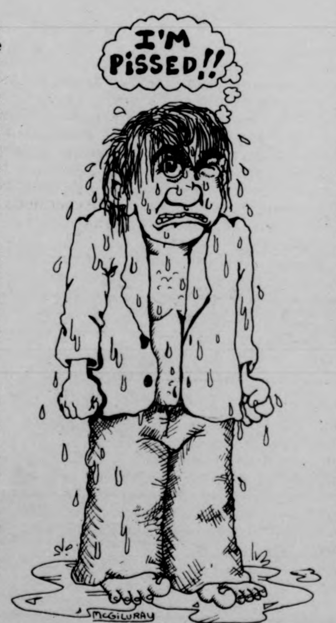
There's One In Every Crowd

by Sherm Boyson

Situation comedies and old movies have a cliche way of dealing with the conflict of the noisy party and the poor neighbor who is trying to sleep. After banging on the pipes and ceiling, the tired neighbor trucks to the scene and complains. Suddenly he is cut off, and invited to the party. He accepts and everyone is happy. Unfortunately, this doesn't work in real life, especially in a dorm.

Now I've no objection to having a little fun. I've been out there on the nineteenth floor defending my dorm against the slander coming from Adams, but midnight on Sunday when I have an early class Monday, is the wrong time to start a water fight.

But that's exactly what the floor above me did. Of course, I couldn't know what it was. All I knew was one floor above me there was a lot of thumping and screaming. At first, I figured that my mother was right, and that coed floors have orgies. If so, I figured they would all tire out soon. Well, they didn't so I banged on the ceiling. I got a lot of plaster on my bed sheets, but no quiet. I decided to get up to see if I could calm them down. I pulled on a pair of pants and grabbed a nearby suitcoat. As I was leaving I met the kid next door who had the same thing in mind.



We got one flight up when a whipped cream and water fight was in process. The counselor asked us what we were looking for. "Sleep" I quickly answered. He told us he wasn't going to stop them and left the option to us. We went to the hall and yelled our request for quiet. Then he came. He was 6'2", wearing a rain hat and coat, and carrying a large wastebasket. I didn't make it to the stairwell in time and had the whole basket of water dumped on me.

Maybe he figured, like the cliche, if I joined the party I wouldn't be mad anymore. That was not the case.

I now have a ruffled suitcoat, and spend my time thinking of revenge. Strawberry jelly in the shower stalls, "I Love Nixon" stickers on the doors, or maybe arranging for Agnew to move up there (he has to go somewhere).

But I guess I'll just hope that God will avenge me. He has a way of making it rain frogs and stuff like that.

I'm waiting Lord.

Questing After Dignity

by Jim LaMacchia

Boston's Gay Americans at State House

Courtesy of Boston Phoenix

Any encounter with the institutions of government in this country is always educational, and usually intimidating. Many of the people present at Gay Americans Day last Wednesday had attended the large demonstration in Washington in support of the cessation of the Indochina War. For others, it was their first public interaction with a government that influences their lives. But this demonstration differed from all others for everyone in attendance. It involved the assertion of personal dignity in an atmosphere of social disapproval, and touched the core personality of each participant. The issues of war and peace, and the transgression of deeply felt moral imperatives by the United States government differed from the assertion of individual worth which was the impetus of Gay Americans Day.

For the first time, gay people were joining with straights in large numbers to assert their right to express their sexuality without the fear of negative social sanctions — like discrimination in jobs and housing. In addition, the State of Massachusetts regards homosexuality as criminal behavior, and we were gathered on September 26 at the State House to tell the Massachusetts legislature that "non-ordinary" modes of expressing love do not constitute criminal behavior.

The major organizer of the event was Ms. Elaine Noble, an instructor at Emerson College and a Gay activist in Boston. Ms. Noble is also the moderator of a weekly radio program on WBUR called, "Gay Way," and she plans to be a candidate for the Massachusetts House of Representatives in the next congressional election. At issue were several pieces of legislation brought before the legislature last year. The legislation sought (1) provisions against discrimination in jobs and housing because of sexual preference, and (2) decriminalizing homosexual behavior. In addition, legislation was introduced to legalize many forms of heterosexual behavior which are now illegal. This involves eliminating the so-called "unnatural acts" section of the sex code and the sodomy laws. As Elaine Noble replied to one senator, "We're lobbying, in part, for what you do in bed." In response to a suggestion by some legislators that the section of the bill which dealt with amending the sex code caused the defeat of the legislation, Ms. Noble insisted that sexual liberation would be for everybody or for nobody. The Gay Rights legislation was introduced last Spring by Representative Barney Frank, the Gay community's champion from the Beacon Hill area. it received only 16 affirmative votes.

The intention of Gay Americans Day was to allow Gay people the opportunity to become acquainted with the legislative process. The bulk of the day involved small groups of people lobbying their senators and representatives to determine their support of future legislation relating to Gay rights. Gay people were joined in their efforts by representatives from the Civil Liberties Union of Mass., the Mass. chapter of Americans For Democratic Action, the Mass. chapter of the National Organization For Women (NOW), and Citizens For Participation In Political Action (CPPax). People visited their congressmen in small groups and confronted them on issues of Gay rights. The response of the legislators varied. Some extended outright support, other confessed confusion, and some were openly hostile. Many lawmakers displayed a conflict between their personal feelings of support and a political constituency which would respond negatively to an affirmative stand by their representative on Gay rights matters. Others, like Senator Quinlan of Norwood, were fearful that the legalization of homosexuality would make homosexuality socially acceptable, and open the avenue to things like Gay teachers. He worried about the effect of a Gay teacher upon a 15 year old student. I responded to his administrative assistant, that as a Gay teacher, my homosexuality did not affect my competence as a teacher. Also, exposure to Gay people at an impressionable age would aid the task of human liberation by exposing people to a positive role model before they had the opportunity to incorporate society's prejudices. Finally, statistics show that more heterosexuals than homosexuals commit sex crimes against children. Despite advance notification, some legislators avoided the issue by absenting themselves from their offices.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

A STATEMENT CONCERNING GAY AMERICAN'S DAY
26 SEPTEMBER 1973

FOR TOO LONG GAY AMERICANS HAVE BEEN DENIED THEIR RIGHTS AS FULL AND LEGAL CITIZENS OF THESE UNITED STATES. IT IS EACH OUR DUTY TO PROTECT AND PROMOTE EVERY OTHER PERSON'S RIGHTS, LESS SOMEDAY OUR OWN RIGHTS ARE ABROGATED.

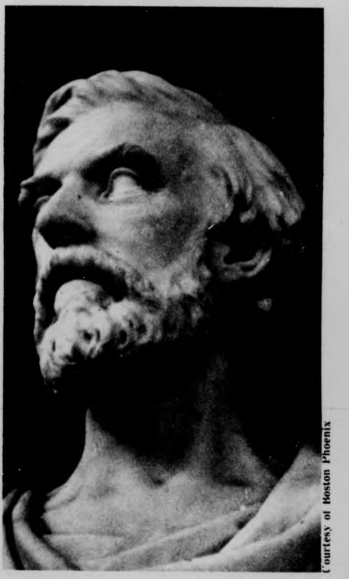
BUT EVEN MORE IMPORTANTLY, IT IS OUR DUTY TO MORALLY SUPPORT EACH INDIVIDUAL'S RIGHT TO PRIVACY AND THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS. IT IS IN THIS SPIRIT THAT I ENDORSE GAY AMERICAN'S DAY AND URGE EVERYONE TO PLACE PRESSURE ON THEIR LEGISLATORS SO THAT THE PERSECUTION OF GAY PERSONS MAY COME TO AN IMMEDIATE END.

Nicholas K. Apostola
NICHOLAS K. APOSTOLA
PRESIDENT

NKA/ek

Gay Americans Day culminated in an event of singular importance during the afternoon. Gay people, as a group, entered the gallery of both the House and Senate to observe the legislative session. It is traditional, when any organized group tours the State House, for that group to be announced by the Speaker and applauded by the legislators. When the legislators failed to applaud the Gay people, we stood and applauded ourselves. The event was important because it was a display of love, mutual respect, and solidarity. Finally, we could joyously approve ourselves with pride and dignity. We had obtained the most important weapon any group or individual could have in their fight to assert themselves as a center of creativity and a uniqueness — self-respect.

Now they know that we can gather a good group of people together.



Even the Statues came out.

Courtesy of Boston Phoenix

Inside 'Gate

by Jon Carr

The Agnew scandal, far from another White House plot to protect the President, has endangered the whole Nixon legal defense in the Watergate affair.

Such was the message delivered here last week by Robert Healy, executive editor of The Boston Globe, and Martin Nolan, head of the Globe's Washington bureau. The newsmen held an informal ninety-minute conversation touching on aspects of the Watergate scandals with a gathering of forty students in Thompson Hall.

Healy asserted that Agnew's problems have a direct bearing on executive privilege. An Agnew privilege claim to avoid a criminal indictment would probably take his case to the Supreme Court. But Agnew's argument for executive rights is much weaker than that of the Presidential tapes case, and the White House, according to Healy, is afraid that an unfavorable ruling in Agenw's case could adversely affect the President's attempt to keep the tapes under wrap.

Martin Nolan posited that the crucial time for Nixon in the tapes controversy would be Halloween of this year. Nolan expects a ruling from the Washington Court of Appeals within the next week. Since the liberal Court of Appeals is expected to rule against Nixon, a White House appeal to the Supreme Court would produce a final ruling in another two or three weeks.

Whether the Supreme Court's ruling is "definitive" or not is a political question. According to Nolan, none of the Washington lawyers to whom he has talked have any idea what "definitive" means. It is a political word which Nixon refused to define in any press conference.

Nixon's arrogant impeachment dare to the Congress (which asserts that impeachment is the only way for the legislative branch to get the tapes) was based on two assumptions, Nolan continued, Congress's lack of guts and fear of Agnew's accession. The impending removal of Agnews has brought impeachment closer to being a real option for Congress.

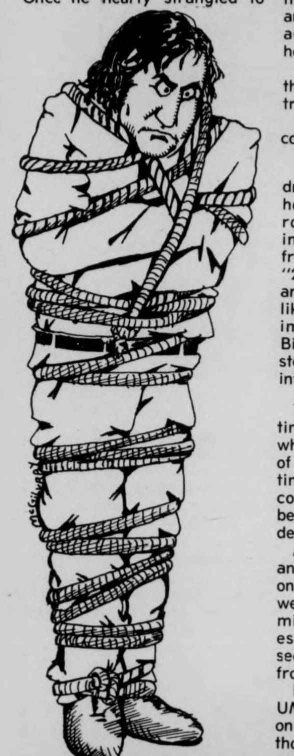
In answer to a question, Nolan said that should Nixon refuse a court order to release the tapes, Congress would begin impeachment proceedings. Healy added that the Watergate-related prosecutions already have plenty of evidence from the official's confessions like Magruder and Segretti, so convictions will result without the tapes.

Bigelow's Big Show

continued from page 1

He always picks the lock on his car, but once he was in a hurry and he kicked the door to his house in.

And he's had a number of accidents during his performances. When he was 18 he was locked into a trunk and thrown into a lake and came within seconds of drowning. Once he nearly strangled to death when a person from the audience tied a plastic rope around his neck. And not long ago he was sliced by three knives on the door of his board of death.



And now it's 8 p.m. and time for the show.

Rick Dennis comes on first for about half an hour doing magic tricks and card tricks and fooling members of the audience who come on stage to help him.

He says he owns the hands that you see on TV doing card tricks on "The Avengers."

But the big stuff is yet to come. Bigelow.

At about 8:30 two dudes dressed all in black, with black hoods and black masks, roll a black coffin into the ballroom. In front of the stage, to the tune of "2001, The Space Odyssey" and in front of a flashing light like you use when you try to imitate Charlie Chaplin, Bigelow, all dressed in white, steps out of the red velvet interior of the coffin.

The show was super and the timing was perfect except when Bigelow couldn't get one of his handcuffs unlocked in time and had to unwrap his boa constrictor from his neck before it strangled him to death.

And I even got to go on stage and handcuff Bigelow during one of his stunts. His hands were shaking. But then, a few minutes before, he had just escaped from handcuffs seconds before being ignited from a blast of gunpowder.

I dug it and I guess all the UMies in the standing-room-only crowd dug it too. Even though we never found a damn crane.

U.MASS. DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE
We've Something You Should See
A MOON FOR THE MISBEGOTTEN
by Eugene O'Neill
ALL TICKETS $1.00 THIS THURS., FRI., AND SAT. ONLY
No Ticket Reservations This Weekend
BARTLETT AUDITORIUM 8 p.m.
OCT. 4, 5, 6
Also Oct. 18, 19, 20; Nov. 1, 2, 3
BOX OFFICE OPENS AT 6 p.m.
Call 545-2579 FOR INFORMATION
1 - 5 p.m., MON. - FRI.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5th
8:00 pm
DOC WATSON accompanied by merle watson
& the GREEN MOUNTAIN BOYS at the FIELDHOUSE, windham college,
putney, vermont
exit 4 off U.S. 91
tickets on sale locally and at the door. for information call 802 387-5511
tickets - $ 3.00

THE TWILIGHT ZONE
narrated by
ROD SERLING
4 half-hour segments from the first season (1959) of the original T.V. Series
FRI., OCT. 5
7 - 9 - 11 MAHAR

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

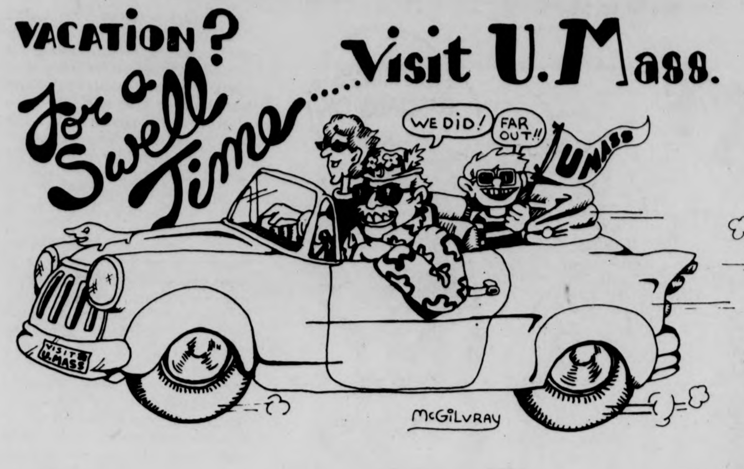
CINEMA I
Marx Brother's Double Feature
DUCK SOUP
HORSE FEATHERS G
Fri. - Tues.

CINEMA III.
THE LAST OF SHEILA PG
Raquel Welch - Dyan Cannon -
James Coburn - Richard Benjamin
Wed. - Tues.

Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

CINEMA II.
Jimi Plays Berkley
"His Last Live Berkley Concert" R
Wed. - Tues.
Co-Hit YELLOW SUBMARINE
Remember $1 Night - Mon. & Tues.!$$!

Visitor's Valhalla



VACATION?
For a Swell Time.....
Visit U.Mass.
WE DID!
FAR OUT!!
UMASS
VISIT U.MASS
McGilvray

by B.J.

As a student at this illustrious institution, I feel an obligation to offer a solution to the crisis which is enveloping us all. Spiralling inflation, high taxes, and federal cutbacks, I believe, will eventually force the school into bankruptsy. But there is a way! We must cooperate and take five years off, to find ourselves, meditate, or make bucks . . .

Bring the wife. Bring the mistress.

Anyway, here is the master plan.

I can see it now . . . Welcome to University Oasis. Year round resort center of New England. Bring the kids. Bring the dog. Everyone has a grand time out here. Only two hours from Boston, three from NYC, we have everything you need in close proximity. What do you think? We could certainly make some money off it with the right PR.

"The towers would be rented to private businesses...with a restaurant at the top."

Listen closely. Start with Southwest. The first attraction would be the stadium, not in its raw state of course. We'd have to build a huge dome over the thing. You know, the kind that would only let in tanning rays from the sun. Then, dig out half the football field, and fill it with the most elegant swimming pool the Berkshires have ever been graced with. Gold leaf on the diving board. the whole bit. You could get people on the economy kick. One hundred dollars a day, but you don't have to buy suntan lotion.

Yes, but will the elevators work?

On to the dorms. Southwest would be a potpourri of things, some dorms becoming locker rooms for the eighteen hole golf course made from the intramural fields. Others into varying boutiques, featuring styles for the hip and near hip. One boutique, Pierpont Capitalists, Inc. will do a spectacular' business with its mod styles and reasonable prices. The Towers would be rented to private businesses, Nibroc Paper Co. etc., with a restaurant at the top. Each tower would specialize in different types of food, such as Polynesian, Greek, etc. The three dining Commons would be made into different clubs.

"the best cuisine on the meal ticket scene"

All three would be turned over to entrepreneur Joel Stoneham. The first, Joel's Place, a casual, swinging singles club. The second appealing to family tastes, Soy and Brew. Customers would be able to eat all the crunchy soybeans they like, but must have pre-paid tickets for seconds on beer, sangria and red wine. The third bistro, "Joel's for Juniors", an arcade with pinball machines, juke boxes, fries, and other adolescent delights. All three will have, as Mr. Stoneham would put it, "the best in cuisine on the meal ticket scene".

"Cash in your chips at the Bursars, limit 100 dollars in winter, 50 in summer."

On to bigger and better things. Whitmore. Brommery's Palace, where you can place your bets on the computer to see if student number 4267890 gets into Food Science 101. He gets in, you win! (Cash in your chips at the Bursars Office, limit 100 dollars in Winter, 50 in Summer) Feel the thrills going up and down your spine as you see the computer print out o-v-e-r-s-u-b-s-c-r-i-b-e-d. And of course, nothing can compare with the lit up sign that says TILT.

You may lose your shirt, but it's your ass that gets burned

Herter Hall is reserved for business conventions, providing a sauna, massages, and other things flourishing gray flannel executives may desire.

The New Library would serye as a great lunch pad for the helicopter service from nearby airports.

Whatever your reason, UMass has the season.

The Campus Center would have a mall type atmosphere, much like it is now, with a family accent. Instead of safes and dope pipes, there would be balloons and bubble pipes. Stop into the Blue Wall for an ice cream soda.

Sylvan would be reserved for the heavies: Josh, Guru Mahara Ji, Hare Krishnas, Pope Paul, and Alfred E. Neuman. It would give them the elevation they needed as well as the distance the visitors needed.

WOPE would be exclusively for the women. There would be an extensive set up of exercise equipment, as well as dieticians, sauna baths, massages by Robert Redford and Marty Kelley, and various other sundries.

...Alfred E. Newman ...and Marty Kelley

Orchard Hill would be for the Hard Cores who decide they would like to live here. It would be a system of condominiums, each with its own distinction, and of varying price ranges.

The Quad and Central would be used to house the working force running the Oassis. It would consist of Engineering students working as busboys, who wish to get on the job experience; as well as other hard luck cases.

"Transportation by an ex-student rickshaw service."

Transportation would be provided by an ex-student rickshaw service. Since parking fees are so high, people have taken to bikes, rickshaws, and skate boards, thus also cutting down on pollution.

I believe that this rough proposal, with a few more provisions, would be quite feasible, and possibly make millionares out of all of us. And that's possibly more than our dipolmas from this place will ever do.

BOOTS
HANDCRAFTED BY...
Tony Lama CO., INC.
AND WOOD SOLE CLOGS HANDMADE FOR YOU BY....
Birckhead Leather
ONLY AT CLIMAX
Do It In Thee Alley North Of The Police Station

TOWN PIZZA
113 Russell St. Rte. 9
Hadley, Mass.
Next to Post Office
TEL. 584-2673
WITH THIS COUPON
SAVE 25¢ ON SMALL - 50¢ ON LARGE
OFFER EXPIRES 10/11/73
Mon.-Thurs., 11 a.m. to 12 mid.
Fri. & Sat., 11 a.m. to 2 a.m. Sun., 3 p.m. to 12 mid.

RIVERVIEW
Rt. 9 Williamsburg
Rock Bands three nights a week
Frisco & the Killers
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 5
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 6
Sunday - "Boogity Shoe"
25c a beer our specialty

MOVIE CALENDAR
SUNDAY, OCT. 7
A FRANK PERRY FILM
TUESDAY WELD • ANTHONY PERKINS
"PLAY IT AS IT LAYS" R
A UNIVERSAL PICTURE - TECHNICOLOR®
7 & 9 p.m.
S.U.B.
50c
MONDAY, OCT. 8
"MARJOE"
7 & 9 p.m.
S.U.B.
75c
THE SIG SHORE PRODUCTION
Super Fly R
THURSDAY, OCT. 11
7, 9, 11 p.m.
75c

SINGING INK

Sauteed Roachos, a Fantasy and Some Sunshine

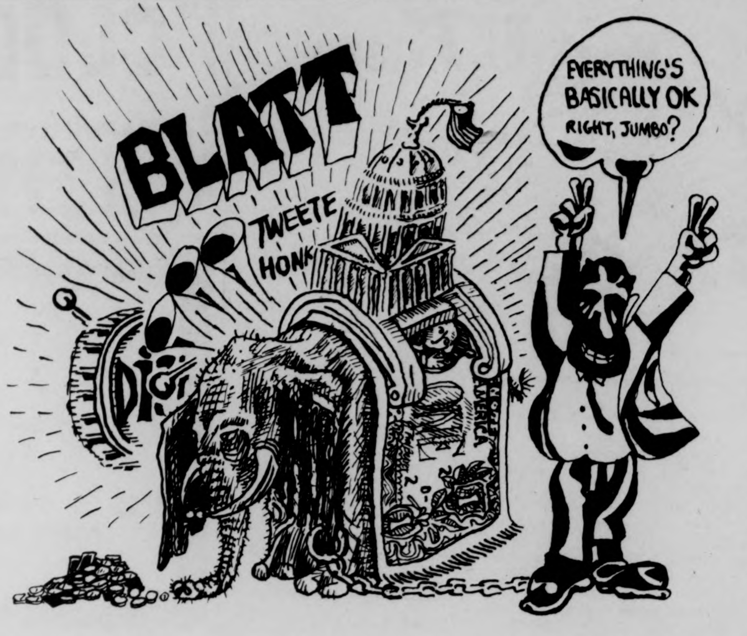
THE BEST OF EL ROACHO'S
BIGGEST HITS — El Roacho
Columbia KC32468
Playing Time — 48:36

RICHARD NIXON:
A FANTASY — David Frye
Buddah 1600
Playing Time — 29:42

YELLOW SUNSHINE
Gamble KZ32405
Playing Time — 35:23

by David Miller

El Roacho is a newly recorded band, despite the title of their album, and they appear to come from Out West somewhere. An interesting group this; one might expect a kind of country-rock from their names and from song titles like "Sauteed Roachos" and "How the West Was Won". What you get, surprisingly, is a kind of contemporary fossil — a good, tight, working band playing precisely in the style of Late Acid (or Upper Psychedelic) Rock. And doing it well, with enough eccentricities to give them a distinct individual style, but without the excesses, musically at least, which led to that music's decline.



BLATT
TWEETE
HONK
DIG
EVERYTHING'S BASICALLY OK RIGHT, JUMBO?

Lyrically, the situation is a little different. El Roacho is definitely stuck on kozmick consciousness, mainly in the person of the band's chief songwriter, E. O. Lively, III. Mr. Lively is capable of turning good phrases, but every so often he runs to pretentiousness, as in"—we can rise up, if we really want to. Just like steam from a cooking stew." Probably for this reason, the best songs on the album are those which Lively co-wrote with other members of the band, particularly "Sauteed Roachos" and "Truth of Rock and Roll". But thankfully, even the most clumsy lyrics do not get in the way of the music. As my cousin remarked, "It's a good album to dance to."

David Frye's latest album is another thing to add to your Watergate Money-Making Opportunity Curio Kit. In this piece, RMN (after a brief review) is put on trial for the break-in, confesses and is sent to the Big House, where he has all kinds of zany misadventures, culminating in his execution. I guess no one can really fault Mr. Frye for making use of such an obvious opportunity to make a little money; it's his business. And the album does contain moments which are absolute gems, such as the Disc Jockey hyping "Dick Nixon's Solid Gold". two-record set, a stoned Nixon asking his freak cellmate if he has a 40-pound bag of Oreos handy, Nixon's confession, in which he reverts to Bogart's paranoid "Caine Mutiny" Captain, and Perry Mason asking Nixon to identify a jowl impression left on one of the Watergate's walls after the burglary. It also has its share of predictable Nixon jokes, and a ridiculous ending in which the whole thing turns out to be Just A Dream. Buy it if you're a confirmed David Frye addict; otherwise, listen to a friend's copy.

And now the Unexpected Rush. Yellow Sunshine is a six-man group founded by Roland and Karl Chambers, of the late Romeos of Philadelphia. Their music is a blend of R&B, heavymetal rock, and something like Yes, i.e. no soaring strings here. Four of the seven cuts are purely instrumental, and on the other three the lyrics are still secondary. My favorite cuts at this point are "All Along the Seashore", an 8-minute-long piece alternating between quiet sections suggestive of the title and more insistent soloing, "Tell Me Who Can Say", a piece with lyrics and an excellent potential single, and "The Greetch", another instrumental most notable for its conga work and crazy laughter on the part of the band. Band members which should be mentioned are R. Chambers on guitar, K. Chambers and Lester Young playing flawless percussion, and Dexter Wansel, whose work on keyboards only occasionally sounds typical. You might consider picking up on Yellow Sunshine, regardless of whether or not you like Frye.

Orders from Captain Zeep

Wattstax 2 — The Living Word — Various Stax Artists (Stax STS-2-3018)

More 25 minute sides pressed on cheap vinyl make for the poorest sound in modern history. The performers and their performances are even less than on the first pseudo-event album in this series. D

Miz Lena's Boy—Wilson Pickett (RCA APL1-0312)

Album No. 2 in RCA's Respectable Wilson series. This one is hoppier than the first, but still is merely funktional. C.

Los Cochinos—Cheech & Chong (Ode SP 77019)

Goddamn it, these guys make me sick. Here they are with another album, full of jokes I heard in the third grade, overworked, pointlessly drawn-out bits of the most heavy-handed, moronic humor and NO CREATIVITY WHATSOEVER. Strictly for those enrolled in Comedy 101. F plus.

A Boy Named Sue — Lester Flatt & Earl Scruggs (Columbia — C-32244)

They did do more than "The Beverly ' Hillbillies" and "Foggy Mountain Breakdown", you know. If you don't know, this here album may be a fine place to start. Lester and Earl never slobber in their beer, but they can play like the good ol' boys you always knew they were.

—Mike Kostek

Earthbound—King Crimson (Island)

Only available as an English import, the year-old "Earthbound" would have to be a great addition too any King Crimson freak's collection. Recorded live in America in early 1972, it has Crimson stripped down to five instruments; guitar, mellotron, bass, saxes and drums. Despite the apparent scarcity of pieces in the band, they put on a good performance. It proves that KC isn't as dependent on the electronic wonders of the studio as one might think.

de One starts off with an old Crimson favorite, "21st Century Schizoid Man". Extended to eleven minutes, it contains some nice guitar work and distorted vocals by Robert Fripp as well as some tasteful sax and mellotron work by Mel Collins. "Peoria" and "The Sailors Tale" are also pretty good, but do not come up to "Schizoid Man".

The meat of the album is Side Two, containing the title track and the fifteen minute "Groon". Both numbers are made up into a continuous piece. Some of this stuff is amazing, especially during "Groon". The band members intensely concentrate on their instruments and it pays off with some good jazzy-space music.

In all, Earthbound is an enjoyable album. It may not be as good as Yes' live album, but it's still nice. What more could you ask? (Beware: this album should be played on a good stereo system. If not, it will sound like a piece of shit.)

—David Santos

Sunday Morning Coming Down—Johnny Cash (Columbia C32240)

Actually, for a collection of Johnny Cash material this isn't all that bad. This album features a variety of Cash's hits and stiffs alike. Besides his live renditions of "Fulson Prison Blues" and "Orange Blossom Special", the record includes the moving "If I Were A Carpenter" recorded with wife June Carter, and Kris Kristofferson's sensitive title song. Seriously though, even if you are a latent Johnny Cash fan waiting for the right album to come along, don't pay money for this. Eventually Columbia will get smart and release a genuine "greatest hits" album, which is something that they haven't done yet.

—Solid Vodka

Bopping through the Milky Way—Tim Tutor (Playboy PB122)

Playboy Records has given Tim Tutor, an entry into the world of cutting albums. Unfortunately, Tutor's place in that world is that of a musician. This debut album is very plastic. Tutor's voice sounds like a mellow Metelica. His instrumental backing is Muzak; typical Playboy Penthouse ensemble. Do not, under any circumstances, buy this album unless you are a collector of obscure recordings. By the way, Tutor's music is rock and roll, a la Leon Russell, complete with female vocal backing.

—Jon Carr

TONITE
SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS
SAT.
Walker Airlines
SUNDAY FAT
at the Rusty Nail
Inn
Rte. 47 Sunderland
665-4[illegible]7

Amherst Entertainment Committee and Three Thumbs Productions.
presents
A Dirt Floor Boogie
with
The James Montgomery Band
and
Duke & The Drivers
Amherst College Cage, Fri., Oct. 5th 8:00 p.m.
Tickets $2.50 C.C. Concourse

Twisting the Popular Meat

Over-Nite Sensation
The Mothers Of Invention
Warners—Discreet MS2149
Time: 34:37

Personel:
Frank Zappa: vocals, guitar
Ian Underwood: flute, clarinet, alto sax, tenor sax
Ruth Underwood: marimba, vibes, percussion
Ralph Humphrey: drums
Jean-Luc Ponty: violin, baritone violin
Sal Marquez: trumpet, vocals
George Duke: keyboards, synthesizer
Tom Fowler: bass
Bruce Fowler: trombone
Ricky Lancelotti: vocals on two cuts
Kin Vassy: vocal on one cut

by Jeff Clayton and Mike Kostek

Frank Zappa used to be weird. At least, that was his most striking feature, his eye-catching gimmick, his claim to fame and his secret of success. He was absolutely the most bizarre object in sight, as well as the most prolific and original. He was and is the Arranger par excellance, never creating his own forms so much as collaging everybody else's, from Stockhausen to Chuck Berry to Walt Disney. He plasters literally everything together with great vision and precision, and with such tangible personality that no piece of his could ever be anyone else's, and no one else can even approximate his.

His earlier work has a gristly fungus quality all its own, because his situation in life was reminiscent of a rat caught in a beartrap. While Beatlemania was sapping the combined energy of an entire planet, his days passed in an unending shitstorm which found a savage reflection in his music. The sheer force of his, well, what shall I say kids, his artistic-commercial vision, his bitter ridicule of a depraved society, earned him first critical awe and second knee-jerk popularity, hence financial well-being. So it is that on a summer day you can hear "The Mudshark" howling out of the second floor of Theta Chi without the slightest surprise.

The Uncle Meat LP exhausted the last of Frank's nastiness, however, and beginning with the startling commercial success that was Hot Rats he began to get away from the blood-curdling posture of ugliness that was his trademark. He matured, mellowed and began to play nice. Sloveness now allows him to hold the American pig-wolf at arm's length. So his frantic energy and brutality have been allowed to diminish. Now he insulates himself from the hysteria, perfecting his skills, tending his family, composing considerably straighter and more gently. But one fact remains, in spite of the press's tendency to obliterate it with scorn, indifference, and fart-headedness: Zappa is still a sardonic twister of the popular meat, as his new album Over-Nite Sensation demonstrates.

Over-Nite is carefully arranged, almost too carefully. The 'wacky' parts are fine and unexpected, but aren't quite as Gonzoid as before. Ah well, 'nobody writes lyrics like Frank Zappa.'

Please to see the King. Nobody knows the scurvy he's seen (remember, Zappa's still living out there in Laurel Canyon, Los Angeles, California, where the junkies and bug house escapees have part time jobs picking roaches out of the gutters. So here's Zappa, straight as Van Vliet, stuck in the middle of the Amerrikan Dream going Pweef Pweef Pweef. And it comes down to vinyled fragments that we have to reconstruct and amplify accordingly to get the meaning of this person's latest run-ins with LOST SOULS AND REPTILLIAN CREATURES LIVING ON THIS PLANET. Strictly on the outs, you see.

Thus, when Frank hangs lots of clever little asides and sharp musical ideas on a bare skeletal frame like "Dinah-Moe Humm", we can only bare with it, as our foreign correspondant is obviously undergoing great stress.

Ah, but Frank's coming around, swaying his guitar around some splendid squalid notes and singing in a detached but controlled manner like never before. The inspired work by Duke on keyboards and synthesizer, Humphries on drums and Ponty on violin would be enough to stand in itself, but Zappa's arranged his big band in enough novel and interesting ways to make us happier yet.

Best cuts: I'm The Slime", "Montana", "Zomby Woof."

I'M THE SLIME

vocal: FRANK ZAPPA

I am gross and perverted
I'm obsessed 'n deranged
I have existed for years
But very little has changed
I am the tool of the Government
And industry too
For I am destined to rule
And regulate you

I may be vile and pernicious
But you can't look away
I make you think I'm delicious
With the stuff that I say
I am the best you can get
Have you guessed me yet?
I am the slime oozin' out
From your TV set

You will obey me while I lead you
And eat the garbage that I feed you
Until the day that we don't need you
Don't go for help . . . no one will heed you
Your mind is totally controlled
It has been stuffed into my mold
And you will do as you are told
Until the rights to you are sold

That's right, folks . . .
Don't touch that dial

Well, I am the slime from your video
Oozin' along on your livin' room floor

I am the slime from your video
Can't stop the slime, people, lookit me go

CONCERTS

A Salute to Paul Robeson
Bowker Auditorium
Oct. 2

Nowhere in the entire valley was there to be found a more spiritual evening than that held last Tuesday night in Bowker. This was a special tribute to Paul Robeson, a great black actor, singer and man who, in the 1950's, stood and told the Senate Un-American Activities Committee to go to hell.

Among those who made the evening truly special were:

The Voices Of New Africa, a full choir of spirit; Roland Wiggins, a brilliant mind guiding gifted hands at the piano.

The Boyer Brothers, gospel soul brothers; Edward Boatner, a seventy-five year old man with a magnificent voice; Sonia Sanchez, who read some of her beautiful poetry; and The Mass Appeal, who had a few problems, but still shone on.

Also included was a film on Robeson's life.

Max Roach, who, along with Archie Shepp, organized the evening, presented a painting to Elma Lewis in a brief ceremony lengthened by the standing ovation given to Ms. Lewis.

This salute was a learning experience to those who had not heard of Paul Robeson, and a revival of his spirit to those who had. Most of the music was gospel, and even those who aren't great lovers of gospel felt themselves moved and touched by it. After all, there is nothing more inspiring than an invocation of the human spirit, and that's exactly what gospel is.

At one point during the evening, the coordinator Aklin Lynch made a most interesting observation, "I can't help noting the differences in what's been happening on this campus. Two weeks ago we had the Latin American Festival, highlighted by Eddie Palmieri and his orchestra. Last week on campus were Jill Johnston and the Lesbian Solution, and Josh McDowell and Candi. Now we are having this tribute tonight, and Thursday night Mr. Duke Ellington will be appearing. I feel the differences in the cultures here on campus are made quite apparent by these recent events."

At the end of the program, Aklin cried out, "Paul Robeson's spirit has been with us here tonight!" Who could want more?

-- Mike Kostek

In Concert:
Elton John
Boston Garden
Sept. 25

It was reported that Elton and crew landed at Logan Airport about an hour before they were scheduled to appear. So that might help to explain the especially long performance given by the preceding band, even then it was a 35 minute wait before Elton finally waltzed onto stage and sat down in front of his Steinway to give an extraordinary concert.

The songs were mostly from Don't Shoot Me I'm Only The Piano Player, his newest album. He played an extremely long extention of "Mad Man Across the Water," as well as two parts of "Funeral For A Friend," one of the cuts on his soon to be released album, "Goodbye Yellow Brick Road."

After his ovation Elton reappeared to do an unforgettable job on "Saturday Night" and then left. After his second ovation he returned again, clearly exhausted, to announce a guest. So, in his first performance on stage since his accident three months ago, Stevie Wonder, along with Elton John, did their version of "Honky Tonk Woman" for the ecstatic audience.

- - Lori Ann Yeslow

In Concert:
Jethro Tull
Boston Garden,
28 September

Boston Garden is such a bad place to see a concert that I was predetermined to dislike Jethro Tull from the start. The crowd was too high and obnoxious, the atmosphere was much too hot and muggy, and the seats were pushed much too close together (the more people that can be squeezed together, the more bucks the Garden makes).

Livingston Taylor started the show with his haughty egotistical style of simple, boring ballads. Everything from the introduction of his side men to his final bow was a production, and at least to this reporter, it produced disgust. Back to the Cambridge Common, Liv.

By the time Jethro Tull began their set, Boston Garden was uncomfortable. Well, they surprised the shit out of me. They were magnificent. From the opening notes of "A Passion Play" with Jeffrey Hammond-Hammond and Martin Barre appearing in puffs of smoke, through "Thick as a Brick" and most of the Aqualung album, the energy created by the band was astounding. Hammond-Hammond never stopped prancing around while never missing a bass note, Barre sustained some of the longest notes I've ever heard, Anderson performed masterfully, John Evan, though acting rather juvenile (running back and forth across the stage with no apparent reason) made his keyboards speak, and even Barriemore Barlow's drum solo was good. Altogether the sound produced throughout their 150 minute set was tight and most professional, and believe it or not, the acoustics were good, especially considering the size of that place. Although most of the crowd would have been just happy to see Ten Years After or J. Geils Band, Jethro Tull proved to them that music can have more than twelve bars. Their musical presence will be missed.

— David Sokol

In Concert:
Real Tears
at the Rusty Nail
Sept. 25

If you didn't get a chance last Tuesday night to get away from your books (or whatever else you were preoccupied with) then you missed hearing Real Tears at the Rusty Nail. You shouldn't have.

Containing a nucleus of former members of Flight, Real Tears has become the area's only jazz band, and a really good one. I hesitate to call their music "jazz-rock" not only because of what I feel are ugly connotations of the term, but also because I think that these people are striving for a pure jazz form (and believe me, they're succeeding).

Each of the eight musicians contribute in their own unique way to make the band as tight as you'll find anywhere. Solos are skillfully improvised wonders, and backup accompaniment is impeccable. The guitarist and sax player deserve particular mention.

If you go out to dance and have a good time, don't be misled by the fact that Real Tears is a jazz band. There was a crowd up dancing a good part of the time at the Nail (in fact, all of the group's material is danceable), and just ask the people that went if they had a good time.

The band's material ranges from the familiar, to the original, to the obscure, but all the songs are played in a way that will make you remember and like them.

The next time you hear about Real Tears playing somewhere — go! This is one band you'll never regret seeing.

-- Ken Blanchard

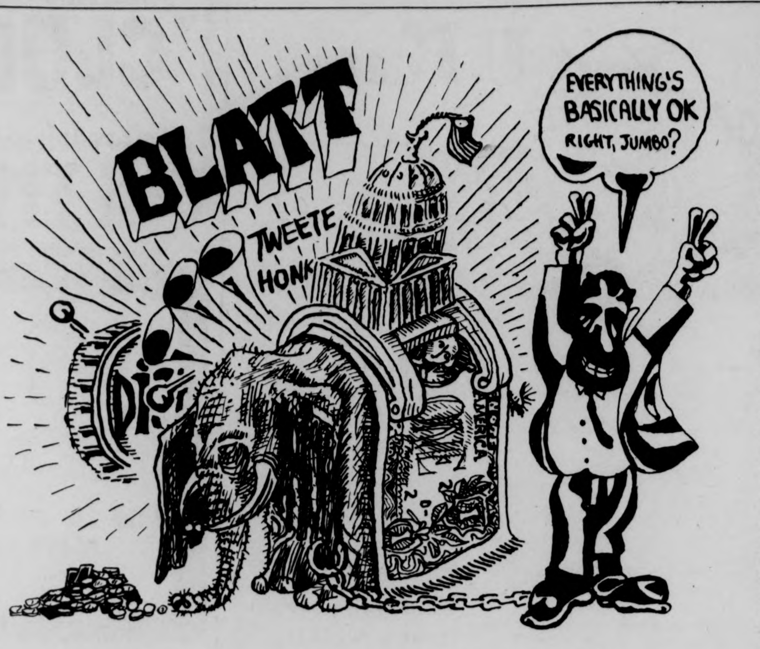
SINGING INK

Sauteed Roachos, a Fantasy and Some Sunshine

THE BEST OF EL ROACHO'S BIGGEST HITS — El Roacho
Columbia KC32468
Playing Time — 48:36

RICHARD NIXON:
A FANTASY — David Frye
Buddah 1600
Playing Time — 29:42

YELLOW SUNSHINE
Gamble KZ32405
Playing Time — 35:23



BLATT
TWEETE
HONK
DIG AMERICA
EVERYTHING'S BASICALLY OK RIGHT, JUMBO?

by David Miller

El Roacho is a newly recorded band, despite the title of their album, and they appear to come from Out West somewhere. An interesting group this; one might expect a kind of country-rock from their names and from song titles like "Sauteed Roachos" and "How the West Was Won". What you get, surprisingly, is a kind of contemporary fossil — a good, tight, working band playing precisely in the style of Late Acid (or Upper Psychedelic) Rock. And doing it well, with enough eccentricities to give them a distinct individual style, but without the excesses, musically at least, which led to that music's decline.

Lyrically, the situation is a little different. El Roacho is definitely stuck on kozmick consciousness, mainly in the person of the band's chief songwriter, E. O. Lively, III. Mr. Lively is capable of turning good phrases, but every so often he runs to pretentiousness, as in"—we can rise up, if we really want to. Just like steam from a cooking stew." Probably for this reason, the best songs on the album are those which Lively co-wrote with other members of the band, particularly "Sauteed Roachos" and "Truth of Rock and Roll". But thankfully, even the most clumsy lyrics do not get in the way of the music. As my cousin remarked, "It's a good album to dance to."

David Frye's latest album is another thing to add to your Watergate Money-Making Opportunity Curio Kit. In this piece, RMN (after a brief review) is put on trial for the break-in, confesses and is sent to the Big House, where he has all kinds of zany misadventures, culminating in his execution. I guess no one can really fault Mr. Frye for making use of such an obvious opportunity to make a little money; it's his business. And the album does contain moments which are absolute gems, such as the Disc Jockey hyping "Dick Nixon's Solid Gold" two-record set, a stoned Nixon asking his freak cellmate if he has a 40-pound bag of Oreos handy, Nixon's confession, in which he reverts to Bogart's paranoid "Caine Mutiny" Captain, and Perry Mason asking Nixon to identify a jowl impression left on one of the Watergate's walls after the burglary. It also has its share of predictable Nixon jokes, and a ridiculous ending in which the whole thing turns out to be Just A Dream. Buy it if you're a confirmed David Frye addict; otherwise, listen to a friend's copy.

And now the Unexpected Rush. Yellow Sunshine is a six-man group founded by Roland and Karl Chambers, of the late Romeos of Philadelphia. Their music is a blend of R&B, heavymetal rock, and something like Yes, i.e. no soaring strings here. Four of the seven cuts are purely instrumental, and on the other three the lyrics are still secondary. My favorite cuts at this point are "All Along the Seashore", an 8-minute-long piece alternating between quiet sections suggestive of the title and more insistent soloing, "Tell Me Who Can Say", a piece with lyrics and an excellent potential single, and "The Greetch", another instrumental most notable for its conga work and crazy laughter on the part of the band. Band members which should be mentioned are R. Chambers on guitar, K. Chambers and Lester Young playing flawless percussion, and Dexter Wansel, whose work on keyboards only occasionally sounds typical. You might consider picking up on Yellow Sunshine, regardless of whether or not you like Frye.

Orders from Captain Zeep

Wattstax 2 — The Living Word — Various Stax Artists (Stax STS-2-3018)

More 25 minute sides pressed on cheap vinyl make for the poorest sound in modern history. The performers and their performances are even less than on the first pseudo-event album in this series. D

Miz Lena's Boy—Wilson Pickett (RCA APL1-0312)

Album No. 2 in RCA's Respectable Wilson series. This one is hoppier than the first, but still is merely funktional. C.

Los Cochinos—Cheech & Chong (Ode SP 77019)

Goddamn it, these guys make me sick. Here they are with another album, full of jokes I heard in the third grade, overworked, pointlessly drawn-out bits of the most heavy-handed, moronic humor and NO CREATIVITY WHATSOEVER. Strictly for those enrolled in Comedy 101. F plus.

A Boy Named Sue — Lester Flatt & Earl Scruggs (Columbia — C-32244)

They did do more than "The Beverly ' Hillbillies" and "Foggy Mountain Breakdown", you know. If you don't know, this here album may be a fine place to start. Lester and Earl never slobber in their beer, but they can play like the good ol' boys you always knew they were.

—Mike Kostek

Earthbound—King Crimson (Island)

Only available as an English import, the year-old "Earthbound" would have to be a great addition too any King Crimson freak's collection. Recorded live in America in early 1972, it has Crimson stripped down to five instruments; guitar, mellotron, bass, saxes and drums. Despite the apparent scarcity of pieces in the band, they put on a good performance. It proves that KC isn't as dependent on the electronic wonders of the studio as one might think.

de One starts off with an old Crimson favorite, "21st Century Schizoid Man". Extended to eleven minutes, it contains some nice guitar work and distorted vocals by Robert Fripp as well as some tasteful sax and mellotron work by Mel Collins. "Peoria" and "The Sailors Tale" are also pretty good, but do not come up to "Schizoid Man".

The meat of the album is Side Two, containing the title track and the fifteen minute "Groon". Both numbers are made up into a continuous piece. Some of this stuff is amazing, especially during "Groon". The band members intensely concentrate on their instruments and it pays off with some good jazzy-space music.

In all, Earthbound is an enjoyable album. It may not be as good as Yes' live album, but it's still nice. What more could you ask? (Beware: this album should be played on a good stereo system. If not, it will sound like a piece of shit.)

—David Santos

Sunday Morning Coming Down—Johnny Cash (Columbia C32240)

Actually, for a collection of Johnny Cash material this isn't all that bad. This album features a variety of Cash's hits and stiffs alike. Besides his live renditions of "Fulson Prison Blues" and "Orange Blossom Special", the record includes the moving "If I Were A Carpenter" recorded with wife June Carter, and Kris Kristofferson's sensitive title song. Seriously though, even if you are a latent Johnny Cash fan waiting for the right album to come along, don't pay money for this. Eventually Columbia will get smart and release a genuine "greatest hits" album, which is something that they haven't done yet.

—Solid Vodka

Bopping through the Milky Way—Tim Tutor (Playboy PB122)

Playboy Records has given Tim Tutor, an entry into the world of cutting albums. Unfortunately, Tutor's place in that world is that of a musician. This debut album is very plastic. Tutor's voice sounds like a mellow Metelica. His instrumental backing is Muzak; typical Playboy Penthouse ensemble. Do not, under any circumstances, buy this album unless you are a collector of obscure recordings. By the way, Tutor's music is rock and roll, a la Leon Russell, complete with female vocal backing.

—Jon Carr

TONITE
SOME OF MY BEST FRIENDS
SAT.
Walker Airlines
SUNDAY FAT
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47 Sunderland
665-4[illegible]7

Amherst Entertainment Committee and Three Thumbs Productions.
presents
A Dirt Floor Boogie
with
The James Montgomery Band
and
Duke & The Drivers
Amherst College Cage, Fri., Oct. 5th 8:00 p.m.
Tickets $2.50 C.C. Concourse

Twisting the Popular Meat

Over-Nite Sensation
The Mothers Of Invention
Warners—Discreet MS2149
Time: 34:37

Personel:
Frank Zappa: vocals, guitar
Ian Underwood: flute, clarinet, alto sax, tenor sax
Ruth Underwood: marimba, vibes, percussion
Ralph Humphrey: drums
Jean-Luc Ponty: violin, baritone violin
Sal Marquez: trumpet, vocals
George Duke: keyboards, synthesizer
Tom Fowler: bass
Bruce Fowler: trombone
Ricky Lancelotti: vocals on two cuts
Kin Vassy: vocal on one cut

by Jeff Clayton and Mike Kostek

Frank Zappa used to be weird. At least, that was his most striking feature, his eye-catching gimmick, his claim to fame and his secret of success. He was absolutely the most bizarre object in sight, as well as the most prolific and original. He was and is the Arranger par excellance, never creating his own forms so much as collaging everybody else's, from Stockhausen to Chuck Berry to Walt Disney. He plasters literally everything together with great vision and precision, and with such tangible personality that no piece of his could ever be anyone else's, and no one else can even approximate his.

I'M THE SLIME

vocal: FRANK ZAPPA

I am gross and perverted
I'm obsessed 'n deranged
I have existed for years
But very little has changed
I am the tool of the Government
And industry too
For I am destined to rule
And regulate you

I may be vile and pernicious
But you can't look away
I make you think I'm delicious
With the stuff that I say
I am the best you can get
Have you guessed me yet?
I am the slime oozin' out
From your TV set

You will obey me while I lead you
And eat the garbage that I feed you
Until the day that we don't need you
Don't go for help . . . no one will heed you
Your mind is totally controlled
It has been stuffed into my mold
And you will do as you are told
Until the rights to you are sold

That's right, folks . . .
Don't touch that dial

Well, I am the slime from your video
Oozin' along on your livin' room floor

I am the slime from your video
Can't stop the slime, people, lookit me go

His earlier work has a gristly fungus quality all its own, because his situation in life was reminiscent of a rat caught in a beartrap. While Beatlemania was sapping the combined energy of an entire planet, his days passed in an unending shitstorm which found a savage reflection in his music. The sheer force of his, well, what shall I say kids, his artistic-commercial vision, his bitter ridicule of a depraved society, earned him first critical awe and second knee-jerk popularity, hence financial well-being. So it is that on a summer day you can hear "The Mudshark" howling out of the second floor of Theta Chi without the slightest surprise.

The Uncle Meat LP exhausted the last of Frank's nastiness, however, and beginning with the startling commercial success that was Hot Rats he began to get away from the blood-curdling posture of ugliness that was his trademark. He matured, mellowed and began to play nice. Sloveness now allows him to hold the American pig-wolf at arm's length. So his frantic energy and brutality have been allowed to diminish. Now he insulates himself from the hysteria, perfecting his skills, tending his family, composing considerably straighter and more gently. But one fact remains, in spite of the press's tendency to obliterate it with scorn, indifference, and fart-headedness: Zappa is still a sardonic twister of the popular meat, as his new album Over-Nite Sensation demonstrates.

Over-Nite is carefully arranged, almost too carefully. The 'wacky' parts are fine and unexpected, but aren't quite as Gonzoid as before. Ah well, 'nobody writes lyrics like Frank Zappa.'

Please to see the King. Nobody knows the scurvy he's seen (remember, Zappa's still living out there in Laurel Canyon, Los Angeles, California, where the junkies and bug house escapees have part time jobs picking roaches out of the gutters. So here's Zappa, straight as Van Vliet, stuck in the middle of the Amerrikan Dream going Pweef Pweef Pweef. And it comes down to vinyled fragments that we have to reconstruct and amplify accordingly to get the meaning of this person's latest run-ins with LOST SOULS AND REPTILLIAN CREATURES LIVING ON THIS PLANET. Strictly on the outs, you see.

Thus, when Frank hangs lots of clever little asides and sharp musical ideas on a bare skeletal frame like "Dinah-Moe Humm", we can only bare with it, as our foreign correspondant is obviously undergoing great stress.

Ah, but Frank's coming around, swaying his guitar around some splendid squalid notes and singing in a detached but controlled manner like never before. The inspired work by Duke on keyboards and synthesizer, Humphries on drums and Ponty on violin would be enough to stand in itself, but Zappa's arranged his big band in enough novel and interesting ways to make us happier yet.

Best cuts: I'm The Slime", "Montana", "Zomby Woof."

CONCERTS

A Salute to Paul Robeson
Bowker Auditorium
Oct. 2

Nowhere in the entire valley was there to be found a more spiritual evening than that held last Tuesday night in Bowker. This was a special tribute to Paul Robeson, a great black actor, singer and man who, in the 1950's, stood and told the Senate Un-American Activities Committee to go to hell.

Among those who made the evening truly special were:

The Voices Of New Africa, a full choir of spirit; Roland Wiggins, a brilliant mind guiding gifted hands at the piano.

The Boyer Brothers, gospel soul brothers; Edward Boatner, a seventy-five year old man with a magnificent voice; Sonia Sanchez, who read some of her beautiful poetry; and The Mass Appeal, who had a few problems, but still shone on.

Also included was a film on Robeson's life.

Max Roach, who, along with Archie Shepp, organized the evening, presented a painting to Elma Lewis in a brief ceremony lengthened by the standing ovation given to Ms. Lewis.

This salute was a learning experience to those who had not heard of Paul Robeson, and a revival of his spirit to those who had. Most of the music was gospel, and even those who aren't great lovers of gospel felt themselves moved and touched by it. After all, there is nothing more inspiring than an invocation of the human spirit, and that's exactly what gospel is.

At one point during the evening, the coordinator Aklin Lynch made a most interesting observation, "I can't help noting the differences in what's been happening on this campus. Two weeks ago we had the Latin American Festival, highlighted by Eddie Palmieri and his orchestra. Last week on campus were Jill Johnston and the Lesbian Solution, and Josh McDowell and Candi. Now we are having this tribute tonight, and Thursday night Mr. Duke Ellington will be appearing. I feel the differences in the cultures here on campus are made quite apparent by these recent events."

At the end of the program, Aklin cried out, "Paul Robeson's spirit has been with us here tonight!" Who could want more?

-- Mike Kostek

In Concert:
Elton John
Boston Garden
Sept. 25

It was reported that Elton and crew landed at Logan Airport about an hour before they were scheduled to appear. So that might help to explain the especially long performance given by the preceding band, even then it was a 35 minute wait before Elton finally waltzed onto stage and sat down in front of his Steinway to give an extraordinary concert.

The songs were mostly from Don't Shoot Me I'm Only The Piano Player, his newest album. He played an extremely long extention of "Mad Man Across the Water," as well as two parts of "Funeral For A Friend," one of the cuts on his soon to be released album, "Goodbye Yellow Brick Road."

After his ovation Elton reappeared to do an unforgettable job on "Saturday Night" and then left. After his second ovation he returned again, clearly exhausted, to announce a guest. So, in his first performance on stage since his accident three months ago, Stevie Wonder, along with Elton John, did their version of "Honky Tonk Woman" for the ecstatic audience.

-- Lori Ann Yeslow

In Concert:
Jethro Tull
Boston Garden,
28 September

Boston Garden is such a bad place to see a concert that I was predetermined to dislike Jethro Tull from the start. The crowd was too high and obnoxious, the atmosphere was much too hot and muggy, and the seats were pushed much too close together (the more people that can be squeezed together, the more bucks the Garden makes).

Livingston Taylor started the show with his haughty egotistical style of simple, boring ballads. Everything from the introduction of his side men to his final bow was a production, and at least to this reporter, it produced disgust. Back to the Cambridge Common, Liv.

By the time Jethro Tull began their set, Boston Garden was uncomfortable. Well, they surprised the shit out of me. They were magnificent. From the opening notes of "A Passion Play" with Jeffrey Hammond-Hammond and Martin Barre appearing in puffs of smoke, through "Thick as a Brick" and most of the Aqualung album, the energy created by the band was astounding. Hammond-Hammond never stopped prancing around while never missing a bass note, Barre sustained some of the longest notes I've ever heard, Anderson performed masterfully, John Evan, though acting rather juvenile (running back and forth across the stage with no apparent reason) made his keyboards speak, and even Barriemore Barlow's drum solo was good. Altogether the sound produced throughout their 150 minute set was tight and most professional, and believe it or not, the acoustics were good, especially considering the size of that place. Although most of the crowd would have been just happy to see Ten Years After or J. Geils Band, Jethro Tull proved to them that music can have more than twelve bars. Their musical presence will be missed.

— David Sokol

In Concert:
Real Tears
at the Rusty Nail
Sept. 25

If you didn't get a chance last Tuesday night to get away from your books (or whatever else you were preoccupied with) then you missed hearing Real Tears at the Rusty Nail. You shouldn't have.

Containing a nucleus of former members of Flight, Real Tears has become the area's only jazz band, and a really good one. I hesitate to call their music "jazz-rock" not only because of what I feel are ugly connotations of the term, but also because I think that these people are striving for a pure jazz form (and believe me, they're succeeding).

Each of the eight musicians contribute in their own unique way to make the band as tight as you'll find anywhere. Solos are skillfully improvised wonders, and backup accompaniment is impeccable. The guitarist and sax player deserve particular mention.

If you go out to dance and have a good time, don't be misled by the fact that Real Tears is a jazz band. There was a crowd up dancing a good part of the time at the Nail (in fact, all of the group's material is danceable), and just ask the people that went if they had a good time.

The band's material ranges from the familiar, to the original, to the obscure, but all the songs are played in a way that will make you remember and like them.

The next time you hear about Real Tears playing somewhere — go! This is one band you'll never regret seeing.

-- Ken Blanchard

Building a Winner

by Bob Estelle

People have often wondered what an NFL club does to build a winner. We hear of the success of Don Shula, George Allen, etc. But today, there are teams in the NFL who have built up, through trading and draft choices.

One of these new and sudden contenders is the New York Giants. One of the oldest franchises that has seen fourteen post-season games with players such as Y.A.Tittle, Frank Gifford, Kyle Rote and Andy Robustelli; the Giants have not won a divisional title since 1963. But in 1969, Alex Webster became the head coach and started the building process that has now developed into a contender.

Last spring, this writer interviewed with two members of the Giant family. Jim Trimble, the Director of Pro Personnel, is the man who signs ballplayers to their contracts, advises coaches and management about trades, cuts and draft choices. Norman Snead is the No. 1 Giant quarterback. His story is interesting. After a strong college career at Wake Forest, Norm Snead was the first draft choice of the Washington Redskins in 1961. He stayed for three years, quarterbacking a perennial loser. In 1964, he was traded to the Philadelphia Eagles for Sonny Jurgenson. For seven seasons he labored with poor coaching and an erratic offensive line. He, too, became erratic, looking brilliant one week, throwing interceptions the next. People said he wasn't a winner. The Eagles gave up and dealt him to Minnesota in a multi-player deal early in 1971. He spent most of that season on the bench and was sent to Fun City in the Fran Tarkenton trade one year later.

Trimble says that when the Giants made the deal with Minnesota, they were happy to get Norman. They felt he was a good quarterback that still had a few good years. Many felt the Giants were crazy in giving the quarterback job to a 33 year old man who had not beaten out such competition as Gary Cuozzo and Bob Lee a year before. But the ace the Giants had up their sleeve was Y.A. Tittle, their quarterback coach. YAT worked hard and long hours with Snead in every facet of the game. Norman went on to have his best season ever, leading the NFL in completion percentage. And he says he wants to play as long as he can and he's grateful the Giants gave him that chance.

Offense

The center is 34 year old Greg Larson, who has worse knees than Joe Namath. Because of a knee injury in 1964 he submitted to a doctor rebuilding his entire knee just to keep playing. He is one of the most consistent players the Giants have had over the years. The guards are Doug Van Horn and Dick Enderle. Van Horn earned a starting job in 1969 while Enderle came to the team a year ago, having a great year. Enderle was a substitute in Atlanta when the Giants exchanged a sixth round pick for him. But line coach Ray Wietecha, a former Giant center, did a job with him. The tackles are Willie Young, a starter since 1966, and Joe Taffoni, who came back after a one-year retirement. The backups are second year man John Hill, seven year man Bob Hyland and rookie Bart Buetow, all with potential to start. This offensive line protected Giant quarterbacks all but eight times last year.

The quarterback is Norm Snead with former Atlanta Falcon starter Randy Johnson as backup.

The running backs are All-Pro Ron Johnson, former UConn star Vince Clements, former All-America Joe Orduna, Charlie Evans, one of O.J. Simpson's (and Clarence Davis') running mates, a fierce blocker, and kick return specialist Rocky Thompson who gets better with each game. Incidentally, Thompson's slow start in the pros may be because he did not play high school football in his native Bermuda. Trimble feels that this may have slowed down his progress but he may be ready in another year, if he can beat out Ron Johnson.

The tight end is Bob Tucker, an Eagle and Patriot castoff who has caught over 50 passes each of the last two years, is a strong blocker and runs well with the football after he catches it. His backup is 11 year veteran Gary Ballman, acquired last summer on waivers from Philadelphia.

The wide receivers are Bob Grim, Don Herrmann, Rich Houston and Tom Gatewood. Grim was an All-Pro with Minnesota in 1971. He figured to be the key man in the Tarkenton trade. But a long holdout kept him on the bench last year. Now, he has taken away Rich Houston's starting job and has looked good the first three weeks of the season. Herrmann is another starter who was a 17th round pick in 1969. He is not fast, but he does catch the ball. Houston, who has blinding speed, has improved each year but his lack of ability to catch the ball put him on the bench. Gatewood, a Notre Dame All-America during the Joe Theissman days, injured early in July, will be ready to return to action in a few weeks.

Norm Snead — once a perennial loser, now a Giant.

The punter is Tom Blanchard, former quarterback at Oregon who kicks with a 41 yard average with high punts that are difficult to return.

The placekicker is Pete Gogolak, who came to the United States from Hungary during a conflict. He became the first soccer style kicker in collegiate football at Cornell (1961-63), in the AFL with the Buffalo Bills (1964-65), and in the NFL with the Giants (1966-). His playing out his option with the Bills and signing with the Giants in 1966 started a conflict which led to the merger completed in 1970. He had an outstanding pre-season this year and looks as though he will have a good year for the Giants in 1973.

Defense

The ends are presently All-Pro Jack Gregory, who acts as a rover, and Dan Goich. The tackles are All-Rookie John Mendenhall and Carter Campbell, a former linebacker. Larry Jacobson, the Outland Trophy winner of 1971 (at Nebraska), is coming back from an injury to his foot and should shortly replace Campbell. The other backup is last year's Outland Trophy winner Rich Glover.

The starting linebackers are Jim Files, in the middle, with Henry Reed, a former end, and Pat Hughes, a former center, on the outside. The backups are Ron Hornsby, John Douglas and rookies Brad Van Pelt and Brian Kelley. Kelley, a late round drafter, has looked good. He started the Houston and Cleveland games when Pat Hughes couldn't play.

The defensive backs are Pete Athas and Willie Williams at the corners with Richmond Flowers and Spider Lockhart the safeties. Athas and Flowers, both from Tennessee, are both rejects of the Dallas Cowboys who have made it big in New York. Williams and Lockhart are both nine year veterans who are among the best. The backups are Charlie Crist, a basketball star at Penn State who is pushing Flowers for his starting position; and Eldridge Small, last year's number one pick who could be replacing Athas or Williams in the not-too-distant future.

Number One Show Possibilities
Painting - Sculpture & Drawing
OPENING
October 5, 1973
8:00 p.m.
Student Union Gallery

Pablo Neruda - A Tribute

PABLO NERUDA DIES

by Zoe Best

Pablo Neruda, one of the foremost poets of the hemisphere, died according to the Chilean Junta, September 23. After his birth in 1904, the death of his mother at age three and his father's remarriage, Neruda's education began in the forested South, Temuco. During his boyhood years, he published poems in the newspaper and at sixteen went to Santiago to continue his studies. With the development of his poetic prestige, successive Chilean governments sent him on diplomatic missions to Ceylon, Burma, Singapore, Rangoon, Buenos Aires, Mexico, Madrid, and Paris.

From the third volume of Residence on Earth, Neruda expressed his personal agony at witnessing the overthrow of the Spanish Republic and the ensuing civil war. "General Franco in Hell" is from that volume.

Forced to leave his consular post with the overthrow of the Spanish Republic, Neruda spent three years in Mexico and then returned to Chile. In 1945 he was elected senator, became a member of the Communist Party, then returned to Mexico when the party was outlawed in 1949. He returned to Chile in 1953. Jean-Paul Sartre refused the Noble Prize in Literature in 1964, partly because he believed Neruda should have been offered the honor. In 1971, Neruda received the prize.

Until the overthrow of the Chilean democracy and the assassination of Allende, Neruda continued writing according to his sister, Laura. One of his last poems, sent to a Venezuelan woman poet, Ida Gramsko, September 6, foretold his own death. In "The Persecuted", Neruda feared being called by the "idiots", being converted to a telephone, an instrument and when he serves no further purpose, "they will speak through my body as wasps". According to Luis Monguio, "... Nerudian song is life and victory over personal death: altruistically. Reborn in himself, his renaissance takes new hold of matriarchal matter itself. He is son of that mother; and all natural things — dust, plants, beast — are his brothers and mentors."

From: "General Franco in Hell"

Alone, alone, for the tears all gathered, for an eternity of dead hands and rotted eyes, alone in a cave of your hell, eating silent pus and blood through a cursed and lonely eternity.
You do not deserve to sleep even though it be with your eyes fastened with pins:
you have to be awake, General, eternally awake among the putrefaction of the new mothers, machine-gunned in the autumn. All and all the sad children cut to pieces, rigid, they hang, awaiting in your hell that day of cold festivity: your arrival.
Children blackened by explosions, red fragments of brain, corridors filled with gentle intestines, they all await you, all in the very posture of crossing the street, of kicking the ball, of swallowing a fruit, of smiling, or being born.
Smiling. There are smiles now demolished by blood that wait with scattered exterminated teeth and masks of muddled matter, hollow faces of perpetual gunpowder, and the nameless ghosts, the dark hidden ones, those who never left their beds of rubble. They all wait for you to spend the night. They fill the corridors like decayed seaweed.
They are ours, they were out flesh, our health, our bustling peace, our ocean of air and lungs. Through them the dry earth flowered. Now, beyond the earth,
turned into destroyed substance, murdered matter, dead flour, they await you in hell.

Since acute terror or sorrow waste away, neither terror nor sorrow await you.
May you be alone
and accursed,
alone and awake among all the dead,
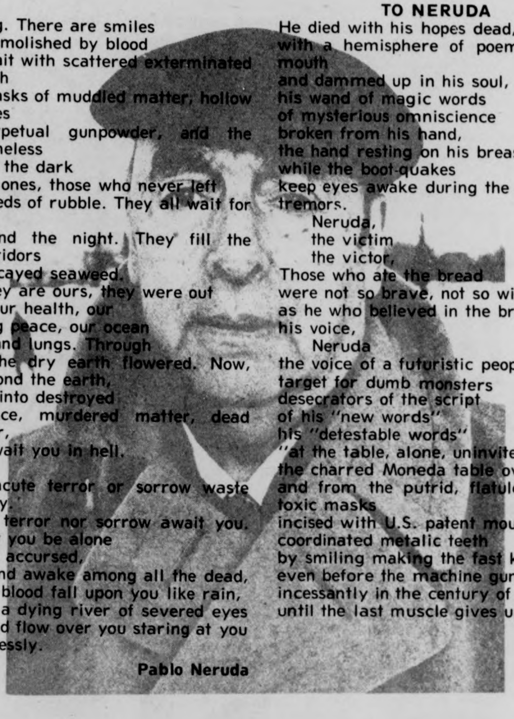
and let blood fall upon you like rain, and let a dying river of severed eyes slide and flow over you staring at you endlessly.

Pablo Neruda



TO NERUDA

He died with his hopes dead, with a hemisphere of poems in his mouth and dammed up in his soul, his wand of magic words of mysterious omniscience broken from his hand, the hand resting on his breast now while the boot-quakes
keep eyes awake during the midnight tremors.
Neruda,
the victim
the victor,
Those who ate the bread were not so brave, not so willing as he who believed in the bread, his voice,
Neruda
the voice of a futuristic people target for dumb monsters desecrators of the script of his "new words"
his "detestable words"
"at the table, alone, uninvited"+ the charred Moneda table overturned and from the putrid, flatulent coils, toxic masks incised with U.S. patent mouths coordinated metalic teeth by smiling making the fast kill even before the machine gun spits incessantly in the century of a second until the last muscle gives up.
There are no sounds yet,
only tanks scratching only shovels digging
only books burning,
only murals weeping into the occupied streets.
There are no sounds yet,
but after the mourning,
whispering,
then seething voices
detonated by the Pacific's thunderwaves marching the distance of the Andean spine chanting the will of the Mapuche remembering Residence on Earth demands smelling all conquistadores all dogs, as pigs, mercenary generals blowzy emissaries wearing vests with forty pockets:
a pocket hiding a flask of poison to kill ancient seeds of ancient lands a pocket inflated by jet vapor from aerial horses a pocket with 10 million dollars folded a pocket with an ITT calling card a pocket stuffed with the Wall Street Journal and Mecurio a pocket jingoing with copper pennies a pocket saturated by a leaking bladder of blood a pocket flat with xeroxed obituary notices, he died at the funeral of his mother, his daughter,
Chile en el Corazon.
Listen
Neruda
the seething voices, resurrected born from the womb of your voice, our future,
the future you blessed with your time.

Zoe Best

CARPENTERS
IN CONCERT
Special Guest Stars
SKILES AND HENDERSON
FRI. - OCT. 19 - 8 p.m.
Springfield Civic Center
1277 Main St. Springfield, Mass. 01103
TICKETS: $6.50 - $5.50 - $4.50
SPRINGFIELD
Civic Center Box Office
NORTHAMPTON
Mad Apple
HOLYOKE
Mad Hatter

STEAK OUT
ROUTE 9 and UNIVERSITY DRIVE
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
Proudly Presents
T.V. and Recording Star
BONNIE FLOYD and his revue.
featuring
GOLDIE LEWIS
Tuesday through Saturday
Coming Attractions: DRIFTERS PLATTERS CHIFFONS

Inner City Repertory Dance Co.

ABOUT INNER CITY REPERTORY DANCE COMPANY

In the short time since its founding, Inner City Repertory Dance Company has gained national prominence as one of the leading exponents of modern dance in the Western U.S.

The multi-racial ensemble, produced by Los Angeles' Inner City Cultural Center, was formally announced in April, 1970 and gave its first performances in May, 1971 at Inner City Theatre, Los Angeles. Its New York debut took place at the ANTA Theatre in October, 1972 when the troupe's ten days of performances were warmly received by both Eastern audiences and critics.

"The audience stood up, cheered, cried out for more and it was right! The occasion was the local premiere of Donald McKayle's sensitive and sensational dance work, 'Songs of the Disinherited,' Thursday night at the ANTA Theater. For those who have not yet dropped in to the continuing American Dance Marathon series, priority should go to the performances of the Inner City Repertory Dance Company directed by Mr. McKayle and particularly any program with 'Songs of the Disinherited.' Mr. McKayle is a choreographer and teacher beloved in his native New York. The work he is now doing as artistic director of the Inner City company, a professional dance company unusual in that it was created by an institution (Los Angeles's Inner City Cultural Center) rather than a choreographer, testifies to the upholding of his high standards. During this first half of the multiracial troupe's run in New York it has shown impressive technique, stage presence and unity."

Anna Kisselgoff, New York Times, Oct. 21, 1972.

Inner City Repertory Dance Company

October 9-10
8 p.m.
Bowker Auditorium

Tickets $1.50 UM-A. Students with I.D.'s.
Others $3.00

Are you tired of campus food? How about a good home cooked meal?
ST. REGIS RESTAURANT
Open Mon.-Sat. 6 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sun. 8 a.m. - 9 p.m.
— can offer you:
— SEAFOOD - STEAK - CHOPS - CHICKEN
— SPAGHETTI - SANDWICHES - much, much, more
— DAILY SPECIALS
— LIQUOR served with meals
— All at GREAT Prices
28 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
(Intersection of Rt. 9 and Rt. 5, Downtown Northampton)

VILLAGE INN
DRAKE
DRAKE RESTAURANT OPEN 'TIL 2 A.M.
WE POUR 'TIL 1 A.M.
RATHSKELLER & NEW FIRST FLOOR LOUNGE
40 INTERNATIONAL BEERS
SPORTS ORIENTED LOUNGE WITH CABLEVISION, THE BEST AMUSEMENT GAMES IN THE AREA.
1st in U.S.A. and Amherst
LOWENBRAU OKTOBERFEST
on Draft

ADULTS ONLY!
Skin Flick
Friday Only!
Campus Swingers
Watch them earn their credits!
Meet the sensual girls... with tight pants and loose ideas!
X RATED Shown at 11:30
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST., AMHERST
253-5426

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON
Only Area Showing!
7:00 - 9:15
WINNER OF 8 ACADEMY AWARDS
BEST ACTRESS LIZA MINNELLI
CABARET
Michael York and Joel Grey as "Emcee"
Mon.-Tues. — DOLLAR nite

A new film — Hendrix at his peak.
The historic Berkeley Concert, Memorial Day 1970.
With Mitch Mitchell and Billy Cox.
IN I 7&9
JIMI PLAYS BERKELEY
THE HENDRIX EXPERIENCE IS HERE!
Sponsored By: Butterfield Prod. of U. Mass.
week only!
"A must see for all Hendrix fanatics and rock music fans"

RICHARD BENJAMIN
DYAN CANNON
JAMES COBURN
JAMES MASON
IAN McSHANE
JOAN HACKETT
RAQUEL WELCH
THE LAST OF SHEILA
7&9 (PG)
Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE
DOLLAR NIGHTS!
MON. & TUES
ADMISSION $1.00

"DUCK SOUP" (1933)
"Duck Soup" is considered by many to be their greatest film.
A Semi-Surrealist Farce About War
Ends Thursday: "Friends of Eddie Coyle" HARPO · GROUCHO · CHICO MARX BROTHERS
Starts Fri. in Cinema II
"HORSE FEATHERS" (1932)
"Horse Feathers" is fired by wild irreverence and contempt for the classroom . . . satirizes the rah-rah mania of college for winning teams.
Both Rated G —

WUMV TV Doubleheader at the Bluewall Sunday Night
All-American J. J. Jennings
U.Mass. - Rutgers Football 7:45
Julius Erving - World Champion Knicks
New York Knicks - New York Mets
City Championship from Nassau Colliseum 10:15
Marty Kelley - Play-by-Play
Earle Barroll - Color
WUMV - TV Sports Special
Bluewall Sunday Night

An Exercise in Bad Taste

by Robert Nesti

Pink Flamingos

Written for the screen and directed by John Waters; with Divine, David Lochary, Mary Vivian Pearce, Mink Stole, and Danny Mills.

Divine, the actress who was dubbed "the filthiest person alive" by the tabloids, does her own stunt work and has fifteen pound tits filled with lentils, not with bird seed as is generally believed. As Babs Johnson she tranquilly resides, incognito, in a Baltimore trailer camp with her mentally retarted mother Edie, her peculiar son Crackers, and their Fay Wray look-alike traveling companion Cotton. Edie likes eggs, Crackers enjoys strangling chickens during sexual intercourse, and Cotton likes to watch. Babs likes being the filthiest person alive. It's a coveted honor, not having been Queen For A Day or have won a game of Treasure Hunt or something, this is the real thing.

Across town live Connie and Raymond Marble. She has flaming red hair and wears rhinestone-studded, cat's eyes glasses; he has bright green hair and enjoys exposing himself to unsuspecting young women in the park. Together they operated a hot child ring: they pick up unsuspecting victims in the cellar where Channing, the couple's bizarre butler, impregnates them. The babies are sold to lesbian couples at a huge profit. The Marbles hate Babs and desparately want to be the filthiest persons alive. They hire a young woman, Cookie, to date Crackers and uncover some vital information. Crackers takes her to the barn and Cotton watches. The Marbles spar off with Babs when they send her a surprise in a box. Enraged Divine interrupts her birthday revel, and proceeds to Connie and Raymond's home where Crackers and she lick everything exposed. Meanwhile, Connie and Raymond sneak out to the trailer and burn it to the ground. Luckily Edie was out of her play pen since she married the Egg Man and rode away in a wheelbarrow. Babs kidnaps the Marbles for a final confrontation then escapes to Boise, Idaho where she commits an on-screen first that justifies her title as "the filthiest person alive."

I met a hysterically funny young man this past summer who told stories about his wierd nurse friend Joyce and even more wierd stories about Divine, John Waters, and the unemployed citizens of Provincetown. Divine is even more ridiculous in real life, which means that in the flesh she outdoes being raped by a fifteen foot lobster, rolling in pig dung, hosting a cannibalistic orgy, and munching on dog dung.

The John Waters—Divine relationship has had many pleasant memories. They have made three films together, "Pink Flamingos" is their most recent and ambitious. Decoratively the film celebrates 1959 tacky America; the time when magenta Cadillacs made you the envy of the neighbors and citizens strived to keep SEX out of the schools and US out of the UN. It was the time when American—International Pictures made a series of youth oriented films that remain, quite unintentionally, masterpieces of imagination and crass wit. They usually had huge casts of zero-talent actors forced to play exagerated social types that weren't all that removed from their realities. The best of the group is "Girls Town", directed by Charles Haas and starring Mamie Van Doren as an wild-but-innocent small town girl who is wrongly accused of murdering a youthful thug and is sent to a girl's reformatory run by a group of nuns. Sleazy Mamie and Pamela Mason as a nun — the image boggles the mind. Mamie is recalcitrant, the Mother Superior gives her a great pep talk about the youth being like lemmings running off cliffs everywhere, but the picture's real clinch scene came towards the climax when Mamie, all piety and tears, grovels before a statue of the Virgin Mother while Paul Anka, looking like a chubby, Polenesian adolescent, sings Schubert's "Ave Maria".

Divine, the filthiest person alive, and perhaps the most ridiculous.

That was 1959. Today Divine is our Mamie Van Doren and she rips through the role of Babs like the genuine article. She gives one of the most affecting comic performances of the season. Waters shrewdly makes her the center of the film and her sense of benign exaggeration pervades the picture. The comic tone of the material is flippish: Waters dares you to watch, for the most part, audiences are enthralled. The picture simply takes a familiar story idea, a sort of gang war tale removed to the realm of tastelessness, and lets it play. "Pink Flamingos" is an inspired combination of old American-International, Russ Meyer, and Warhol films. It certainly lives up to its sub-title ("An Exercise In Poor Taste") and is one of the funniest films released this year. The supporting parts are played expertly, especially Edith Massey as Edie and Mink Stole, a stunning physical presence, as Connie Marble. John Waters has done what Hollywood has wanted to do for years and has succeeded in making the trashiest film I have ever seen.

CHARLES CHAPLIN
in his Greatest Role
THE GREAT DICTATOR
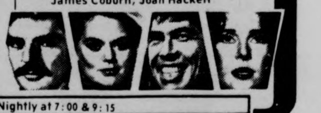
with Jack Oakie and Paulette Goddard written, directed and scored by Charles Chaplin
Monday, October 8
CCA 7 and 9:15
an rbc films presentation

SHOWCASE CINEMAS 1·2·3·4·5
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD.
WEST SPFLD. 24 HR. TEL. 733-5131
We Honor MASTER CHARGE
PG BOY, HAVE WE GOT A VACATION FOR YOU... WESTWORLD
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Eves - 7:30, 9:20
Sat. & Sun 2, 3:40, 5:30, 7:30, 9:30
HEAVY TRAFFIC
X ... Heavy Entertainment!
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Eves - 7:30, 9:20
Sat. & Sun. 2, 3:50, 5:40, 7:40, 9:40
LAST DAYS
PG Bang the drum slowly
"★★★★! HIGHEST RATING!" —N.Y. Daily News
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Eves. - 7:30, 9:30
Sat. & Sun. 1:30, 3:20 5:20, 7:30, 9:30
BILLY DEE WILLIAMS RICHARD PRYOR R Hit!
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Eves. -7:30, 10:00
Sat. & Sun. 2, 4:30, 7:20, 10
WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

Ample Free Parking
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
THRU TUES.
NOW!
A 1943 ACADEMY AWARD WINNING CLASSIC
"CASABLANCA"
Starring
Humphrey Bogart
Ingrid Bergman
Claude Rains
Sydney Greenstreet
Peter Lorre
— Plus a Short Feature —
"Amblin" A new look at the Now Generation.
Complete Shows Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00



Now Playing
CALVIN Theatre
KING ST., NORTHAMPTON
Thru Tues.
584-2310
THE LAST OF SHEILA
Richard Benjamin, Dyan Cannon
James Coburn, Joan Hackett
PG
Raquel Welch
James Mason
Ian McShane
Shown Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

WEEKEND

compiled by Bob Nesti

BANG THE DRUM SLOWLY
Perhaps the best received film of recent months; a sentimental baseball story with Robert DeNiro and Michael Moriarty. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

CABARET (1972)
One of the most acclaimed films of last year is this film version of the 1967 Broadway musical which mixes spectacular cabaret entertainment with the rise of Nazism. The musical was hailed on the stage as one of the more innovative and exciting of the past decade and has been transformed, through the skillful hands of Bob Fosse, into a truly unique and stunning film. The story concerns the romantic encounters of a young British writer in the Berlin of the early Thirties, immediately prior to Hitler's takeover. The songs here are dispersed through the action, not the plot, and comment rather than further the story. The effect is the first truly unique film musical in quite some time. The score, by John Kander and Fred Ebb, beautifully echoes the era as does the performances, chiefly those of Liza Minnelli as Sally Bowles and Joel Grey the Cabaret's Master of Ceremonies. Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

CASABLANCA (1943)
In the forward to the recently published screenplay Howard Koch, who co-authored this film with Philip G. and Julius J. Epstein, wrote that the story of this memorable espionage romance was plotted after the shooting had begun. Despite its shaky beginnings, success of the picture has been unmistakable: it won an Oscar for the Best Film of 1943 — today is remains perhaps the best known of cult films. Humphrey Bogart plays Rick, the casino owner in war-torn Casablanca, who is called upon to help Ingrid Bergman, who was his lover in pre-war Paris and who now is married to one of the German's arch-enemies, a fugitive resistance leader. A superb example of Warner Brothers knife-edged craftsmanship during the Forties and certainly one of the most enjoyable films Hollywood has ever produced. Directed with remarkable efficiency by Michael Curtiz. With Claude Rains, Peter Lorre, and Sidney Greenstreet, Amherst Cinemas, Amherst.

CATCH 22 (1970)
Mike Nichol's white elephant of a black comedy. A grab-bag of sick jokes, Fellini rip offs, squelchy effects, and snatches of Joseph Heller's novel about one man's peace treaty with a warring world. Filmed in the Mexican wasteland, the picture has a terrific drabness and a cocky self-assurance that Hollywood producers confuse with prestige. What a cast to watch exhaust themselves under a Yucatan sun: Alan Arkin, Richard Benjamin, Jon Voight, Anthony Perkins, Paula Prentiss, and Orson Welles. Gamble Auditorium, Mt. Holyoke College, Saturday, 10-6, 7:30 p.m.

CITIZEN KANE (1941)
Perhaps the most influential of American films; a singular meteorite of creative energy. Orson Welles, at the age of twenty-five, pulled the Hollywood coup of the century: a studio allowed him to make his first film "carte blanche". Few films are as dazzling, or as interesting, or as brilliantly designed. The story tells the life of Charles Foster Kane, a multi-millionaire whose career bore such a remarkable likeness to William Randolph Hearst that Hearst (and his newspaper chain) tried to squelch the film, even going so far as offering to buy it from RKO studios. Welles finest performance in the title role, with a cast drawn from his new York based Mercury Theater that includes Agnes Moorehead, Joseph Cotton. Merrill Science Center, Amherst College, Wednesday, 10-9, 4 and 8 p.m.

JIMI PLAYS BERKELEY
With Jimi Hendrix. Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

GREED (1924)
One of the few true legendary films. Erich Von Stroheim adapted Frank Norris's "McTeague" to the screen and spent nine months and one-half million dollars doing so. The resulting 47 reel film and the controversy surrounding its eventual bowlerizing and release spelt doom for Von Stroheim's career. Certainly his most important film and one of the most realistic portrayals of lower class life ever filmed. Although only a portion of its original length, the film is often cited by critics as being one of the greatest of films. To be shown with stills from the original footage. Hampden Dining Commons, Tuesday, 10-9, 8 p.m.

THE GREAT DICTATOR (1940)
Chaplin's first sound film. The story of a Jewish barber who is mistaken for the Hitler-like dictator of mythical European nation. Some splendid moments, such as when Chaplin as the dictator toys with a balloon globe of the world, and the comic strip parodies of Mussolini, Goering, and Boebbels. Many find the end of the film, Chaplin's speech for universal brotherhood at a Nuremburg-like rally, a bit much too take; but beautifully shaped and performed. Campus Center Auditorium, Monday, 10-8, 7 and 9:15 p.m.

Mae West - she does the best she can.

PLAY IT AS IT LAYS (1972)
Frank Perry's slick and soul-less analysis of the disintegration of a young Hollywood star. Its subject is inhumane Hollywood but its heart belongs to the New Wave. Perry is the most pervasive example of the American director whose work parades itself around as art. It's the art of trashy best sellers. Joan Dideon's novel had a sharpness, drive, and a spiraling sense of agony that was enveloping; Frank Perry's film has Tuesday Weld looking dumbfounded in some spectacular outfits. Others disagree, violently with Anthony Perkins and Tammy Grimes. Student Union Ballroom, Sunday, 10-9, 7 and 9 p.m.

PINK FLAMINGOS
What's our answer to the filthiest film ever made and the funniest picture of the year? Join Divine and her band of degenerates for the answer. Student Union Ballroom, Friday, Saturday, 10-5 & 10-6, 7, 8 and 11 p.m.

HEAVY TRAFFIC
The second full length cartoon feature by the makers of "Fritz The Cat". A brutal, often offensive cross-section of urban living whose gritiness is compensated by its strong evocation of city living. Striking use of interplay between real life situations and its cartoon complement. The adventures of a young Jewish boy in New York which no social type rudely presented. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

KING KONG (1933)
The greatest of film monsters is the thirty foot ape who is kidnapped from his South Pacific island haven and taken to America's greatest island metropolis where he climbs its highest spire and bats at bi-planes. Certainly one of the most imaginative of all screen fantasies and one of the most enthralling. Directed by Marian C. Cooper. Campus Center Auditorium, Tuesday, 10-9, 7 and 9:15 and 11:30 p.m.

THE LAST OF SHEILA
The most engaging film released this past summer is this sly comic mystery, a sort of "And Then There Were None" on board a yacht. The script by composer Stephen Sondheim and actor Anthony Perkins has the logic and humor of an elaborate puzzle. Who and for what reason did someone run down the bitchy gossip columnist Sheila. A year after her death her husband assembles the eight most possible suspects for a week's sailing off the Riviera onboard his yacht the Sheila. The roles are perfectly cast, especially James Mason as the fading director and Dyan Cannon as the agent. Calvin Theater, Northampton; Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

MY LITTLE CHICKADEE
Somehow the combination of Mae West and W.C. Fields would suggest the most ribald of film comedies; this film, then, is a strange disappointment. It never seems to rise; what happens just sits on the screen without much direction or energy. The story, by West and Fields, concerns the exploits of West as a wanton woman run out of town because of her midnight liaison with a masked stranger. Fields plays her husband, whom she attaches herself onto while fighting Indians on a train between towns. Some funny bits, such as Mae's impersonation of a schoolteacher and Field's foreplay with a goat; still not nearly as good as West's earlier films. The Globe, Northampton.

HIGH NOON (1952)
Fred Zinnemann's western about a marshal waiting for a train to arrive to his town bringing a ruthless group of criminals whom he must face alone. The tension is built in that the entire span of the story is the time of the film. The lack of response from the townspeople has been read to be a comment on encroaching McCarthyism and this is certainly explicit in Carl Foreman's screenplay. (Foreman was blacklisted because of McCarthy witch hunts). An admirable film, but not altogether satisfying as either western melodrama or political allegory. Gary Cooper plays the Marshal, with Grace Kelly. Lecture Room One, Amherst College, Saturday, 10-6, 7:30 and 10 p.m., and Sunday, 10-7 with "Shane", 7:30 and 10 p.m.

INTOLERANCE (1918)
D. W. Griffith's mammoth answer to critics of his "Birth of a Nation." He tells four stories, simultaneously, all of which climax in an ending of memorable cinematic dexterity. Its pacifist message didn't endear itself to audiences of the day and its failure was overwhelming. Campus Center, Rooms 165-169, Thursday, 9-11, 9 p.m.

DUCK SOUP (1933)
The Marx Brothers on war and a devastating satire, perhaps their finest film. Harpo does a Paul Revere routine as he seduces a beautiful woman; Groucho calls for world aid and a menagerie answer and constantly baffles Margaret Dumont, as a millionairess. The film was banned by Mussolini and was a box office bomb. Groucho calls it their "craziest" film. Mahar, Friday, September 28, 7, 8:30, and 10 p..m

MARJOE (1972)
The life and times of a young evangelist is the subject of this "cinema verite" documentary who has since gone on to a recording contract and numerous talk shows appearances. His public over-extention hasn't quite diminished the film, which is oddly fascinating. Student Union Ballroom 10-8, 7 and 9 p m.

HORSEFEATHERS (1932)
The Marx Brothers take over a college. Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

THE PRODUCERS (1968)
A splendid comedy with a cock-eyed ending. It's all one gag, once the gag finally expends itself the film has nowhere to go. The gag is can two con artists pass a sure-flop Broadway musical off and collect on the 2500 per cent their backers invested? The joke doesn't burn out until near the end, along the way the New York theater scene is pungently torn apart by writer-director Mel Brooks. Zero Mostel plays the unscrupulous producer, Gene Wilder is his unwilling accomplice; their rapport is splendid. Brook's choice of the musical the two produce is brilliant: called "Springtime For Hitler", it is Busby Berkelyized Nazi Germany. The Globe, Northampton.

SHANE (1951)
George Steven's mammoth homage to the Western, and a mammoth bore at that. Everything is huge, from the mountains (the Grand Tetons) to the gulleys in the streets, which often resemble canyons. An expressionistic western with a cross to bear. Alan Ladd plays Shane, the mysterious stranger and Brandon DeWilde plays the boy who learns from him. With Jean Arthur. Lecture Room One, Amherst College, Friday, 10-5, 7:30 and 10 p.m.; and Sunday 10-7, with "Shane", 7:30 and 10 p.m.

SUPERFLY (1972)
Ron O'Neal plays a Harlem cocaine dealer who wants to split the country. Gordon Parks Jr. directs this thriller with a remarkable gut feel for the city, well acted and enthralling. Student Union Ballroom, Thursday, 9-11, 7, 9 and 11 p.m.

WESTWORLD
Michael Crichton's dream world, where entire universes can be created. Too bad Crichton can't make a film that doesn't look like a tourist trip through a souped-up Disneyland. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

AMHERST FILM COOP

Oct. 8 7:00 & 9:15	THE GREAT DICTATOR Charles Chaplin	Campus Center Aud. $1.00 Admission
Oct. 9 8:00	GREED Erich Von Shroheim	Hampden Center in South West, UMass. $.75
Oct. 11 9:00	INTOLERANCE D.W. Griffiths	Campus Center Rm. 169 Free
Oct. 14 7:30 & 9:30	SEVEN YEAR ITCH Billy Wilder with Marilyn Monroe	Hampden Center Southwest, UMass. $.75
Oct. 15 6, 8, 10	MONSIEUR VERDOUX Charles Chaplin	Thompson 104 UMass. $1.00
Oct. 18 9:00	MATRIMANIAC Douglas Fairbanks	Campus Center Rm. 169 Free
Oct. 21 7:30 & 9:30	NINOTCHKA E. Lubitsch with Greta Garbo	Hampden Center Southwest, UMass. $.75
Oct. 23 7:30 & 9:30	LIBERTY VALANCE	Thompson 104 $.75
Oct. 25 9:00	VARIETY German Classic	Campus Center Rm. 169 Free
Oct. 28 7:30 & 9:30	THE CRIME OF M. LANGE by Jean Renoir	Hampden Center Southwest $.75

MUSIC

LOCAL MUSIC

Some Of My Best Friends — Oct. 5 & 9, Rusty Nail; Oct. 6, The Pub
Roadhogg — Oct. 5 & 6, Quicksilver
Walker Airlines — Oct. 6, Rusty Nail
Firewater — Oct. 10 & 11, Rusty Nail
Doc Sullivan — Oct. 5 (3-6 p.m.), 7 (4-8 p.m.), 11 (3-6 p.m.), The Pub
Billy Whyte — Oct. 9
DJ — Oct. 5, The Pub
Eric & Dick — Oct. 5 & 6, Rusty Scupper
Jimmy — Oct. 7, Rusty Scupper
Auditions — Oct. 8, Rusty Scupper
Synthesis — Oct. 9, Rusty Scupper
Alan-Frank Estes Band — Oct. 10 & 11, Rusty Scupper

CONCERTS

Amherst
Tom Willits—Peter Johnson Band — Oct. 10, Hampshire College
James Montgomery—Duke & The Drivers — Oct. 5, Amherst College Gym

Springfield
Carpenters—Skiles & Henderson — Oct. 19, Civic Center

Boston
Rock & Roll Revival (Chuck Berry, Cubby Checker, Shirrelles, Flamingos, Belmonts, Freddie Cannon) — Oct. 5, Boston Garden

Jackson Browne—Bonnie Raitt — Oct. 5, Orpheum
Fat — Oct. 5 & 6, Zircon
Maria Muldaur—Leon Redbone — Oct. 5 & 6, Passim Coffeeshop
Big Walter Horton — Oct. 5-13, Joe's Place

The Intruders — Oct. 5-8, Sugar Shack
Jesse Colin Young — Oct. 5-7, Paul's Mall
Charles Mingus — Oct. 5-7, Jazz Workshop

Doc Watson & Son—Leon Redbone — Oct. 7, Sanders Theater
Freddy Hubbard — Oct. 8-14, Jazz Workshop
Bobby Blue Band—Franklyn Ajaye — Oct. 8-14, Paul's Mall

Eric Weisburg & Deliverance — Oct. 8-14, Oliver's
Trenor Veitch & Andy Kulburg — Oct. 10-14, Passim Coffeeshop
James Montgomery Band—Duke & The Drivers — Oct. 12, Roberts Center, B.C.

Robert Klein—Melissa Manchester — Oct. 12, Sanders Theater
Steve Goodman—Ed Holstein — Oct. 17, Tufts College

Mahavishnu Orchestra — Oct. 19, Music Hall
Black Oak Arkansas—Foghat — Oct. 21, Orpheum
John Mayall—Joe Walsh — Oct. 23, Orpheum

New Riders Of The Purple Sage—Commander Cody And His Lost Planet Airmen — Oct. 26, Orpheum
Mott The Hoople—Aerosmith — Oct. 27, Orpheum
David Crosby & Graham Nash — Oct. 28, Music Hall
Buckminster Fuller — Oct. 28, Orpheum

South Hadley
Brewer & Shipley — Oct. 5, Mt. Holyoke

Northampton
Tom Willits (and the film Monterey Pop) — Oct. 11-13, Globe Theater

---

Campus Rally For Israel Tonight

By JERRY LAZAR

A rally of solidarity for the people of Israel is planned for tonight at 8:30 in the Student Union Ballroom, Rabbi Aryeh Meir, director of Hillel, announced Monday.

Rabbi Meir issued an appeal yesterday to the Amherst Jewish community and non-Jewish sympathizers, "to mobilize resources, both human and financial, in support of Israel."

The purpose of the rally, according to Rabbi Meir, will be to "demonstrate our solidarity with Israel's struggle and our sense of outrage at the attack."

"We want to organize a campaign of public pressure for American support of Israel in the form of letters to government and state department officials," said Rabbi Meir. "This rally is as much for us as it is for Israel. We have to be reminded of the significance of Israel's existence," he said. "Anytime this existence is threatened, we feel a need to come together to reaffirm our support for Israel."

Rabbi Meir also stressed that funds will be raised at the rally for Israel's defense. Checks made payable to the United Jewish Appeal can be brought to the rally or to Hillel Center (SS 302), he said, and they will be forwarded to the New York office of the United Jewish Appeal.

Rabbi Meir will be speaking at the rally. Other speakers will include the Rev. Richard Koenig, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church in Amherst; Dr. Donna Robinson Devine, a faculty member at Smith College; and Dr. Chaim Gunner, a faculty member at UMass.

Rabbi Meir noted that the Israeli Emergency Fund has called for $100,000,000 by the end of this week. Also, he added, Israel's Minister of Finance Pinchas Sapir has claimed that Israel will need $1 billion to finance the war.

"There's a determination not to despair," said the rabbi. "We have despaired too many times in the past," he said, referring to the Jewish people.

"The American Jewish community has a large part to play in this. Israel, unlike Egypt, doesn't have any allies, except for the Jewish people, they'd give whatever was needed for its support," he said.

A special prayer for peace was offered at Hillel's Saturday morning Yom Kippur services, said Rabbi Meir. The recent outbreak of fighting in the Mideast "points up the inhumanity of war." he said.

To call it 'sacreligious' is too mild a term," said the rabbi, adding that "base tactics were employed in attacking a nation on its holiest day of the year, when its people were weakened from fasting."

"We stand ready to do anything we have to do," he said.

New England's Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather

It's probably raining in Ireland

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 24 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9, 1973

Israeli, Arab Versions Of Bombings Conflict

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets attacked near the Mediterranean end of the Suez Canal Monday and Egypt said the strike loosed bombs on Port Said, inflicting civilian casualties and destroying some homes.

It was the first reported raid on a populated area in the new Middle East war.

An Israeli communique said military installations and missile batteries around Port Said, a city of about 180,000, were attacked in the air raids during the day. No mention was made of an attack on the city itself.

Egyptian communiques claimed their forces on the Israeli-occupied east bank of the Suez Canal "liberated" the city of El Qantara, about halfway down the 103-mile canal from Port Said, in hand-to-hand combat and attacked and burned oil fields run by the Israelis in southern Sinai on the Gulf of Suez.

Israeli communiques said nothing about any attacks on oil fields and military officials declined to comment on the Egyptian claim that El Qantara had been taken. The Egyptians say they now control the canal's east bank, which Israel seized along with the rest of the Sinai Peninsula in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

There was no way to obtain independent varification of the claims of either side since news correspondents are not permitted into the battle zones.

A special session of the U.N. Security Council in New York adjourned until Tuesday without taking any action on a U.S. proposal that all sides in the conflict withdraw to positions they held before the fighting began Saturday. The Soviet Union and China demanded Israel withdraw from all the Arab lands it conquered in 1967. The meeting was called at the request of the United States.

President Jaafar Numairy of Sudan announced in Khartoum that he had dispatched an undisclosed number of troops to fight with the Egyptians and Syrians.

The Israelis have said that their aircraft had been attacking inside Egypt and Syria but communiques issued in Tel Aviv listed only military installations and airfields as targets.

Most of the Egyptian and Syrian air activity apparently has been in aerial combat against Israeli planes. The Egyptians and Syrians claim their planes and antiaircraft defenses have brought down 160 Israeli planes since hostilities began. Israel reportedly has 480 warplanes.

Israel has not reported officially on the number of Arab planes its forces had shot down, but one senior air force officer estimated the number at 85 to 90.

This officer said in a radio interview that the Syrian and Egyptian air forces "are still basically intact."

"We did not attack and eliminate them on the ground as in the six-day war of 1966," he added.

The Israeli communique said of the air attacks around Port Said:

"The batteries were damaged and put out of use and the installations were heavily damaged," it said.

The Egyptian communiques did not say how many civilian casualties there were or how many homes were damaged. Port Said was once used by the Soviet navy but the Russians pulled out of Egypt last year.

The communiques were issued in Cairo at 10 p.m. after a day in which the Israelis claimed their tanks and planes were chasing the Syrians out of the Golan Heights in the northern sector and had pushed the Egyptians back to the canal.

But the Egyptians countered these claims by saying their tanks were cutting deeper into the Sinai Peninsula, occupied by the Israelis since the 1967 Middle East war, and that the Israeli defenders were being overrun by troops supported by devastating air cover.

The earlier communiques from Cairo did not say exactly how far into Sinai the Egyptian forces had gone since first crossing the canal on Saturday as Jews observed Yom Kippur, the solemn day of judgment.

The Syrians claimed they hurled back an Israeli counter-offensive in the Golan Heights and in this third day of the fourth Middle East war since 1948 had retaken a large chunk of the area seized by the Israelis in 1967.

The Israelis denied these Syrian and Egyptian claims.

Staff Photo/Cindy Gonet

Twenty miles north of Amherst theres a marble opera house in the middle of a jungle. It's sometimes called the Field Memorial Library where an exhibition of paintings of New England scenes by well known artists were presented as part of Conway's annual celebration, "Festival of the Hills". The festivities brought the townspeople out of their overalls and into their Sunday best.

Quinn Declines Ruling On Parking Proposal

By CINDY GONET

Attorney General Robert H. Quinn has reportedly declined to rule on the legality of the newly implemented parking proposal, "because the matter is now before the courts".

Now pending in Hampshire County Superior Court is a case which was filed by a group of UMass graduate students maintaining that the parking plan will adversely effect the environment. Also, Local 1776 has filed suits against the Trustees individually in Suffolk Superior Court.

Ms. Carol Drew, President of Local 1776 told the Collegian yesterday that due to the illegality of state employees going on strike, "the 1776 is planning no further action except the forthcoming verdict of the courts".

The decision to make no ruling on the controversial issue was made orally to UMass President Robert C. Wood Wednesday, and confirmed Friday by Assistant Attorney General Paul Good.

Following a two-day Wildcat strike by campus employees in mid-September, Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery and members of Local 1776, State County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO requested a legal ruling from the state attorney general to resolve the issue.

The parking plan will nevertheless be fully implemented today even though Quinn has declined to make a ruling. 7500 parking decals have already been distributed under guidelines set in this plan, the long range goal of which is "to lower automobile congestion on campus".

Staff Photo/Al Chapman

Going..... going..... gone?

1672 Satisfied Customers?

By KAREN LYNCH

..William Baird was convicted in 1971 for giving contraceptive foam to an unmarried co-ed at Boston University when he was lecturing there four years earlier, in violation of a Massachusetts statute.

The Supreme Court ruling of March 22, 1972 on Baird vs. Massachusetts declared the statute unconstitutional under the equal protection clause, making it no longer illegal to sell, lend or give away any contraceptive drug, medicine, instrument or article except that which a physician administers or prescribes to married persons.

Late last summer prophylactic (condom) vending machines appeared in two male and two female restrooms in the Campus Center-Student Union complex of the University.

To date, the only reactions to the vending machines that have been made known have been those negative, and unsigned, scribblings on the outsides of the machines themselves.

As of the beginning of October, a total of 1672 prophylactics have been bought from these four machines, 1462 from the mens' rooms outside the Bluewall and the Hatch, and 210 from the womens' rooms near the same places.

How the vending machines came to be in the restrooms is fairly simple. The management of the Campus Center received a letter from the T.D. Vending Co. in Westfield, which included references from the University of Hartford and University of Connecticut which had installed prophylactic machines for the purpose of deterring venereal disease.

In deciding whether to install the vending machines in the CC-SU, the Campus Center Board of Governors was rather wary of public reaction.

According to Howard Levin, Chairperson of the Services Committee for the Campus Center, the Board imagined such reaction would range from "now they're condoning promiscuity" to "it's a great idea, put them on the outside of the bathrooms".

In Levin's words, the prophylactic machines would be "a useful service to students, to be able to acquire condoms on campus easily without the embarassment of asking for them."

Considering the mobility of the Campus Center population, it would not only be a student service, but a community service as well.

Health Services was also consulted on the matter. Barry Averill, Director of the Infirmary, received a letter from the Board of Governors asking his opinion, and an executive committee of Health Services discussed the proposal.

While it is the opinion of Averill that the best process in selecting a method of birth control is proper planning and decision making by a couple, in an emergency situation prophylactic machines, with their easy accessability, serve a purpose.

There has been some concern among pharmacists over the quality of condoms sold from machines in general.

Food and Drug Administration figures show relatively large numbers of vending machine prophylactics to be of poor quality. The lubrication is sometimes contaminated, and there are pinholes in the condoms.

According to Averill, pharmacists recommend those brands which are sold only in pharmacies.

While the pharmacy at the Infirmary, does sell condoms, as well as other methods of birth control, it is open only from 8:30 a.m. -8:15 p.m. There are still those hours in between when it may be crucial to obtain some form of birth control.

Responding to the Board of Governors, Averill suggested some sort of feedback method be established, so that if there were a substantial number of complaints in regard to the condoms acquired in the vending machines, the product would be discontinued.

On July 18, the Board passed the motion to install the machines for hygenic purposes and on a trial basis.

So far, no complaints have been made to the Campus Center management about the quality of the product. Perhaps because there are 1672 satisfied customers.

May A Woman Join An All Male Club?

By JANINE DEVLIN

Tracey A. King, a UMass political science major who plans to go to law school, found herself last December with an admittance card to the all-male Essex Club, which has gone 200 years without admitting a woman. She immediately "didn't realize the implication or what it was," and was tempted to "believe it was a fake." The confusion began when Ms. King attended a reception conducted by the club in honor of candidate Dick Silva. Everyone present was asked for their names in order to be recruited for future campaigns. It was announced that all male members would be granted the status of honorary members. By December, Ms. King found herself recipient of a card.

"I laughed," she told the Collegian. "My father said 'now you're in for it..you're on the Republican side'."

Staff Photo/Dennis Conlon

Tracy is not a Republican; she is independent, and is the daughter of a staunch Democrat who ran unsuccessfully for city council. Despite encouragement from feminist movements, several senators, and a high school teacher who was the director of the Political Action Club for Glouster, she still is not certain that she will insist that she be considered a member.

With some pride, she told the Collegian, "They used to be able to say they were the oldest all-male club in the United States." Although this is a point of particular pride for the Essex Club, she did not encounter too much hostility from the younger members who only specified "that I wear a short skirt and show off my legs". However what seemed to her to be an especially memorable event of the evening occurred when a man "about seventy or eighty" stood up and denounced her as a "brainless, braless, broad with no good intentions".

Ms. King's appearance suggests neither brainlessness nor unfavorable intentions, but right now she is hesitant about pursuing her case in court. Her admission to the club was rejected because of a matter of "policy" (with no specific statute prohibiting the admittance of women existing in the bylaws of the club.) She indicated that lawyers have assured her that if she elects to take her case to court, she is almost certain to win.

An amendment was recently defeated by six votes which would propose to have women admitted.

"They seemed to feel," she said, "that they didn't mind women, but they didn't want their wives to come."

It all does not seem worth quite the effort, says Ms. King. Dismissing the club as primarily concerned with "Clambakes, family outings, and get togethers" she laments, "I couldn't go it alone, and I knew there were people behind me, but I didn't know who they were."

"It didn't seem worth the time or the effort," she said. "As it is there is no reason why I would want to join the Essex Club. I feel sorry for any politician who gets the support of the Essex club."

Teachers, Heal Thyselves!

By SHARON HUGHES

Occupying 12 old dorm rooms in Hills House, the Clinic To Improve University Teaching is opening its doors for business.

The clinic staff meets with volunteer faculty to identify their particular teaching strengths and weakness. They also offer a series of improvement strategies for professors to select and a program to improve learning skills for students.

Financed by a grant from the Kellogg Foundation the clinic offers the following services:

DIAGNOSIS: Diagnosticians (staff trained to identify instructional strengths and weakness) meet on a confidential day-to-day basis with the professor. The "clinic process" begins by collecting data from a wide variety of sources, then analyzing and synthesizing the information. Data collection sources include personal interviews, classroom observation and videotaping classes.

After diagnosis, faculty decide whether or not to employ teaching improvement strategies developed by the Clinic.

MICRO-TEACHING: A POSSIBLE IMPROVEMENT STRATEGY: Micro-teaching is an example of a strategy which tests teaching skills by allowing professors to practice in a non-threatening environment.

CONSULTANTS WITH SPECIALIZED TEACHING EXPERTISE: The Clinic can introduce faculty to experts in such areas as curriculum development, test construction, and grading policies. They can also arrange for workshops or consultation with experts from other institutions and teaching improvement programs.

TRAINING FACULTY AND TA'S IN THE CLINIC PROCESS: One of the major objectives of the clinic staff is to train interested faculty and TA's as diagnosticians for their individual purposes or for departmental programs.

STUDENTS SKILLS: The Clinic operates from the premise that a teaching improvement program must include developing the students learning skills. A program to assist students develop these skills is available to individuals or to University scheduled classes.

CLINIC DATA FOR PERSONNEL ACTIONS: The Clinic's policy is to make all collected data available to participant clients, at their request, to use as they see fit.

If the University requires departments or other administrative units to devise programs to formally evaluate teaching performance, the clinic may collect data as one source of such evaluation. But only when data is collected specifically for an administrative body (not the individual professor) will the data be made available to the Administration.

For further information regarding these options, call 545-2820.

Hail Columbus

By SAM

In fourteen hundred and ninety-two Columbus sailed the ocean blue somehow he found America and we get to have an extra day off because we were discovered.

We learned that Christopher was good looking and "talked" Isabella into giving him a couple of ships so he could prove that there was a sea route to the West Indies...he also found out that the earth wasn't flat. We in America give tribute to this famous cartographer.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

Appointment Without Representation!

By BRIAN COOK

A faculty union coalition here has spoken out in opposition to President's Wood appointment last week of Dwight Allen, Dean of the School of Education as his special academic advisor.

Stan Young, a professor in the School of Business Administration and member of the Joint Executive Board of MSP-AAUP (Mass. Society of Professors and the American Association of University Professors), stated that the board was "not questioning the right of President Wood to make the appointment," but rather is concerned with the fact that "it is an academic appointment as opposed to a finance position or something similar, and the faculty should have been consulted. His action is a violation of the spirit of the new governance document which gives faculty more say in the decision making process."

The MSP-AAUP has been waging a joint drive to unionize professors here and according to Young, the "movement is progressing rapidly." The organization has no legal power as of yet and is presently sending out questionnaires to faculty members to find out their views on a variety of issues. In reference to the union coalition Young said, "We want to be able to look upon ourselves as a spokesman for the faculty." An election has been scheduled for Nov. 15 and 16 to consider the question of collective bargaining.

To date, the MSP-AAUP has not opposed the newly created advisory position as it believes the faculty would want the president to get as much information as possible on academic matters. However, a spokesman for the group said, "We feel that President Wood has selected a controversial man whose views may be in sharp contrast to a majority of faculty."

According to Professor Fletcher, new secretary of the Faculty Senate, the rules committee has extended an invitation to President Wood to attend its regular meeting this Thursday at which time a prepared statement will be released to the press on the Faculty Senate's position in the matter.

Dare I Ditch This Ticket?

Staff Photo/Joe Martins

Gotcha'

By BONNIE ASSELIN

Have you ever received a parking ticket, tore it up, dropped it in a wastebasket, and then wondered what would happen?

It seems to be a common practice. A random sampling of fifteen students who had received parking tickets reveals twelve to have not yet paid. Many were ticketed last spring and were still managing to get by without a court summons appearing in the mail. Two claimed an accumulation of over fifteen unpaid tickets. A couple others had had appeals granted.

However, all that is changing. Starting Oct. 9, "double reinforcement" (ticket distribution and fine collection) is planned, according to Sgt. Robert Joyce, enforcement officer of public safety. "Where there were 10,000 tickets issued last year, there will be 20,000 issued this year," speculated Sgt. Joyce.

David Booker, speaker of the Student Senate, who served on the Parking Appeals Committee during the summer described enforcement as "very lenient". He cited individual cases of up to "twenty unpaid tickets and nothing was done." There were approximately 400 appeals requested during the summer and "most of them were granted, about two-thirds," said Booker. The committee is made up of two undergraduates, one graduate, and a number of administrators.

A tighter system of enforcement is now possible as Security keeps all records of parking tickets said Sgt. Joyce. In the past, it was a function of the parking office. They now anticipate a more rigid check system and plan to prevent an incidence "where a car would sometimes be tagged for a particular offence, while at other times the car would be overlooked," said Sgt. Joyce. Maximum enforcement is the goal. In addition, they plan to issue summons for past ticket owners (one or more) who haven't paid over the twenty-one day limit.

The system going into effect for even a one ticket offense is as follows: For the first seven days, a ticket is filed and awaits appeal. If no appeal is made, the ticket is sent to Hampshire District Court. At the end of twenty-one days, if it has not been paid, the offender is issued a court summons. If the fine remains unpaid, the offender could lose his license.

From January of this year to the end of August, $37,810 has been collected in parking ticket fines and forwarded to a parking violation scholarship fund. Each ticket is a $10 fine. There have also been approxiamtely 175 court summons. Many of these paid their fines before actually appearing in court.

Randy Dahl of Student Affairs denied the rumor that a student could be barred from graduation or course registration from failure to pay parking ticket fines.

Former Addict Rates Rap

By SHERMAN BOYSON

"If I had something like this to go to years ago, my addiction wouldn't have been so prolonged."

That's how former heroin addict Dennis Lucchesi rates Project Rap, a multi-purpose resource and drop-in center he is running in the basement of Brown House in the Sylvan area.

Project Rap serves as a center for any problem that might affect the student. The center solves the hassles of trying to find an agency to help you with your particular problem. The project itself, based on Lucchesi's experience and training in rehabilitation, was formed to aid drug connected problems. The center also has a wealth of information on other problems -- pregnancy, alcoholism, academic hassles, or just plain loneliness. It is a sort of "Yellow Pages", where a tremendous amount of information is available to anyone in need. The center can refer a person to a specific organization or agency that can best help solve a problem.

Project Rap is part of the work Lucchesi is doing in the University's Graduate School of Education. As of yet there is no funding; the project is entirely independent. Lucchesi hopes the program will become a Recognized Student Organization (RSO) and be eligible for funds from the University.

Until then, Lucchesi is working with only his own resources. The center is located in his apartment in Brown dormitory. The materials and information collected, and the time spent manning the center have been done by him and volunteers Karen McCarthy, Don Grason, Lisa Marulli, and Michele Schavoone, who are psych majors.

"Most people come in themselves" Lucchesi said, "not too many people call." The project has a lot of room for expansion. Ideas, such as a hot line, are now being considered.

The project is open on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 2-4, and 8-12. On weekends it is open from 12 to 12. The center is in the basement of Brown, across from Suite 12; at 546-5819 or 546-4557.

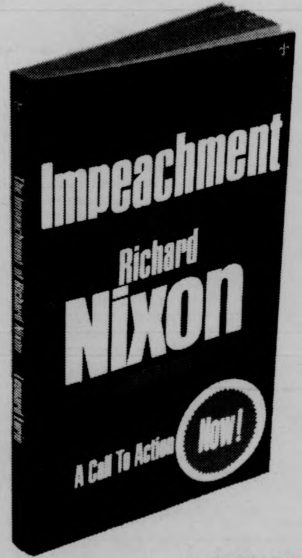
Commuter Assembly Executive Council--Final Vote Results

Carol Epstein
Robert "Smokey" Singleton
Janet Wick
Paul Doran
Leslie Horner
Deena Strauss
David Klein
Thomas Coffey

The above eight people were elected out of eleven people running; the total number of votes cast was 389 (out of 7500 undergrad commuters).

Hot Meals	Hot Deli Sandwiches	Grinders
3 Entrees	Roast Beef	Meat Ball
2 Vegetables	Corned Beef	Sausage
2 Potatoes	Pastrami	Salami
Soup, Salad	Ham	Ham
	Soup, Pot. Salad	Pastrami
	Cole Slaw	Tuna
	Sliced To Order	Made To Order

Monday - Friday
11 a.m. - 2 p.m.
Bluewall Cafeteria



THE AMERICAN PEOPLE HAVE AN EXECUTIVE PRIVILEGE, TOO: WE CAN FIRE THE PRESIDENT

Leonard Lurie is a noted scholar and author of THE RUNNING OF RICHARD NIXON (of which J. K. Galbraith has said, "Never was so good a book better timed.") and THE KING MAKERS.

Lurie has produced a painstakingly documented book which coherently argues that Richard Nixon be impeached. Armed with Lurie's historical mandate, hundreds of thousands of Americans are beginning to believe that Watergate should be Nixon's Last Crisis.

THE IMPEACHMENT OF RICHARD NIXON
by Leonard Lurie

In Bookstores Across The Country
N 2443 95¢

Berkley Publishing Corporation
200 Madison Avenue New York, N.Y. 10016

Playing With Fire

AP Photo

PREK LUONG, Cambodia--Cambodian children scramble for pellets of gunpowder playfully tossed from a bag by a Khmer artilleryman at Prek Luong northeast of Phnom Penh. The youngsters use the powder, no longer needed by Cambodian military troops, to light cooking fires.

Nixon Undercover Agents To Testify

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Watergate hearings resume Tuesday with two Nixon campaign undercover agents on the witness schedule.

Summoned to testify at the morning session was Michael W. McMinoway, who has been identified in news reports as Sedan Chair 2, an agent who infiltrated the campaign organization of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey when the Minnesota Democrat was seeking his party's presidential nomination in 1972.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which connected McMinoway with the Sedan Chair codename, said the 26-year old Louisville, Ky., private detective was hired by President Nixon's re-election committee to work in Humphrey's Pennsylvania and California primary campaigns.

The newspaper later reported that McMinoway posed as a volunteer security agent at the Democratic National Convention in Miami Beach, Fla., and overheard Sen. George McGovern's running mate.

Eagleton was later dropped from the ticket after his hospitalization for mental problems was disclosed.

Following McMinoway, the Senate committee will hear from John Buckley, another private investigator, who was reported to have infiltrated Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's campaign headquarters in Washington.

Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt testified that G. Gordon Liddy sent him to meet a man he knew as "Fat Jack" who turned over to Hunt "photographically stolen" documents from Muskie headquarters.

Hunt identified Buckley as "Fat Jack" and said he delivered cash to Buckley to pay for the photographs.

Buckley's name came up again when a special Watergate subcommittee probed Republican charges that the panel's chief investigator, Carmine S. Bellion, may have bugged the 1960 presidential campaign of Richard M. Nixon.

GOP National Chairman George Bush released affidavits from three men who swore Bellino sought to put Nixon workers under physical or electronic surveillance during that campaign. The subcommittee discovered that Buckley wrote the affidavits for the three men to sign.

Buckley was then working for the Washington law firm of Jerris Leonard, a former Nixon administration official retained as special counsel by the Republican National Committee to work on the Bellino matter.

The subcommittee's report, believed to exonerate Bellino, may be presented at an executive session of the full committee Tuesday morning when the panel meets to set a schedule for future witnesses.

In The Nation And The World

Senate Bans Strip Mining

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Monday to ban strip mining for coal on millions of acres of homesteaded land in the West on which the federal government owns mineral rights.

The 53 to 33 vote was on the first of a number of amendments expected to be offered to a bill to regulate strip mining.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chief sponsor of the bill, said the bill "strikes a balance between strong environmental protection and the need for coal as an energy source."

The amendment to protect surface owners of coal-bearing lands was offered by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

Mansfield said the federal government owns 1.7 million acres of strippable coal in eastern Montana alone. He said 88 per cent of the surface of this area is in private ownership.

Under present law, the person who owns or leases the mineral rights can mine the land, but has an obligation to pay the surface owner for any damages.

Under the amendment, coal could be extracted only by underground or deep mining.

Sen. Clifford Hansen, R-Wyo., who led the fight against the amendment, said most of the land affected could not be mined by underground methods because the coal lies in a thick seam a short distance underground.

"You have a real problem if you think you can underground mine that and not have the roof fall in," said Hansen.

Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., supporting the bill, conceded this was correct because of the existing state of mining technology. But he said he would support funds to study new techniques.

Metcalf said the affected lands "would be in the nature of a federal coal reserve."

He said the restriction would apply to future mining leases granted by the federal government and to those already granted on which mining operations have not started. It would not affect existing operations.

Debate was still pending on the extent to which surface miners should be required to restore and reseed land that has been stripped.

As currently written, the bill would require restoration of strip-mined land to its approximate original contour and vegetation. The requirements would be enforced by the states, provided they came up with regulations acceptable to the federal government. Otherwise, federal regulations would be imposed.

"This is a state's rights bill," said Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mon., a principal supporter.

Gov't. Denies Agnew News Leak

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department said Monday top officials would testify under oath that the department had not conducted a campaign to discredit Vice President Spiro T. Agnew by leaking information about the investigation of the vice president to newsmen.

The department said it would not contest attempts by Agnew's attorneys to subpoena department officials to give sworn depositions about Agnew's allegations.

In a 17-page brief, department attorneys objected strongly to subpoenas issued by Agnew's lawyers to newsmen who have written stories based on confidential information. The department called those subpoenas "fishing expeditions" and said they should not be condoned.

The department said the charges of news leaks were "legally irrelevant" and provided no basis for halting the investigation as Agnew has demanded.

The department said it did not feel Agnew's lawyers were justified in subpoenaing department officials but said it was willing to make them available for testimony.

The department has not confirmed or denied reports that subpoenas were delivered to certain officials on Friday and it did not do so in the brief filed with U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman.

Hoffman granted Agnew's lawyers' request for subpoena power to command testimony from Justice Department officials and newsmen in a search for evidence to support the lawyers' charge that the department engaged "in a steady campaign of statements to the press" in an effort to prejudice the grand jury investigation against the vice president.

On that basis and on the contention that a sitting vice president cannot be subjected to the judical process prior to impeachment, the Agnew counsel asked Hoffman to suspend the investigation of bribery and kickback allegations against the vice president.

The investigations have focused on Agnew's term as Maryland governor. Hoffman, of Norfolk, Va., has been assigned to the case after all federal judges in Maryland declined to hear it on the basis of their political and personal friendship with Agnew.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

Plan now for your European Week-A-Way!
ENGLAND
SPAIN France
Peter Pan WORLD TRAVEL
INC.
79 SO. PLEASANT ST.
Telephone 256-6704

Crisis In The Middle East

Nixon, Brezhnev Exchange Letters; US Plans Proposal For Mideast Peace

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Nixon, after exchanging private messages with Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev about the Middle East conflict, said Monday the United States was preparing a diplomatic proposal that "we hope and believe will be effective in stopping the fighting."

The President and Brezhnev exchanged personal messages Sunday through diplomatic channels, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced. He would not disclose their contents.

However, Nixon's spokesman said Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has been in "just about equal touch" with the foreign ministers of Egypt and Israel in recent days and said this "perhaps gives us a better opportunity" to promote peace than was possible during the 1967 Arab-Israel war.

Ziegler was asked if Brezhnev's message to Nixon, received late Sunday night, indicated the Soviets might urge restraint upon their Arab allies.

"I don't think now is the time to characterize the attitude" of any other country, Ziegler responded.

He said the Moscow-Washington "hot line" was not used and indicated Nixon had initiated the exchange.

The President interrupted a morning metting with Kissinger to brief newsmen and reveal that he had a proposal for the United Nations Security Council. He said he conferred late Monday by telephone with Kissinger and arrived at his office at about 7:30 a.m. Monday to spend much of the morning in conference with Kissinger.

Neither Nixon nor Kissinger, who told reporters "our intention is to move forward with the broadcast possible support that can be affected," indicated the precise nature of the diplomatic initiative being launched by the United States.

Nixon ordered Kissinger Sunday evening to request a U.N. Security Council meeting on the war but the 15-member body was reported deeply divided.

NATO Drops In!

AP Photo

BIGGEST AIRBORNE ASSAULT SINCE WORLD WAR II--Some of the 900 paratroopers, carried by six waves of Royal Air Force aircraft, were dropped recently in Thrace, Turkey as the highlight of NATO's biggest exercise this year. In all, 80 aircraft from Britain, Turkey and the United States dropped 2,400 paratroopers with supporting vehicles and artillery as thousands of villagers watched the airborne assault.

Oil-The Arabs' Most Potent Weapon

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)-The new war in the Middle East could well determine whether oil is really an important weapon in the Arab arsenal.

Experts in London agree that if the weapon is used the result would likely be oil shortages in Western Europe, Japan and to some degree the United States. Higher fuel prices and perhaps rationing could result.

There are strong pressures on the Arabs to tread carefully before unleashing the oil weapon. By the third day of the war, there was still no sign of any plan by the major Middle East producers to cut off oil altogether as they did for three months following the 1967 war.

It remained to be seen whether some Arab states may yet decide to cut back oil supplies in an attempt to pressure the United States and others to drop support of Israel. There was much talk of such a cutback in Arab capitals even tefore the outbreak of hostilities.

The clearest point to emerge so far was that the new war probably would change the politics of oil.

Before the renewed war, diplomats and oil company officials in Europe, America and the Middle East generally agreed the Arab oil weapon was a long-term problem.

The danger point was seen around 1980, when the United States expects to be importing more than a quarter of its oil needs from the Middle East. The proportion is much lower than that now.

Any Arab reduction of oil supplies would have speeded the search for oil elsewhere, and the development of alternate energy supplies from coal, nuclear reactors and other sources. President Nixon said the Arabs had no stranglehold on the United States because of these alternative energy sources.

However, the supply situation has changed, since the United States last year ceased being self-sufficient in oil and became a major importer.

Experts here say the total margin between world oil producing capacity and current demand is about a million barrels a day, or between 2 and 3 percent of current supplies. In effect this means that if only one radical Arab oil producer, like Libya, were to cut off its supplies there would be a shortage that could lead to some rationing.

Israeli Soldiers Kept Yom Kippur Fast

By BRUCE COHEN
Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV (AP) — The first wounded Israeli soldiers evacuated from the front Monday told of comrades' refusal to abandon the religious custom of fasting despite fierce fighting.

The conflict between Israel, Egypt and Syria broke out Saturday, the Yom Kippur Day of Atonement, on which Jews are expected to fast.

Many front-line soldiers reportedly continued their fasting despite rabbinical dispensation. Others said they went without food until the first shots were fired in midafternoon.

One 22-year-old tank gunner said he violated a direct order to eat, explaining, "I used to be religious, and even now Rosh Hashanah-the Jewish New Year-and Yom Kippur are holy days I respect."

The soldier said one of his crew was "almost dehydrated" after going without food until he was wounded at midnight.

But if the lack of food took its physical toll, the nighttime ambush fighting was even worse, the soldiers said.

One 20-year-old lieutenant, wounded in the hand and shoulder, told of a bloddy skirmish in which his tank was waylaid by Egyptian commandos near the Suez Canal.

The fighting raged across an area of only about 300 yards, with the Egyptians firing bazookas to set the Israeli tank ablaze.

The Israeli officer said he could see the enemy and opened up with cannon at close range. He said he then switched to another tank and charged the Egyptians under bazooka fire, shouting "Crush them, crush them." He scored hits and later was evacuated.

A 22-year-old sergeant said he had been in two tanks, both hit by Egyptian rockets. He said he escaped from the second burning vehicle just as its ammunition began exploding.

Israeli Jets Hit Syria

By HOLGER JENSEN
Associated Press Writer

MARJAOUN, Lebanon (AP) - Goatherds and olive farmers around this Lebanese army garrison town watched Monday as Israeli air strikes raised mushroom clouds of smoke on a ridge line in the Golan Heights.

Israeli jets streaked overhead to bomb Syrian positions six miles away, with the distant rumble of artillery mingling with the dull explosion of bombs.

Most of the air action was shrouded by clouds, but formations of fighter jets could be heard passing overhead every few minutes, and each pass was followed by explosions. There was no evidence of Syrian-Israeli dogfights.

Military checkpoints prevented this correspondent from getting closer to the fighting on the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights of Syria, near the Lebanese border.

"This is a military zone," a Lebanese army corporal said.

"Lebanese are allowed but no foreigners," he said, then added that he had seen "many, many jets," since early Monday.

Associated Press correspondent Alex Efty reported from the Syrian border post of Jedeidah, north of here, that more than 20 foreign correspondents were turned back by Syrian authorities when they tried to cross the border from Lebanon.

Residents on the Syrian side of the border told Efty that a half dozen Israeli Phantoms swept low overhead early in the Morning and attacked a nearby Syrian military camp. They said 20 persons were killed and many more were wounded in the raid.

HONORS PROGRAM

The Commonwealth Scholars' Program will be accepting new members during the weeks of October 9th and October 15th. This Program is intended for those students with a more than ordinary commitment to academic studies. Students who elect to join the Program are excused from University Core Requirements, provided that they take the required Honors courses and maintain certain minimum academic standards. Students who are interested should inquire at Machmer E-23.

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 9, 10, 11
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Irish Leader Gets 3 Years

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) - A special Dublin court sentenced guerrilla leader Seamus Twomey, once the British army's most wanted man in Northern Ireland, to three years in jail Monday.

Twomey, 53, who earlier this year was said to be chief of staff of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing, was jailed for 12 months as a member of the illegal organization, and drew a three-year concurrent term on a charge of handling stolen money.

He refused to recognize the court and in one of several shouted interruptions in the proceedings, he called court officials "bootlickers of the British army."

Twomey is the highest ranking IRA man to be jailed in the republic since another former chief of staff, Sean MacStiofain, was imprisoned last December.

Twomey was the commander of the Provisionals' Belfast brigade before he moved to the republic.

No Silent Bugs, Please

WASHINGTON (AP) - Legislation that would make it illegal to record a telephone conversation without telling the other party was introduced in the Senate Monday by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind.

Such a law would have prohibited the undisclosed recording of telephone conversations that has been admitted by several principals in the Watergate affair, including President Nixon.

The bill updates similar legislation introduced by Bayh in the last Congress. It also contains provisions to control the use by the government of records it maintains on individual citizens.

"These dossiers may be used to stifle legitimate political dissent," Bayh said.

"Even where the actual use of such information is benign," he said, "the very existence of it poses a threat to individual liberty."

Stop Thief!

For bike registration. . .bring your bicycle to the following areas and have them engraved with your social security number free of charge Oct. 9-11, 10:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m.

HampdeN Dining Commons - Tuesday.

Worcester Dining Commons - Wednesday.

Franklin Dining Commons - Thursday.

U.S. Jews Raise Pro-Israel Funds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

American Jews mapped new fund-raising drives Monday, seeking money to help Israel in its battle with the Egyptians and Syrians.

Pro Arab organizations also moved to get their side of the story across to the public. The Action Committee on Arab-American Relations announced a letter-writing campaign to get the United States to suspend aid to Israel.

One of the largest Jewish efforts was in the Chicago area where the board of governors of the State of Israel Bonds set a goal of $25 million.

David Zysman, executive director of the Chicago-area Israel Bonds, said the money would go toward the purchase of American goods and services for donation to Israel. He said his group raised $15.5 million for Israel during the six-day war in 1967.

The Israeli bond drive chairman in Miami said Jews in south Florida contributed 1.5 million over the weekend and announced plans for more rallies throughout the week.

Temple Shalom in Dallas sponsored a fund-raising event Monday afternoon. Howard Smigel, director of the local office of the State of Israel Bonds, said the money collected would be sent directly to the Israeli government.

The Jewish Welfare Fund of Memphis, Tenn., announced plans for a Monday night meeting and spokesman predicted that about 2,500 of the city's 9,000 Jews would attend. The spokesman said the money raised would be used to carry on social welfare programs that otherwise would be stopped because of the fighting.

The Jewish Federation of Rhode Island called an emergency meeting for Tuesday to offer prayers and raise funds to help Israel. "Jews in Rhode Island are going to be asked to attend. . .and by their voices and by their prayers and by their resources are going to manifest their solidarity with Jews in Israel," said former Gov. Frank Licht.

The Action Committee on Arab-American Relations announced that its members were writing to President Nixon, asking for a cutoff of all military, economic and political aid to Israel.

Dr. M.T. Mehdi, secretary-general of the organization, which coordinates the activities of Arab groups in the United States, also said the committee had "very tenative" plans for a demonstration at the White House on Wednesday.

The action committee asked six major oil companies to spend $10 million to counter what the group called Zionist propaganda in the United States.

Mehdi said the companies had a "moral responsibility" to "help discharge their debt" to the Arabian oil producing companies.

Arab Supporters Counter 'Zionist Propaganda'

NEW YORK (AP) The Action Committee on Arab-American Relations asked major oil companies on Monday to spend $10 million to counter what it called Zionist propaganda in the United States.

Representatives of some of these companies are at present negotiating in Vienna with six oil-producing Moslem countries of the Persian Gulf including Iraq which Sunday nationalized the 23.75 per cent interest held in the Basrah Petroleum Co. by Exxon and Mobil.

Exxon and Mobil were two of the companies asked for money. The others were Texaco, Shell, Standard Oil of California and Standard Oil of Ohio.

There was no immediate reaction from the oil companies.

The telegrams urged the companies to spend the $10 million in the United States to "openly, publicly declare their opposition to Zionism."

No. 1 in Sales to College Men & Women

CollegeMaster

FIDELITY UNION LIFE INSURANCE CO.

747 Main St.,
Amherst
Tel. 256-8351

Town Regrets Windfall

HISEVILLE, Ky. (AP) - A windfall from the federal government has turned into a giant headache for this small community in southwestern Kentucky.

It all started when the government sent the town of 160 residents a revenue-sharing check for $1,727. That's about $727 more than the entire annual budget for the community.

Hiseville Mayor William C. Phillips says the town spent the government money "in good faith."

"We've complied with everything we were supposed to," Phillips said. "And now they say they want their money back. I don't know what to think. . . We're not a bunch of crooks."

The Office of Revenue Sharing says Hiseville is one of 37 Kentucky towns that received too much money last year and it wants the money back.

The problem stems from the fact that revenue-sharing allotments are based mainly on local tax efforts and Hiseville has no real tax base. The money for the annual budget is raised mainly through cake sales and other community activities which supplement the revenue from a small utility tax.

The city spent more than half the $1,727 on remodeling City Hall. It still has $727 of the money left.

Phillips sent the Office of Revenue Sharing a check for the unspent money last week. He also protested the request for repayment and asked if it definitely had to be paid back and if so, could the government have a little patience until the money can be raised.

entertainment

HATCH Wednesday
Coffeehouse
Thursday, Friday, Saturday
"Seagull"

BLUEWALL Wednesday, Thursday
"Sweet Pie"
Friday, Saturday
"Henry May Band"

T.O.C. Friday, Saturday
Greg Bullen

They're here - - - - - - - - - - - - - direct from the West Coast

INNER CITY REPERTORY DANCE COMPANY

TONITE AND TOMORROW OCTOBER 9 & 10

BOWKER AUDITORIUM

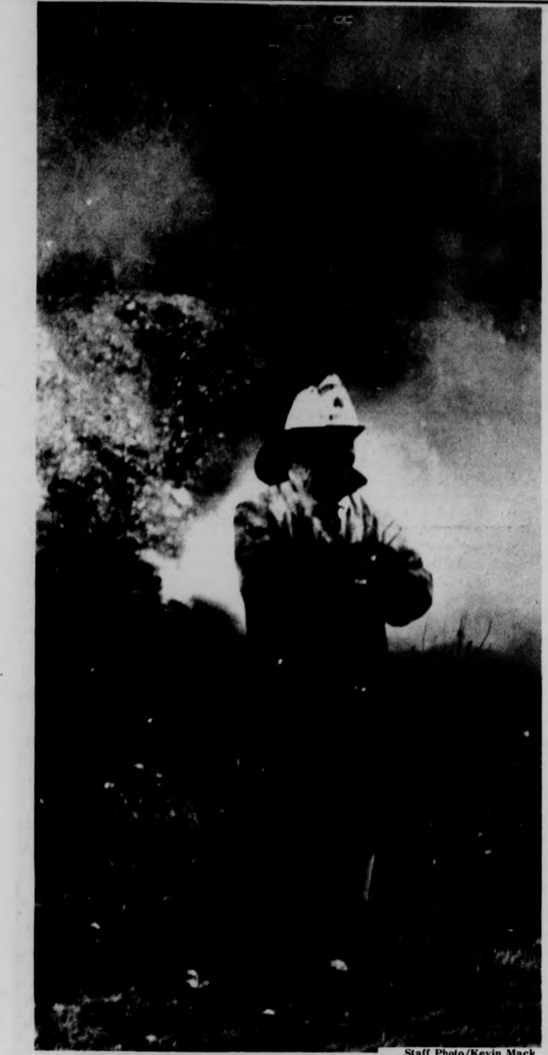
8 p.m.

Tickets available Campus Center Concourse, 8:30-3:30 p.m.
or 125 Herter Hall, 9-4 p.m.

Master Class, Thursday the 11th, W.O.P.E., 2:30 p.m.

Tickets $1.50 UM/A Students
$3.00 Others

SPONSORED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FINE ARTS COUNCIL



Staff Photo/Kevin Mack

Chief John Moriarty of the Hadley Fire Department stands silhouetted by yesterday's fire in the Mt. Holyoke Range. The fire, which took place on land used for storage of old tires, rose to heights of 100 feet at its peak. The smoke from the blaze was reportedly seen as far away as Enfield, Conn.

Hitler's Jalopy Bought After 10 Years Of Trying

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)-Adolph Hitler's special touring car was purchased for $176,000 Monday by two St. Louis men who said they planned to use it to promote Jewish charities throughout the nation.

Robert M. Pass, owner of Passport Classics and Passport Ltd., and Walter Klein, his insurance man, bought the car for $1,000 more than the auction price of the Bonnie and Clyde" death car in July.

Pass said they have been trying to obtain the 1940-41 Mercedes-Benz touring car for the past 10 years.

Earl Clark, owner of the Dutch Wonderland Amusement park near here, purchased the car last year in Phoenix and displayed it at the park.

Also auctioned off at the Hershey Antique and Classic Auto Show was a 1964 Lincoln Continental, the last personal car used by late President John F. Kennedy. It went for $12,500 to Charles Wood of Lake George, N.Y.

RESEARCH

thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material

SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493

Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

Thoughts On Boston's Troubles

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Why did it happen in Boston?

Two people were killed here last week. A young woman was burned to death. A retired man was robbed and stabbed to death after, police say, being pelted with rocks. Both were whites killed by groups of young blacks.

"Isolated insanity," said Mayor Kevin White. "Boston is still the most walkable, livable city on a comparative basis with any city in the country."

A couple of other cities would question that claim, but Boston remains one of the few cities where most Americans think it would be good to live. Further, it has a liberal reputation stretching from the 1830s, when it was the home of the antislavery abolitionist movement, to its McGovern vote a year ago.

So why did it happen in Boston? The answer might be found along a three-mile stretch of Columbia Road in the city's Dorchester section. It begins at Franklin Park, on the border of black Roxbury, and ends at a traffic circle near the racially troubled Columbia Point housing project and white, Irish South Boston.

It was about 800 yards from where Columbia Road runs into Franklin Park that Evelyn Wagler, 24, died Tuesday night. Carrying gasoline to her stalled car, she was stopped by six young blacks, forced to douse herself with the gasoline and was set afire.

And it was only 600 yards from the traffic circle at the other end that Ludivicio Louis Barba, 65, went fishing Thursday. Police first reported he had been stoned to death by 40 to 50 young blacks. The medical examiner reported Friday he died of stab wounds.

In between, Columbia Road runs through Dorchester, its sides flanked by "three decker" wooden houses, red brick public buildings and small stores and shops.

In the middle is Uphams Corner a commercial and shopping area.

There are sheets of plywood in the windows of the stores where Columbia Road begins at Franklin Park. A decade or two ago, it was an area where Boston's Irish Catholics coexisted with Boston's Jewish community. The faces on the street now are almost all black.

What happened in other cities has happened in Boston. Nine per cent black in 1960, it was 16 per cent black by 1970, and the white population had declined eight per cent.

As the black community grew, it expanded physically. Long confined to the dilapidated South End, it spread through Roxbury and into the tightly knit Dorchester neighborhoods that Boston's Irish and other white ethnic groups long had called home.

There is a scattering of abandoned houses along the Franklin Park end of Columbia Road, but not the desolation of some inner city areas.

If there is glass in the streets or rubbish on the sidewalks, blacks will tell you it's because their neighborhood gets the short end of city services.

Along Columbia Road, cruise the blue-and-white cars of the Boston Police Department. There is almost certainly a white man inside. The department is 98 per cent white and the source of much bitterness among blacks who say they are denied the protection they need to live without fear of crime and violence.

"You ever try standing in the street and stopping one of them," asked Charles Warrington, a window washer. "They look across and just go right by. They don't care."

A mile down Columbia Road, in front of the A & D Bar-B-Cue, young black people gather. The first generation to grow up hearing "black is beautiful," they are different.

"These young black kids nowadays, they don't take no crap," said Robert Johnson, a middle-aged black man. "They ain't going to let no one spit on them and call them names."

Many young blacks, here as elsewhere, are frustrated and angry, about schools they say don't educate them, jobs they can't find and a system they see as racist and not giving round.

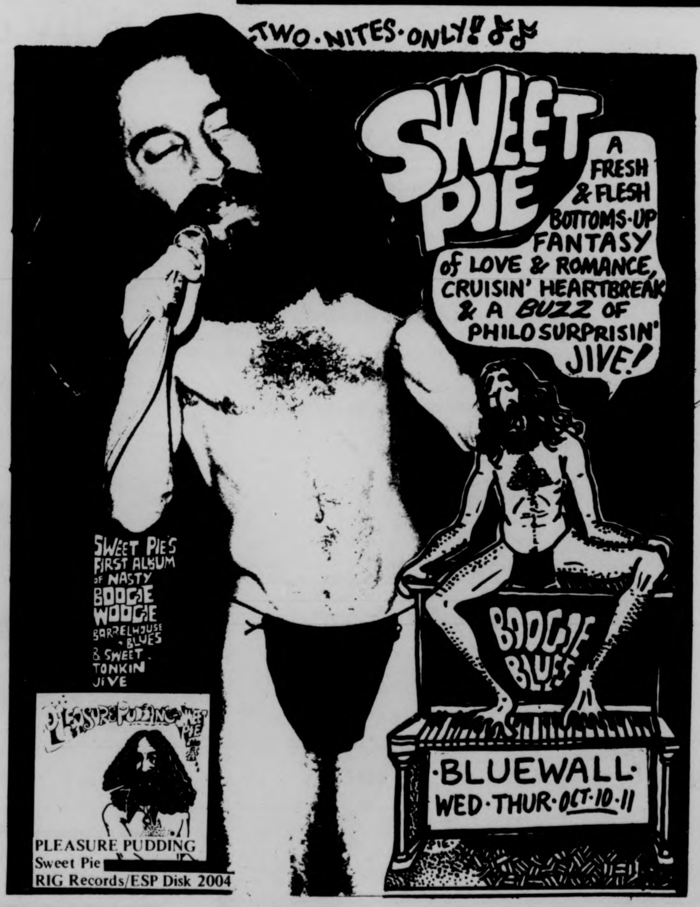
Their feelings find expression in many ways, in drugs and violence that prey on their own communities and sometimes in the violence which trapped two white people last week.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Last day for fall textbook refunds is Oct. 13, Saturday. No returns accepted after that day.

Logos - Cronopios Texts

27 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst



TWO·NITES·ONLY!
SWEET PIE
A FRESH & FLESH BOTTOMS-UP FANTASY of LOVE & ROMANCE, CRUISIN' HEARTBREAK & A BUZZ OF PHILOSURPRISIN' JIVE!
SWEET PIE'S FIRST ALBUM of NASTY BOOGIE WOOGIE BARRELHOUSE BLUES & SWEET TONKIN JIVE
PLEASURE PUDDING SWEET PIE
BOOGIE BLUES
·BLUEWALL·
WED·THUR·OCT·10·11
PLEASURE PUDDING
Sweet Pie
RIG Records/ESP Disk 2004

Police Close In On Walpole Escapee

WESTWOOD, Mass. (AP)-State police Monday afternoon moved "all available" men and equipment into a wooded area here after "positive identification" was made of escaped convict Robert G. Dellelo.

Troopers said the state police helicopter, K-9 dogs and cruisers in the area were sent to the scene, near the Route 128 Railroad Station and the General Motors plant, which is on University Drive. The area is near the Dedham town line.

State police said Dellelo was "positively identified" by a Boston police officer. He was on foot.

Dellelo was believed to be armed with two revolvers taken from prison guards when he escaped last Thursday.

He was serving a life term at the state prison in Walpole for killing a Boston police detective during a jewelry store robbery in 1964.

Dellelo, 31, escaped by flashing a fake gun at two guards at Pondville Hospital in Norfolk. He had been taken there for examinations.

He disarmed the guards and forced them to drive him to the Metropolitan District Commission Blue Hills Reservation in Milton, not far from where he was believed to have been seen Monday.

He bound the guards to a tree and fled on foot after being unable to start the prison car.

AP Photo

Robert Dellelo, serving a life sentence for the murder of a Boston policeman, escaped Thursday from correction officials near Mattapan Square in Boston. He was president of the National Prisoners Reform Association chapter at Walpole State Prison.

Tolling The Walkers

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) - A dozen applicants from various parts of the country want to become the toll collector on the nation's only known toll foot bridge.

The Two-Penney Footbridge, a 3,000-foot span across the Kennebec River, has been without a toll taker since last August when Leon H. Crowell, 64, suffered a fatal heart attack while replacing a broken bridge plank.

In addition to Maine, applications have come from New York City, Baltimore, Connecticut and Virginia.

With inflation, the toll for crossing the four-foot wide span has risen over the years to five cents. Presently unattended, the bridge is used by Waterville residents who cross the river to their jobs at Winslow's pulp and paper mills.

"Once in a while someone will throw some change into the receptacle,"said Robert M. Tonge, president of the Ticonic Foot Bridge Co., which owns the bridge.

Tonge said the bridge took in "revenue enough to pay the keeper $80 a month and expenses for his house and utilities."

The one-room keeper's "house",is built into the 70 year-old bridge.

One of the applicants identified himself as a free-lance writer from New York City and said he sent the letter by special delivery"because I want to beat the hundreds of other applications that you will be receiving.

"After 29 years here, I want to escape from this dirt-shrouded, strike-strangled city," he wrote. "My wife is recovering from a fractured hip and will certainly enjoy relief from the car-dodging antics that the pedestrian must engage in in New York."

Another New Yorker, a 44 year-old college graduate, emphasized that "compensation is quite secondary."

But he quickly added: "Increasing the toll to 10 cents might not be out of line."

Tonge said other applicants included a Virginia coed who will be attending college in Maine and a one-armed parking lot attendant from Bridgeport, Conn.

The bridge, suspended on five-inch diameter cables, was selected last month for inclusion in the National Registry of Historic Places.

The bridge has been the target of recent vandalism and Tonge said he plans to close it next week until structural work can be completed.

Stop That Fog Horn!

PHIPPSBURG, Maine (AP) - Noise pollution comes in strange forms-like a fog whistle blaring out its strident call in bright sunlight.

That was the problem the people of Phippsburg and Georgetown at the mouth of the Kennebec River faced, a Coast Guard navigational busy in the river that often blew its fog whistle in the sun.

The whistle was under the remote control of the Coast Guard light station on Sequin Island, four miles away. The idea was for the island crew to turn on the whistle when there was fog.

But that didn't work too well because, Maine weather being what it is, there were many days when Sequin Island was in fog, but the busy - anchored between Bay Point and Peeham Beach-was in sunlight.

On such days, the Coast Guard reacted to local conditions and turned on the whistle.

Area residents complained about as loudly as the whistle.

The Coast Guard took heed and ruled, effective Oct. 1, that the whistle would be turned off permanently-unless there are protests.

That seems unlikely. Shore residents say the principal users of the river are local lobstermen who know their way well enough to go blindfolded and for whom fog holds few perils.

Student Activities Policy Council

Any student involved in any of the following: on campus publications, campus service organizations, campus cultural organizations, social action and political organizations, academic organizations, off campus service organizations, concert committee, other special interest groups, or residence halls — you are needed on the STUDENT ACTIVITIES POLICY COUNCIL. All interested persons should apply by October 10 by submitting a brief resume of their activities and a statement as to why you wish to be considered for this appointment to the STUDENT SENATE OFFICE, 420 S.U. Any questions: Contact David Booker, 5-0341.

Guest Writers To Speak

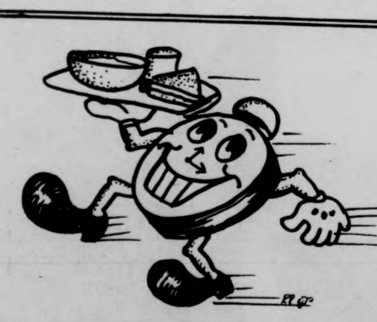
Writers Reading invites the college community to an evening of poetry and fiction tonight at 8:00 pm in the Colonial Lounge on the first floor of the Student Union. The four guest writers will be:

Siv Fox, poet and photographer, author of The Island and Cup Of Cold Water, editor of an anthology of Native American poetry, contributor to N.Y. Quarterly, Dryad and Broadway Boogie.

David Black, contributor to The Atlantic, Harper's, Esquire, The Phoenix and The Village Voice.

Jane DeLynn, contributor to Fiction and the Paris Review, author of a novel, Killing Time.

Linda Chase, contributor to Art in America and Art Critic. Donation will be 25 cents.



in a rush?
grab a Quickie Lunch!

11th Floor Campus Center
Room 1102 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.
Monday thru Friday

Why do some people think Bud® is sort of special?

Go ahead and find out why!
(Brewing beer right does make a difference.)

Budweiser
GENUINE

When you say Budweiser®, you've said it all!
ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS

Kidney Repaired Outside Of Patient's Body

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON (AP)-Surgeons have developed a technique to remove a diseased kidney, work on it outside the body for as long as 30 hours, then return it to the patient.

The new technique eventually could save many kidneys now permanently removed because of the risk of repairing them inside the patient is greater than that of taking them out, doctors said Monday.

Robert J. Cafarelli, 42, of North Andover, is the first recorded patient to successfully be treated with the technique, doctors said. His lone kidney was sustained outside his body for five hours with the aid of a preservation machine while doctors removed a large, benign tumor from the organ.

Carafelli left Boston University Medical Center Monday with only half of one kidney, but his doctors said it should be enough to sustain him for the rest of his life with few restrictions.

Dr. Carl A. Olsson, chief of urology at University Hospital, said organs such as kidneys previously had been operated on outside the body. But the procedures had to be short-two or three hours-or the organ would die, he said.

With the new technique, the organs preserved in a perfusion machine, similar to ones used to keep kidneys before transplant operations. That machine pumps modified blood plasma through the organ at low temperatures.

Using a modified machine which keeps the organ alive while surgeons operate on it, doctors spare the patient the trauma of suffering through a long internal kidney operation.

The technique still is experimental, Dr. Olsson said, and could be performed only at large medical centers with expertise in kidney surgery. Even if it proves viable in enough cases, he added, it could be a number of years before such surgery is readily available.

Dr. Olsson said the technique is useful only in cases which can be treated surgically, which excludes such problems as malignant cancers.

Dr. Olsson said the kidney is a very easy organ to remove, but a difficult one on which to work. The kidney is a very vascular organ which bleeds freely and it can be difficult to work around it in the confines of the body, he said.

There are several advantages of working on a kidney for long periods outside the body, he said: There is a clearer field of vision and easier access, blood loss is dramatically reduced, better X-rays and other tests can be performed and surgeons can take the time to go after difficult problems without having to worry about the patient.

Dr. Olsson explained that this new approach to urological surgery could be useful in the future in difficult cases requiring repeated operations on the same kidney. It also could be useful, he said, when the patient has other severe injuries which limit how well he can withstand long surgery or when the patient has microscopic kidney damage or small stones which take a lot of time to treat.

If this "out-of-body" approach had not been used in the case of Cafarelli, who lost one kidney 20 years ago after surgical complications, doctors said an alternative would have been to try the difficult surgery in his body. They said this would have required at least two operations with questionable results.

The other alternative would have been to permanently remove the kidney, put the patient on a dialysis machine and wait for an appropriate matched kidney for a transplant.

Cafarelli was referred to University Hospital after examination elsewhere revealed tumorous masses thought to be cancer. Surgeons found rare, but benigh cholesteatoma tumors in the kidney and parts of the ureter, the tube that carried urine from the kidney to the bladder.

While the growing tumors were benign, their growth was locally destructive, Dr. Olsson said.

Carafelli's operation took seven hours and was performed by two surgical teams. The first team removed the kidney, placed it in the perfusion device and worked on the organ.

The second team closed the wound in the patient's side and opened a place lower in his abdomen. Because the lower third of the ureter was removed, the remaining parts of the kidney and ureter had to be placed lower in his body than before.

After surgeons removed half of the kidney to destroy the tumorous mass-a procedure called a partial nephrectomy-the remaining part was repositioned into Cafarelli's body.

The doctors said Cafarelli, teacher's principal of the Armitage Elementary School in Saugus, can resume his professional activities within a month.

Animal research leading up to Cafarelli's surgical milestone began in 1967 at the Boston Veterans Administration Hospital.

New Englanders Open Homes To Fall Tourists

By PATTI LEE
Associated Press Writer

Many of the tourists who stream into New England in early October to take in the fall foliage found another phenominon which might be called northern hospitality.

Despite warnings from state tourist agencies to make reservations in advance and travel on weekdays, the annual crush of visitors hit the region on Columbus Day weekend and many found themselves stranded with no room in the inns.

In the Green Mountains of Vermont, the White Mountains of New Hampshire and the Berkshires of northwestern Massachusetts, the local chambers of commerce geared up early to find accommodations.

More than 70 Rutland, Vt., homes took in travelers who came to the Rutland Regional Chamber of Commerce, with one family inviting 13 overnighters during the weekend.

Peter Foote of the Lake Champlain Regional Chamber of Commerce in Burlington, Vt., said the office referred more than 2,000 people to lodging on Saturday, some in the last few motel rooms and the rest to private homes. He said it was the busiest day the chamber had seen in the past seven years and left the volunteers "punch-drunk."

Foote said travelers told him it was unbelievable that local residents would open their homes to strangers.

In Lancaster, N.H., the Chamber of Commerce was ready for the weekend deluge and prepared the town hall with cots and blankets. The All Saints Roman Catholic Church Rectory also opened its doors, and the two buildings housed 40 tourists between them on Saturday night.

Vermont Tourist and Information Director Donald Lyons said the state had tried to convince tourists to plan ahead for the trips to look at the fall foliage by making advance reservations, traveling in mid-week and getting off the main roads.

He said one tactic had been a change in the "fall foliage reports" issued to tell tourists where the most colorful scenery could be found. Lyons said the reports no longer contained references to "peak color" because too many travelers tried to converge on the hills for that unpredictable moment of maximum color.

Those who wanted time to gaze at the roadside views had more time than they anticipated in some areas such as the Mohawk Trail in the Berkshires or Smuggler's Notch in the central Vermont ski country, where traffic jams kept cars backed up for miles.

Among the tourists from such diverse areas as Saudi Arabia, East Africa, Hawaii, and of course other parts of New England was a Californian who claimed he came to Vermont for the peace and quiet of the green hills.

Barrymore Debuts In Family Tradition

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) - John Blythe Barrymore, the 17th in his family to don greasepaint, makes his dramatic debut in a soon-to-be released independent movie, "Around."

The 19-year-old, red-haired Barrymore, son of actor John Barrymore Jr. and actress Cara Williams, was signed for the film last spring by the producer and star, David Carradine.

In the movie, filmed last May and June in Kansas, Barrymore plays one of a trio of teen-agers who break up a merry-go-round being repaired by Carradine, a friend of Barrymore's father and star of ABC's series "Kung Fu."

Here is his lineage: Louisa Lane and the first John Drew were his great-great-grandparents. Maurice and Georgiana Drew Barrymore were his great-grandparents. John Barrymore and Delores Costello were his grandparents, Helene Costello his great-aunt, John Drew and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew his great-granduncles and aunt. Ethel and Lionel Barrymore were his real-aunt and uncle and Diana Barrymore was his aunt.

In addition, Carradine's father, actor John Carradine, and the late John Barrymore were close friends.

Barrymore, who has been making the rounds of agents and producers, said "In a sense the name hurts me because my father a lot of times did not show up for films. A couple of agents were wary of me because of that.

"But people seem interested when they find out who I am. I intend to do a lot of work."

Barrymore, who recently visited Carradine on the "Kung Fu" set at Warner Brothers, has been signed to play the lead in another Carradine production, "Sea Urchin."

He said he is living in a burned-out house that Carradine is rebuilding. Asked how he's supporting himself in the meantime, he said, "It's hard to say. On a shoestring."

Post-Reporters— Shape Up Or Ship Out

BOSTON (AP) -Two Washington newsmen who won Pulitzer Prizes for their reporting of the Watergate affair say a "lazy" press helped to develop the scandal.

Bob Woodward and Carl Berstein, both of the Washington Post, said in a speech Sunday at Ford Hall Forum that the press reported only what the Nixon administration wanted known.

"Watergate has proved that was not enough," Bernstein said.

Woodward said the Nixon staff personnel who were involved in Watergate "just didn't know what power could do and how easily it could be abused."

Check out what's new . . .

Watergate — View from the Left Janis Joplin — Buried Alive
Seven Arrows — Paperback
Einstein — Creator & Rebel Hendrix — a Biography

at CRONOPIOS BOOKS
27 N. PLEASANT ST. AMHERST

the HATCH COFFEEHOUSE brings you fine
entertainment
every Wednesday

this week featuring Tom Wilson, POOR HOWARD (hopefully) and others
with "Henri" as MC
9:00 P.M. ~ 1:00 a.m.
hatch cafeteria
free!

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Karen Lynch
NIGHT STAFF	Jan Alexander
EDITORIAL	Dean Tucker
SPORTS	Steve Crowe
DARKROOM	Kriste Thompson, Dennis Conlon
AD LAYOUT	Vicki Newman

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

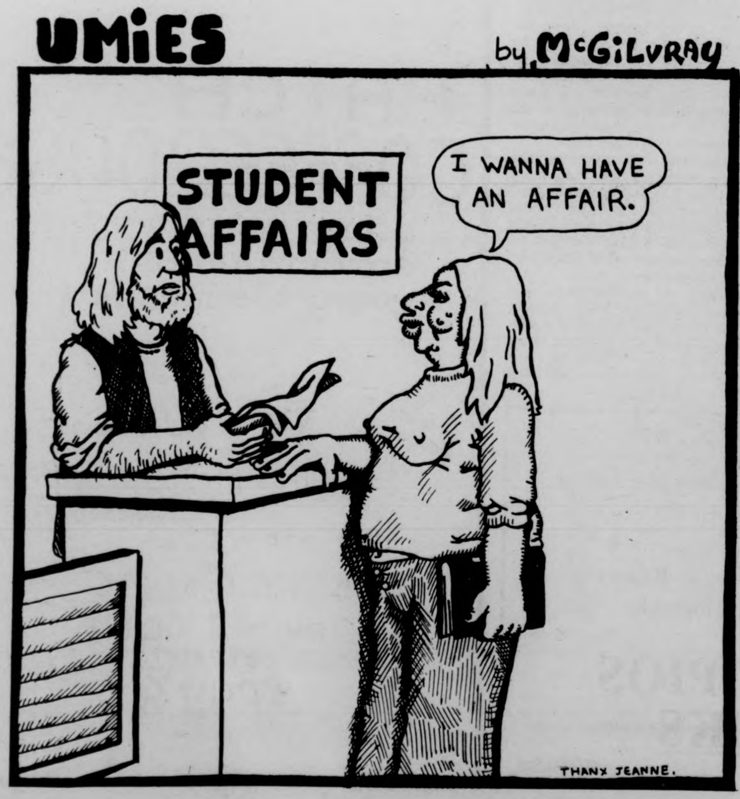
Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed, and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.



Zamir Nestelbaum

A Worthless Cause

Every once in a while, whilst carousing around campus, one sees something most disconcerting-whether it be a mean looking women's libber with a dagger against her hip or people getting on the McDonald's bus with the intention of getting off at Hardee's, or whether it be Joel Stoneham getting on the McDonalds's bus, or a Dining Commons Meal "Chit" floating by in the breeze (chased longingly by Joel Stoneham), or even the sight of the School of Education. Well last week something happeded that made the aforementioned horrors look like stuffed shells at the Dining Commons (what are they stuffed with---Dead Lizard Innards?) Something that made those despicable visions seem like a 12 credit "A" in Nose Picking out of the School of Ed. It was truly horrendous. Not since Marty Kelly's "FUCK!!! WE WON!!!" blast after the Maine game on television have I been more astounded. What happened was that I was approached by a tall, rather stout student with a close cropped mane, and a jacket and tie, who proceeded to introduce himself.

"Good afternoon sir!" he said extending his hand briskly. "My name is Josh Hathaway and I am a freshman at this University!" he boomed with a toothy grin over his protruding jowls. "As you know, these are trying times. Why they even try men's souls! (chortle chortle). This University is in a shambles. People can't park wherever they want. People have to eat this food. People have to live in dormitories. People have to attend classes. Why, it's a sight reminiscent of a Fellini movie. I aim to change all that. And that's why I am running for Student Senate!! Can I have your support?" he asked with his most sincere face.

I was shocked. Never since the Students for Apathy disbanded have I seen such vigor and activism for a worthless cause. Recovering myself quickly I returned: "What!!! Are you crazy? Why are you running for that? Do something constructive, like be a food taster for the Dining Commons (knowing full well that that would kill him.)"

"No sir!!! I'd rather not. You see I happen to believe in this great nation of ours. I believe that all Americans should participate in government to their fullest capacity. Whether they be big shots like Nelson Rockefeller, Edward Kennedy, or Bobby Seals or insignificant nebobs of negativism like Frank Rizzo, Gordon Liddy and Spiro Agnew. E. Howard Hunt is a good example of public service. He has served this great nation of ours in the Armed Services, he has served in the CIA, he has served in the Nixon Administration. And even now, he is still serving-time. Why my High School Civics teacher Jeb Stuart MacGruber has said that "all true Americans must look inside themselves and say, what can I do to help my President?" I feel that by running for Student Senate I can fulfill MacGruber's wish by promoting the most unethical Institution on campus, the Senate, and then havoc bedlam and confusion will run rampant and tear this University down. You see the President doesn't like U Mass, and if he has to go, he wants to take U Mass with him!"

"Wow!" I muttered in retroactive shock, "You mean to say...."

"Yes! That's exactly what I mean. Ever since I learned that Nick Apostola craves New Blood I have campaigned briskly. I am in the process of forming my own Unity slate which will unite around me as the leader. Presently it's true that I am the only one on the slate. But..."

"What do you mean to say!" I blasted. "You can't be a student Senator. Sure you're ugly, sure you got that homely Joe College look about you. Sure you're unethical and rather dim and are out to get as much money as you can from the Senate before you're caught: all perfect qualifications for the office, but you do lack certain things!"

"Like what!!!" he annoyingly inquired.

"Like, where's your pipe? Where's your vest? Where's your neatly coiffured goatee? How well do you arch your brows? You know the Infirmary can't treat gonorrhea of the mouth, a disease common to Senators. Where's that 'Look at me! I'm a hotshit' air you have to have when you meet a group of students."

"I never thought about those things."

"Of course you didn't. Also, you're only a freshman. You need time to reach the level of bullshit slung in the Senate Chambers. A move up to Orchard Hill would be a step in the right direction. Have you considered the John Birch Society? We have several prominent Student Birchers around. If you can cope with the, you can cope with anybody. Take a Rhetoric course or two. All of these wouldn't hurt. If you pass thru these levels of indolence and mediocrity with ease, then you truly are Senate materal!"

"Thank you, sir, for your advice. I'll file it into the proper receptacle and put it into my circular file" he said coudly. "Well, I'll have to be running off now to my ROTC class: "Gook shooting 101!! Great fun, you know."

..Zamir Nestelbaum is a Collegian columnist.

Palestinian Resistance

By PEDRO HERNANDEZ

If the Zionist ideology is one of the products of modern anti-semitism, it may be said that the conditions which have enabled the foundation of the state of Israel are largely the result of Nazism and its domination of Europe, and also, to some extent, of the development of the "Jewish question" in the Soviet Union. To achieve the establishment of a Jewish State in Palestine, to which the Jews had no historical right apart from a messianic ideology, Zionism profited from a colonial situation created by Imperialism; in order to achieve its aims, it relied for support on one or other of the Western Imperialist's powers in turn. Certainly the jewish agricultural colonies had bought 6 per cent of land of Palestine, but this fact cannot justify the creatism of a state to the detriment of a people who were in no way responsible for European anti-semitism nor for German Nazism.

The Jews who came from Europe brought with them a fund of scientific knowledge and education which guaranteed Israel the opportunity of rapid development from the very start. However, one should also mention the fact that the Palestinian Arab minority is subjected to discriminatory measures in the Zionist State.

Zionist which has tried to solve the Jewish question in its own way by creating a national state in Palestine-unsuccessfully, since the vast majority of Jews do not live in Israel. I tell you about the difference between the life Palestinians lead today, and the life they led before, in Palestine; then they had good, solid houses to live in; now they have tents, some children do not know what Palestine is, and I tell you that Palestine is the Holy Land, and its people are a Holy people, for they fight the Israelis with nothing, and those who fight with nothing are saints.

They are one with the other Arabs; they are not animals, as the Zionist claims. They refuse to submit. They rejected the Balfour Declaration and they shall continue to fight against Imperialism and against Israel. They are the people of the Holy Land. They are not fighting the Jewish religion, nor the Chrisitan religion. They are ready to live peacefully with the Jews, but not with Zionism. Revolutionary violence is the only available means of liberating the homeland. This violence must be accepted by the masses. The object of this revolutionary violence is to liquidate the political economic and military institutions of Zionism over the whole of the occupied territory of Palestine. This revolutionary action should be independent of all party or state control. The revolutionary struggle will of necessity continue over a long period. The revolution is Palestine in origin, Arab in development.

God is with them and Israel will be punished for they have done them too great a wrong; no Nation has ever done such wrong before but one they will go back. They must trust in God and in the "Fedayeen". They carry arms, that is enough for them, for they will give them back their Homeland. After all they have suffered, they can bear to suffer a little more so as to be able to look the World in the face...

Pedro Hernandez is a Collegian commentator.

Letters To The Editor

Where Will Hadley Stop?

To The Editor:

Regarding the full page ad from the Finast grocery chain in a recent issue of the Daily Collegian, I would like to ask you if you have ever taken a long and serious look at that shopping center and tried to remember the very beautiful green field that once lived there? I do not understand how a student newspaper can actively support any business presently existing on such senselessly ravaged environment.

Hadley is infamous for scarring the face of Amherst. The next time any of you drive up Route 9, please take notice of the little sign that says "Entering Amherst", which is just beyond Friendly's, which is near Kentucky Fired, which is just across from Zayre's, which is just beyond the Arco station, which is just across from the other gas station, which is across from Hardees, which leads to MacDonald's, which foreshadows Almy's and Finast, which...? Where will Hadley stop? If Hadley doesn't care about what happens to Route 9, shouldn't we from UMass and Amherst boycott AT LEAST this last, ugliest, most unnecessary, most devastating addition to the Route 9 Nightmare? And if you have so little control that you can't boycott it, MUST YOU SUPPORT IT?! Have a little foresight. Once the businessmen have paved over every green square inch left on Route 9, a new superhighway will be built ten miles to the east or six miles to the west and Route 9, no longer a main thoroughfare, will be abandoned--a decaying ghost town of ill-planned eyesores left to rot at our doorstep.

STUDENTS: Please support me. Write to the Collegian and ask them not to accept the advertising business from the new shopping center. Don't shop there. I have returned to Amherst after five year's absence, horrified to find this new outbreak of cancer. I have never set foot in the place and never will. It's really not difficult at all. I just hum quietly as I go past, "...got along without you before I met you and I can get along without you now...", which may date me as far as popular music goes, but not with regard to my active concern for this once beautiful, still salvageble town. Maybe we can scare the next business away, or at least into hiding.

Irene V. Nicastro

Thank You For Keeping Me Sane

To The Editor:

Just a short note to thank the students of the Amherst campus, who kept me sane during seven hard years of teaching.

Every morning at eight I'd cross the campus, a lonely David, armed with only a fraying Bic Banana, to do battle with the Goliath of Administration, which was surrounded by cohorts of lovely, mind-confusing secretaries wielding bouncing-ball I.B.M.s. Then, I'd meet the students in the Union, and I'd know that I wasn't alone; there were 25,000 other crafty Davids wandering about the place, all as baffled as myself.

Well, I lost the battle to keep the non-departmental major, but we Davids can't lose in the end. There are too many of us. And, if you keep fighting for faculty and student control of courses and programs (who else does the work), we may yet fight our way up to the level of the medieval university, where the students chose the faculty, and the faculty hired the "administration" to keep the school rooms tidy and buy chalk.

One final word: there seems to be a rumor that after the recent coup d'etat in Journalistic Studies, I have taken refuge in the Paraguayan Embassy in Tibet--at least my mail seems to be arriving by that, or some equally slow route.

This is not true: I am alive and well and living only 87 miles away at: 241 Berkshire Boulevard, Albany, N. Y., 12203.

All Davids welcome! And thanks again, students.

Barney Emmart,
Former Chairman, Journalistic Studies

The Great Physician Is God

To The Ediror:

YOUR UNDIVIDED ATTENTION, PLEASE, as I unveil a true story with which all should be concerned.

We are now in the midst of the most incredible natural disaster mankind has ever experienced to this very point in time. A new strain of microscopic organism has invaded every city and township; indeed, it has entered every person's body in the entire world. We have all been contaminated and will die if each one of us does not act now!

Many expert physicians in the field of world health have diagnosed the infection and have discovered the natural cure, each using his own means and methods. The most amazing part about the situation is that, because the cure is a natural one, it is absolutely FREE.

However, the most painful part of this saga is that few people believe in the truth of this study. Few people outside of the head physician and his close associates and followers know and understand the truth. They explain that the serum need only be taken internally once and the recipient is spared from the impending death. It is that simple.

Yet people are dropping dead, even now, on city streets, country roads, in their beds, on the battle fields, in the debate halls, everywhere! No one will cast off his pride, open his eyes, and see the truth and be spared this horrible death.

Nevertheless, this faithful physician continues his work. His associates press on to convince the world of this "unbelievable" truth, reaching more and more people each day. Yet theirs is a still small voice. As one of the great physician's followers, I ask only that you investigate the truth. Establish its validity in your own mind, then accept the cure.

As to the identities of those mentioned, the great physician is God, the creator of life. His close associates and followers are the Christians of the world. The horrible, infectious organism is Satan himself and man's inability to cope with life on his own.

THE CURE, the absolutely free cure which is availalbe to everyone right this moment is our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. To accept His cure you need only to open the door to your heart and let Him in. If this is sincerely and faithfully done you will immediately pass from death into life. With that promise who can refuse the cure?

Paul Aganski

Go Away, Hare Krishnas

To The Editor:

I, as a student, don't know a damn thing about Hare Krishnas and their movement and never want to either. But I do know that their approach is worse than the pizzaburgers they used to serve at the dining commons. You can be sitting in your room with the door shut and have a Hare Krishna come in without knocking, take the joint out of your mouth, lower your stereo, and throw a copy of Bhavada-Gita in your face. Next he tells you to have a copy of his book and two minutes later he wants five dollars for it. Then the asshole won't even leave when you tell him to get the hell out. To top this off, he wears a wig (because of the cold night air) and won't remove it to prove to you that he is really a "Krishna". And regardless of whether you're sleeping or not these perverts will still enter your room and wake you up in order to bum spare change off of you. If you ask them why they beg money, they tell you that it's against their religion to work. If you're lucky enough to get him out of the room, he'll no sooner be back screaming to let him in because he's a diabetic and needs sugar.

You bunch of sucking phoney Indian givers, GO FUCK YOURSELVES today and leave us UMies alone!!

(Oh, I'm sorry, you people aren't allowed to have sex.)

Vincent Stakutis

More Letters
To The Editor
See Page 12

Once Upon A Time

By DENNIS SIMKOWSKI

Once upon a time, a bossman revelled in his courtyards, played Monopoly in a way that amazed his peers, sported a shiny lapel pin of the white, blue and red, talked about a peace with honor, advised belt-tightening, invaded privacy, impounded funds, scuttled domestic programs, froze wages and declared war on the worker, vetoed the minimum wage, smiled a lot, watched the Washington Redskins, jumped in a crazed fashion when the votes were counted ritualistically ranting and raving to a somewhat partisan audience that "I AM THE PRESIDENT". hated the press, loved the press, hired infamous characters, despised terrorists but supported them, lied on numerous occasions and deceived the public, sent arms to Pakistan and other places, supported the Attica Massacre, bombed people during Christmas after saying "peace is at hand", didn't consider war spending "inflationary", considered himself above the law citizens are supposed to respect, furnished his space on our time, bought scab products and filet mignon, subsidized millionaires and taxed the workers, supported military dictatorships, et cetera, and he lived happily ever after?

Dennis Simkowski is a Collegian commentator.

Choosing Brands

To The Editor:

Re: Letter of October 3., "Let Them Eat Lettuce."

It is high time that a university body commit itself in some effective way on this important political and economic issue. I am speaking of the lettuce boycott. Commitment and protest belong in a university community and I am glad to see it here.

To boycott lettuce means that if you can't buy UFW, you don't eat it. Or you wait until you can get it. Or you go a little father out of your way to buy it. A boycott is not meant to be convenient. It makes you think about the issue. It reminds you that the workers trying to organize often do not get enough to eat; at least not as much as you do. Choosing what kind of lettuce to have is a luxury.

Union Lettuce last week at the People's Market was 29 cents-head. Non-union lettuce was 39 cents-head at Stop & Shop. Go eat hamburgers or "roumaine pastrami" (what's so bad about roumain lettuce?), or whatever else you want. As far as lettuce is concerned, there are more important things to gripe about than choice between kinds of lettuce. There's nothing more important here than choosing brands.

Sara N. Teicholz

The Jews Have Suffered

To The Editor..

In regard to the letter which appeared in the Thursday Oct. 4 edition of the Collegian, Mr. Sommerville makes a statement to the effect that Israel has had long standing ties with South Africa, is an Imperialistic state, and is playing a disruptive role in Africa.

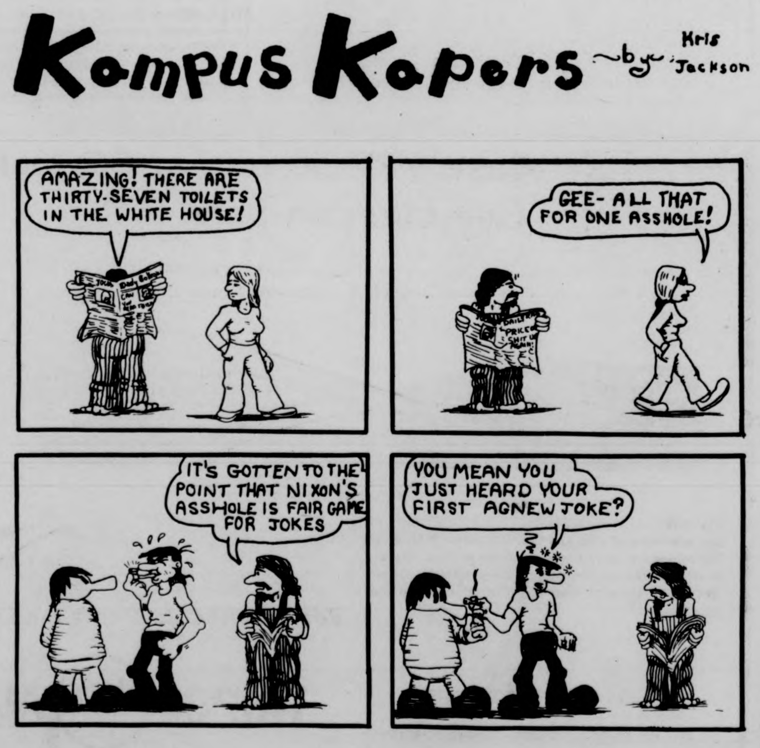
When one writes in a statement like this I, like anyone else, would expect it to be backed up by fact. I fail to see any concrete facts stated by Mr. Sommerville. This letter by Mr. Sommerville seems to be just another letter to make the fires of anti-Zionism and anti-Semitism that much hotter.

Mr. Sommerville talks about oppression by the U.S. on Africa, by using Israel as a tool of this oppression. Number one, agreed the blacks have suffered, Africa has suffered, but we Jews wrote the book on suffering. No other nation has had two thousand years of suffering like the Jews. No other has seen six million of its people slaughtered without the world giving a care.

Israel is made up of the descendants of these sufferers. It does not seem logical to me that we would turn and do the same to another people.

What Mr. Sommerville is looking for is a scapegoat. I assure you, Mr. Sommerville, we will not be your scapegoat. The day of the Jew being the passive scapegoat has long passed, so you had better find another, or better yet look more deeply into your problems and come up with national conclusions instead of irrational slogans.

Lawrence A. Cohen



Kompus Kapers ~by Kris Jackson
AMAZING! THERE ARE THIRTY-SEVEN TOILETS IN THE WHITE HOUSE!
GEE- ALL THAT FOR ONE ASSHOLE!
IT'S GOTTEN TO THE POINT THAT NIXON'S ASSHOLE IS FAIR GAME FOR JOKES
YOU MEAN YOU JUST HEARD YOUR FIRST AGNEW JOKE?

More Letters To The Editor

Walbridge Writes Back

To The Editor:

More responses to responses.

1) David Moyne. It was refreshing to read a letter as bigoted as mine. I appreciate your writing in. Do you know Stephanie H. Aronson (Letter to the Editor, 3 Oct. 73)? Anyway, I can understand why my over kill in using castration and phallic references allegorically to illustrate a rather forceful point didn't aid your digestion any. But humor and-or lack of it aside, I would be interested in hearing exactly what you do consider an assault on your ego. Don't leave me hanging friend, verbal or written assault doesn't bother me, give me something to think about. You don't like what I said, I'm wrong, give me a better line of reason to function along. Thanks for the nickname Walbrain, I may change mine.

2) Dennis P. O'Brien. The first eleven paragraphs of your article centered around a disection of my article, interrupted at appropriate points with your attempts and sometimes success at humor. One thing in those paragraphs did catch my attention, however. The line "I am not here to put forward the case for Women's Liberation; that is in the province of those much more able." "Much more able?" Do you believe that? Or did someone tell you to believe it? Your last two paragraphs on respect coming from without (by the way, why eleven paragraphs to two when your article was entitled "Respect Coming from Without?"), I considered as ridiculous as you obviously viewed what I attempted to get across. If you don't respect yourself, how many boots you gonna lick before someone finally turns around and says, "Oh, Ok!, I respect you---geese!!" Smarten up man (sounds like I may be stumbled on a title for a new article). Your ploys at reason and "humor" were as dated as expressions like, "beauty comes from within," and "inside he-she's a really nice person," so you ought to do a better job explaining why respect has to come from somewhere or someone else.

3)Charlotte M. Newell. Sure. Have to be after noon on Monday or after 9 p.m. on a Friday. If the offer still holds, let me know.

Timothy P. Walbridge

Dial-a-Grouch

To The Editor:

I'm glad someone besides me has trouble with MaBell. I thought for a while it must be my warped personality! A couple of years ago I had a similar problem with my home phone that Lisa Noble finds herself involved with now. My checks had been sent to the telephone office, but I kept getting bills and snotty letters and snottier phone calls, including at my place of business! After having my telephone disconnected even though my phone bill was paid, I contacted the DPU office in Boston, in writing, explaining the whole situation. I got results within hours! I received a most courteous phone call from the Boston DPU people and was able to clarify some points I neglected to make clear in my letter written when I was at my angriest. They said I'd get a call from my local telephone office. I sure did! The manager accused me of being a troublemaker, deadbeat and all other kinds of things (too bad I couldn't have bugged the line), and said for as long as I had a telephone I would be what is called, to them, a flagged customer. In other words, "if they're a day late in paying their bill, get on the phone and call them." Harrass is a better word, and so far it's true--I live in a different area now, under a new manager, and still get letters (not form letters) saying my bill is overdue and they'll disconnect my phone. Even though I have ten days after receipt of my bill to pay it!!

So, Lisa, don't be afraid of the big monopoly company (they say they're not), get in touch with the DPU, or even the Attorney General of the Commonwealth if you have to!!

A. Ready

Retraction

Editor's note: The letter in Friday's Collegian, entitled "Freedom For Men" was not written by Doug Chabinsky.

The Collegian regrets the error and apologizes to Mr. Chabinsky for any embarassment caused by the letter.

All letters to the editor must be signed, and include the author's address and phone number.

Violence And Transformations

To The Editor;

A Revolution is a change primarily by violent means. A Transformation is a change primarily by non-violent means. An example in architecture would be an old cannery in San Francisco redesigned and remodeled to be The Cannery--a labrynth-like collection of small stores oriented to artistic enterprises. Very beautiful! A transformation.

An educational transformation is the rapid change of mind consciousness. Since the 1968 election there has been a steady transformation going on at most of the Colleges and Universities around the country. Read The Closed Corporation. Professors were fired or intimidated. Students went through irregular selection processes--call it weeding. Administrators were given orders to obstruct all progressive programs and ideas--from integration of the races to integration of studies programs.

The vast monetary, bureaucratic, and educational resources of The Pentagon; of Conservative Big Business (like oil); and of the Nixon Conservative Political Coalition were put into motion to transform higher education into what it was like in the 1950's under the intimidations of Joseph McCarthy. A huge force of reactionary anti-Bill of Rights forces were unleashed and effected everyone in America--directly or indirectly, as well as the rest of the world.

The strategy was to quietly work within the bureaucratic power structure threatening either people's jobs or their lives to enforce conformity premised on a Nixon Administration understanding of life. The strategy was to do so quietly and behind the scenes--like Watergate. Included in the program I believe was a program to decimate The Black Panther Party; jail dissident intellectuals (hence my sympathies for the Russian Dissidents); and choke centers of liberalism (like New York City) into conforming to Reactionary Controls. Not so much unlike Stalinism in Russia.

Create paranoia. Create police state controls over people--look at the New York State Police or the California State Police, for example. Force conformity and while this was going on divert public attention to foreign policy or other matters. The idea was that enough violent pressure from the top would push liberalism into the realm of absurdity. The liberal forces would either have to become radical or reactionary. Once the liberal majority had been split; then "divide and conquer." Eventually maybe even crush the unions with the help of people like Jimmy Hoffa.

Reportedly one Nixon aid was to have said the country was going to be pushed so far to the right, nobody would recognize it. That was John Ehrlichman. One of the real super-star geniuses. On vacation from White House duties and San Diego advertising; he is now in Oregon pushing the heroin of neon advertising. Hard worker. Excellent resume of service to country! A real patriot.

Awareness of the immediate political situation on campus and on other campuses perhaps might help end the reaction which has built up and settled in on the campuses. The mistakes of the 60's (and there were many) should not be overlooked or ignored; neither should the legacy of changes be lost by Nixon induced mass loss of memory of times past.

The definitions of education and educational institutions of today will direct the course of events tomorrow. Don't sleep through four years of classrooms. Explore the alternatives. Pigeons?????

Robert Oppenheimer

A Way To Know God

To The Editor:

What is the difference between a person and a dead body? What is that force that we call life? What is that energy that lets us laugh and speak, that causes the sun to rise and leaves to fall? It is called God. God is Truth. God is Perfection. God is Love. And God is within us. It is our spirit, our soul.

Guru Maharaj Ji through meditation called Knowledge shows a person how to realize that force within himself. Meditation deepens ones awareness of the Truth, Perfection, and Love that is God. Meditation, Knowledge, doesn't create God nor does it deny its existence. It is a way to know God...a way to practically experience the light, harmony, and sweetness that Jesus speaks of in the Holy Scriptures.

Helen Jakubowicz

THE PIZZA REVOLUTION is coming

SPRINGFIELD SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Robert Gutler, Conductor 739-4728

OPENING CONCERT —
ALL ORCHESTRAL
Tues., Oct. 16 - 8 p.m. Municipal Aud.

Round Trip Peter Pan Bus Service
Leaves U.Mass Campus Center — 6:20 p.m.
Amherst Center Terminal — 6:25 p.m.
Concert & bus tickets: U.M. Bus Ticket Office
Amherst Center Bus Terminal

Concert Tickets: $5.75 - $4.75 - $3.75
Students $2.00

Save $109.50 on our Special Teac AN60/220 Combination Sale!

The 220 is the best non-dolby cassette deck Teac makes.

Now is the time to get what you've always wanted. That Teac Cassette deck with the Dolby Noise Reduction Unit — and save $109.50 at the same time.

— High Density Permaflux heads
— Tape Selector Switch
— Auto Shut Off Mechanism
— Hystersis Synchronous Motor
— 30-16000 Hz Frequency response
— -50 dB Signal to Noise Ratio

The AN60 is a compact Dolby Noise Reduction Unit that can be used with any tape recorder. With it you can eliminate unwanted tape noise without altering in any way the original signal. Used with the 220 you will get a signal-to-noise ratio of -60 dB, and that means quiet!

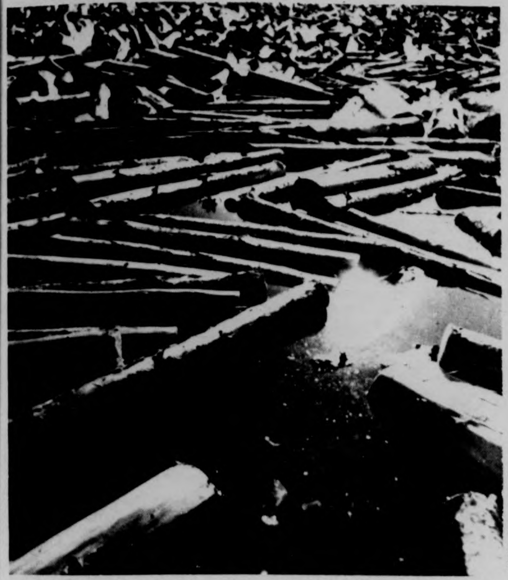
The regular price of the 220 is $239.50
The regular price of the AN60 is $99.50
$339.00
For a limited time only the Combination will cost you only $229.50

219 MAIN STREET
NORTHAMPTON, MASS. 01060

TRIPOD AUDIO

98 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST, MASS. 01002

A Tight Squeeze!



AP Photo

FAIRFIELD, Maine--One of the few remaining river drives in the country, the Kennebec is chock-full of logs again this year. Some 225,000 cords of wood is delivered to a Scott Paper Co. mill in Winslow between early June and late October each year. The river drive is slated for termination in three years.

Honest Government Petition Going Round

An initiative petition sponsored by Senator John Quinlan of Norwood will be circulated throughout the Amherst area Sunday, October 14. Locally, Nat Reed, Dean of Freshman at Amherst College is organizing this petition drive.

The purpose of this petition is to create a corrupt practices commission to strengthen and enforce the laws relating to campaign expenditures and contributions. This item will be placed on the Nov. 1974 ballot as a referendum if 65,000 signatures can be collected by Dec. 1, 1973.

Anyone interested in signing or circulating this petition please contact Don in 335 Greenough 545-2642.

SBA To Go European

Traveling through four European countries this January will be seniors and graduate students studying international business through a special course offered by the School of Business Administration at UMass.

The three-credit course during intersession will be offered also to persons with economic and business backgrounds and interest in the international dimensions of business.

The group will visit American and European firms in London, Brussels, Amsterdam, and Duesseldorf between January 3 and 28. Organizations were chosen to appeal to students majoring in accounting, finance, management, and marketing.

For students majoring in finance, there will be a visit to the Bank of England, the Continental Illinois Bank, and the London Stock Exchange--all in London. In Duesseldorf, officials of the Dresdner Bank, the second largest bank in West Germany, will discuss the economic functions of German banks, and will take the group on tours of the Duesseldorf Stock Exchange and the foreign exchange market.

The course is offered by Dr. Mary Lou Bryant of the management department and Dr. Uls K. Motekat of the accounting department at the UMass School of Business Administration.

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions:
On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/month (utilities included)
CALL 413-665-3856
Directions:
East Dudley Rd. oppos.
Grist Mill off Rte. 116.

SHOP FINAST and SAVE!
Finast

Semi Boneless Hams
Fully Cooked-Water Added-Bake it for a Great Family Treat-Slice it for Sandwiches
$1.19 lb
Finast Water Added
Smoked Pork Butts lb 1.39

QUARTER LOIN Pork Chops
Equal Amount of Sirloin Hip and Center Cut Chops
99c lb
Pork Chops Center Cut $1.39 lb
Pork Roast Boneless Loin $1.39 lb

Chicken Parts
Breast Quarters With Wing lb 55c
Leg Quarters (With Back) 53c lb
Chicken Breasts Fresh Whole lb 89c
Chicken Thighs Fresh lb 69c
Chicken Drumsticks Fresh lb 75c

Full Cut Loin USDA Choice - A Great Steak for the Whole Family
Porterhouse or T-Bone Steak (Bone-In) $1.79 lb

USDA CHOICE Cube Steak Boneless Chuck lb 1.69
USDA CHOICE Top Round Steak Boneless lb 1.89
USDA CHOICE Stew Beef Boneless Chuck lb 1.39
USDA CHOICE Calif. Roast Semi-Boneless Chuck lb 1.09
USDA CHOICE Top Sirloin Steak Boneless lb 1.89
USDA CHOICE Beef Short Ribs Bone-In lb 99c

Patty Mix With Beef
Freshly Ground Beef plus Hydrated Vegetable Protein. Does everything Ground Beef Can Do ... Deliciously!
89c lb
Ground Beef 99c lb
Ground Chuck $1.09 lb
Ground Round $1.29 lb

Mr Deli Specials!
Boiled Ham
Domestic Freshly Sliced to Order half lb 99c
Mr Deli Bologna Freshly Sliced to Order half lb 75c
Weavers Chicken Roll half lb 99c
Roast Beef Freshly Sliced to Order qtr lb 79c
Mr Deli Rolls Plain or Seeded pkg 6 38c
Available in Stores with Service Deli

First O' the Fresh Produce!
Cantaloupes
Simply Delicious Served with Finast Sherbet
3 for $1
Cortland Apples All Purpose US #1 2¼" Min 3 lb bag 59c
Green Peppers Fresh lb 29c
Red Onions For Your Favorite Recipes lb 29c
Butternut Squash lb 9c
Des Moines Squash lb 9c

Welchade GRAPE DRINK or Welchs Fruit Punch 3 46 oz cans $1
Soft-Weve BATHROOM TISSUE 3 2 roll pkgs 89c

Frozen Food Sale
Howard Johnson Macaroni and Cheese 12 oz pkg 38c
Sara Lee Apple Pies Delicious with Finast Ice Cream 33 oz pkg 99c
Vegetables Finast Corn, Green Beans, Peas, Mixed Vege. in Butter Sauce 10 oz pkg 29c
Freezer Queen Skillet Dinners 16 oz pkg 59c
Birds Eye Broccoli Spears 3 10 oz pkgs $1
Morton Cream Pies Banana, Chocolate, Lemon, Coconut 14 oz pkg 29c
Freezer Queen "Cook in bag" Gravy & Turkey, Chicken Ala King, Meat Loaf, Salisbury Steak or Veal Parmigian 3 5 oz pkgs 89c
Shoestring Potatoes Maine Special 3 20 oz pkgs $1

We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities "MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley" Prices Effective thru Saturday Oct 13, 1973

Mental Health Is Good For Your Head

By ANDREW W. MCCASHIN AND STEPHEN M. KLEIN

Today we begin our third year of publication. We anticipate another year of lively exchange with our readers which in the past has had us grappling with thought provoking and sometimes zany psychological issues and situations. Of course you the readers provide the energy for the column and we invite your questions, comments and-or opinions to make "Your Head" a truly open forum for the sharing of ideas. Send or bring questions to 303 Machmer or phone them in to 545-2337. We don't need your name and will keep all personal information confidential.

We start this week with some practical information about the Mental Health Service. M.H. offers professional consultation in the form of individual, couples and group psychotherapy. The staff consists of seven clinical psychologists, three social workers, and one psychiatrist.

People seek help for a variety of reasons. The overwhelming majority of our clientele are not in any sense "mentally ill," but the normal process of adjustment and development often results in periods of depression, anxiety, and-or related psychological symptoms. These periods are subjectively quite uncomfortable and can severely affect one's ability to function interpersonally and academically. Specific examples of common concerns include parental problems, sexual difficulties, conflicts with others, self-consciousness, social inhibition and excessive worrying. Most problems get worked out in a short time, usually less than a semester.

The Service is centrally located on the third floor of Machmer Hall room 303. Appointments can be arranged by phone (545-2337) within a week of your call.

Appointments are made with the next available therapist unless you request someone particular. The M.H. therapist and student establish a mutual working relationship in an effort to solve the problem. The staff look at problems from the perspective of the whole person taking into account internal needs, situational stresses, social and life style factors.

All contacts with M.H. are strictly confidential, meaning that no one outside the Health Services has access to information about you. You are entitled to service by payment of the Health Fee. If you have any further questions feel free to contact us for information.

Oldest Man In Amherst Died Thurs.

Amherst's oldest male resident, a retired professor emeritus of chemistry at UMass, died at his home Thursday.

Dr. Charles A. Peters, 99, of 16 South Sunset Ave., taught chemistry at the University of Idaho, Yale University and, from 1912 until his retirement in 1943, at UMass.

He received a B.S. at Mass. Agricultural College (now UMass) in 1897, and a Ph.D. from Yale in 1901.

In May, 1970, Dr. Peters was presented the gold-headed cane by Amherst selectmen in recognition of being the oldest man in Amherst. He was born in Worcester, June 29, 1874.

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Potomac." (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Hogan and the Lady Doctor." (22)
MISTER ROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES "The Gypsy's Warning." (30)
GOMER PYLE "A Star Is Born". (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "The Tycoon." (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy and the Missing Stamp." (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "Gomer the Good Samaritan." (27)
HOGAN'S GEROES "German Bridge Is Falling Down." (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "The Honorable Assassins." (18)
MAKING THINGS GROW (24)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "The Game Warden" (24)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night of the bogus Bandits" (40)
ZOOM! (57)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
CAPTURE "Mountain Lions" (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 UNTAMED WORLD (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "Remember the Alimony" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Two Flags West" (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 OZZIE'S GIRLS "Harriet Leaves Home" (3)
LET'S MAKE A DEAL Monty Hall, host (8) (22)
GREEN ACRES "What Happened in Scranton" (18)
THE CHAN—ESE—WAY (24)
TREASURE HUNT Geoff Edwards, host (30)
DRAGNET "Candy Store Robberies" (40)
THE OPEN DOOR (57)
8:00 MAUDE (3)
NEW TEMPERATURES RISING "The Strike." (8) (40)
CAN YOU TOP THIS? (18)
CHASE "One For You, Two For Me." (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARINGS (24) (57)
8:30 HAWAII FIVE-O "The Sunday Torch." (3)
MOVIE "Shirts Skins." (8) (40)
TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 "Business" (18)
9:00 THE 700 CLUB (18)
THE MAGICIAN "The Vanishing Lady." (22) (30)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "The Cheaters" (27)
9:30 SHAFT "The Executioners" (3)
10:00 MARCUS WELBY, M.D. "The Light Of the Threshold." (8) (40)
POLICE STORY "Requiem For an Informer" (22) (30)
NEWS (27)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "The Pad (and How to Use It)" (3)

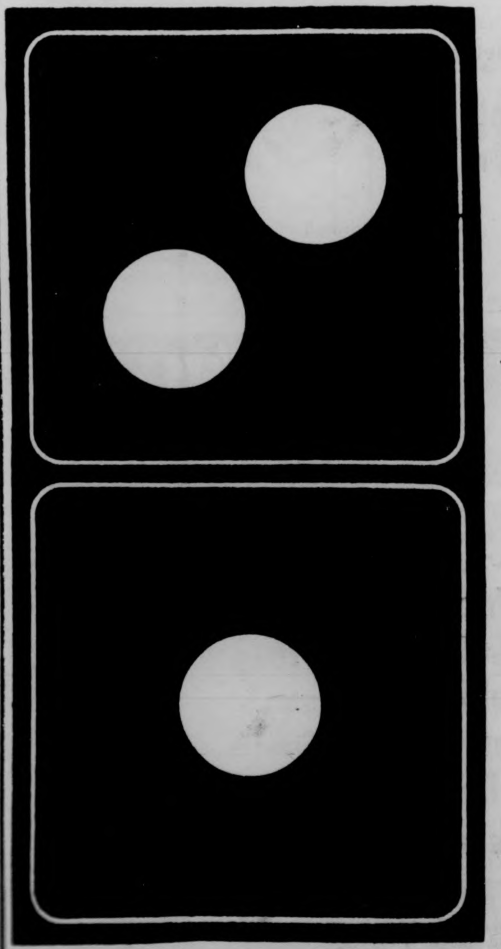
TONIGHT
OFF THE HOOK at 7:20 p.m.
Rod Hanson's guest is UMass Chancellor Dr. Randolph Bromery. Your comments and questions are welcomed at 545-2876.
TOMORROW NIGHT
OFF THE HOOK at 7:20 p.m.
Dr. Daniel Clapp of the UMass Contraceptive Clinic answers your questions at 545-2876. Your host is Art Cohen.
THE OTHER SIDE at 8:00 p.m.
The Other Side is a program dealing with the problems of being gay in a straight society. Featured are news, interviews, and information from the gay perspective. Always enlightening.
and every day...
RIDEBOARD at 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and midnight.
A thrice-daily listing of rides offered and rides needed.
THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS lives...weeknights at the witching hour!
WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE
RADIO



DOMINO'S PIZZA
Fast & Hot Free Delivery Free Delivery
Fast & Hot Free Delivery Free Delivery
Free Delivery
HOT 256-8587
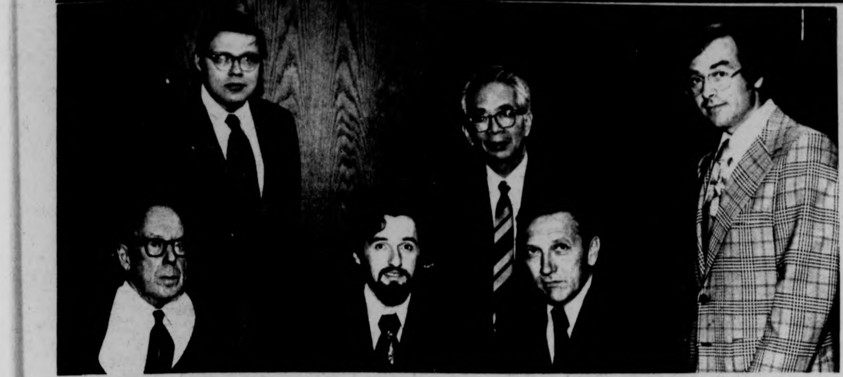
Free Delivery

DOMINO'S
DOMINO'S
DOMINO'S

STUDENT QUESTIONS ANSWERED:
YES — We Do-o-o-o deliver pizza.
YES — We are Delivering 7 nights a week from 4 p.m. till wee hours.
YES — We have a fleet of delivery vehicles equipped with portable ovens.
YES — We have a tasty thin crust pizza.
YES — We have (75) Domino's Pizza
YES — We have (75) Domino's Pizza Stores — a national chain.
YES — We specialize in only pizza.
YES — We specialize in delivery.
YES — We'll deliver only (1) pizza.
YES — Students say "we live on Domino's Pizza."
YES — We have (50+) Domino Pizza Stores located on College Campuses.
YES — We serve seconds.
YES — We're located in Amherst to serve U-Mass. students.
YES — We bake all pizzas to order.
YES — Our dough and sauce is made fresh daily.
YES — We throw pizzas in the air.
YES — We have the best pizza in town.
YES — We satisfy the munchies.



Standing, left to right, UMass engineers Lawrence N. Kuzminski, Tsuan H. Feng and Francis A. DiGiano; seated in the same order, engineering department head Merit P. White and Russell Isaac and John Elwood of the MDWPC.

UMass Engineers Get $325,000 For Water Pollution Research

Massachusetts Division of Water Pollution Control grants totaling $325,000 have been awarded for research by University of Massachusetts, Amherst environmental engineers in three key water pollution areas.

The state grants will support a study byDr. Francis A. DiGiano on the removal of the water pollutants phosphorus and nitrogen; a second study by Dr. Lawrence N. Kuzminski on what happens to lead, cadmium and other heavy metals in Massachusetts lakes; and a third by Drs. Donald D. Adrian and Tsuan H. Feng on new methods of sewage plant sludge disposal.

Dr. DiGiano will study both physical and chemical means of removing phosphorus and nitrogen, two primary causes of eutrophication in lakes. Phosphorus and nitrogen over-feed algae and other plant life, choking the lake and lowering water quality. Using experimental equipment already located at the Amherst Sewage Treatment Plant from previous research, DiGiano will work on an advanced water treatment pilot plant.

Heavy metals in lake water can get into the food chain and in some instances--as in the case of lead or arsenic--be a health hazard if the level is excessive. Dr. Kuzminski will study the concentration of seven heavy metals in several Massachusetts lakes, including measurements of metal accumulation in aquatic life and bottom deposits.

The study of Drs. Adrian and Feng will be field evaluation of new methods of sewage plant sludge disposal and at the same time, a look at alternative methods of septic tank truck waste disposal at local sewage treatment plants. Although some sewage plant sludge can be used as a soil conditioner, disposal of much of it is a problem that involves dehydration, concentration or chemical treatment.

All three grants cover a period of three years. Periodic progress reports will be made on the research for distribution by the MDWPC throughout the Commonwealth. Those doing the work are all faculty in the environmental engineering program of the department of civil engineering.

Room To Move
Booze: Is It The Name Of Your Game?

We live in a liquor oriented society. The most common coping mechanism in use today is a drink...or two...

There is nothing like a drink to cool you off--or even space you out--from time to time. Many people today prefer keeping a little glow on much of the time. That's okay too, if you like it that way, and feel you can handle it.

Room To Move is concerned with those people who don't like it that way--who feel that there might be a better way of handling it.

Problem drinker, lush, periodic, chronic alcoholic--these are some of the labels. Definitions range from quite specific to very vague--and usually seem awfully impersonal. Volumes have been written, research conducted, yet many questions arise in attempting to define alcohol abuse and alcoholism. Cause and cure is based primarily upon empirical evidence.

Room To Move's thrust will be oriented toward the person, his relationship to alcohol, his unique life-style. Crisis counseling, short-term counseling, and long-term counseling are offered by various staff members at the drop-in center. An Alcohol Rap Session takes place in the Campus Center every Tuesday evening. Special alcohol-oriented workshops and seminars will be offered throughout the year.

If you feel that some work done in exploring your consumption of alcohol might be worthwhile, then consider Room To Move.

Hookers and Hookahs!
"The Thief of Bagdad" (Heavy!)
Doug Fairbanks' Greatest Role
"The Projectionist" (Zany!)
with Chuck "Right Guard" McCann
CCA, Wed.
50¢ a Head (Cheap)
7:00 & 9:30
DOOR PRIZES

Ample Free Parking
AMHERST Cinema
AMITY ST. 253-5426
THRU TUES.
NOW!
A 1943 ACADEMY AWARD WINNING CLASSIC
"CASABLANCA"
Starring
Humphrey Bogart
Ingrid Bergman
Claude Rains
Sydney Greenstreet
Peter Lorre
— Plus a Short Feature —
"Amblin" A new look at the Now Generation.
Complete Shows Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

Now Playing
CALVIN Theatre
KING ST., NORTHAMPTON
Thru Tues.
584-2310
THE LAST OF SHEILA
Richard Benjamin, Dyan Cannon
James Coburn, Joan Hackett
PG
Raquel Welch
James Mason
Ian McShane
Shown Nightly at 7:00 & 9:15
MONDAY & TUESDAY BARGAIN NITES - ALL SEATS $1.00

tonight the original uncut version unseen for 35 years

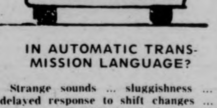
Tuesday, Oct. 9 7, 9, & 11 C.C.A.

HOW DOES YOUR CAR SAY
HELP! QUICK!



IN AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSION LANGUAGE?
Strange sounds ... sluggishness ... delayed response to shift changes ... these are all SOS signals from your transmission meaning, "Quick, get me serviced before my ailments become serious."
We know the language well. And we've built our business on your confidence in us by applying "band aids" in time to avoid "major surgery".
United Transmission Exchange Inc.
389 King Street
Northampton, Mass.
584-6790

Trustees Approve '75 Budget; Increase Less Than Other Years

Trustees of UMass have approved a 1975 maintenance budget request of $99,874,000, an increase of less than 2 percent over last year's request.

President Robert Wood described the request, approved by Trustees yesterday as "a stable budget," which "gives top priority to achieving more efficiency in our operations and increasing the effectiveness of our educational programs."

While the Trustees last year approved a budget request of $98 million, actual anticipated expenditures for the current fiscal year total $87,184,000. The reduction results from the action taken by the Commonwealth on the University's request.

Despite the deep cuts, which most critically affected student aid and library acquisitions, the current year's budget represents the largest dollar increase ever received by the University. The prior year's budget had been $72.3 million.

Wood said that while "significant developments" at both the Boston and Worcester campuses lie ahead, "it is clear that future budgets will no longer increase at the rate of those of the past decade."

"Essentially, the proposed FY 1975 budget is a stable budget," Wood said in his message to the Trustees.

"It reflects the hard work by all the campuses to achieve increased efficiency in all our operations, and it represents the conclusion of the first stage of development at Boston and Worcester," he added.

The Board of Trustees met in the Administration Building at the new Boston campus at Columbia Point. It was the first time Trustees have held a formal board meeting at the Boston campus.

Both the $130 million first phase of buildings at the Columbia Point, Boston, campus and the $80 million medical science building at the Worcester Medical School will be occupied in the next few months, and funds to staff them were included in the current budget.

Wood said the $$99,874,000 million budget request included $68.5 million for the Amherst campus, $18.5 million for the Boston campus, and $7.9 million for the Medical School.

The total request also includes $4.9 million for financial aid, library acquisitions, and central University operations.

Most of the increases in the budgets for the Amherst and Boston campuses will go to meet fixed cost increases, said Wood.

The Amherst request will also allow an enrollment increase of 400 full time equivalent students and modest development of programs designed primarily to meet the needs of new clientele and improve student counselling activities.

The request for Boston will allow an enrollment increase of 500 students, most of them in the new College of Public and Community Service which opened this month.

The increase for the Medical School represents funds needed to increase total enrollment by 48 students. Growth in the school's enrollment--the first class will graduate next Spring--means there are now more students in the clinical education phase, the final two years of training. And additional funds are required to staff the Medical Science building and plan for operation of the teaching hospital, now under construction.

Wood said the budget request for the next fiscal year "has been designed to provide a year of sustained management improvement and a program review. It gives top priority to achieving more efficiency in our operations and increasing the effectiveness of our educational programs."

The President said he planned to focus intensive budget study on a number of areas, including:

--The academic services component of the budget, including the costs of teaching, research, and public service.

--Financial aid policies of the University.

--Coordination of library acquisitions.

-Development of the Worcester teaching hospital, to insure its leadership in health delivery as in medical education.

--The availability of non-state sources of funding for University activities.

--The most effective pattern for use of computer facilities by the entire University.

--Administrative staffing on the three campuses.

Wood noted that the University, like, all other areas of the economy, is experiencing "significant price increases," and said the non-personnel accounts in the new budget request reflect estimates of future increases.

No funds are included, however, to reflect anticipated cost-of-living increases to University personnel.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

1965 International Travelall, new brakes, clutch, good rubber, 4 on floor. Must be seen. Call David 549-1528, leave message, price is $550!
tf10-10

Couch — $25, good condition; Women's 3 speed 26" Columbia Bicycle 2 yrs. old $25; blow hair dryer $5. Call 549-6647 after 6 p.m.
tf10-10

1970 Ford Cortina, low mileage, air gauges, Am-FM, radials, tach, 108 h.p., $1150, way under book value, wood instr. panel, clock. 407 Puffton, 549-0525.
tf10-11

Raleigh 3 speed girls, green, $65. Call 253-7452 after 7 p.m.
tf10-9

Guinea pigs — angoras (Peruvian) and regular short hairs. Call after 6 p.m., 533-2940.
tf10-9

For sale — 1966 MGB, good condition, many new parts and extras, $600.00 or best offer. Call 549-1387.
tf10-12

Scuba-Dacor DBL hose, Scubair SGL hose, USD 72 & twn. 50 tanks, speargun & fins; also car cassette player & alum. 6' folding cot. 256-0481.
tf10-11

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart. Montague Center.
tf10-15

2 man pup tent, Coleman, perfect condition, $40.00 or best offer. Also stereo 8-track tapes, like new, $3.50. Call 546-9745.
tf10-10

FM stereo tape deck plus speakers, 3 mos. old, worth $100, will sell for $80 or best offer. Call Rob, 546-9745, leave message.
tf10-10

Benelli 650 Tornado, an excellent street and sport bike, in very fine shape, asking $850. Call John, 549-6139.
tf10-10

Zeiss Ikon camera F-75mm, $70, Rieker ski boots, men's size 9, plastic, $20, 3 new tires, 7.75-15", $10 each; Swiss Calendar Watch. Bob, 545-2151.
tf10-10

Hammond Model B with Leslie tone cabinet, best offer. Call Paul, 253-7246.
tf10-11

Hi! It's Paul your friendly furniture dealer speaking to you. We still have most of the costumes left; also a large supply of treadle sewing machines plus our usual unusual collection of furniture and junque. 46 Main St. in the Alley. Remember Paul's Old Time Furniture is 100 per cent student owned. 253-3511.
tf10-11

E.M.S. camping equip., back pack, down sleeping bag & two man tent with floor, list $270, only $150. Used once. Call 549-0924 between 5-8 p.m.
tf10-12

IT'S A CLASSIC! 1965 green MUSTANG, 8 cyl., auto. trans., new parts! Great power! Hurry call 1-369-4649 in Conway.
tf10-9

AUTO FOR SALE

1959-60 Alfa Romero GT Sprint, hardtop, runs like a dream. Classic, used for dependable daily transportation, $750 firm. Call 6-7433.
tf10-12

1971 Fiat 850 h.t. racer, 26,000 mi., new tires, AM-FM, exc. cond., must sell by Nov., best offer (retail over $1800). Call Jim (413) 783-2807.
tf10-9

1965 Plymouth Barracuda, exc. body and engine cond., V-8, new shocks, good tires, must be seen, $325. Call Al, 546-7691.
tf10-11

1966 Chevy Impala, 8 cyl. auto., very dependable. 584-5685 after 5 p.m.
tf10-9

Cream Puff, $200 firm, 1963 Pontiac, economical engine, recently rebuilt; will soon need brakes. Come and see at 24 Cowls Rd.
tf10-9

1966 VW Bus - New brakes, new tires, rebuilt engine, inspected, body in good shape. $350. Call or see Cindy, 511 Grayson, 546-6819.
tf10-10

1970 VW, only 27000 miles, excellent running condition, snow tires, $1050, will dicker, call Paul 545-0431 day, 253-5215 evenings.
tf10-9

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price, 665-3344.
tf10-12

Porsches, 356, 1600 SSC, $400 up; Chev., 1966 station wagon, new trans. & ball joints; Saab 96S radials. 323-7327, trades.
tf10-11

1970 9 pass. Kingswood Estate wagon, 37,000 mi., auto. trans., power steering, power brakes, roof rack, mileage good, great family car. Paul, 253-7646.
tf10-12

1966 MGB, blown engine, but 4 new 14-inch tires and wire wheels. Call Mark, 665-4390, best offer.
tf10-12

1968 Volvo station wagon, 145S, new stick, AM-FM, snows, very good cond., 25 m.p.g. Can be seen days on campus. About $1250 firm, 367-2826.
tf10-10

1966 Landrover, needs new third gear, all new valves, top etc., $900 now or $1200 when fixed. Possible trade for VW. Call 413-268-7892.
tf10-10

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323-7706 anytime.
tf10-16

1962 Corvair, new battery, brakes, 4 good tires and 2 snows and rims, needs distributor, best offer. 546-6374.
tf10-10

1967 Rambler Rebel, 53,000 mi., new brakes, cooling, tune-up, parts, a.t., $150.00. 549-3857 or 545-1388.
tf10-15

1965 Ford, 289 V-8, 3 speed standard, new front brakes and exhaust, some rust, but in good cond., asking $250. Call John, 549-6139.
tf10-10

ENTERTAINMENT

Steve the DJ says, try me, you'll like me. Powerful PA and 1000's of records. Ring me at 467-2842 for more information.
tf10-8

PERSONAL

Gay commune has farm, now peopling, living and loving together. P.O. Box 723, Amherst, Ma.
tf10/9

Garage wanted — Lockable - within 10 miles of campus. Call Jack 549-6468, leave message.
tf10-10

Student Activities Policy Council needs involved people. Submit resume at the Student Senate Office, 420 SU by 10/10. Any questions, call David Booker. 5-0341.
tf10-10

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.
tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

Whoever found my yellow notebook — Mythology 225 — please call 6-4073, reward.
tf10-11

Goranites —
I may be thin
I may be tall
My hair may be long or not long at all.
I may be seen each day in rain or sunlight,
But my phantom writings occur only at night.
You ask who is it with an identity so obscure?
I may live far away . . .
Or maybe next door.
tf10-9

LOST

Lost on 10-2 near WOPE, 1 pr. black mtl. rimmed eyeglasses. Return to Noella Corriveou, 314 Butterfield, 545-2418.
tf10-9

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

1971 Yamaha 200cc, exc. cond., $350 or best offer. Call Vivien at 546-5280 evenings.
tf10-11

INSTRUCTION

Energy crisis — 1 cr. mini-course, no pre-req., physics 190 C., M-W-F, 11:15, Oct. 10 to Nov. 9. Call Prof. Hoffman, 545-0933 for details.
tf10-10

FREE APARTMENT

Free furnished room in beautiful location in return for sharing light housekeeping & child sitting. Call Cathy Adams at 549-6421 or 545-0519.
tf10-9

RIDE WANTED

Ride to Belchertown State School or B-town from UMass, Weds. & Fri. Must be there by 1 p.m., will pay. Call Ginny, 549-4492 evenings.
tf10-9

SERVICES

Typing — Reliable, reasonable, manuscripts, term papers, theses, disserta, IBM Selectric typewriter. Mary Lou 253-7352.
tf10-10

Bike problems? Will do most bicycle repairs on campus, inexpensive. Call Tom after 5, 584-4985.
tf10-9

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.
tf10-26

Need a typist? Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service. Call 584-0743.
tf10-12

Free lance mech., will do light automotive work for $3.00 an hr. & parts. 546-5185, ask for Larry.
tf10-11

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.
tf10-19

Any and all types of sewing done. Call Leah at 665-3439.
tf10-12

WANTED

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth.
tf10-12

Bus driver trainees, must be student, have class 2 permit. Call 5-0056, 5-2086 or apply at Bus Garage, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.
tf10-9

Needed — lead guitar and drummer, must have instrument and trans. Paid rehearsal time. Call Mike between 3 and 5, 527-9830.
tf10-12

Dehumidifier, freezer; also need volleyball set for Oct. 13, will rent or buy. For sale — humidifier, $5. Bob or Suzanne, 256-0503.
tf10-10

Wanted — used floor loom or large table loom, must be at least a four harness. Phone 533-9406 anytime.
tf10-10

Sm. house to rent — Conway, Colrain vicinity, two bdrm. pref. 323-6628 after 5.
tf10-11

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531.
tf10-17

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apt. in Sunderland. Own room, $75 per mo., incl. utilities, on bus line. Call Nancy, SaM, or Kim, 665-4176.
tf10-11

HELP WANTED

Part & full day office work available immediately, experience necessary. Sandy's Secretarial Service, 584-1000.
tf10-10

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer:
8:30 p.m.-4:00 a.m.

ask for Charlotte.

Piano accompianist needed for ballet classes in Gfld., approx times 4-7:30, MWF. Call collect after 8 p.m. 773-5179, Mrs. Louis Gexler.
tf10-10

Cashiers, concession, doorman, asst man. Part-time: Eves or wknds, 3 days/wk. Call 533-3300 or apply in person. Victory Theatre, Hol.
tf10-10

Student experienced in tech. inking and or drafting on a reg. hourly part-time basis. Phone 5-2548 or 5-2008.
tf10-9

Wanted — person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for free board.
tf10-10

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings.
tf10-16

Artists — we need a few good illustrators to work on an animated movie. If interested call Alan at 253-7850. Leave name and no.
tf10-11

Secretary for Commuter Assembly, 15 hrs. work. Apply Commuter Lounge, M-W-F, 11:30-5, T-Th, 2:30-4. Must be undergrad commuter.
tf10-11

Pizza people, delivery people, counter help. Apply in person or call the Hungry U, 256-6350.
tf10-15

Help wanted — reliable mother's helper, Thursdays, 11:45-5:45 p.m., good pay. Call 256-0589 evenings.
tf10-10

FOR RENT

4 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton, 584-3428.
tf10-12

For rent — 5 room apt. in the country. Please call 323-4876, keep trying.
tf10-9

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.
tf10/18

Large fur. room with ½ bath in private home, $60 per mo. Want one able to babysit for 1 child, 1 hr. 3 nights a week. 256-8948 after 3 p.m.
tf10-11

Motorhome for rent by the week or day, completely self-contained, sleeps eight. Call 772-0383.
tf10-15

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland on bus line, $150 per mo. rent, includes utilities. Call 665-4189 or 665-3958 & ask about apt. no. 124.
tf10-11

Huge 8-room apt., 20 minutes from campus, heat and utilities included, $250, negotiable. Call 538-7897 after 6 and weekends.
tf10-11

Notices

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA
There will be a meeting for all potential new members today at 2:30, and Thrrsday at 4, in rms. 168-170 C.C.

ADVOCATES MEETING
Tonight in 169 C.C.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
Meeting tonight, 7:30 in Chapter Rm. Please attend.

BEEN RIPPED OFF?
Then sue in Small Claims Court. For info contact the WMPIRG Office, Rm. 413A, S.U.B. 545-0712.

BOWLING TEAM ROLLOFF
Tomorrow and Mon. at 6:30 p.m. in Boyden Lanes. Must attend both nights. Contact Dave Dimmick 546-7002.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
Everyone is welcome at our meetings. Tonight at 6:45 in C.C. 804. Members share practical ways of using the truth to solve everyday problems.

ESPECIALLY FOR MOVERS
No. 2 is on the move. Watch for details.

FRENCH MAJORS
Meeting tonight, 7:30, 3rd floor, Lounge, Herter. Please attend!

GAMMA SIGMA SIGMA
Meeting at 6:30, Mem. Hall. All members must attend. Meeting for pledges tonight at 7:30 same place. All pledges must attend.

HARVEST OF SHARE
A film on field conditions in the Salinas Valley. Sponsored by the Juan de La Cruz boycott committee, subcommittee of the Committee on Poverty. All students welcome tonight at 8, 162 C.C. and 10, Brett House Lounge.

HAVE YOU CONSIDERED
What you can do for our only world? The earth needs you and so do we. Find out what you can do tonight at 7 in 426D. S.U.B. CEQ needs help.

HELP! CAMERA NEEDED
Super 8 camera with rewind crank for dissolves needed for one day. Please call Carol 256-0597.

HEYMAKERS
Square Dance lessons 8-10, C.C. 113. Let's get all old members back to support our BIG Class.

MKTG. CLUB SPEAKER
The MKTG. Club presents Mr. Mike Sullivan from Norton Co. in Worcester. He will speak tonight at 8, Rm. 165, C.C. All interested people welcome.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Photos needed depicting some aspect of Western Mass.--realistic or abstract--for exhibition Nov. For info contact Michael or Marty at Crafts Workshop S.U.B. 665-4926.

PRE-VET CLUB
Meeting tomorrow in Rm. 162-175 C.C. on Vet Schools in Mass.

SBA-SOPHOMORES
Meeting of All SBA sophomores with the Dean's Office to discuss academic regulations and pre-registration procedures for Spring Semester on Thurs. at 7 p.m. in Mahar Aud.

SIMS
Meditators--to get on the current mailing list, visit our office in the S.U.B. or call 545-1540.

SPECTRUM MEETING
Ho, staff; quaff a few at the wall and discuss mag. format. Last one there buys. This afternoon at 5.

UNITED CHRISTIAN FOUNDATION
Maintenance (fund-raising) Task Force meeting at 1:30 in 319 Hampshire House.

WMPIRG
Meeting tonight at 7:30 in Duke's Rm., S.U.B. All inteeested students and faculty please attend!

FOUND
Lisa Fidlin, I found your glasses. Sue, B19 Emerson.

LOST
Handmade pocketbook outside S.U.B. Please call 1-967-4296 or leave it at lost and fund office. No questions asked.

LOST
Please I lost my black shawl at Roadstop near Rte. 63 in Montague. I miss it. Maureen 253-9033. Let ring.

SPECIAL
$19.95
NOW $13.95
By Bort Carleton
the SHOE BIN

Women Voters Sponsor Meeting

The Amherst League of Women Voters is sponsoring a Warrant Meeting tomorrow night at 7:30 in the Junior High School auditorium. The Warrant meeting is designed primarily as a service to Town Meeting Members, but is open to the public and provides an excellent opportunity for citizens to become informed on the issues that come up at Town Meeting the following week.

The Warrant Meeting allots a brief period of time to individual sponsors of Warrant articles, and to Town Officials to explain the articles which will be debated and voted on October 15th by Town Meeting members. It is not a forum of debate, but rather an opportunity to ask questions and become informed on the various articles.

Infirmary
(In An Emergency)
(54)5-2671

TONITE
Some of My Best Friends
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

A former major league star tells us he has made a study of Scorpio personalities in sport. He is Wes Parker, in his heyday known as the "man with the golden glove." Parker was a headliner with the Dodgers. He says, "Scorpio wins the game that counts. These persons 'psyche' themselves. Whether or not you believe in astrology, take my word that Scorpio saves up for when the pressure is on. Scorpio wins the big games.".

+++

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be discreet. Feeling of confinement is but temporary. Telling all you know might create a sensation but accomplish little that is constructive. Act accordingly. Leo, Aquarius, Scorpio persons are in picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You get your wish in connection with change, affection and recognition. But what you really need is a more solid base of operations. That takes more time, more questions and additional answers. Perceive and analyze.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Someone is working in your behalf in meaningful way. Know it and apply yourself. Means don't stop short of goal. There is room for you in more elevated position. Taurus, Libra persons may be involved. Accent ambition, aspirations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): If you demand too much, too quickly, you make mistake. Key now is long-range view. See potential. Get thoughts, ideas and concepts committed to writing. Protect yourself. Obtain valid legal counsel. Don't sell yourself short. Patience now is a definite virtue.

LEO (July 23-August 22): Give more attention to recreation, exercise. Check circulation. Get proper supervision for purpose of muscle toning. Don't neglect basics. Moderation, balance now are more important than usual. Message will become increasingly clear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Wraps are removed--see persons as they are and face situations as they exist. Finish rather than begin--reach beyond apparent limitation. Potential is great but you require additional time, information.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Bring forth creative urge--stick to individual style. Highlight originality. You make new contact which aids in work, self-understanding. Leo could play significant role. You reach understanding with person who makes many requests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Study Libra message. Give and you also will receive. Means by imprinting style, you gain recognition. Don't hold back. Your integrity is appreciated. This may not be immediately apparent, but it will be proved.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Some issues are settled, not completely as expected. Grant greater freedom to family member. By so doing, you exhibit emotional growth. Gemini could play key role. Emphasis is on brighter atmosphere at home.

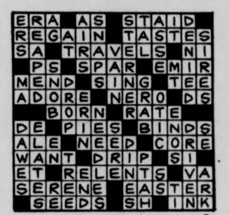
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19): Relatives and neighbors take up more time than usual. Be versatile, maintain balance and humor. Aquarius, Leo and Scorpio persons might figure prominently. Don't try to be all things to all persons. Be you!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You find that writings, ideas, concepts are worth more than lip service. You gain, get reward, receive fee. Member of opposite sex could be in picture. Be analytical. Find out what it is you want most to do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You get attention and results. You gain allies and also family support. Much that had been denied can now become available. Know it and proceed with confidence. Strike independent stance. Lead rather than follow.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are battler for justice and would be happy in practice of law or in field where you have an audience. There is "too much" of you to be confinEd. You need plenty of room. Family problem is resolved in December. Aries persons are attracted to you.

Crossword Puzzle

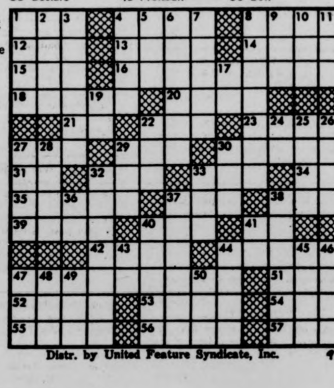


ACROSS

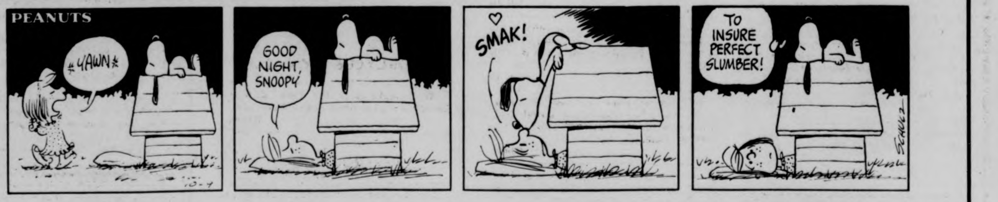
1 Male sheep
4 High cards
8 Actual
12 Anglo-Saxon money
13 Walking stick
14 Great Lake
15 Poetic word
16 Produces
18 Dervish
20 Mental image
21 Man's nickname
22 One, no matter which
23 Coin
27 Young boy
29 Cravat
30 Wander
31 Symbol for silver
32 Small rug
33 Distress signal
34 Title of respect (abbr.)
35 Commemorative disk
37 Carpenter's tool
38 Sign of zodiac
39 Paradise
40 Secret agent
41 Cooled lava
42 River in Asia
44 Conceals
47 Fruit
51 Expire
52 Century plant
53 Short jacket
54 Period of time
55 Young salmon
56 Communists
57 Soak

DOWN

1 Top of house
2 Region
3 Designated
4 Genus of maples
5 Container
6 Motor
7 Worn with wear
8 Edits
9 Before
10 Ventilate
11 French plural article
17 Compass point
19 Cyprinoid fish
22 River island
24 Teutonic deity
25 Title
26 Apprentice
27 Crippled
28 Matured
29 Hindu cymbals
30 Seed
32 One in charge
33 Declare
36 Prefix: down
37 Fairy
38 Climbing device
40 More certain
41 Three-toed sloth
43 Pronoun
44 Chickens
45 Ireland
46 Chair
47 Hit lightly
48 A state (abbr.)
49 Conjunction
50 Bow

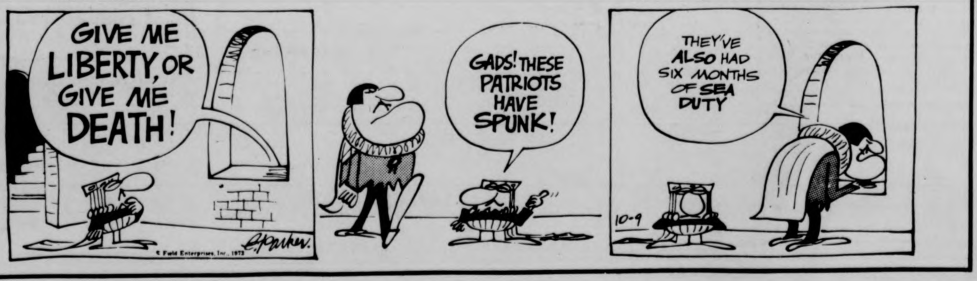


Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.



THE WIZARD OF ID

by Brant parker and Johnny hart



GIVE ME LIBERTY, OR GIVE ME DEATH!
GADS! THESE PATRIOTS HAVE SPUNK!
THEY'VE ALSO HAD SIX MONTHS OF SEA DUTY 10-9
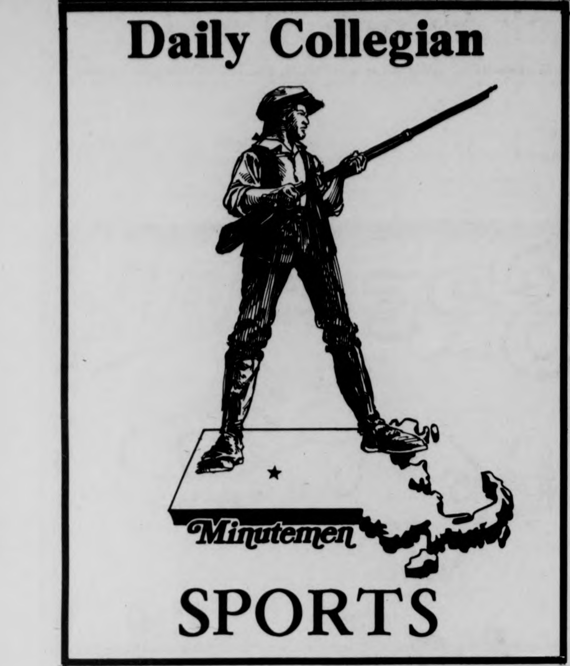
parker
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973



Editors Note: Above is the new Minuteman logo which will be used for the Collegian's Sportshead. It was designed by Springfield Union artist James Trelease.

A's-Orioles Rained Out, Resume Today

OAKLAND (AP) - Monday's third game of the American League playoffs between the Baltimore Orioles and Oakland Athletics was postponed by rain and rescheduled for Tuesday at 3:30 p.m., EDT.

Joe Cronin, president of the American League, officially called the game at 3:08 p.m., EDT, citing the wet gounds caused by a steady rain which had been falling since early morning.

It forced all remaining games in the best-of-five series to be pushed back one day. The Orioles, champions of the East Division, won the first game of the series 6-0 and the A's, winners in the West, took the second game 6-3. Both were played in Baltimore. The remaining games will be played in Oakland.

A pair of left-handers, Mike Cuellar of Baltimore and Ken Holtzman of Oakland, were scheduled to pitch the third game. They are expected to keep their assignments and start Tuesday.

The postponement also will give A's pitcher Vida Blue, knocked out of the playoff opener in the first inning, a full three days rest before pitching the fourth game.

Orioles' Manager Earl Weaver had indicated earlier he would save his ace, first-game winner Jim Palmer, for a possible fifth game and would go with Doyle Alexander in game No. 4.

But with the rainout, Weaver said he would drop Alexander out of the rotation and start Palmer in Wednesday's scheduled fourth game.

"We want to play," A's slugger Reggie Jackson said before the postponement. "I don't want to see Palmer get that extra day of rest. He'll have me waving at the ball again."

Oakland Coliseum's natural turf was extremely soggy. It rained most of Sunday and resumed early Monday morning.

"Our weather report says it should rain until 5 p.m., PDT, and the field is unplayable now," Cronin said in announcing the postponement.

There was no pregame batting or fielding practice. A handful of players ran around the edge of the outfield and threw on the sidelines before the postponement and a handful continued limbering up even after the game was called.

A's Manager Dick Williams had made one change in the lineup posted before game time Monday, replacing center fielder Angel Mangual with Billy Conigliaro. Mangual started the two games in Baltimore and had one hit in eight at-bats and collided with shortstop Bert Campaneris Sunday, causing a pop fly to fall for a double.

Notices

BASKETBALL-There will be a meeting for all basketball candidates on October 12 (Friday) at 4:00 p.m. in Boyden 249.

BOWLING-The rolloff for the UMass Intercollegiate Bowling Team will be held on Wednesday, October 10, and Monday October 15. Attendance both nights is required. The rolloffs will begin at 6:30 at the Boyden lanes. For further info. and to sign up contact Dave Dimmick in 523 Grayson or call 546-7002.

UMass Sportsweek

Wednesday, Oct. 10
Women's Volleyball vs. Westfield State	HOME	6:30
Thursday, Oct. 11
Women's Tennis vs. Westfield State	Away	3:30
Friday, Oct. 13
Football vs. Boston University	Away	1:30
Soccer vs. Boston University	Away	10:30
Cross Country vs. Connecticut	HOME	11:00
JV Soccer vs. Amherst	HOME	10:30
JV Cross Country vs. Connecticut	HOME	11:00

MDC Classifieds

75¢ First Day

50¢

Each Additional Day

AP Photo

Mets' manager Yogi Berra (center) has plenty of reason to smile as the Mets lead the Reds two games to one in the NL championship series. Tom Seaver (left) ran into late inning home-run trouble on Saturday to take a 2-1 defeat but Jon Matlack (right) came back on Sunday to pitch a two-hitter against the Reds.

Mets Go One Up With 9-2 Win

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP) - Rusty Staub smashed a pair of home runs and the New York Mets whacked Cincinnati 9-2 Monday in a brawl-filled and chaotic third game Of baseball's 1973 National League playoffs.

The victory gave the Mets a 2-1 edge in the best-of-five series and left New York needing one more victory to earn a World Series berth.

The game was interrupted by a wild brawl at second base in the fifth inning and the Reds were called off the field by Reds Manager Sparky Anderson when the capacity Shea Stadium crowd pelted left fielder Pete Rose with debris.

Manager Yogi Berra led a quartet of Met players-Staub, Tom Seaver, Cleon Jones and Willie Mays-down the left field line, pleading with fans to allow the game to continue as NL President Chub Feeney and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn huddled with the umpires.

The brawl erupted when Rose was forced at second base on an inning-ending double play. Rose, who was brushed back by Mets pitcher Jerry Koosman before singling, slid in hard at Mets shortstop Bud Harrelson in an attempt to break up the doubleplay.

The two players exchanged words and then shoves, causing both dugouts and bullpens to empty.

Mets third baseman Wayne Garrett was the first player to reach Harrelson and Rose, but the other Mets and Reds got there quickly, turning the middle of the infield into a tangle of pushing and tugging ballplayers.

New York relief pitcher Buzz Capra and Cincinnati's Pedro Borbon were in the middle of one bout, and after the battle ended, Borbon found himself wearing a Mets cap. He ripped it from his head, bit into it, tearing out a piece, and threw it to the ground angrily.

In the bottom half of the inning, after the first two Mets were retired, debris began falling on Rose in left field and the players in the Reds bullpen. That was when Anderson ordered his players from the field and they even evacuated the bench, retreating to the clubhouse, while Berra and the Mets players tried to restore order.

It seemed for a while that the game might be in danger of forfeit-something that has never happened in either playoff or World Series history. But the Mets' pleas finally calmed the crowd and play resumed.

The excitement overshadowed a lusty Met attack, spearheaded by Staub, that ran up an early and decisive edge in this game.

Scoreboard

PRO

New England 24, Baltimore 16
Green Bay 16, NY Giants 14
Miami 33, NY Jets 3
Cleveland 17, Cincinnati 10
Kansas City 16, Denver 14
Pittsburgh 38, San Diego 21
New Orleans 21, Chicago 16
Minnesota 23, Detroit 9
San Francisco 13, Atlanta 9
Los Angeles 31, Houston 26
Oakland 17, St. Louis 10
Buffalo 27, Philadelphia 26

COLLEGE

Boston College 44, Navy 7
Harvard 16, Boston University 0
Holy Cross 10, Dartmouth 0
Connecticut 7, New Hampshire 3
Maine 20, Rhode Island 7
Ohio State 27, Washington State 3
Nebraska 48, Minnesota 7
Southern California 21, Oregon State 7
Notre Dame 14, Michigan State 10
Alabama 28, Georgia 14
Michigan 24, Oregon 0
Penn State 19, Air Force 9

Water Polo Makes Opening Splash Today

The UMass Water Polo Club will open its Fall Season with a big splash this afternoon as they open the defense of their New England Division II Championship against New Hampshire. Game time is 5:30. Spectators and anyone interested in joining the club are welcome to come to the game.

Gentlemen, start our engines.

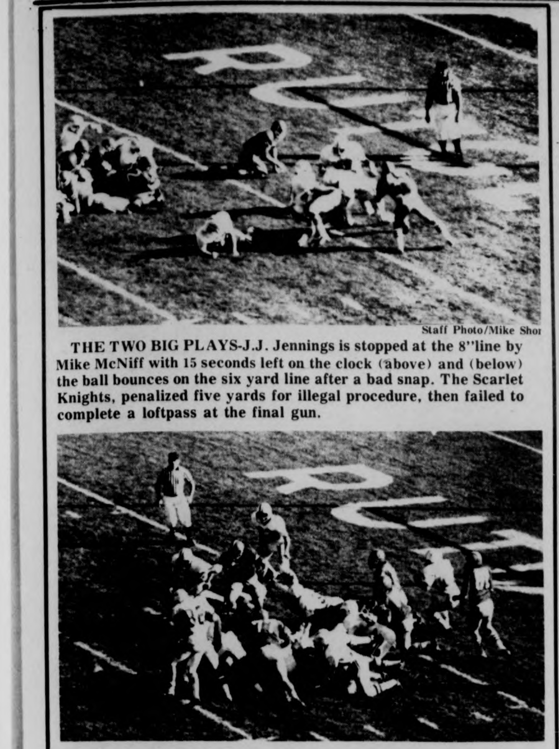
Test drive our 1973 Porsches.

JONES
PORSCHE AUDI INC.
721 WORTHINGTON STREET
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01101
TELEPHONE 413-781-1820



Staff Photo/Mike Shor

THE TWO BIG PLAYS-J.J. Jennings is stopped at the 8"line by Mike McNiff with 15 seconds left on the clock (above) and (below) the ball bounces on the six yard line after a bad snap. The Scarlet Knights, penalized five yards for illegal procedure, then failed to complete a loftpass at the final gun.

Booters Lack Punch, Tie 1-1

By STEVE DeCOSTA

The UMass soccer team dominated WPI in every category except the final score and had to settle for a 1-1 tie in action Saturday at Worcester.

The Minutemen looked almost invincible as they controlled play all over the small WPI home field. The only area the booters failed to dominate was that small (and, oh, how small it looked on Saturday) area under the net behind the WPI goal line.

The UMass attack came up with 28 shots on goal, (compared with only 9 for WPI) but most of them were taken from poor percentage angles without a thought of giving the ball up to teammate who would have had a better opening.

WPI opened the scoring at the 27:37 mark of the first half with an unassisted score, by wing Alan King. The shot was a scorcher from about 35 feet away that eluded the grasp of UMass goalie Carl Vercollone to settle into the upper far corner to give WPI the edge at 1-0.

The Minutemen came back to knot the count only ten minutes later on a goal by Tom Coburn. Coburn got the credit, but it was Bill Belcher who did most of the work. From his wing slot, Belcher let loose a drive on WPI goaltender Mark Frodyma, collected his own rebound, and flipped a short cross pass to Coburn in front of the net and Tom popped it home.

From then on, the game settled into a defensive battle, with the UMass defenders performing superbly.

The individual standout on defense was Curt Syer. The UMass co-captain was given the unenviable task of guarding Alan King, who turned out to be WPI's only offensive threat. After scoring the WPI goal, King was completely smothered by the Minutemen fullback and he failed to mount another serious scoring threat.

Helping out Syer on defense were Gary McKenna and Dan Ouellette. At sweeper back, Ouellette was particularly impressive, heading out several corner kicks and shutting off any WPI spurts with long clearing kicks.

A good defense was the best offense for the UMass squad, as time and time again the Minutemen attack was initiated from the back line. Clearing passes were short, crisp, and on target to the halfbacks who controlled the midfield area like they owned it.

The starting unit of Mark Tyma, Jim Vollinger, and Mike Nugent, with reserve help from Al Long, dominated paay in the center of the small, crowded field and successfully made the transitions from defense to attack.

It was on the front line that the UMass attack faltered. Controlling the ball from their own end of the field, the Minutemen breezed through the entire WPI defense until they got within striking range of the net. From there the offense sputtered, and the coordinated passing game ground to a halt. Tom Coburn was perhaps the biggest disappointment, often loosing the ball while trying to dribble instead of giving the ball up to a wide-open teammate.

The opportunities to score were plentiful. Coburn miskicked on a breakaway at the 21:10 mark and only twenty seconds later Ken Banda overshot the net with a wicked blast from right wing.

The booter's last gasp came at 34:15. Tony King, who played well at attack, brought the ball down on a three on two break. Instead of passing to one of the wings cutting toward the goal, King elected to shoot. The goalie, not expecting the shot stood helpless to watch and then grabbed the rebound as the ball carommed off the crossbar.

What better way to end a disappointing day?

MDC
Sportsline
5-0344

Class Without Arrogance; A Happening At Rutgers

By FRED WEISS

There was a party atmosphere in the concrete mixed with Ivy and trees stadium at Rutgers. People came to honor their undefeated Scarlet Knights in their "Homecoming Game". Everything about the day was somewhat magical, the crowd was enthusiastic but not obnoxious; the sun was shining, and the humidity was perfect. The Rutgers fans were looking for their third straight victory going into an undefeated seaon. The only thing that went wrong for the hometown was that the third victory never came. The Minutemen from UMass broke up the party, with a 25-22 win, that I would be tempted to call exciting.

Yet exciting would not do it justice. A close horse race is exciting; the same for a championship game that was close til the end. This game was more than just exciting. There was no championship at stake; no big bets. Most radio stations didn't even feature the score. But to those who watched the game there was a mixture of character and human intensity that is rarely seen in a sports event. There was an aura of nobility; of a classic confrontation with purpose. The fans seemed to pick this up; and while the mood was partisan the viewpoint was open enough to appreciate the noble and classic performances by key players on both sides.

There were key plays, bad breaks, exchanged leads, fumbles, interceptions, touchdown passes, explosive runs. Anything that anyone could ever hope to see in a game was on display in this contest. To name a key play, set of downs, or one call by the officials would be futile. Rather, it would be more realistic to taste the flavor of the entire day by "feeling" the last set of plays of the game, with the Minutemen leading 25-23...Rutgers had the ball.

With 25 seconds left in the game and Rutgers behind by three points, both teams settled down at the UMass ten yard line for what everyone knew would be one of the last battles in the trenches of the day. This was the day...either team could win. Rutgers back J.J. Jennings would be running...everyone knew that...

Jennings gets the ball...rips through the line...T.D.? No. Next play. Jennings runs...stopped on the goal line. Six seconds left...Jennings is getting ready to run the ball...the fans are screaming...they smell victory. Both teams break huddle...this is it. There will be no time left for the field goal...Rutgers is not going for the tie. Jennings gets ready to go...he will carry the ball...there is no doubt about that. The teams line up; there is MOVEMENT BEFORE THE SNAP. The Rutgers line that held all day, opening up hopes for J.J. cracked...illegal procedure. Ball goes back to the six. Will J.J. run? The fans scream out their sentiments...the stadium vibrates with feelings...NOT just noises...FEELINGS. There will be no field goal try...no stalemate...one of the teams out in the trenches will leave a winner. The play starts...it's a pass play the pass play misses...the Minutemen win...the Minutemen jump with enthusiasm and uninhibited joy. The Knights leave the field subdued...as losers.

And the fans also left the field subdued. Not angry...but subdued. Pensive about defeat, but still not sad. When you see a work of art; when you see how people act and react in a replica of real life crisis...a perfection of life...you need not feel bitter. For both the players and the fans and the coaches it was a "happening" with class without arrogance.

MAIN FLOOR-MENS
LEVI, LEE, SHIRTS, SWEATERS
WEAR-HOUSE
TWO BIG FLOORS OF EXCITEMENT
DOWNSTAIRS-WOMENS-JUNIORS
LANDLUBBER, HAPPY LEGS, TOPS
201 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
Open Thurs. & Fri. till 9

Top of the Campus

Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 9, 10, 11

Prime Rib Special

Reg. $5.60

Special $2.95

Pennington "Runs" Minutemen To Upset

By BILL BALLOU

There were six seconds to play in the game and Rutgers had the ball on the UMass seven. The Minutemen led 25-22 but Rutgers had a capable field goal kicker, Andy Tighe, available.

Tighe never even bothered flexing his toes.

The Scarlet Knights went for the touchdown, missed it, and UMass had an upset win.

"It never crossed my mind" said Rutgers rookie coach Frank Burns after the game when asked about a possible field goal. "If we were outside the 15 then we would have gone for the field goal, but once we were inside, that was it. We were going after the win."

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Burns' gutsy call earned him an admirer in UMass Coach Dick MacPherson. "Frank Burns did a great thing for his football team today," MacPherson said after the game. "I think he just made their season. Rutgers is going to be very difficult to stop after this."

"I hope that I can emulate him," he added. "Frank Burns has a lot of guts."

The final drive of the game, which saw Rutgers make it all the way from their own three to the UMass six inch line, overshadowed several great individual performances by members of both teams that helped make this the most entertaining and well-played UMass game of the year.

The Minutemen got virtuoso performances from people who in recent weeks have been hearing less than kind words flow in their direction.

Probably the most surprising bit of success achieved by UMass came from their running game. It improved about 35 times worth over the four net yard performance at Harvard, gaining 144 yards.

Much of the improvement can be attributed to Peil Pennington, who carried the ball eleven times for 70 yards, including several key gains on quarterback draws. Pennington checked off at the line of scrimmage on several occasions that resulted in him taking the ball on a sneak, bootleg, or draw, and called probably his best game of the year over the sixty minute span.

UMass also received greatly improved play from its interior line, even with Junior guard Jim Shea playing in his extended varsity action. Shea, except for a weak second quarter when he sat out about seven minutes, played a strong, solid game despite his inexperience.

The line was also bolstered by the return of David Yushinsky to tackle. It was expecially effective in pass blocking.

Perhaps the key to the win, though, came in the defense's ability to contain the Rutgers running game in the second half.

J.J. Jennings ran all over the field in the first half, racking up 176 yards including two touchdown runs of 59 and 25 yards. Fullback Ron Shycko also picked up a guaranteed five when he took the ball.

But in the second half Jennings, who was good for 10 or 15 when he ran in the first half, suddenly had to struggle for five yards. Often he was stacked up for no gain. Shycko didn't do a thing.

The Scarlet Knights were forced to pass and went through two quarterbacks, Steve Havran and Gary Smolyn, before punter and third string QB John Piccirillo found the way to move the club.

Piccirillo led that final brilliant Rutgers drive to the UMass goal line and he took advantage of a hurting UMass secondary to do it.

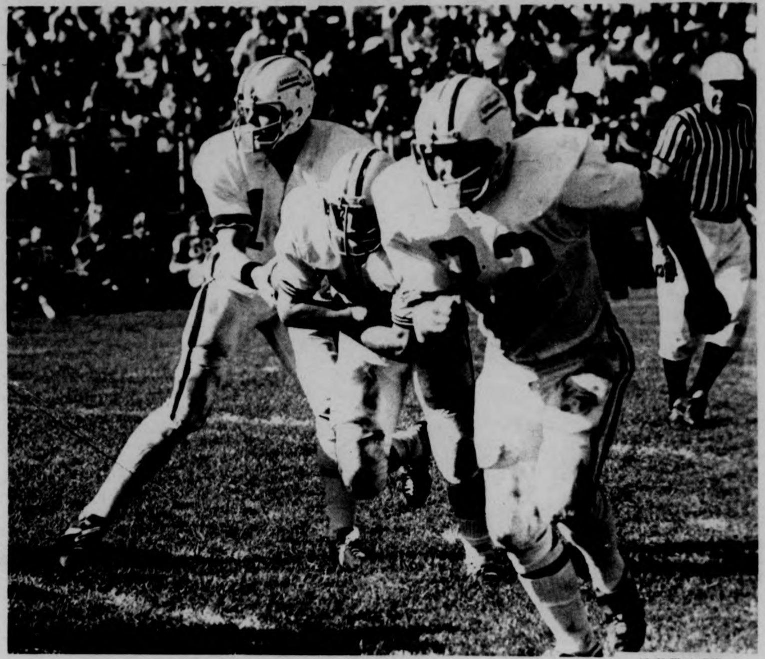
Two of the three safeties the Minutemen brought down to New Jersey were knocked silly earlier in the game and were of no use to them. That meant that Mark Finnerty, a sophomore, and Jim Talarico, normally a cornerback, had to fill in. There were breakdowns in the secondary and Piccirillo took advantage of them.

In the end, though, it was Rutgers' mistakes that allowed UMass to win it.

Twice in the final twenty minutes of the game the Knights fumbled deep in their own territory and twice UMass took it in to score. And once, late in the fourth quarter, Talarico made a spectacular interception at the UMass five to save what initially had appeared to be a Rutgers touchdown.

INCIDENTALLY: Jennings ran for 230 yards in 30 carries, a Rutgers school record, but he had only 54 net yards in the second half...Fred Kelliher threw one pass all day and, you guessed it, it was a TD pass to Tim Berra...Pennington was just 6-20 passing, but two were for touchdowns; he also completed about three that were ruled out of bounds...

Paul St. Onge appears to be the fullback UMass needs. He ran much better than against Harvard and continues to be an excellent blocker...Attendance was 11.000...



Staff Photo/Mike Shor

THE UMASS RUNNING GAME finally came to life this Saturday as the backs combined for 144 yards on the ground. Peil Pennington (11) shown here faking a hand-off to Paul St. Onge (35) with Phil Roland (32) leading the way, ran for 70 yards himself.

Golfers Win ECAC Regionals

By RICH SEVIERI

Neither wind, nor rain, nor dark of night could stop the UMass golf team from winning the ECAC divisional championship at the Hickory Ridge Country Club last Friday.

The UMass team fought off the elements to post a low score of 313 as 37 New England colleges and 175 golfers competed on the rain and wind swept South Amherst course.

The large number of golfers and slowness of play due to the weather may have cost Joe Artman, rated No. 1 on UMass team, the medalist honors.

By the time Artman reached the 17th, the light was so dim flashlights had to be used to pinpoint the route from tee to fairway, and fairway to green. Tournament officials illuminated the 18th green with spotlights so this final group could putt out. Artman finished bogey, bogey and settled for a 77, second high score.

Medalist for UMass and in a three way tie for tournament medalist was senior, Dave Kern of Shrewsbury, who had a 76. Tied with him at 76 were Mike Gleason of Dartmouth and Mark Plummer of Maine.

The win qualified UMass along with second place UConn for the ECAC Fall Championship tournament next Saturday at Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton.

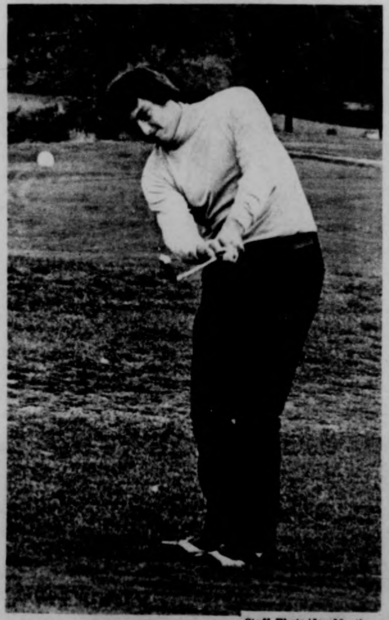
UConn qualified with a 315 team score. Last year's regional winner, Central Connecticut placed third at 320 and failed to qualify. Harvard finished fourth at 322.

UMass and UConn will compete in team play against two teams each from qualifying playoffs in Annapolis, Md., Bethpage, L.I., and Syracuse, N.Y.

Kern and Artman will vie with the qualifiers from these areas for the medalist honors. Artman and Kern played as medalists last year but didn't win. Cutoff score for qualifying medalist Friday was 79.

UMass coach Fan Gaudette felt the consistent play of the other three team members; Jim Dwane, Frank Agostino and John Lasek, all shooting 80 was instrumental in the Minutemen's triumph.

Gaudette said. "The fact was all the other teams had one good scorer while the rest of the team would shoot in the high 80's. Our consistency throughout the bad conditions carried us through."



Staff Photo/Joe Martins

UMass golfer Dave Kern chips his way to a tie for tournament medalist at Hickory Ridge C.C. Friday.

Runners Nipped By NU In Tri-Meet

By SCOTT HAYES

The UMass Cross Country team gave it all they had, but Northeastern proved to be too strong as the Umass runners split a tri-meet, losing to the Huskies 30-25 and defeating St. John's 24-31.

Mike Buckley, a freshman who was the New England high school two-mile champion last year, captured individual honors in 25:17 for NU. The UMass squad was paced by Randy Thomas and Tom Maguire who finished in 25:25 and 25:39 respectively. Paul Mascali of St. John's was fourth with a time of 25:44.

The turning point of the meet was the grouping of the next three NU runners. Joe Crowley, Ken Flanders and Bill Rowe finished with only two seconds separating them to beat Bill Gillin of UMass across the finish line. Gillin captured eighth in 25:59.

Paul Segersten ran the course in 26:04 and Larry Scribner of Northeastern finished three seconds ahead of Paul Doiron of UMass to finish in tenth place.

The harriers will run the first of three straight home meets on Saturday when they face Connecticut.

NAME	TEAM	TIME
1. Mike Buckley	NU	25:17
2. Randy Thomas	UM	:25
3. Tom Maguire	UM	:39
4. Paul Mascali	SJ	:44
5. Joe Crowley	NU	:49
6. Ken Flanders	NU	:50
7. Bill Rowe	NU	:51
8. Bill Gillin	UM	:59
9. Paul Segersten	UM	26:04
10. Larry Scribner	NE	:21

Crew Women Win Regatta

By WALT POWERS

Clearly benefiting from their rigorous pre-season conditioning, the UMass Women's crew team pulled to a 1-½ length victory over BU in Saturday's opening season regatta. The race, which UMass hosted started at the Calvin Coolidge bridge, and was the first women's regatta ever held in this area.

Each of the six crews rowed twice, with the top two finishers in each preliminary heat facing each other in a four boat final. In that final, the Minutewomen overcame a slow start to win going away in 3.49. BU was second in 3.56, followed by Trinity and Wesleyan.

Strong headwinds and a fast, choppy current, forced race officials to shorten the course from 1000 to 750 meters, and nearly caused cancellation of the race.

Inside Sports

- Baseball Playoffs
- Soccer Team Ties WPI
- Rutgers Feature
- UMass Sportsweek
- Scores And More

New England's
Largest
College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 25 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1973

Weather

The dull get laid,
The brilliant go home alone.

Recyclable

Staff Photo/Dan Smith

The rally's main goal was to raise money for Israel.

$7,500 Collected

Israel Rally Fills S.U.B.

By BONNIE COHEN

A capacity crowd jammed the Student Union Ballroom last night to hear speakers of the Five College Community in a rally of solidarity in support of the people of Israel.

Organizers of the rally cited the main goal to raise money to be sent to Israel through the offices of the United Jewish Appeal in New York. Besides donating money, which one unidentified source estimated at $7500., those in attendance also had the opportunity to sign up to donate blood to be sent to Israel through the Red Cross.

Those at the rally also had the chance to volunteer their services to the state of Israel to fill civilian positions vacated by Israeli citizens who went to fight in the war. The same unidentified source said that close to 40 people had volunteered in this capacity.

The program began with members of the Hillel, a Jewish organization on campus, leading some Israeli songs. Many of those attending the rally joined in the singing.

The first to speak was Rabbi Aryeh Meir, director of the Hillel at UMass and one of the organizers of the rally. He thanked those who attended the rally and those who helped organize it. He also noted that the rally was "the first example of cooperation between the Jewish community of the Five College area". In speaking of the "crucial" situation that Israel was in, he informed the crowd that the present conflict in the Middle East has already cost the Israelis "over 850 million dollars in just four days of fighting,". Before introducing the next speaker, the Rabbi led the crowd in a prayer which was said at the time of the birth of the state of Israel in 1948.

Representatives of the Christian community in Amherst also spoke at the rally. Rev. Richard Koenig of the Immanuel Lutheran Church and Rev. Tom Linderman spoke of the importance of Christian backing of the state of Israel. Rev. Koenig who was in Israel only three weeks ago, spoke of "the anguish of the Jewish people" and said that he "feels at one with the people of Israel".

Other speakers included Noah Hashachar, a student at UMass, and Dr. Donna Devine, a member of the political science department at Smith College. Dr. Devine expanded on the cause of the recent conflict in the Middle East and felt that the "crucial decision" to start the fighting was a result of "pressures within the Arab military which would not allow the leaders to take steps towards negotiation".

A visiting professor from the University of Tel Aviv, Marcelo Dascal spoke of Israel as "fighting for her own survival" and quoted some Arab sources as he sought to show the assembled crowd that the "Arab aggression" was the "latest euphimism for genocide".

"This is an extraordinarily lonely war for Israel" began the speech by Dr. Haim Gunner, which ended in a standing ovation. Dr. Gunner, a professor of Environmental Science at UMass, was the last speaker at the rally.

The crowd remained standing following Dr. Gunner's speech, for the singing of the Hatikfa, the national anthem of the state of Israel.

The entire program ran smoothly with the exception of one minor event which did little to mar the enthusiasm of the crowd. As people were filing into the Ballroom before the program began, a heckler was heard shouting, "Victory for Palestine". This exclamation was greeted by calls of "Kill the Bastard" and "Long live Israel" by supporters of the rally.

Dance Company: Well Worth The Wait

By CAROL CARDULLO
and MARK CUDDY

At 8:40 p.m. the doors opened and the impatient UMass audience poured in only to see a man with a mop on stage. No, nothing avante-garde. Just some last minute preparations for an evening of dance that was to have started at 8:00. Because the company was not allowed into Bowker Aud. until one o'clock Tuesday the dancers did not have time for a full rehearsel, the lights could not be focused for all the numbers, and eventually the program had to be cut.

The performance by the Inner City Repertory Dance Company of Los Angeles was worth attending merely to see the last piece, "Men on the Chain Gang." Originally the company intended to perform "Rainbow Round My Shoulder" of which "Men on the Chain Gang" was the second half. Unfortunately, the audience was deprived of viewing "The Dream" because of the colossal bungling of the UMass bureaucracy.

"Men on the Chain Gang" was an impressive piece of choreography done by Donald McKayle. The stirring music told the tale of men suffering through the inhuman and base punishment inflicted on those in a chain gang, how they got there, where their thoughts turn and what their fate may be. The men were powerful yet diminished by their circumstances and touchingly vulnerable.

An especially fine segment was one where a man's mind drifts into thoughts of a night on the town. He encounters a local floozie and a sprightly, humorous dance between the two takes place.

His wandering mind then fancies a lovely, romantic pas de deux by himself and his lover. This section contained some graceful, flowing movements and appealing unity of form.

In the end, of course, the man is never allowed to fulfill his fantasies because he is murdered while trying to escape a hellish reality that becomes too much to cope with.

The program opened with "Migrations", a modern piece set to electronic music. The dancers were costumed in white with flashes of silver. They reminded one of tiny time pills or similar commercial entities and the effect was not diminished by the choreography. At one point, both music and movement created the distinct impression that one was viewing the old Maxwell coffee commercial. (You know, do do do do do do do.)

A mirror image effect using two female dancers was good, but for the most part the choreography failed, and the ending was an anticlimax.

"Songs of the Disheartened" included three pieces. "I'm On My Way" was a jazz dance put to spiritual music. While the choreography was nothing special, it was well performed. A solo by Regina Bell, "Angelitos Negros" (sung by Roberta Flack) was the audience favorite. But artistically, the most successful section was "Shaker Life", a dance with rock feeling. This was the best group number.

One piece, "Daughters of Eden" was completely cut from the performance. It was truly a shame that we could not have viewed this number, but we can chalk it up as just one more example of the university screwing the people it is supposed to exist for.

Photo/Martha Swope

Michele Simmons in Donald McKayle's "Rainbow Round My Shoulder".

Collins Hits Wellman Document

By DENNY MATTEAU

The Boston Globe said, "The superstructure of education in Massachusettts is due for some major changes if Secretary of Educational Affairs Joseph M. Cronin has his way."

Representative James G. Collins, D-Amherst, said Cronin won't have his way.

Referring to the proposed reorganization of state education, also known as the Wellman Document, released last January, and now before the Legislature, Rep. Collins in an interview yesterday termed it "A very crude attempt to stop the growth of the University."

Rep. Collins sits on the state legislature's Education Committee, which held eight hearings over this past summer in different parts of the state on the Wellman Document. "We've gotten a lot of public input," he said, "and I foresee that the Committee will not adopt most of the proposal."

The three goals of the plan for re-organization, as put forth in the Wellman Document, are:

"1. Statewide planning and co-ordination of policies at a central level, combined with decentralized decision-making and service delivery at regional and campus levels. . ."

"2. Bridging artificial gaps that the present structure encourages. . ."

"3. An open process that brings students, consumers, and other citizens into every level of educational decision-as full participants, along with professionals and general public."

In more detail, the plan's "fact sheet" claims the state-wide planning and co-ordination as involving the "evolution of competing and fragmented boards" into an "uncomplicated and orderly system that combines rational planning with uniform high standards."

Further, it says, "In the regions, the towns and the campuses, decisions will be made in the places best equipped to make them sensibly and sensitively, rather than by distant boards and bureaucracies."

The "gaps" which the plan speaks of are explained as those existing between "public and private education that keep both from needed cooperation. . .between 'school' and 'college'. . .between 'student' and 'citizen'."

The actual implementation of these goals would involve a "three-level structure":

"1. Two Statewide Board --one for elementary and secondary, the other for high education --set policies and minimum standards for the entire Commonwealth. They replace seven existing boards (which have) statewide responsibilities. They insure rational planning, economical use of resources and consistent high quality."

"2. Five New Regional Boards -- one for each part of the state -- will set priorities, asssess needs, develop budgets and provide assistance to the school districts and colleges in their domains."

Since January, there have been some changes in the proposal, most notably that the new regional boards would be ten in number rather than five. The overall plan remains.

"3. Individual campuses and local school systems determine their internal affairs (more than at present in the case of higher education) control most of their own resources and select skilled professionals. Each campus will have a new board of visitors to offer advice and wisdom."

If passed, the proposal would have a major impact on higher education, critics say. Its only real change in elementary education proponents say, would be in the decentralization of the present state offices. The present School Committees would continue in control.

"There is a danger that state agencies would have too much power," Rep. Collins told the Collegian, "once they are decentralized. The power is supposed to rest with the local School Committees, but the situation is not unforseeable where the local state office might be withholding services because a particular School Committee doesn't like state policies. I think that has to be looked at very carefully."

The stated goal of "bridging the gap between public and private education" is not clear in its ramifications. The re-organization can only directly affect public education,and while the private schools would almost certainly feel some reverberations, they are free to do pretty much what they please.

Rep. Collins told the Amherst Chamber of Commerce last February that the plan would "radically alter the method of governing our state universities" and would "risk the chances of increased political involvement in education." Yesterday, he said he still stands by that statement. He explained the "increased political involvement" would come about because of "the expansion of the governor's power of appointment. This would have been one of the biggest political patronage bags in the history of the state."

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news), 545 0344 (sports), 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

Professional Association Gains Ground

By DAVE O'CONNELL

The embryonic Professional Association of UMass (PAUMA), an association of the professional non-teaching employees of the University, is currently emerging through growth and maturation to become a solid voice in campus affairs. The Association, which consists of a wide spectrum of professionals ranging from a glass blower to psychiatrists, is evolving to a participatory role in UMass evolution.

The need for such an association was first noted in the "dark ages" of UMass before it gained autonomy in 1961. Professionals were, at that time, hired and employed in so-called "in-lieu" positions in which necessary functions were filled in by the staff with funds granted by the state for faculty positions. With autonomy, funds were allocated for various staff positions exclusive of faculty. Throughout this period, the professional staff had no "peer redress" and contracts, regardless of length of employment, were limited to one year in duration. Twice during this time, personnel policy recommendations were made to the Board of Trustees to bring about fair employment practices. Both were rejected.

These conditions continued throughout the sixties until 1970 when two employees were summarily dismissed. The two had wide support among the faculty, a crisis evolved and the need for a method of redress was paramount. The Faculty Senate passed a resolution recommending some form of grievance committee be formed. The Chancellor appointed a committee to evolve a definitive personnel policy. A draft was submitted in the Spring of 1971. During 1971 the Massachusetts Teachers Association began to take steps to organize a professional staff association.

Out of this emerged the University of Massachusetts at Amherst Professional Association (UMAPA), from which the non MPA Associated PAUMA evolved. The new Association had, in the words of Dr. William Venman, career administrator and counsellor in the Department of Continuing Education and Chairperson of the Personnel and Ad Hoc Committee on grievances for the current PAUMA is "a short, chaotic, but very important life". He stressed that the campus professionals finally had "gotten the organizational ball rolling". He said that organization to get an effective personnel policy and a voice for all the professionals on campus was and still is an imperative to avoid "getting their asses burnt".

Dr. Venman said also that their current organization indeed had much to do to bring it to its appropriate level of influence. He pointed out that the great strides his organization had made in bringing about its own recognition and budding new role in the University stand as testimony to PAUMA's potential. Dr. Venman said that there were still problems to be worked out. The Executive Board, he said, beyond the intitial organizing function and the achievement of a constitution for the new body had been unprepared to meet any crisis, notably the parking problem.

Mr. Randy Dahl, Speaker of the Association, agreed, saying that the Association's assumption and recognition as a "governance" unit for the professional employees was a fine credit to the industry of its active members, but much remained to be done in ironing out the rough edges especially in membership participation and policy.

Mr. Dahl sketched a summary of goals of the Association which included "selling the organization to ourselves" as a viable responsive unit, communciation inter and intra-community of factual non-exaggerated information and an overall maturation process of PAUMA.

Mr. Paul Meade, member of the Executive Board, and Moderator, of PAUMA was characterized by Dr. Venman as one of the more "stable forces" of the Association. Dr. Meade outlined a dimmer view. He said apathy and the unwieldy nature of the current decision making process were major stumbling blocks to achieving an effective voice in campus affairs. He said that the lack of enthusiasm to participate actively in the Association's activities could cripple the organization. He said also that some changes in the organizational structure would be the only method of ridding the institution of its current impotence in responding to policy crisis.

Mr. Dahl said that their organization had attempted to build a structure with "flexibility and with out ambiguities". However, the Association's cherished Personnel Policy, which was finally approved by the Board of Trustees last January has yet to be implemented. All interviewed had differing views as to why the program of multi-year contracts had not yet been made effective, but the consensus was that administrative procedural problems could not entirely be at the base of the problem.

The Association will hold its Annual Business meeting Monday, October 10, at Herter Hall, at which Chancellor Bromery will speak on issues affecting the Association as a whole and its members. The Meeting will bring the participation the Association's leadership craves and eliminate some of its problems. As PAUMA stands, it remains a relatively minor voice on campus, and as such will probably have difficulty in influencing quicker implementation of a fair personnel policy and eliminating or changing parts of that policy which the Association still contests, such as the lack of a classification system for staff. These issues, it was unanimously concluded must be met before PAUMA can be a moving force on campus.

"Team-Teaching" Used In Auditing Course

The Auditing course in the Accounting Department is being taught this semester on a "team-teaching" basis with members of the international public accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand. Representatives of the firm are on campus each Tuesday during the fall semester to deliver lectures and meet with students. The experimental course is designed to bridge the gap between the classrooom and the professional practice oof accounting. Student enrolled in the course will have an opportunity to visit offices of the firm during the semester and a limited number of students will participate in a special internship program during intersession.

Public accounting practice today is very broad and includes assignments not only in the usual areas of auditing, management services, systems, and taxation, but other unique special assignments.

While the firm traditionally hires accounting majors, Coopers & Lybrand is also interested in students with other backgrounds. Representatives of Coopers & Lybrand are most anxious to meet with and talk to faculty and students during their stay on campus to discuss career opportunities in professional accounting. The firm representatives are located in Room 335 in the School of Business Administration.

TONITE
FIREWATER
at the Rusty Nail
Inn
Rte. 47
Sunderland
665-4937

UMass Police
New Emergency
Number
5-3111

Handballs
and Handball Gloves
A. J. Hastings, Inc.
Newsdealer & Stationer
Amherst, Mass.

RALLY
In Support of Anti-Imperialist Conference in Solidarity with African Liberation Struggles
Wed., Oct. 10, 12:00 noon
S.U.B.
Speakers: Johnetta Cole
Mfundi Vundia
And Others
Film: VIVA FRELIMO

Alcohol: A Legal High, But Watch Out!

By BILL BROWN

Vietnam may be over, the draft might be gone from the scene for awhile, and although the life of a college student may seem to be an attractive and carefree one to many people, it is certainly not without the kinds of tensions and fears that ae anything but simple and easy to handle. Often, but unfortunately not often enough, these problems come to the attention of various agencies on campus set up to handle the troubles that students find themselves in.

The basic problems don't change, but often the means of coping with these problems run in cycles. There are almost limitless methods of tuning the world out; dope, religion, and even love; many are necessary crutches used to block out the problems that never seem to go away.

One of the more popular forms of escape is alcohol. It can get you high, and it's legal! Two law changes in the past year have taken away a lot of the hassle involved in the pursuit of juice nirvanna. If you're eighteen, you no longer have to hunt up a fake I.D., or find someone to purchase for you. And if you get shitfaced in public they can't automatically throw your ass in the can; public drunkenness is not a crime anymore.

But, what of booze and the troubles that could be a direct, or indirect cause of it. Alcoholics Anonymous and related agencies estimate that as much as 5 per cent of the American population have a problem caused by alcohol. There is also much information to suggest the possibility that the syndromes of alcohol dependence are developed most often in the age group 20 to 25.

We all know that the wet head is dead, but what of the pot head? Has booze become the new in to get out? Where do UMies stand, or if you will, stagger, in regards to the use of alcohol instead of, or in combination with drugs?

Officer Don Thayer of the Amherst Police Department, and Sgt. Robert Joyce of the UMass Police both feel that the problems they see are no more than at any other time, and while there are no officially compiled figures as yet, the incidents may have decreased since the eighteen-year-old drinking law went into effect. That may solve the booze connected busts, but it doesn't have much to do with any of the other troubles that can result from drinking.

Barry Averill, director of the infirmary, talked of the detoxification center, the only one in the area outside of Springfield, that serves the three Amherst colleges.

The new law that changes drunkenness from a crime to an illness, states that persons found intoxicated be helped rather than jailed. The University policy is that a person should first be taken home where his friends can care for him, and only if he is in danger of hurting himself should he be admitted to the detox center. If a person is drunk and violent, the infirmary cannot accept him because of lack of proper facilities and manpower to handle this difficulty.

Alcohol by itself can be enough of a problem, but the popularity over the last couple of years of combining booze and dope has led to many more difficulties. Averill indicated that the infirmary handles an average of two overdoses a month from combining drinking with downs. One death of a non-student on campus was the direct result of a booze, barbiturate O.D.

Several times it was suggested that the change in popularity from the psychedelic drugs to quaaludes, sopers, and other downs, along with alcohol, might express a feeling that people aren't so intent on expanding their minds as simply escaping their problems. If so, it is a method that is easy to miscalculate, and an extremely chancy way to get high.

Counselors of "Room To Move", a drug counselling center in the Student Union, deal with a variety of the student problems, from loneliness to drug dependence, and their feeling is that while alcohol abuse is certainly one of the problems they see, and a significant one at that, it is far from being an epidemic and should be realized as such.

Often there are dependence sequences that develop, and the counsellor's job is to make people aware of why they have chosen to escape, and perhaps offer alternatives for them in their lives. The entire process of education and self-awareness is complicated by the fact that the counselors do not often see people until after problems have developed. The toughest task is to make people aware of the reasons for their actions and allow them to make decisions based on a knowledge of the consequences.

To this purpose Room To Move rap sessions are held to promote an awareness of what the problems are and methods of overcoming them. They are also working in conjunction with the staff of the infirmary, the Health Education Division, and the Mental Health Service,to review other alcohol programs and evaluate what solutions might work at UMass.

This committee of the combined various agencies is also looking into the possibility of obtaining grant money to study just what changes have occurred in drug usage patterns on campus. However, their most important objective might be in the organization of workshops and rap sessions designed to trade ideas on the problems, and offer some solutions. This is where you come in. If you can help in the education process, or if you have ideas for implementing a workshop, perhaps, call, or get in touch with, either Room To Move, at 545-0400, or the people at Health Education, 545-2492. It's good to be able to help after a problem has been found, but how much better to work at obliterating that same problem.

While it is true that the campus is not now, nor is soon to be overrun with legions of helpless alcoholics, if you will visit a bar as it opens in the morning, campus watering holes included, look around and ask yourself, "Why are these people smiling?"

Mounted Patrol Needs Funds

By MIKE KNEELAND

The UMass Director of Security says he will ask for the necessary funds to operate a campus mounted patrol in his '74 budget.

David L. Johnston said it will cost at least $1,000 a year to equip and maintain the mounted patrol, designed to prevent such body crimes as rape.

He said, however, that he is not sure he will be allocated the money since "money is tight right now."

"I think that the mounted patrol would be very effective - just about everyone does - but there are other priorities," said Johnston.

He said new police cars are needed. "They're used so much they last only about a year."

Johnston said horses have been made available to the University on a loan basis. These horses could have cost UMass as much as $6,000 each according to Officer Richard Guilmette, the man who submitted the proposal.

We've Arrived
KALSO earth shoe

Trustees Approve Maintenance Budget Request

By HOWARD WHITE

Trustees of the University of Massachusetts have approved a 1975 maintenance budget request of $99,874,000, an increase of less than 2 percent over last year's request.

President Robert Wood described the request, approved by Trustees as, "a stable budget," which "gives top priority to achieving more efficiency in our operations and increasing the effectiveness of our educational programs."

While the Trustees last year approved a budget request of $98 million, actual anticipated expenditures for the current fiscal year total $87,184,000. The reduction results from action taken by the Commonwealth on the University's request.

Despite the deep cuts, which most critically affected student aid and library acquisitions, the current year's budget represents the largest dollar increase ever received by the University. The prior year's budget had been $72.3 million.

Wood said that while "significant developments" at both the Boston and Worcester campuses lie ahead, "it is clear that future budgets will no longer increase at the rate of those of the past decade."

The Board of Trustees met in the Administration Building at the new Boston campus at Columbia Point. It was the first time Trustees have held a formal board meeting at the Boston campus.

Both the $130 million first phase of buildings at the Columbia Point, Boston, campus and the $80 million medical science building at the Worcester Medical School will be occupied in the next few months, and funds to staff them were included in the current budget.

Wood said the $99,874,000 million budget request included $68.5 million for the Amherst campus, and $7.9 million for the Medical School.

The total request also includes $4.9 million for financial aid, library acquisitions, and central University operations.

Most of the increases in the budgets for the Amherst and Boston campuses will go to meet fixed cost increases, said Wood.

The Amherst request will also allow an enrollment increase of 400 full time equivalent students; Boston will be allowed an increase of 500 students.

The increase for the Medical School represents funds needed to increase total enrollment by 48 students. Additional funds are required to staff the Medical Science building and plan for operation of the leading hospital, now under construction.

Wood noted that the University, like all other areas of the economy, is experiencing "significant price increases," and said the non-personnel accounts in the new budget request reflect estimates of future increases.

No funds are included, however, to reflect anticipated cost-of-living-increases to University personnel. Wood said that if the 1974 Legislature approves a cost-of-living raise"it is imperative that additional funds over and above those included in our requests be provided to meet these needs."

UMass Student Tops Voting

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A 21-year-old UMass student topped a field of six candidates yesterday in a preliminary mayoral election in Gardner, Mass.

Stephen J. Erickson will face incumbent Mayor Clarke K. Stedman, 67, in a runoff election Nov. 6.

Erickson collected 1,836 votes to win his place on next month's ballot.

A number of other Massachusetts communities held preliminary elections Tuesday, and officials in most areas said voter turnout was light.

THE PIZZA
REVOLUTION
is coming

79¢ FISH and CHIPS
plate . . . with this ad
also FRIED CLAMS
FRIED FISH
every Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday
AMHERST SEAFOOD
103 North Pleasant Street

PARTS GERMAN PARTS
WE'VE GOT A PART FOR YOU!
and if we don't, we'll get it.
AT
ALLIED MOTOR PARTS, INC.
BRITISH JAPANESE
319 MAIN ST., AMHERST
256-8341
256-8342
Chilton's Repair Manuals
PARTS AMERICAN PARTS

The measure of an order may be taken in the measure of its men.

In the beginning there was Isaac Hecker.

He founded the order in 1858 and his aim was to create an order of priests who would be able to meet the needs of the North American people as they arose in each era, each age. Modern priests who would be modern men.

Part of the success of this order, he believed, would lie in the fact that each man would be himself, contributing his own individual talents in his own way for the total good. "The individuality of man," he said, "cannot be too great when he is guided by the spirit of God."

And that is just what the Paulists are—individualists. We're proud of our men and of each and every individual contribution—great and small.

Whether the Paulist keeps boys off city streets by restoring and re-planting a city park or wins awards for a remarkable TV series—he is responding to the needs as he sees them.

Wherever he serves—in a parish or an inner city school . . . a youth center or on campus . . . a welfare shelter or in a prison . . . joining a senior citizens group or in radio, television or publishing, the Paulist is making his own contribution, and keeping alive Father Hecker's dream.

After all, there is a lot to live up to and an order is only as good as its men.

For more information send for THE PAULIST PAPERS—an exciting new vocation kit of articles, posters and recordings.

Write to:
Father Donald C. Campbell,
Room 101
Paulist Fathers
415 West 59th St., New York, N.Y. 10019

In The Nation And The World

Arab-Israeli War Escalates; Civilian Casualties Reported

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli warplanes streaked across the Syrian front yesterday and bombed targets in Damascus and Homs in a new escalation of the widening Middle East war.

Diplomatic families fleeing the Syrian capital reported many civilian casualties.

Arab and Israeli tanks battled fiercely in the Sinai peninsula and the Golan Heights. There were reports of Israeli armor taking up positions in noncombatant Lebanon.

The military command in Tel Aviv said Israeli jets attacked targets in Syria and Egypt. Air raid sirens howled twice in Cairo.

The Tel Aviv command claimed Israeli ground forces were "containing" Syrians on the northern Golan front and hammering Egyptians in the Sinai Desert along a line three or four miles east of the Suez Canal.

Their claims seemed to be backpedaling from announcements Monday that the Egyptians had been driven back to the canal and the Syrians pushed out of the heights.

Communiques from Cairo claimed the Egyptian forces had stabbed nine miles into the Sinai and were pushing back Israelis lapsing into a disorganized retreat.

President Hafez Assad of Syria said his forces were in full control of the Golan Heights territory occupied by Israel during the 1967 war.

Foreign correspondents were barred from both fronts and unable to make independent checks on the conflicting claims.

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev told President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria that "Syria and Egypt must not stand alone in their battle with the perfidious enemy." But his message made no mention of Soviet intervention.

The major powers in the U.N. Security Council remained split on an American proposal for a cease-fire resolution calling on Israel, Egypt and Syria to return to the 1967 cease-fire lines.

The Israelis depicted their raids on Damascus and other Syrian points as retaliation for Syrian rocket attacks on Jewish settlements in the occupied Golan area.

Syria reported the Israeli air raiders inflicted civilian casualties and Damascus radio threatened retaliation.

Polish diplomatic families fleeing to Lebanon said the Damascus raid "killed many civilians."

The Israeli air force said it also struck deep inside Egypt and hit two military airfields, including one at El Mansoura in the Nile Delta about 75 miles north of Cairo.

Residents of he Egyptian capital fled for cover when the air raid warnings sounded. There were reports that Israeli jets had bombed Cairo itself, but no Israeli warplanes were seen and no explosions were heard.

Israel's military command reported "battles are raging to contain a Syrian counterattack" on the Golan Heights. It claimed four Syrian helicopters trying to land troops in one sector of the shell-scarred heights were destroyed and all aboard were killed.

Associated Press correspondent Arthur Max reported seeing a dozen Soviet-made tanks "charred and twisted" in one part of the Golan. There was no sound of battle in that area, but many planes roved the skies and dense smoke rose from Syrian-held positions in the east.

"This time the war was rougher on the Golan Heights," an Israeli gunner said. "I guess it was because, unlike in 1967, the Syrians took the initiative first."

In the burning Sinai Desert, which the Israelis also took from Egypt in the 1967 war, Israeli forces were reporting holding a line against Egyptian troops who crossed the Suez Canal to the east bank in a Saturday offensive.

An Israeli newsman reporting from the Suez front estimated thousands of Egyptians died seizing Israeli strongpoints in two northern sectors of the 103 mile-long waterway.

"There were piles upon piles of bodies of Egyptian soldiers on the perimeters of strongpoints taken," he said. "The Bitter Lakes are full of Egyptian boats and bodies."

U.N. Truce supervision headquarters in Jerusalem said most of its observers along the canal had been evacuated to Cairo for their own safety.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said Israeli jets knocked out a radar station on the cedar-clad mountains 18 miles east of Beirut. Eight Israeli half-tracks were said to have crossed the border in the first reported ground incursion into non-combatant Lebanon.

Israel warned Lebanon, which did not fight in the 1967 war, to stay out of this one and prevent Palestinian guerrillas from infiltrating into the Jewish state.

The warning came after Israel said guerrillas fired nine Katyusha rockets at Israeli settlements in Upper Galilee near the Lebanese border. The missiles exploded harmlessly outside residential areas.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan's home town, Nahalal, was one of several civilian settlements hit by Soviet-made rockets fired from Syrian territory earlier in the day. Those attacks prompted Israel's reprisal against Damascus, officers said.

(AP RADIOPHOTO)

BAR ELIAS, LEBANON, OCT. 7 (AP) - Remains of a Syrian MIG jet fighter burning here Saturday after being shot down by Israeli aircraft.

We've Arrived
KALSO earth shoe

HIGH ADVENTURE STARTS AT 2500 FEET
Your first jump course takes only 3 hours. Costs only $65.00
World's largest and safest.
Our 15th year.
Free brochure.
(Includes all equipment) over 220,000 jumps.
21,000 First jumps.
ORANGE PARACHUTING CENTER
P.O. Box 96, Orange, Mass. 01364
Phone: 617-544-6911
LAKEWOOD PARACHUTING CENTER
P.O. Box 258, Lakewood, N.J. 08701
Phone: 201-363-4900
For New York information call 212-582-5860

Student Activities Policy Council

Any student involved in any of the following: on campus publications, campus service organizations, campus cultural organizations, social action and political organizations, academic organizations, off campus service organizations, concert committee, other special interest groups, or residence halls — you are needed on the STUDENT ACTIVITIES POLICY COUNCIL. All interested persons should apply by October 10 by submitting a brief resume of their activities and a statement as to why you wish to be considered for this appointment to the STUDENT SENATE OFFICE, 420 S.U. Any questions: Contact David Booker, 5-0341.

They're here - - - - - - - - - - - - direct from the West Coast
INNER CITY REPERTORY DANCE COMPANY
TONITE AND TOMORROW OCTOBER 9 & 10
BOWKER AUDITORIUM
8 p.m.
Tickets available Campus Center Concourse, 8:30-3:30 p.m.
or 125 Herter Hall, 9-4 p.m.
Tickets $1.50 UM/A Students
$3.00 Others
Master Class, Thursday the 11th, W.O.P.E., 2:30 p.m.
SPONSORED BY THE UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FINE ARTS COUNCIL

Watergate Investigation

Hughes Donation Questioned

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Watergate committee is investigating a secret $100,000 contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes to President Nixon's friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, committee sources said yesterday.

The sources said Rebozo had confirmed receiving the money in two $50,000 cash installments around 1970, and claims to have returned it to Hughes last spring.

The panel's investigators had been scheduled yesterday to interview Chester Davis, a Hughes lawyer to whom Rebozo said he returned the cash, the sources said. But Davis cancelled the interview, and is scheduled to be questioned in private today.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., said Tuesday he would like to hear public testimony from Rebozo and from Hughes himself. "The matter has come up in committee," Weicker told newsmen.

Weicker would give no details, except to say that Hughes and Rebozo have been named in connection with the panel's investigation of campaign finances.

The panel's investigators are trying to find whether the money was linked to an antitrust ruling that reportedly allowed Hughes to expand his Las Vegas hotel holdings, the sources said.

Rebozo and several Hughes associates already have been questioned by the committee's staff investigators, the sources said.

Rebozo reportedly confirmed getting the money from Richard Danner, manager of one of Hughes' Las Vegas hotels.

In yesterday's public hearings, the committee heard former Nixon campaign spy John Buckley testify that he photographed boxloads of intercepted papers from the presidential campaign headquarters of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie. He said he passed the photographs on to other Nixon campaign agents.

Buckley, known to Nixon campaign operatives as Fat Jack, said such spying is legal and commonplace in American politics.

But he was challenged on that by both Democrats and Republicans on the committee. Buckley, 53, testified involuntarily under a grant of immunity.

Weicker would not comment on what evidence the committee has gathered about the alleged Hughes-Rebozo affair.

A former Hughes aide, Robert A. Maheu, was given $100,000 in two cash installments in 1969 and 1970. The money hasn't been reported as a campaign contribution, although Maheu said it was intended as such.

The committee's chief counsel, Samuel Dash, refused to comment on the matter. Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., refused to say whether Hughes and Rebozo might be called as witnesses.

Columnist Jack Anderson, in a report published Tuesday, said assistant Democratic counsel Terry Lenzner presented the outlines of the matter to the panel in a secret session last week.

Anderson said Baker was dismayed and that Baker told Lenzner, "If you can verify those facts, we have a whole new can of worms."

Mid-East Conflict Affects Oil Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six senators said yesterday that widening of the Middle East conflict threatens American imports of oil from the region for heating fuel.

The six urged deregulation of interstate natural gas prices by the Federal Power Commission.

The Senate Commerce Committee begins today a series of hearings on deregulations. The six oppose a bill proposed by Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., that would institute regulation of intrastate gas prices.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, "proposed legislation calling for partial deregulation or reform of the regulatory structure will not solve our problem. The basic shortcoming has been that economic incentives have not been sufficient to attract the amount of risk capital necessary for new gas exploration on the scale which would satisfy our present demand."

The senators said deregulation would allow interstate gas prices to rise, spurring new explorations to increase the domestic supply and decrease reliance on imports from the Middle East, source of 10 per cent of U.S. crude oil supplies now.

Sen. James L. Buckley, D-N.Y., said the wellhead price rise expected from deregulation would mean an added cost to consumers of between five and 10 per cent a year "for the next several years" until a free market stabilizes the price.

Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., said that if "the Mideast war widens to the point of destruction of key petroleum facilities, we might not have sufficient oil to import to keep American warm this winter-let alone our factories running," he added.

The Arabs are using their oil as political blackmail, Fannin said, and, without natural-gas deregulation, they will be prompted to use more blackmail.

Sen. Henry Bellmon, R-Okla., said that "FPC control of natural gas at artifically low prices-roughly one-third to one fourth the comparative value of this premium fuel-has caused overutilization of gas in uses other fuels could serve."

News Analysis

Israelis Can Gain At "Considerable Cost"

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - U.S. military analysts believe the Israelis can push Egyptian and Syrian forces out of the Sinai Peninsula and the Golan Heights, but at "a very considerable cost."

Defense Department and other government analysts are not saying the tide has turned for the Israelis, as some Israeli generals claimed Monday.

"The Israelis are proceeding about as expected, but they are behind schedule," one official said. "The Arabs are doing better this time than they have in the past."

The key to swift Israeli victory in the 1967 war was its mastery of the air, gained in a surprise preemptive strike catching much of the Arab air force on the ground. This air dominance permitted coordinated warplane and armor assaults that decimated Egyptian tank and infantry units.

But this time, U.S. sources said, the Israeli air force has had serious problems trying to knock out Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles that were not there during the 1967's war.

Until these missiles are neutralized, Israeli warplanes cannot range freely against Egyptian and Syrian armor and infantry formations.

Sources said that about 35 of the approximately 40 Israeli warplanes lost through Monday night fell to surface-to-air missiles.

The Egyptians and Syrians are reported to have lost about 100 warplanes, some on the ground when Israel attacked five Egyptian airfields and some Syrian fields.

If the reports are accurate, each side would have lost more than 10 per cent of its air striking power.

According to intelligence assessments, the Egyptians have penetrated the Sinai along an irregular front ranging from five to about 15 miles east of the Suez Canal, short of Israel's main Sinai defense line.

The Egyptians were said to have some 70,000 men and between 600 and 800 tanks, some of them powerful Soviet-manufactured T62 main battle vehicles, in the Sinai.

The Israelis have claimed to have knocked out about 11 bridges the Egyptians threw across the canal Saturday, but under cover of darkness, the Egyptians floated pontoon bridges, permitting reinforcements and supplies to cross the canal, U.S. sources said.

On the Syrian front, U.S. experts said, five Syrian divisions and an estimated 800 tanks oppose the Israelis.

Armor losses on both sides have been heavy, with reports to the Pentagon speaking of 300 Syrian tanks and about 150 Israeli tanks knocked out through Monday night.

One report, apparently based on information from Egyptian army's first objective was to grab territory as far as about 20 miles deep in the Sinai and to hold this ground until a cease-fire.

But the same sources said the Egyptian goal has been broadened by what is described as Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's view that his armies can reclaim the entire Sinai.

Agnew Calls For Public Housing Support

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Sticking to his role as a traveling spokesman for the Nixon administration and saying nothing about his own problems, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called yesterday for public support of government housing program reforms.

He told a luncheon meeting of the New York Building Congress, an amalgam of construction industry interests, that federally subsidized housing has been "a costly failure."

"With what we have subsidized so far - if we never put another penny into housing subsidies - we have already committed American taxpayers to something between $65 and $85 billion during the 30 to 40 years it will take mortgages to run out," Agnew said.

"But even with that tremendous commitment and all the units it has underwritten, we have not achieved our national goal of a decent home and a suitable living environment for every American family."

Better than anything around . . . . better than anything square — go No. 2!

for people who walk on this earth...

If you've walked barefoot on sand or soil you know how great it is. Your heels sink low and your feet embrace the earth. Then you put on your shoes, return to the city, and become another concrete fighter . . . but the concrete always wins. You yearn for the earth that lies buried beneath the city.

The Earth Shoe is the first shoe in history with the heel lower than the sole... this helps return you to nature though you are forced to live in a cement-coated world. The Earth Shoe's patented design gently guides you to a more erect and graceful walk, and reduces fatigue and the aches and pains caused by our hard-surfaced city.

For men and women in shoes, sandals and sabots.

From $23.50 to $43.50
Brochure available

KALSO earth shoe®

264 North Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass. 01002
(413) 256-8911

14 Story St.
Brattle Arcade
Cambridge, Mass. 02138
(617) 492-6000

Introducing our Low Boot
for men and women.
U.S. Patent No. 3305947

This is the real Kelso Earth Shoe. The picture in yesterday's ad was not correct.

Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

How would you like to be a

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER?

Here's a chance to be 1/10th of a publisher. Under its revised constitution, The Collegian Publishing Board has two positions for at-large undergraduate members. The board meets several times a year and serves as an advisor to the Daily Collegian staff. Its job is basically advisoral but there is a chance to help in the overall direction of New England's largest daily college newspaper. Interested? Write:

MDC Pub Board Screening Committee
c/o Daily Collegian, Student Union

Applications due by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12

Collegian staffers and members of Student Senate and all campus governments are not eligible.

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 9, 10, 11
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

The ten dollar aggravation!

Staff Photo/David Less

Third World Rally Today

The Third World Community Council is sponsoring an anti-imperialist rally TODAY, October 10, 1973 at 12:00 in the UMass Student Union Ballroom. It is important that all persons interested about DOING something in the struggle to liberate Africa and other oppressed communities be there!

The liberation fronts of Angola, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau, and South Africa are asking for our support! The time is now! We must realize that their struggle is our struggle, and we must do something to help assure their victory.

The peoples of Africa are engaged in battle for their lives, freedom and their right to determine their own future. They are striving to reclaim their cultural heritage, restore the integrity of their history so long distorted by imperialist historians.

The peoples of Angola, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau, and the Cape Verde Islands still suffer under the direct colonial rule of Portugal. Their heroic liberation struggles are met with systematic torture and devastating napalm and bombs supplied to Portugal through NATO and marked "made in the U.S.A." The United States is the backbone of Portugese colonialism supplying over 400 million dollars of direct aid.

The fascist regimes of the Republic of South Africa and Rhodesia (Zimbabwe) continue to exploit and oppress the indigenous Black millions through its policy of apartheid.

The Republic of South Africa represents the major beachhead of world imperialism in Africa. South Africa, the key to U.S. imperialist plans in Africa offers U.S. corporations profit returns three times higher than any other country in the world, a cheap source of labor, gold and other natural resources and a strategic location as the guardian of the Southern Seas.

Man Raises 10 Adopted Children

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)-When John Conyngham's fiancee died in 1947 shortly before they were to be married, he found himself facing the future as the bachelor father of 10 adopted Japanaese sons.

It wasn't easy, but Conyngham managed. The boys, who were between the ages of 1 and 8 when he adopted them, are all settled and have presented him with 17 grandchildren.

"I've benefitted more than they from the experience," he said recently.

Conyngham, who was born in Scotland, fought the Japanese during World War II and in 1947 was stationed in Tokyo as a member of the War Crimes Legal Investigating Committee.

He became engaged to Helen Connolly while in Tokyo and since she was unable to have children, they decided to adopt a Japanese youngster.

"I thought you would have to make a lot of inquiries, so I made a lot of inquiries," he says. "Before I realized it, I had 10 children lined up-all boys-so we agreed to start with a rather large family."

When Miss Connolly drowned in a swimming accident, Conyngham decided to raise the boys himself, taking a job as a professor of economic history in a Japanese university in order to bring up the boys in their homeland.

He raised his sons in the Japanese tradition and says the tradition still persists with him.

"I cook for myself only reluctantly, but when I do, it is in the Japanese fashion," he says.

In 1967, with the boys grown and on their own, Conyngham, who sent all the youngsters through college, joined a Miami-based firm in a job that allowed him to make frequent trips to Japan to visit nine of his sons who remained there. The 10th son manages some of Conyngham's citrus interests in Elsa, Texas.

UMass Food Expert Named By Sargent

A food marketing and distribution specialist from UMass has been named executive director of Governor Francis W. Sargent's new Emergency Commission on Food.

Professor Theodore W. Leed, sworn in at State House ceremonies Monday, (10/1), has been granted leave from his duties in the food and agricultural economics department at UMass during the current academic year.

He will serve as executive director of a commission set up by an executive order of Gov. Sargent and made up of outstanding citizens of the Commonwealth. Represented will be consumers, workers, farmers, retailers, government officials and others.

The commission has three main purposes--to develop programs and policies for an adequate supply of food for Massachusetts residents at reasonable prices; to restore and create a strong food production economy in the state; and to encourage actions that will improve the competitive position of the Massachusetts food economy.

A native of Ohio, Dr. Leed received undergraduate, master's and Ph.D. degrees from Ohio State University. He was a faculty member there until 1957, when he joined the UMass faculty. He has published extensively and lectured in many countries on food distribution and marketing.

UWisconsin Prof. To Speak

George Mosse, Professor of History at the University of Wisconsin, will be speaking on "The topic of "Intellectuals in Politics: The Weimar Example," Thursday Oct. 11 in the Main Lecture Hall in Academic Building I of Hampshire College. Professor Mosse has written a number of books, including "The Crisis of Nazi Idealogy." The lecture will begin at 8:00 PM and is open to the 5 College Community.

We've Arrived
KALSO earth shoe
264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass 01002 (413) 256-8911

RESEARCH
thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material
SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

in a rush?
grab a Quickie Lunch!
11th Floor Campus Center
Room 1102 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.
Monday thru Friday

MSP — AAUP
presents
COLLECTIVE BARGAINING IN PRACTICE:
Rhode Island & Rutgers Universities
C.C. 917 OCTOBER 10 7:30 p.m.

Violence To Affect Argentinian Inauguration

By HENRY S. ACKERMAN
Associated Press Writer

BUENOS AIRES (AP-New outbreaks of labor and terrorist violence prompted the Argentine government yesterday to take strict precautions for the inauguration of Juan D. Peron later this week.

A transport worker union official was killed Monday night in a gunbattle between rival unionists at the Atlantic resort of Mar del Plata. A leftist youth leader was kidnaped in buenos Aires after being beaten with pistol butts and clubs.

Bombs slightly damaged two American properties, the Sheraton Hotel and a branch of the Bank of America in the capital. A bank guard was wounded but there were no reports of casualties in the hotel.

The bombings were attributed by police to leftist groups observing the sixth anniversary of the killing of the Cuban revolutionary, Ernesto "Che" Guevara in Bolivia. Guevara was born in Argentina.

In Cordoba, 450 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, terrorist bombs damaged offices of Coca Cola, Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and Mercedes Benz.

Leftist factions of the General Confederation of Labor in Cordoba called on workers to stage a 90-minute strike on Wednesday to protest crackdowns by the Peronist government against Marxists.

Peron himself was reported to have ordered the strict precautions for his inauguration the most somber ceremony in memory, a far cry from his last inaugural in 1952.

Extremist terrorism had abated slightly before Peron's election on Sept. 23 but revived soon afterward.

The 78-year-old president elect and his wife, Isabel, who was selected as Latin America's first woman vice-president, will be sworn in at the Congress building. But there will be no speeches, sources close to Peron said, no massive crowds lining a parade route to the presidential palace which he left under fire 18 years ago.

The sources said that Peron is preoccupied with the terrorism that erupted Monday.

Freiburg Exchange Offered

BOSTON (AP) - UMass has signed a formal agreement with the University of Freiburg Germany for a partnership in exchanges of faculty and students and possibly research projects, it was announced yesterday.

The agreement was signed for Massachusetts by the university secretary, Franklin Patterson. It previously was signed by the Rector of Freiburg and approved by the Ministry of Education in the state of Baden Wuerttemburg.

The two universities have had an informal relationship of the same nature since 1964, with an average of 30 Massachusetts students, most of them at the graduate level, enrolling at Freiburg, and with three UMass professors each year going to Freiburg as visiting professors.

During the current year four Freiburg professors are to teach at Umass-Amherst.

Radical Wanted For Arrest

CHICAGO (AP)-Weatherman radical Howard Machtinger failed yesterday to appear for arraignment on riot conspiracy charges and U.S. District Judge Julius J. Hoffman issued a warrant for his arrest.

Machtinger, 26, was seized last month in New York City after 3½ years as a fugitive but freed pending arraignment on $2,500 bond.

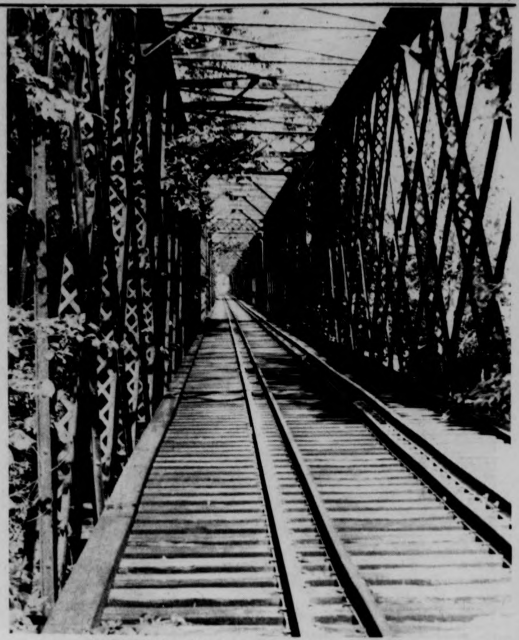
The judge ordered the FBI to start looking for Machtinger again and increased the bond to $250,000.

Machtinger's attorney Susan Gedzandaner, told Hoffman her client had been advised of his court date. She said she had no idea where he was.

"I cannot be unmindful of the fact that for 3½ years he has forgotten about this case," said the judge, who presided over the Chicago 7 riot conspiracy trial.

Machtinger, a New York City native, became known as a leader of Students for a Democratic Society, while a sociology graduate student at the University of Chicago.

He was one of 12 alleged Weatherman leaders to be indicted on interstate riot conspiracy charges in the groups "Days of Rage" demonstrations Oct. 8-11, 1969, in which hundreds of radicals charged through Chicago's downtown district, smashing windows and battling with police.

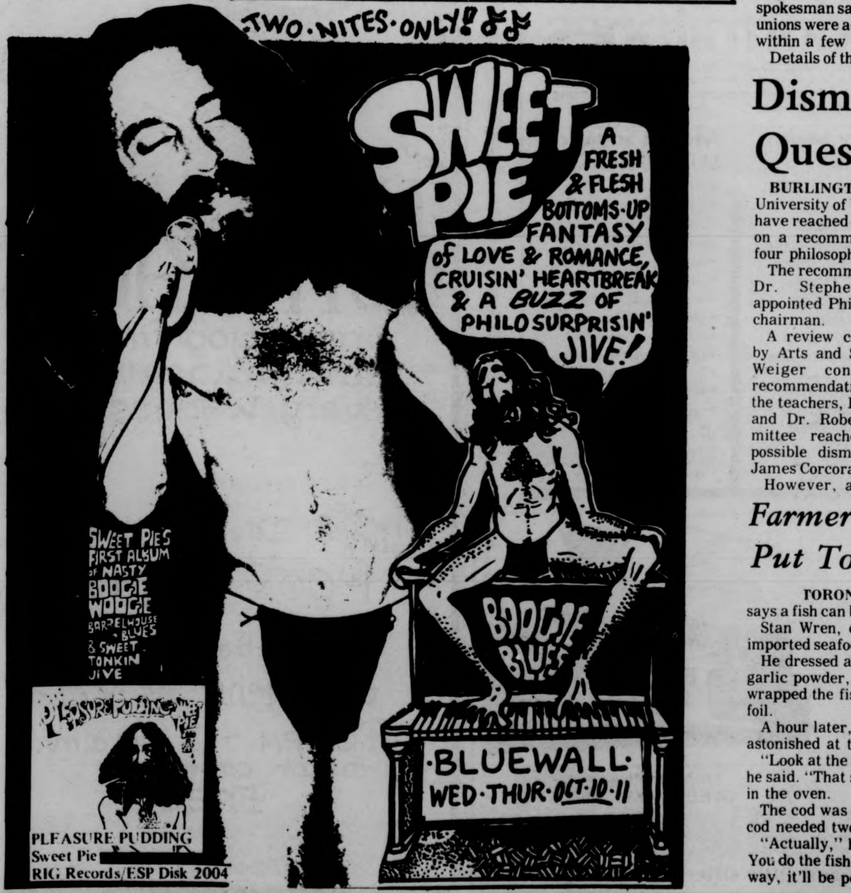


Staff Photo/David Less

Bridge over polluted waters. The further you look in, the deeper you're involved.

No. 2 is right near you.

Hookers and Hookahs!
"The Thief of Bagdad" (Heavy!)
Doug Fairbanks' Greatest Role
"The Projectionist" (Zany!)
with Chuck "Right Guard" McCann
CCA, Wed.
50¢ a Head (Cheap)
DOOR PRIZES 7:00 & 9:30



TWO·NITES·ONLY!
SWEET PIE
A FRESH & FLESH BOTTOMS-UP FANTASY of LOVE & ROMANCE, CRUISIN' HEARTBREAK & A BUZZ OF PHILOSURPRISIN' JIVE!
SWEET PIE'S FIRST ALBUM of NASTY BOOGIE WOOGIE BARRELHOUSE BLUES & SWEET TONKIN JIVE
PLEASURE PUDDING SWEET PIE
BOOGIE BLUES
·BLUEWALL·
WED·THUR·OCT·10·11
PLEASURE PUDDING
Sweet Pie
RIG Records/ESP Disk 2004

Negotiations Held On Paper Strike

MONTREAL (AP) - Negotiations between the Canadian International Paper Co. Ltd., CPI, and the union representing 7,500 striking workers at five Eastern Canadian mills resumed yesterday in the presence of provincial conciliator Maurice Vassart.

Neither CIP nor the United Paperworkers International Union, UPIU, would comment on the talks.

The last round of negotiations between the two parties broke off Sept. 19 in a dispute which has shut down five mills including three newsprint mills located at Gatineau, Trois-Rivieres and La Tuque, Que., Hawkesbury, Ont., and Dalhousie, N.B., since early August.

The UPIU is seeking a two-year contract, a cost-of-living escalator clause, more job security and increased benefits.

In the only other major newsprint strike underway, two Quebec newsprint mills owned by the Prince Co. Ltd. remain closed following the Aug. 10 strike by 2,500 workers at Alma and Kenogami, Que. A Price spokesman said yesterday that the latest talks between the company and unions were adjourned Friday, but were expected to resume at Kenogami within a few days.

Details of the bargaining positions of both parties are unavailable.

Dismissal Of Professors Questioned At UVermont

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)-Two University of Vermont committees have reached different conclusions on a recommendation to dismiss four philosophy professors.

The recommendation came from Dr. Stephen Cahn, newly-appointed Philosophy Department chairman.

A review committee appointed by Arts and Sciences Dean John Weiger concurred with the recommendation to dismiss two of the teachers, Dr. Gerald Anderson and Dr. Robert Rice. The committee reached split votes on possible dismissal of Professors James Corcoran and Alan Paskow.

However, another committee appointed by the Union of College Faculty issued a report Monday which supported the four teachers and criticized Cahn's handling of the review process.

The faculty committee report charged Cahn changed the criteria used to evaluate the professors after he became chairman this year. It also claimed the standards varied, and the information had been handled in a selective way.

The final decision on the reappointment of the four professors for the next academic year must come from University President Edward Andrews, on the recommendation of Weiger.

Farmers Almanac Fish Fact Put To Test

TORONTO (AP) - The latest edition of the Farmer's Almanac says a fish can be peached in one cycle of a standard dishwasher.

Stan Wren, co-owner of a Toronto firm dealing with domestic and imported seafood, put the Almanac's claim to a weekend test.

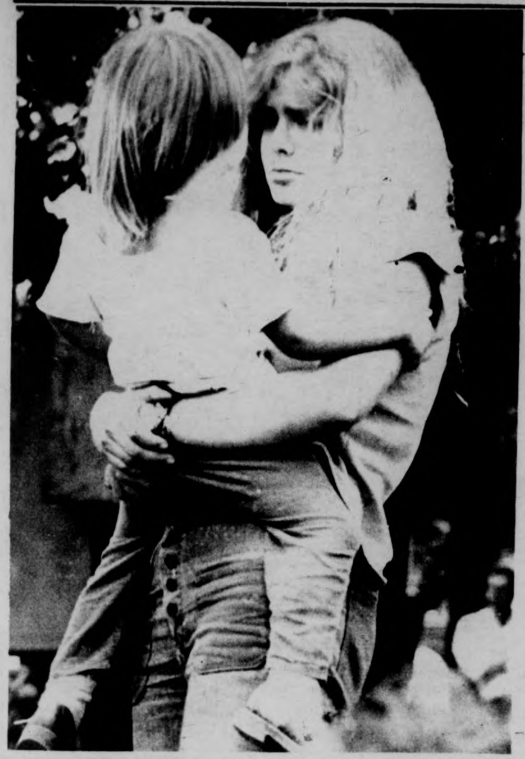
He dressed a six-pound cod with blobs of butter, a sprinkle of salt and garlic powder, a squirt of lemon juice and springs of parsley. He then wrapped the fish individually in double layers of heavy-duty aluminum foil.

A hour later, when the dishwasher had completed its cycle, Wren was astonished at the results.

"Look at the moisture. Look at the way the fish flakes from the bone," he said. "That salmon is done. You couldn't get a salmon as good as that in the oven.

The cod was not quite finished. After further testing, Wren found that cod needed two cycles in the dishwasher.

"Actually," he said, "another cycle wouldn't hurt the salmon either. You do the fish one cycle, then turn it over and put it through again. That way, it'll be perfect."



Staff Photo/David Less

The mother and child reunion is just a motion away. Or where have you been my little one, my little one? And yesterday was John Lennon's birthday.

Death Penalty May Return To Mass

BOSTON (AP) The Massachusetts Senate gave initial approval Tuesday to a measure that would restore the death penalty in Massachusetts in nine specific categories.

The roll call vote was 20-11.

After four hours of emotional debate, the Senate accepted amendments to a broad House-passed bill, breaking down the types of offenses for which the death penalty would be mandatory.

First-degree murder would include the killing of a policeman, fireman or correctional officer during the performance of duty; any murder occurring during a kidnaping; a murder committed by a person previously convicted of murder; a murder commited for a price; a murder during the hijacking of an airplane; a murder during a rape or indecent assault, or any especially cruel or inhuman murder.

Another amendment would oppose the death penalty for a murder commited during a robbery or a breaking and entering felony.

"I think a life is equal to a life, and the taking of a life should be punished by the taking of a life," said Sen. John J. Conte, D-Worcester, who backed the bill. "In the Commonwealth, we tend to be understanding to the point of detrement."

Prisoner's Rights

Court Upholds Confinement Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Supeme Court refused Tuesday to disturb a lower court decision that a Connecticut prisoner's rights were violated when he was confined to a darkened cell with only a hole in the floor for a toilet.

The high court declined without comment to consider Connecticut Atty. Gen. Robert Killian's challenge of the U.S. Circuit Court ruling.

The Appeals Court in New York found that confinement to a so-called strip cell violated the constitutional ban on cruel and unusual punishment.

Donald Joseph LaReau raised the issue in a $50,000 damage suit against the state corrections commissioner and the warden of the Connecticut State Prison at Somers.

The Circuit Court, without stating its own position, told a District Court to resolve the damage claim.

The case concerns LaReau's confinement to a six-by-ten foot cement-walled isolation cell for five days in 1970 while serving a five to 11 year sentence for prison escape.

He was banished to the strip cell after contraband items including a rope made from towels were found in his regular cell.

In a 2-1 decision, the Appeals Court rejected the state's claim that strip cells are an appropriate method of discipline.

"Enforced isolation and boredom are permissible methods of discipline" for limited periods, the majority opinion said.

"But the conditions here went beyond mere coerced stagnation."

"We cannot approve of threatening an inmate's sanity and severing his contacts with reality by placing him in a dark cell almost continuously day and night," the Appeals Court said.

THE FIRST MEETING OF THE NEWLY ELECTED STUDENT SENATE WILL BE HELD TONIGHT AT 6:45 IN ROOM 113 CAMPUS CENTER. SENATORS WILL BE SWORN IN AT THIS TIME SO IT IS IMPORTANT THAT ALL MEMBERS BE PRESENT.

Make No. 2

No. 1

Supreme Court To Hear NE Lobster Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Supreme Court agreed Tuesday to hear the "lobster war" boundary dispute between New Hampshire and Maine.

New Hampshire had asked the court to exercise original jurisdiction in the case. The court agreed and gave Maine 30 days to respond.

Maine had asked that New Hampshire's petition be rejected in favor of further negotiations.

The dispute concerns 2,400 acres fished by lobstermen from both states. This summer, Maine officials arrested several New Hampshire lobstermen and the Supreme Court refused New Hampshire's request for an order barring the arrests.

New Hampshire based its claim on a 1740 order by King George II of England and asserted Maine had no right to claim the boundary that encompassed the 2,400 acres.

Article III, Section 2 of the U.S. Constitution states, among other things, "In all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers and consuls, and those in which a state shall be party, the Supreme Court shall have original jurisdiction." Under that clause the court can hear the case from the beginning without lower federal courts having to hear it.

New Hampshire's suit claimed that based on the 1740 ruling, the boundary between the two states "is a straight line running between the mouth of Portsmouth Harbor and the Isles of Shoals rather than the more southerly crooked line claimed by the state of Maine."

CUSTOM
Black & White film processing and boxframing
for working professionals & semipros
Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions:
On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd.
oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

the
HATCH
COFFEEHOUSE brings you fine
entertainment
every Wednesday

this week featuring
Tom Wilson,
POOR HOWARD
(hopefully) and others
with "Henri" as MC
9:00 P.M. ~ 1:00 a.m.
hatch cafeteria
free!

Phi Sigma Kappa

cordially invites all university women
to visit our chapter house
and find out about our Little Sisters Program

510 North Pleasant St.
WEDNESDAY NIGHT
9:00 p.m.
October 10, 1973

Meet our brothers and little sisters

(AP Wirephoto)

BOSTON, Oct. 5---MAYOR WARNS OF RUMORS--Boston Mayor Kevin H. White is joined by police officials Friday at City Hall are warned that "rumors irresponsibly spread have threatened to blow this city apart." He referred to recent violent deaths in the city. From left are deputy superintendents LeRoy Chase, Charles Berry, Commissioner Robert diGrazia, and Jeremiah Sullivan.

McLucas Wins Reduced Bond

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) - Lonnie McLucas, 29, convicted of conspiracy to murder in a celebrated 1970 Black Panther trial, Tuesday won a reduced bond of $15,000 while he awaits action on an appeal.

McLucas' attorney, Theodore I. Koskoff, predicted that McLucas would be able to raise his new bond "in several days."

Superior Court Judge Harold M. Mulvey, who presided over McLucas' original trial, reduced the bond from $35,000 and praised him for his accomplishments in jail.

Michael Koskoff, who represented McLucas with his father, told Mulvey that the inmate had founded a Jaycees chapter behind bars and had earned a citation from Gov. Thomas J. Meskill for his leadership of inmates at the Montville Correctional Center. McLucas is serving a 12 1/2-15 year sentence stemming from the death of Panther Alex Rackley.

"He has established great ties with the community of Connecticut," the younger Koskoff said.

State's Atty. Arnold Markle opposed the bond request, arguing "this man still has no family in this area."

Markle acknowledged McLucas' accomplishments among his fellow inmates but said that otherwise "there has been no big change that I see." Markle asked Mulvey to maintain the $35,000 bond.

The judge set the original bond after learning that McLucas was wanted in New York State for violating parole in an earlier crime. But Koskoff said the parole violation was later dropped by New York authorities.

Judge Mulvey praised the goateed McLucas for "the progress he has made.

"If you do make bond, I hope you won't do anything foolish. I don't think you will," Mulvey said.

McLucas was sentenced in September 1970 after being convicted of the least serious of four charges against him.

Testifying in his own defense, he admitted firing a shot into Rackley's lifeless body after taking him to a Middlefield swamp with two other Panthers.

Overloaded Trucks Blamed For State Bridge, Highway Damage

BOSTON (AP) - Overloaded trucks are shortening the life span of the state's major bridges and elevated highways and costing untold dollars in maintenance work, two state Department of Public Works experts said yesterday.

The DPW officials were called to testify before the legislature's special commission investigating truck overloads.

Rep. Richard McGrath, D-Watertown, said the truck involved in a fatal accident on the Mystic River Bridge was carrying a load 77,000 pounds over the legal limit.

Asked whether the state's bridges are capable of handling such overloads, John J. McDonagh, deputy chief engineer for the DPW, said that bridges are designed with a "safety factor."

"But we reach a point where the metal will yield and not return to its original shape," he added.

McDonagh said truck overloads are shortening the usual 50 year life span of bridges and such elevated highways as the Southeast Expressway. He said that structure required extensive repairs sooner than expected under normal wear.

John J. Aherne, bridge design engineer for the DPW, concurred.

"The more overloading, the bigger the cracks and the more salt and water get in-a lot faster than it should," Aherne said.

He added that 100,000 cars travel the expressway daily and are being inconvenienced by maintenance that has to be done on the roadway.

"That can't be measured in dollars and cents," he said.

We've Arrived
KALSO earth shoe
264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002 (413) 256-8911

entertainment

HATCH	Wednesday Coffeehouse Thursday, Friday, Saturday "Seagull"
BLUEWALL	Wednesday, Thursday "Sweet Pie" Friday, Saturday "Henry May Band"
T.O.C.	Friday, Saturday Greg Bullen

AMERICA'S LARGEST COAST TO COAST RECORD STORES

OPENING VERY SOON IN AMHERST

We're a few steps from the Triangle Office

discount records
LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING!
257 Triangle Amherst 237-5876

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS
EDITOR IN CHIEF Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR Patrick Coffey

ADVERTISING MANAGER Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR Joyce Kosofsky
TODAY'S STAFF
ISSUE EDITOR Steve Feld
EDITORIAL Jerry Lazar
SPORTS Walt Powers
DARKROOM Steve Smith, Dan Smith, David Less
Kevin Mack
AD LAYOUT Lisa Saunders

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Trying To Eat

By BRAD SANDLERS

"Hey, Fred you going to supper now?" Fred yelled he'd be ready in a minute. He was making sure he had his I.D. with his meal ticket. So far he has only had to go back for it four times, the lowest on his corridor. Just as Fred was going out the door the phone rang. The voice on the other end asked for Fred's roommate, N.D. Gestion. Fred told the woman his roommate wasn't in, and asked if he was Fred to which he replied in the affirmative.

"This is Ms. Capricorn from Food Services and we received comment cards from you and your roommate, Mr. Gestion. Now in reference to your note. First you mentioned the worms in the apples. Those worms had meal tickets and more important, they brought their I.D.'s which is more than I can say for your roommate-he only remembered his once. Next you said the meat was raw. That's absured. Anyways, how could you tell under the gravy?"

"I didn't have any gravy," said Fred.

"Well, that's the problem, our meals are prepared so to enhance the taste of our gravy. And most people get gravy. Remember we are trying to please everyone, and we can't accommodate the few weirdos with strange, exotic tastes in food. And then you told me that you used the mashed potatoes for batting practice. Didn't your mother ever tell you not to play with your food?"

"Uh yeah but...."

"Then why do you insist on being childish? I hope I've been of some help to you. Showing you our side of the story. You know prices have risen tremendously. I'm sure it affected what your mother served you during the summer."

"I stayed on the Cape with some...."

"Well, it caught us by surprise. The price increases, that is. We were budgeted for prices at the turn of the century, but we are working very

(Continued on P. 11)

Reid Fishman

Arab Aggression

For the fourth time in twenty-five years, the nations of the Middle East are at war. This time, it began on Saturday October 6, when Egypt sent troops across the Suez Canal and Syria launched an invasion on the Golan Heights. However, the most astonishing facet of the attack, and that which distresses all Jews and most humane people, is the fact that it was begun on the most holy day of the Jewish year. Yom Kippur, according to the Jewish religion, is the day when all Jews are to refrain from all activity and think back on the previous year, repenting for those wrongs that lie heavily on their consciences. It is more than just a holiday - it is a holy day, and the holiest of them all.

This factor, more than any other, makes the Arab attack the most despicable of crimes against all civilized peoples. To call Israel the aggressor and to condemn it for its military actions is therefore a senseless and intolerable accusation, that must only then be considered as a worthless attempt to justify Arab aggression. It is not enough that Israel has been forced to defend herself continually and successfully since her creation, but while the Arab attacks keep coming, the rallying cry is always that of stopping Israeli "imperialism" and aggression. During Nasser's years in Egypt, it wasn't uncommon to hear him pledge to "push the Israelis into the sea", while in the next breath, point a finger at "Israeli aggression". It is now obvious that that pledge is still firmly embedded in the minds of Egyptian leaders as once again they point the accusing finger at Israel. The acts of aggression now clearly lie with the Arab states of Egypt and Syria and all those that support their actions. Whatever their motives, these states have truly shown that their interest in peace is purely diplomatic and their actual intent is far from that goal. Those that support these states claim that war is the only answer to free those peoples whom they feel are oppressed by Israel. I strongly and wholeheartedly reject this notion and condemn it as being another excuse for Arab aggression. History has proven that war is never the right answer to any problem and that it only serves to hinder the progress of civilization and to create far greater problems than those it was designed to solve. Therefore, any support of willful aggression, no matter what the reason might be, is morally, ethically, and realistically worthless.

We in the United States must continue to voice our support for the state of Isreal and bear in mind that they, not the Arab states, are the victims of aggression. However, we should, in no way, advocate U.S. intervention must be diplomatic in nature, rather than military. We must furthermore advocate the hindrance of any nation wishing to intervene for any other motives.

As individuals, we should support the Israeli defense in any manner which seems feasible and we must not stop until we stem the tide of Arab aggression. The Israelis have fought long and hard to protect their nation from outside domination and we must continue to help them maintain their sovereignty.

Reid Fishman is a Collegian columnist.

Joyce Kosofsky

Food For Thought

Walking home one afternoon with the sun on my back and the feeling that I'm definitely going to flunk out of school this semester, I overheard five UMies discussing where they could get a bite to eat. I heard them mention HoJo's. After the feeling of nausea passed through my body I thought of inviting them to my house. But they'd probably think that I was nuts, so I kept on walking.

But I was still thinking...

Last Year, Claudia and I used to do a lot of cooking for our friends with some sort of success. We're pretty good cooks and no one died of ptomaine or salmonella or anything like that. So I figured that I should capitalize on my talents.

I got the great idea to put a sign in front of my house saying "Home Cooked Meals in My Home-$1.00," with the idea of a few hungry people dropping in. then I figured, I'd get a few steady customers who'd tell their friends. When business started to pick up, I could redecorate the house and set up a patio and start charging more money.

By this time I was half way home and my greedy thoughts got greedier and greedier.

With the thought of getting more money my makeshift restaurant could become an established dining area. I thought of expanding the patio idea into an indoor dining room, and even thought of putting a neon sign in front of the house.

Yeah, I could start a whole business adventure! After the word got out that there was finally a decent place to eat in Amherst, I could open up another branch of my restaurant right in the center of town. Wow, my very own honest-to-goodness restaurant.

But I wouldn't stop there.

Why limit myself to Amherst Center? Surely there are bigger and better worlds for my business adventure.

I figured that after I hit Amherst Center with my great idea, I'd expand once again. Maybe set up another branch in Northampton or Holyoke. Better yet, Route 9 in Hadley.

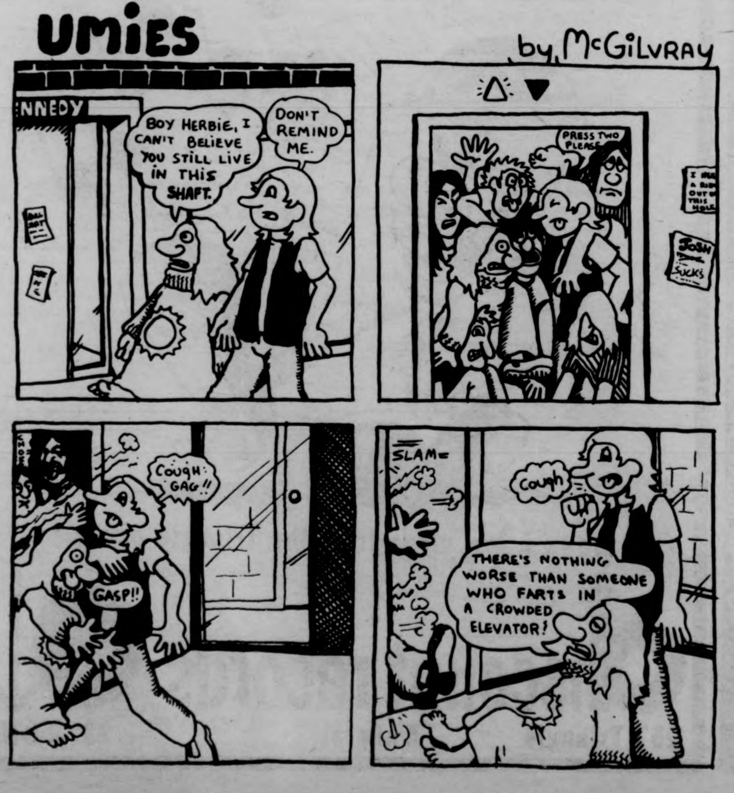
Yeah, I could hit the area pretty heavily with a good place to eat. Once I got established, I could expand again.

Why not set up a whole chain of restaurants? A chain that went from coast-to-coast. Sort of a drive-in quick service organic restaurant. Yeah, that's where it's at. Feeding famished freaks wholesome healthy food at low costs and quick service. Get lots of money together from my business and donate it to some other freak's re-election campaign. Just like some other place we all know and love.

Claudia thought my idea was crazy.

I think I've been working too hard.

Joyce Kosofsky is a Collegian columnist.



UMIES
by McGilvray
NNEDY
BOY HERBIE, I CAN'T BELIEVE YOU STILL LIVE IN THIS SHAFT.
DON'T REMIND ME.
PRESS TWO PLEASE
JOSH SUCKS COUGH-GAG!!
GASP!!
SLAM
COUGH
THERE'S NOTHING WORSE THAN SOMEONE WHO FARTS IN A CROWDED ELEVATOR!

Letters Policy

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian welcomes all letters to the editor. They must be signed, and include the author's address and phone number. Also, all letters must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and no more than two pages.

Organizations may submit letters, but they must include a name and phone number for reference purposes.

All letters are subject to editing, for either content or space, according to the judgement of the editors. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all letters received will be printed.

Letters To The Editor

Arrogant Employment Practices

To The Editor:

Almys has done it again!

On Sat. Sept. 29, approximately 40 low level employees were laid off by the department store in Hadley. Employees were told that the store was overstaffed and the payroll had to be cut when they questioned the assistant managers about the mass layoff. Why then were new sales personel being hired during the previous two weeks? Why were many of those who had worked longest chosen to be fired? Why were full-time employees fired ahead of part-timers?

The answers lie in Almys manipulative and arrogant employment practices. Full-time employees are eligible for a raise from $1.85 to $1.95/hr when they have been with the store for three months. Futhermore the store has to chip in a few bucks a week towards a medical insurance program, give the employees a couple of paid holidays, and vacation time starts to accumulate. From management's point of view it's better to keep turning over the lowest level of help just before the three months when they become eligible for these "benefits". A new salesclerk can be trained in two hours. Most of the discharged group were told on the afternoon of the 29th, "At the end of today's shift, you're through". The office knew all week but chose this abrupt manner to literally kick their old help out the door. When asked why no notice was given an assistant manager replied, "It's Almys company policy not to give any notice to the girls." (Although men were laid off too.) Apparently this store regards employees as something to be used and discarded, especially in this area where there is a constant flow of replacements.

"The girls" are not considered part of the company. Case in point: In any town where there is an Almys, the store contracts with a local dentist to give employees a discount. However store managers are ordered from the front office never to volunteer the information or even the existence of the program to anyone outside of the management clique. Only when specifically questioned by a cashier etc., who somehow learns of the program, should the manager reveal the dentist's name to that individual. Of course in a unionized store management could not get away with this shit. It is unfortunate that there is no legal means of attacking the company. A boycott of Almys is clearly in order until that store can demonstrate positive employee relations.

Mount Holyoke, Smith and Amherst College students receive a 10% discount at Almys, but not University students. Smithies etc. are the type of customer that Almys wants to encourage; the ones that may have bucks to spend on new fashions. It's also good public relations to have a student discount policy. To grant this same discount to Umies would be undesirable since it would be too large (24,000 students) a loss of potential income.

If and when you next go to Almys (I'd rather you didn't), listen to their jingle "At Almys you're important to us" and have a good laugh.

Tony Muncey

Documentation In Support Of Palestine

To The Editor:

In response to Rabbi A. Meir's letter of Oct. 5, where he was commenting on my letter of Sep. 28, for the second time I would like to confirm all the information and the events which mentioned in my letter as documented facts with no "exaggerations" or "falsifications".

First, Mr. Rabbi, I have not only read about those brutal measures of crimes done by the fascist government in Israel against Palestinian civilians, but I have personally witnessed them.

Second, for documents on those still going on Israeli criminal inhuman measures against Palestinians including the concentration camps erected in Abu Zneimeh, Nakhl, Quessima and the 25,000 women, men and children concentration camp in the Sinai desert, I refer you to documents by International Red Cross agencies, Israeli League for Human and Civil Rights, Palestine Red Crescent Society, UNESCO, U.N. Committee on the Elimination of racial Discrimination, U.S. Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Population of the Occupied territories, U.N. Commission on Human Rights...and many others including hundreds of U.N. Security Council and General Assembly condemnations of the government of Israel, these condemnations by the U.N. include 14 specific types of violations of human rights. Also, the harsh, Nazi-like measures taken by Israel against civilian Palestinian population have been reported by James Feron (New York Times), Michael Adams (Manchester Guardian), John K. Cooley (Christian Science Monitor), George Weller (Chicago Daily News Service), David Holden (London Sunday Times), Rowland Evans and Robert Novak and many others. Many comprehensive books have been published (e.g.The Unholy Land by Dr. A.C. Forrest, the Unholy War by David Waines, The Evasive Peace by Dr. John H. Davis, and publications by Institute for Palestine Studies, and for U.N. documents go to Palestine: Concordance of U.N. Resolutions 1967-1970). Hopefully this will update your rusty history information, Mr. Meir! Third, my letter did not contain any "anger" or "hatred" and it was not "unpeaceful", but it seems to me that Mr. Meir cannot comprehend logic and is not able to understand facts. Forrth, if you believe in national self-determination and human civil rights for all peoples and..., simply Mr. Rabbi, the government of Israel with its militant leaders Does Not. If this is untrue why then Golda Meir declares "Palestinians do not exist", and why Moshe Dayan along with his government maintain that the Arabic part of Jerusalem and the West Bank are "not negotiable" in any peace settlement...So, where is the just solution? Let us face it, Mr. Meir, as a realistic person living in the most advanced scientific era of mankind history, I cannot see how we can waste our time listening to the Almighty Power of the Israeli government talking about peace. Considering what Israel is doing to exterminate the Palestinians by all means leaves every thinking human to doubt the value of whatever little contribution of talking behind tables might make toward a better Jewish-Arab understanding. To Palestinians violence is not a satisfactory substitute for reason. However, this sentiment they feel must be reciprocated by others. It is conceded around the world that Israel can make war successfully, but it is important that it demonstrates alike ability to make peace as well.

I am afraid that if Moshe Dayan along with his militant government continues to maintain that not only Israel 1966 but Israel aftermath 1967 is to be "a pure Jewish State", exploiting and denying the rights of 3 million Palestinians, I am afraid if such a situation continues, the voices of peace will be stifled and the seed of peace which was planted by people of goodwill from both nations may be destroyed.

A. Alie

Help Save Trees

To The Editor:

The volume of paper being recycled in the Campus Center and the Student Union has increased greatly. We need person-power to empty the boxes. If you would like to help us or initiate a recycling project in your dorm, contact Coalition for Environmental Quality at 545-0618 or come up to our office in the Plymouth Room in the Student Union. You might even help stem the paper shortage and bring book prices down.

You have heard it all before, but these are the basic guidelines for recycling paper. Computer cards, printouts, newspapers, cartons, magazines, paperbags, letters, memos, xerox, mimeograph, dittocopy (no stencils), phonebooks, catalogs, postcards, match covers (but not matches) and cardboard packaging if it's not plastic covered are alright to put in the bins or recycle boxes. If you put in the following, you are screwing us: carbon paper, stencils, milk cartons, wax paper, coffee cups, photocopy material, cellophane, scotch tape, plastic anything, aluminum foil, pie plates, cigarettes and cigar butts, rubber bands and FOOD. This last category includes any and all organic stuff.

The boxes are located on all floors of the Student Union and the Concourse level of the Campus Center. A map of the bin locations is available from the C.E.Q. office. If you fell victimized as a student, this is one area that you can act in a positive manner. Please help save trees.

Carole Scherer, C.E.Q.

Trying To Eat

(Continued from P. 10)

hard to get you the best quality soy beans. Even if we have to steal them from the livestock feed on Tillson Farm. By the way, when will your roommate be back? He asked why there wasn't an Annual Outdoor Barbecue. And I want to know what he was talking about. I believe there was something of that sort in the Mass Aggie days."

"They're not sure when he'll be back," said Fred.

"Whose not sure?"

"The infirmary."

"Oh, that's too bad. What happened?"

"Right after breakfast he broke into a cold sweat, turned pale and passed out."

"Is he okay?"

"Well, he has trouble eating," explained Fred.

"Uh."

"You see when they try to give him some food his body rejects it as being foreign to the system. It happens when they feed him intravenously. But lately he's been sucking starch from the sheets and seems to be recovering."

"Bye."

The receiver on the other end went down with a bang. Fred was startled for a minute, then he turned and ran to catch up with everyone else. But Fred had to go back, he forgot his I.D. card.

Brad Sandler is a Collegian commentator.

A False Prophet?

To The Editor:

History repeats itself, I'm sorry to say. After years of persecuting one people after another in the name of brotherly love the followers of Jesus have still not learned. I am writing in reference to the leaflets that were anonymously plastered all over campus denouncing Guru Maharaj Ji as a false prophet, an agent of Satan and just about everything but the anti-Christ himself, with a list of biblical references as justification.

Before I continue let me state for the record that I am NOT a disciple or even an admirer of Guru Maharaj Ji. But I am sick and tired of hearing these snot-nosed bigots declare themselves sole proprieters of the Kingdom of Heaven, basing their assumption on a book full of second and third-hand quotes that were often not written down until years after the fact, then rewritten and miscopied for hundreds more until its final translation into the misshapen hodge-podge from which we are presented with 'proof' today.

If Jesus weeps for the sins that man commits in ignorance, think of how He must feel about the ones being committed in His name. When, when, WHEN is Christianity going to pull tself out of the sandbox?

"There are as many ways to God as there are souls of beings and there is only one way." Alpert.

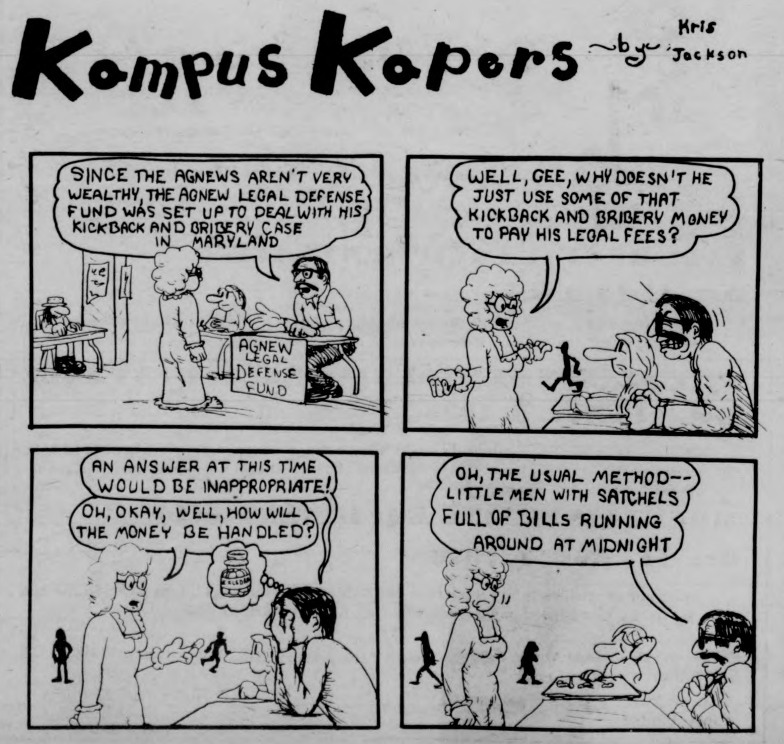
Andrew MacKenzie

Broaden Your Horizon

To The Editor:

This is in response to Mr. Vincent Stakutis letter of Oct. 9. I have met many Hare Krishnas on campus as well as outside. Surprisingly enough, I found them pleasing, determined, peace-loving, and humble, unlike what Mr. Vincent mentioned in his letter. I do not know much about their movement but they do have an objective and a philosophy behind their movement. One may not accept their ideas and views but why criticize them without having any knowledge of the subject. My dear friend, University is a place where you get an opportunity to broaden your horizon and outlook. If you do not like an idea or a movement just do not accept it but please do not despise it and pass ugly remarks on it. Let others have an unbiased look at it.

Vijay Arora



Kompus Kapers ~by~ Kris Jackson
SINCE THE AGNEWS AREN'T VERY WEALTHY, THE AGNEW LEGAL DEFENSE FUND WAS SET UP TO DEAL WITH HIS KICKBACK AND BRIBERY CASE IN MARYLAND
AGNEW LEGAL DEFENSE FUND
WELL, GEE, WHY DOESN'T HE JUST USE SOME OF THAT KICKBACK AND BRIBERY MONEY TO PAY HIS LEGAL FEES?
AN ANSWER AT THIS TIME WOULD BE INAPPROPRIATE!
OH, OKAY, WELL, HOW WILL THE MONEY BE HANDLED?
OH, THE USUAL METHOD-- LITTLE MEN WITH SATCHELS FULL OF BILLS RUNNING AROUND AT MIDNIGHT

Staff Photo/David Less

You can wash in it and drink in it, poison it and damn it. You can live in it and die in it. Run you river run.

L.A. Doctors Get It On

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
APScience Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A California psychiatric team which surveyed the role of sexual behavior in the medical practice of Los Angeles area doctors have found that one in 20 physicians confirmed having sexual relations with patients.

But 95 per cent of the doctors responding to an anonymous questionnaire said they never engage in any erotic practices with patients.

The study is reported in the October issue of the American Journal of Psychiatry. It was conducted by three UCLA researchers: Dr. Sheldon H.Kardener, a psychiatrist; Marielle Fuller, a research associate; and Dr. Ivan N. Mensh, a psychologist.

The researchers said they had received critical letters from some of the 1,000 Los Angeles doctors, all of whom were selected at random for the 32-item questionnaire.

Defending their scholarly intent by noting a lack of research into such questions, the UCLA group wrote, "Where there is no fact, fantasy and fallacy flourish."

Only 460 of the 1,000 doctors queried responded. Staticians say a low response rate raises questions about the opinions of those who don't respond. Their attitudes, if known, might make a substantial shift in the data.

In addition, the 1,000 doctors were chosen from among 10,000 members of the Los Angeles County Medical Society instead of the more than 200,000 practicing physicians in the United States. Attitudes unique to Southern California might be reflected in the study.

The UCLA team defined erotic behavior in patient-physician contact as "primarily intended to arouse or satisfy sexual desire."

When asked, "do you believe erotic contact with a patient might be beneficial?" 80 per cent of the doctors said "never." Twenty per cent said it might, the frequency ranging from rarely to frequently.

When asked directly, "Do you engage in erotic practices?" five per cent responded in the affirmative.

Asked how erotic contact could aid patient treatment, 28 doctors indicated it would help patients overcome sexual problems. "To demonstrate there is no physical cause for absence of libido," one physician replied.

Student Consumer Group Reports Alleged Truth-In-Lending Violations

AUGUSTA, MAINE (AP)-A coalition of college students for consumer action said yesterday it conducted a survey in which 15 Maine banks allegedly violated truth-in lending laws.

The Public Interest Research Group PIRG announced at a news conference it had made telephone inquiries of 144 banks and branch offices, asking for the interest rate on a $3,000, 36-month new car loan.

"Of the banks and branches contacted 44 representing 15 separate institutions quoted the illegal add-on or discount rate either exclusively or in conjunction with the annual percentage rate," said PIRG's executive director, Suzanne Spitz.

In response to a question from a reporter, Ms. Spitz said 100 banks or branches either quoted rates in compliance with state and federal truth-in-lending laws, or refused to reply over the telephone.

The banks, in 14 towns, allegedly not complying with the laws "are violating the acts by quoting misleading interest rates..."

"Maine citizens should not have to be mathematicians to understand credit terms," she continued.

Ms. Spitz said the bank presidents were notified of the violations as well as the state and local banking officials and the Maine Congressional delegation.

The banks and branches allegedly found in violation were in Bangor, Caribou, East Corinth, Fairfield, Farmington, Gardiner, Lincoln, Millinocket, Orono, Portland, Presque Isle, Richmond, Skowhegan and Waterville.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

EMS
Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.
SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT CAMPING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT
POST OFFICE BOX 12 AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01002
Tel. (413) 253-5081
Located on Route 9 at the Amherst-Hadley town line
(413) 253-9504

FALL RENTAL EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11-13 ONLY
30-50 per cent off on all rental equipment depending on condition including down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, framepacks, & tents

PRE-SEASON SKI-TOURING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off most models of touring skis, boots, bindings and poles. Brands on sale include EMS Asnes, Bonna, EMS Madshus, Rieber, Falk VM poles, Rottefella and others.

MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off on many models of down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, frame and day packs, down-filled parkas, tents, gloves, mittens and many other items.

Brands on sale include Alpine Designs, North Face, Gerry, EMS, Janus, Camp Trails, Rough Rider, Bergens, etc.
ALL BICYCLE PACKS 20 per cent OFF
Supply limited
Store Hours . . 9-9, Mon.-Fri.
9-5:30, Sat.

Your Ears Pierced In Minutes
by Trained Registered Nurses Painless! Professional! Safe! Private!
FOR ONLY $9.95 COMPLETE
BONUS VALUE INCLUDES:
- EAR PIERCING.
- ONE PAIR OF 14 KT SOLID GOLD STARTERS.
- PLUS... A SECOND PAIR OF EARRINGS OF YOUR OWN PERSONAL CHOICE FROM A SELECTION OF MAGNIFICENT DESIGNS.

Nurses' Hours FRIDAY - OCT. 12 10 A.M. - 5 P.M. SATURDAY, OCT. 13 10 A.M. - 5 P.M.
SIGNED RELEASE REQUIRED
Minors under 18 must be accompanied by parent.
Ann August
108 MAIN STREET . . . . . NORTHAMPTON, MASS.

"Temporary Art": The Saga Of Sidewalk Sam

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Chalk dust coating his hands, a smudge of color on his face, Sidewalk Sam is bringing art to the feet of sales girls, hard hats and proper matrons on the streets of Boston.

Sidewalk Sam is Robert Guillemin, a 34-year-old professional artist. A couple of days a week, he recreates the paintings of old masters in chalk on the grey concrete monotony of the city's sidewalks.

On the streets, he prefers to be called simply Sam. Sidewalk Sam was inevitable.

"My art is temporary and nobody can buy it. It doesn't become a part of posterity," Sam says. "It's for here and now and it's for everybody.

Sam usually works three days a week. Sunny days. Arriving around ten in the morning, he unfolds a reproduction of the painting he is going to copy, drops a pile of pastol chalks in the pavement and gets down on his knees to work.

A gathering invariably surrounds him. Never large, seldom small, the faces change constantly. There are office girls on coffee break, salesmen making their rounds and tourists marching from one bronze historical marker to the next.

Very quickly, a familiar outline appears. DaVinci's Mona Lisa or Renoir's Girl in the Straw Hat. Or maybe Cezanne, Michelangelo or Rembrandt.

In his own studio, his art is abstract modern. "But I shouldn't dump that tripe on people walking down the street," Sam explained.

Today it is Gilbert Stuart's portrait of George Washington, instantly recognized as the picture on the wall in school.

"This is art for people's sake," Sam explained, "and it's doing the kind of works people are very fond of and familiar with."

Sam's favorite sidewalks are in the center of downtown Boston. Although his works are found elsewhere, he is regularly in front of the Park Street subway station, City Hall and the South Street Meeting House, where a bunch of people dressed as Indians assembled 200 years ago before throwing some British tea into Boston Harbor.

"You know, you get to know certain sidewalks," he said as he worked on Washington's white hair. It was too blue at first. "Some sidewalks are smoother than others and some take chalk better."

There is a dented bucket on the ground nearby. Coins bounce in, even occasional bills. At the end of the day, there might be $20, just about what it costs to cover a 3-foot by 5-foot section of concrete with artist chalk.

At noon, businessmen and lawyers stop on their determined dash to lunch. In their vested, pin stripe suits, they look at a man dressed in sneakers, jeans and turtleneck drawing pictures on the sidewalk. He has a red bandana around his head.

Robert Guillemin was born in Boston, received Bachelor and Master of Fine Arts degrees from Boston University and studied for two years at L'Ecole de Beaux Arts in Paris. He met his wife, Jeannie, in Paris. They have twin sons and live in suburban Newton. She is a sociology professor at Boston College and he has had gallery showings and a university exhibit of his abstract art.

While in Paris, Guillemin noted two things. Artists drawing on the sidewalks with chalk and the old masters at the Louvre, which he copied for practice.

A few months ago, when he decided to combine the chalk and the old masters on the pavement here, there were some problems.

"Any kind of marking on the sidewalk was considered graffiti," Sam explained. Late this summer, Sam was attached to the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs and graffiti became art.

Shoppers carrying their department store bags and construction men heading home before the evening rush come by. They stop, look and nod approvingly. Sam talks with some, acknowledges every comment and keeps working.

"Nice job. This guy's an artist," says one of the 20 people looking over Sam's shoulder.

"Here I am, out on the street, which is considered a dangerous jungle, and I find nothing but warmth and affections and friendship," said Sam. "I think people know what I'm doing is basically decent."

It is late afternoon when Sam steps back to take that final look. George Washington: white hair, high forehead, high collar and black coat fading out at the bottom. Just the way it looked above the blackboard. "I'm surprised at how good some of them look in chalk on the sidewalk," said Sam.

It will, of course, be gone in a few days, victim of raindrops or malicious feet. Some last a week, but few survive longer. While they are there, people pause in their daily routine, look for a time and walk on.

The impermanence doesn't bother Sam.

"Everything in this city is subject to flux and chance and I think art should be too," he said. "Why should art be around for two or three centuries? What I do, I like."

AMHERST Seafood MARKET
*Clam Bakes Catered
*Lobsters
*Clams
*Fresh Fish
103 Shops — N. Pleasant
Amherst

Fire Safety Group Releases Data

BOSTON (AP) — Losses from fires that either were set or were of suspicious origin increased more than 22 per cent last year to an estimated $285.6 million, the National Fire Protection Association reported yesterday.

The annual report of the Boston-based non-profit organization, which calls itself a "clearing house of fire safety information," said schools, churches and restaurants were particular targets for incendiaries.

The number of such fires rose 16.8 per cent to 84,200 last year, the report said.

The report said 11,000 persons were killed last year in the United States in 2,757,600 fires of various origins which caused $2.93 billion in property damage. The year before, the report said, 11,850 persons were killed in 2,728,200 fires which caused $2.7 billion in damage.

The worst loss of life in 1972 occurred when 91 men died May 2 in the Sunshine Mine fire in Kellogg, Idaho.

Other major losses of life included 39 killed in a fire Feb. 1 aboard the tank ship V.A. Fogg off Galveston, Tex., and 22 killed when an aircraft crashed Sept. 24 into an ice cream parlor and parking lot in Sacramonto, Calif.

The report said six other fires in 1972 claimed at least 10 lives each.

The largest loss of property in 1972 was experienced Oct. 10 in an $8 million blaze which destroyed two livestock buildings at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. Authorities said that fire was set by juveniles trying to cover a theft of electronic equipment.

Other major losses to property were a $7.5 million explosion and fire Jan. 22 in a railroad freight yeard in East St. Louis, Ill., and a $6.5 million explosion March 15 at an electric generating plant in Playa del Ray, Calif.

The report said eight other fires in 1972 did at least $3 million damage each.

The report said it found that:

-The value of property destroyed by children playing with matches was estimated at $74.6 million in 1972, up from $72.2 million the year before. The number of such fires dropped from 70,400 to 69,200 in 1972.

-Residential fires killed 6,600 persons in 1972. There were 562,500 fires in one-and two-family dwellings which caused $638.5 million in damage. There were 109,000 apartment fires which caused $151.6 million in damage.

-Fire occurred more often in dwellings and motor vehicles that anywhere else. Such fires were responsible for more than half of all fire deaths reported in 1972, accounted for 40.4 per cent of all fires and for 26.2 per cent of all property loss.

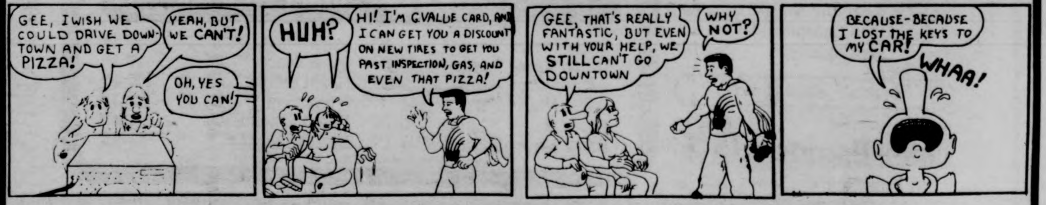
-The numbers of fires reported in grass, brush and rubbish dropped by 7.1 per cent in 1972, "perhaps due to widespread banning of outdoor burning to limit air pollution."

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

MDC Classifieds
75¢ First Day
50¢
Each Additional Day

Are you selling your VW?
We are buying all models of good used VW's for top dollar prices - See our used car manager.
So, before you trade your VW. Get a better deal from the pros at . . .
NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN
246 King St., (Rte. 5)
Northampton 584-8620
USED CARS

VILLAGE INN
DRAKE
LOWENBRAU OKTOBERFEST
ON DRAFT
Restaurant Open 'til 2 a.m.



GEE, I WISH WE COULD DRIVE DOWNTOWN AND GET A PIZZA!
YEAH, BUT WE CAN'T!
OH, YES YOU CAN!
HUH?
HI! I'M G.VALUE CARD, AND I CAN GET YOU A DISCOUNT ON NEW TIRES TO GET YOU PAST INSPECTION, GAS, AND EVEN THAT PIZZA!
GEE, THAT'S REALLY FANTASTIC, BUT EVEN WITH YOUR HELP, WE STILL CAN'T GO DOWNTOWN
WHY NOT?
BECAUSE-BECAUSE I LOST THE KEYS TO MY CAR!
WHAA!

On Campus Wed., Thurs., Fri. Concourse between C.C. & S.U.

Supreme Court To Examine Conduct Of Servicemen Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Supreme Court agreed yesterday to a government plea to examine a lower court decision striking down a key provision of the system of military law that governs the conduct of servicement.

The government appealed a decision by the U.S. Circuit Court here which overturned the conviction of Marine Pvt. Mark Avrech under a section of the Uniform Code of Military Justice which prohibits, among other things, "all conduct of a nature to bring discredit upon the armed forces."

The Circuit Court said the provision is unconstitutionally vague and "gives no fair warning of the conduct it prescribes."

Avrech was convicted in 1969 for attempting to publish a statement questioning American involvement in Vietnam. The government had claimed that the decision would disrupt the orderly administration of military justice.

At the same time, the Supreme Court took no action in a similar government appeal in a much-publicized case involving Dr. Howard B. Levy, a former Army dermatologist.

Levy, an Army captain, refused to train special forces aid men bound for Vietnam. He was convicted in 1967 of refusing to obey a direct order and of violating a military code article prohibiting "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman," as well as the same article under which Avrech was convicted.

In Levy's case, the U.S. Circuit Court at Philadelphia voided the two articles relating to conduct for much the same reasons as those voiced by the appeals court in Washington.

SHOP FINAST® FOR SAVINGS!
at our Frozen Food Sale!

Howard Johnsons Macaroni & Cheese 12 oz pkg 38c

FINAST RAIN CHECK POLICY
If an advertised special is ever sold out please ask the manager for a rain check. It entitles you to the same item at the same price the following week. Or if you wish we will gladly give you a comparable item at the same low price. Thank You.

Finast®
FIRST NATIONAL STORES

FINAST DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK MEAT GUARANTEE
Finast meats can't be beat ... and we are so sure we can please you we offer to give you double your money back on any meat you purchase, if you are not completely satisfied. (Just return the unused portion along with the package label and register tape).

Sara Lee Apple Pies 33 oz pkg 99c

Finast Frozen Vegetable Sale!
Sweet Corn In Butter Sauce
Green Beans In Butter Sauce
Mixed Vege. In Butter Sauce
Sweet Peas In Butter Sauce
Your Choice ... Stock-Up and Save! 10 oz pkg 29c
Birds Eye Broccoli Spears 3 10 oz pkgs $1
Morton Cream Pies Banana, Chocolate, Lemon, Coconut 14 oz pkg 29c
Freezer Queen "Cook in bag" Gravy & Turkey, Chicken Ala King, Meat Loaf, Salisbury Steak or Veal Parmigian 3 5 oz pkgs 89c

Freezer Queen Skillet Dinners
Chop Suey Vegetables with Beef
Rice Oriental With Beef Pattie Krumbles
Macaroni or Shells with Beef Pattie Krumbles
Noodles With Beef Pattie Krumbles in Sauce or Stroganoff
Your Choice ... Stock-Up and Save! 16 oz pkg 59c
Shoestring Potatoes Maine Special 3 20 oz pkgs $1
Fleischmanns Egg Beater 16 oz pkg 75c
Sara Lee Cup Cakes Chocolate, Yellow Double Chocolate 16 oz pkgs 79c

First O'the Fresh Produce Dept!
Cantaloupes Simply Delicious Served with Finast Sherbet 3 for $1
Cortland Apples All Purpose US No. 1 2¼" Min. 3 lb bag 59c
Green Peppers Salad Favorite lb 29c
Red Onions Brighten Salads With Color lb 29c
Butternut Squash or Des Moines lb 9c
Chicory or Escarole lb 29c Egg Plant lb 29c
Family Circle Illustrated Library of Cooking A delightful offer to you VOLUME I for only 29c Volume 2 thru 16 $1.69 each

Bathroom Tissue Soft-Weve 3 89c
Everyone's Favorite Nestles Chocolate Quik 59c

Seafood Specials!
Seafood Delight Flounder Fillet 89c lb
Butterfly Scrod Haddock Fillet lb 99c
Red Snapper Fillet lb 99c
Jumbo Smelts lb 79c

In Store Bake Shop
in Stores with in store Bake Shop Only
Plain, Sugar, Cinnamon Cake Donuts one doz 49c
Fresh Pumpkin Pie 25 oz pkg 79c

Semi Boneless Hams Fully Cooked-Water Added Bake it for a great Family Treat Slice it for Sandwiches $1.19 lb
Finast Water Added Smoked Pork Butts lb 1.39

Quarter Loin Pork Chops Equal Amount of Sirloin Hip and Center Cut Chops 99c lb
Pork Chops Center Cut $1.39 lb
Pork Roast Boneless Loin $1.39 lb

Chicken Parts Breast Quarters With Wing lb 55c Leg Quarters (With Back) 53c lb
Chicken Breasts Fresh Whole lb 89c
Chicken Thighs Fresh lb 69c
Chicken Drumsticks Fresh lb 75c

Full Cut Loin USDA Choice - A Great Steak for the Whole Family
Porterhouse or T-Bone Steak (Bone In) $1.79 lb
USDA Choice Cube Steak Boneless Chuck lb 1.69
USDA Choice Top Round Steak Boneless lb 1.89
USDA Choice Stew Beef Boneless Chuck lb 1.39
USDA Choice Calif. Roast Semi-Boneless Chuck lb 1.09
USDA Choice Top Sirloin Steak Boneless lb 1.89
USDA Choice Beef Short Ribs Bone In lb 99c

Patty Mix With Beef Freshly Ground Beef plus Hydrated Vegetable Protein Does everything Ground Beef Can Do ... Deliciously! 89c lb
Ground Beef 99c lb
Ground Chuck $1.09 lb
Ground Round $1.29 lb

Oscar Mayer Wieners lb 1.29
Oscar Mayer Smokie Links 12 oz pkg 1.29
Oscar Mayer Braunchweiger 8 oz tube 65c
Oscar Mayer Boneless Ham Sliced 8 oz pkg 1.39
Oscar Mayer Olive Loaf Sliced 8 oz pkg 79c
Oscar Mayer Bacon Sliced 1 lb pkg 1.59
Oscar Mayer Chopped Ham Sliced 8 oz pkg 1.09
Oscar Mayer Hard Salami Sliced 8 oz pkg 1.35
Finast Franks Skinless 1 lb pkg 99c All Beef 1 lb pkg 1.09
Franks Colonial Skinless 1 lb pkg 1.15 All Beef 1 lb pkg 1.19
Finast Sliced Bacon 1 lb pkg 1.29
Swift's Brown n' Serve Sausage All Varieties 8 oz pkg 95c
Prices in the Ad Effective Mon Oct 8 thru Sat Oct 13, 1973

Farm Fresh Dairy From Finast!
Hoods Yogurt Swiss Style All Flavors 4 8 oz cups $1
Hoods - Regular or Country Style Cottage Cheese 2 lb ctn 99c
Pizza Cheese Sargento Shredded 8 oz pkg 69c
Orange Juice Finast 100% Pure half gal 59c
Be Sure to Look for Our Dairy Products Freshness Dating Dictionary in Our Dairy Department!

Welch's Fruit Punch or Welchade Grape Drink 3 $1
Stock Up and Save Heinz Ketchup 27c

Mr. Deli Specials!
Freshly Sliced to Order - half lb Boiled Ham Domestic 99c
Mr. Deli Bologna Freshly Sliced to Order half lb 75c
Weavers Chicken Roll half lb 99c
Roast Beef Freshly Sliced to Order qtr lb 79c
Available in Stores with Service Deli

Health & Beauty Aids!
MFG LIST 2.49 Listerine Mouth Wash 32 oz btl 1.39
MFG LIST 98c Lectric Shave Williams 3 oz btl 77c
MFG LIST 1.09 Aqua Velva Shave Lotion 4 oz btl 73c
MFG LIST 89c Bromo Seltzer 2¼ oz btl 59c

15c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of one pkg 15 Bes Pak Tall Kitchen Bags MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast
35c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of one 6 oz jar Maxwell House Instant Coffee MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast
40c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of one 40 oz ctn Ajax Cleaner Reg Ret 1.02 MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast
10c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of one 49 oz pkg All Detergent Reg Ret 81c MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast
15c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of one 28 oz btl Top Job Liquid Cleaner Reg Ret 73c MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast
18c off With This Coupon Toward purchase of 3-5 oz bars Zest Soap Reg Ret 27c MFG Valid thru Oct. 13 Finast

We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities
"MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley"

Allen Will Advise On University-Wide Basis

UMass President Robert Wood announced today that Dwight Allen, in addition to his responsibilities as Dean of the University's School of Education at Amherst, will take on additional duties advising the President on a University-wide basis.

Dean Allen will assist the President regarding a variety of issues relating to educational innovation and outreach, both within the Unvversity and-in cooperation with other colleges and universities in Massachusetts and throughout New England.

To begin with, President Wood has asked Dean Allen to assist him on three specific projects:

1. Evaluating the pace and status of educational change within the University;

2. Serving as the President's chief representative on the inter-institutional Professional Advisory Task Force which is involved in planning for a Massachusetts Open University; and

3. Working with the New England public university presidents and their Joint Operations Committee to explore regional approaches to improving teaching throughout the area.

In announcing the appointment, President Wood said, "I know this new association will be constructive and fruitful, and of invaluable assistance to the University as it confronts the difficult educational challenges of the 1970's."

Wood Appoints Saloma As Advisor For Intern Programs

UMass President Robert Wood announced today that John S. Saloma III will serve as Advisor for Intern Programs.

In announcing the appointment, President Wood said the current academic year will be a "planning and development year for public service internships at the University of Massachusetts."

Dr. Saloma's primary responsibility will be to advise on the development of a major innovational University-wide program providing students with opportunities for direct personal involvement in governmental and political processes.

President Wood said Dr. Saloma will work closely with the University's Boston and Amherst campuses, both of which already have significant public service intern programs. Among them are the federally sponsored University Year for Action program and programs of the newly opened College of Public and Community Service at UMass-Boston.

The programs to be developed by Dr. Saloma will include a Washington program geared to state and local government and community interests in national policy; a program of internships in Massachusetts government and politics; and a program of "new federalism" internships organized around developments in federal state-community relations

Dr. Saloma's appointment is for the academic year 1973-74. He is also jointly serving as executive of the Panel on Fellowships at the John F. Kennedy Institute of Politics, Harvard University.

Dr. Saloma was a professor in the Politics Department of College II at UMass-Boston during the 1972-73 academic year, and previously was an associate professor of Political Science at M.I.T.

He holds M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in political economy and government from Harvard University and a B.S. degree from M.I.T. He was also a Fulbright scholar at the Loddon School of Economics.

He is the author of Congress and the New Politics (1969) and co-author of Parties, the Real Opportunity for Effective Citizen Politics (1972).

Dr. Saloma has also served in an internship program himself, as a Congressional Fellow of the American Political Science Association. He was selected by U.S. Jaycees in 1969 as one of the Ten Outstanding Young men of America.

Bad Oil Policy Seen In Boston

BOSTON (AP) - The chairman of the legislature's Commission on Marine Resources said yesterday that Edward King, executive director of the Massachusetts Port Authority, is "stampeding an off-shore tanker terminal and refinery complex in the Boston area."

Bulger said his commission will hold hearings on the MassPort project in November.

MEET THE COLLEGE HEROS AT THE HUNGRY-U

103 N. PLEASANT ST.
253-9080
PIZZAS TOO!!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Libra is drawn to Aries, even though these are opposite signs. Libra often marries Aries, goes into partnership with Aries, fights and loves with Aries and is puzzled, flabbergasted and delighted with Aries. So many startling changes nave occurred in the lifestyles of Libra that these natives feel now as if a merry-go-round was whirling and they were going all the way for a brass ring. Conditions settle favorably, especially in a financial sense, for many of these natives, beginning next month, in November.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Lunar cycle is high; take initiative. Make new start. Hightlight independence of thought, action. Trust your own judgement. Sense of timing is sharp. Your originality, pioneering spirit surges to forefront. Ignore those who are jealous.

TAURUS (April 20 -May 20): Secrets are featured. Make inquiries. Do some personal investigating. Keep promise to one confined to home, hospital. Co-operate in project aimed at helping those who are incapacitated. Gemini, Virgo persons could figure prominently.

GEMINI (May 211-June 20): Accent is on friends, hopes and desires. Protect business interests. Refuse to give up something for nothing. What seems adverse could boomerang in your favor. Pisces individual might play key role. Be selective. Insist on quality.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis is on responsibility, authority, willingness to back beliefs with investments of time or money, or both. Capricorn might play significant role. Civic project, business deals--these rate high on your agenda.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Good lunar aspects now coincide with writing, advertising and generally "spreading the message." Long-range view is necessary. Travel and a broadening of horizons--these are featured. You get rid of outmoded concepts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): New deal with finances indicated--mate or partner proves valuable ally. Be sure you make your own decisions. Means right or wrong, it is your style, your play that counts. Know it and respond accordingly. Tap creative resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Lie low. Permit one close to you to take initiative. You do best now as a shrewd observer who listens, learns. Family and legal complications result if you push, force, insist. Be receptive. Collect needed data.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Maintain even level--obtain hint from Libra message. Accent is on routine, health, what you do to relieve tension. Sagittarius, Gemini persons could figure prominently. Reach accord with fellow workers, those who share interests and goals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent is on the creative process. You feel, perceive and imprint your individual style. Young persons, members of opposite sex figure prominently. Aquarius, Leo natives could figure in plans. Be open to change of procedure.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): One in home area is inquisitive. Find ways of answering. Don't be upset by verbal onslaught. Analyze reasons, motives. Your sense of security will be enhanced if you deal with situation rather than attempting to ignore it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Study Capricorn message. One at home wants very much to open line of communication. Make it easier. Bend. Receive. Harmony is a key now to progress and to your health. Taurus, Libra persons may be in picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): If selective, you gain financially. Insist on quality. Eschew get-rich-quick maneuver. Accent is on collecting what you need. You can put together missing links. Know it and proceed with confidence. Natural abilities are magnified.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Permit
4 Eats
9 Man's name
12 Beverage
13 Vegetable
14 Girl's name
15 Unrestrained
17 Piece of linen
19 Challenged
21 Female (colloq.)
22 Skin of fruit
24 Land measure
26 Dampens
29 Mistake
31 Obtained
33 Drink slowly
34 Symbol for tantalum
35 Negative
37 Household pet
39 A state (abbr.)
40 Superlative ending
42 Emerged victorious
44 Distance runner
46 Hind part
48 Insect egg
50 Additional
51 Shallow vessel
53 Liquid measure
55 Charted
58 Center
61 Devoured
62 Flower
64 Meadow
65 Youngster
66 Sows
67 Still

DOWN

1 Ordinance
2 Guido's high note
3 Delicate
4 Entrance
5 Interior
6 Symbol for nickel
7 Vast age
8 Stump of a tooth
9 Part of leg (pl.)
10 Capuchin monkey
11 Girl's name
16 Claw
18 Animal's foot
20 Canine
22 Man's name
23 Wipe out
25 Physician (colloq.)
27 Striped animal
28 Extra
30 Quarrel
32 Scottish cap
36 Measure of weight
38 Measured duration of 41 Hit lightly
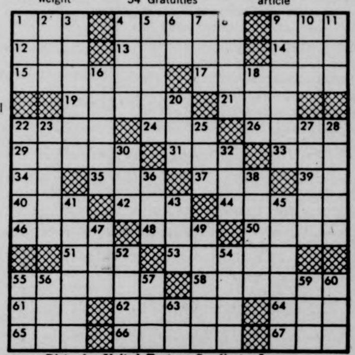
43 Nothing
45 Haughty
47 Knock
49 Shy
52 Seines
54 Gratuities
55 Small rug
56 Indonesian tribesman
57 Owing
59 Confederate general
50 Dine
53 French article

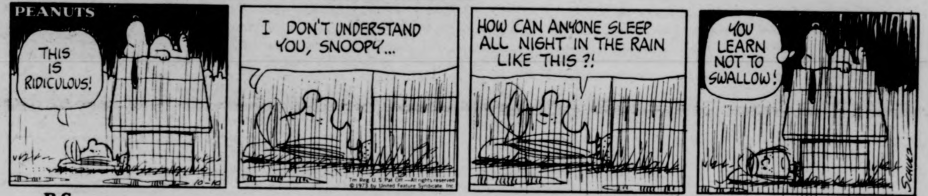
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

R	A	M	■	A	C	E	S	■	R	E	A	L
O	R	A	■	C	A	N	E	■	E	R	I	E
O	E	R	■	E	N	G	E	N	D	E	R	S
F	A	K	I	R	■	I	D	E	A	■	■	■
■	■	E	D	■	A	N	Y	■	C	E	N	T
L	A	D	■	T	I	E	■	S	T	R	A	Y
A	G	■	M	A	T	■	S	O	S	■	M	R
M	E	D	A	L	■	S	A	W	■	L	E	O
E	D	E	N	■	S	P	Y	■	A	A	■	■
■	■	■	A	M	U	R	■	H	I	D	E	S
T	A	N	G	E	R	I	N	E	■	D	I	E
A	L	O	E	■	E	T	O	N	■	E	R	A
P	A	R	R	■	R	E	D	S	■	R	E	T

10



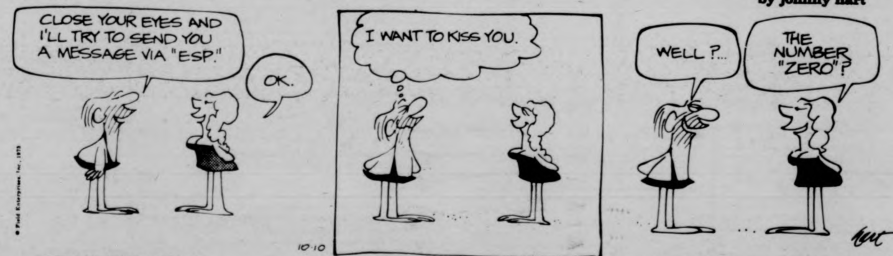
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 10



PEANUTS
THIS IS RIDICULOUS!
I DON'T UNDERSTAND YOU, SNOOPY...
HOW CAN ANYONE SLEEP ALL NIGHT IN THE RAIN LIKE THIS ?!
YOU LEARN NOT TO SWALLOW!
10-10
Tm Reg U.S. Pat Off —All rights reserved © 1973 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
SCHULZ

B.C.

by johnny hart



CLOSE YOUR EYES AND I'LL TRY TO SEND YOU A MESSAGE VIA "ESP." OK.
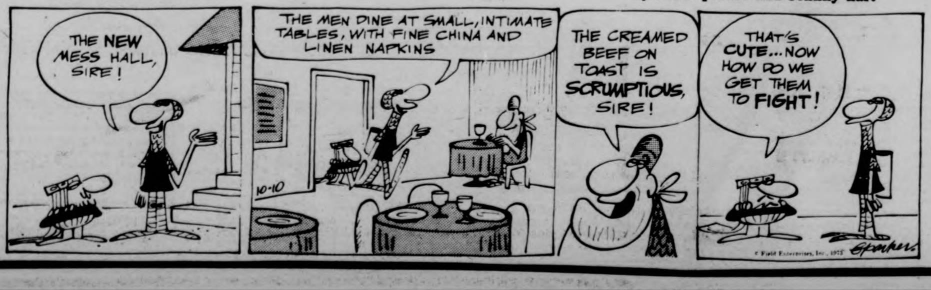
I WANT TO KISS YOU.
WELL ?...
THE NUMBER "ZERO"?
10-10
© Field Enterprises, Inc. 1973
hart

THE WIZARD OF ID

by Brant parker and Johnny hart



THE NEW MESS HALL, SIRE!
THE MEN DINE AT SMALL, INTIMATE TABLES, WITH FINE CHINA AND LINEN NAPKINS
10-10
THE CREAMED BEEF ON TOAST IS SCRUMPTIOUS, SIRE!
THAT'S CUTE... NOW HOW DO WE GET THEM TO FIGHT!
© Field Enterprises, Inc. 1973
parker

Harpsichordist Ralph Kirkpatrick

Celebrity Harpsichordist To Play

Ralph Kirkpatrick, one of the world's great harpsichordists, will open the UMass Fine Arts Council Celebrity Series with two concerts Oct. 17 and 18.

He will perform works of Bach, Couperin and Scarlatti at two different programs, both at 8 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium. In addition to the evening performances, Mr. Kirkpatrick will participate in a master class and demonstration. Attendance at this event will be limited and those interested should contact the Fine Arts Council office for further details.

Born in Leominster, he began his musical career at age six, studying pianoforte with his mother. While at Harvard he began to play the harpsichord and won a John J. Knowles Paine traveling scholarship. He studied in Paris with Wanda Landowska and Naidia Boulanger and in less than two years was teaching at the Mozartteum of Salzburg.

Mr. Kirkpatrick made his harpsichord debut at Cambridge and subsequently has appeared in virtually every major music capital in the United States and Europe.

Tickets for both performances may be obtained at the Fine Arts Council Box Office, 125 Herter Hall (413-545-0202); UMass students are $1.50, others are $3.

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Psychology" (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "The Swing Shift" (22)
MISTER ROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES "Miss Royal Highness" (30)
GOMER PYLE "Gomer and the Phone Company" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "Where There's A Will." (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy Meets Danny Kaye" (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "Gomer the Privileged Character." (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Movies are Your Best Escape." (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "The Beautiful Children." (18)
ZOOM! (24) (57)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "The Other Woman." (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night Of the Bubbling Death." (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
UNTAMED WORLD (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 WHAT IN THE WORLD (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VEN DYKE SHOW "Dear Sally Rogers" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (3)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 THE PRICE IS RIGHT (3)
YOU ASKED FOR IT (8)
GREEN ACRES "How To Enlarge A Bedroom." (18)
THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES Peter Marshall, host (22)
FRENCH CHEF (24) (57)
ANIMAL WORLD (30)
DRAGNET "The Shooting" (40)
8:00 THE SONNY AND CHER COMEDY HOUR (3)
DEAL WITH THE ISSUES (8)
THE CHAMPIONS "The Experiment" (18)
ADAM-12 "Venice Division." (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARINGS (24) (57)
BOB AND CAROL AND TED AND ALICE (40)
8:30 MOVIE "Don't Be Afraid Of The Dark." (8) (40)
MYSTERY MOVIE "Joyride to Nowhere" (22) (30)
9:00 CANNON "Murder By Proxy" (3)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "The Hungry Glass" (27)
10:00 DAN AUGUST "Epitaph For a Swinger" (3)
DOC ELLIOT (8) (40)
LOVE STORY "All My Tomorrows" (22) (30)
NEWS (27)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEW, WEATHER, SPORTS, (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)

Alumni Directs Phonothon

Mr. Frank S. Sottile, Springfield Branch manager of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, will direct the Greater Springfield Phonothon for the UMass Alumni Fund.

The Phonothon, being conducted for the first time in the Springfield area, will last from Monday, Oct. 29, through Thursday, Nov. 15. About 215 UMass alumni will telephone 3,100 fellow-alumni in Hampden County for donations which will be used for the Alumni Scholarship Program, library enrichment programs, and other needs at UMass.

Mr. Sottile is a 1952 graduate of UMass who began his Sun Life career in 1954 after two years as an Air Force supply officer. In 1956 he became district supervisor, later senior district supervisor, and in 1963 was appointed branch manager for Hartford.

From 1964 to 1968 he was vice president of Security Connecticut Life, executive vice president of Connecticut Life, and general agent for Lafayette Life. He returned to Sun Life in 1968 as manager of the Springfield branch office.

Mr. and Mrs. Sottile and their three children live in Simsbury, Conn.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

No. 2 isn't always second.

Colonel Sanders Big Clam Fry...

Wednesdays and Thursdays, Only...

----------Feeds 4 - 6----------
Boat of tendersweet baby clams
Quart of French Fries
Pint of Cole Slaw
Quart of Soda
$4.99
-------Clip the coupon-------

Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Rte. 9 (across from Zayre's) Hadley
256-8745

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

Goranites —
I may be thin
I may be tall
My hair may be long or not long at all.
I may be seen each day in rain or sunlight.
But my phantom writings occur only at night.
You ask who is it with an identity so obscure?
I may live far away . . .
Or maybe next door.
tf10-9

Garage wanted — Lockable - within 10 miles of campus. Call Jack 549-6468, leave message.
tf10-10

Student Activities Policy Council needs involved people. Submit resume at the Student Senate Office, 420 SU by 10/10. Any questions, call David Booker, 5-0341.
tf10-10

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.
tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

Whoever found my yellow notebook — Mythology 225 — please call 6-4073, reward.
tf10-11

Experienced Photographer desperately needs use of darkroom. Will negotiate. Hurry! Please call 6-6369 or 6-6351. Keep trying — Paula.
tf10/12

PERSONAL

To the Klig — Happy One Year Anniversary! Love always Bev.
tf10/10

Washington: I'll give you an encore that you'll never forget!!! Stoney.
tf10/10

Billie-Jo: Did you ever hear about the tortoise and the hare? Pat Garrett P.S. Deadwood is what your pine box will be made of!
tf10/10

U-Pukeds! Today 7 points, tomorrow a win (But what about Karl's story)! Congratulations from your Groupies.
tf10/11

10-4 Ellie-Nor! Happy Birthday from Barbara Scott. All the way with Ellen Rae! Sorry I'm late!
tf10/10

To the blunt Aquarian from L.I. in 508 McNamra — Artie, get the dog. Happy Belated 18th. All my love, Sagittarius.
tf10/10

Hey you! Number 2 really does try harder.
tf10/12

HELP WANTED

Part & full day office work available immediately, experience necessary. Sandy's Secretarial Service, 584-1000.
tf10-10

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.

ask for Charlotte

Help wanted — reliable mother's helper. Thursdays, 11:45-5:45 p.m., good pay. Call 256-0589 evenings.
tf10-10

HELP WANTED

Piano accompianist needed for ballet classes in Gfld., approx times 4-7:30, MWF. Call collect after 8 p.m. 773-5179, Mrs. Louis Gexler.
tf10-10

Cashiers, concession, doorman, asst man. Part-time: Eves or wknds, 3 days/wk. Call 533-3300 or apply in person. Victory Theatre, Hol.
tf10-10

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie.
tf11

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings.
tf10-16

Artists — we need a few good illustrators to work on an animated movie. If interested call Alan at 253-7850. Leave name and no.
tf10-11

Secretary for Commuter Assembly, 15 hrs. work. Apply Commuter Lounge, M-W-F, 11:30-5, T-Th, 2:30-4. Must be undergrad commuter.
tf10-11

Pizza people, delivery people, counter help. Apply in person or call the Hungry U, 256-6350.
tf10-15

LOST NOTEBOOK

Says "Progressive Age" in upper right hand corner. If found, please contact Steve at 546-6390.
tf10/10

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

1971 Yamaha 200cc, exc. cond., $350 or best offer. Call Vivien at 546-5280 evenings.
tf10-11

WANTED

Hey Bud! Number 2 wants to make you wiser. Watch for details.
tf10/12

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth.
tf10-12

Needed — lead guitar and drummer, must have instrument and trans. Paid rehearsal time. Call Mike between 3 and 5, 527-9830.
tf10-12

Dehumidifier, freezer; also need volleyball set for Oct. 13, will rent or buy. For sale — humidifier, $5. Bob or Suzanne, 256-0503.
tf10-10

Wanted — used floor loom or large table loom, must be at least a four harness. Phone 533-9406 anytime.
tf10-10

Sm. house to rent — Conway, Colrain vicinity, two bdrm. pref. 323-6628 after 5.
tf10-11

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531.
tf10-17

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

FOR RENT

4 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton, 584-3428.
tf10-12

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.
tf10/18

Large fur. room with ½ bath in private home, $60 per mo. Want one able to babysit for 1 child, 1 hr. 3 nights a week. 256-8948 after 3 p.m.
tf10-11

Motorhome for rent by the week or day, completely self-contained, sleeps eight. Call 772-0383.
tf10-15

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland on bus line, $150 per mo. rent, includes utilities. Call 665-4189 or 665-3958 & ask about apt. no. 124.
tf10-11

Huge 8-room apt., 20 minutes from campus, heat and utilities included, $250, negotiable. Call 538-7897 after 6 and weekends.
tf10-11

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month.
tf10/19

INSTRUCTION

Energy crisis — 1 cr. mini-course, no pre-req., physics 190 C., M-W-F, 11:15, Oct. 10 to Nov. 9. Call Prof. Hoffman, 545-0933 for details.
tf10-10

Notices

AIKIDO
Meetings Weds. and Fri. 6:30-8:30 p.m., Sun. 2:30-4:30 p.m. All welcome.

AL VET. GRAD. STUDENTS
Veterans Office needs tutors! Veteran grads are urged to register as possible tutors for undergrads. Rm. 241, Whitmore. Standard rates paid.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA
Meeting for all potential new members on Thurs., 10/11 at 4:00 in Rms. 168-170 C. Turn rt. at bottom of escalators.

AMATEUR RADIO ASSOC.
Meeting to discuss keys and code practice for any and all. Any newcomers welcome to "ham" radio.

ATTENTION ALL VETERANS
Veterans Affairs Office is now located in Whitmore 241. 5-1346.

BOLTWOOD VOLUNTEERS
Volunteers are needed to take residents to the Belchertown Town Fair, Friday, 10/12. Busses will leave Whitmore at 12:30. If interested, call Don 323-6311 ext. 296.

CENTER FOR JEWISH STUDIES
Due to Holiday of Succoth, there will be no classes on Weds., 10/10 and Thurs., 10/11

CHESS LECTURE
Free: Introductory talk on how to play chess. All welcome. Tonight, 7:30 p.m., C.C. 165-169.

COMMUTERS
Commuter Assembly Executive Council meeting tonight, 5:30, Commuter Lounge, S.U.B. All welcome.

DOG OBEDIENCE
First class today Grinnel arena, 6:30 p.m. Bring your dog. Barry, 429 Pierpont, 6-5278.

ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH MAJORS
Meeting Student National Environmental Health Association, 10/10, 4 p.m. C.C. Rm. 105. All interested please attend.

ENROLLMENT FOR VA BENEFITS
Students under the G.I. Bill who haven't re-enrolled for benefits (Sept. 73-May 74) should do so immediately through Veterans Office--Whitmore.

ETA KAPPA NU
Meeting for all members today at noon in EBE 104.

GEOGRAPHICAL ASSOCIATION
Meeting tonight at 8:00 in 24S Morrill to get to know other members. Bring 3 slides that show your geographical interests and share this with us.

KUNDALINI YOGA CLUB
First meeting tonight at 5:00, 917 C.C.

MOTORCYCLE CLUB
Meeting tonight, 7 p.m., C.C. 803. All street, dirt riders are encouraged to attend. If you can't make it call Jim at 6-7151.

PARACHUTE CLASS TO START
Come tomorrow nite, 10/11 C. C. 101 at 7:00 for meeting and get all the info and forms. The Parachute Club gets large discounts and the weather is perfect for jumping. Open to 5 college area students and staff.

POLITICAL SCIENCE
Second organizational meeting of Pi Sigma Alpha, Thurs., 10/11, C.C. 903 at 7:00 p.m.

SCIENCE FICTION SOCIETY
Sorry--the Collegian printed an incorrect date for inventorying. The error appeared in Friday's paper.

SELECTIVE SERVICE REGISTRATION
18 yr. old males are still required to register with Selective Service no later than one month after their 18th birthday. You can register at the Veterans Office, 241 Whitmore.

SOUTHWEST RESIDENTS
Anyone interested in being on the Hamden Board of Governors or Rathskellar advisory board please contact Mrs. Schnarr in JQA Lobby, today.

STRATEGY GAMES CLUB
Avalon Hill Players: meeting, Weds., 10/10, 6:00 p.m. in C.C. 103. All newcomers welcome.

STUDENT NURSE ORGANIZATION
All nursing students urged to attend important meeting tonight in the 4th floor conference room of Morrill. Plans for the convention will be discussed.

UNITED CHRISTIAN FOUNDATION
Outreach and publicity Task Force meeting, 10/11 at 10:00 a.m., 319 Hampshire House. Interested persons welcome.

LOST
E & M text in Hasbrouck 107 last Thursday. Please call 665-3063. No questions asked. I'm desperate.

Whoever picked up my 2 notebooks in Registrar's Office Friday, please return, reward. Call Bill 546-4670 or drop off at lost and found or 422 Thatcher.

THANK YOU
Thanks to the person who returned my brown, suede, jacket to the WOPE Office last week.

Journalism Prof. To Talk At Collegiate Press Meeting

Dr. Dario Politella of the Journalistic Studies faculty at Umass will deliver two papers at the annual conference of the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP).

Meeting at the Palmer House in Chicago, Nov. 1-3, the conference will hear Dr. Politella report on "The State of Campus Press Freedom, 1973" and "Instant writing-Journalism Style."

The conference attracts some 1,500 editors of campus publications to discuss problems and performances in producing the more than 5,000 newspapers, magazines and yearbooks of American colleges and universities.

Dr. Politella is author of two books published this year by Oxbridge of New York: the third edition of his biennial "Directory of the College Student Press In America" and "The Making of a Journalist." He is founder and coordinator of the national commission on the Freedoms and Responsibilites of the College Student Press in America.

King of Hearts
OCT. 12, 1973

75¢ 75¢
Friday Night
MAHAR
7, 9, 11

UMass
Police
Emergency
5-3111

We've Arrived
KALSO earth shoe
264 N. Pleasant St. Amherst, Mass. 01002 (413) 256-8911

TONIGHT
OFF THE HOOK at 7:20 p.m.
Dr. Daniel Clapp of the UMass Contraceptive Clinic tells you everything you always wanted to know at 545-2876. Art Cohen is your host.
THE OTHER SIDE at 8:00 p.m.
Last program in the GAY WAY series. Future programs will be produced by the UMass Student Homophile League.
TOMORROW NIGHT
JANET MOULDING REVIEWS at 7:25
Ms. Moulding takes a look at the current UMass theater production, "Moon for the Misbegotten".
FILM QUOTES AND COMMENTS at 7:30 p.m.
Dr. Tom Bohn of the Communications Studies Dept. appraises films in the area.
and we invite you to giddily reel through undreampt-of dimensions with Jack Flanders, every weeknight at midnight on...
THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS!
WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE
RADIO

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

1965 International Travelall, new brakes, clutch, good rubber, 4 on floor. Must be seen. Call David 549-1528, leave message, price is $550!
tf10-10

Couch — $25, good condition; Women's 3 speed 26" Columbia Bicycle 2 yrs. old $25; blow hair dryer $5. Call 549-6647 after 6 p.m.
tf10-10

1970 Ford Cortina, low mileage, air gauges, Am-FM, radials, tach, 108 h.p., $1150, way under book value, wood instr. panel, clock. 407 Puffton, 549-0525.
tf10-11

For sale — 1966 MGB, good condition, many new parts and extras, $600.00 or best offer. Call 549-1387.
tf10-12

Scuba-Dacor DBL hose, Scubair SGL hose, USD 72 & twn. 50 tanks, speargun & fins; also car cassette player & alum. 6' folding cot. 256-0481.
tf10-11

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart, Montague Center.
tf10-15

Earth shoes cheap! Women's size 9, brown leather Oxford type, like-new. A real deal for $25. Call Yvette at 584-5906, leave message.
tf10/12

FOR SALE

2 man pup tent, Coleman, perfect condition, $40.00 or best offer. Also stereo 8-track tapes, like new, $3.50. Call 546-9745.
tf10-10

FM stereo tape deck plus speakers, 3 mos. old, worth $100, will sell for $80 or best offer. Call Rob, 546-9745, leave message.
tf10-10

Benelli 650 Tornado, an excellent street and sport bike, in very fine shape, asking $850. Call John, 549-6139.
tf10-10

Zeiss Ikon camera F-75mm, $70, Rieker ski boots, men's size 9, plastic, $20. 3 new tires, 7.75-15", $10 each; Swiss Calendar Watch. Bob, 545-2151.
tf10-10

Hammond Model B with Leslie tone cabinet, best offer. Call Paul, 253-7246.
tf10-11

Hi! It's Paul your friendly furniture dealer speaking to you. We still have most of the costumes left; also a large supply of treadle sewing machines plus our usual unusual collection of furniture and junque. 46 Main St. in the Alley. Remember Paul's Old Time Furniture is 100 per cent student owned, 253-3511.
tf10-11

E.M.S. camping equip., back pack, down sleeping bag & two man tent with floor, list $270, only $150. Used once. Call 549-0924 between 5-8 p.m.
tf10-12

Used Israeli Lamb Skin Jacket $15; two beautiful Peasant Skirts $5 ea. Call 256-0364, evenings.
tf10/16

Classical Guitar, mint condition, $70 — firm, 256-0567.
tf10/11

FOR SALE

Vivitar Lens 85 mm to 205 mm zoom fits Pentax, Yashica, Mamiya Sekor. Just like new. Call 549-0591.
tf10/16

72 VW Bus, 25000 mi., radio, curtains, new disc brakes. Just tuned, 2 Radial snows, other extras. Call 549-6728, $2800.
tf10/16

Koflach buckle ski boots, size ten, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and at 549-6872 after six p.m.
tf10/12

One Columbia 10-speed bicycle in excellent condition. Only $45, call 6-5086.
tf10/12

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apt. in Sunderland. Own room, $75 per mo., incl. utilities, on bus line. Call Nancy, SaM, or Kim, 665-4176.
tf10-11

Roommate wanted at Presidential Apts. Own nice room 8 minutes to campus, nice quiet apt. $70.00 a month. Call 549-6606, nites.
tf10/11

AUTO FOR SALE

1959-60 Alfa Romero GT Sprint, hardtop, runs like a dream. Classic, used for dependable daily transportation, $750 firm. Call 6-7433.
tf10-12

1965 Plymouth Barracuda, exc. body and engine cond., V-8, new shocks, good tires, must be seen, $325. Call Al, 546-7691.
tf10-11

1966 VW Bus - New brakes, new tires, rebuilt engine, inspected, body in good shape. $350. Call or see Cindy, 511 Grayson, 546-6819.
tf10-10

AUTO FOR SALE

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price, 665-3344.
tf10-12

Porsches, 356, 1600 SSC, $400 up; Chev., 1966 station wagon, new trans. & ball joints; Saab 96S radials. 323-7327, trades.
tf10-11

1970 9 pass. Kingswood Estate wagon, 37,000 mi., auto. trans., power steering, power brakes, roof rack, mileage good, great family car. Paul, 253-7646.
tf10-12

1966 MGB, blown engine, but 4 new 14-inch tires and wire wheels. Call Mark, 665-4390, best offer.
tf10-12

1968 Volvo station wagon, 145S, new stick, AM-FM, snows, very good cond., 25 m.p.g. Can be seen days on campus. About $1250 firm, 367-2826.
tf10-10

1966 Landrover, needs new third gear, all new valves, top etc., $900 now or $1200 when fixed. Possible trade for VW. Call 413-268-7892.
tf10-10

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323-7706 anytime.
tf10-16

1962 Corvair, new battery, brakes, 4 good tires and 2 snows and rims, needs distributor, best offer. 546-6374.
tf10-10

1967 Rambler Rebel, 53,000 mi., new brakes, cooling, tune-up, parts, a.t., $450.00. 549-3857 or 545-1388.
tf10-15

AUTO FOR SALE

1964 VW Bug — Broken piston rod, but many new parts; Gen, brakes, exhaust, bumper, shocks, tires etc. Make offer, Len 584-4692.
tf10/10

64 GTO, recently rebuilt, 389 high perf. eng., new brakes, battery, exhst. 546-9626 eve.
tf10/12

1965 Ford, 289 V-8, 3 speed standard, new front brakes and exhaust, some rust, but in good cond., asking $250. Call John, 549-6139.
tf10-10

SERVICES

Typing — Reliable, reasonable, manuscripts, term papers, theses, disserta, IBM Selectric typewriter. Mary Lou 253-7352.
tf10-10

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.
tf10-26

Free lance mech., will do light automotive work for $3.00 an hr. & parts. 546-5185, ask for Larry.
tf10-11

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.
tf10-19

Any and all types of sewing done. Call Leah at 665-3439.
tf10-12

Need a typist? Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service. Call 584-0743.
tf10-12

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Volleyball Finally Comes To UMass

By LINDA MACKLER

It is no surprise that the UMass women have adopted volleyball as their new intercollegiate sport. Volleyball is not simply a recreational activity to be played for general exercise. It has much more to offer than mere spirited fun. It is an exciting competition - complete with rivalries and serious strategy.

Although volleyball was invented right here in Holyoke, it is the Japanese women's team which generated a new and extensive interest. At the 1964 Olympic games the Japanese coach, Hirobumi Daimatsu, received lengthy coverage for his severe training programs. But his team was determined, precise, hard-hitting, and victorious. They were thrilling and stimulating to watch. Since then volleyball has rapidly gained popularity, particularly on the west coast. It has apparently been slower to reach New England, but now UMass has its first women's team.

The strategy of volleyball relies on three main tecniques - the bump, the set, and the spike. The bump is a forearm pass used to get underneath hard hit serves that come below the shoulders. The set is an overhead pass, played close to the net to set up for the spike. The spike is the most effective offensive weapon. It is a hard driven ball hit at a sharp downward angle. making it extremely difficult to return. All hits and serves now must be made with the fists. This is called power volleyball. The old plays using the palms of the hands are now illegal. Coach Jensen claims, "Power volleyball has cleaned up the game."

Coach Judy Jensen is the graduate student who has taken charge of the first year team. She has played competitive volleyball for eight years, through high school and as an undergraduate at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa. The coach has stated that the team looks good in practice. Everyone who came out for the team is eligible to play, but there will be an A and a B squad. These have not yet been determined, but will be by the end of the first game. Coach Jensen feels, "The team has increased their skill level tremendously since practice began. Now they need some competition."

This competition will be this evening. The season opens in the Northeast Physical Education Building gym at 6:30 p.m. against Westfield State Teacher's College.

Notices

BASKETBALL - there will be a meeting for all basketball candidates on Friday, Oct. 12 at 4 p.m. in Boyden 249.

BOWLING - The rolloff for the UMass intercollegiate bowling team will be held today, Oct. 10 and Monday, Oct. 15. Attendance on both nights is required. The rolloffs will begin at 6:30 at the Boyden lanes. For further information and to sign up, contact Dave Dimmick in 523 Grayson or call 546-7002.

MOTORCYCLES - The Motorcycle Club will hold a meeting tonight, Oct. 10 at 7 p.m. in the Campus Center, Room 803.

PET VILLAGE
Rt. 9, Hadley
Next to Old Weird Harold's
584-0011

$1 FISH SPECIALS
Algae Eaters, Black Mollies, Zebras
Neon Tetras 4/$1.00 many other $1.00 specials also Savings on Tank Accesories

Berra Paces UMass Scorers

By MIKE BROPHY

Statistically speaking, the Minutemen have outscored theer respective opponents by a total of 101-96. Of those points, Tim Berra has collected 44 with seven touchdowns and a two point conversion.

Bill Wolfe is second on the scoring list with two TD's and a two-pointer. Ed Hadjusek and Gary Mika each have two TD's to their credit.

In the rushing category, UMass has been held to an average of 1.7 yards per carry on rushing plays. Peil Pennington is the second leading rusher with 76 total yards to his credit despite the fact that he has been thrown for losses totalling 100 yards.

In 18 carries Paul St. Onge has netted 37 yards for a 2.1 average while turning in some fine blocking in the improving backfield. Jerry Mondalto, now out for the duration of the season with a knee injury finished with 40 total yards and an average gain per play of 3.3 yards.

The UMass offense has fumbled the ball a total of 11 times and has lost only four of those miscues.

Leading the UMass interceptors with two apiece are Bob Parrott and Paul Hansen. Parrott has netted 36 yards on runbacks while Hansen has been brought down right away on both pickoffs. Dennis Kiernan and Jim Talarico each have one interception to their credit in bolstering the Minutemen's defense.

Punter Andy Dutkanicz has averaged 35.8 yards per punt so far this season and has been responsible for putting many an opponent in the hole.

Umass has given up 44 first downs via the rushing game and 29 via the pass.

Peil Pennington has hit his receivers for a .430 completion average in netting 647 total yards through the air. Fred Kelliher has gained 201 yards while completing 50 per cent of his aeriels.

UM football opponents have picked off ten UM passes for yardage totalling nine yards.

Tim Berra leads the punt runback specialists wth an outstanding 100 yard goal. Bob Parrott has 22 yards on three runbacks for a fine 7.3 average.

Everytime Pennington completes a forward pass he is rewriting the passing record book for career completions at UMass.

Finally, the offensive unit put together their first sustained drive involving more running than passing this past Saturday as they marched 61 yards in twelve plays..It is quite possible that more drives such as this will be forthcoming.

Statistics In A Nutshell

SCORING	TD	PAT(1)	PAT(2)	FG	PTS
Berra, fl	7	0	1	0	44
Wolfe, W, te	2	0	1	0	14
Hajdusek, se	2	0	0	0	12
Mika, te	2	0	0	0	12
Wolfe, R, hb	1	0	0	0	6
Pennington, qb	1	0	0	0	6
Ames, k	0	5(7)	0	0(1)	5
Dutkanicz, k	0	2(3)	0	0(2)	2
UMASS	15	7(10)	2(5)	0(3)	101
OPP	12	11(11)	1(1)	3(4)	96

PASSING	ATT	COMP	INT	YDS	TD	PCT	AVE/ COMP
Kelliher, qb	28	14	2	201	4	.500	14.4
Pennington, qb	127	53	7	647	8	.430	12.4
UMASS	157	67	10	890	12	.427	13.3
OPP	107	55	6	730	6	.514	13.3

PUNTING	NO	YDS	AVE	LG	NET
Dutkanicz, k	28	1101	39.3	65	35.8
Mondalto, hb	1	35	35.0	35	35.0
UMASS	29	1136	39.0	65	35.7
OPP	32	1177	36.8	60	32.9

INTERCEPTIONS
Parrott (2-36), Hansen (2-0)
Kiernan (1-2), Talarico (1-0)
UMASS (6-38)
OPP (10-9)

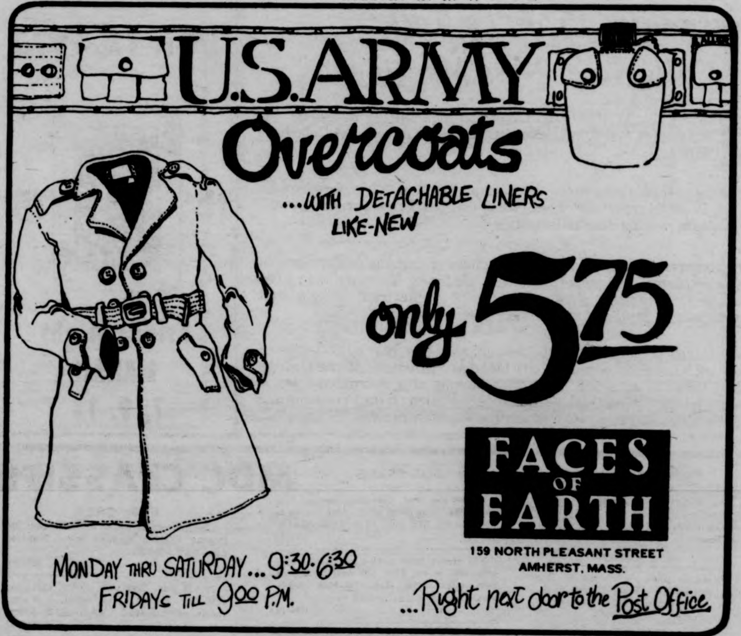
RUSHING	ATT	GAIN	LOSS	NET	AVE	LG
Wolfe, R, hb	57	124	21	103	2.0	23
Pennington, qb	49	176	100	76	1.6	35
Street, hb	28	69	9	60	2.1	7
Mondalto, hb	12	43	3	40	3.3	8
St. Onge, fb	18	37	0	37	2.1	5
Roland, fb	9	13	2	11	1.2	4
Torrance, fb	6	12	5	7	1.2	6
Verolini, fb	2	6	0	6	3.0	4
Peters, hb	1	5	0	5	5.0	5
Others	9	16	35	-19	---	5
UMASS	191	501	175	326	1.7	35
OPP	251	1171	234	934	3.7	79

PASS RECEIVING	NO	YDS	TD	AVE	LG
Berra, fl	29	368	6	12.6	42
Hajdusek, se	14	169	2	12.1	44
Wolfe, W, te	13	202	2	15.5	47
Wolfe, R, hb	4	67	0	16.8	22
Mika, te	4	53	2	13.2	25
Harriman, fl	1	20	0	20.0	20
St. Onge, fb	1	8	0	8.0	8
Mondalto, hb	1	0	0	---	0

KICKOFF RETURNS	NO	YDS	AVE	TD	LG
Berra, fl	13	333	25.5	1	93
Wolfe, R, hb	2	38	19.0	0	19
Street, hb	1	14	14.0	0	14
St. Onge, fb	1	7	7.0	0	7
UMASS	17	392	23.1	1	93
OPP	18	380	21.1	0	40

PUNT RETURNS	NO	YDS	AVE	LG
Parrott, cb	3	22	7.3	10
Berra, fl	14	100	7.1	13
UMASS	17	122	7.2	13
OPP	10	100	10.0	36

No. 2 wants you.



U.S. ARMY Overcoats
...WITH DETACHABLE LINERS LIKE-NEW only 5.75
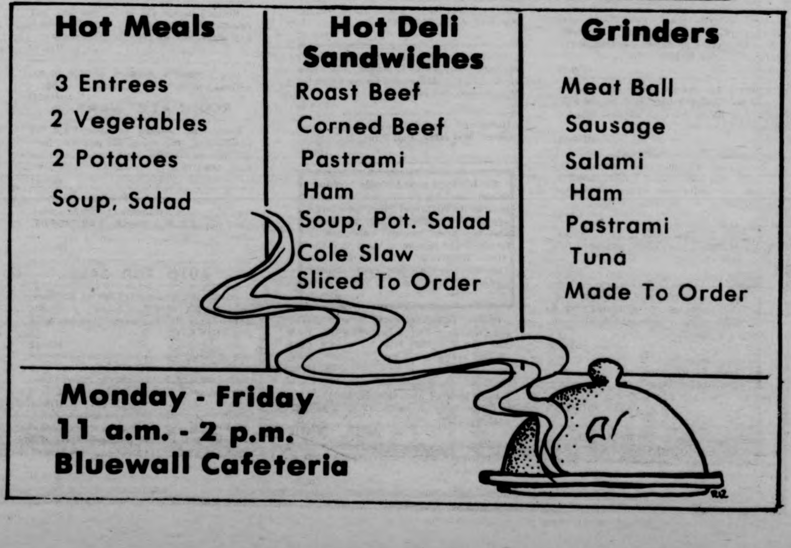
FACES OF EARTH
159 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASS.
MONDAY THRU SATURDAY... 9:30-6:30
FRIDAYS TILL 9:00 P.M.
...Right next door to the Post Office



Hot Meals
3 Entrees
2 Vegetables
2 Potatoes
Soup, Salad

Hot Deli Sandwiches
Roast Beef
Corned Beef
Pastrami
Ham
Soup, Pot. Salad
Cole Slaw
Sliced To Order

Grinders
Meat Ball
Sausage
Salami
Ham
Pastrami
Tuna
Made To Order

Monday - Friday
11 a.m. - 2 p.m.
Bluewall Cafeteria

The JJ Who Beat JJ

By MIKE BROPHY

Around the UMass locker room before the big Rutgers contest of last Saturday, the game was being billed as "UM's JJ Meets RU's JJ--Who Will Win?"

The JJ from UMass is, of course, none other than co-captain Johnny Jones, who single handedly tackled JJ Jennings of Rutgers, four times and was assisted by other defenders on six additional counts. That awesome number 79 in the white jersey this past Saturday was all over the line of scrimmage picking up the scent of Jennings who sets deep within his own backfield to build up the steam needed to blow through his opposition.

"Well, Jones built up his own steam and was repeatedly stopping Jennings for little or no gain. "I went into the game knowing I would have to key on him and stop him cold," remarked Jones. "Sure, he rolled up the yardage but we stopped him when he had to down there with seconds to go."

Rutgers is no Notre Dame as far as football is concerned but for the fighting men of MacPherson, they were one hard hitting football team. "Everytime that tackle came off the line to block me, he would punch me in the stomach repeatedly." said Jones.

"They came to play and so did we. I think they now know what football at UMass is really like.

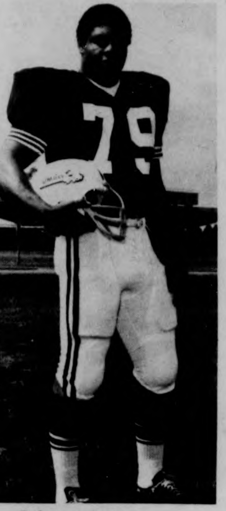
What is more important, though, is that we know what we can do as a unit and as a team. O.J. Simpson couldn't have scored on us Saturday, I don't think," said Jones speaking of his defensive unit.

For the first time, in the still young season, the defensive backs were talking the in huddle on that goal line stand. "We were finally pulling together for one cause. The cause of victory. And we got it," said Jones.

This could well be what the average UMass football fan has been waiting for, whether he knows it or not. For a defense that pulls together, wins together.

For Jones this is his fifteenth year of playing organized football and he realizes it could be his last. "I have been playing ever since I started playing Pop Warner ball at eight and have come through high school and college playing the defensive line all the time. I have grown to love it. But, when you ar tackling a runner as big as yourself (which Jennings was)," he continued, "things can get pretty rough out there."

All week long the defense had concentrated on stopping the run up the middle, the strength of the Rutgers attack. Jones and his gang were ready.



Johnny Jones

Simpson Credits Line For Success

By MARVIN R. PIKE
Associated Press Writer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) - O.J. Simpson-All-American running back at Southern California and 1968 Heisman Trophy winner.

O.J. Simpson-star running back of the Buffalo Bills and top rusher in the National Football League a year ago.

O.J. Simpson-a-26-year-old terror who is ripping pieces out of opponents' defense this year and credits his offensive line for his success.

In the Bills' four games this season-three won, one lost-Simpson has rushed for 647 yards, more than half the 1,251 he gained last year.

"We have the cockiest offensive line in football," he says. "They think they can do anything for me. They're always cheering me on."

When it's late in the game and Simpson is moving toward a 200-yard output, the Bills' best blockers press rookie quarterback Joe Ferguson to send Simpson behind them.

"Run it my way," says guard Reggie McKenzie, "I'll open it up for O.J."

Before the season began, Simpson said repeatedly he thought he could top the 1,500 yard mark.

"Heck, I got 1,200 last year and the line wasn't healthy," he says. "But these guys been telling me I'm going to get 1,800 or more. Reggie keeps saying I'm going to get 2,000.

"And if they said it, I've got to believe them, because they're the guys who'll get it for me. If they say I can get it, then I'm going to get it."

O.J. is anything but a man of conceit. He wears his success well and with a real touch of class.

Following a game, he never sheds his uniform until the last interviewer is satisfied. He never shows annoyance at the same question being asked over and over again by different reporters.

O.J. Simpson

No. 2 is on the move.

Ohio State Still On Top

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State held onto first place in The Associated Press college football poll Tuesday, but runner-up Nebraska sliced the Buckeyes' lead by 103 points.

Ohio State received 41 firstplace ballots and 1,150 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who voted. The buckeyes ran their record to 3-0 last weekend with a 27-3 victory over Washington State.

Nebraska trounced Minnesota 48-7 Ohio State previously walloped the Gophers 56-7 and got nine first-place votes and 1,032 points. Last week's margin was 1,118-897.

There were no changes among the next five teams, either.

Third-ranked Alabama received six first-place votes and 876 points for a 28-14 defeat of Georgia, while Southern California defeated Oregon State 21-7 and held onto fourth place with one top vote and 782 points.

Michigan, rated fifth, blanked Oregon 24-0 and earned one No. 1 vote and 697 points. Sixth-ranked Oklahoma downed Miami of Florida 24-20 and got 632 points.

The other three first-place votes went to No. 7 Penn State, which beat Air Force 19-9 and polled 620 points.

The only change in the Top Ten came when Tennessee nipped Kansas 28-27 and climbed from ninth to eighth while Notre Dame slipped from eighth to ninth after fighting off Michigan State 14-10. Tennessee's lead, however, was a slim 419-417.

Lousiana State rounded out the Top Ten with 416 points. The Tigers clawed Florida 24-3.

Secretariat May Retire

NEW YORK (AP)-Has Secretariat run his last race?

That was the big horse racing question Tuesday in the aftermath of the Triple Crown winner's sensational victory in the Man o'War Stakes.

"We have reached no firm answer yet and I have nothing further to say at this time," said Helen Tweedy, operator of Meadow Stable.

If Secretariat, who must retire by Nov. 15 to go to stud under a record $6,080,000 syndication, does race again, it probably will be in the Canadian Championship at Woodbine in Toronto Oct. 28 or the two-mile Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct a day earlier.

If the Man o'War was Secretariat's last race, then he ended his career with what Mrs. Tweedy thought might have been his best performance.

The big 3-year-old chestnut was racing on the grass for the first time in the Man o'War and when it was over he had set a Belmont Park turf course record of 2:24 4-5 in beating Tentam by five lengths.

Ruggers Trounced

By WADIE BAHOU

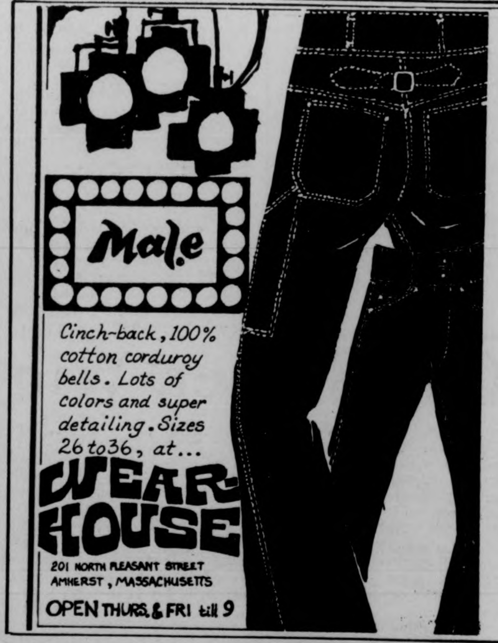
The Umass Rugby team played poorly this past Saturday, and dropped two games out of three to a superior Norwich University squad. The ruggers from Norwich, who have played Rugby teams in England (and who are soon to make another trip there) completely dominated play in the first two games and rolled to two victories 37-6 and 22-9. The third game, however, was different, as UMass savored its only victory 20-3.

Once again there were very few bright spots on the UMass 'A' team, whose offense stalled continually and whose defense left much to be desired. Even the 'B' squad looked sluggish as they dropped their first game of the season, but perhaps more credit should be given to the Norwich squad than detracted from the UMass ruggers.

The 'C' team saved Umass the embarrassment of a sweep by dominating the action on the field, as they took a slim 6-3 halftime lead and built it into an impressive seventeen point victory. The entire 'C' backfield looked very sharp, running hard and passing well all day. The forwards, hustling all along, played excellent defense and turned in a fine offensive performance.

The UMass ruggers, with their 112 record for the week, now have an overall 6-3 record and will be hoping to improve that against a talented Hartford Rugby team this Saturday.

"MICH NIGHT" TONIGHT
Michelob Goblet 40¢
after 9 p.m.
at
THE CHEQUERS
DONT MISS
DONT MISS
"FREE" Juke Box 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.
hot hor d'oeuvres after 11:00 p.m.



Male
Cinch-back, 100% cotton corduroy bells. Lots of colors and super detailing. Sizes 26 to 36, at...
WEAR-HOUSE
201 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
OPEN THURS. & FRI till 9

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 9, 10, 11
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Reds Even Series; Athletics Go One Up

Rose Homer Sinks Mets

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Pete Rose ripped a 12th-inning home run Tuesday, lifting Cincinnati to a vital 2-1 victory over the New York Mets in the National League playoffs and forcing the series into a fifth game Wednesday.

The triumph evened the best-of-5 series at two games apiece.

Rose, booed throughout the game as the villain in the wild brawl that marred the third game of the series Monday, drilled a 2-2 pitch from reliever Harry Parker over the right field wall.

As he circled the bases, he thrust his fist skyward and stomped on home plate before rushing to the exultant Reds' dugout as his teammates spilled onto the field to meet him.

Rose had bowled over Mets' shortstop Bud Harrelson in a fifth-inning collision Monday and afterwards was pelted with debris in left field, leading to a near forfeit of the game, which the Mets won 9-2.

Every time he stopped on the field Tuesday, the fans booed. There were many banners around capacity-filled Shea Stadium to tease The Reds' left fielder.

But in the end, it was Rose who drew the upper hand in this tense duel on a gloomy, overcast day.

It started as a matchup of left-hander with George Stone for the Mets and Fred Norman for Cincinnati.

New York struck first, scratching out a run off Norman in the third inning.

Don Hahn opened with a walk and moved to second on Harrelson's infield out. After Stone walked, Wayne Garrett flied out with Hahn taking third.

Then Felix Millan delivered the first hit of the game, a sharp single to left that sent the Mets in front.

Stone, who retired the first nine Reds in order, protected the slim lead until the seventh inning. Then, with one out, Tony Perez, who had been hitless in his first 14 playoff at-bats, walloped a long home run into the Reds' bullpen, tying the score.

One out later, Stone walked Andy Koscoe and Tug McGraw relieved for New York.

McGraw escaped that inning, left eight Reds stranded on base as he weaved his way out of jams in the 9th, 10th and 11th innings.

The Reds loaded the bases with one out in the ninth but McGraw struck out Kosco and Denis Menke's attempted squeeze was a pop fly that Garrett caught off third base for the third out.

In the 10th, the Reds loaded the bases again, this time with two out, but Perez flied to Rusty Staub, ending that threat.

An inning later, Cincinnati had runners at first and third with one out and the Mets brought their infield in to cut off a run at the plate.

With a 3-2 count on Cesar Geronimo, The Reds tried the squeeze play again. But the bunt went foul and Geronimo was out. Then Dan Driessen sent Staub to the right field wall for his long drive. Rusty banged into the wall and crashed to the ground but made the catch, again ending a threat.

AP Photo

Oakland third baseman Sal Bando collected two home runs in Sunday's victory for the Athletics. The A's used home run strength again yesterday as Bert Campaneris powered a four-bagger in the eleventh to give Oakland a 2-1 win and a one game lead over the Orioles in the AL championship series.

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Campaneris Powers A's

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP)-Bert Campaneris lined a leadoff home run over the left field fence, barely over the glove of Baltimore's leaping Don Baylor, powering the Oakland A's to an 11-inning 2-1 victory over the Orioles Tuesday. The win gives the A's a 2-1 lead in their best-of-5 American League playoffs.

Campaneris hit an 0-1 pitch from Baltimore left-hander Mike Cuellar, who had allowed only three previous hits in a brilliant duel with Oakland southpaw Ken Holtzman.

Baylor raced to the fence, about 25 feet in from the left field foul pole, and faulted as high as he could in a desperate bid to rob Campaneris of his game-winning smash.

The defending World Champions could end the championship series Wednesday when they send Vida Blue against Baltimore's Jim Palmer.

Holtzman allowed only three hits and just one over the final nine innings.

A home run by Earl Williams with one out in the second gave Baltimore a 1-0 lead and it stood up until the bottom of the eighth, when Oakland's Joe Rudi singled home pinch-runner Allan Lewis from second base with the tying run.

The Orioles got a runner to third base in the top of the ninth, but Holtzman pitched out of the jam by striking out Baylor.

The winning hurler struck out seven Baltimore batters and walked only one. Cuellar, feeling the A's power hitters consistently with slow breaking pitches, struck out 11 and issued three walks.

Campaneris' homer was his second of the playoffs and Oakland's fifth.

Williams, who had 22 homers in the regular season but none against Oakland, hit an 0-2 pitch from Holtzman over the left-center field fence for Baltimore's first homer of the playoffs.

Jesus Alou, batting for Ray Fosse, fot the A's second hit of the game when he blooped a single to left field to open the eight against Cuellar.

Lewis ran for Alou and was sacrificed to second by Mike Andrews, pinch-hitting for Dick Green. Campaneris then disappointed the Oakland Coliseum crowd of 34,367 by striking out.

But Rudi followed with a line drive single to left field to knot the score.

Cuellar had retired 10 straight batters before the eighth-inning uprising. The A's were hitless until the fourth, when Gene Tenace singled to left with two out.

Bill Ballou

Kiss Of Death On Boston Bruins

Place your bets. Call off the season and advance directly to the playoffs. Send the referees home.

I'm making my hockey predictions.

In past years my predictions have sent strong men running for the bosoms of their mothers, seeking comfort, solace, and escape. Poor men have become millionaires by betting on the reverse order of my calls. Threatening letters have come in from the General Managers of teams I picked for first. But what the hell, you only live once and here go my thoughts on the 1973-74 National Hockey League Eastern Division Race:

BOSTON BRUINS: Despite my avowed dislike of the home darlings, something says they'll finish first. Bobby Orr is due to have a magnificent season, after proving last year that he is capable of error. Phil Esposito appears to have recovered fairly well from his knee injury, and should be good for 115-120 points. Harry Sinden made a shrewd deal in acquiring Gilles Gilbert to play goal and the ex-North Star shows promise of being one of the best in hockey given some experience. Their weakness will be defense, but all in all they should end up with about a 45-15-15 record.

MONTREAL CANADIENS: Don't believe the talk about the Frenchmen not missing Ken Dryden too much. Neither Michel Plasse, Wayne Thomas, nor Bunny Larocque can take his place, at least this season. Almost three-quarters of their current roster was playing in the minor leagues less than three seasons ago, so Les Habitants are hurting for experience. With Dryden gone they won't have a stopper, and could hit some bad streaks. I'll say second place with maybe a 42-15-18 record.

TORONTO MAPLE LEAFS: This will be the year the Leafs put it together. The acquisition of Doug Favell and Ed Johnston gives them major league goaltending (especially Favell), something they've lacked in recent seasons. Leafs are still relatively young, but their youth is experienced. Much will depend on their injury situation, since they have no great depth. If Paul Henderson and Norm Ullman can recover from bad years, Toronto could be the surprise team of this season. They also have, in Red Kelly, one of the best coaches in all of pro hockey.

Their record? 35-25-15.

NEW YORK RANGERS: I have a suspicion they won't even make the playoffs, but they still have a considerable amount of talent, so you must figure them somewhere. It seems though, that after seven years of trying, the Rangers have probably shot their wad. Giacomin and Villemure are excellent goaltenders, though Giacomin may be forced to live with a "choke" tag. However, their offense relies too much on one line, the GAG line, and I don't think one line can carry them. They're still solid defensively, but you can make money betting they won't win the Stanley Cup. Probably a 33-25-17 record.

So much for the playoff folks. The bottom division contains two clubs, Buffalo and Detroit, who may crack the upper division, but it's doubtful. Here's the second division anyway.

BUFFALO SABRES: Still the team of the future, but they haven't improved themselves as much as Toronto. They've still got a weak defense, though their goaltending is good, and they have a weakness on the wings.

Give'em a 31-29-15 mark. It will be close.

DETROIT RED WINGS: I think they'll score goals, but will let more in with a horrid defense. Also, if Roy Edwards gets hurt, as he often does, their goaling is hurtin for certain. No better than a 30-30-12 record.

VANCOUVER CANUCKS: Disastrous is the only way to describe what their season will be like. A goaltender who tends toward nervous breakdowns when things get rough, a terrible defense, and an offense full of midgets says it all. The Canucks may make the playoffs by the year 2000, but they'd better start rebuilding now. Figure 'em for an 18-45-12 record.

NEW YORK ISLANDERS: The Islanders have just one major problem--no talent. If Denis Potvin plays stupendously, they may beat out Vancouver. If not, it's last place and a 15-50-10 record.

Oarswomen Win In Wind

By WALT POWERS

The wind at Calvin Coolidge Bridge blew straight up the Connecticut, churning the swirling river into a froth. It was a terrible day to row, but before it was over, the UMass women's crew team had emerged victorious in the "A" race and runnerup in the "B". Naturally, team Captain Missy Mayer didn't complain about the weather.

"I really think the wind worked to our advantage," she said. "The other crews had shorter, quicker trokes than ours, and they tied earlier. Our stroke was longer, slower, but better paced, and we weren't tired at the end."

Saturdays season-opening regatta, sponsored by Burger King, was the first womens regatta ever held in this area. Designed primarily as a scrimmage, it gave Coach Bob Spousta a lot of things to be encouraged about.

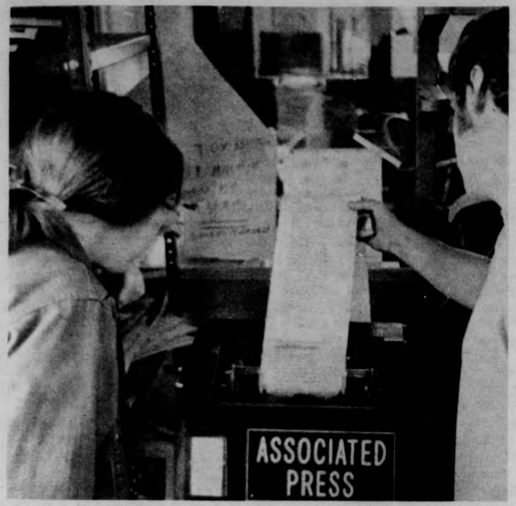
The "A" team, consisting of Debbie Kirchmer, Joanne Andreas, Holly Alexander, Barbara O'Reilly, Mimi Broun, Mary Miley, Missy Mayer, and Rose Sellew, was well-coxed by Sophomore Donna Blackburn, was well conditioned and showed surprising early season cohesion.

Coach Spousta, though, seemed to get his greatest satisfaction from the performance of his "B" team.

"They had the toughest assignment of all," he said. None of them had ever raced before. At the time, the course was 1000 yards long. Later, bad conditions forced us to shorten the course. The untried crew of Gail Geddes, Sharon Gester, Janet Wilson, Karen Youngquist, Sheila Sullivan, Sherry Chase, Sally Baybutt, Debbie Pierce, and coxswain Lynne Zoino performed extremely well under the circumstances, winning their preliminary heat, and finishing second to a strong Trinity team in the finals.

Inside Sports

- UMass' Own JJ
- Womens' Volleyball
- Football Stats



Staff Photo/Steve Ruggles

Yes, Virginia, miracles still occur, if you pray hard enough. In the photo above, disbelieving Collegian writers hungrily devour the latest off of the Associated Press teletype about our Vice president's demise from the political scene.

The Umies React

By M.J. MEYERS

The word spread quickly here at UMass that Vice President Spiro Agnew had resigned. By 3:30 yesterday afternoon, those who hadn't heard the news were few and far between.

Among those students who hadn't been informed, the majority expressed the desire to "get loaded and celebrate" when asked what they would do if Agnew resigned.

And when told that Agnew had, in fact, quit the office of the Vice Presidency, most students reacted with a skeptical, "You're shitting me," even though they admitted to believing that the situation was inevitable.

Typical of those who reacted with startled skepticism was Gail Townsend, a senior majoring in Home Economics, who said she'd "raise the flag" if Agnew had resigned. Apparently she, along with many other UMies, thought that Agnew's resignation was the only patriotic thing he could do under the circumstances.

While the vast majority of those polled were delighted at the prospect of being rid of Agnew, a small group merely shrugged their shoulders and said they'd do "nothing" if Agnew resigned. Included in this category was an unidentified male senior who happily remarked that "it gives Wallace a better chance" when told that Agnew was no longer Vice President of the United States.

Richard Nixon was occasionally mentioned when those polled were told of the resignation. Comments concerning the President ran the gamut, from the accusation that "It was part of a Nixon conspiracy" to the more reflective, "If Nixon chooses Kissinger as Vice President and someone kills Nixon, we'll have a competent President."

Overwhelmingly, the vast majority of UMass students were enthusiastically receptive to the idea of no more Agnew. If all those who said they'd "get loaded and celebrate" if Agnew resigned actually do, it'll have been a busy night at the Bluewall.

New England's Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather

Hale Boggs wasn't the only man to go down in a storm.

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 26 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1973

Agnew Resigns

By RICHARD H. PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Vice President Spiro T. Agnew resigned abruptly from office Wednesday and pleaded no contest to a charge of Federal income tax evasion. A judge sentenced him to a $10,000 fine and three years' probation.

President Nixon, expressing "a sense of deep personal loss" over the stunning development, met with Democratic congressional leaders at the White House to discuss "procedural questions" on the selection of a successor.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate majority leader, and House Speaker Carl Albert of Oklahoma, who is the President's immediate successor in the absence of a vice president, left the White House without meeting newsmen.

Agnew's resignation was part of an agreement struck by his attorneys with the Justice Department that allowed him to plead no contest to a 1967 tax fraud charge and have all other allegations facing him dropped.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, appearing with Agnew in the federal court in Baltimore, declared that the corruption investigation involving the vice president had "established a pattern of substantial cash payments" to him by contractors when he was Baltimore county executive, governor and as vice president.

These payments continued from the early 1960s into 1971, and one engineer doing business with the state made payoffs up to and including last December, Richardson said.

Although the Justice Department agreed to drop the charges of bribery, extortion and conspiracy that Agnew also faced. These were detailed in a 40-page document released through the court. Agnew, while not contesting the tax evasion charge, denied all the others.

The thunderbolt disclosure of the resignation, the second by a vice president in U.S. history, was almost casually revealed by a staff secretary here as Agnew himself was making a surprise appearance in the Baltimore court.

Reading from a paper held in his trembling hands, the 55-year-old vice president told U.S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman that his decision to quit and plead no contest to the felony charge "rests on my firm belief that the public interest requires swift disposition of the problems which are facing me."

He said his lawyers had advised him that a legal battle over the allegations against him could last for years and the attending publicity would divert public attention from other problems, "to the country's detriment."

Agnew's decision came unexpectedly after he had sought through public statements for rhe last several weeks to end widespread press speculation that he would quit.

Agnew admitted Wednesday to receiving payments in 1967 which were not reported on his income tax and also that he was aware of payments made to others. But he denied that any payments had ever influenced his execution of the public trust as Baltimore county executive, governor or as vice president.

The actual charge against him contained in an information filed by the Justice Department, was that he failed to account for some $13,551.47 in federal taxes for the year 1967.

In that year, the information said, he reported income of $26,099 and taxes of $6416 when in fact his income had been $55,599 owing $19,967 in taxes. The resignation: 10th graf.

The resignation was effective at 2:05 p.m. Wednesday and it was about 20 minutes later when it first became publicly known. A staff secretary, Mrs. Lisa Brown, responding to an Associated Press reporter's question about the Baltimore court appearance, said simply, "the vice president has resigned. The Agnew staff aides have just come from a meeting at which they were informed he has resigned..."

Few details were immediately available on how or when Agnew reached the decision, but Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, appearing simultaneously with the vice president in the Baltimore court, said it was part of an agreement worked out with Agnew's lawyers permitting him to plead no contest to the single tax charge.

The Justice Department also filed and the court made public 40 pages of other allegations compiled against Agnew in the federal investigation of kickbacks by contractors doing business with the state of Maryland. These charges, as part of the agreement, will not be pursued.

Agnew had been under investigation for bribery, extortion and conspiracy as well as tax fraud, but he said in his statement in court Wednesday that he was innocent of all other allegations.

As Agnew appeared in court, a resignation letter was delivered to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who under the law receives formal resignations of national elected officials.

Similar letters were dispatched to President Nixon, and Democratic and Republican leaders of the House and Senate.

The news of the resignation reached the House floor during a roll call and created five minutes of confusion. House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., who in the absence of a vice president is next in line to succeed as president, walked quickly to the floor, declining comment to reporters.

Within minutes, extra capitol policemen and Secret Service agents were stationed outside Albert's office door.

In his letter to Nixon, Agnew said, "As you are aware, the accusations against me cannot be resolved without a long, divisive and debilitating struggle in the Congress and in the courts."

Saying that it was "painful" for himself and his family, Agnew told Nixon that "it is in the best interest of the nation that I relinquish the vice presidency." He added that "it has been a privilege to serve with you."

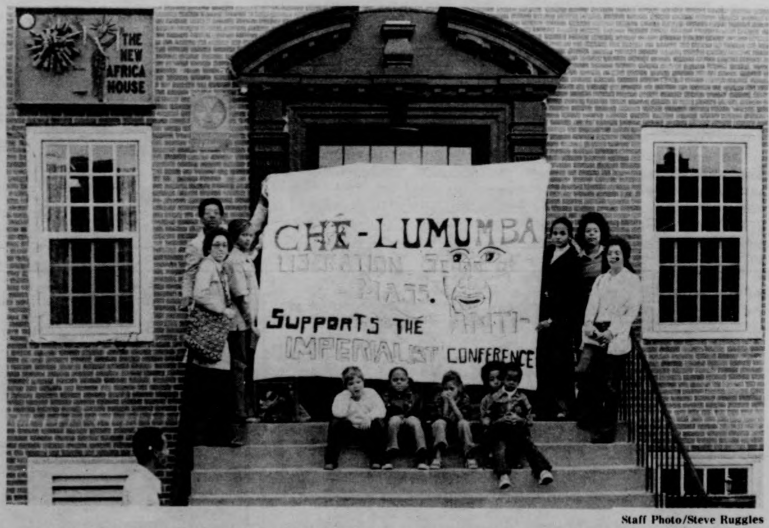
Nixon, on receipt of Agnew's letter immediately drafted a reply in the Oval Office, where Agnew had informed Nixon of his decision in a secret, 40-minute meeting Tuesday night.

In his reply, Nixon said he was "deeply saddened by this whole course of events."

"The most difficult decisions are often those that are the most personal, and I know your decision to resign as vice president has been as difficult as any facing a man in public life could be," he told Agnew.

Since Agnew's involvement in the federal probe was first disclosed in early August there have been persistent reports that Nixon wanted him to quit and had tried to force him out with pressure applied by White House aides through the news media.

The White House has denied this, however, and a spokesman said Wednesday that Nixon "played no direct role in the decision." It was, a spokesman said, "a personal decision that only the vice president could make."



Staff Photo/Steve Ruggles

The children of the Che-Lumumba School at UMass (seated in front) made this poster, which will be taken to the Anti-Imperialism conference in Chicago by the people from the Amherst area who will be attending (see related story page 4).

Campus Crime: Security Nightmare

Staff Photo/Al Chapman

By MICHAEL ALLAIN

At one o'clock on a Saturday morning, five men enter the lobby of George Washington Tower in Southwest. A lone student security guard asks the men for identification.

The security guard is pushed aside and the five men enter the stairways, ignoring the guard's protests.

The guard hurries to the phone to call the Head of Residence, but it is too late. The intruders are now inside--to harass, rob, or beat residents--their anonymity guaranteed in the 576 bed, 22 story dormitory.

Unlikely? Not at all, according to several heads of residence in Southwest, where residents are "becoming increasingly fearful for our lives, our property, and our very peace of mind."

In a September 25 memo to David Johnston, Director of Campus Security, and Saul Chaffin, the Assistant Director, the Southwest Resident Heads detailed the problems of 5400 people stacked vertically in one corner of the campus.

These included "tension, overcrowding, and higher incidence of dormitory damage, drug use, theft, assault, and general social disorder than is found anywhere else on campus."

The statement cites numerous examples of violence during the first three weeks of the semester, in or near John Quincy Adams or George Washington:

-two muggings on the mall outside George Washington;

-a beating outside Washington;

-gangs of males roving through women's corridors, harrassing residents and trying to tear down bathroom stalls;

-and in Patterson House, a low rise, a student security guard was threatened with broken fingers for refusing admittance to three men.

"I would say the average student has no idea of the crime that goes on here," says Carol Radzik, Resident Head of George Washington Lower.

But the victims do.

Southwest, by nature of its dense, crowded conditions, has always been ripe for more crime than other areas of campus. Johnston's recent shift of ten night security guards to the day shift of parking patrol has triggered hot protests from Southwest officials.

"The administration seems to feel that control of parking and cars is more important than lives," said Joe Battista, Tower Coordinator at Coolidge.

Johnston defends the administration's position.

"We have seen no increase in crime as a result of moving those ten security guards off the night shift in the month since instituted," he said. "And I don't foresee any increase."

Johnston also emphasized that the re-assigning of night security guards to daylight parking details is only a temporary move "to insure that the new parking system runs smoothly" in its initial phases.

But Southwest residents see such a priority system as warped. A head of residence who wished to remain unidentified agreed with Battista's evaluation.

"The University is saying that parking is more important than people.

"Besides," added the official, "outsiders know the University is wide open."

How "wide open" and accessible are the dorms in Southwest?

Much more so than many heads of residence would like. In the daytime, admittance is unobstructed for anyone. And at night uniformed security guards are only available five nights a week--but not in all towers. George Washington for example, has no scheduled uniformed security on any evenings.

With only six uniformed security guards (also referred to as Resident Hall Assistants and Institutional Protection Men) working in University buildings at night, student security guards must carry most of the load.

Of these six, one is stationed at Whitmore, which is protected by a security guard during all non-business hours.

Of the remaining five guards working this 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. shift, one is assigned to Orchard Hill. The other four are concentrated in Southwest.

In addition, each of the six night guards has two nights off each week. Students must cover on these nights, so even a tower with a full time, 40 hour a week security guard, must go without uniformed protection two nights a week.

When the guard is on vacation and on th nights he calls in sick, substitutes are sometimes provided, which removes security from another area. But often substitutes are not provided, in which case the dorm must supply its own un-uniformed security.

Both Battista and Kathy Hopkins, the Head of Residence in Coolidge Lower, have worked security in emergency situations this semester.

But student guards and stand--ins like Battista and Hopkins are at a disadvantage. The security guard, though he lacks the power of arrest, presents in the uniform a symbol of authority.

"We think that the uniform is a big deterrant to intruders," said Phil Chanin, Head of Residence at JQA Lower.

But Southwest residents don't get the benefit of uniformed security very often, and, as a result, crime in the Southwest dorms is difficult to trace.

"Ideally, I think there should be a guard in the lobby 24 hours a day," said Battista. "Then, if there were ripoffs, it would be a totally internal problem and we could focus on it as such."

Internal security precautions among residents are being stressed heavily this semester. both JQA and Washington Lower have warned their residents of the importance of questioning any unfamiliar persons they see in their corridors, and are told to inform the head of residence, if not satisfied with the outsider's explanation.

Such responsibility undertaken by everyone will minimize the chances of intruders stealing from or harrassing the people on the corridor, the heads believe.

Johnston sees the temporary security system as effective, particularly regarding strangers "living" in dorms-- that is, coming in at night and sleeping in lounges.

"One of the things we have heard in the past was about non-students living in dorms, and we did arrest people," Johnston said.

"But this year," he continued, "we haven't found a single person without evidence that they were living there.

"We go into dorms in the early morning hours and check out people in the lounges for non-resident students.

"We haven't found any who have not been bona-fide guests. The problem is not a great one. It is more a rumor than anything," he said.

But if outsiders aren't living in the dorms, they are having little if any trouble gaining entrance. A recent incident illustrates the inefficiency of the present security system.

On October 1, three men, allegedly armed, entered a room occupied by two male students in a Southwest low rise.

The assailants tied one of the victims with a piece of electric chord, and gagged another with a pair of undershorts, according to the police report.

After striking one of the victims in the head with the weapon, opening a bloody gash, the assailants made off with approximately $400 worth of marijuana the report said.

According to Johnston, a number of similar incidents happened on campus last year but were not reported because of the victim's involvement with drugs and their fear of police reprisal.

Johnston feels that heavy drug dealing presents a real problem to campus security.

"Open and flagrant dealing of drugs is going to result in holdups," he said. "We fear that someone will be badly hurt by outsiders holding them up for cash or drugs.

"To prevent this, we will make arrests of people selling drugs," he added.

Although armed robberies are not an every day occurence, less violent crimes are prevalent on campus.

In an interview last Friday, Johnston released what he described as "typical" midweek crime statistics.

In a 24 hour period covering last Thursday, the following crimes were reported to campus police: two larcenies greater than $100, one of these for $285; six larcenies of less than $100, ranging between five and thirty-five dollars; three auto thefts; three larcenies from motor vehicles; and one incident of malicious destruction, valued at $100.

These statistics are not staggering, according to Johnston. "If you compared the University to a city of comparable size, you would find the University crime rate much lower," he said.

But these figures do not account for the crimes that go unreported.

"Unless its a big loss--like a tape recorder or stero equipment, the student usually won't report a theft," said Johnston. "If the student doubts that the stolen property can be retrieved, he won't report it."

"I want to stress that all thefts be reported to us, even if there's little chance of finding the perpetrater or retrieving the property.

"We need that data to implement proper security procedures," Johnston said.

Although Southwest residents claim to be increasingly fearful for their "lives, property, and peace of mind," as the memo states, Johnston does not see any widespread paranoia on the UMass campus.

"I don't think anyone is in fear of walking around at night," he said. He cites this fear, and "the loss of liberty" resulting from people afraid to walk around, as a grave danger.

"We haven't gotten to the point where a coed can't walk from her dorm to the library at ten o'clock at night without fear of being assaulted," Johnston said.

But while Johnston sees no great threat to personal safety on campus walkways, Southwest residents await the presence of uniformed guards in the lobbies of the towers, and have in fact demanded the implementation of two security procedures.

The first calls for "RHA coverage in every tower and low rise with a population over 300." These include John Adams, Kennedy, JQA, Washington, Coolidge, and Patterson.

The second demand is for "roving security guards sufficient to protect the low rises and to patrol the mall and the street adjacent to Southwest"--the scene of the two muggings, the beating, and a tire slashing this semester.

The Southwest Heads of Residence are particularly "alarmed and appalled" by the administration's neglect to consult them about their security needs, and "without consideration for the damaging effects on such a policy on our very lives and psychic health."

Johnston plans to re-implement the security guards once the parking system is running smoothly, which he hopes will be by November. Eventually, though, he would like to see a community force which would include foot patrolmen in the dorms.

Johnston is aware of the difficulties in starting such a plan. Students now, he feels, "will tell me they don't want police in dorms to see the things they're doing," although he has noticed that students are becoming more aware of the "common sense" and "human understanding" of police.

"Students are now turning to police to control things like noise at 3 a.m., and thefts," he said.

"Students must realize that the officers on this campus are eminently approachable, and not objects of fear. Many of our police officers are former students themselves, with an understanding of the student life style," he said.

Johnston emphasizes that such a shift from RHA's and student security guards to foot patrolmen, based in dorms, can only come when the community is ready and willing to accept it.

"We're not going to institute something the community doesn't want," he said. "The success of any police department is directly dependant on cooperation from the community."

Several of the heads of residents in Southwest also feel that if the police force, which now numbers 36 patrol officers and five administrative staffers, were to come out into the community on foot, crime and tension in the residential college would be lessened.

Chanin feels it would be the best feasible security system, but feels that "the student consciousness needs to be more raised about the function of the police."

Ms. Radzik agrees that a foot patrol force would be an effective security force, but stresses the importance of students growing familiar with the same police officer.

"If the same officer was in all the time, the residents would get to know him," she said. "And get to know the officer as a person, not as a uniformed policeman."

Chanin is hopeful that a community police force will be ready for implementation by April.

But until such a police force is available, or until more security guards are shifted back on the nightshift in Southwest, the area will remain dangerous.

See Related Editorial on Page 13

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports); 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

HOCKEY

Anyone living in Central Area interested in playing with the Central Area hockey league.

Call 5-0599 or 6-4565 ask for John.

TONITE

FIREWATER

at the

Rusty Nail Inn

Rte. 47
Sunderland
665-4937

New Library Elevators: As Safe As They Feel?

By MIKE KNEELAND

For the four seconds during your fall you'd be weightless. By the time it crashed you'd be traveling 90 m.p.h.

But Paul Lawler, a UMass elevator expert, says there is virtually no chance that one of the library's elevators will free-fall from the top, or any other floor.

"Aside from the suspension cables, we've got a safety cable with an over-speed governor," Lawler said. "There is also an oil buffer on the bottom that would absorb any shock."

Many elevator riders take little comfort in Lawler's assurances. The slightest creak in an elevator cable may prompt nervous jitters. Slight giggles express apprehensions.

A wobbily ride seems to produce an even greater fear. Riders' eyes quickly focus on the floor indicator, seeing just how fast the elevator is passing floors.

Still descending, its nervous riders groan at every floor stop. They wish the ride were over.

By the fourth floor some riders are so nervous they decide to get off and walk the rest of the way.

But for the brave few who last the full descent, the day looks a little brighter as they pass through the elevator's doors.

Staff Photo/Marcia Lappin

Riding in a library elevator: "It's better than walking down 26 flights of stairs....I hope."

The Senate...Again

By FRAN BROCK

Nick Apostola, President of the Student Government Association told the Student Senate last night that the Student Senate Conference will be held on Friday, October 12, and Saturday, October 13.

The conference will consist of a number of panel discussions and workshops dealing with student senate matters. The new members of the senate will have an opportunity to be introduced to senate responsibilities and procedures.

The motions brought up for vote at the meeting, dealt with "purely financial" issues. Category changes in budgets of Boltwood Project, CEQ, WMUA, Student Senate Transit Service, Outing Club, RSO Student Activities Office and Collegian were passed.

Other motions covered loans to the Ski Club, and the Sports Car Club. An amendment to the General Laws under Fine Arts was made which would allow the president of SGA to appoint three students for one year terms and two students for two year terms. These are passed.

Next week, motions will include an amendment to the AFL-CIO Boycott bill and a motion to raise the Student Activities tax $3 for next semester.

The latter motion is a response by the Index to the referendum held last week. The referendum resulted in a majority of students in favor of keeping the Index for everyone and having it funded by the SGA.

A final announcement made, reminded the senators that they were to play the Collegian staff in a touch-football game Sunday, October 14. They intend on winning.

Contribute To Chomo-Uri

A group of women from Everywoman's Center, initiating programs as part of a Woman's Arts Center, is requesting submissions from women contributors for publication of creative expressions. The publication is to be named Chomo-Uri, reveared in Tibet as the God-Mother Turquoise Peak, otherwise known in the Western World as Mt. Everest. Chomo-Uri will be comprised of graphics, photography, poetry, fiction and non-fiction.

All university and area women are invited to submit their works before January 15 as a March printing is being planned.

For further invormation call Gayle Dodson-LaT[illegible]neau or Annette Townley at 545-0883 or Zoe Best at 549-6356.

Parking System Slowly Reaps Results-Or Does It?

By STEVE SECHE

Campus response to the newest phase of the UMass parking plan--which, for the first time, includes widespread towing and ticketing--seems to be dividing along administration-student lines.

Director of UMass Security David Johnston said that he is "quite satisfied" with results so far, and that despite some problems, feels that there has been "good compliance" with the new parking regulations. Thirty-nine cars were towed from illegal parking spots on Tuesday, he said, the first day of enforcement.

"People seemed to have gotten the word about parking", he said, "judging from the empty spaces we've seen in the core and edge lots", an indication, he felt, that motorists without proper decals were parking in peripheral areas, which, until October 29th, will remain free.

Outside the UMass Parking Office, Gary Hegeman, a resident of Wheeler House, was expressing different sentiments. "This whole thing is really bad," Hegeman said. "The cops are out there all the time. They ought to loosen up a little." Hegeman was received a total of $26 in parking tickets since the new plan went into effect. He is appealing two of them.

Stuart Elfland, who followed Hegeman into the Parking Office, had initially come for a temporary parking permit. His car had been ticketed, however, as he ran from the Parking Office to his dorm to get the money to pay for the decal. Like Hegeman, he filed an appeal, requesting that the fine be rescinded. "They ought to give you at least a couple of minutes before they ticket you," he said. "My mother used to." Elfland's mother was a policewoman.

UMass Director of Planning H.J. Littlefield said that the number of appeals being filed is "understandable, especially after a period of limited enforcement." "Without attempting to predict what the appeals board will do," Littlefield said, he felt that legitimate grievances submitted to the board during these first weeks of the new parking plan would be given careful consideration.

Littlefield felt that, all in all, the parking plan is "working pretty well," and that security officers are doing a fine job."

To adequately enforce the new plan, Johnston said that he has increased his daytime parking force to 21 people. Five of these are placed in residence halls in the evening. "I had to set parking as my top priority for early fall," he said, adding that this "saturation of personnel will probably continue for 30-60 days." Johnston said that, while most of his department's energies "are being directed into this parking issue, it is well worth it."

The biggest problems so far, he said, have been people parking in the lots they may have originally requested, but were not able to receive; visitors not using metered areas, and instead parking in restricted areas; and the owners of more than one car driving an unregistered auto onto campus. "The sum total of all these", he feels, is that "some people are still not convinced that the Department of Public Safety means business; and that chances are that if you park in the wrong lot or illegally, you will get towed or ticketed."

Still, Johnston said that "we've gotten excellent cooperation from people on campus. If we weren't this would be an impossible job."

Correction

The story headlined "COLLINS HITS WELLMAN DOCUMENT" in the Collegian of Wednesday, October 10, erroneously referred to the Education Reorganization plan as the "Wellman Document".

The Wellman Document is actually the University Governance plan, and is not the re-organization plan.

The Collegian offers its sincere apologies to Representative Collins and the general public for misunderstanding due to this error.

U.MASS. DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE

We've something you should see . . .

JACQUES BREL IS ALIVE & WELL & LIVING IN PARIS

music by Brel

tonite $1.00

Bartlett Auditorium 8:00 p.m.

Box Office Opens 6:00 p.m. — No Reserved Tickets hear

Seagull

in the Hatch thursday, friday
and saturday,
oct. 11, 12, 13
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

RESEARCH

thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material

SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE

RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493

Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

In The Nation And The World

Who Would Have Guessed?

McGovern
Shriver
'72
SPIRO
IN '76

Anti-Imperialsim Group Sponsors Rally At S.U.B.

By DAVID LETTERS

More than three hundred people attended a rally in support of the Anti-Imperialism Conference in Solidarity with African Liberation Struggles (AIC) yesterday noon at the Student Union Ballroom.

The rally was to publicize the national conference in Chicago October 19-21. It was planned by the Amherst Committee and featured local and national speakers.

A panel of students, workers, educators, a poet, anthropologist and organizer of the Anti-Imperialist Conference spoke to a highly partisan group urging support for the Chicago rally. Each speaker spoke on various aspects of Imperialism. Repression and imperialism in South Africa and the United States were frequently cited. As the audience encouraged the speakers, they traced the role of imperialism of European countries and the United States.

Charges of imperialism were repeatedly made against such American firms as IBM, ITT, Gulf Oil, Ford and General Motors. They were cited as major imperialists who are "raping and stealing the lives of the people in the African Nations." Calls for unity of all peoples against imperialism were frequent. The speakers called for action in solidarity with the African liberation.

The speakers covered the history of the imperialist war of the United States-backed Portugese against the peoples of Angola, Mozambique, Guinea-Bissau and the Cape Verde Islands. "Their heroic liberation struggles are met with systematic torture and dvasting napalm and bombs supplied to Portugal...and marked and made in the U.S.A.," one speaker said.

COPY IT
COPY IT
COPY IT
on the Royal Bond Copier perfect reproduction of
— PHOTOGRAPHS
— DOCUMENTS
— TRANSPARENCIES
at
Hampshire Business Machines
5 Pray St., Amherst
549-6177
549-4439

Letters: Agnew's And Nixon's

WASHINGTON (AP)-Following are the texts of Spiro T. Agnew's formal letter of resignation as vice president, sent to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger under statutory procedures; Agnew's advisory letter of his resignation to President Nixon, and Nixon's reply to Agnew:

Dear Mr. Secretary:

I hereby resign the office of Vice President of the United States, effective immediately.

Sincerely,
-s-Spiro T. Agnew

Dear Mr. President:

As you are aware, the accusations against me cannot be resolved without a long, divisive and debilitating struggle in the Congress and in the courts. I have concluded that, painful as it is to me and to my family, it is in the best interest of the nation that I relinquish the vice presidency.

Accordingly, I have today resigned the office of vice president of the United States.

A copy of the instrument of resignation is enclosed.

It has been a privilege to serve with you. May I express to the American People, through you, my deep gratitude for their confidence in twice electing me to be vice president.

Sincerely,
-s-Spiro T. Agnew

Oct. 10, 1973

Dear Ted:

The most difficult decisions are often those that are the most personal, and I know your decision to resign as vice president has been as difficult as any facing a man in public life could be. Your departure from the administration leaves me with a great sense of personal loss. You have been a valued associate throughout these nearly five years that we have served together. However, I respect your decision, and I also respect the concern for the national interest that led you to conclude that a resolution of the matter in this way, rather than through an extended battle in the courts and the Congress, was advisable in order to prevent a protracted period of national division and uncertainty.

As Vice President, you have addressed the great issues of our times with courage and candor. Your strong patriotism, and you profound dedication to the welfare of the nation, have been an inspiration to all who have served with you as well as to millions of others throughout the country.

I have been deeply saddened by this whole course of events, and I hope that you and your family will be sustained in the days ahead by a well-justified pride in all that you have contributed to the nation by your years of service as vice president.

Sincerely,
Richard Nixon

Espionage Tactics Defended At Watergate Hearings

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A paid spy for the Nixon campaign Wednesday defended the political espionage work that took him inside three Democratic campaigns and into friendly contact with Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

"To me there's a difference between breaking law and breaking someone's confidence," Michael W. McMinoway told the Senate Watergate committee. "I believe it's impossible to run a successful campaign without knowing what the other side is doing."

McMinoway, a 27-year-old private detective from Louisville, Ky., said his success as a spy culminated when he was appointed to McGovern's security staff at the Democratic National Convention.

McMinoway said he chatted with McGovern several times and that the candidate once invited him into his room to watch on television a key convention vote.

McMinoway testified under oath he was told that the persons hiring him and receiving his reports were unidentified "concerned citizens." He said they paid him $5,808.10.

Previous testimony was established that McMinoway's reports were received by officials of the Committee for the Re-election of the President and that he was referred to by the code name Sedan Chair 2.

McMinoway said he was successful also in getting information from the primary campaigns of Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, and Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., because he made sure he was the best volunteer worker they ever had.

He testified he got his security guard position in McGovern's headquarters on the recommendation of Thomas Southwick, whom he described as the national youth coordinator for McGovern.

He testified that earlier he watched Southwick organize a noisy demonstraion aimed at disrupting a speech by Muskie.

Is Your Head "Together?"
If Not, Come by "The Cellar"
specializing in

Audrey Stevens
Relaxers
Perms Hairstraigtners
Scalp Massage
189 N. Pleasant St.,
Amherst
253-9233

FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES
Sher-wood
Louisville
Victoriaville
Koho
Cooper
STICKS
Hyde
CCM Daoust
SKATES
Skate Sharpening
377 MAIN ST., AMHERST 253-3973
Mon.-Fri., 10-5:30
Sat., 9-4

Conflicting War Claims Blur Mid-East Picture

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel said its jets attacked Damascus airport and other targets deep in Syria and Egypt on Wednesday as Iraq announced its forces had joined the fighting in a major widening of the war.

Jordan, a 1967 combatant that has stayed out of the current fighting, called up its reserves in what could signal another significant escalation adding a third front to the conflict.

Communiques indicated armored battles in the Golan Heights and the Sinai peninsula ground into something resembling a stalemate as the new Arab-Israeli struggle settled into its fifth day. Developments indicated neither side was capable of a quick, clear-cut victory.

"The war could be a long one," said Maj. Gen. Shmuel Gonen, Israeli commander on the Sinai front.

Tel Aviv and Damascus reported savage air clashes over the Golan Heights battleground and during the Israeli raids on targets in the Syrian heartland. Each side claimed the other suffered heavy losses.

President Nixon met with congressional leaders in Washington and won their support for his efforts to halt the war. Nixon's peacemaking proposal to the U.N. Security Council remained stalled, however, over conditions for a possible cease-fire.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said after the White House session that the question of U.S. arms for Israel is "always under advisement" but that it did not arise in his talk with Nixon.

U.S. officials said the Soviet Union was delivering "very large tonnages" of military equipment to resupply Egypt and Syria. They declined to say what amounts were involved.

The Iraqi announcement that its air and land forces were fighting on both fronts made it the third major Arab country to enter the fight against the Israelis in the fourth broad Arab-Israeli conflict since 1948.

Other Arab countries have pledged support to Egypt and Syria and some have sent token contingents.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar reported Iraq has committed 18,000 troops and 100 tanks along with an undisclosed amount of air power to back Syria on the Golan front and Egypt in the Sinai battle.

The Israeli military command claimed its raiding jets inflicted "considerable damage" on the French-built Damascus airport and also blasted Syrian naval headquarters on the Mediterranean and other strategic targets in Syria and Egypt.

But Syria claimed its air defenses rose to meet the four jets attacking over Damascus and blasted three of them out of the sky before they could get near the airport. The fourth Israeli jet fled wth Syria MIGs in hot pursuit and was downed before it could reach safety in Israeli skies, Damascus said.

The attack was the second reported on Syria's capital since the new round of hostilities erupted Saturday. Israeli jets bombed the Defense Ministry and the government radio station on the city's eastern edges Tuesday, with reports of heavy civilian casualties and damage to diplomatic installations including a Soviet cultural center.

The Syrians claimed Wednesday's attacks also caused civilian casualties at Homs, an industrial city 85 miles north of Damascus; at Minat al-Bayda, the naval center; and at the main Syrian Mediterranean ports of Tartus and Latakia.

The Tel Aviv command called its targets in Syria and Egypt "military and strategic."

It said the attacking Israeli jets hit Egyptian air bases at Khunsa and Abu Hammad on an arc in the Nile Delta only 27 miles from Cairo in addition to a radar station on Egypt's Mediterranean coast about 60 miles east of Alexandria.

The Egyptians said their Soviet-supplied jets shot down six of the attacking Israeli planes. The Cairo command claimed it retaliated by dispatching Egyptian warplanes in attacks against Israeli posts on the northern coast of the Sinai, occupied by Israel since the 1967 war.

On the ground, a communique broadcast by Cairo radio said, the Egyptian forces "are improving their advance positions east of the Suez Canal under air cover while the enemy forces continue to retreat eastward."

The Egyptians, who crossed the 103-mile-long waterway in force on Saturday for the first time since 1967, reiterated their claims of holding the entire eastern bank. Reports said they have advanced as far as 10 miles into the Sinai at one point east of Ismalia.

The Israelis acknowledged Tuesday that they have abandoned theer main defense lines along the canal designed to prevent an Egyptian advance.

Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv told a news conference the Israelis pulled back to new lines two to three miles from the original Suez defense installations, known as the Bar-Lev line after former Chief of Staff Haim Bar-Lev.

Foreign correspondents were barred from both fronts and unable to make independent checks on the conflicting claims.

"This is the most difficult battle we have faced since our war of independence in 1948," said Gonen. "We are faced by an enemy enjoying numerical superiority. The Egyptian forces are armed with the most up-to-date Soviet equipment."

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt said in a message delivered in his name at a Moscow meeting that he and President Hafez Assad of Syria are fighting "a war of liberation with the objective of establishing a just peace."

(AP Cablephoto)

DEFENSE MINISTER MOSHE DAYAN (Center) talks with Israeli officers today as battles with Egypt and Syria continued.

Russians Rush To Re-Supply Arabs

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-U.S. officials said Wednesday that the Soviet Union, in a special effort, is sending new supplies to Egypt and Syria in huge military transport planes.

Other sources said big Russian AN22 transports, which can carry more than 50 tons, and other military cargo planes from Russia had flown "scores of sorties across the Mediterranean" in the past two days.

The AN22 is capable of carrying vehicles as big as surface-to-air missiles which reportedly have been a major target of Israeli air strikes in the Golan Heights of Syrian and along the Suez Canal.

Some Pentagon officials believe the major new Soviet airlift is carrying ammunition to replace stocks fired in the furious fighting which broke out last Saturday.

Meanwhile, Nixon administration authorities were reported debating possible increased U.S. arms to Israel to replace heavy combat losses in the new Middle East fighting.

There were signs the Israelis were urging such emergency aid, at least a speed up in shipment of fighter planes under present contracts.

However, Pentagon sources said two new F4 phantom jets which were due to leave for Israel this week under existing agreements were not sent.

Officials indicated this was a temporary holdup because of concern over how to get the planes to Israel during the fighting.

Some U.S. supplies may already be on the way. Witnesses reported that a Boeing 707 transport-type plane bearing Israeli markings loaded bombs and air-to-air sidewinder and sparrow missiles at the Oceana Naval Air Station near Norfolk, Va.

Earlier, Israeli Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said in Jerusalem that Israel had lost about $952 million in combat gear in the first 100 hours of fighting.

The most critical losses involve at least 40 to 50 Israeli fighter bombers representing up to 20 per cent of the more than 300 fighters Israel had when the fighting broke out.

No. 2 is on the move.

The Lighthouse
Featuring fresh cooked seafood at low prices.
— LOBSTER in the rough — FRIED CLAMS
— SHRIMP, SCALLOPS, STEAMERS, FRESH FISH
a la carte or dinners.
THIS WEEK: Try our Giant Seafood Platter
satisfying 4 to 6 people Only $10.99
Bring your own beverage, if you wish
Located at the Amherst Town Line, Rt. 116 in Sunderland, Tel. 549-6662.

An Exhibit of Works By and About
THOMAS MERTON
Oct. 8 - Oct. 27th
LOGOS BOOKSHOP
27 No. Pleasant St.
Amherst

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 9, 10, 11
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Dickinson's Liberation Corridor Offers Unity, Political Action And Colloquiums

By ROBERTA MCCANN

Calling themselves the Liberation Corridor, a group of politically concerned individuals are attempting to create a supportive dorm environment conducive to political action. Some are feminists; some are gay. All are energetic political activists. They are living with and supporting each other on the fourth floor east of Dickinson Hall on Orchard Hill.

According to Terry Carr, corridor counselor, "We are trying to build a sense of community, in order that we can have a base of support to facilitate social change."

The supportive base on the corridor is used to help people develop politically. The Liberation Corridor is also a source center for students of Orchard Hill.

The corridor is multi-functional and serves many different interests for different people. Members of the Liberation Corridor are active participants in the Young Workers Liberation League, the Gay Women's Caucus, the UMass Lettuce Boycott committee, and the Orchard Hill Women's Center.

The Liberation Corridor provides a speakers bureau to communicate with other dorms and groups on campus. The speakers bureau was developed in response to rumors and misconceptions about the corridor, particularly the gay composition.

"It has been evident that it is not the feminists nor the political activists who have been the source of antagonism or apprehension toward the Liberation Corridor, rather it is the gay composition which has erupted such negative anticipation.", Terry Carr stated in a memo to Orchard Hill counselors.

The speakers bureau is also used as a tool through which members of the corridor can develop and articulate their ideas on politics and sexuality.

The corridor actively participated in the university employees strike against the parking proposal.

According to Ms. Carr, "The strike got the group together. We picketed with the workers. People got a really strong bond by working together. People began to see the link of their oppression with the oppression of the workers."

The Liberation Corridor also intends to act as an educational force. Several one-credit colloquims are being offered this semester. Some colloquia are Basic Self-awareness for Women, Communism and Human Values, Project Liberation, Lesbianism, and A People's History of Orchard Hill-the Battle of Whitmore '73.

Workshops on homosexuality, racism, male supremacy, anti-semiticism and zionism and Indian women will be held during the semester.

(AP Wirephoto)

UNITED NATIONS--Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban, left, and Syria's deputy foreign minister of state Zakaria Ismael gesture during United Nations General Assembly debate Monday. Eban and Ismael accused each other of launching the new Mideast war.

Bizarre Murder Charge Lessened

BOSTON (AP) - The state Supreme Court has reduced to second degree murder a first degree murder conviction of a prostitute who killed a customer during a theft.

The court ruled Tuesday that Betty J. Williams, 22, had not intended to kill Lee J. Bourgault and had done so only when she was discovered in the act of theft.

Who Will Replace Agnew?

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A replacement for the resigned Spiro T. Agnew as Vice President of the United States will have to be the joint choice of President Nixon and both houses of Congress.

Agnew resigned from the nation's second highest office Wednesday at the same time he pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax evasion. It was only the second resignation of a vice president in the country's history.

The replacement procedure contained in the 25th Amendment to the constitution provides that a vacancy in the office is to be filled by a nominee proposed by the President and ratified by Congress.

Differing from other presidential nominations, a choice for vice president must be ratified by both the House and Senate instead of just the Senate as in the case of cabinet members, judges and other top officials.

During most of the nation's history a vacancy created either by resignation or promotion of a vice president to the No. 1 job after a president's death has gone unfilled until the next election.

But the 25th Amendment, ratified on Feb. 10, 1967, provides in Section 2: "Whenever there is a vacancy in the office of the vice president, the President shall nominate a Vice President who shall take office upon confirmation by a majority vote of both houses of Congress."

The second newest amendment also provides a new order for presidential succession and a formula for removing an incapacitated president who becomes unable to carry out the duties of office.

The only other man ever to resign the job was John C. Calhoun, who quit as Andrew Jackson's vice president on Dec. 28, 1832 in a disagreement with Jackson over tariff policy and states' rights.

Calhoun, who had been vice president since 1825 under both John Quincy Adams and Jackson, became U.S. Senator from South Carolina.

The office has become vacant 14 other times when vice presidents either died in office or succeeded dead presidents.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

Are you tired of campus food? How about a good home cooked meal?

ST. REGIS
RESTAURANT

Open
Mon.-Sat.
6 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sun.
8 a.m. - 9 p.m.

The place that serves breakfast from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday (8 a.m. to 9 p.m.).

— can offer you:
— SEAFOOD - STEAK - CHOPS - CHICKEN
— SPAGHETTI - SANDWICHES - much, much, more
— DAILY SPECIALS
— LIQUOR served with meals
— All at GREAT Prices

28 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
(Intersection of Rt. 9 and Rt. 5, Downtown Northampton)

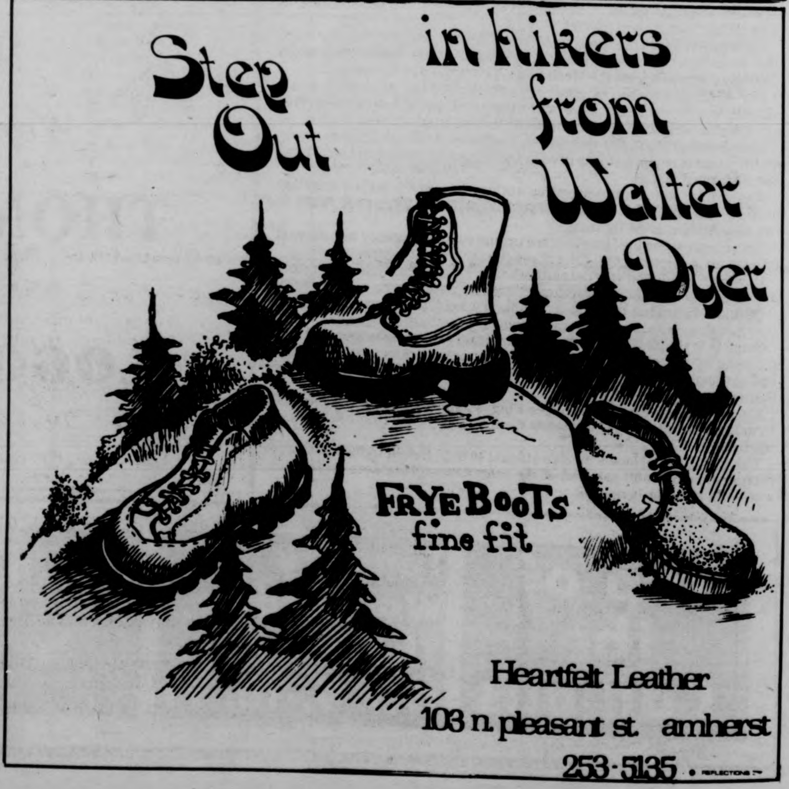
SPRINGFIELD SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA
Robert Gutler, Conductor 739-4728

OPENING CONCERT —
ALL ORCHESTRAL
Tues., Oct. 16 - 8 p.m. Municipal Aud.

Round Trip Peter Pan Bus Service
Leaves U.Mass Campus Center — 6:20 p.m.
Amherst Center Terminal — 6:25 p.m.

Concert & bus tickets: U.M. Bus Ticket Office
Amherst Center Bus Terminal

Concert Tickets: $5.75 - $4.75 - $3.75
Students $2.00



UMass Student Nears Mayorality

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The youngest man ever to run for mayor in Gardner topped a six-man field and a 28-year-old former executive assistant of Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., topped a seven-man mayor's race in Pittsfield to highlight municipal elections Tuesday in Massachusetts.

Stephen J. Erickson, a 21-year-old University of Massachssetts student, topped the field in an election which drew a 60 per cent voter turnout in Gardner.

He will face incumbent Mayor Clarke K. Stodman, 67, in a runoff. Both men polled less than 2,000 votes.

In Pittsfield, Evan S. Dobello, 28, outpassed his nearest opponent in the seven-man feld by more than 2-to-1. The incumbent mayor, Donald G. Butler, did not seek re-election.

Dobello, Brooke's former executive assistant, polled 5,647 votes. He'll face Albert A. Bogdan, who got 2,776 to place second, in the runoff.

Most of the preliminary elections Tuesday were to pair down large fields of candidates to two-man runoffs on Nov. 6.

Incumbent mayors who won renomination are:

William S. Taupier, running for a fourth term in Holyoke, who will face Thomas W. Hart, a school committeeman; Edward J. Ziemba, seeking a third term in Chicopee, who will face Alderman Raymond E. Brunelle; John J. Palczynski, looking for a fourth term in Westfield, who will face John J. Rhodes; John A. Markoy, seeking a second term, who will face Sylvester Sylvia in New Bedford.

Also, Carleton E. Blackwell of Fitchburg will face Anthony J. Nigro; Edgar C. Gadbois will face Roland F. Simoneau in Marlboro; John J. Buckley will meet Albert S. Provite in Lawrence; Byron J. Matthew will run against Charles R. Stevens in Newburyport; Theodore D. Mann will face William Carmen in Newton.

Incumbent Antonia J. Marine will face David L. Phillips in Lynn; incumbent George K. Katsaros of Haverhill will run against William Ryan.

The election in Springfield was for 18 nominations for nine City Council seats. Theodore E. Dimauro topped a field of 41 candidates with 5,596 votes. Second was Barbara Garvey with 5,186 votes.

Several other communities held elections for city council posts and voters in Manchester rejected a zoning amendment which would have excluded all dormitories, foster, group or therapeutic facilities from the community.

McLelland, a ward councilman who will run at large, had contended the city election department gave him incorrect information on the filing deadline.

Staff Photo/Judy Boucher

You crawled into bed last night around 2 AM, after a tough night screaming your guts out in the Bowl. You get up at and go to your 8 o'clocker, then slave through a day of sleepy lectures, with time off to offend your stomach with a substance best titled "Theme on a Pig Sty". And just when you'd like to relax its time to grab your trusty rake and undo what nature has done. It ain't fair!

Old Timers Buy Up Co-op Food

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Senior citizens are buying fish at 25 cents a pound from a nonprofit cooperative for older people and the protein-rich food is selling faster than the co-op can stock its freezers.

The Senior Citizens Cooperative - Sen-Cop - held its first sale this week, and 100 pounds of fresh mullot went in 90 minutes. More than 100 people were turned away empty-handed.

Marie Wacker, 76, who said she hasn't bought beef for a long time, purchased several pounds of mullot and tried some for lunch. "I cooked it the way they said, and it was really very tasty," she said. "It was such a bargain."

Mrs. Joe Goldman bought a few pounds and said, "It's about time we got a break on some sort of food. We like fish and this service is going to be a life-saver."

The purchasers clean their own fish, which keeps the cost down, and the salesmen are senior citizens who work for $1.76 an hour and the feeling of being useful again.

They pay from 25 to 50 cents per pound below usual market prices for mullot. The State Department of Natural Resources provided menus with recipes for the fish.

The co-op is the brainchild of Lee Mendel, 41, who says it's easing the guilt he carried after learning that a dog food he promoted was a main course for many old people.

"I worked for a packing irm in Chicago in 1962, and I knew the market surveys said 11 to 13 per cent of our dog food went for human consumption," Mendel said. "But these were just numbers.

"Then I went to Lafayette, Ind., for a test market survey on a new product. I stopped an old couple with a cart full of our dog food to ask how their dog like it. Then I asked what the dog's name was," Mendel said. "She said 'Spot' and he said 'Rover.' They turned white and rushed away, and I suddently realized they ate it."

Mendel said his 69-year-old mother lives with him and he met many of her friends. From them, he learned how tough it is to live on a pension in the shadow of the winter playground of the wealthy in nearby Palm Beach.

So he went to the Hudgins Fish Market and that company agreed to sell fish to the co-op at cost. He convinced the owner of the Pan American market to let the senior citizens sell fish in his store. Customers must be over 55 years of age.

"It's going great," Mundel says. "We've got 500 pounds on order for another sale this weekend and we're opening in five new stores in the area this week."

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

No. 2
wants you.

WUMV-TV Sports
Spectacular Repeat
Bluewall Wide Screen . . .!

Thursday
5 - 7:30 p.m.
BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND!

"Relive the final stirring seconds as the Minutemen held All-American J. J. Jennings 6 inches, 6 seconds from victory
UMass-Rutgers Football

Marty Kelley — Play-by-Play
"Near Disaster" Earle Barroll — Color

WUMV-TV Sports Special

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions:
On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd.
oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

EMS

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.
SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT
CAMPING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT
POST OFFICE BOX 12 AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS 01002
Tel. (413) 253-5081
Located on Route 9 at the Amherst-Hadley town line
(413) 253-9504

FALL RENTAL EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11-13 ONLY
30-50 per cent off on all rental equipment depending on condition including down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, framepacks, & tents

PRE-SEASON SKI-TOURING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off most models of touring skis, boots, bindings and poles. Brands on sale include EMS Asnes, Bonna, EMS Madshus, Rieber, Falk VM poles, Rottefella and others.

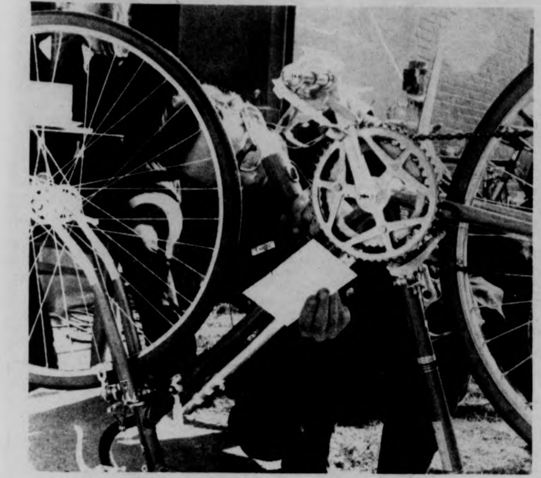
MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off on many models of down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, frame and day packs, down-filled parkas, tents, gloves, mittens and many other items.

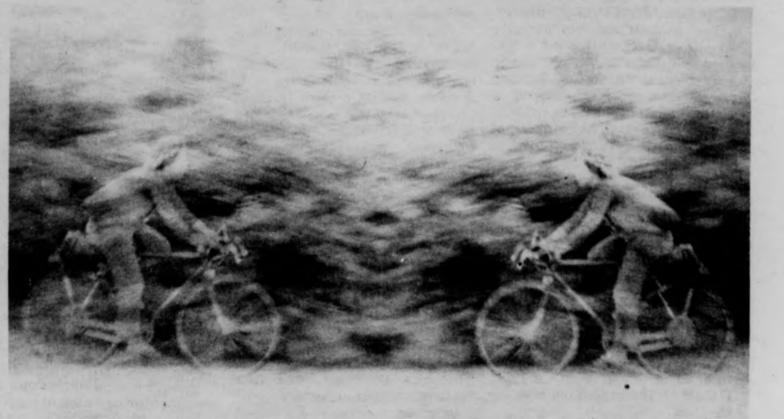
Brands on sale include Alpine Designs, North Face, Gerry, EMS, Janus, Camp Trails, Rough Rider, Bergens, etc.

ALL BICYCLE PACKS 20 per cent OFF
Supply limited

Store Hours . . 9-9, Mon.-Fri.
9-5:30, Sat.

Bicycle Thieves Will Be Foiled!





This bike rider can't decide whether he's coming or going! One thing's for sure, he should get his bike registered pretty soon.

Photos And Story By STEVE RUGGLES

On Tuesday, Robert Kreps and Diana White from Campus Security registered 205 UMass students' bicycles in Southwest. When these pictures were taken yesterday, the two expected an equal turnout at the Worcester Dining Commons.

If you own a bicycle, and keep it on campus, it would be a very good idea to register it with Campus Security. The process is very simple. Bring your bike to one of the registration points and get the necessary form. Put down your name, address, and social security number, as well as your bike's make, model and serial number. Your social security number is then engraved on the bottom of the bicycle and you are given a decal to put on the bar below the seat.

Eventually, all of this information will be fed into the computer for quick-checks in case of theft.

Kreps and White will be registering bikes today from 10:00 A.M. until 7:00 P.M. at the Franklin Dining Commons, and again next week at the Campus Security Office.

One of the 400 students who have registered their bicycles with Campus Security in the last two days. Registration will continue next week.

No. 2 isn't always second.

TRUSTED NAME BRANDS
AND PERSONAL SERVICE TOO!

- PANASONIC
- TDK
- ELECTROPHONIC
- REALISTIC
- TOSHIBA T.V.
- MUNTZ-CLARION
- UTAH

YOUR LOCALLY OWNED AND OPERATED radio shack
of amherst
318 College St. (Rte. 9) Amherst
(on the UMass Bus Route)
WE SERVICE WHAT WE SELL
STORE HOURS: MON.-THURS. 10 A.M. - 5:30 P.M.
FRIDAYS 'TIL 9 P.M. SATURDAYS 9 A.M. - 5 P.M.

Barbara Stewart
on
HELLO AGAIN, COLUMBUS

Last Monday was the official, legal celebration of Columbus' Birthday. This weekend, to coincide with the real life date of that same memorable event (Friday, the 12th), Stewart's College Towne and the other Downtown folks are celebrating Discovery Days with a SALE!

Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, look for these outstanding values at Stewart's College Towne:

The NINA: Patterned knit PANTS were $17.00 to $18.00. NOW $11.99

The PINTA: Wool PANTS were $16.00. NOW $9.99

The SANTA MARIA:
early Fall DRESSES 20 per cent to 30 per cent OFF

Columbus knew what he was doing when he set sail for the New World. We'll help you set a straight course with our world of fashion values at . . .

STEWART'S COLLEGE TOWNE
96 Main Street, Northampton

MSP aaup
Massachusetts Society of Professors
American Association of University Professors

A PUBLIC SERVICE

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING AND THE QUALITY OF EDUCATION

by Professor Robert Paul Wolff
Department of Philosophy

I am writing to you, not as a member of the Executive Board of the Massachusetts Society of Professors-American Association of University Professors, but simply as a member of the UMass faculty, to share with you my reasons for supporting the effort to name the MSP-AAUP as the official bargaining agent for all of us here at the University of Massachusetts.

My fundamental professional commitments are three in number: First and foremost, to the highest possible quality of education and research; Second, to the development of academically excellent experiments in undergraduate and graduate education; and third, to the democratic principle of faculty self-government at every level from individual departments to the entire University of Massachusetts. It is my considered judgment that a strong faculty union, committed to the principles of quality, experiment, and democracy, is our best hope for maintaining and fulfilling these commitments.

At this time, I see three serious threats to quality education at UMass. The first and most serious of these is the threat of budgetary cuts by the State Legislature, aimed at raising the student-faculty ratio, increasing faculty work loads, weakening graduate programs and library acquisitions, and fostering superficially attractive but educationally unsound new programs. A strong union can fight for the money which we know to be necessary for quality education at the university level.

The second threat to quality education is the lamentable absence of strong academic leadership from the UMass-Amherst administration in the past several years. When I arrived at this campus two and a half years ago, UMass was rising rapidly in the quality of its faculty and programs. Since that time, the administration seems to have been perversely opposed to programs of real academic distinction, while at the same time it has hastily and unwisely lent its support to a number of ill-conceived, inadequately monitored educational experiments. A strong union of academically committed professionals can make the administration accountable for the oversight and management of educational programs which now are not held to high standards of excellence.

Finally, I see at least the possibility of a threat, even in Massachusetts, of political attacks on the University and its faculty from portions of the public who lack a firm commitment to academic freedom. We are all aware of the sorts of attacks to which higher education has been subjected in past years. A strong union would be a bastion of defense should such times of troubles again come upon us.

The principal argument against a faculty union — an argument to which I give significant weight — is that our professional commitment to excellence and meritorious achievement is inconsistent with labor unions' usual concern for the establishment of minimum standards and the resistance to reward for individual achievement. I am convinced that we can make our union a fighter for excellence and for the principle of individual merit if all of us who believe in these principles join the union, vote for it as the designated bargaining agent for our campus, and then remain active in the union in order to ensure that it continues to fight for these principles.

Ex-Con Named To Parole Board

By DAVE SWEARINGEN
Associated Press Writer

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)-A Brunswick man said to have helped lead a 1971 strike at the Main State Prison was confirmed as a member of the state parole board Wednesday, despite objections from an inmate-oriented corrections reform group.

Francis M. Jackson, 24, now a senior at Bowdoin College, was nominated by Democratic Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis and approved by the all-Republican Executive Council.

Alan Caron of Portland, president of the Statewide Correctional Alliance for Reform SCAR, told Curtis and the council prior to their vote that more than 300 inmates at the Thomaston prison had signed petitions objecting to the appointment.

Caron claimed Jackson was a leader in the strike two years ago, "and in the midst of it backed out."

"The inmates are against him because he turned his back at a crucial moment when those people were looking for leadership. They don't trust him now."

Jackson received a 2-4 year sentence in 1969 for assault with intent to kill a Portland policeman. Last summer, he worked on Project EXIT, a federal-funded program for counseling inmates before their return to society.

Caron said the EXIT office was next door to the Kennebec County jail, but Jackson never appeared to help with programs there, "because he didn't want to dirty his hands."

"To say he is representing inmates is probably not true," continued the SCAR president in asking the governor and council to delay action. The vote was delayed about 20 minutes while Curtis and the councilors conferred in executive session, and then Jackson was approved.

"It's quite a step forward just to get an ex-offender on the board," said the governor. Curtis added that he had anticipated SCAR's objections to his nominee.

(AP Wirephoto)

SAN FRANCISCO--FORGOTTEN MAN--Vincent Dawa, 62, has spent more than half his life in state mental hospitals with no one to talk to after being convicted of killing a Chinese fan-tan dealer in a Sacramento gambling den. Dawa speaks only a few words in English, his native tongue being the Phillipine dialect of Ilocano, and will appear at a sanity hearing this week which could grant him his freedom on parole.

Hartford Times Sold To Publishing Company

NEW HAVEN (AP) - The Hartford Times, Connecticut's second largest newspaper, was sold by the Gannett Co. Inc. Wednesday to the Register Publishing Co. Inc., publishers of New Haven's two newspapers.

The purchase price was $7 million, plus more than $1 million for assets, according to a joint statement issued by Paul Miller, chairman of the Gannett board; Allen H. Neuharth, president and chief executve for Gannett, and Lionel S. Jackson, president of the Register company and publisher of the Register and the Journal-Courier in New Haven.

The Times' new owners indicated that no major immediate changes were planned for the newspaper.

Times Publisher Roger C. Coryell resigned to take another job with Gannett. He told Times employees that their pension and other benefits were guaranteed in the purchase agreement.

In its statement, Gannett said the Times circulation had slipped in recent years.

"Shifts in the regional economy and suburban living patterns have forced the Times to marginal operations in recent years," it said.

It also blamed federal economic controls since 1971 for placing "artificial restrictions on the Times' ability to compete" in the Hartford area.

The Hartford Times, an afternoon newspaper, had an Oct. 1 paid circulation of 115,000. Prior to 1964 it led its chief competitor, the Hartford Courant, in circulation. The Courant on Oct. 1 reported a paid circulation of 181,751.

The New Haven Register, the states's third largest newspaper, had an Oct. 1 paid circulation of 108,199.

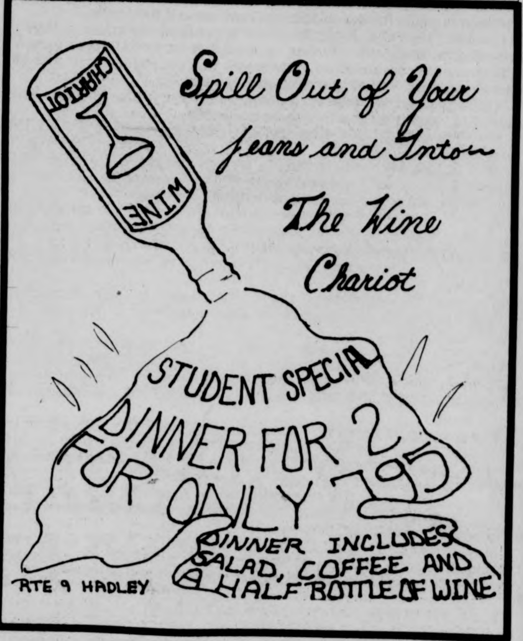
An attempt was made in May to drop the sale by Jackson's brother, Richard, who was unseated as president and co-publisher in 1972.

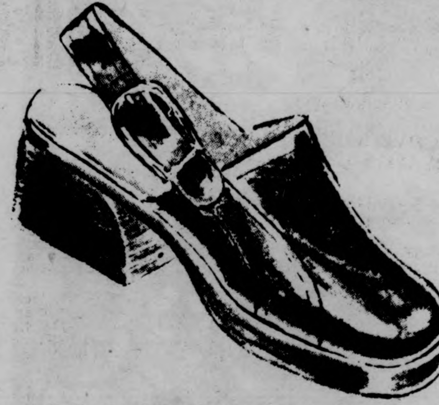
But Supperior Court Judge Leo Parskey denied Richard's motion.

Richard also tried unsuccessfully to remove Lionel Jackson and Henry J. Conland of Catskill, N.Y., as the company's other two trustees.

Questioned about the sale Wednesday, Richard Jackson said that information disclosed at the trial cited "the failing nature of the Times." He said he considered the purchase "more inane now than I did then."

He said he and other members of his family would continue to fight to regain control of the company.





S.R.O. STACKS THE DECKS

...and deals the winning look in women's shoes this season. Leather oxfords, moccasins, pumps, sling-backs - all with stack platforms and heels. A collection packed with color - royally suited to fall's great sports looks in knits and pants.

Mathews SHOE STORE
S. Pleasant St., Amherst

Music for a Sunday Evening
The Amherst College Entertainment Committee

Charles Mingus
Sunday, October 14
Tickets $3.50
All concerts will be in the Amherst College
Gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.

Tickets will be available in advance at: Faces of Earth, Amherst;
The New Record Shop, Amherst; Del Padre Music, Northampton;
UMass, Campus Center; Uroboros Book Shop, Hampshire College;
and will also be available at the door.
This series is presented in co-operation with H-T Productions.

In New England...

Reaction To Agnew

The Politicians...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New England political leaders expressed surprise and dismay Wednesday over the resignation of Vice President Spiro Agnew. But some said they respected Agnew for not pursuing a lengthy defense through the courts.

Some said it further eroded public confidence in American politics, while others maintained that it demonstrated the strengths of the system.

"I believe we all recognize that there is a crisis of confidence in this country," said Gov. Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, a Republican. "To have it necessary for the person holding the second highest office in this land to resign further shatters the confidence of the people."

However, Harold J. Jones, the state Republican chairman in Maine, looked at the bright side. "We can be proud that our free and open form of government is constituted on a framework that can change itself without our government suffering irreparable damage."

Agnew pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax invasion. He was fined $10,000 and given three years probation.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., said he respected the vice president's decision.

"Mr. Agnew's historic decision to resign...avoided a shattering constitutional crisis for a nation already torn and divided. Whaatever his motives, he had done his part to prevent further division."

Kenneth M. Curtis, the Democratic governor of Maine, echoed that thought. "Regardless of what happens, he deserves a certain amount of credit for placing the country ahead of his future," Curtis said.

Some politicians wondered about the affect of the resignation upon the Republican Party.

The effect "is self evident," said Rhode Island Atty. Gen. Richard J. Israel, the state's top Republican elected official. "That would be belaboring the obvious."

Cranston, R.I., Mayor James Taft, who chaired the Rhode Island Committee to Re-Elect the President last year, said, "I think certainly it will affect the integrity of the Nixon Administration. To say otherwise would be foolish. I don't think it will have an impact on Republicans at a local level."

The governor of Vermont, Thomas Salmon, said, "My only advice to President Nixon is to take a long hard look at the governors in this country, especially the governors in his own party, headed by the dean of the governors, Nelson Rockefeller of New York."

Massachusetts Lt. Gov. Donald R. Dwight suggested U.S. Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, a former Massachusetts attorney general and lieutenant governor, as a successor.

Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston, mentioned briefly as a vice presidential possibility during the Democratic National Convention last year, sent a telegram to Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass.

White said, "I urge you to reconsider the Democratic leadership's stated position that the next vice president must disclaim intention or desire to seek the presidency. Above all, the next vice president must be qualified to succeed to the presidency and must be fully responsible and accountable to the political process."

New Hampshire Gov. Meldrim Thomson, a conservative Republican, said, "I am in a state of shock and disbelief."

Peter Booras, the man who directed Agnew's primary campaign in New Hampshire in 1972, said, "I have been looking forward to his vindication."

Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., called the resignation "a great personal tragedy" for Agnew and his family and "a great tragedy for our nation. But we must remember this was a failing of a man, not of a system, and our system provides for the orderly selection of a successor."

The Public...

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The announcement of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's resignation caught most New Englanders by surprise, and reactions varied from "He got what he deserved" to "He was a scapegoat."

Alan Garber, 22, of Boston, a construction surveyor, said: "I'm glad they got him. It's good they got him out."

"I think Nixon wanted it this way to take the heat off himself," Garber continued, "But the Agnew thing will quiet down like Watergate and Nixon will be under the gun again."

Ted Sarnecki, a construction superintendent of Simsbury, Conn., said he disagreed with Agnew's decision to resign and the investigation which preceded it.

"Men in a key position of that sort should be given a little more freedom without being investigated so closely," Sarnecki said.

"They beat the man into the ground," he added. "It's not the right way to do it."

Walter Shaw, 46, of Revere, Mass., a bank security guard, commented: "I think Nixon should have stayed behind Agnew all the way. As far as I'm concerned, Nixon left him all by himself and didn't back him. Nixon is in charge and should back up the people under him."

Dan Wright, 37, of Boston, a railway porter was pleased with the resignation.

"It came unexpectedly, but I'm glad they got him," Wright said.

"He's guilty," he continued, "I only wish he had taken Nixon with him."

Clark Johnson, 43, of Weston, Massachusetts, president of Micro-Electronics, Inc., said: "I think this creates a serious situation in that President Nixon can now appoint someone else into his criminal administration. We haven't seen the end of the trouble."

W. J. Weinstock, 49, of Boston and New York, an engineering consultant, commented: "Let him hang. He's been in office five years too long anyway. Pleading guilty to income tax evasion is just part of plea bargaining-there's more to it than that."

"The government should start abiding by the Constitution as it was written and not make up rules as it goes along," Goudett said. "He got what he deserved."

Make No. 2

No. 1

THE SIG SHORE PRODUCTION
Super Fly

7, 9, 11 p.m.
S.U. Ballroom
75c
TONIGHT
Original soundtrack available on Curtom Records from Warner Bros., a Warner Communications company R

HONORS PROGRAM

The Commonwealth Scholars' Program will be accepting new members during the weeks of October 9th and October 15th. This Program is intended for those students with a more than ordinary commitment to academic studies. Students who elect to join the Program are excused from University Core Requirements, provided that they take the required Honors courses and maintain certain minimum academic standards. Students who are interested should inquire at Machmer E-23.

TWO·NITES·ONLY!
SWEET PIE
A FRESH & FLESH BOTTOMS-UP FANTASY of LOVE & ROMANCE, CRUISIN' HEARTBREAK & A BUZZ OF PHILOSURPRISIN' JIVE!
SWEET PIES FIRST ALBUM of NASTY BOOGIE WOOGIE BARRELHOUSE BLUES & SWEET TONKIN JIVE
PLEASURE PUDDING SWEET PIE
BOOGIE BLUES
·BLUEWALL·
WED·THUR·OCT·10·11
PLEASURE PUDDING
Sweet Pie
RIG Records/ESP Disk 2004

R.I. Executive Indicted On Seeking A Bribe Charges

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)-The executive in charge of operations and fiscal management for the Providence Civic Center was indicted Wednesday on charges of seeking a bribe from a promoter in return for a favorable show date.

Harold C. Copeland, executive director of the $13 million sports arena and exhibition center, was released on $1,000 personal recognizance after pleading innocent in Superior Court.

The indictment from a Superior Court grand jury said the 40-year-old Copeland sought $1,000 from Robert "Skip" Chernov, a leading partner in the Leisure Systems, Inc., promotion firm.

Atty. Gen. Richard J. Israel characterized the indictment as the first stage of a continuing investigating into suspected irregularities of Civic Center business activities. "I cannot say at this time whether other indictments will be forthcoming," Israel said.

He added that Vincent A. Cianci Jr., a special assistant to the attorney general, is investigating various aspects of the center's financial transactions.

Rumors of an investigation were circulated widely in the wake of a disclosure early this month that the one-year-old Civic Center has failed to meet a deadline requiring a written statement of its revenue and expenditures within 90 days of the end of each fiscal year.

At a news conference last week, John J. Cummings, Jr., president of the Industrial National Bank and chairman of the Civic Center Authority, said he was pressuring auditors to complete the financial report.

Copeland, who was hired in 1971 at a $22,000 annual salary, was general manager of the privately-owned Winterland Arena in San Francisco for six years before coming to Providence. He was considered one of the country's top young professionals in the relatively new field of arena management.

His attorney, Eugene F. Toro, said he would seek a trial at the earliest possible date. "I think the whole thing is politically motivated," Toro said without elaboration.

Providence Mayor John A. Doorley Jr. called on Copeland to take an immediate leave of absence from his job. The Civic Center was constructed with funds from a city bond issue.

Doorley said he welcomed any further investigation of the Civic Center. But, he added, "I'm particularly upset because of the fact that the Civic Center is the cornerstone of the plan to rebuild downtown Providence. I earnestly hope that the present situation will not cast a shadow over the success the Civic Center has enjoyed in its first year of operation."

TM-Hope For Addicts?

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) - The head of New Hampshire's effort to curb drug abuse has recommended transcendental meditation as treatment for drug addicts.

The recommendation is in the state's comprehensive drug abuse control plan prepared by George Tice, coordinator of the state's drug abuse control programs and approved by Gov. Meldrim Thomson.

Tice said transcendental meditation, a simple, medically-tested technique to relax mind and body, should be tried as "an alternative to drug abuse."

"It seems only logical," the report said, "to encourage people to progress beyond drugs to better methods of altering consciousness."

Tice also said he hoped that popular misconceptions about transcendental meditation would not jeopardize it.

Tice said the governor had no reaction to the proposal, adding, "I'd like to see it tried before we react to it."

If approved, Tice said he believes it would be the first state drug control plan incorporating transcendental meditation.

The proposal is part of the entire state plan, submitted by Tice to federal authorities, which seeks $2.55 million in federal aid to fight drug abuse.

The 217-page plan calls for creation of regional units providing direct services to people with drug problems, centralized coordination of all drug abuse control projects in the state, and programs at various state institutions and support and expansion of privately-operated programs.

"Drug abuse," his report said, "In some, perhaps many, cases can be seen as the product of a misguided attempt to alter consciousness." Transcendental meditation, he said, "Is an experimental process which results in attitudinal changes in an individual. . .The person becomes a potent source of self-reinforcement. There are no harmful negative consequences such as the surfacing of repressed material." Transcendental meditation, based on the teachings of Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, is a technique of relaxation which is not connected to religion, mysticism or the occult.

"The success rate of 'treating' drug patients through this simple technique is fast approaching the level of phenomenal," the report said.

Tice, himself a meditator, noted that transcendental meditation as a technique of drug abuse control first received wide publicity when Maj. Gen. Franklin Davis, commander of the Army College at Carlysle, Pa., recommended it to control drug abuse in the armed services.

TONITE
Parachute Club Meeting
7:00 Rm. 101 Campus Ctr.
Learn to skydive with us
Open to 5-College area students & staff
Get all the info tonite, class 18 & 19th Jump the 20th

Medeires Urges Community Ties

BOSTON (AP) - Humberto Cardinal Medeiros, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, has urged Catholics "to join with their neighbors" to ease racial tension in the city.

Cardinal Medeiros, who made the statement Tuesday on his return to Boston from Rome, said tensions "must be eased, but we must cooperate in the development of long range selections so all the people of God can live in harmony and dignity."

"I believe that hope for peace in our city is what has brought clergy and people of all denominations together," he said.

He praised the work being done by Catholics and protestant clergy to work in the streets of the city to reduce racial strife. "I endorse their efforts and pledge my personal support," he said.

Just what is an automatic transmission Adjustment?
...and what should it cost?

A regular adjustment consists of tightening the bands, adjusting linkage, replacing the filter and refilling with fluid. Doing this once a year for about every 10,000 miles) is like an insurance policy against major trouble, and it keeps your transmission shifting smoothly and efficiently.

United Transmission Exchange, Inc.
389 King Street, Northampton
584-6790

top of the campus restaurant
featuring
Greg Bullen
from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday seating for cocktails - 9:30 p.m.

FINE FOOD IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RELAXED DINING.
ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAYS AND SATURDAYS
BEST VIEW OF AMHERST.
DISCOUNTS FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR GUESTS
PHONE 549-6000 FOR RESERVATIONS.

AMERICA'S LARGEST COAST TO COAST RECORD STORES
OPENING VERY SOON IN AMHERST

We're a few steps from the Triangle Office
discount records
LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING!
257 Triangle Amherst 237-5876

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS
EDITOR IN CHIEF Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR Patrick Coffey

ADVERTISING MANAGER Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF
ISSUE EDITOR Jan Alexander
NIGHT STAFF Kathy Sheehan, Marc Bouchard
EDITORIAL Karen Gordon
SPORTS Glenn Poster
DARKROOM Bob Gamache, Marcia Lappin, Greg Omar
AD LAYOUT Elaine Stogel

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Teacher Power

By PAUL WALLACE

There have been many issues on college campuses that have had a quick start, as well as a quick finish. However, according to David Rubin, Deputy General Counsel for the National Educational Association, there is one issue which will be around for a long time. The subject is Collective Bargaining (or, how to get more money and teach less).

Early November the concept of collective bargaining will be put to the test by a faculty vote. The results of the election will directly affect tenured and non-tenured teachers. According to Mr. Rubin, if the faculty could come together and thus bargain collectively, greater "leverage could be put upon the administration." If and when collective bargaining does come about, three areas of concern will develop:

(1) A fairer procedure for teacher evaluation

(2) A fairer procedure for renewal of contracts;

(3) with the concept of collective bargaining being passed, there would be more resources available from state and national organizations.

The issue of "academic freedom" is of vital concern to most, if not all teachers. Collective bargaining would once and for all protect academic freedom. As it is now, the administration can use "academic freedom" as a weapon against faculty who do engage in the exercise of intellectual expression (in some cases maybe we should not take this power from the administration).

A point that must not be forgotten when discussing the merits of

(Continued on P. 13)

Steve Anderson

Candidates Scene

Last week the official campaign for governor began with Mike Dukakis' announcement that he will seek the office. The question in many people's minds is if anyone can defeat the incumbent governor. His strength in the Republican party and the state seems very secure.

The Democrats will not field their best candidate next year, even though he has superior qualifications and the best chance of winning. Mayor White has declined to seek the job. He will sit out the race and wait for a chance at a different office, perhaps Edward Kennedy's Senate seat in 1976 should Kennedy run for President. Or at least this is how the talk goes. White runs stronger against Sargent than any other candidate in the governor's polls. White's failure to challenge Sargent appears to be one of the reasons for the increased cooperation between the two men on matters such as Park Plaza. Whatever the reasons, the Democratic field has been deprived of a fine candidate. After considerable vacillation it appears that Congressman Harrington will not try for a statewide office this year either.

This leaves the Democrats with Attorney General Robert Quinn and former state representative Michael Dukakis of Brookline as candidates. Both men would be decent opposition to any Republican on the state scene except Francis Sargent. Robert Quinn is a product of the state legislature. He served in the House leadership and was speaker until he was elected to fill the vacancy left in the Attorney General's office by Elliot Richardson's departure. He has been a capable administrator and when he faced his first statewide election in 1970 he proved that he was a first rate campaigner. As a veteran of the General Court he would probably receive the endorsement of a convention if one were held. Michael Dukakis also served in the House where he was identified as a young Turk. His most visible achievement was his work for no-fault insurance. As a candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1970 he became an asset to the ticket and established himself throughout the state.

The reasons these men will probably fall to Mr. Sargent is more related to his achievements than to their faults. Francis Sargent is a very popular man. His only major difficulty to date has been prison reform. The Governor is liberal, attractive and has the image of a hard worker. Yet circumstances could prevail that might spell defeat for Mr. Sargent. In 1962 John Volpe was so confident of victory he didn't run a serious campaign and lost to Peabody. The same could happen to Sargent. First, there is overconfidence. The same could happen to Sargent. More importantly, a conservative challenge could overturn the present administration.

Conservative Republicans are not very pleased with Sargent. His support of the graduated income tax and his handling of the prison crisis has damaged his standings with them. In 1970 John McCarthy proved that there is a sizable conservative Republican vote. In a short campaign, he captured about 45 per cent of the vote against a better known liberal who had been campaigning for much longer. These conservative Republicans could damage Sargent if they filed a serious challenge against him in the primary. If the primary were very vicious and the challenger did well, the Governor would lose many of his traditional Republican votes. Against a conservative Democrat, perhaps Quinn, this would be a real liability. The Democrat would receive most of the conservative vote in this state is sizable despite McGovern's victory last year. Mrs. Hicks' vote last year and every year shows the percentage of the 'right of center' vote in Boston. Weeks' vote in the twelfth Congressional District indicates strength there and Cronin's vote in his race against Kerry points out that the rightist vote in the Lowell area is considerable.

Liberals might complain that the vote for President last year proved Massachusetts is a liberal state. But George McGovern was running against Richard Nixon; Francis Sargent doesn't have that luxury.

Steve Anderson is a Collegian columnist.

Israel And The Jews

By DAVID EIBEL

Israel, the only nation in the entire Middle East where freedom and liberty are respected, is now involved in its fourth major war in twenty five years to defend itself and indirectly the Jews of the world.

Prior to the establishment of the State of Israel in 1948, the Jews lived everywhere at the whims of their masters. In many countries, if one needed a scapegoat, it was the Jewish population that always filled the bill. It didn't matter that the Jews were the "cream of the crop," the leaders in science, medicine, education and industry. Throughout history the idea has been to let the Jews live until they produce and then start a pogrom or inquisition and get rid of them. It happened in Spain, in Germany, and the Arabs would love to do it now in Israel. The Israelis have turned the most useless, devastated land in the world into a veritable paradise. They turned the malarial swamps of the Galilee into fertile, farmlands. They made the Negev Desert bloom, and created systems of irrigation that are the envy of all countries with water shortages. They have built mounds of sand into bustling cities and modernized and liberated the backward ways of the Arabs who did not flee after the first Arab-Israeli conflict of 1948.

Oh yes, the Arabs would dearly love the pleasures of taking over all that the Israelis fought for, sweated for and died for, in the typical lazy fashion of the parasitic second-hander. The Arabs are notorious for sitting on their behinds and letting life pass them by. They have so much to gain by making peace--the tremendous technological knowhow of the Israelis and the tremendous advances that their people could receive--but they illogically choose to fight on. And so be it, the Arabs have the most to lose.

Israel can and will never fail. It serves as a refuge for all Jews who are persecuted throughout the world. Without a bastion where Jews can feel safe, the Hitlers, Feisals, and Brezhnevs could carry out their policies of genocide and annihilation knowing full well that the Jews could not escape. As long as Israel exists, Jews can feel safe and walk with their heads held high; without an Israel there will be more diasporas, pogroms and quiet succumbing to annihilation.

Israel is a symbol to all who love freedom and liberty. The Arabs who stayed behind against the cries of madness broadcast by Radio Cairo live better than their brethren. What irks the anti-semites of the world is that Jews can walk proudly and not at the behest of their former masters and murderers. The courageous Arabs who picked the most holy day of the Jewish year for a sacriligious attack will lose now, and forever lose unless they come to the mind-bending conclusion that Israel is here to stay. If they don't want to talk peace they shall pay for every war they start and every moment of potential peace that they waste. Jews have a history of peace-loving but the time is long over that Jews will quietly allow others to rule their lives.

David Eibel is a Collegian columnist.

October 15

What's so special about October 15? Well, if you get your car inspected before October 15, it will cost you only one dollar for that orange sticker on your windshield. After October 15, the cost of the sticker is still one dollar, but towing, fine, and occasionally bail will run you an additional fifty bucks. Shouldn't you get your car inspected today? This message brought to you as a public service by the Daily Collegian.

BUT DEAR, WHY DIDN'T YOU TELL ME, YOUR OWN WIFE?
GET OFF MY FUCKIN BACK YOU PiG!!
WASHINGTON POST
AGNEW QUIT!!
McGILVRAY

Matt Tackeff

Jewish Survival

The protracted conflict in the Middle East has once again erupted into violent warfare. Again, as in past episodes of this war, the fundamental issue is being buried under a pile of bromides, scare propaganda, and outright lies. That issue, to put it bluntly, is the very question of a continued existence of the Jewish people.

Historically, the Jewish people hve been distinguished by a vulnerability to which no other national minorities could claim title. The quest for Jewish security has taken diverse paths, among them assimilation, migration, accumulation of financial power, and retreats into spiritual, if not physical ghettos. None of these particular avenues guaranteed the Jews any security from the recurring fury of persecution.

The most significant response to the problem of Jewish survival has been the Zionist movement. Originally, its followers consisted of a miniscule band of Jewish intellectuals, runaways, and utopian idealists. The initial Jewish settlements in Palestine were treated with cautious reservation by the indigenous population of the area, especially by the indigenous Jewish zealots who had somehow escaped the previous expulsions from the land of their spiritual ancestors.

The real impetus to the Zionist movement came not from the impassioned polemics of the alienated Jewish intellectuals, but from the totalitarian convulsions in Europe. The Jews were caught up in the death gasp of Russian Czarism, which provided the Zionist colonies in the Holy Land with their first significant influx of population. Subsequently, the rise of Soviet Communism and European Fascism generated the Zionist movement into a viable political force.

The sudden increase in Jewish immigration provided the indigenuous Arab leadership with the potential for a mobilization of the Arab masses undreamed of by T. E. Lawrence. The existence of a prospering immigrant community in the midst of a perpetual Arab impoverishment and humiliation provided the spark to tinder of an emerging Arab "nationalism" which would present but another threat to the existence of a conspicuous Jewish community.

After the close of the WWI, the organized Arab assaults on the growing Jewish population of Palestine commenced. At first, the assaults were perpetrated by random and uncoordinated attacks on Jewish farming settlements, particularly those which were purchased as unreclaimed desert tracts from local Arab landowners. In the 1920's, the Arab assaults became much more concentrated, taking the form of urban riots and gang warfare, all of which was futily countered by the British Overseers of Palestine.

At the beginning of the WWII, when Hitler's genocidal designs were just beginning to receive world wide attention, the Arab population of Palestine launched a concerted campaign against Jewish immigration. The demands of the influential Grad Mufti Jerusalem for a complete ban on Jewish entrance were appeased by the British, who hoped to win Arab support for the Allied cause against Rommel's Nazi legions in the Middle East. But their efforts to win over the Arabs to the Allied cause were in vain, as the Mufti proclaimed solidarity with the Nazis, and spent the bulk of the war in Berlin.

Since the declaration of Statehood, the Israelis have never been denied the promises of violence delivered by the Arabs. The old rhetoric of driving the Jews into the Sea has been dropped, at least by the more urbane Arab spokesmen, but the criminal assaults on Jews in Israel and abroad have revealed the true color of their recent "democratic" pretentions. It is doubtful that the current military assaults by the Arab legions are designed merely to reclaim the territories lost in the 1967 war, which are now being used by the Israelis as defensive buffers. To quote Dr. M.T. Mehddi, the leading Arab lobbyist in the United States: "We Arabs view the mere existence of the State of Israel to be an act of aggression." To those who continue to claim that the issue of the current war is Israeli intransigence with regards to the occupied territories, they are partially correct. In the absence of any negotiated peace settlement between Jews and Arabs, the issue is not Israeli occupation vs. non-occupation. It is Israeli occupation or destruction of Israel.

Matt Tackeff is a Collegian columnist.

Campus Crime And The Security System

By BOB RILEY

The restructuring of security at UMass is a shocking example of just how expendable the welfare of students is to the administration. In the eyes of the University, the enforcement of parking regulations is more important than the safety and security of human beings. Such action has not only jeopardized the well-being of all those who live on campus but also has paved the way for future infringements on the rights of students.

Prior to this semester night security consisted of a force of fourteen unarmed guards and a six-man police patrol. The security guards acted as a roving patrol and also served as Residence Hall Assistants (i.e. were stationed in the dorm lobbys). This year ten of the fourteen guards were removed to the day shift for the sole purpose of enforcing the new parking regulations. No compensation in any form has been made for their removal. The absence of roving guard patrols is something that can be lived with; their effectiveness was (and still is) questionable. However, the removal of Residence Hall Assistants has seriously endangered the cause of crime prevention on campus. The all too real problems of crime exist at night in the dorms. The deterent to crime exists during the day and in the parking lots. On most nights only four lobbys have a guard on duty (some nights the number is less). The potential for ripoffs, assault, vandalism and other crimes is phenomenal. For all intents and purposes the deterrent to crime in the dorms is non-existent.

The University has taken steps to theoretically establish some form of crime deterrent in those dorms that do not have any Resident Hall Assistants. "There is nothing an RHA can do that a student taking his place can't" we are told. In theory this sounds good. In practice, unfortunately, it is an absolute failure. The students who have assumed the role of Residence Hall Assistants have quickly learned that they lack the deterrent which existed under the old system. The man in uniform does mean a lot. Student RHA's have been either totally ignored or threatened with bodily harm by gangs attempting to enter the dorms. Student guards, after a day of classes have fallen asleep on duty. In some dorms there are no students willing or able to fill the role of RHA. There is little security system at all, or a system which approaches no security.

The concern of the administration is non-existent in regards to student funds and student well-being. Residence Hall Assistants and their student substitutes are supposed to be maintained from allocated funds. Yet, like security the budget has also been cut in this area (by $14,000 in Southwest alone). The money available will run out early next semester forcing dorm funds to be used to pay for the students security. The students will pay for a service which by right should come from the University. Ripoffs occur at many levels at UMass.

The institution of police officers in the dorms should provide the necessary protection for all who live in university housing, however, this is not due until spring. For the majority of the school year, protection is non-existent for most people because parking violations are more important than student's well-being. University officials are quick to point out that there have been no serious increases in crime for the first month. However, it is undeniable that circumstances exist for a phenomenal rise of all types of crime. This potential will be realized unless all who live in the dorms decide to end this senseless and harmful policy of the administration. Pressure has already been brought by Heads of Residence and students in Southwest, but evidently more is needed.

We are all the potential victims of ripoffs and all the other crimes which exists at this university.

We are also potential victims of the UMass bureaucracy. We cannot let them walk all over us, especially in a way which flagrantly violates our basic rights. The administration must be forced to restore RHAs to the dorms. If not it could be a long, painful year for resident students at the University of Massachusetts.

Bob Riley is a Collegian commentator

See Related News Article, Page Two.

Editorial Points

For once, Ag-news is good news!!!

* * *

Now the question in everyone's mind is who will replace Agnew. Speculation has it that Hale Boggs will come out of the Alaskan wilderness to announce his availability for the office.

* * *

There's a rumor being spread that Nixon told Agnew he was 1000 per cent behind him. What he really meant, of course, was that he was 1000 per cent ahead of him.

* * *

At least Nixon Knows what he's doing, even if no one else does.

Teacher Power

(Continued from P. 12)

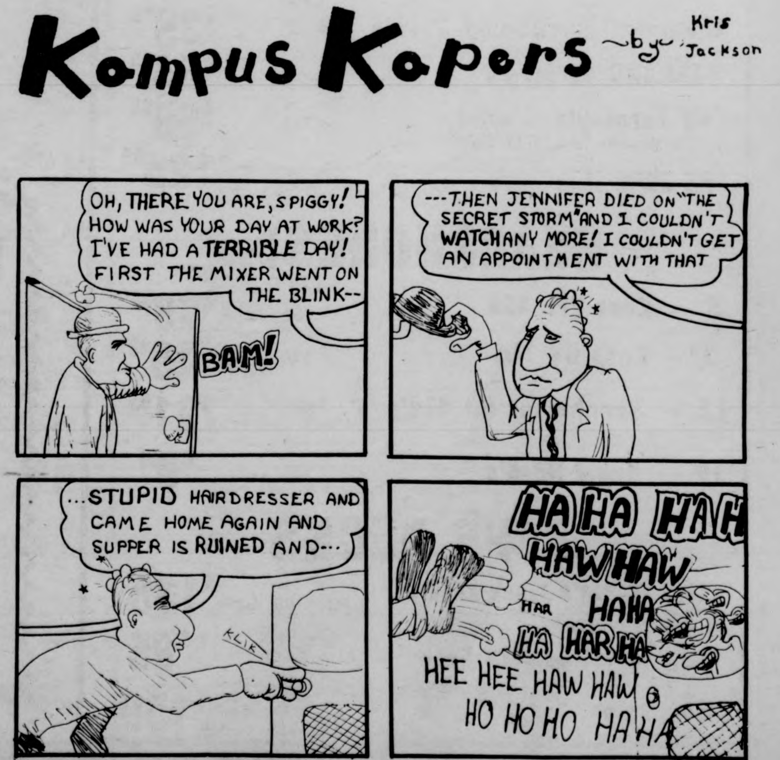
collective bargaining is its effect upon tenured teachers. The answer is very simple and straightforward. NONE. The tenured teacher is already protected within the institution, thus collective bargaining only adds to his already established power base. However, for the one or two pompous tenured faculty members who might be on this campus, I can see why they would be against collective bargaining. The reason is because they put their time in, so they say why shouldn't non-tenured faculty put their time in. In trying to make the above point clearer, let me explain the concept of "time in" as seen through the eyes of tenure. The faculty member plays the game with the administration. They go out of their way to look for top brass in the administration, say pleasa[illegible]ings, and try to publish like crazy. Now at the local level, when chairman and newcomer are out for breakfast, lunch, and-or dinner, they fight over the check. (For obvious reasons the chairman prevails). All of these things plus many more amount to the "time in" process. Something of which pompous tenured teachers went through, and they would like to see others go through it. Collective bargaining could clean up this ass-kissing process and concern itself with education. In reality, tenured teachers would not lose anything. Non-tenured teachers would gain protection, and what would arise would be teacher power. (something I know all students are dying to have).

When exploring the rights of members present in our academic community, we see students armed with a lawyer, the administration surrounded by lawyers (labor oriented), yet the teachers are left holding the brief. Collective bargaining would be their answer, for their litigation would be picked up by the N.E.A. The faculty should take out an ad in the Collegian and request for services.

Collective bargaining only implies a consolidation of strength or power, not a forced unity to have standard pay. The other reason why collective bargaining is very important is because if faculty does not like their $15,000 and their heavy teaching load of three courses, they can go out on strike in a massive effect.

As far as student support, they would get as many students supporting their cause as faculty members supported the student strikes in the late 60's. Thus the administration building is just as much a part of their life, as it is the student's life.

Paul Wallace is a Collegian commentator.



Kompus Kopers ~by~ Kris Jackson
OH, THERE YOU ARE, SPIGGY! HOW WAS YOUR DAY AT WORK? I'VE HAD A TERRIBLE DAY! FIRST THE MIXER WENT ON THE BLINK-- BAM!
---THEN JENNIFER DIED ON "THE SECRET STORM" AND I COULDN'T WATCH ANY MORE! I COULDN'T GET AN APPOINTMENT WITH THAT ...STUPID HAIRDRESSER AND CAME HOME AGAIN AND SUPPER IS RUINED AND--- KLIK
HA HA HAH
HAW HAW HAR HAHA
HA HAR HA
HEE HEE HAW HAW
HO HO HO HA HA

SOUND IDEAS

3rd Semi-Annual All-Night Marathon Sale!

32 HOURS OF TOTAL AUDIO WAREHOUSE PRICES!!

From Friday, Oct. 12, 10:00 a.m. to Saturday, Oct. 13, 6:00 p.m., for 32 straight hours, we're going to sell just about everything in our store at warehouse prices. With 6 months of leftover inventory, demos & closeouts here's a sale you can't afford to miss – check these specials!!

SPEAKERS!!

		LIST	SALE
DYNACO - A25's		$ 99.95 ea.	$65 ea.
DYNACO - A10's		$ 99.95 pr.	$74 pr.
KLH 6's (Vinyl)		$134.00 ea.	$99 ea.
KLH 32's		$105.00 pr.	$74 pr.
EV 11a's		$ 75.00 pr.	$40 pr.
INFINITY 1001's	Last Chance!	$149.95 ea.	$$99^{95}$ ea.
Pos - 1's		$ 99.95 ea.	$$62^{50}$ ea.
McINTOSH ML2C Spkrs. with equalizer	1 pr.	List $1,300 Sale	$700
EPI 400 Demonstrators	1 pr.	$778 pr.	$625 pr.
FRAZIER Monte Carlo's	2 pr.	$120 ea.	$50 ea.
FRAZIER MK IV list	1 pr.	$170 ea.	$70 ea.

TURNTABLES!!

	LIST
Glenburn/MacDonald 2110's	$ 70	$$39^{95}$
GARRARD 42 m/p's	$ 94	$$54^{95}$
AR Turntable (6 only) with Shure MA1ED Cart	$145	$$99^{95}$
PE 3060 II (3 only)	$169	$$125^{00}$

HEADPHONES!

	LIST
6 → Koss Pro 4AA	$60 →	$$39^{95}$
3 → Koss HV 1's	$40 →	$$29^{95}$
12 → Sennheiser HD 414's	$43 →	$$31^{95}$
10 → Royal HP-A's	$30 →	$$9^{95}$

TAPE DECKS

Sony TC-228 8-Track Recorder 3 only (demos)	List $190	Sale $135
Sony TC-121 Cassette Deck	List $115	$85
Sony TC-824 3 only 8-track 4 channel system	List $300	Sale $150

CARTRIDGES

SHURE VIS III	2 Only	List $74.95	SALE $$49^{95}$
AUDIO-TECHNICA AT-10		(20 only) List $24.95	SALE $$7^{50}$

Watts Record Care Equipment

PREENERS →	List $ 4.50	→ $$3^{00}$
DUST BUG →	List $ 6.50	→ $$5^{00}$
PARASTATS →	List $15.00	→ $$10^{00}$

TAPE

All Tape 20% off marked prices, which are already up to 50% off!!

(Example → Scotch 150, list $5.55 regularly $2.49, during sale $1.99)

FREE PREENERS!!

If the last digit of your social security number matches the number on the wall in our store, you win a free preener!!

SOUND IDEAS

3rd Semi-Annual All-Night Marathon Sale!

32 HOURS OF TOTAL AUDIO WAREHOUSE PRICES!!

— Hourly Specials —

Quantities Limited!!

Friday 6:00 p.m. 'til Saturday 10:00 a.m.

6:00 p.m.

NIKKO 4010 FM Stereo Receiver List $190	(two only)	Sale	$120

7:00 p.m.

GARRARD SL72B Turntable, DC-B List $200	(two demo's)	Sale	$$75^{00}$

8:00 p.m.

MIRACORD 650 Turntable List $150	(two only)	Sale	$$85^{00}$

9:00 p.m.

PIONEER 424 FM Stereo Receiver List $200	(three only)	Sale	$160

10:00 p.m.

ADC 303AX Loudspeakers List $110 ea.	(four demo's)	Sale	$$49^{95}$
HARMON KARDON 75+ 4 Channel FM Receiver List $500	(one only)	Sale	$320

11:00 p.m.

HARMON KARDON 630 FM Stereo Receiver List $370	(one only)	Sale	$279
AR3A Loudspeakers (Used) List $570 pr.	(one pr. only)	Sale	$200/pr.
ULTRALINEAR 150's List $240 pr.		Sale	$$99^{95}$/pr.

12 Midnight —

First six people bringing either two six packs of Tab or Coke, or a Pizza of reasonable dimensions, will receive their choice of one portable radio from an amazing selection of left overs!!

CREATIVE 66 Loudspeakers List $120 pr.	(six pr. only)	Sale	$$59^{95}$/pr.

1:00 a.m.

KLH 11 Portable - used KLH 11 Walnut - used List $200 ea.		Sale	$$99^{95}$ ea

2:00 a.m.

NORDMENDE FM Stereo Receiver List $130	(three only)	Sale	$$65^{00}$
One Only ALTEC 911A AM-FM Stereo compact with Altec 8 & 7A spkrs. & Garrard SL95B turntable List $668.00		Sale	$$378^{00}$
AMPEX Micro 87 AM-FM List $299.95	(one demo)	Sale	$128

3:00 a.m.

Two Pair Demo's JB2 88P Loudspeakers List $400			$289
One Pair Demo's EPI 150 Loudspeakers List $280		Sale	$200

4:00 a.m.

RECTILINEAR XIIA Loudspeakers List $150 ea.		Sale	$80 ea.

5:00 a.m.

SHERWOOD 7100A FM Receiver List $229.95	(three only)	Sale	$$173^{00}$

6:00 a.m.

By this time, we will be so tired you will probably be able to talk us into anything.

7:00 a.m.

Ditto

8:00 a.m.

Double Ditto

9:00 a.m.

New Shift!! ROYAL RSC Car Cassette Decks List $90.00		Sale	$$45^{00}$
BSR R20A FM Receiver List $100	(one only)		$$50^{00}$
CRAIG 3123 8 Track Car Player List $89.95	(two only)	Sale	$$64^{95}$
EV15 Loudspeakers 3-way Acoustic Suspension List $130 ea.	(two pr. only)	Sale	$60 ea.
METROTEK Frequency Equalizers FEK-1's	(three only) List $79.95	Sale	$$49^{95}$

Student Government Holds Conference

This Friday and Saturday, the Student Government Association will hold a conference to orient new people to the organization, and allow them to discuss the problems and goals for the coming year. The conference will begin Friday night at 6 p.m. with registration in room 113 Campus Center. At 7 p.m. a panel discussion on the role of Student Government will be held with Larry Friedman, President of the National Student Association, speaking. Following the speeches and panel discussion there will be a pay bar set up in 113 and we will have a live band. On Saturday morning there will be various workshops dealing with issues and Saturday afternoon there will be various skills workshops.

In order for this conference to be effective, it is important that people from all areas of concerned students attend. Students all ready involved with some area of university governance will find this a very helpful and educating experience. However, it is hoped that people who have never been involved in these areas before will also attend and contribute their ideas about Student Government. It is hoped that a large number of undergraduate and graduate students will participate. If you have any questions about the conference or would like to know specifically what workshops are being held, contact Martha Crawford or Doug Phelps at the Student Senate Office, telephone 5-0341.

Penn. Central Officers Charged With Embezzlement

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Embezzlement charges will be sought against three former executives of the Penn Central Co., it was revealed Wednesday by Dist. Atty. Arlen Spector.

Spector said the statue of limitations had expired on previously filed charges of fraudulent conversion against the three, originally arrested in January, 1972.

He said he would ask a grand jury to indict them on charges of embezzlement by a corporate officer.

The men, now seeking dismissal of the original charges under a writ of habeas corpus, are David C. Bevan, former finance chairman of the nation's biggest railroad; Charles J. Hodge, former investment banker; and O. F. Lassiter, a retired Air Force general who operated a charter airline in which Penn Central invested.

Spector said he didn't believe he would have any difficulty obtaining an indictment on the new charge.

"We believe we are on solid ground," Spector said, referring to the statue of limitations. "There's a six-year statute on corporate officers."

Action on the habeas corpus remained stalled. Common Pleas Judge Lee Weinrett, who is handling the matter, has not indicated when he might issue a decision.

Federal Judges Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) - The White House said Wednesday President Nixon will nominate for a U.S. district judgeship in Massachusetts Boston attorney Walter Jay Skinner, who was twice turned down by the Executive Council for a state judgeship four years ago.

Skinner, now 46 and a resident of Newton, had been nominated in 1969 by Gov. Francis W. Sargent for a Superior Court judgeship.

Skinner had been assistant attorney general and head of the Criminal Division in 1963-65 under Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke, now U.S. Senator. That division prosecuted cases arising from the work of the then existing Crime Commission and four Councilors were convicted.

Born in Washington, Skinner grew up in Providence, R.I., and attended Harvard College and the Harvard Law School.

After graduation from the law school in 1952, he was a lawyer with Gaston, Snow, Metley and Holt until becoming assistant district attorney in Brockton and town counsel for Scituate in 1957. He held these positions until joining Brooke in 1963.

Learn How To Live The Good Life

Helen and Scott Nearing, authors of Living the Good Life and many other books, wll speak here October 13, at the Campus Center in room 113. This will be the first of a series of lectures sponsored by a group called "Opie Mountain Citadel." The purpose of the lecture series is to bring people of various views together to share their experiences with others.

Scott Nearing grew up in a small mining and lumbering town in the hills of Pennsylvania where he saw and experienced the oppression of the laboring class by the wealthy mine owners. He went on to study economics and later to teach it at the University of Pennsylvania, where he was fired in 1915 for his views against child labor.

Because of his strong views against economic oppression and against World War I, he was not again allowed to teach in American universities after 1917. He became active in the labor union movement in the 1920's. He was a member of the Communist Party which expelled him for his independent views.

In 1932, during the depression, unable to make a living as a traveling lecturer to various liberal groups, he moved to an undeveloped part of Vermont with his new wife Helen, a violinist, and began a 40-year career as a subsistence farmer, building their own house from field stones and growing most of their own food.

Although they have written many books in the past 65 years covering such subjects as progressive education, economics, women's liberation, pacifism, religion, the labor movement, civil rights, and making maple sugar, their best known book is Living the Good Life which tells the story of their 20 years as subsistence farmers in Vermont. The Nearings have moved to Maine, to get away from the ski slopes built up in their area of Vermont.

At 90, Scott and his 70-year old wife are continuing to produce most of their own needs on their homestead. The Nearings advocate that people leave behind the world of competition, wars, and greed and create their own good life in the undeveloped parts of the country.

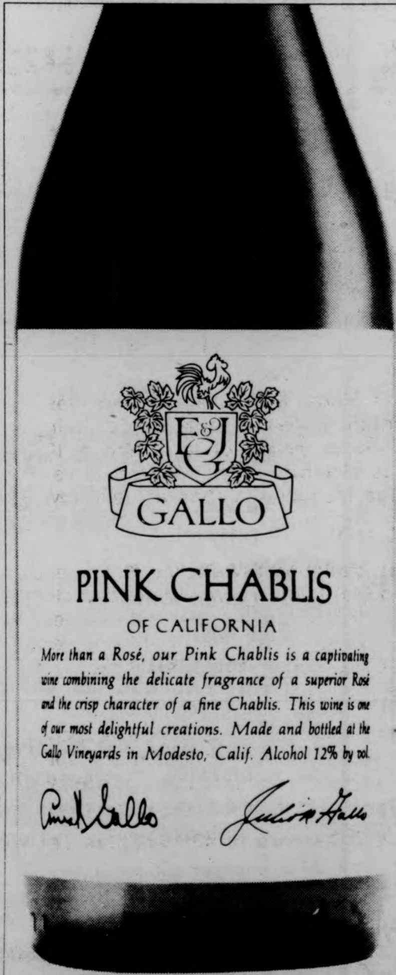
ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug Drop-In Center
CALL 5-0400
24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

MAD APPLE MUSIC
THE STORE
THAT OFFERS SO MUCH MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER RECORD STORE.

★ Records
★ 8-Track Stereos
10 - 5:30 Daily
10 - 9 Thursday
We have a selection of pipes, papers, handcrafted silver & turquoise jewelry, and leather goods, guitars, guitar accessories.
146 MAIN ST. NORTHAMPTON

FALL INTO FASHION

WEAR-HOUSE
201 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
Open Thurs. & Fri. till 9



E&J
GALLO
PINK CHABLIS
OF CALIFORNIA
More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating wine combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Rosé and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled at the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.
Ernest Gallo
Julio Gallo

TIME Magazine reports:
"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."
Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81.
More than a Rosé.

If you're looking for the best submarine sandwich in town

JOIN THE SUBMARINE CORPS
at the Hungry-U

Attorney For Students:

The Marriage And Divorce Game

By RICHARD M. HOWLAND

The complexities of getting into and out of the marriage relationship should, in my opinion, not be the subject of very much law at all. Historically, the chief reasons for an elaborate legal structure in the area related primarily to property rights, land ownership and descent and distribution through inheritance. Most of the compelling reasons for the laws in the area have diminished with the greater sophistication of the legal structure and the emphasis on human rights that is evident today.

DIVORCE

In Massachusetts a divorce may be decreed for:

1. Adultery (sexual relations outside of the marriage);
1. Impotency (inability to have sexual relations);
3. Utter desertion for two years;
4. Alcoholism or drug addiction;
5. Non-support of the wife by the husband when able; and
6. Cruel and Abusive treatment.

"Cruel and abusive treatment" is the most common ground. Some unique or repeated act, which need not be necessarily physically abusive or injurious but which gives rise to mental anguish as evidenced, for instance, by loss of weight, nervousness, hospitalization, psychiatric consultation and the like, is usually sufficient.

In addition to the grounds for the divorce, the spouse filing suit (the "libellant") must live in Massachusetts if the grounds occurred outside the state. A person may not move to Massachusetts solely for the purpose of obtaining a divorce. It is a necessary element of a divorce proceeding that the parties lived together as husband and wife at some time in the Commonwealth.

Massachusetts still subscribes to the notion of fault in divorce and as a consequence there is really no secure way of proceeding without the assistance of at least a lawyer for the libellant.

The things that the lawyer must attend to besides the court papers, hearing and decree even in a consensual divorce are:

1. Distribution of assets;
2. Support and custody of children (if any);
3. Conveyance of real property and motor vehicles;
4. Alimony, if any; and
5. The technical grounds.

These matters are generally taken care of by agreement before the proceedings are over and are time consuming.

Before papers can be filed the parties must physically live apart for thirty (30) days. Persons contemplating divorce are urged to discuss the matter with appropriate psychological or marriage counsellors, together or separately both before and during the divorce proceedings.

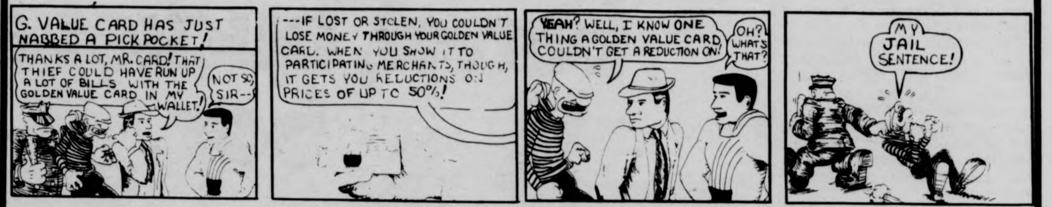
The wife may assume her maiden name at the time the divorce is granted if she petitions to do so. In some courts, however, the judge may refuse alimony if the wife resumes her maiden name. This does not affect support. Ask your lawyer about this.

Divorce laws and practices are changing. Some groups are urging and some individuals are obtaining divorces without assistance of counsel. No fault divorce laws are growing more common. Most of the impediments to divorces in cases where the marriage relationship has in fact disap-

(Continued on P. 18)

No. 2 is right near you.

Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS
How would you like to be a
NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER?
Here's a chance to be 1/10th of a publisher. Under its revised constitution, The Collegian Publishing Board has two positions for at-large undergraduate members. The board meets several times a year and serves as an advisor to the Daily Collegian staff. Its job is basically advisoral but there is a chance to help in the overall direction of New England's largest daily college newspaper. Interested? Write:
MDC Pub Board Screening Committee
c/o Daily Collegian, Student Union
Applications due by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12
Collegian staffers and members of Student Senate and all campus governments are not eligible.



G. VALUE CARD HAS JUST NABBED A PICKPOCKET!
THANKS A LOT, MR. CARD! THAT THIEF COULD HAVE RUN UP A LOT OF BILLS WITH THE GOLDEN VALUE CARD IN MY WALLET!
NOT SO, SIR--
---IF LOST OR STOLEN, YOU COULDN'T LOSE MONEY THROUGH YOUR GOLDEN VALUE CARD. WHEN YOU SHOW IT TO PARTICIPATING MERCHANTS, THOUGH, IT GETS YOU REDUCTIONS ON PRICES OF UP TO 50%!
YEAH? WELL, I KNOW ONE THING A GOLDEN VALUE CARD COULDN'T GET A REDUCTION ON!
OH? WHAT'S THAT?
MY JAIL SENTENCE!

Golden Value Card on Campus C.C. Concourse at Pinball Machines Thursday and Friday

For the Starving Student Only A $530.00 KLH BSR SYSTEM
for $399.50
If you are starving for great sounds, but most of the bread you have is the kind you eat, than read on.

THE SPEAKERS:
KLH Model 6 is probably the most widely accepted high performance speaker ever made. Using a 12" acoustic suspension driver for powerful lows and a 1¾" dome Tweeter for wide dispersion highs. The Model 6 can easily reproduce the extremes of the frequency range at very low distortion.
THE RECEIVER:
KLH Model 55 FM Stereo Receiver has all the power you will need to fill your room with lots of clean music. The performance of the FM tuner is super. Of course, the 55 has all sorts of other nice things going for it, like a center tuning meter, speaker switching, tape inputs, etc., etc.
THE CHANGER:
BSR 610 AWX is one of BSR's best changers. It has a 3½ lb. cast turntable and Synchronous motor for speed accuracy, low mass tone arm with damped cueing fitted with a Shure M93E elliptical cartridge. We also include a dust cover and real walnut base.
Stop in our new shop at 98 N. Pleasant St. in Amherst or 219 Main St. in Northampton and see how much stereo $399.50 will get you at Tripod Audio.
98 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST, MASS. 01002
TRIPOD AUDIO
219 MAIN STREET
NORTHAMPTON, MASS. 01060

Christians Support Israel

At a meeting of religious workers for the Five College area on Tuesday, October 9, it was agreed that a public statement of support for Israel should be made. The following statement has been drafted and has been endorsed by most of those present, representing liberal and conservative Protestant, Roman Catholic, and Jewish leaders:

"Israel, as a state and as a people, has a right to exist. That existence must be maintained even while questions of boundaries and economic and political justice for Palestinian refugees are being settled diplomatically. We abhor the use of war as a means of settling this historic problem.

"Speaking as staff persons and leaders of religious organizations related to the five colleges, we call on the United States government, in fullest cooperation with the United Nations, to press for the continued existence of the state of Israel as a Jewish homeland on the face of God's earth. We call for an immediate cease-fire under international auspices and intensified efforts for a settlement of outstanding issues.

"We call on persons in our religious communities to support Israel's existence as they talk with friends and government leaders. Those of us who are Christians acknowledge out continuing need for the people of Israel as, in St. Paul's terms, the root of our Christian faith. We have an historic burden of anti-semitism to live down. We ask for individual and corporate prayers, study to overcome our confusion, gifts of support and labors of reconciliation."

SPECIAL OFFER!
Pay for 3... 4th one free

prints from your favorite COLOR SLIDES

Get beautiful KODAK Color Prints from your favorite color slides during our Prints-from-Slides special. You buy three and get the fourth one free. No limit to the number of slides. Offer expires November 9, 1973. Hurry in today and ask us for details.

TRIPOD AUDIO

98 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass. 01002

219 Main St.
Northampton, Mass. 01060

Live And Learn In Scandinavia

Scandinavian Seminar is now accepting applications for its study abroad program in Denmark, Finland, Norway, or Sweden for the academic year 1974-1975. This living-and-learning experience is designed for college students, graduates and other adults.

An initial 3 weeks language course, followed by a family stay, will give the student opportunity to practice the language on a daily basis and to share in the life of the community. For the major part of the year he is separated from his fellow American students, living and studying among Scandinavians at a "People's College" (residential school for continuing adult education) or some other specialized institution.

All Seminar participants meet at the Introductory, Midyear and Final Sessions, during which the American and Scandinavian Program Directors work closely with each student on matters related to his studies, experiences and progress. The focus of the Seminar program is the student's Independent Study Project in his special field of interest. An increasing number of American colleges and universities are giving full or partial credit for the Seminar year.

The fee, covering tuition, room, board, one-way group transportation from New York and all course-connected travels in Scandinavia is $3,000. A limited number of scholarship loans are available.

For further information please write to: SCANDINAVIAN SEMINAR, 100 East 85th Street, New York, N.Y. 10028.

Marriage And Divorce...

(Continued from P. 17)

peared are being removed. There is much room for reform in Massachusetts and many groups are organized to support reform. Persons contemplating divorce are urged to obtain counsel whenever children, property or technical problems occur. In most cases legal help is necessary to get the process properly started and concluded without serious delay.

Marriages may be solemnized between people over eighteen years of age without parental consent. In order to get a license each party applies for a license at the Clerk of the City or Town of residence. If both live in the same town only one license is required, otherwise two are required. Each party must have a blood test and, usually, a brief physical examination by the physician. Except for a waiver from the judge, three days is required before a license will be issued. The license requires names, occupations, addresses, birthplaces, and ages of the parties, both of their parents' names and record of dissolution of any prior marriage.

A marriage may be solemnized by any religious leader of a recognized religion or by a Justice of the Peace. Information on local persons qualified to solemnize marriages is available from the Clerk who issues the license.

There is no particular form or set of vows or, for that matter, any specific requirement for the way in which the solemnization of the marriage is to occur provided by any statute. Any form or ritual is a matter for the religion involved or if none is subscribed to, then it is a matter which is entirely up to the parties involved and the person who is to solemnize the occasion.

Financial Aid Notice

The Financial Aid Office (Room 243 Whitmore) will not be accepting interviews or appointments for Thursday, October 11th, Friday, October 12th, Tuesday, October 16th, and Friday, October 19th. This time must be used to reduce the existing backlog of student aid and HELP loan applications.

Cash on the barrel, bucket and box.

$1.00 Off coupon
on a Barrel of Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Take this coupon to your participating Kentucky Fried Chicken store and get $1.00 off on a 21-piece Barrel, either Original Recipe or Extra Crispy. Offer good through Oct. 8, 1973. Limit one Barrel per coupon.

75¢ Off coupon
on a Bucket of Kentucky Fried Chicken or a Kettle of H. Salt Fish & Chips.
Take this coupon to your participating Kentucky Fried Chicken store and get 75¢ off on a 15-piece Bucket, either Original Recipe or Extra Crispy. Or save on a 10-piece Kettle of H. Salt Fish and Chips. Offer good through October 8, 1973. Limit one Bucket or Kettle per coupon.

50¢ Off coupon
on two Dinners of Kentucky Fried Chicken or H. Salt Fish & Chips.
Take this coupon to your participating Kentucky Fried Chicken store and get 50¢ off on the purchase of two Dinners of the Colonel's chicken, either Original Recipe or Extra Crispy. Or save on two Dinners of H. Salt Fish & Chips. Offer good through October 8, 1973. Limit two Dinners per coupon.

Kentucky Fried Chicken®
offer good only at Russell St., Hadley.

Notices

BOXING CLUB

Boxing Club starts workouts Today beginners welcome. 19th Floor Washington at 7 p.m.

CASIAC

General meeting of University Women's Caucus will be tonight at 7:30 in 165-169 C.C. All U. women-students, faculty, non-professionals and professionals - are welcome.

CATHOLICS

Special thematic folk mass followed by informal get-together Sat. at 7:30, Newman Center Chapel. All students, faculty, and others cordially invited.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE COUNSELING

Mrs. Holmes will be in rm. C.C. 104 this afternoon. All members of the campus community are welcome to visit for help or to talk.

CLARIDAD MEETING

Claridad Meeting 131 Hills North tonite 7:00 p.m. All welcome.

CONCERT COMMITTEE

Meeting of the Set-up and Arrangement Committee on Oct. 11, Thursday from 6-8 p.m. in Concert Committee Office. All s-a committee members urged to attend.

FINNISH LANGUAGE CLUB

Will meet Thurs. at 7:30-9:00 in C.C. 909. All interested are welcome.

FREE FILM

The Amherst Film Co-op presents Intolerance (1916), D.W. Griffith's mammoth reply to the critical reaction given his tour de force Birth of a Nation (1914). In C.C. 165 at 9:00 tonight.

GAY WOMEN'S CAUCUS

We are having a meeting 7:30 tonight at 4 East Dickinson Lounge. We will be discussing program, space and funding. All women are welcome.

ITALIAN CLUB MEETING

Meeting tonight at 7:00 on the sixth floor lounge of Herter Hall at 7:00. All interested students and faculty welcome. Refreshments served.

LANDSCAPE OPERATIONS CLUB

Meeting Thursday, 10-11, 7 p.m., C.C. 162.

M.A.S.H.

Mash gives a D.A.M.N. why don't you--come see it. C.C. Auditorium, Sunday, 10-14 at 6, 8, and 10.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

Bus leaves from in front of Hasbrouck at 6:30 and stops in front of Paterson House (Sunset Ave. side) at 6:35. All are welcome to come.

PEP CLUB

Have you got that spirit? Newly formed pep club for UMass needs you!! Help us cheer UMass teams to victory. For more info call 546-1294, 6-1423, 6-1421, 6-1425.

PI SIGMA ALPHA

Important meeting Thursday, 10-11, C.C. 903, 7:00 p.m. All members please attend.

PLAY LIBRARY

in Farley Lodge, Mon. 4-6 p.m., Weds. 7-9 p.m., Fri. 12:30-2. All children of students eligible. Take a toy home this week.

PROGRAM COUNCIL MOVIE COMMITTEE

Meeting in S.U.B. tonight at 6:00. All members please try to attend.

SCIENCE FICTION ART

For information Art Contest visit the S-F Library. Rm. SU 434, Student Union. Open to the UMass Community.

SHL MEETING

Tonite at 7:30 Rms. 904-908, C.C. New members welcome Plans for Saturday's Dance will be finalized.

SKI CLUB

Will have tables on the C.C. Concourse next to the garage entrance today for membership and information. We will be showing Ski movies and have the latest ski equipment on display.

STOCKBRIDGE ACCOUNTING CLUB

Will have a meeting Oct. 11 at 7 p.m. in C.C. 905. All persons with ideas on things they would like to do in the coming year please attend.

UMASS COIN CLUB

Meeting Thursday, October 18, 7:30-10:00, Rm. 811 C.C. New members welcome.

LOST

Bulova-Accutron watch, personally valuable. Large reward for its return. Please call 546-7522 or leave it at lost and found C.C.

Woman's gold watch Friday, 10-5 vicinity of Wheeler. Reward offered. Please contact Mary, 403 Wheeler, 5-2412.

FOUND

Mass. Driver's License of Lawrence N. Ingham. Pick up at C.C. lost and found.

FACES OF EARTH
OPEN 9:30-6:30 FRI. TILL 9
HAND-EMBROIDERED YOKE
SHORT DRESSES & SMOCKS
100% cotton $15.95
Quilted
NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE IN AMHERST!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Virgo eschews the coverup, usually comes clean and lets chips fall where they may. Libra accents beauty, cosmetics, perfume. Libra will "cover up" for the sake of appearances. Virgo lends proverbial helping hand but is analytical about what to expect in return. When Libra decides to give, it usually is with no calculated thought of what is to come back. Virgo can make money with Libra and Libra can enter a labyrinth of intrigue with Virgo.

ARIES March 21-April 19): What you started comes to culmination, with rewards and obstacles. Concern might surface in connection with legal matter, partnership, joint enterprise. One close to you needs reassurance. Be diplomatic, especially about family affairs.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Full-moon position and aspects point to disputes of minor nature which could bloom into big-time battles. Maintain control. Don't permit emotions to completely dominate. What creates aura of fear is actually of paper tiger variety. Know it and scoff.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Accept added responsibility. Rewards, recognition will follow. Accent is on friends who argue, make promises and appeals. Heed counsel of older, experienced individual. Prestige is on the line. Goal is in sight. Don't be dissuaded by confused associates.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finish what you start. Aid one who confides problem. Adherence to Golden Rule will pay dividends. Aries, Libra persons might be involved. One in authority seems to be blocking your efforts. This is not really true. You will learn reasons--and you will understand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Stop feeling you should be here, and everywhere. Forces tend to be scattered. Take stock. You may be spreading efforts too thin. Have something to say about your own destiny. Speak up--get to heart of matter.

VIRGO (Aug.23-Sept. 22): Cash flow could be restricted. There are details, including family or home situation, which need clarification. Combine logic and intuition. What appears solid obstacle is due to "melt." You will be beneficiary.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct.22): Ride with tide. Don't believe all that you see. Surface indications now are apt to be deceptive. Sagittarian plays prominent role. Maintain low profile. Go soft and easy. Social contact can be valuable. But avoid pressing issues.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Low-key approach serves best purpose. Study Libra message. Unravel puzzle pieces. Be aware of fine points. Read between the lines. If observant, you glimpse full picture. Avoid basing actions on wishful thinking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec.21) Be ready for change, travel, variety. Gemini, Virgo persons could figure prominently. Accent is on emotional response. Strive to give logic equal time. If analytical, you avoid excessive costs. Friend could be sadly misinformed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan 19): Your aspirations could create conflicts. Some claim you are assuming dictatorial powers. Others are equally vehement in your defense. Key now is to be diplomatic without being weak. Family member does have your best interests at heart.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You may feel as if you are part of a dizzying whirl. Catch emotional breath. Stop and look--listen and learn. Relatives, neighbors may try to impose their opinions, desires. That's fine, but you do have your own life to live.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar.20): Money situation requires more-than-usual attention. Curb tendency to spend too much for too little. Message should become increasingly clear. Capricorn, Cancer persons could be in picture. Count change!

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intuitive, a natural teacher and a spiritual person. You are unorthodox, dynamic, artistic and moody. You are nobody's fool but you often fool yourself. Aquarius, Cancer persons seem to be drawn to you. December should be one of your most significant months of this year.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Job Opening

The Southwest Business Office is making available one Graduate Assistantship for a qualified student to work 20 hours per week as assistant to the Business Manager.

Applicants should have some background in accounting and computer programming.

We are actively soliciting qualified minority and women applicants.

For interview contact John Zilinskas at 545-1400

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Vehicle
4 Rams
9 Resort
12 Poem
13 Foreign 14 Manner
15 Act of self-abasement
17 Pope's veil
19 Fencing sword
20 Propelled oneself through water
21 Seeds
23 Bobolink
27 Woody plants
29 Existed
30 Faroe Islands whirlwind
31 Unusual
32 Hives
34 Man's nickname
35 Pronoun
36 Genus of maples
37 Pocketbook
39 Daughter of a sovereign
42 Decays
43 Act
44 Pigs
46 Young hog
48 Name of 12 kings of Egypt
51 Be ill
52 Impel onward
54 Period of time
55 Possessive pronoun
56 Sedate
57 Condensed moisture

DOWN

1 Policeman (slang)
2 Fruit drink
3 Renovated
4 Poison
5 Stomach ailment
6 Cravat
7 Symbol for tellurium
8 Flower of amaryllis family
9 Pundit
10 Crony (colloq.)
11 Affirmative vote
16 Part of church
18 Country bumpkin
20 Sow
21 Trample with foot
22 Command
24 Pitchers
25 Cook in oven
26 Strikes out
28 Follows
33 Musical instrument
34 Intersected
36 Dillseed
38 Solicit earnestly
40 Sacred images
41 Scrape
45 Hebrew measure
46 Capuchin monkey
47 Strike
48 Bone of body
49 Before
50 Carpenter's tool
53 Artificial language

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

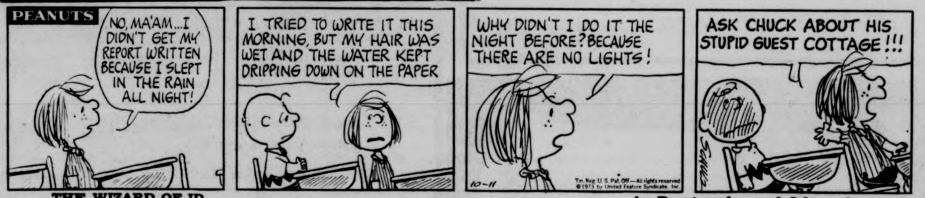
L	E	T	■	D	I	N	E	S	■	A	S	A
A	L	E	■	O	N	I	O	N	■	N	A	N
W	A	N	T	O	N	■	N	A	P	K	I	N
■	■	D	A	R	E	D	■	G	A	L	■	■
P	E	E	L	■	R	O	D	■	W	E	T	S
E	R	R	O	R	■	G	O	T	■	S	I	P
T	A	■	N	O	T	■	C	A	T	■	G	A
E	S	T	■	W	O	N	■	M	I	L	E	R
R	E	A	R	■	N	I	T	■	M	O	R	E
■	■	P	A	N	■	L	I	T	E	R	■	■
M	A	P	P	E	D	■	M	I	D	D	L	E
A	T	E	■	T	U	L	I	P	■	L	E	A
T	A	D	■	S	E	E	D	S	■	Y	E	T

11

1	2	3	■	4	5	6	7	8	■	9	10	11
12			■	13					■	14
15			16				■	17	18
■	■	19				■	20				■	■
21	22			■	23	24					25	26
27				28	■	29				■	30
31			■	32	33				■	34
35		■	36				■	37	38
39		40					41	■	42
■	■	43				■	44	45			■	■
46	47				■	48					49	50
51			■	52	53				■	54
55			■	56					■	57

Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 11

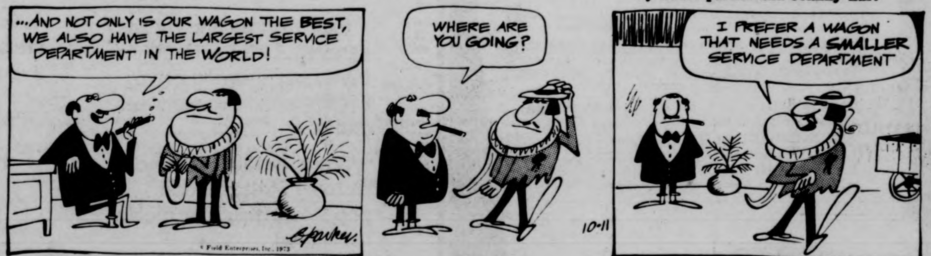
PEANUTS



NO, MA'AM...I DIDN'T GET MY REPORT WRITTEN BECAUSE I SLEPT IN THE RAIN ALL NIGHT!
I TRIED TO WRITE IT THIS MORNING, BUT MY HAIR WAS WET AND THE WATER KEPT DRIPPING DOWN ON THE PAPER
WHY DIDN'T I DO IT THE NIGHT BEFORE? BECAUSE THERE ARE NO LIGHTS!
ASK CHUCK ABOUT HIS STUPID GUEST COTTAGE!!!
10-11
Tm. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.—All rights reserved ©1973 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE WIZARD OF ID

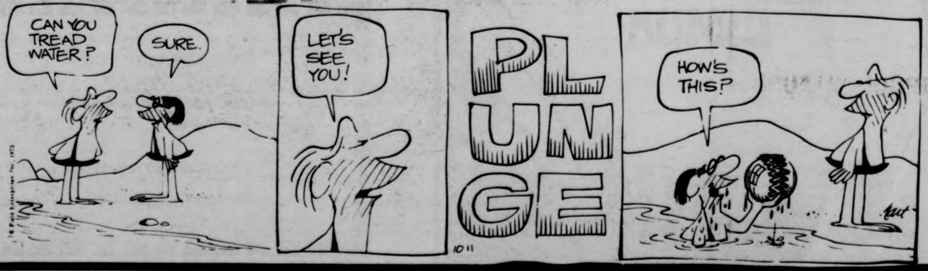
by Brant parker and Johnny hart



...AND NOT ONLY IS OUR WAGON THE BEST, WE ALSO HAVE THE LARGEST SERVICE DEPARTMENT IN THE WORLD!
WHERE ARE YOU GOING?
I PREFER A WAGON THAT NEEDS A SMALLER SERVICE DEPARTMENT
10-11
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973

B.C.

by johnny hart



Red Cross Preparing For Middle East Crisis

BOSTON (AP) - The Massachusetts Red Cross said Tuesday it would accept blood donations earmarked for the Middle East even though neither side in the war there had requested any from the United States.

A spokesman said such donations would be used to meet legal needs until an official request came to the American Red Cross. Any donations earmarked for the Middle East used in Massachusetts would be made up by sending other blood, the spokesman said.

"Because of the possibility that the conflict may spread it is imperative that U.S. blood banks be fully stocked and the Red Cross is encouraging people to donate now," a Red Cross statement said.

The statement said blood supplies in Massachusetts stood at a low 400 pints.

Hey...Human Development Majors!!

The Department of Human Development is now in the School of Education. Many of you have questions about how this affects you--particularly seniors and juniors--with respect to the grading system, degree granted, etc.

There will be a meeting Tuesday, October 16, 1973, at 7:30 p.m. in the Public Health Auditorium to discuss all the ramifications of our being in the School of Education.

GLOBE
"MONTEREY POP"
☆ OTIS
☆ JANIS ☆ JIMI
☆ RAVI
$2.00 TWICE NITELY
27 pleasant st. northampton
PLUS•
THUR-SAT
LIVE AND IN PERSON –
☆ tom willits
COFFEE & CIDER
CALL 586-0935

Luis Bunvel's Masterpiece
"Belle de Jour"
starring
Catherine Deneuve
Sat., Oct. 13 at 7- 9 - 11 in S.U.B.

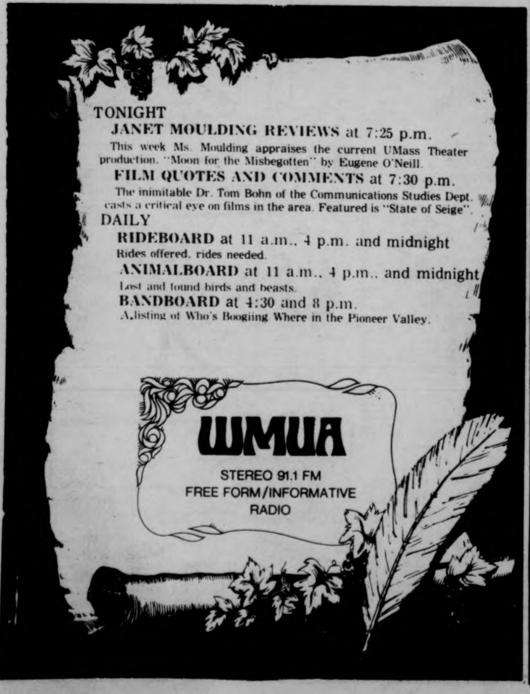
Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Re-enlist" (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Heil Klink" (22)
MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES "Super Hawg" (30)
GOMER PYLE "Vacation In Vegas" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "The Jinx" (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy, the Camp Cook." (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "The Price Of Tomatoes" (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Go Light On the Heavy Waters." (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "Now You See Her, Now You Don't." (18)
MAKING THINGS GROW (24)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "One of Our Chickens is Missing" (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, Host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night Of the Fireband." (40)
ZOOM! (57)
6:15 NATIONAL GOVERNMENT (24)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
ANIMAL WORLD (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 THE STARLOST (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "Buddy Sorrell - Man and Boy" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Boys' Prison." (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
REPORTERS (57)
7:30 THRILLSEEKERS (8)
MOVIE "Walk East On Beacon" (18)
HOLLYWOOD AND THE STARS "The Funny Men" Part II (22)
MAYORAL CANDIDATE FREE TIME (24)
WAIT TILL YOUR FATHER GETS HOME "My Wife, the Secretary." (30)
DRAGNET "The Hammer" (40)
THE OPEN DOOR (57)
8:00 THE WALTONS "The Roots." (3)
TOMA "Ambush on 7th Avenue" (8) (40)
THE FLIP WILSON SHOW (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARINGS (24) (57)
9:00 THE JACKIE GLEASON SPECIAL (3)
KUNG FU "The Chalice." (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
IRONSIDE "The Armageddon Gang" (22) (30)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "Man in the Cage." (27)
10:00 CBS REPORTS "A Boy Named Terry Egan" (3)
THE STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO "Going Home" (8) (40)
NBC FOLLIES (22) (30)
NEWS (27)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "Gunfight at Comanche Creek" (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)



TONIGHT

JANET MOULDING REVIEWS at 7:25 p.m.
This week Ms. Moulding appraises the current UMass Theater production, "Moon for the Misbegotten" by Eugene O'Neill.

FILM QUOTES AND COMMENTS at 7:30 p.m.
The inimitable Dr. Tom Bohn of the Communications Studies Dept. casts a critical eye on films in the area. Featured is "State of Seige".

DAILY

RIDEBOARD at 11 a.m., 4 p.m. and midnight
Rides offered, rides needed.

ANIMALBOARD at 11 a.m., 4 p.m., and midnight
Lost and found birds and beasts.

BANDBOARD at 4:30 and 8 p.m.
A listing of Who's Boogiing Where in the Pioneer Valley.

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE
RADIO

Eight fantastic subscription flicks.

KATHARINE HEPBURN
PAUL SCOFIELD
LEE REMICK
KATE REID
JOSEPH COTTEN
BETSY BLAIR
IN EDWARD ALBEE'S
A DELICATE BALANCE
A FILM DIRECTED BY TONY RICHARDSON

ZERO MOSTEL
GENE WILDER
AND KAREN BLACK
IN EUGENE IONESCO'S
Rhinoceros
A FILM DIRECTED BY TOM O'HORGAN
SCREENPLAY BY JULIAN BARRY

CYRIL CUSACK
IAN HOLM
MICHAEL JAYSTON
VIVIEN MERCHANT
TERENCE RIGBY
PAUL ROGERS
IN HAROLD PINTER'S
THE Homecoming
A FILM DIRECTED BY PETER HALL

LEE MARVIN
FREDRIC MARCH
ROBERT RYAN
JEFF BRIDGES
BRADFORD DILLMAN
IN EUGENE O'NEILL'S
THE ICEMAN COMETH
A FILM DIRECTED BY JOHN FRANKENHEIMER

STACY KEACH
ROBERT STEPHENS
HUGH GRIFFITH
IN JOHN OSBORNE'S Luther
A FILM DIRECTED BY GUY GREEN
SCREENPLAY BY EDWARD ANHALT

THE NATIONAL THEATRE COMPANY OF ENGLAND
ALAN BATES
LAURENCE OLIVIER
JOAN PLOWRIGHT
IN ANTON CHEKHOV'S
THREE SISTERS
A FILM DIRECTED BY LAURENCE OLIVIER

BROCK PETERS MELBA MOORE
RAYMOND ST. JACQUES
IN KURT WEILL & MAXWELL ANDERSON'S lost in the stars
A FILM DIRECTED BY DANIEL MANN
SCREENPLAY BY ALFRED HAYES

ALAN BATES
JESSICA TANDY
RICHARD O'CALLAGHAN
IN SIMON GRAY'S Butley
A FILM DIRECTED BY HAROLD PINTER

Great plays transformed into great new movies by your kind of writers, directors, stars.

One Monday and Tuesday a month, October through May. Four showings, two evenings and two matinees, and that's it.

Starts October 29th and October 30th at a local popcorn factory (see theatre list below).

SPECIAL COLLEGE DISCOUNT

Seats are limited. Get down to the box office (or Ticketron) with a check. Eight evenings: $30. Eight matinees: $16 for students and faculty, $24 for everybody else.

THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE
1350 Ave. of the Americas, N.Y., N.Y. 10019
Phone: (212) 489-8820
THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE IS A PRESENTATION OF AMERICAN EXPRESS FILMS, INC.
AND THE ELY LANDAU ORGANIZATION, INC.
IN ASSOCIATION WITH CINEVISION LTEE (CANADA)

HERE'S WHERE YOU GO TO JOIN THE AMERICAN FILM THEATRE

NORTHAMPTON
Academy Of Music

EXHIBITION DATES

Monday Series	Tuesday Series
Oct. 29, 1973	Oct. 30, 1973
Nov. 12, 1973	Nov. 13, 1973
Dec. 10, 1973	Dec. 11, 1973
Jan. 21, 1974	Jan. 22, 1974
Feb. 4, 1974	Feb. 5, 1974
Mar. 11, 1974	Mar. 12, 1974
April 8, 1974	April 9, 1974
May 6, 1974	May 7, 1974

Campus Carousel

Condoms Become Big Business

By TONY GRANITE

SEX IS BIG BUSINESS at Washington State, according to recent articles in the Daily Evergreen.

One piece described a comparative shopping tour of the Pullman-Moscow stores, which revealed that the campus pharmacy undersold local pharmacies dispensing birth control pills. But the lowest prices were found across the border in British Columbia.

A second piece was headlined "Condom craze? Area sales rising." One reason for their renewed popularity, after a decline during the ten years the pill has been available, is their ready availability. Reporter Sandy Ringer found one tavern, however, that did not include dispensers in its rest rooms.

"They're still maintaining their mom and apple pie image," he wrote.

****

BIKE THEFTS at Central Michigan U. have reached the point where campus police are in a concerted campaign to register the wheels.

CM Life reports that of an estimated 5,000 vehicles on campus, only 235 are now registered.

****

SPEAKING OF MANEATERS...that UMo newspaper has inaugurated a new keyhole column called "Peeple", devoted to people.

Columnist Carolyn Lesh invites material, "If you've done something interesting, something unusual, something of merit or anything slightly kicky, call (me) and find immortality in print."

2001, A Space Odyssey
Tomorrow Night
Friday, October 12, 1973
Campus Center Auditorium
6:30
9:00 p.m.
11:30
Admission 75c

DINNER and a MOVIE
for two $7.95
at
THE CHEQUERS
Chicken Cacciatore dinner for two with salad and garlic bread, then off to CAMPUS CINEMAS for your choice of a movie.
Tonight and Every Thursday Night!

Police
Emergency
5-3111

King of Hearts
OCT. 12, 1973

75c 75c
Friday Night
MAHAR
7, 9, 11

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

200 issues of Playboy's from 1956 to present. Make offer, 549-1420. tf10-12

Genuine S.S. Stewart banjo, mint cond., best offer. Also 23 year old Martin 5-18 guitar, $325, 527-5428. tf10-12

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands! tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688. tf10/19

1970 Ford Cortina, low mileage, air gauges, Am-FM, radials, tach, 108 h.p., $1150, way under book value, wood instr. panel, clock. 407 Puffton, 549-0525. tf10-11

For sale — 1966 MGB, good condition, many new parts and extras, $600.00 or best offer. Call 549-1387. tf10-12

Scuba-Dacor DBL hose, Scubair SGL hose, USD 72 & twn. 50 tanks, speargun & fins; also car cassette player & alum. 6' folding cot. 256-0481. tf10-11

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart, Montague Center. tf10-15

Earth shoes cheap! Women's size 9, brown leather Oxford type, like-new. A real deal for $25. Call Yvette at 584-5906, leave message. tf10/12

Hammond Model B with Leslie tone cabinet, best offer. Call Paul, 253-7246. tf10-11

Hi! It's Paul your friendly furniture dealer speaking to you. We still have most of the costumes left; also a large supply of treadle sewing machines plus our usual unusual collection of furniture and junque. 46 Main St. in the Alley. Remember Paul's Old Time Furniture is 100 per cent student owned, 253-3511. tf10-11

E.M.S. camping equip., back pack, down sleeping bag & two man tent with floor, list $270, only $150. Used once. Call 549-0924 between 5-8 p.m. tf10-12

Used Israeli Lamb Skin Jacket $15; two beautiful Peasant Skirts $5 ea. Call 256-0364, evenings. tf10/16

Classical Guitar, mint condition, $70 — firm. 256-0567. tf10/11

Vivitar Lens 85 mm to 205 mm zoom fits Pentax, Yashica, Mamiya Sekor. Just like new. Call 549-0591. tf10/16

72 VW Bus, 25000 mi., radio, curtains, new disc brakes. Just tuned. 2 Radial snows, other extras. Call 549-6728, $2800. tf10/16

Koflach buckle ski boots, size ten, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0131 days, and at 549-6872 after six p.m. tf10/12

One Columbia 10-speed bicycle in excellent condition. Only $45, call 6-5086. tf10/12

Double mattress, $20. Al, 584-0082, call after 9 p.m. tf10-12

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers. $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305. tf10-18

FOR SALE

Brown snorkel parka, brand new, never worn, size men's sm. Contact Caryn, 6-7305 tf10-17

Fish — 15 gal. glass tank set up. 2 large Discusses, 2 Fire Eels, 2 Tri-color Sharks & 1 Clown Loach, $80 or best offer. Call 546-9953. tf10-15

AUTO FOR SALE

1963 Dodge Dart, reliable, local transportation. 584-2500, best offer. tf10-15

1965 Fairlane, 6 cyl. std. 665-3451 after 6 p.m. tf10-15

1966 VW Squareback, good engine, best offer. 549-1420. tf10-12

1966 Cutlass Supreme, 62,000 miles, very good condition, $500. Call 1-617-544-3520. tf10-17

1959-60 Alfa Romero GT Sprint, hardtop, runs like a dream. Classic, used for dependable daily transportation, $750 firm. Call 6-7433. tf10-12

1965 Plymouth Barracuda, exc. body and engine cond., V-8, new shocks, good tires, must be seen, $325. Call Al, 546-7691. tf10-11

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price, 665-3344. tf10-12

Porsches, 356, 1600 SSC, $400 up; Chev., 1966 station wagon, new trans. & ball joints; Saab 96S radials. 323-7327, trades. tf10-11

1970 9 pass. Kingswood Estate wagon, 37,000 mi., auto. trans., power steering, power brakes, roof rack, mileage good, great family car. Paul, 253-7646. tf10-12

1966 MGB, blown engine, but 4 new 14-inch tires and wire wheels. Call Mark, 665-4390, best offer. tf10-12

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323-7706 anytime. tf10-16

1967 Rambler Rebel, 53,000 mi., new brakes, cooling, tune-up, parts, a.t., $450.00. 549-3857 or 545-1388. tf10-15

64 GTO, recently rebuilt, 389 high perf. eng., new brakes, battery, exhst. 546-9626 eve. tf10/12

1950 GMC school bus, cheap. 369-4020, good condition. tf10-12

1941 antique Chevy, a classic looking car, excel. body, new rebuilt eng., a good buy, has to be seen, many spare parts, best offer. 549-6195. tf10-17

1964 Chrysler 300, V-8, 383, p.s., p.b., air, needs some transmission work. Best offer, willing to sell as parts or engine. Call 586-2908. tf10-12

1966 Ford Supervan, good condition, $500 or best offer. Call 546-8661 between 5-8 p.m. tf10-12

1959 Mercedes Benz diesel, running with sticker, best offer. 549-3986. New Pirelli radials. tf10-12

LOST

Lost shoe Thurs. nite, Moon Misbegotten, left in audience. Please call, going barefoot. Call 584-0927, reward Kathie. tf10-11

PERSONAL

U-Pukeds! Today 7 points, tomorrow a win (But what about Karl's story)! Congratulations from your Groupies. tf10/11

Hey you! Number 2 really does try harder. tf10/12

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362. tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002. tf11-11

Whoever found my yellow notebook — Mythology 225 — please call 6-4073, reward. tf10-11

Experienced Photographer desperately needs use of darkroom. Will negotiate. Hurry! Please call 6-6369 or 6-6351. Keep trying — Paula. tf10/12

To Dori — our favorite mermaid — what day was it? Hope it was happy! Your slow but well-meaning friends. tf10-11

Parachute class to start soon. Come Oct. 11, CC 101, 7:00 p.m. to get all info & forms. Open to 5-College area students & staff. We get large discount. tf10-11

Cutie — okay, I won't say another word about Bruce, but just between us, do you want that candy cane now? Nyuck, Nyuck. Love, MMMMMe. tf10-11

Kathy — who had my wallet — I meant to ask you in if only to warm your feet, but had much on my mind. Come back for coffee. tf10-12

Homosexual thoughts & feelings bothering you, or would like information? Call 586-2811, ask for Paul after 6:30. tf10-15

WANTED

Needed — lead guitar and drummer, must have instrument and trans. Paid rehearsal time. Call Mike between 3 and 5, 527-9830. tf10-12

Sm. house to rent — Conway, Colrain vicinity, two bdrm. pref. 323-6628 after 5. tf10-11

Hey Bud! Number 2 wants to make you wiser. Watch for details. tf10/12

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth. tf10-12

Own room in Conway with hip family for babysitting and house cleaning. 369-4020. tf10-12

Home wanted for kitten, preferably off campus. 546-7008. tf10-12

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531. tf10-17

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

ROOMMATE WANTED

Roommate wanted to share apt. in Sunderland. Own room, $75 per mo., incl. utilities, on bus line. Call Nancy, SaM, or Kim, 665-4176. tf10-11

Roommate wanted at Presidential Apts. Own nice room 8 minutes to campus, nice quiet apt. $70.00 a month. Call 549-6606, nites. tf10/11

HELP WANTED

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-4:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie. t11

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings. tf10-16

Artists — we need a few good illustrators to work on an animated movie. If interested call Alan at 253-7850. Leave name and no. tf10-11

Secretary for Commuter Assembly, 15 hrs. work. Apply Commuter Lounge, M-W-F, 11:30-5, T-Th, 2:30-4. Must be undergrad commuter. tf10-11

Pizza people, delivery people, counter help. Apply in person or call the Hungry U, 256-6350. tf10-15

Wanted — jugglers to perform. Call 545-0418. tf10-11

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 584-6458. tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long, good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458. tf10-17

SERVICES

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051. tf10-26

Free lance mech., will do light automotive work for $3.00 an hr. & parts. 546-5185, ask for Larry. tf10-11

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying. tf10-19

Any and all types of sewing done. Call Leah at 665-3439. tf10-12

Need a typist? Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service. Call 584-0743. tf10-12

Car repairs — tune-ups, brake jobs, etc. Honest Earl's, 268-7693. tf10-11

Typing — reliable, reasonable, manuscripts, term papers, theses, dissertations. IBM Selectric typewriter. Mary Lou, 253-7352. tf10-11

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

1971 Yamaha 200cc, exc. cond., $350 or best offer. Call Vivien at 546-5280 evenings. tf10-11

Honda 150cc, excellent condition, 5,000 miles. Call Paula, 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., So. Hadley Center. Asking $275, call 536-7440. tf10-15

Honda 305, 1969, only 5,000 miles, good shape. $335. 527-5428. tf10-12

FOR RENT

4 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton, 584-3428. tf10-12

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373. tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700. tf10/18

Large fur. room with ½ bath in private home, $60 per mo. Want one able to babysit for 1 child, 1 hr. 3 nights a week. 256-8948 after 3 p.m. tf10-11

Motorhome for rent by the week or day, completely self-contained, sleeps eight. Call 772-0383. tf10-15

1 bdrm. apt., Sunderland on bus line, $150 per mo. rent, includes utilities. Call 665-4189 or 665-3958 & ask about apt. no. 124. tf10-11

Huge 8-room apt., 20 minutes from campus, heat and utilities included, $250, negotiable. Call 538-7897 after 6 and weekends. tf10-11

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month. tf10/19

Huge rm. couple? $120 incl. util., new home, kitchen, carpet, nice local, yard, 66 Market, Northampton. Also one rm., $85. Call 584-0927. tf10-11

6 bedroom house for rent, located in Wendell, $375 per month. Call 1-617-544-3520. tf10-17

ENTERTAINMENT

Wanted — jugglers to perform. Call 545-0418. tf10-11

Sorry, but I have no open dates left in Oct. Thanks UMass for a fantastic Sept. and Oct. Your friend, Steve the D.J., 467-2842. tf10-17

Rock music is ALHAMBRA, for your dorm party or other booking. Call Jeff (in 102), 5-2642, Warren, 863-9216, reasonable rates. tf10-12

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long. Good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458. tf10-17

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 1-584-6458. tf10-17

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Kingston, N.Y. or vicinity on Friday, Oct. 12 and return Sunday. Will share expenses and-or driving. Please call 253-3139. tf10-11

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses. tf10-18

Daily Collegian

Minutemen

SPORTS

Esposito 401st Lifts Bruins

BOSTON (AP)-Phil Esposito's third goal of the game, and 401st of his National Hockey League career, spoiled a Vancouver comback and moved the Boston Bruins to a 6-4 victory Wednesday night in a season opener at Boston Garden.

The Bruins, starting their 50th year in the NHL, rallied after Vancouver had pulled into a 4-4 tie on third period goals by Gerry o'Flaherty and Orland Kurtenbach.

With time running out, Ken Hodge stole the puck just inside the Vancouver zone, and fed Esposito, who made a brilliant play in beating goalie Garry Smith before flipping the puck into the net. The time was 18:42.

Hodge then took a pass from Esposito and scored into an open net for an insurance tally at 19:55.

Esposito, the league's leading scorer in four of the last five seasons, proved decisively that he is fit once again after undergoing knee surgery last April.

He put the Bruins in front by catching a rebound of a shot by Bobby Orr. But the Canucks came back for a 2-1 first period lead on goals by Andre Boudrais and Dennis Kearns.

Esposito tied the score with his 400th goal on a feed from Orr at 8:47 of the second period, and then set up Wayne Cashman for a go-ahead tally seven minutes later.

Rookie Chris Oddleifson made it 4-2 in the third period before Vancouver came back, finally tieing the score on Kurtenback's power play goal.

Esposito has scored three goals in a game 21 times during his NHL career.

Replay

Back by popular demand, WUMV-TV Sports will present a special showing of perhaps the most thrilling UMass football game in the history of school tonight at 5 p.m. on the wide Bluewall screen.

Marty Kelley will provide the play-by-play and Earle Barroll the color commentary.

No Sellout

BOSTON (AP)-The Boston Bruins failed to sell out for the first time in nearly 200 games at Boston Garden, drawing only 14,523 fans for their National Hockey League opener Wednesday with the Vancouver Canucks.

The Bruins had played to capacity crowds at home in 164 regular season games and 27 playoff engagements since they last failed to sell out on Feb. 9, 1969, when a raging blizzard hit New England.

The Garden capacity is 15,003.

in a rush?
grab a Quickie Lunch!

11th Floor Campus Center
Room 1102 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.
Monday thru Friday

Quotes And Notes

A Little Bit Of Everything

By STEVE CROWE

"We beat those Reds! We beat those Reds!" cheered a jubilant Bob Estelle, noted conservative columnist for the Daily Collegian. He was celebrating the victory of his N.Y. Mets over the Cincinnati Reds for the National League Championship.

+ + +

Bill Ballou's column in yesterday's Collegian, predicting that the Boston Bruins would win the Stanley Cup, does indeed give the kiss of death to that team. Look what he has done in the past: in 1972 he said the Bruins would not win the Cup and who could ever forget his column saying that Billie Jean King would be crushed by Bobby Riggs. "I've never been wrong in my predictions," contends Ballou, ". . .except when I put them in print." Which brings back the question of does a tree falling in the woods make a noise if no one hears it?"

+ + +

In case you haven't noticed, the Collegian Sports section has expanded to three pages. The space was desperately needed to fit all the athletics that are going on now. Baseball and football have been clashing all fall, and now pro hockey and basketball join the circus. Now you have to have a program to tell all the sports.

+ + +

Have a gripe about the sports pages? How about a question about a question about the UMass teams or one directed to one of the coaches? Or even a comment about a sports issue? We are starting a "Letters to the Sports Editor" column where you readers will have the chance to do this. But, we warn you, unlike the Editorial page which leaves the letters unanswered, we are going to talk back.

+ + +

Reggie Jackson of the Oakland A's on the N.Y. Mets: "What a terrible team to be in the playoffs," he said. "They're a disgrace. They never should have been in the playoffs. They have only two name ball players on the whole team, Tom Seaver and Rusty Staub. Who are all those other guys?"

+ + +

Bob Estelle on Reggie Jackson: "Wait'll we (Mets) get to him. Reggie Jackson is going to get a fast ball right in the mouth!"

+ + +

Coach Dick MacPherson at yesterday's Varsity M luncheon defended his co-captain Johnny Jones for saying in a Collegian feature in Wednesday's paper, "O. J. Simpson couldn't have scored on us Saturday."

"O. J. Simpson couldn't have scored on us Saturday," said MacPherson, "because he wasn't eligible to play."

Almys
YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US!

HADLEY
RTE. 9
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
Open Daily
10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

WEEKEND SPECIAL

$4.00
Loving Touch
Cutting Board
40×72
Loving Touch Poly-Thread

for those of you that sew ....

Almys got a notion that might turn your head.

99¢

reg. 3.48

cutting board

Heavy duty board opens to 40 x 72" work area. Folds for easy storage.

polyester thread

Designed for use with all fabrics. Black or white, 250 yd. spool, Size 50.

reg. 2 for 59c 4 for 99¢

LEATHER CLOTHES
To state it simply, we got it!

Walter Dyer
Heartfelt Leather
103 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst
253-5135

Mainly fleece coats
and leather jackets

from

(AP Wirephoto)

"I have never felt so sore after a game as I do today," said JJ Jennings, the All-American candidate from Holyoke, after Rutgers' upset 25-22 loss to UMass on Saturday. Jennings, despite the loss to UMass setting their season mark at 3-1, remains the nation's top collegiate football scorer with 60 points.

Nervous Volleyball Team Loses Sport's First Match

By LINDA MACKLER

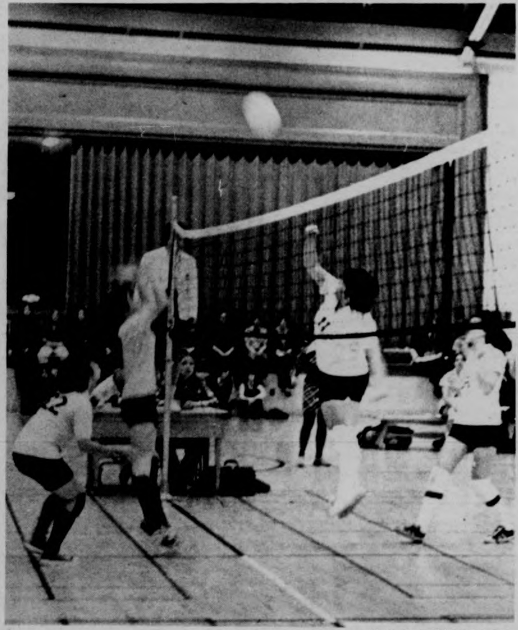
A crowd which lined the stage and sideline floor of the Northeast Physical Education Building gym watched a nervous, but promising UMass women's volleyball team fall yesterday to Westfield State Teacher's College. The scores were 15-9 and 15-6 in the first two games of a two out of three game match.

For the first contest, not only of the season but of their career, UMass showed a lot of potential. The A squad, consisting of Karen Fruzzetti, Janice Perkins, Diane Boucher, Nancy Caruso, Jane McNamara, and Sue Brophy played the entire match. They had hustle and ambition.

The games moved quickly, but were not a matter of simply trading serves. There were quite a few good volleys, which generated a natural audience excitement. While their serving abilities need improvement, one girl gave an excellent performance. Nancy Caruso's serves were powerful drives skimming neatly over the net into the opposite court.

Coach Jody Jensen appeared pleased with the first performance and is looking forward to future games. On October 25th, UMass will play Springfield College, who are the defending champions, in Springfield at 6:30 p.m.

Next Wednesday, October 17th, Ann Heck will hold a clinic here at UMass. Ms. Heck is an Olympic volleyball champion. Working out with the new UMass team could prove to be an important and helpful experience for the players.



Staff Photo/Bob Gamache

The women's volleyball team failed to obtain that level of immortality when they lost the first match of their brand-new sport's career.

NHL
Boston 6,
Vancouver 4

Mets Clinch; O's Comeback

(Continued from P. 24)

thrown out trying to reach third on the play for the final out of the inning.

An inning later, Seaver doubled and scored another run on Jones' third hit of the game. That gave Seaver a five-run bulge.

The Mets gave Seaver a quick lead in the first inning when hits by Millan and Jones and a walk to Milner loaded the bases. Kranepool then doubled for a 2-0 edge.

The Reds got those runs back one at a time. Joe Morgan doubled and reached third on an error before scoring on Driesen's sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Pete Rose doubled, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Tony Perez' single to tie the game.

Rose, captain of the Reds and the center of controversy following the third-game brawl here on Monday, clapped his hands happily as he crossed the plate.

Then came the Mets' fifth-and the happiness faded for Cincinnati.

Seaver, beaten 2-1 in the opening game of this series and working with only three days' rest instead of the usual four he prefers, was not overpowering, but he didn't have to be with the Mets supplying a 13-hit attack to support him.

(Continued from P. 24)

In the seventh Blue walked Earl Williams. Don Baylor singled to left, Brooks Robinson singled up the middle to drive home Williams and bring Etchebarren to the plate.

Etchebarren swung at the first pitch from Blue and pounded it into the left-center field bleachers to tie the game.

That was all for Blue and Fingers took over on the mound for the A's.

Southpaw Grant Jackson, Baltimore's third reliever of the game, got credit for the victory, which put the Orioles in position to win their fourth league championship in five years.

Yan Con

Football

	W	L	PCT
Conn.	2	0	1.000
Mass.	1	0	1.000
Maine	2	2	.500
Boston U.	1	1	.500
Vermont	1	2	.333
R.I.	0	1	.000
New Hamp.	0	1	.000

Soccer

	W	L	T	PTS
Conn.	3	0	0	6
Maine	2	0	1	5
Boston Univ.	1	2	1	3
New Hamp.	1	1	0	2
Mass.	0	1	0	0
R.I.	0	1	0	0
Vermont	0	2	0	0

Notices

INTRAMURALS - All men's and women's I-M 10 pin team bowling entries are due on Monday, Oct. 15 at 5 p.m. All volleyball men's and women's and co-rec are due on Thursday Oct. 18 by 5 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL - There will be try-outs for all candidates for the Men's Power Volleyball Club on Monday, Oct. 15 and Wednesday, Oct. 17 from 6-8 p.m. in the WOPE gymnasium

Better than anything around . . . . better than anything square — go No. 2!

MAD APPLE MUSIC

THE STORE THAT OFFERS
SO MUCH MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER RECORD STORE.

THIS WEEK'S SPECIAL
Newest Releases

	List	Now
New Riders of the Purple Sage	$ 5.99	$3.79
Cheech 'n Chong	$ 5.98	$3.98
Stevie Wonder	$ 5.98	$3.98
Steve Miller Band	$ 5.98	$3.98
Jesse Collin Young	$ 5.98	$3.98
Leon Russell (HANK)	$ 5.98	$3.98
Elton John	$11.98	$6.98
NRBQ — Swaps	$ 5.99	$3.79
NRBQ — Workshop	$ 5.99	$3.79

Also: 8-Track Tapes ONLY $1.99

Open 10-5:30 Daily
10-9 Thursday

146 Main St., Northampton

Henry May Band at the BLUEWALL

Friday and Saturday
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

JOLLY GOOD SHOW

All kinds of shows: music concerts, funky films, funny people making us laugh, yo-yo's and doo-dahs — all things are possiblé — you decide.

Learn to produce music concerts and all sorts of entertaining shows.

There's no business — like SHOW business. Bring good times to U. Mass.

Be a part of the Program Council Social Committee

Meeting Sunday, Oct. 14, 7:30 p.m.

Room to be announced

Mets Clinch National League Crown

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Tom Seaver, with ninth-inning help from Tug McGraw, pitched New York's Cinderella Mets to the National League championship Wednesday, beating the Cincinnati Reds 7-2 on the strength of a wild four-run fifth inning in the final playoff game.

A huge Shea Stadium crowd that started chanting, "We're No. 1, We're No. 1!" during the big outburst, spilled onto the field despite the presence of dozens of policemen, creating a tumultuous victory scene when McGraw recorded the final out.

The win gave the Mets their third triumph in this best-of-five series and put them in the World Series.

The game was delayed several times in the Reds' ninth because of demonstrative fans.

The Mets will face the winner of the American League championship series between the Baltimore Orioles and Oakland A's. The World Series begins Saturday in the American League city.

Cleon Jones contributed three hits to the Mets' attack, including a double during the freakish fifth when a string of strange hits and misses helped New York in its decisive rally.

The score was tied 2-2 when Wayne Garrett opened the Mets' fifth with a double.

Felix Millan bunted. Reds' starting pitcher Jack Billingham quickly bounced off the mound and grabbed the ball. He fired to third base and the throw seemed to be in time to get the sliding Garrett. But rookie third baseman Dan Driessen, apparently thinking it was a force play, never tagged the runner and both Garrett and Millan were safe.

Jones doubled on Billingham's next pitch, scoring Garrett and giving the Mets the lead.

That finished Billingham and left-hander Don Gullett was sent in to face lefty-swinging John Milner, who walked, loading the bases. Manager Yogi Berra then sent in Willie Mays, his retiring superstar, to bat for Ed Kranepool, who had delivered a two-run single in the first inning. The Reds then switched to Clay Carroll as the crowd gave Mays a tremendous standing ovation.

The 42-year-old Mays, who had not appeared in a game since Sept. 9, swung at Carroll's first pitch and chopped it in front of the plate, no more than 30 feet up the third base line.

Carroll rushed off the mound but his throw to the plate was not in time to get Millan, who slid home me on the infield single.

That made it 4-2 and, after a force play at the plate left the bases still loaded, Don Hahn hit a soft fly ball that fell in short center field. Milner scored on the play but center fielder Cesar Geronimo recovered quickly and threw to second for a forceout.

Then Bud Harrelson singled past third for the fourth run of the inning and a 6-2 lead. Hahn was

(Continued on P. 23)

Now it's Yogi Berra's turn to laugh. For Sparky Anderson and the Cincinnati Reds it's all over. The old cliche: "Wait till next year," will probably be heard from the Cincinnati organization.

(AP Wirephoto)

O's Comeback To Win 5-4

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP)-The baltimore Orioles, after tailing Oakland 4-0 and appearing helpless against the pitching of ida Blue, beat the A's 5-4 Wednesday on late home runs by Andy Etchebarren and Bobby Grich to send the American League playoffs to the fifth game.

Grich broke a 4-4 tie when he led off the eighth inning with a 385-foot homer off A's reliever Rollie Fingers.

Etchebarren had tied the score one inning earlier with a three-run blast off left-hander Blue.

The A's, defending world champions, will pitch 21-game winner Jim "Catfish" Hunter here Thursday.

The Orioles are expected to start 23-yer-old Doyle Alexander.

The World Series will start either here or in Baltimore Saturday, with the American League champs facing the New York Mets, who won the National League title earlier Wednesday by beating the Cincinnati Red 7-2 in the final playoff game.

Oakland knocked out Baltimore starter Jim Palmer, who had shut out the A's 6-0 on five hits in the playoff opener, with a three-run second inning.

Gene Tenace, Ray Fosse and Dick Green all hit doubles against the hard-throwing right-handed ace.

Oakland's fourth run was driven in by Fosse with a sacrifice fly in the sixth inning.

Blue, the first-game loser when he failed to last one inning, overpowered the Orioles through six innings, allowing just one hit, a single through the box by Paul Blair in the fourth.

(Continued on P. 23)

Daily Collegian
Minutemen
SPORTS

With A Little Bit Of Luck

By BILL BALLOU

"Take my word for it, this team is the best in the East." The word comes from head football manager Mike Pomerleau, who at yesterday's Varsity M Club luncheon defended the UMass football team against "the press criticism of the last few weeks."

Pomerleau predicted that the Minutemen would "win all the rest of our games, and that means even BC."

Head coach Dick MacPherson wasn't predicting any future UMass successes, but found time to reflect on Saturday's win over Rutgers.

"One of the things that really helped us," he said, "was the great support we got from some UMass fans who came down and sat right in back of the bench.

"Friday night," he continued, "I saw this big Ryder truck pull up outside our motel and the back opens up and maybe 15 or 20 people pile out. There were some guys with drums and some more with horns and they all sat together behind us Saturday. It really gave us a big lift."

Bill Maxwell, one of MacPherson's assistants and the man who has seen more of BU than any one else on the team, gave a scouting report on next week's opponent, noting the Terriers' "new enthusiasm".

Boston University has a new coach, Paul Kemp, and Maxwell says Kemp's philosophy of football is "the name of the game is hitting."

The Terriers do a lot of hitting, especially on defense, and that's where their strength lies.

"So far they've been living on their defense," Maxwell said, "and they've been able to translate their enthusiasm into an effective unit. But that enthusiasm hasn't had the same effect on their offense."

The BU offense has been nonexistent up until this point in the season. They've scored just one touchdown on offense, and that came after the defense had blocked a punt on the one yard line.

Jim Talrico, UMass' senior cornerback, commented that he'd heard a lot of talk about UMass' win over Rutgers being lucky.

"Let me tell you", he said. "Anyone who plays against J.J. Jennings can't be very lucky."

Well, the Minutemen are going to have to have some kind of luck the rest of the way if they're going to fulfill Mike Pomerleau's prophecy. It's a tall order, especially the way BC's been playing.

Wilt Must Play For LA

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Basketball superstar Wilt Chamberlain will not be allowed to play for any team other than the Los Angeles Lakers for the next year, a Superior Court judge ruled Wednesday.

Judge Campbell Lucas issued a temporary retraining order while attorneys for the Lakers and Chamberlain work out details of an injunction which will cover the sports figure's activities for the next year.

The judge indicated he had no objections to Chamberlain's coaching for the San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association.

Chamberlain has signed a contract under which he will be paid a reported $600,000 by the ABA team, whether he plays or coaches.

Chamberlain's attorney, Frederick Furth, said he would appeal the ruling.

The Lakers will post $200,000 bond on the possibility the judge's ruling could be overturned and Chamerlain could seek damages for the period for which he is not allowed to play.

The judge said he saw no difference between this case and those of other sports figures who have refused to abide by contracts featuring a renewal or reserve clause, for the renewal of a contract for an extra year.

The Inside Page

- Women's Volleyball
- Boston Bruins

MDC Sportsline
5-0344

Steve DeCosta

An Open Letter To Al Champs

"What a terrible team to be in the playoffs. They're a disgrace. They should never have been in the playoffs. They have only two name ballplayers on the whole team, Tom Seaver and Rusty Staub. Who are all those other guys?"

Reggie Jackson on the Mets

An open letter to the American League champions:

Dear Dick Williams and Earl Weaver:

First of all I would like to say good luck to the winner in the upcoming World Series. It is the only way you will have even the remotest chance of beating the Mets.

I hope that Reggie Jackson's remarks are only a case of isolated ignorance, but I think not. How can anybody, take the Mets seriously?

Well sirs, the time has come to reconsider. It is a shame that you both were too tied up in your own playoff series to take in the NL series on television. If you had, you would certainly have gotten the incredible sense that the Mets cannot lose. No logic, no explanation, just the fact. If you don't believe me, just ask Sparky Anderson. Or better yet, Pete Rose.

As for Reggie Jackson and the rest of the American League who will soon be crushed by the Met's surge, let me introduce you to your vanquishers. You say you know Seaver and Staub. Well, mark them well and go on to the rest because you will not be beaten by a mere team of two.

The rest of the names are nondescript, unknown; but names are not important. Will you really need to know that it was Wayne Garrett, Don Hahn, George Theodore, or John Strohmayr who administered the final, deciding blow when all you will feel is the brutal sting of defeat?

Perhaps, and this applies specially to Mr. Weaver, you remember the Amazing Mets of 1969 who so ably cut down the omnipotent Orioles in their prime.

The heroes of '69 are gone, but not the feeling that made Mets amazing. Donn Clendenon, outstanding player in that memorable Series is gone. Al Weis cannot be a factor this year. Tommie Agee and Ron Swoboda will not make the impossible catches that prevented many a rally. J.C. Martin can no longer bunt the Mets to victory.

But, somewhere on that Met roster, with a name that you probably haven't even heard yet, is the player deserving of the amazing tag who will become famous with one swing of the bat or one toss past a power hitter, getting his picture on the cover of Sports Illustrated and earning a new car from Sport, while dealing another great blow to the pride of the junior circuit.

So, think twice before you take the field today to play for the AL crown. Even if you win, you can still only be a runner-up.

John Connally

Gov. Ronald Reagan

Who's Next?

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller

Speaker Carl Albert

Nixon Seeks Agnew Replacement

By JIM WILLSE
Associated Press Writer

Names of nationally known Republicans and some favorite sons were telegraphed to Washington Thursday as state GOP leaders forwarded their suggestions for a successor to Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

Atop many of the lists being sent for President Nixon's consideration were the names of California Gov. Ronald Reagan, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and former Texas Gov. John Connally.

Some GOP governors, state party chairmen and national committee members contacted by The Associated Press also voiced support for the present national chairman, George Bush, U.S. Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, House GOP Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan, and former Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

But it was not clear who was the leading candidate. A number of the state leaders continued polling their GOP organizations throughout the day. Some said they would offer no recommendations, others refused to make theirs public.

Shortly before the 5 p.m. deadline for responses set by Bush, nearly all of the 150-member national committee had telegraphed their preferences for a new vice president.

Bush himself was accepting the telegrams, which he planned to forward to the White House by early evening. Neither Bush nor aides would say how the confidential poll was going.

White House sources said Thursday that Nixon hopes to nominate a suceessor to Agnew within the next few days, possibly by the end of the week. He called on the state leaders and Republican members of Congress to aid in the selection process by submitting names.

Agnew resigned office Wednesday after pleading no contest to one count of income tax evasion.

As expected, strong support was voiced for Reagan, Rockefeller and Goldwater in their home states.

Reagan said late Thursday it would be difficult for anyone to turn the job down. "Under the circumstances, whoever this is offered to is going to have to give great consideration as to whether he has the right to refuse a call to such a task," he said. Reagan had said earlier Nixon should pick a strong vice president.

New York GOP leaders also were solidly behind Rockefeller, who has expressed an interest in the job, according to congressional Republicans.

In Arizona, State Chairman Harry Rosenzweig said his were "Goldwater."

New England's
Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather

"Now that dark and stormy nights are back," she said, "we'll need to invent new ways to keep warm and dry."

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 27, 32 PAGES, TWO SECTIONS UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS FRIDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1973

Mideast War At-A-Glance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TEL AVIV - Israel said its ground forces pierced Syrian front lines on the Golan Heights Thursday and pushed six miles inside the 1967 cease-fire line on the road to Damascus. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said: "I think that by tonight or overnight this front will be finished off in our favor." He did not say Damascus was the objective. The Israelis claimed they had knocked out 880 Syrian tanks in Golan Heights fighting and bagged 11 Egyptian and Syrian planes Thursday.

BEIRUT - Egyptian and Syrian war communiques claimed a total of more than 100 Israeli aircraft were shot down Thursday. U.S. intelligence coming into the Pentagon has said aircraft kills reported by both sides are exaggerated. A Syrian communique said Syrian forces were holding firm on the Golan Heights.

BEIRUT - A Cairo war communique claimed that Egyptian armor has punched farther into the Sinai peninsula to wipe out a fleeing column of Israeli armor.

WASHINGTON - Pentagon sources said Thursday the United States is preparing to rush tons of artillery shells and antitank ammunition to Israel, and that Soviet airlifts to Egypt and Syria are continuing.

UNITED NATIONS - Foreign Minister Mohamed H. elZayyat of Egypt said Thursday that Israeli bombing in the war has killed 500 persons in Egypt. He did not specify when the casualties occurred. A Cairo war communique said Egyptian interceptors shot down nine Israeli planes Thursday and forced others to drop their bombs and flee. Some of the bombs dropped on villages, the communique said.

POLICE
EMERGENCY
DIAL 5-3111

(Staff Photo - Harry Charych)

The UMass Police Dept. has a new number to call in case of emergency, 5-3111. If you forget the number, you can read it off the door of any cruiser as it goes by or after it pulls you over. 5-2121 is now the rape line.

Women Say Rape Prevalent, Report 'Zero'

By JOANN DOMINICK AND SUZAN WAIHKONEN

For many women at UMass a late night walk across campus arises out of necessity not want. After talking to heads of residences in different areas, the MDC found there is a general "feeling of Apprehension on the part of women concerning the rape situation. As a result, some dorms are holding classes in self defense and discussion on rape.

One coed, JoAnn Kelly, summed it up saying "due to the present conscious raising resulting from reported assaults, I'm afraid to walk around campus at night!"

According to police sources there has been "zero" reports of rape this year. Yet dissatisfaction is being expressed concerning the lack of security, prompting one head of residence to say, "It's ridiculous for security to be handing out tickets, who cares? They're needed at night."

Another source of anger is the lack of walking patrols in the residential areas. The present system of setting up foot patrols is an aritrary method. Night foot partols are set up only after car patrols are assigned..

On some nights if officers call in sick according to Diana White, or if it is omeone's day off, there may be no walking patrols. Many coeds feel a visible patrol could be a deterrent to rape. However, there are no guarantees she indicated.

Environmental factors such as open spaces, lighting and even daylight aren't a preventative against rape, said Ms. White, a staff assistant.

One of the major problems is that a potential rapist can't be spotted. "He may be someone you would ordinarily trust, he can't be stereotyped, he's like any other guy on campus" she stated.

Ms. White advises women not to hitch, particularly on Route 9, rather "to walk, ride a bike or take the bus."

If you are assaulted the best thing to do is "use your intuition" she said, "make an assessment of yourself and what you think the guy is going to do. Fight him, be belligerent, fake an illness, anything that will scare him off."

If a woman is raped she should report it to the UMass police, advises Ms. White. If she chooses not to report it officially, she can call the rape line 5-2121, which assures her anonymity. The rape line is run by a police woman.

The purpose of the line is to accept any reports of rapes, attempted rapes, exhibitionism or sexual hassles, and to give a description of the man and what occured. These descriptions will be checked to see if they match any previous reports, Mrs. White explained.

If the woman does decide to report the crime she should talk to as few people as possible, for they will become subject to a subpoena and may cause conflicts in her story. She should go to the police soon as possible.

At the police station the woman gives a report to the desk sargent and a police woman is called. The victim is taken to the infirmary for a checkup. Depending on her physical and mental health she is asked to fill out an indepth report.

The final steps in the procedure are the courts. A show cause hearing is held to determine if ther is to be a trial. If the judge rules there is a case it will go to superior court. The victim has the right to ask for a trial by judge or jury and the cost of the trial is paid by the District Attorney's office.

In Massachusetts rape is a felony and carries the penalty of five years to life imprisonment. In order for this law to be effective women must report any violations.

Commentary

Fascism In New Africa House

(Editor's Note: The following is an editorial representing the views of some of the black students of New Africa House. Their names have been kept in confidence at the request of those students for legal reasons.)

Upon entering "New Africa" House these days, one is initially confronted with a sign declaring one of the newest regulations of New Africa House-that no posters can be posted on any walls of the building without first receiving the approval of the new director of the Black Cultural Center. It has been ascertained that this 'director' goes to the Associate Chairman of the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies to receive directions on the propriety of posting a given poster. Recently, a black student who wanted to announce a party in his dormitory had to secure a signature of approval from the Associate Chairman of Black Studies which read "o.k., Chet 9-29-73" in the corner of the announcement in order to post it in 'New Africa House.

It is ironic that during times when Black and other people are fighting for heir freedom and against oppression and facism in the world, where, for example, the freedom fighters in South Africa risk their lives to put up posters condemning apartheid, that the "ruling elite" of 'New Africa' House has chosen to adopt methods similar to those of the South African regime in order to protect itself from criticism.

It is obvious to Black students who frequent 'New Africa' House that this new regulation is a reaction to the criticism that the Department of Afro-American Studies received last Spring semester from Black students who were dissatisfied and disgusted with the Department's policy of nonaction under its current leadership.

Black studies finds itself in serious question as a legitimate alternative in education prepared to serve the needs of Black students or anyone else as is evidenced by:

-the one-man Department of Black Studies at Mount Holyoke College.

-the phantom department at Hampshire College

-the system of adjunct appointments in the Department of Black Studies at Smith College.

-the magnitude of part-time appointments in the Department of Black Studies at Amherst College.

The most serious level of co-optation, however, has been exemplified by the Department of Afro-American Studies at the University where the leadership of the Department has accepted the obligation of being a buffer between the legitimate grievances of Black students and the administration of the University.

In carrying out this obligation of "bufferism", the Chairman of Afro-American Studies at the University of Massachusetts in collaboration with the running-dog Chairmen of the other academically incredulous departments of Black Studies, have initiated a "purging" campaign to be rid of progressive elements on these campuses who demand change in the status quo of the departments. The Chairmen have engineered this campaign on the various campuses by a variety of means. What has transpired at the University, however, is the most classic example of this campaign opposing change.

The Chairman of the Department of Afro-American Studies at the University put his signature to three letters within one month's time requesting the resignation or firing certain persons who were critical of the operation of Black Studies at the University under his leadership. It is noteworthy that he did these actions at the termination of the school year when the students had left the campus. In addition, the Department of Afro-American Studies via its Chairman questioned the legitimacy ofthe elected Steering Committee of the Black Cultural Center (which was comprised of students) and was supported by the administration of the University. Furthermore, the Department has changed the locks on all doors in the building of 'New Africa' House and posted signs stating that the building would be locked after five. Most insightful into the character of the Department leadership is their threat to call the police if uninvited Black students attended the reception for Madam DuBois celebrating the University's receipt of the DuBois papers.

The regulation mandating approval by the Black Cultural Center (in actuality, the Department leadership) before one can post announcements or posters in 'New Africa' House is just one more of the tactics of desperate persons wishing to repress the voices of change. This is accomplished by resorting to the only available means of power these people have--"Tom Power." By utilizing "Tom Power", they use their nominal positions of authority to isolate members of the black community who will not passively or quietly submit to racism and oppression.

Consequently, when the Black student body at the University demanded in a meeting of the Department of Afro-American Studies faculty and students in June, 1972:

1. that the Chairman of Black Studies be more discreet in his excessive indulgence in the smoking of grass;
2. that the Department of Afro-American Studies take a public position against hard and soft drugs;
3. that the Department introduce Black students to the technical and natural sciences;
4. that the Department allow students to have some input in the decisions to hire prospective faculty;
5. that the Department leadership be present at some of the cultural and other events sponsored by different campus Third World organizations;
6. that members of the Department be on time for their classes;
7. that members of the Department come prepared for their classes;
8. that the Department initiate an effort to inform members of the black community about exactly "who was W.E.B. DuBois."

--their demands were met with resistance by the Department leadership on every imaginable level--low grades, firing, visible hostility (the Chairman, Michael Thelwell, was reported carrying around a machete), character assassination and isolation. Therefore, the Black students, unable to receive a forum for resolution of their grievances, had to pin up leaflets and posters raising fundamental questions that would expose the Chairman, Michael Thelwell, for his prostitution of the Black community.

The regulation concerning the pinning up of posters comes immediately following Michael Thelwell's arrest for just the kind of behavior for which the Black students have criticized him. Several weeks ago, in the Daily Hampshire Gazette, the following was reported:

"Michael M. Thelwell of Pelham was fined $20 for driving without a proper sticker, $20 for driving on the sidewalk and $25 for violation of the road laws. Charges of driving after suspension of licenses, driving without registration, and possession of marijuana were continued until October 12."

This reportage does not simply represent a case wherein an individual made a mistake and got caught. Two years ago, Mr. Thelwell and one of the members of his Department publicly exhibited pictures of a marijuana plantation that they had in the confines of Hampshire County. Fortunately or unfortunately, the crop was harvested by vandals.

The behavior of the Chairman of Afro-American Studies at the University does not characterize that of many of the faculty members in the Department, however. The faculty that has only been on campus a year or less are, for the most part, unaware of the history of decadence of the Departmental leadership. Many of the new faculty are fine people and are doing good things with their classes, but it is necessary for them to realize that the Department at the University cannot move progressively forward under such decadent leadership. It is the decadence of this leadership which has caused student alienation from the Department and accounts for the low participation of many Black and other students on the campus in the Department classes.

The tactics of leaders of the University's Department of Afro-American Studies in suppressing criticism by Black students are particularly ironic when considered in conjunction with the fact that it was the Black students who invited the Department to move from Herter building and to re-locate in then, Mills House (now 'New Africa' House). Is this the quality Pan-Africanism that is supposed to educate Black people and ultimately free them? We think not. This is fascism-disguised in dashikis and afros, and protected by people who would rather that the Black population wait another hundred years for freedom. These are the 'leaders' who are stifling Black progress and would kill any change for 10 cents extra because it is more important to them to protect their jobs than aid the community in its quest for freedom. Is this valid? Of course not. When did anyone's job ever free an entire people? Black people should not be forced to harbor degenerates that other ethnic communities would not tolerate.

Black students are now forced to seek a public forum. We condemn the projection of certain individuals as leaders of the Black community when their behavior is so much in opposition to the genuine development of the Black community.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports); 545-0731 (business).

Second-class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

THE PIZZA REVOLUTION is coming

Fac-Sen Approves Merit Increases

By SUSAN R. HUBBARD

Merit increases of $400 a piece for a large percentage of professors and teachers at UMass was the most hotly debated issue of yesterday's Faculty Senate meeting.

In a 44-0 vote, the Fac-Sen passed a motion advising the Board of Trustees of the University and President Robert C. Wood to allow individual departments to determine the amount and distribution of merit awards.

Two weeks ago, the Fac-Sen rejected the Board's proposal that professional advancement awards be designated as a fixed percent of the recipient's salary. Instead they suggested that such merit increments be given in specified dollar amounts.

This Fac-Sen reccommendation was acted on by the Board but their new solution to the problem of merit awards has again met with much faculty contention.

In a memorandum received by most departments yesterday, the President and the Board said that approximately 15% of the eligible faculty would receive awards of $1,000 or more, with the remaining 85% getting either the fixed amount of $400 or else receiving no merit award.

Much objection was voiced that this fluctuation in policy by the Board was causing hardships on personnel committees who are currently selecting award recipients.

The majority opinion of the senators at the meeting was that individual departments should be free to divide up award sums as they wished with merit amounts being given in amounts of $200, $400, or $600 to those who did not receive awards in the $1,000 range.

The "$400-or-nothing" policy was felt by most to constitute a step system which incremented the majority of all professors' salaries by the same amount.

In other business, a statement was read which the Rules Committee of the Fac-Sen sent to President Wood on Oct. 5, expressing concern over the appointment of Dean Dwight Allen as an advisor to the President.

Counseling, Career Offices Join Forces

By BRIAN COYNE

In an effort to change its emphasis and deal more effectively with students, the Counseling Center and the Career Planning and Placement Center have merged to form the Student Development and Career Planning Center.

Along with the merger, the Center has been relocated into Berkshire House from Whitmore. The Acting Director of the Center is Fred Preston. Although the moving process has still not been completed, offices in Berkshire House opened last Monday.

The most significant change in the Center, according to David Andes, a counseling intern, involves a more active role for the counselors. "Instead of people waiting in their offices for students to come in with problems, the Center is developing new programs that try to reach out to the community," he said. The accent, he said, is more on the development of the student as an individual than as someone with a problem needing help.

Programs recently developed include New Students Service, a Married Couples workshop, a community center in North Village Apartments, a Career Resource Center, and a course in the Psychology department, "The college Experience." The Center will continue to provide more traditional types of services such as educational, vocational and personal counseling, along with psychological and occupational testing.

The New Students program, developed by Salle Hamilton, is designed for freshmen and transfer students. It provides course and career advising, advance placement examinations and "survival skills." It also handled the distribution on campus of the magazine, University of Massachusetts in a Nutshell.

The workshop for couples is being run by Andes and is an attempt to help couples develop deeper relationships. The workshop will involve about six couples, trying to help individuals see problems they may be having more clearly through the experience of other couples.

Simon Keochakian has rented an apartment in North Village, turning it into a community center for the use of the residents. Village residents are hoping to develop a more pleasant living environment and reduce the turnover among apartment dwellers.

Psych 190, "The College Experience," was started last semester by Ted Slovin to help improve communications among freshmen at the University.

The Career Resource Center is developing a computer system which matches job applicants with potential employers. There is also a library of career information.

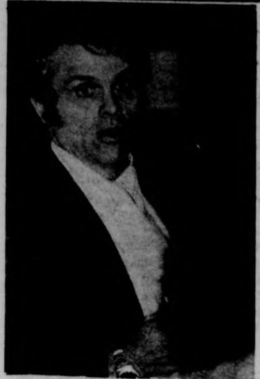
We're a full service travel agency!

- Airline Tickets
- Steamship Tickets
- Railroad Tickets
- Hotels
- Resorts
- Cruises
- Honeymoons
- Vacations
- Car Rentals

Peter Pan WORLD TRAVEL INC.

79 SOUTH PLEASANT ST
TEL. 256-6704
AMHERST

Dean Allen Enters His New Post



Dean Dwight Allen

By BRIAN COOK

Dean of the School of Education, Dwight Allen, explained his new duties as special academic advisor to President Wood and commented on the present controversy over his appointment in an interview with the Collegian yesterday.

"It is unfortunate that there is so much debate over this matter," Dean Allen said, "I don't see my appointment as relative to the issue of faculty involvement in academic policy making."

The MSP-AAUP (Massachusetts Society of Professors and American Association of University Professors) has been informed by President Robert Wood that he suspects the organization does not have an accurate understanding of the new advisory position. His present academic advisor, Father Michael Walsh, former president of Boston College and Fordham University, can serve only on a part-time basis and consequently, Wood has been seeking out (with the help of the Chancellors and Provosts of the UMass and Boston campuses) a full-time Vice President for Academic Affairs. Dean Allen will function only to "aid the President's Office and enrich his (Wood's) own capability, making unnecessary a large permanent staff."

In regard to how the appointment was made, Allen said, "President Wood invited my comment (on academic matters) and I accepted. I have absolutely no authority in this position and any recommendation by me to the president, would (if considered for academic policy) be open to faculty inspection for advice and consent." This would assure that faculty could continue to have a strong voice in decision-making as provided for in the new governance document.

As part of his new duties, Allen is serving as chairman for the curriculum committee of the task force involved in planning for a Massachusetts Open University (similar to open universities presently existing in other states). Allen says he is "looking forward" to working on the project and hopes to develop an alternative means of granting degrees which will not be considered "cheap." He is also presently involved with drawing up a "Future of the University" report.

A staunch believer in educational innovation, Allen looks favorably upon the advisory position. Commenting further, he said he said he is interested in any means which will "help students enjoy their education" and-or introduce "more resources to enhance the educational process."

Asked how he feels about MSP-AAUP charges of improper unilateral action on the part of President Wood, Allen replied that it was "not appropriate for him to comment on the matter since it is between the president and those complaining." He did say however, that "the president should be able to have anyone advise him.'

Reaction to the new appointment from faculty at the School of Education has been favorable with notes of congratulations being received in the dean's office. Voicing the feeling of many faculty members, Professor Reginald Damerell stated, "I just saw it as a routine advisory position." Students questioned at the Ed. School said they felt the situation is being blown out of proportion because of what some consider to be Allen's "controversial" status.

Rhetoric Program Revamp Underway

By STEVE TETREAULT

The Rhetoric Program, which has been a source of complaint on the part of both students and faculty in the past, has been undergoing a thorough examination.

The result of this examination has been a rough draft of a study by the Faculty Senate Campus Committee on Communication Skills.

The committee, which was created by the Faculty Senate, released copies of the draft recently to members of the Rhetoric, English and Speech Departments and the Faculty Senate.

The draft, which at this point is considered nothing more than a discussion piece, defines what the role of a rhetoric program should be, and how UMass can improve upon its offerings in this field.

The Committee reached the conclusion that a rhetoric program should provide students with at least "a minimum acceptable level of communication skills". It was speculated that sixty to eighty percent of the freshmen class could use help in this area. The Committee added that a rhetoric program shouldn't try to produce a level of intense sophistication, but rather give students a base in language skills and writing experience.

Thus, the Committee made the following recommendations in its study:

1. That the present six-hour core requirement be replaced by a "competency requirement", which means that a student would have to formally demonstrate a competency in speaking and writing at least twice a year. This competency requirement could not be fulfilled by simply attending classes and earning passing grades.

2. That an exemption exam be developed. This test would measure achievement and possibly earn students an exemption from the requirement. This would be a written and oral test, not merely a multiple-choice quiz.

3. That the Rhetoric Program gear most of its courses towards fulfilling the necessary communication skills; unnecessary frill courses would be dropped or modified in order to economize. Also, students would be better informed as to particular courses, thereby better coordinating the whole system.

4. That a communication skills lab and tutor service be instituted and financed to aid students in independent study. This lab and tutor program would offer guidance to students in fulfilling the competency requirement.

5. That the name of the program itself be changed, possibly to "Communication Skills". This was proposed because it was felt that the term "rhetoric" really doesn't describe what is offered in the program.

6. That the hierarchy of the program be altered. A permanent Rhetoric Board would be established in order to develop policies, grant exemptions, and further define the requirement.

The Rhetoric Board would serve as an advisory unit to the Director of Rhetoric who oversees daily management and operations. The Board would also set standards for teacher qualifications.

The Committee suggests that the Board be comprised of seven members: The Director of the department; a graduate instructor in the program; a person recommended by the Student Senate Academic Affairs Committee, and an undergraduate appointed by the President of the Student Senate; a faculty member of CASIAC; a person appointed by the faculty of the Professional Schools; and a person appointed from the faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences.

7. That a core faculty be established whose full-time responsibility would be towards the Rhetoric program.

8. That a special program be instituted to train graduate instructors in methods of teaching communication skills. This would provide some measure of consistency and uniformity.

9. That a student handbook be printed describing the Rhetoric requirements and programs. This handbook would serve as a sort of rulebook between the student and the program.

The Committee stresses that the proposals at this time are very tentative, and most probably will be subject to modification once the study is discussed with the Faculty Senate and the English and Speech Departments.

TEL AVIV (AP) — In the midst of the latest Middle East war, Israelis took time Thursday to celebrate the survival of Moses and the ancient children of Israel in the wilderness 3,000 years ago.

New York Interior Decorator May Remodel Campus Center

By SHARON HUGHES

The Campus Center Board of Governors last night voted to recommend hiring a New York design firm to remodel the Cmpus Center/Student Union (CC/SU) buildings.

The Board's action represented approval of Ferguson Sorrentino Design Inc. as the design firm to remodel the CC/SU if funds to renovate the buildings are authorized by the Board. The student body did not approve a contract with the firm, but made a committment with them to begin contract negotiations.

They also voted to change Hillel's room assignment, give the Craft Shop additional rooms, and allocate closet space to the Ski Patrol.

Board member Bob McDonnell announced the CC hotel lobby counter is cashing checks on Sunday-Wednesday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Thursday-Saturday from 4 p.m.-12 p.m.

According to Jim Lindsey, board chairperson, "remodeling" includes changing the location and function of rooms in the SU currently used by student groups.

"There are definitely going to be retail operations such as a bicycle shop, or a liquor store in the Student Union" Lindsey said.

He said the Board hasn't decided which student groups will be moved or which retail operations would occupy their space, but these details would be worked out before the design firm is hired.

A consultant firm hired by the Board last semester recommended that the CC lease space in the CC/SU to generate additional revenue into the building.

The cost of the renovation plan a timetable for beginning it, and the scope of the task has not yet been determined.

In further business the Board changed Hillel's room assignment to SU 302, gave SU rooms 304, 306, 308 to the Craft Shop, and allocated a closet (CC111) to the Ski Patrol in which to keep their equipment.

Volpe Mentioned To Replace Agnew

WASHINGTON (AP) - John A. Volpe, President Nixon's ambassador to Italy, has been mentioned as a possible dark horse candidate to replace former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Volpe was in Washington as recently as Wednesday morning and met personally with the President on Tuesday, a source close to the former Republican governor of Massachusetts said.

PARTS GERMAN PARTS
WE'VE GOT A PART FOR YOU!
and if we don't, we'll get it.
AT
ALLIED MOTOR PARTS, INC.
BRITISH JAPANESE
319 MAIN ST., AMHERST
256-8341
256-8342
Chilton's Repair Manuals
PARTS AMERICAN PARTS

Are you tired of campus food? How about a good home cooked meal?

ST. REGIS RESTAURANT

Open
Mon.-Sat.
6 a.m. - 9 p.m.
Sun.
8 a.m. - 9 p.m.

The place that serves breakfast from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday (8 a.m. to 9 p.m.).

— can offer you:
— SEAFOOD - STEAK - CHOPS - CHICKEN
— SPAGHETTI - SANDWICHES - much, much, more
— DAILY SPECIALS
— LIQUOR served with meals
— All at GREAT Prices

28 PLEASANT ST. NORTHAMPTON
(Intersection of Rt. 9 and Rt. 5, Downtown Northampton)

B U T
We also have CHEAP JEANS
LONG JOHNS
A. SMILE
LEE MADE WELL
THE BACK ROOM

安城中國飯店
Amherst Chinese Food
Hours: Mon.-Thurs., noon to 10 p.m.
Fri. & Sat., noon to midnight; Sun., 4 to 10 p.m.
62 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-7835
— 99¢ LUNCH SPECIALS —
Featuring over 100 different Chinese dishes!
Located on the Belchertown bus route, Amherst Town Hall stop.

In The Nation And The World

Nixon Approved Agnew Bargaining

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon approved the secret bargaining that led to Spiro T. Agnew's resignation as vice president and acceptance of a felony conviction, Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said Thursday.

The White House counsel was the pivotal middleman who brought together the government prosecutors and Agnew's lawyers for negotiations sparing Agnew a prison sentence but subjecting him to public disgrace and possible civil suits for thousands of dollars in back taxes, Richardson said.

In a nationally televised news conference, the attorney general said he hopes "the American people understand and support what has been done."

He said Agnew faces no further federal criminal proceedings based on the nine-month probe of corruption in Maryland politics. A state prosecutor quickly said he plans no action against Agnew.

But Richardson said it's up to the Internal Revenue Service whether to bring civil suits for the collection of substantial but still undetermined sums owed as taxes and penalties on a minimum of $87,500 Agnew allegedly received as illegal payoffs in three public offices, including the vice presidency.

In the gymnasium-like Great Hall of the Justice Department, Richardson fielded questions for an hour at his first news conference since the investigation touched Agnew.

Richardson said U.S. Atty. George Beall in Baltimore decided on July 3 that the charges against Agnew were so serious that the attorney general must be told.

Later that month, Richardson said he related the substance of the charges to White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig and in early August to Nixon himself.

Richardson said neither the White House nor anyone else attempted to quash the probe.

"the President was kept fully informed at all times," the attorney general said. "He fully approved each of the major steps that were taken in the course of the negotiations. He did not participate in the negotiations as such."

Nixon set no limits on the bargaining, Richardson added, but the President "was, of course, concerned as all of us were with the potential consequences of a prolonged and agonizing trial of these issues of fact."

The attorney general said the plea bargaining was set in motion by White House counsel Fred Buzhardt who telephoned him in September to suggest that Richardson meet with Agnew's lawyers. Buzhardt "did not indicate that he was acting at the President's behest," Richardson said.

The bargaining stalled later in September because each side refused to budge. Richardson declined to disclose details, but he and Beall suggested that the U.S. attorney and his assistants were holding out for at least a brief prison sentence.

Republican Tricks Did Hurt Democrats Says Mankiewicz

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. George McGovern's former political director testified Thursday that Nixon campaign dirty tricks contributed to the Democratic party's 1972 wounds.

"What was created by the sabotage effort was an unparalleled atmosphere of rancor and discord within the Democratic party," Frank Mankiewicz told the Senate Watergate committee.

Republican witnesses have claimed that the anti-Democratic sabotage added little to President Nixon's landslide victory over McGovern.

But Mankiewicz said Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's backers told him they blamed McGovern for anti-Muskie sabotage in the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary.

He said false leaflets were distributed during the crucial California primary, leading McGovern and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey to suspect each other of a "vicious campaign of distortion and vilification." He said this may have led to Humphrey's attempt to claim some California delegates won by McGovern.

He said a fake, insulting telephone to AFL-CIO President George Meany may have contributed to Meany's decision to withhold the giant labor organization's backing from McGovern.

Mankiewicz said the purpose of the sabotage seemed to be to "create within the Democratic party such a strong sense of resentment among the candidates and their followers as to make unity of the party impossible once a nominee was selected."

"At that, the effort seems to have been most successful," he said in a prepared opening statement.

During the panel's morning session, another former McGovern aide, Rick Stearns, accused the committee of a partisan, political attempt to smear the McGovern campaign.

The 29-year-old Harvard Law School freshman fenced with both Democrats and Republicans on the committee, which had prepared a subpoena to serve on him before his lawyers said he would come voluntarily. He complained he had been called fewer than 24 hours earlier.

Then he blamed unnamed members of the committee staff for "innuendoes and slanders" and of "unfounded attacks on Democratic integrity."

Without actually saying so, he obviously referred to reported attempts by Republican committee investigators to turn up evidence of Democratic dirty tricks.

Stearns was called specifically to testify about use of some McGovern telephones last year to promote an anti-Nixon rally at the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles Sept. 27.

Students Occupy Office Of Boston State's Pres.

BOSTON (AP) - About 50 students at Boston State College took over the president's office and one floor of the administration building Thursday.

The students held the area for about four hours to protest the school's refusal to renew the contracts of two teachers. They left after talking to President Kermit Morrissey.

"The held a meeting on the third floor and then just walked upstairs to the fourth floor and told everybody to leave," a school spokesman said.

Morrissey instructed all workers on the floor to leave as the demonstrators demanded.

The two teachers not rehired were Henry Allen, an instructor in history, and Blane Lee, an elementary education instructor.

16-Year-Old Charged With Stoning Death

BOSTON (AP) - A 16-year-old youth has been charged in the stabbing death of Louis Barba, 65, of Boston's Dorchester section, slain last week in an incident that also involved Barba being struck by stones.

The youth, the third arrested in Barba's death, was charged with being delinquent by reason of murder and robbery. He was arraigned in Dorchester District Court and bail was set at $20,000.

Two other youths, age 15 and 16, have been charged in connection with Barba's death.

Police said Barba was fishing near the Columbia Point housing project in Boston when he was attacked by a group of youths.

CUSTOM Black & White film processing and boxframing for working professionals & semipros
Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

WUMV-TV Sports
Double Header
at the BLUEWALL
Sunday Night
7:45 — U.Mass. Rugby
"Sport 'n Poetry Combined
9:45 — Minuteman Football
UMass. - Boston University from Nickerson Field
Half Time Guest — "The Bob Estelle"
MARTY KELLEY + Play-by-Play
EARLE BARROLL — Color Commentary
WUMV-TV Sports Spectacular
Sunday Night

What's in Bolles "BOOT CELLAR"?

BOOTS FOR EITHER SEX — dunham
Clarks® OF ENGLAND
— Olof Daughters
FRYE
Revelations and more!
BOLLES SHOES
8 MAIN ST.
AMHERST
Daily 9:00-5:30; Fri. till 9:00
"Home of the Boot Cellar"

MEET THE COLLEGE HEROS
AT THE HUNGRY-U

103 N. PLEASANT ST.
253-9080
PIZZAS TOO!!

Israeli's Push Toward Damascus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli military command claimed its tanks blasted their way through Syrian defenses Thursday and were rumbling along the road leading to Damascus. Defense Minister Moshe Dayan predicted lightning victory but did not say if the Syrian capital was the objective.

"I think that by tonight or overnight this front will be finished off in our favor," Dayan told his soldiers in a report broadcast over Israeli television.

The command said the breakthrough came after an all-day Golan Heights tank and infantry offensive backed by massive air support.

Damascus ignored Israel's claims of being six miles inside Syria past the 1967 cease-fire line and reported that Syrian forces were holding firm on the Heights, a hilly area rich with farmlands seized from Syria in the 1967 war.

Syrian and Egyptian communiques also reported heavy Israeli air losses. Cairo said that along the Suez front, 250 miles from the Heights, Egyptian tank forces punched farther into the Sinai peninsula to wipe out a fleeing column of Israeli armor.

Israel and Syria reported conflicting versions of a naval battle off the coast of Syria, in which the Greek Merchant Marine Ministry said an Israeli gunboat sank one of its ships, killing two crewmen.

Dayan's prediction of victory in Syria came as he toured the northern front and mixed with Israeli soldiers. He had tank goggles around his neck and smiled through the battle grime on his face.

The Israeli state radio quoted him as telling a newsman that the Israelis had decided "To teach Syria a severe lesson. The main part of this lesson is that the road from Damascus to Tel Aviv also leads from Tel Aviv to Damascus."

Secretary-general Kurt Waldheim of the United Nations appealed to the Security Council on Thursday to stop the War. He said he was "deeply concerned at the wider threat to international peace and security which this situation may create." He said he had "no detailed solution to suggest."

Cairo radio broadcast a statement by Egypt's commander-in-chief, war minister Gen. Ahmed Ismail, who said:

"Our heroic soldiers, you are reviving Egypt's honor and dignity. Your great achievement in battle marks a big step on the road to victory. We are confident your advances will continue with the same zest and efficiency as before."

With his voice reflecting emotion, Ismail said the mission of Egyptian troops was to liberate "every grain of sand polluted by enemy feet."

Israel seized the 125-mile-wide peninsula from Egypt in the 1967 war. Cairo radio has claimed Egyptian forces have advanced as far as 10 miles into the Sinai desert.

The Israelis claimed they made commando raids on the western bank of the Suez Canal to harass Egyptian reinforcing operations in the Sinai. They said their artillery and warplanes were punishing the Egyptians badly, containing them along a line three or four miles beyond the Suez Canal defenses abandoned by Israel earlier.

But the air and ground fighting that began Satuday was raging beyond the six days Israel took to win its celebrated 1967 victory. That fact itself was treated as something of a moral victory in some Arab capitals.

The claim of an Israeli advance beyond the 1967 Golan cease-fire line would represent a significant loss for Syria. It also could spell trouble for Egypt if any Israeli forces were freed to turn their firepower on the Sinai front.

Damascus acknowledged nothing and claimed its forces were "locked in fierce tank battles and artillery duels with the enemy."

Israel and U.S. officials in Washington charged that the Soviet Union was continuing airlifts to resupply Egypt and Syria with arms to pursue the war, the fourth major Arab-Israeli conflict since the birth of the Jewish state in 1948.

Moscow refrained from public reply. But its official news organs published a report by the Norfolk Va. Ledger-Star that U.S. Sidewinder and Sparrow air to air missiles were being shipped to Israel from Norfolk.

The United States also was reported in Washington to be prepared to hurry artillery and antitank ammunition to Israel to replenish Tel Aviv's taxed arsenals. (See related Story)

The Tel Aviv command gave no indication how far it would try to advance along the 40 miles of rolling plains separating Damascus from the Golan Heights.

★ ★ ★

U.S. Prepares To Send Artillery Aid To Israel

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States was reported preparing Thursday to rush tons of artillery shells and antitank ammunition to Israel to avert threatened shortages after less than a week of intense battles between Israel and Syrian and Egyptian forces.

Meanwhile, Pentagon sources said Soviet transport planes have been carrying replacements for weapons and ammunition to Syria and Egypt.

At least 80 Soviet AN 12 Cub transport planes were said to have reached Syria within the past day loaded with surface-to-air missiles, antitank rockets and other war material.

There were indications the shipments, probably in Israeli planes, would depart from remote fields in the United States.

Decisions on replacing Israel's significant aircraft and tank losses were discussed by the White House, State and Defense departments, officials said.

Resources of the U.S. Army and Air Forces would be tapped if the government decides to send major military hardware to Israel quickly.

According to latest intelligence, Israel lost close to 600 tanks and nearly 75 fighter planes in the first five days of the new war - about one-third of the tanks and about one-fourth of the jet fighters Israel owned before the fighting erupted Saturday.

Although Israel appeared to have the upper hand on the Syrian front, Israel faces further significant losses in the Sinai where main tank and infantry battles remain to be fought with Egypt.

The United States would like to avoid any major replacement of Israeli aircraft and armor during the fighting because such a move would be likely to bring retaliation from Arab governments, possibly cut-off of some U.S. oil supplies from the Middle East.

Dairy, Bread Prices To Increase

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Consumers got more bad news on Thursday. Food experts said dairy and bread prices would keep going up in coming months and predicted that this year's Thanksgiving turkey will cost twice as much as last year's.

The news came at a briefing sponsored by the Super Market Institute, a nonprofit trade association.

Almys* YOU'RE IMPORTANT TO US!
HADLEY
RTE. 9
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL
Open Daily
10 a.m. to 10 p.m.
fashion rib knits
"skins"
wear as underwear or sportswear either way 99¢ ea.
reg. 1.95
A bold new fashion concept in a denim knit look, skinny rib fabric with trim contour fit. Machine washable, won't shrink, wrinkle free, no iron. Denim blue, gold dust, raisin in sizes s, m, l.

FACES OF EARTH
FACES OF EARTH
amherst's only Department Store!
We've got:
NEXT TO THE AMHERST POST OFFICE
NEW & Used! CLOTHING
HAT'S
SKIN DEEP
FEATURING: JEWELRY SOAPS & OUR OWN BODY OIL
Used Suede & Leather JACKETS
40's MENS & WOMEN'S JACKETS
NICELY-AGED Jeans
NEW! TOPS & DRESSES FROM: INDIA PAKISTAN MEXICO & The Good 'ol U.S.A.
Western snap-button SHIRTS Denim to Fancy pipes & PAPERS FREE SCREENS
Furnishings a HUGE selection of BEDSPREADS & RUGS! apartment scaled TABLES & CHAIRS
Lamps ★ Lampshades ★ pillows musette Bags - PLENTY OF STYLES - ALSO UNDER OUR ROOF:
★ "FOR THE RECORD" RECORDS AND TAPES NEW AND USED RECORDS
★ Giftwares! ... Tea Sets ★ Bamboo curtains ★ mugs ★ wood boxes
★ UM·TUT·SUT BOOKERY OCCULT PHILOSOPHY SCIENCE FICTION ★ EARTHWARES POTS AND PLANTS KNITTING & WEAVING
9:30 TO 6:30 mon-Sat.
FACES OF EARTH
Fridays till 9:00 PM

SOUND IDEAS

3rd Semi-Annual All-Night Marathon Sale!

32 HOURS OF TOTAL AUDIO WAREHOUSE PRICES!!

From Friday, Oct. 12, 10:00 a.m. to Saturday, Oct. 13, 6:00 p.m., for 32 straight hours, we're going to sell just about everything in our store at warehouse prices. With 6 months of leftover inventory, demos & closeouts here's a sale you can't afford to miss — check these specials!!

SPEAKERS!!

		LIST	SALE
DYNACO - A25's		$ 99.95 ea.	$65 ea.
DYNACO - A10's		$ 99.95 pr.	$74 pr.
KLH 6's (Vinyl)		$134.00 ea.	$99 ea.
KLH 32's		$105.00 pr.	$74 pr.
EV 11a's		$ 75.00 pr.	$40 pr.
INFINITY 1001's	Last	$149.95 ea.	$99.95 ea.
Pos - 1's	Chance!	$ 99.95 ea.	$62.50 ea.
McINTOSH ML2C Spkrs. with equalizer	1 pr.	List $1,300 Sale	$700
EPI 400 Demonstrators	1 pr.	$778 pr.	$625 pr.
FRAZIER Monte Carlo's	2 pr.	$120 ea.	$50 ea.
FRAZIER MK IV list	1 pr.	$170 ea.	$70 ea.

TURNTABLES!!

	LIST
Glenburn/MacDonald 2110's	$ 70	$39.95
GARRARD 42 m/p's	$ 94	$54.95
AR Turntable (6 only) with Shure MA1ED Cart	$145	$99.95
PE 3060 II (3 only)	$169	$125.00

HEADPHONES!

	LIST
6 → Koss Pro 4AA	$60 →	$39.95
3 → Koss HV 1's	$40 →	$29.95
12 → Sennheiser HD 414's	$43 →	$31.95
10 → Royal HP-A's	$30 →	$9.95

TAPE DECKS

Sony TC-228 8-Track Recorder 3 only (demos)	List $190	Sale $135
Sony TC-121 Cassette Deck	List $115	$85
Sony TC-824 3 only 8-track 4 channel system	List $300	Sale $150

CARTRIDGES

SHURE VIS III	2 Only	List $74.95	SALE $49.95
AUDIO-TECHNICA AT-10	(20 only)	List $24.95	SALE $7.50

Watts Record Care Equipment

PREENERS →	List $ 4.50	→ $3.00
DUST BUG →	List $ 6.50	→ $5.00
PARASTATS →	List $15.00	→ $10.00

TAPE

All Tape 20% off marked prices, which are already up to 50% off!!

(Example → Scotch 150, list $5.55 regularly $2.49, during sale $1.99)

FREE PREENERS!!

If the last digit of your social security number matches the number on the wall in our store, you win a free preener!!

SOUND IDEAS

3rd Semi-Annual All-Night Marathon Sale!

32 HOURS OF TOTAL AUDIO WAREHOUSE PRICES!!

— Hourly Specials —

Quantities Limited!!

Friday 6:00 p.m. 'til Saturday 10:00 a.m.

6:00 p.m.

NIKKO 4010 FM Stereo Receiver
List $190 (two only) Sale $120

7:00 p.m.

GARRARD SL72B Turntable, DC-B
List $200 (two demo's) Sale $75.00

8:00 p.m.

MIRACORD 650 Turntable
List $150 (two only) Sale $85.00

9:00 p.m.

PIONEER 424 FM Stereo Receiver
List $200 (three only) Sale $160

10:00 p.m.

ADC 303AX Loudspeakers
List $110 ea. (four demo's) Sale $49.95

HARMON KARDON 75+
4 Channel FM Receiver
List $500 (one only) Sale $320

11:00 p.m.

HARMON KARDON
630 FM Stereo Receiver
List $370 (one only) Sale $279

AR3A Loudspeakers (Used)
List $570 pr. (one pr. only) Sale $200/pr.

ULTRALINEAR 150's
List $240 pr. Sale $99.95 /pr.

12 Midnight —

First six people bringing either two six packs of Tab or Coke, or a Pizza of reasonable dimensions, will receive their choice of one portable radio from an amazing selection of left overs!!

CREATIVE 66 Loudspeakers
List $120 pr. (six pr. only) Sale $59.95 /pr.

1:00 a.m.

KLH 11 Portable - used
KLH 11 Walnut - used
List $200 ea. Sale $99.95 ea

2:00 a.m.

NORDMENDE FM Stereo Receiver
List $130 (three only) Sale $65.00

One Only
ALTEC 911A AM-FM Stereo compact with Altec 8 & 7A spkrs. & Garrard SL95B turntable
List $668.00 Sale $378.00

AMPEX Micro 87 AM-FM
List $299.95 (one demo) Sale $128

3:00 a.m.

Two Pair Demo's
JB2 88P Loudspeakers
List $400 $289

One Pair Demo's
EPI 150 Loudspeakers
List $280 Sale $200

4:00 a.m.

RECTILINEAR XIIA Loudspeakers
List $150 ea. Sale $80 ea.

5:00 a.m.

SHERWOOD 7100A FM Receiver
List $229.95 (three only) Sale $173.00

6:00 a.m.

By this time, we will be so tired you will probably be able to talk us into anything.

7:00 a.m.

Ditto

8:00 a.m.

Double Ditto

9:00 a.m.

New Shift!!
ROYAL RSC Car Cassette Decks
List $90.00 Sale $45.00

BSR R20A FM Receiver
List $100 (one only) $50.00

CRAIG 3123 8 Track Car Player
List $89.95 (two only) Sale $64.95

EV15 Loudspeakers
3-way Acoustic Suspension
List $130 ea. (two pr. only) Sale $60 ea.

METROTEK Frequency Equalizers
FEK-1's (three only) List $79.95 Sale $49.95

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Jim Gold
NIGHT STAFF	Nancy Carroll, Camille Garrow
EDITORIAL	Liz Thompson, Dean Tucker
SPORTS	Steve Saraceno
DARKROOM	Kevin Mack, Emmet Schmarsow, Joe Martins Mike Rosinfield, Kevin Erkicila
AD LAYOUT	Deena Strauss

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Bob Estelle

Rule By Decree

One of the slogans the left is saying is that Richard "Mao-tse" Nixon is bringing us to 1984, as envisioned by George Orwell. I agree. But, of course, I say he is a leftist. What Dick has done is to increase the power of the Executive Branch of the government by setting up Federal agencies that have the authority to make laws at whim. They have been set up largely because of the stupidity and ignorance of thousands of patriotic Americans. These Americans are taking their freedom for granted feeling that a dictatorship "can't happen here". But it is. Americans are beginning to feel that the Federal agencies set up by every president since Fraudlin D. Russiavelt know better than the Congress what kind of laws we should have. This is becoming more and more dangerous as it is being used to set Americans up for a dictator.

These agencies have created ridiculous laws that are not passed by Congress and take away, slowly but surely, the freedom most Americans think they enjoy. The FDA is issuing, by decree, laws restricting the sale of vitamins that go into effect next January. Imagine classifying vitamins as drugs? Ridiculous! We also have the FCC deciding, by decree, what is suitable for radio and TV to broadcast. This is being used to censor conservative viewpoints such as Lifeline from going on the air while leftists such as Will Geer that belong to subversive organizations are given respectability. Yes, I believe that a privately owned radio and TV station should be allowed to broadcast what they wish but the FCC should not interfere except in cases involving pornography or blatant obscenity. And I feel that any law passed to enforce this should be passed by Congress and should be explicitly written.

The answer to stopping rule by decree is to enforce the Constitution, saying that Congress and only Congress can pass laws. But Congress has cooperated with the "1984 gang" and passed laws delegating authority to these giant bureaucracies to make laws. Surely these laws are unconstitutional and should be ruled as such by the Supreme court. But the Court has also cooperated with the advocates of 1984, so a court ruling is impossible at this time. The only solution left open is a constitutional amendment that will limit the power of government. For the less government we have, the less chance of a 1984. (No, I'M not advocating anarchy, I'm just saying that government is supposed to protect life and property.) I have written what you might call a proposed amendment to the Constitution. It is three paragraphs long and I will explain it paragraph by paragraph.

1. "Congress shall pass no law delegating authority to any group, agency or organization other than the Congress to make any law to be enforced on the American people." This section is designed to keep any Congress from creating ANY federal agency that would rule by decree.

2. "Congress may enforce this amendment by passing appropriate legislation." This gives Congress the authority to further guarantee against rule by decree.

3. "This amendment is retroactive to the year 1792." This last paragraph would make the existence of any federal bureaucracy unconstitutional and would get rid of every one of them.

Copies of this will be sent to Congressmen John Rarick (Louisiana) and Steven Symms (Idaho) as a suggestion. If you do not like rule by decree, write your Congressmen and ask him (tell him) to stop our bureaucracies from rule by decree by such an amendment.

Bob Estelle is a Collegian Columnist.

Harvest Of Shame

By JOANNE LEVENSON

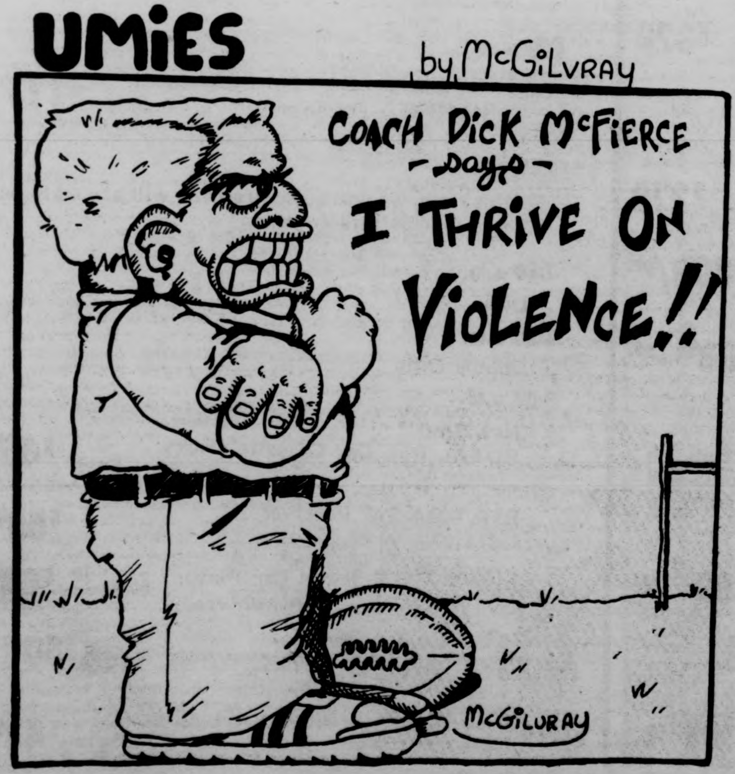
The national boycott of all non-United Farm Workers' iceburg lettuce and grapes is still on contrary to reports in the press that the UFW AFL-CIO had signed an agreement with the West Coast Conference of Teamsters. The Teamsters have refused to recognize the bargaining rights of the UFW although George Meany and Frank Fitzsimmons have both recognized that the West Coast contracts with the growers must go NOW so that the working people can have a legitimate union. The very fact that support has been won and continues to grow points out that when people struggle gains can be won and will continue to be won.

The students at UMass must be aware of the national boycott, because after this week the campus dining commons will not serve iceburg lettuce and table grapes. UMass has changed its buying policy along with large supermarket chains in the area such as Finast, Food Mart, Big Y, and the campuses of Amherst and Hampshire College. The change was effected because the Juan de La Cruz Committee is part of a western Mass. coalition that has been picketing stores and educating the community to the ramifications of the Boycott.

A community rally and picket lines will be conducted at the Shop Rite store in Springfield this Saturday, and picketing will take place all day Sunday at Atkins Farms store in Amherst. We need people's support to picket at these stores because when people sell and buy scab products they are endorsing a system that condones child labor, no medical benefits for workers, no pensions, and a system that is trying to control working and poor people from having the very union they want to represent themselves. By letting the scab products continue to be available in this area, we are endorsing such a repressive system.

The Juan de La Cruz Committee on campus will be showing the film 'Harvest of Shame' again next week at daily tables set up in the Campus Center Lobby. We have endorsements from the United Christian Foundation, Hillel, YSA, YWLL, Student Senate, Ahora and other socially active groups but, we still would like to see more people from UMass on the picket lines because we are part of the Community and realize that there is a necessity for students to see that although different groups engage in different struggles from working conditions to parking fees, the essential relationship is that the struggle is basically the same.

Joanne Levenson is a Collegian commentator.



Anti-Imperialist Rally

By ZOE BEST

An anti-imperalist rally sponsored by the Third World Community Council opened at noon yesterday with an appeal to attend and to support the National Anti-Imperialist Conference in Solidarity with African Liberation Struggles to be held in Chicago October 19-21. The Amherst coordinating committee's spokeswomen, Andre McLaughlin and Rochelle Chandler announced that representatives from the Amherst area would leave for the conference via bus, 7:00 P.M. October 18 from the UMass circle.

Debbie Bolling from the Five College Third World Student Organization, Harambee from the Black Scientific Society, Bob Padgett from the Black Psychological Assoc., Juan Cruz from Ahora, Carolyn Bolling from the Union of Third World Women, Bridgette Porter from the Black Mass Communication, and Gary Owens from Hampshire College expressed solidarity with those struggling against racism and oppression in Africa, the Third World and in the U.S.

Beginning panel presentations, Pattie Simmons, a stuent at Hampshire College noted how the Portuguese resettlement of Africans differed little from the Boston Housing Authority's impositions on Black citizens in that city. She proposed that sudents could maintain boycotts, teach-ins, mass organizing and "combat elitist structures in educational institutions" until they re-entered their communities to struggle.

Mfundi, a South African now in exile and a worker, detailed U.S. corporate penetration and profit making in South Africa: In 1960 U.S. private investments totalled $925 million while in 1971 they had increased to more than $3.83 billion which provided the multi-national capitalists with 10 per cent of all their profits. He noted that the growing militancy of U.S. workers, in particular Blacks, motivated U.S. corporations to move to apartheid nations like South Africa and Rhodesia where workers cannot engage in collective bargaining.

Sonia Sanchez, noted poet, recalled the means of struggle of the 1960's and called on the community to support Third World Struggles and to "boycott drug pushers in the veins of the community. . .envy, jealousy,. . .the mental plantation" still persisting. She called on everyone to make the "planet humane enough to live on" and vowed that in accomplishing this that they would do so without oppressing anyone.

Johnnetta Cole warned that until all colonized and oppressed peoples were free, there could be no "relaxed joy" even with the news that Guinea Bissau had declared her independence Sept. 24. From that successful struggle, she stated the severe lessons to be learned were to study, which could provide for thorough organization and clear leadership, that there were no absolute formulas for transforming society and in fact with a land mass half the size of Maine and with the equivalent population to San Francisco, the people of Guinea Bissau had defeated the Portuguese, and that the results of a people's struggle did not mean "a change in the palace guard". She ended quoting Amilcar Cabral, "Revolution, any revolution needs friends".

Nana Mbelle, an educator, also in exile, explained how apartheid maintained Hitlerian control over a majority population through certain restrictions enforced with the Black population. One could not travel outside a tewelve mile radius without permit, body search or threat of arbitrary jailing, which could last 180 days without trial.

Dovi Afesi, also African, encouraged those present to move beyond the negative, by moving beyond the concept of capitalism to build a new way of life. The struggle in South Africa against white racism and capitalism would involve the retaking control of the land through military action and ended, "victory is certain to come to us!"

Pedro Hernandez from Venezuela expressed solidarity with all areas of struggle in the Third World including that of the Palestinians. The rally ended with the presentation to the delegates going to the Chicago anti-imperialist conference with a banner made by children from the Che-Lamumba School and a film of the Mozambique struggle against Portuguese colonialism, "A Luta Continua".

Zoe Best is a Collegian commentator.

Letters To The Editor

Maureen, Pat, And Martha

To The Editor:

It is interesting to observe the behavior of the three Watergate Women. They are signigicant paradigms of the American Dream's definition of woman. Unfortunately, the definition is as insipid as the dream. Nonetheless, these are the women behind "their" men-our leaders, and because of their actions, the American sense of melo-dramatics and romance tastelessly continues to spread throughout T.V. land.

Let us first consider Mrs. John Dean III (are we discussing Monarches?). She pleasantly, unflinchingly, and silently sat throughout her husband's testimony, and by so doing, won the hearts of the American soap-opera set. She appeared to be a dedicated servant to her husband, blonde, blue-eyed and buxom, who heroically bore the brunt of public infamy and opprobrium. Her mode of dress was as austere as her hairdo. She was the picture of martyrdom.

Which brings us to the president's wife, Mrs. Pat Nixon. In the words of President Richard M. Nixon: "Pat is not a quitter. Afterall, her name is Patricia Ryan and she was born on Saint Patrick's Day and you know the Irish never quit." (1952 "Checkers" speech). McCall's Magazine calls her, "The Unsinkable Pat Nixon" (October 1973).

It is absolutely amazing to consider how quickly she rises to prominence when her husband is at his most debase periods. I do not believe Pat Nixon has ever uttered one original or self-provoked statement. She is President Nixon's public relation's puppet. We will never know Pat Nixon. We will only know the role she plays to enhance her husband's popularity.

And last, but not least, Martha Mitchell, the Gracie Allen of Washington D.C. It is, indeed, unfortunate that her closet is not supplied with hats left by confused gentlemen, but, instead, with empty bottles of liquor. She is the tragic Shakespearean fool. But, "Martha my dear you have always been an inspiration," for though they have transformed you into a buffoon, you are not afraid to speak and are an admirable but pathetic paradox.

Women are endlessly being mentally tortured or burning at the stake for the errors of ego-centric and ambitious men, who fear their ruin. Perhaps, it is best at this time that no woman maintains a significant public position, for if she did, then we all could be sure that she would be the scapegoat. It is extremely depressing to realize these truths, but we, as women, must learn to rise above our oppression. We must unite to create a new image of feminine. The dominate creature will not survive in the future.

Sally M. Dill

Senate Silence

To The Editor:

As a student, I am deeply concerned about the upcoming faculty vote on collective bargaining. It seems evident that the resolution of this issue affects not only the faculty and the administration but each and every student presently attending this university as well as those who will do so in the future. This university, faculty and administration exist primarily for the benefit of its students. Thus this issue and its resolution fall clearly within the bounds of student conern.

A realization that this is the case makes the silence of our Student Senate on this issue somewhat conspicuous and certainly incomprehensible. This is particularly true when one realizes that in the past our elected representatives have demonstrated no reluctance to take a "stand" on many more trivial issued. Our student senators are our elected representatives. They have a moral responsibility to stand up and to counted. Let them assume this responsibility. If they will not, I can only conclude that the time has come for a new Student Senate, or perhaps even no Student Senate. G.K. Chesterton perhaps best summed up my feelings when he said, "I do not believe in a fate that falls on men regardless of how they act, but I do believe in one that falls on them unless they do act."

Roger F. Legendre

Garbanzo Beans?

To The Editor:

I am tired of listening to degrading jokes that have long ceased to be funny concerning the UMass dining commons and the people that work there. Everyone complains about the food, but I have yet to hear of anyone dying from a lack of nutrition.

The ladies that are employed at the dining commons are human beings and should be treated as such, with respect and kindness.

I was one of the people in the MINORITY who voted that, given a choice, they would choose NOT to purchase meal tickets, still I have relatively few complaints about the food service here. I eat at basic foods at Worcester Commons. I find the food edible, the people pleasant, and the atmosphere friendly. I usually eat two cups of mixed nuts, seeds, and soybeans with every meal and have never found any worms in them as one UMie claims he did. Naturally every once in a while they come up with a real loser and I get the urge to tell them what they can do with their garbanzo beans, but on the whole I think the quality of the food ranges from fair to excellent.

I hope you will print this letter even though it has no four letter words in it which might make it seem contrary to the status quo. To me this overusage of four letter words is a clear sign of a limited vocabulary on the part of the writers and an insult to the intelligence of the average reader.

John Newcomb Marsh

'Work For Peace' Buttons

To The Editor:

While entering the dining commons yesterday, I was handed a leaflet announcing a campus rally for Israel to be held in the Student Union.

My initial reaction of anger was quickly replaced by feelings of sorrow and frustration. Could there actually be a war rally on our UMass campus. I began wondering what happened to the peace movement of the students and then realized it had died with over one million Indochinese many months ago.

The greatest frustration in attempting to defend the Arab cause is that the American press is owned and operated by rich Jewish businessmen. Because of this, we have tremendously biased newsreporting and editorial comment filling newspapers across America. To assess the magnitude of these charges, one must simply read a Canadian or European newspaper.

For one week prior to the current outbreak of fighting, Syria had been complaining to the United Nations and to the world about Israeli troop and armament build-up along the Golan Heights. While internationally acknowledged, these complaints never reached the American presses, thus the American public was uninformed.

Interestingly enough, the most significant thing in the minds of Americans is that the Arabs attacked Israel during the holy days of Yom Kipper when, as Rabbi Meir said, "Its people were weakened from fasting." Little mention has been made of this being the month of Ramadan, the Moslem holidays, and that the Moslems are fasting for the entire month from sunrise to sunset. If anything, the Arabs stand to suffer most from having to fight during Ramadan.

To discuss the history of the Arab-Israeli conflict, one must really go back to Abraham and discuss the acceptance and rejection of polygamy but the importance lies in the June 1967 war.

In six days, Israel tripled its original size. In doing this, she obtained the West Bank of the Jordan which is probably the most fertile land in the world and was vital to the Arab existence. The Arabs have agreed to the 1967 boundries, and a settlement could be reached if Israel would return to those borders.

You may remember that the United Nations has ordered Israel back to the 1967 borders twice, and she has refused. It is this type of lawlessness that makes the U.N. a powerless organization.

Regarding the recent outbreak:

I think chances that the Arabs attacked during Yom Kipper for military reasons are the same as those that the Israelis did attack so as to gain world sympathy and to dehumanize the Arabs. Regardless of who fired first, the war rages on, women and children will die, schools will be blown-up, and cities will burn.

I'd just like to ask you to think. Think of who you may be killing before you donate to the United Jewish Appeal. Try and remember when there were peace rallies. Maybe you can even find your old "WORK FOR PEACE" button.

Samuel Peter Hassan

Editorial Points

Don't you just love it when a professor says at the beginning of the semester that you won't have to buy any books for his class?

And don't you hate it when you find out what he really meant is that all twenty-six required textbooks are available in the library?

******

Don't you love overhearing nasty rumors about some poor shmuck on your corridor?

And don't you hate finding out that you are the poor shmuck all the rumors are about?

Captain Kangaroo For VP

To The Editor:

You just can't stop wondering how deeply King Dick will dig into his bag of tricks. Every trick he performs requires more cunning on his part. Sneakily Sneakily Sneak...Today's headlines become tomorrow's hidden reason. . .Reality fades away....He lays soooo many on us. It's hard to catch up. The biggest haven't yet been unleashed..The naming of the vice-Fuhrer's replacement. You remember how he talked Agnew into 'cheating' on his income tax back in '67 - he then surprisingly picked the 'obscure VP-knowing that if he ever got caught later on in his Presidency(s) he could transfer the negative vibrations to Agnew. A more recent super trick occured when he let Mel Laird tell the press that the White House would back that income - tax - surcharge - but - you - can - get - it - back - later - deal. When the public was apparently upset, a conveniently placed Shultzin Japan puts him down for not knowing what's going on.

Well folks, did you think that those were biggies? You can't help but wondering what kind of shit he'll have on Ted's successor. In addition to having something on the replacement, the replacement will have to be someone whom the public thinks is above reproach. Someone to heal the wounds, bring the country back together, stir the heart, and that sort of thing. Who Can It Be...Captain Kangaroo, Billy Graham, Willy Mays, Jimmy Durante, Jimmy the Greek, King Constantine, Margaret Chase Smith, Ed Brooke. They're all possible, along with countless others. I think the next stunning play will be to nominate Tom Eagleton but I'm sure he'll fool me again.

Tim Decker

Jewish Holiday

To The Editor:

Re: Pedro Hernandez's letter of October 9

Heil Hitler! And here I was thinking you were alive and living in Argentina. My poor man, you are going to die on a Jewish holiday. Any day you die will be a Jewish Holiday.

Stephanie H. Aronson

Tragic

To The Editor:

The rally to raise funds to support Israel in its latest war was, in my mind, a tragedy.

According to the United Nations boundaries established in 1948 neither the Sinai nor the Golan Heights were included as Israeli territory. Therefore if you agree that the U.N. had the right to establish the Israeli boundary not to include those areas then it is reasonable to assume that Israel has no legal right to claim those areas in 1967. Thus the present attack by Egypt and Syria can be viewed as a legal attempt to regain the lands taken from them in 1967.

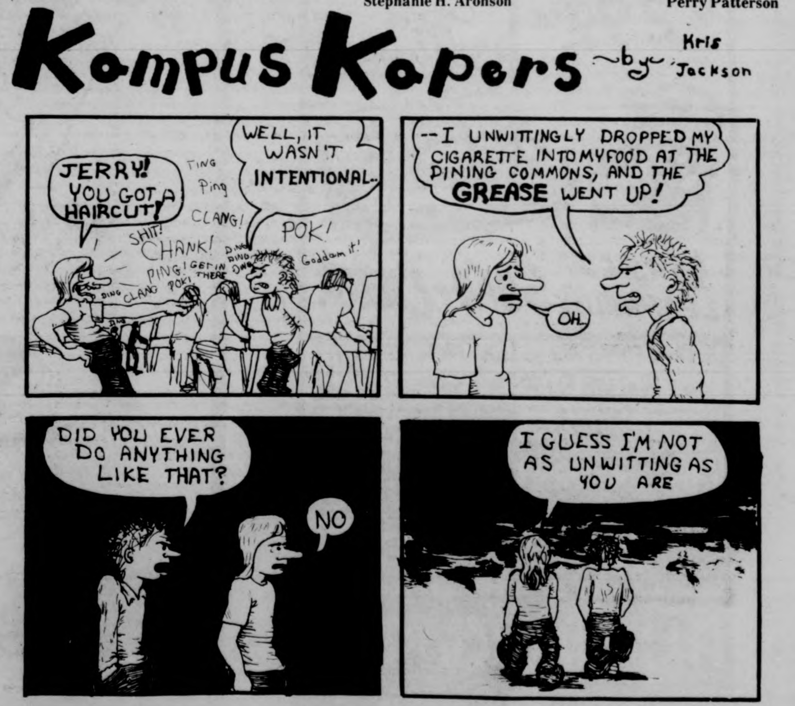
The Israeli claim to the Sinai and the Golan Heights is based on their strategic importance-ownership of the Sinai was to ensure protection of the Suez Canal and to create a buffer zone between them and Egypt. The taking of the Golan Heights gave them a strategically commanding view of the Syrian border lands. Israel has no legal right to these lands and thus Egypt and Syria seem to be justified in attempting to get them back.

The Israeli's claim Jerusalem because it is a holy city in their religious heritage. What is forgotten is that this is not only a Holy city for the Jewish but also for Moslems and Christians.

Underlying both the strategic and religious claims on these areas is the desire to ensure the protection of the people of Israel from the kind of persecution they have sustained for thousands of years. I sympathize with them on this reason but do not agree that they should be allowed to take lands that are not theirs in order to protect themselves.

For these reasons financial support for Israel is not justifiable and can only provoke further tragedies.

Perry Patterson



Kompus Kopers
~by~ Kris Jackson
JERRY! YOU GOT A HAIRCUT!
TING
Ping
CLANG!
SHIT!
CHANK!
PING!
GET IN THERE CLANG POK!
DING
WELL, IT WASN'T INTENTIONAL..
POK!
Goddam it!
--I UNWITTINGLY DROPPED MY CIGARETTE INTO MY FOOD AT THE DINING COMMONS, AND THE GREASE WENT UP!
OH.
DID YOU EVER DO ANYTHING LIKE THAT?
NO
I GUESS I'M NOT AS UNWITTING AS YOU ARE

Brinegar Asks Fed. Control On Superports

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Nixon administration asked Congress yesterday to reject a bill empowering states to veto superports proposed for construction off their coastlines.

"The cumulative impact of a bunch of no's is that we are rationing gasoline and running out of fuel oil," said transportation Secretary Claude S. Brinegar.

He testified as House subcommittee on water resources and energy opened a second day of joint hearings on a measure introduced by Rep. John Breaux, D-La.

The bill would not allow a federally licensed construction of a superport if it conflicts with state land or state environmental plans.

The measure is one of a dozen bills pending in Congress that would allow the federal government to license development of superports. Built on pilings, the superports would allow mammoth tankers to unload their oil offshore and have it pumped ashore through pipelines.

Most Atlantic and Gulf coast ports are too shallow for the big tankers being ordered now by oil companies.

Brinegar testified in support of the administration's bill, which differs in several respects from the measure proposed by Breaux and cosponsored by other representatives of Southern coastal states.

The administration measure would make the Department of Interior the licensing authority for superports. The Breaux bill would create a federal commission for that purpose.

The Breaux bill would allow the states to fix fees, tolls and user charges for the superports. But Brinegar said the administration bill would not give the states such authority because many of the ports would be privately financed. "We believe quite strongly that the licensing procedure would involve joint consultations with the affected states, including seeing that it is consistent with state land use plans," said Brinegar. "But since oil from these offshore terminals will be a vital element in our national transportation system, the final authority must be made at the federal level."

Prof. Politella To Speak At Journalism Conference

Assoc. Prof. Dario Politella of the Journalistic Studies faculty of UMass will deliver two papers at the annual conference of the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP).

In Chicago, Nov. 1-3, the conference will hear Dr. Politella report on "The State of Campus Press Freedom, 1973" and "Instant Writing--Journalism Style."

The conference attracts some 1,500 editors of campus publications to discuss problems and performances in producing the more than 5,000 newspapers, magazines and yearbooks of American colleges and universities.

Dr. Politella is author of two books published this year by Oxbridge of New York: the third edition of his biennial "Directory of the College Student Press in America" and "The Making of a Journalist." He is founder and coordinator of the national Commission on the Freedoms and Responsibilities of the College Student Press in America.

Applications Due

The Fulbright scholarship application deadline is today. Applicants should turn in their transcripts and letters of reference to Prof. Rearick, 725 Herter. Candidates will be given a definite time appointment, for Tuesday, Oct. 16, as soon as their applications are received by the Fulbright advisor.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

The Guitar Workshop 549-1728
233 No. Pleasant Street Amherst
Large Selection of Scores and Sheet Music for all Instruments and Voices from C.F. Peters, Kalmus, G. Schirmer, Moeck, Schott, International Eds., Hortus Musicus, Boosey & Hawkes, etc.
Fine Fretted Instruments & Recorders
Instrumental Accessories
Open - Monday - Saturday 9:30 ~ 6:00

CLOSED SATURDAY
OPEN ~ SUNDAY 10AM to 6PM
MON. thru FRIDAY 9:30 AM to 9PM
MOULDED PLASTIC STORAGE CUBES
REG: $8.99 OUR PRICE $3.99
COLORS: RED-WHITE BLACK-YELLOW
MOULDED PLASTIC ETAGERES 31"L x 11"W x 17"H
THEIR PRICE: $7.50 (EA. SECTION) OUR PRICE $3.99 (EA. SECTION)
BOTH PCS. FOR JUST $299.00
ANTIQUE, LEATHERLIKE SOFA + CHAIR
CONTACT PAPER 15¢ YD
WALLPAPER 75¢ DOUBLE ROLL
NAVY PEACOATS $17.50
PET SUPPLIES 50% OFF
DUPONT SAYELLE KNITTING YARN $2.00 LB
RUBBER BACK-COMMERCIAL CARPET $4.25 SQ. YD.
LADIES NYLON QUILTED JACKETS $10.00 3 SIZES
9X12 LINOLEUMS $5.50
THROW RUGS $3.99 27"x54"
SHERWIN WILLIAMS PAINT $3.50 GAL.
CURRENT PAPERBACK BOOKS 25¢ NO COVERS
DENIM JEANS $5.00 PAIR
HOLYOKE SALVAGE dba
BUILDING 451
449 HIGH ST. DOWNTOWN HOLYOKE 536-5480

AMERICA'S LARGEST COAST TO COAST RECORD STORES
We're open now for a Sneak Preview
Check our $3.33 Specials
We're a few steps from the Triangle Office of the First National Bank of Amherst
discount records
LONG PLAYING RECORDS AT A SAVING!
257 Triangle Amherst 237-5876

Contaminated Water Linked To Cases Of Multiple Sclerosis

BOSTON (AP) - A study by medical researchers at Massachusetts General Hospital has linked 14 cases of multiple sclerosis in the community of Mansfield in Southeastern Massachusetts to contamination of the town's water supply in 1932-1936.

"I want to stress," said Dr. David C. Poskanzer, one of the researchers, in an interview, "that this is something that happened 35 years ago and poses no current danger."

The study was published in the current issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Mansfield, a community with a population of 10,000 persons, has 14 documented cases of multiple sclerosis (MS), and that is about two or three times more than the national average of cases to population.

The researchers found that in 1932, when the MS victims were about 14 years old, the water supply system was found to be highly contaminated with bacteria.

The researchers said that in 1934 they found there had been an outbreak of typhoid fever in the community.

The researchers said the Mansfield study provides possible substantiation to a current theory that MS is produced by a virus contracted when a person is of the age of puberty.

MS is a disorder of the nervous system which may produce partial or total disability.

Radicals To Speak

Scott and Helen Nearing, political radicals and life-style innovators, will speak tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in room 113, Campus Center.

The Nearings will be sharing their experiences on achieving alternative life-styles. They have supported themselves since 1932 by organic farming, first in New Hampshire and then in Maine. They have lived completely from their own labor by clearing their own land, constructing stone dwellings, and growing all their food.

Scott Nearing has been a pacifist and socialist his entire life. His political activities date from at least 1917, when he headed the People's Council for Freedom and Democracy, formed to mobilize opinion against America's entrance into World War I. He was a member of the Socialist party from 1917 to 1922, and of the Communist Party from 1922 to 1930. Since then he has been an independent radical.

RESEARCH
thousands of topics
$2.75 per page
Nation's most extensive library of research material
SEND FOR YOUR UP-TO-DATE, 144-PAGE, MAIL-ORDER CATALOG. ENCLOSE $1.00 TO COVER POSTAGE
RESEARCH ASSISTANCE, INC.
11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite #2
Los Angeles, Calif. 90025
(213) 477-8474 or 477-5493
Our research material is sold for research assistance only — not as a finished product for academic credit.

FALL INTO FASHION
WEAR-HOUSE
201 N. PLEASANT ST.
AMHERST
Open Thurs. & Fri. till 9

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SYDNEY OMARR ☆

Quote from Art Linkletter: "There I was, standing behind a curtain, a mystery guest, thinking astrology was bunk. Then came Sydney Omarr, rattling off facts about my life and character, not knowing it was me, but it was me and I was startled. I still don't know if there is anything to it, but Omarr was 87 per cent right..."

ARIES (MARCH 21-April 19): Emphasis is on collecting, consolidating, protecting assets. You learn difference between real values as opposed to paper or fantasy or wishful thinking. Pisces, Virgo persons could be involved. Discern. See facts as they exist.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Lunar cycle high; get going--take initiative. New starts are favored. Highlight independence, originality. Definite financial gain possible through fresh approach. Accept responsibility. Relationship will intensify.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Look behind the scenes. What you need may be temporarily obscured. Do some digging--reject the superficial. Visit one confined to home, hospital. Co-operate in club, group project. Secret is revealed. This could be emotional dynamite. Handle with care!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Accent on a more active social life. You go places and see people. Some of your hopes, wishes are coming close to realities. Know it and be encouraged. Give full rein to creativity. Imprint your style. Young person brings pleasure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Nothing is handed you on proverbial silver platter. But you should regard obstacles as stimulating challenges. Goal is available if you make special effort. Intuitive intellect is sharply honed. One you respect offers encouragement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis is on travel, long-distance communications, special studies. Enlarge horizons. Be open to new concepts. Versatility now becomes your ally. Know it and act accordingly. Gemini, Sagittarius could figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct 22): You get down to business, to the core, the essentials, the heart of matters. Associate may want to talk money. Your best course is to be forthright. Admit what you have--concede points of weakness. Truth ultimately will make you strong.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Study Libra message. Deal with one who insists on having things on "dotted line." Be ready for spirited dialogue. Clash of ideas proves more exciting than physical combat. Your ideas are tested. Rely on principles. Don't push for direct action.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Maintain steady pace. Be receptive to suggestion from family member. Highlight more harmonious relationships. Some associates may be depending too much on your time, goodwill. Know when to draw line. Be sympathetic without becoming inextricably involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Good lunar aspect now coincides with emotional responses, creative endeavors, ability to bridge any generation gap. Pisces, Virgo persons may figure prominently. See situations, persons as they actually exist. Avoid self-deception.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): One who attempts to put obstacles in your path is envious. Overcome this by showing that you are not without allies. Deal from position of strength. Capricorn, Cancer persons may play important roles. Older person needs "delicate" treatment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Finish rather than initiate projects. Relative may be restless. That's fine but don't be stampeded into decisions. Highlight flexibility. There is no one way. Use material at hand. You do have right to test, experiment.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your sense of humor is outstanding. You are artistic, appreciate music and tend to try doing too much simultaneously. Persons born under Gemini and Sagittarius seem able to understand you. November can be an outstanding month. Domestic situation will improve. You will live in a more comfortable atmosphere.

Copyright 1973, Los Angeles Times

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Dry
5 Fuel
9 Crony (colloq.)
12 European fish
13 River in Italy
14 A state (abbr.)
15 Egg dish
17 Preposition
18 Edge
19 Smooth
21 Adhesive substance
23 White wine
27 Negative
28 Kind of fabric
29 Unit of energy
31 Short sleep
34 Paid notice
35 Pigpen
37 Part of circle
39 Symbol for cerium
40 Wager
42 Weaken
44 Chief artery
46 Part of "to be"
48 Beneficence
50 Journeys forth
53 Bard
54 Not in 55 Exists
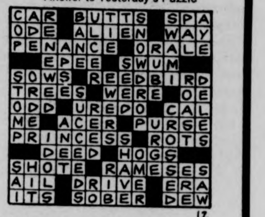
57 Conceive
61 Macaw
62 Afternoon parties
64 Portico
65 Deface
66 Wise person
67 Temporary shelter

DOWN

1 Fuss
2 Male sheep
3 Frozen water
4 Strikes out
5 Prepare and serve food
6 Conjunction
7 Emmet
8 Noose
9 Cleric
10 Landed
11 Crippled
16 Occurrences
20 Compass point
22 Indefinite article
23 Thick slice
24 Assistant
25 World organization (init.)
26 Period of time
30 Classified
32 Performs
33 Edible seeds
36 Asian ox
38 Game
41 Intractable person
43 Fruit seed
45 Note of scale
47 Pronoun
49 Din
50 Froth
51 Subtle emanation
52 Poses for portrait
56 Ocean
58 Devoured
59 Measure of weight
60 Dine
63 Symbol for silver

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle



CAR BUTTS SPA
ODE ALIEN WAY
PENANCE ORALE
EPEE SWUM
SOWS REEDBIRD
TREES WERE OE
ODD UREDO CAL
ME ACER PURSE
PRINCESS ROTS DEED HOGS
SHOTE RAMESES
AIL DRIVE ERA ITS SOBER DEW

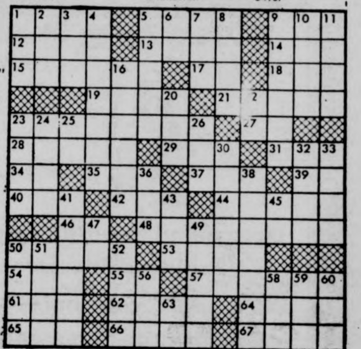
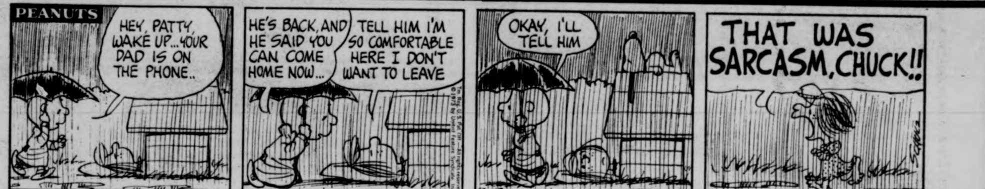
12



Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 12



PEANUTS
HEY, PATTY, WAKE UP...YOUR DAD IS ON THE PHONE..
HE'S BACK, AND HE SAID YOU CAN COME HOME NOW...
TELL HIM I'M SO COMFORTABLE HERE I DON'T WANT TO LEAVE
OKAY, I'LL TELL HIM THAT WAS SARCASM, CHUCK!!
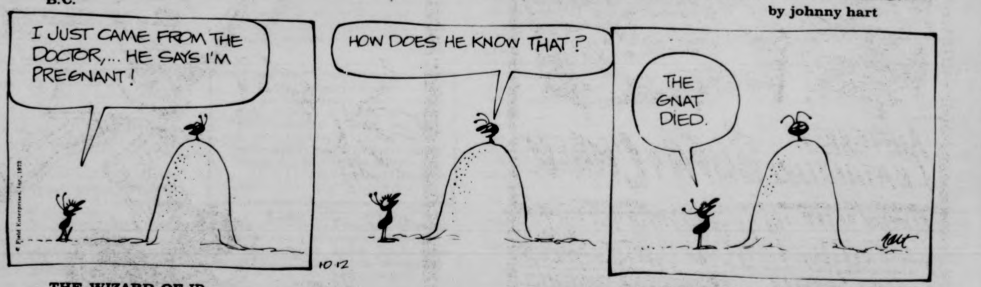
10-12

B.C.

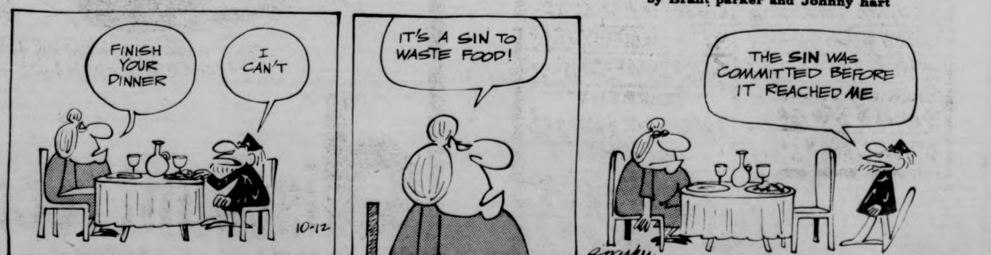
by johnny hart



I JUST CAME FROM THE DOCTOR,... HE SAYS I'M PREGNANT!
HOW DOES HE KNOW THAT?
THE GNAT DIED.
10-12

THE WIZARD OF ID

by Brant parker and Johnny hart



FINISH YOUR DINNER
I CAN'T
10-12
IT'S A SIN TO WASTE FOOD!
THE SIN WAS COMMITTED BEFORE IT REACHED ME
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973

UMass Roundup

Phonothon Head Named

The UMass Alumni Office has announced the appointment of George R. Richason, Jr., of the Class of 1937 as chairman of the first Amherst-area Phonothon.

Raising funds through a phonothon is a relatively new effort for UMass, having been done for the first time last spring in the Boston Area.

Donations to the Phonothon will be used for the Alumni Scholarship Program, library programs, and special academic programs such as: Honors, Outreach, University Without Walls, and Action.

The Phonothon to be run by Richason, who is a professor and assistant head of the UMass chemistry department, will attempt to contact about 3,800 alumni in Hampshire, Franklin and Berkshire counties during November.

Almost 300 volunteer alumni will do the telephoning. Appointed as vice chairpeople are: Dr. William J. Mellen, Class of 1949; Prof. Thomas W. Fox, '49; Charles Bradshaw, '66; Cindy Olken, '70; and Peter Pascarelli, '72.

Appley Receives Study Grant

Dr. Mortimer H. Appley, associate provost and dean of the Graduate School at Umass has received a Fulbright Grant to study and observe educational developments in the Federal Republic of Germany this fall.

Dean Appley is one of eight Americans chosen to participate in a Pilot Project for Educational Experts. He will consult with the German Education Ministry in Bonn and visit educational institutions in Berlin and throughout Germany as part of the grant made under the Senior Fulbright-Hays Program and administered jointly by the U.S. State Department and the Fulbright-Kommission of Germany.

Dr. and Mrs. Appley and their two younger children, Eric and Heidi Hundahl, will be in residence in Freiburg, Germany, where Dr. Appley will also be a visiting professor of psychology at the University of Freiburg, under the exchange agreement with UMass.

Outreach Has Moved

The University's Center for Outreach Programs has moved its office. Originally located in Arnold House the Center is now in Goodell Library, Rm. 509 Ground level, telephone 545-2021.

Cage Concerts Resume

The UMass Concert committee is pleased to announce the long awaited return of major musical rock concerts to Curry Hicks Cage. On October 28, 1973, Donny Hathaway and Chick Corea will be featured in the Cage's first rock concert in three years. After a general ban of Cage Concerts, the Cage facility has finally been obtainable through one and a half years of negotiation and preparation. In order to give all UMass students a chance to attend this event, the concert tickets will be available only to UMass undergrads, with a limit of two tickets per student. As there are only 4200 tickets available it is advisable to secure tickets early. All tickets will be for general admission and will be sold at the Student Union Lobby counter, 10:00 a.m. - 3: p.m.. Tickets are $3.50 each and a UMass I.D. must be presented upon purchasing.

In addition to the Hathaway-Corea Concert, the Concert Committee will be sponsoring three more Cage Concerts, all of which will be two night performances. The combined profits from the four concerts will be invested in the spring concert to be held in the Alumni Stadium. A vast amount of energy and man hours have been spent by the Concert Committee in an effort to bring back Cage Concerts; the Committee hopes that the student body will support its work.

rugs from SWEDEN

reversible flat weave, rya, or linen shag many designs, many colors

see them at

Danco Furniture Showroom

269 Locust St. (Rt. 9)
Florence 586-3620

TRAIL BIKE SEASON IS HERE
AND VALLEY MOTORSPORTS HAS THE FINEST.

MONARK 125 c.c.
KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c.

FROM THE PROFESSIONAL MONARK 125 c.c. TO THE POWERFUL KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c. WE HAVE THE TRAIL BIKE FOR YOU THIS FALL.

VALLEY MOTOR SPORTS
King St., Northampton

Mt. Toby Riding Stables

Group and Private Lessons
(English & Western)
We'll board your horses, too!
Guided trail rides only.
on Rt. 63, 6 mi. north of N. Amherst, on left 549-1677 stable 549-6945 home

Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

How would you like to be a

NEWSPAPER PUBLISHER?

Here's a chance to be 1/10th of a publisher. Under its revised constitution, The Collegian Publishing Board has two positions for at-large undergraduate members. The board meets several times a year and serves as an advisor to the Daily Collegian staff. Its job is basically advisoral but there is a chance to help in the overall direction of New England's largest daily college newspaper. Interested? Write:

MDC Pub Board Screening Committee
c/o Daily Collegian, Student Union

Applications due by 4 p.m. Friday, Oct. 12

Collegian staffers and members of Student Senate and all campus governments are not eligible.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

260 issues of Playboy's from 1956 to present. Make offer, 549-1420. tf10-12

Genuine S.S. Stewart banjo, mint cond., best offer. Also 23 year old Martin 5-18 guitar, $325, 527-5428. tf10-12

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands! tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies, Top pedigree, A.K.-C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688. tf10/19

For sale — 1966 MGB, good condition, many new parts and extras, $600.00 or best offer. Call 549-1387. tf15-12

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart, Montague Center. tf10-15

Earth shoes cheap! Women's size 9, brown leather Oxford type, like-new. A real deal for $25. Call Yvette at 584-5906, leave message. tf10/12

E.M.S. camping equip., back pack, down sleeping bag & two man tent with floor, list $270, only $150. Used once. Call 549-0924 between 5-8 p.m. tf10-12

Used Israeli Lamb Skin Jacket $15; two beautiful Peasant Skirts $5 ea. Call 256-0364, evenings. tf10/16

Vivitar Lens 85 mm to 205 mm zoom fits Pentax, Yashica, Mamiya Sekor. Just like new. Call 549-0591. tf10/16

FOR SALE

Brown snorkel parka, brand new, never worn, size men's sm. Contact Caryn, 6-7305 tf10-17

Fish — 15 gal. glass tank set up. 2 large Discusses, 2 Fire Eels, 2 Tri-color Sharks & 1 Clown Loach, $80 or best offer. Call 546-9953. tf10-15

72 VW Bus, 25000 mi., radio, curtains, new disc brakes. Just tuned, 2 Radial snows, other extras. Call 549-6728, $2800. tf10/16

Koflach buckle ski boots, size ten, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and at 549-6872 after six p.m. tf10/12

One Columbia 10-speed bicycle in excellent condition. Only $45, call 6-5086. tf10/12

Double mattress, $20. Al, 584-0082, call after 9 p.m. tf10-12

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers, $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305. tf10-18

1973 Yamaha, Rt. 3, 360 c.c., excellent condition, asking $775. Call Jim, 545-2822. tf10-17

1966 Plymouth Belvedere, 4 dr., 6 cyl. auto., AM-FM, new shocks, starter, good rubber, fall inspection sticker, available Nov. 1, $400. 549-6555. tf10-15

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 42, with 3/4" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed, $60. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m. tf10-19

FOR SALE

2 Gdyr. snow tires with studs, 7.00-13, 8,000 miles, $10 each; 6.40-6.50-13 with rim, $10. Contact Jim Nollet, 426 James Hall, 546-7595. tf10-15

The tightest Raleigh Super Course you'll ever see! Nervex lugs, tubulars, Stronglight Cotterless cranks, $200. Eric, 665-3104. tf10-16

We will be particupating on and off in the Alley's 32 hour marathon sale today. We will feature hot cider, spiffy furniture, bureaus, innuendo tables, insults desks, wisdom chairs, all at bargain prices. Paul's Oldtime Furniture in the Alley, behind Aubuchon's. 253-3511, Goodbuy Spiro. 10-12

AUTO FOR SALE

1959-60 Alfa Romero GT Sprint, hardtop, runs like a dream. Classic, used for dependable daily transportation, $750 firm. Call 6-7433. tf10-12

1970 9 pass. Kingswood Estate wagon, 37,000 mi., auto. trans., power steering, power brakes, roof rack, mileage good, great family car. Paul, 253-7646. tf10-12

1963 Dodge Dart, reliable, local transportation. 584-2500, best offer. tf10-15

1965 Fairlane, 6 cyl. std. 665-3451 after 6 p.m. tf10-15

1966 VW Squareback, good engine, best offer. 549-1420. tf10-12

1966 Cutlass Supreme, 62,000 miles, very good condition, $500. Call 1-617-544-3520. tf10-17

AUTO FOR SALE

1966 MGB, blown engine, but 4 new 14-inch tires and wire wheels. Call Mark, 665-4390, best offer. tf10-12

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323-7706 anytime. tf10-16

1967 Rambler Rebel, 53,000 mi., new brakes, cooling, tune-up, parts, a.t., $450.00. 549-3857 or 545-1388. tf10-15

64 GTO, recently rebuilt, 389 high perf. eng., new brakes, battery, exhst. 546-9626 eve. tf10/12

1950 GMC school bus, cheap. 369-4020, good condition. tf10-12

1941 antique Chevy, a classic looking car, excel. body, new rebuilt eng., a good buy, has to be seen, many spare parts, best offer. 549-6495. tf10-17

1964 Chrysler 300, V-8, 383, p.s., p.b., air, needs some transmission work. Best offer, willing to sell as parts or engine. Call 586-2908. tf10-12

1966 Ford Supervan, good condition, $500 or best offer. Call 546-8661 between 5-8 p.m. tf10-12

1959 Mercedes Benz diesel, running with sticker, best offer. 549-3986. New Pirelli radials. tf10-12

1964 Pontiac ambulance, 35,000 original miles, make good camper. Reasonable price. 665-3344. tf10-12

AUTO FOR SALE

For sale — 1966 red Corvair Monza, 4 dr., sport sedan, bucket seats, new paint, 4 new tires plus snows, $500. Call 5-9236 after 5. 10-12

1971 Plymouth Cricket, must sell, good cond., ex. mil., 4 sp. std. trans., rack and pinion steering, 4 dr. sedan. Call Jim, 546-5234. tf10-15

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192. tf10-19

ENTERTAINMENT

Sorry, but I have no open dates left in Oct. Thanks UMass for a fantastic Sept. and Oct. Your friend, Steve the D.J., 467-2842. tf10-17

Rock music is ALHAMBRA, for your dorm party or other booking. Call Jeff (in 102), 5-2642, Warren, 863-9216, reasonable rates. tf10-12

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long. Good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458. tf10-17

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 1-584-6458. tf10-17

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

Honda 150cc, excellent condition, 5,000 miles. Call Paula, 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m., So. Hadley Center. Asking $275, call 536-7440. tf10-15

Honda 305, 1969, only 5,000 miles, good shape, $335. 527-5428. tf10-12

Notices

AUTHORS OF "LIVING THE GOOD LIFE"

Scott and Helen Nearing will speak on Sat., 10-13 in the C.C., Rm. 113. All are invited.

BADMINTON CLUB

All those people interested in playing badminton the club meets tonight from 6:30 to 9:00. Everyone is welcome, bring your own equipment.

BELCHERTOWN COLLOQUIUM

Dr. Karl, Asst. Supt. of Belchertown State School, will speak at first seminar on Sunday night at 7:30, Rm. 165, C.C. Make it if you can it should be interesting and informative.

BELCHERTOWN VOLUNTEERS

No Bus to Belchertown tomorrow, the Belchertown residents are coming to UMass instead. Meet at 1:00 p.m. at the bus circle by the C.C. Garage. See you there! Questions? Call Jay 253-5897.

BICYCLE TOUR

Montague Plains bicycle tour this Sunday 10-14. Rally at Sunderland Town Hall at 9:30 a.m. 18 miles round trip--easy terrain along Ct. River.

BIKE RACE

Bike race starts 2 p.m. Sunday at West End of Mass. Ave. Beginners welcome. Call Mark at 256-8723.

CENTER FOR OUTREACH

The Outreach Office has moved! We are now in Goodell Library, Rm. 509, ground level as you enter the front door.

COLLEGE CHURCH BUS

Bus stops at Newman Center at 8:45, Waiting Station at 8:46, Hamlin House at 8:48. Also evening bus for Vesper's Service--same route beginning at 6:50 p.m. Join us!

COMMUTERS

Commuters interested in being appointed to the University Judiciary, please leave your name and phone number, under door of Commuter Lounge, Rm. 216 S.U.B. by Tues. 10-16.

CRICKET MATCH

UMass Cricket Clubs plays Hartford Cricket Club on October 13 at 1:30 p.m. At the Cricket grounds near Southwest.

DANCE FREE

Those interested in creative movement, improvisation and free dancing come join us tonite in C.C. Check Campus Center Info Desk for Room number.

FAMILY TIME

Family time tonight will be in the Colonial Lounge and not in Boyden as previously announced. Phil 2:1-4.

JAPANESE-AMERICAN CLUB

Those who are going to, the Sukiyaki party tonight can pick up maps showing how to get there in 804 Thompson.

KEG PARTY

Leach House will be having a keg party in the Leach Recreation room between 9-1 on Saturday, 10-13. Admission will buy all the beer you can drink and music by Alhambra.

MORTAR BOARD

Meeting Sunday, 10-14, 6:30 p.m. at Mrs. Shaw's home, 53 Wildwood Lane, Amherst. See you there.

MOVIE

Playing with a full deck? Well don't forget the "King of Hearts", Oct. 12, Mahar at 7, 9, 11. Admission charge.

OHAG REPS

Don't forget to attend Student Government Workshops tonight and tomorrow.

OHAG MEETING

OHAG will meet on Monday evening, 9:30 in Grayson, Main Lounge. Please note: this is a change from the usual meeting place.

OUTING CLUB

Oct. 12, Rockclimbing in Gutter, leaves 12 noon S.U.; Oct. 13, Appalachian Trail hike leaves 9 a.m. S.U. Oct. 14, Mt. Monadnock leaves 9:30 a.m. S.U., Morris Cave 8:30 a.m. S.U.

PART TIME JOB

Available in Project 10 for a person skilled in recreation and leisure studies to be our activities coordinator. The job involves 20 hrs. per week. Please send resume to the Project Office, Pierpont House, or call 546-0871 for info.

REC. SOCIETY MEETING

ALL LEISURE STUDIES AND SERVICE MAJORS - Important meeting on Sat., 10-13, 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m. in C.C. 811-815. Will be discussing November Rec. Conference.

REP NEEDED

7:30 Mon. nite in C.C. Coffee Shop interviews for anyone interested in being a rep. on Five College Co-Ordinating Board.

SCIENCE FICTION SOCIETY

We are inventorying Sat., Oct. 13. Members please attend. 11:30 a.m. in the library.

SUNDAY EXCURSION

5 College Random Walk Society excursion Sunday to climb Mt. Holyoke. Anyone interested meet at 2:30 p.m., Rm. 208 Stone, Amherst College.

TEACH A COLLOQ

Anyone interested in teaching in Intro. to Woodworking Colloquia on Orchard Hill? Contact DAve, 546-6801 from 7-9 p.m.

FOUND

ON Intramural fields Weds. night 10-10 a check for Claire Sweeney. Call 546-4702, identify it and you've got it.

Room keys found in Worcester Dining Commons. To claim call 546-6572.

LOST

Notebook by telephones at Library. I need it desperately. Call Chris Salinetti 6-9220.

THANK YOU

Whoever found my ring in Boyden last week and turned it in, thank you.

ENGAGEMENT

Jean Niven, Class '74, 30 Nutting Ave. to Mark Tetelman, '73, Washington Middle.

Handmade
"Silver"
Jewelry

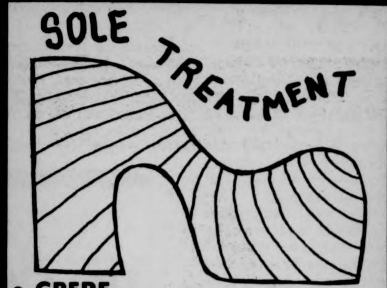
The Leather Shed

199 N. Pleasant St.
AMHERST
Mon.-Sat. 9-5:30

LEVI'S !
NEED WE SAY MORE

THE BACK ROOM
44 Main St.
NORTHAMPTON, MASS.
Tel. 586-3411

NO DOUBT
IT'S 'THE GIN MILL'
Rte. 181
Bondsville, Ma.
Free Music, beer only a quarter a glass, or $1.75 for 2 half gallon pitchers.
Cable T.V.
On Sat. & Sun. we feature steamed clams - steamed in beer.



- CREPE
- LEATHER
- WOOD
- POLYURETHANE

the SHOE BIN
187 NORTH PLEASANT ST.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

Experienced Photographer desperately needs use of darkroom. Will negotiate. Hurry! Please call 6-6369 or 6-6351. Keep trying — Paula. tf10/12

Kathy — who had my wallet — I meant to ask you in if only to warm your feet, but had much on my mind. Come back for coffee. tf10-12

Homosexual thoughts & feelings bothering you, or would like information? Call 586-2811, ask for Paul after 6:30. tf10-15

Hey you! Number 2 really does try harder. tf10/12

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362. tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002. tf11-11

Happy 21 to a friend whose friendship and good humor make him the huge one that he is. The Duck. 10-12

Happy birthday Betty Boo, 1307 JQA — may your 19th be a happy day! Love Trix, Sleez; Debzo, Kenneth S., and Diane. 10-12

TEO Open House, Fri., Oct. 12, 8:00 p.m., 418 North Pleasant Street. 10-12

Sigma Alpha Mu can be proud of its mayoral candidate. Steve Erickson's victory in the Town of Gardner's primary. Good Luck — EAM. 10-12

PERSONAL

Charlie — does your 20th birthday mean you can't hide in cubicles anymore? Have a happy one. Love, Marla and Sue. 10-12

Mary Ellen — happy 20th. You're not getting older, you're getting better. Make it a great life. I know you will. 'M' 10-12

Chico — You'll always be a teen-angel no matter how old you get. Even 20 candles make a lovely light. Happy Birthday! Love, Betty Lou. 10-12

To the girl in Drake Sunday, 10-7. Call collect 603-523-7050 about opportunity in N.H. in regards to ed position we talked about. Rich. tf10-18

If your's is dead — call the Red! N.W.S., 6-1458. 10-12

Deadly Nightshade! Hear them, dance to them at the gay dance this Saturday, Oct. 13 from 8 to midnight at Worcester Dining Commons. 10-12

Linda — happy birthday!! Hope you are having a great time in Oregon!! Jackee. 10-12

Dave — a frog I may be, but don't let that fool ya. If you give me a chance, a surprise will await ya. Smooch. 10-12

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses. tf10-18

Need ride from Belchertown for 8 a.m., back at 1 p.m. Quabbin apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-4521, keep trying. tf10-17

SERVICES

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051. tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying. tf10-19

Any and all types of sewing done. Call Leah at 665-3439. tf10-12

Need a typist? Term papers, theses, dissertations, books — any kind of typing done in my home. Experienced typist with IBM Selectric typewriter. Reasonable rates. Fast service. Call 584-0743. tf10-12

Couples' Workshop — building trust & intimacy, communicating clearly.

Couples' Workshop — building trust & intimacy, communicating clearly, meditation, massage, maintaining individuality, resolving conflict. Tues. nights, Oct. 23-Dec. 11. Free. Contact David Andes, Student Development Office, 545-0333 or home 1-369-4649 by Oct. 17. tf10-15

ROOMMATE WANTED

A couple of people wanted to share house 9 miles from UMass — going for $68 a month plus utilities. If interested call 546-6211, avail. immed. tf10-15

Graduate student wanted to share house in Belchertown. 3 bedrooms, partly furnished. Call Tom after 5 at 323-7082. 10-12

Needed — lead guitar and drummer, must have instrument and trans. Paid rehearsal time. Call Mike between 3 and 5, 527-9830. tf10-12

Hey Bud! Number 2 wants to make you wiser. Watch for details. tf10/12

We buy good conditioned used records for The Record, 256-6134 in Faces of Earth. tf10-12

Own room in Conway with hip family for babysitting and house cleaning. 369-4020. tf10-12

Home wanted for kitten, preferably off campus. 546-7008. tf10-12

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531. tf10-17

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie. tf1

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings. tf10-16

HELP WANTED

Pizza people, delivery people, counter help. Apply in person or call the Hungry U. 256-6350. tf10-15

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 584-6453. tf10-7

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long, good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458. tf10-17

SPEED TYPIST
In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

FOR RENT

4 bedroom house within 7 mi. Need occupancy soon. Call Skibiski, Realtors, Northampton. 584-3428. tf10-12

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373. tf10-27

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700. tf10/18

Motorhome for rent by the week or day, completely self-contained, sleeps eight. Call 772-0383. tf10-15

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month. tf10/19

6 bedroom house for rent, located in Wendell, $375 per month. Call 1-617-544-3520. tf10-17

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Netwomen Rack WSC, 3-2

By NANCY M. THOMPSON

The UMass Women's Tennis team was not out in full force yesterday in Westfield but they still showed good form in defeating Westfield State College 3-2. Only three singles matches and two doubles matches were played, UMass winning once in singles and twice in the doubles play.

Donna Siscavage, taking Ann Foley's coveted number one singles spot, handled her opponent well though she was defeated by a determined Wendy Rudman of Westfield. Ms. Siscavage did not give in easily as she played well at the net but was in contention with the side lines a good deal of the afternoon. In a little more than two hours of solid tennis play Westfield took the match in a close 5-7 first set and even tighter, nerve-racking tie-breaker second set.

Taking the number two position for Umass yesterday was Donna Greene, returning to the courts after being sidelined throughout the beginning of the season with tendonitis. Ms. Greene found the only singles victory for UMass and that was a fast and tidy 6-0, 6-1 over Westfield's Sue Sanders. Caron Tsapatsaris moved into the third singles place against WSC's Anice Cutillo. Ms. Tsapatsaris lost the first set, a close 5-7 only to come back for the second in a hard-played 6-4 set. The third set was a persuasive 0-6 going to WSC, turning the decision in Westfield's favor.

Coach Sally Ogilvie had nothing but praise for her doubles teams who seem to be doing exceptionally well so far this year. Both the first and second doubles teams used the right tactics and looked their way to a successful 6-1, 6-2 against WSC's Canedi and Pleasant.

Letters To The Sports Editor

Poor Helmets

To the Sports Editor:

Being a keen observer of the University of Massachusetts football team it has come to my attention that the season thus far has not been entirely successful. The reason for the partial success is obvious. They've changed the designs on the helmets! Poor blocking, a porous secondary, and the lack of a running game can be overcome but, not a rotten helmet design. The old superimposed U and M was impressive and what's more, readable. This new design looks like it was painted on by a chicken with dirty feet. So, let's take another shot at the Boardwalk Bowl and repaint the helmet.

Dear Peter,

You've made a very valid point and I'm sure Coach MacPherson is looking into that "jinx" possibility at this very moment. In fact, the athletic department (seriously) is looking to change the design. It would look just like the Minuteman logo in the Collegian Sportshead.

You Got It

Hey DeCosta!

You got it, babe. You must be a New Yorker, if not, you must have picked up the feelin' somewhere, but you got it.

THE METS WILL WIN!!! They simply can't lose, and some foreigners still don't realize it yet.

Nick Minotti
Summer Home: Shea Stadium
Winter Retreat: Kennedy Lower

Gee, my first fan letter. I'm not from N.Y., thank God. I'm not even a Mets fan. But you're right, they got it. I don't. And I only hope it isn't contagious.

DeCosta

Discrimination

To the Sports Editor:

While others may view the new woman's varsity volleyball team with pride, interest, or indifference, I view it with anger. It infuriates me to see the women handed a well funded, coached, varsity team when after three years of trying the men's volleyball club has been unable to gain financial support or varsity status. What is wrong with the Boyden brass? They start a new varsity and budget it over $2000 but refuse to recognize or give financial aid to a three year old team, playing in a varsity collegiate league, ranked third in New England, and which placed two men on the first team all New England squad.

Raymond Richard

Notices

INTRAMURALS - All men's and women's I-M 10 pin team bowling entries are due on Monday, Oct. 15 at 5 p.m. All volleyball men's and women's and co-rec are due on Thursday Oct. 18 by 5 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL - There will be try-outs for all candidates for the Men's Power Volleyball Club on Monday, Oct. 15 and Wednesday, Oct. 17 from 6-8 p.m. in the WOPE gymnasium

MAD APPLE MUSIC
THE STORE THAT OFFERS SO MUCH MORE THAN JUST ANOTHER RECORD STORE.
★ Records
★ 8-Track Stereos
10 - 5:30 Daily
10 - 9 Thursday
We have a selection of pipes, papers, handcrafted silver & turquoise jewelry, and leather goods, guitars, guitar accessories.
146 MAIN ST. NORTHAMPTON

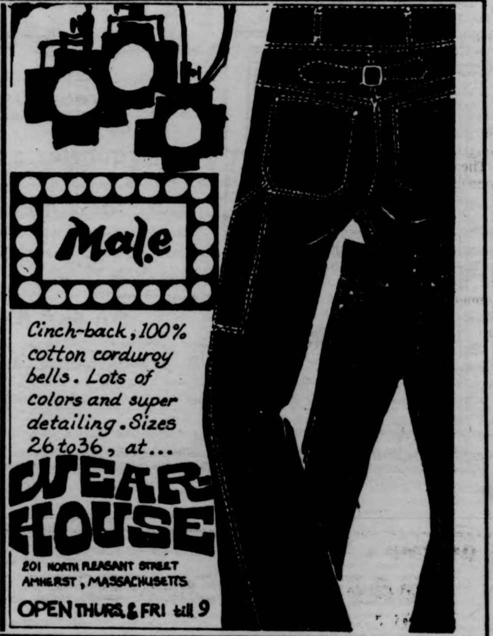
The un-dormitories.
Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions:
On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd.
oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116



Male
Cinch-back, 100% cotton corduroy bells. Lots of colors and super detailing. Sizes 26 to 36, at...
WEAR HOUSE
201 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
OPEN THURS. & FRI till 9

$1 OFF SPORTWEAR BOUTIQUE $1 OFF
LOW PRICES
THE LEMON TREE
Located One Mile North of UMass. behind North Amherst Post Office
PANTS — Only $7.00! Plaids, Checks, Solids in Knits, Wool, Corduroy, Cotton, Polyester
SWEATERS only $5.99 - values to $12
Men's Western Flare JEANS - an $11 Value only $6 - $7.99
From India — comfortable and casual 20% - 50% off Suggested Retail Price
$1 OFF ONE DOLLAR OFF WITH THIS AD $1 OFF

Booters Meet BU

By STEVE DECOSTA

"We need a win to keep us in the conference race." - Al Rufe

With that thought in mind, the UMass soccer team travels to the Hub tomorrow to take on Boston University for their second game against a YanCon foe.

The Minutemen have only one conference match under their belts, a 1-0 loss to Maine.

With only five conference games to play, Rufe said, "We can't really afford another loss. The worst we could probably do and still win the conference is 4-1-1."

"The team we have to catch is Connecticut", Rufe remarked. The Huskies are 3-0 so far, having beaten UNH, a team which was originally considered to be a strong contender. "UConn is the team to beat, but we have a lot of games to win before we play them."

Tomorrow would be a good place to start. BU has a 1-2-1 conference mark, with a win over Vermont, losses to UConn and UNH, and a tie with Maine to its credit.

Tomorrow's game will be played on BU's astroturf, which could spell trouble for the Minutemen. The booters have yet to play on an artificial field and could have problems with the high bounces and skimming rollers which are so common on that type of playing surface.

The booters will change their plan of attackfor tomorrow's game in an effort to add more scoring punch to their offense. The Minuemen will go back to their 3-3-4 attack after experimenting with a 4-2-4 in their last two games. This will hopefully free the two back halfbacks, Mark Tyma and Jim Vollinger, for more offense.

In another effort to increase scoring output, Bill Belcher will start on attack in place of Ken Banda. His linemates will be leading scorer Tom Coburn and either Charlie Palano or Brian McKenney.

Rufe will start the same defensive squad which he said played "an excellent game against WPI." Starting at fullback will be the regulars, Curt Syer, Gary McKenna, Bob Merrill, and Dan Oullette. The goalie will again be Carl Vercollone.

KICKING IT AROUND - The Minutemen have scored six goals this season and five of those belong to Tom Coburn. The only other scorer for UMass is Charlie Palano with one tally.

Coburn, with his five scores, is tied the YanCon lead in goals scored with Bob Black of New Hampshire but Black and the Wildcats have played one extra game.

UMass goalie Carl Vercollone has given up 1.7 goals per game while averaging twelve saves in each contest.

Golfers Bid For Title

By RICH SEVIERI

The UMass Golf team emerged from the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association's Regional Tournament as the best in New England.

Tomorrow they travel down the pike to Pleasant Valley Country Club in Sutton for the ECAC Fall Championship hoping to extend their championship domain.

The Minutemen along with second place finisher UConn, will compete in team play against the winner and runnerup from qualifying playoffs in Annapolis, Md., Bethpage, L.I., and Syracuse, N.Y. for the championship of the East.

Central Connecticut and Harvard who tied for third in the Regionals will also represent New England due to a special ruling when host school UMass qualified.

Pleasant Valley is a regular stop on the PGA circuit and in recent years has hosted the Avco Golf Classic. It's a hilly course of almost 7000 yards that demands precision iron play and finesse around its sprawling greens. Some of the greens are the size of Alumni Field and it is not uncommon to see a player use a wedge to get closer to the hole.

Coach Fan Gaudette feels that the large greens of Hickory Ridge Country Club, the Minutemen's home course, are good preparation for Pleasant Valley. The main difference will be that P.V.'s greens are flat while Hickory Ridges are undulating.

Dave Kern and Joe Artman qualified to represent UMass for the medalist honors. Kern was co-medalist in the Regionals with a 76. Artman, who should wear a miner's helmet, had a 77, finishing in the dark.

This is the first time UMass has qualified for the Eastern Championship and Gaudette is optimistic about their chances. "One reason," he explains, "is all of our players are familiar with Pleasant Valley. We won the Yankee Conference title there last year and the whole team is back. We really like to win it the first time we ever qualified."

(Staff Photo - Joe Martins)

Coach Fan Gaudette: confident.

At press time the identity of the qualifiers from Annapolis, Bethpage, and Syracuse were not known.

Crew Opens Sunday

By MARK DLUGOSZ

The men's crew team swings into action this Sunday at the Fall Festival Regatta in Lowell, Mass. Coach Mike Vespoli will enter his eight man boat along with several four and two man boats, in the 2000 meter regatta. The crew has been hard into their practice and training for several weeks now in preparation for this meet.

The autumn is pretty much the training and evaluating period for the crew team, but Coach Vespoli feels that winning in the autumn meets would not hurt in preparing for the spring meets. The autumn training, along with the winter workouts on the ergometer (rowing machine) and weights, explain why the UMass Crew Club has fared so well.

The reigning Dad Vail Champs from UMass have four oarsmen returning from last year's champion boat. They are: Rich Clair, Paul Gowen, Bill Fitzpatrick and Captain Peter Berg. Last year's coxswain, Roger Bornsall, is also returning and is only a sophomore. Coach Vespoli feels his crew has "excellent chances" of defending the Dad Vail crown, "considering the four spots vacated by graduation are filled adequately."

The crew team is scheduled for the Head-of-the-Charles Regatta on Oct. 21 in Boston, and a tri-meet with Yale and Dartmouth here on the Connecticut River on Oct. 28. On Nov. 4 the crew team will have its annual Hadley-Henley match, which is an interclub meet involving the women's and men's teams in coed boats.

Many people do not realize that the crew team is not considered a varsity sport, which means it is not funded as a varsity sport would be. The funds the crew team does get is spent on better equipment by the crew. This helps during the races but means the team has to get its own transportation to get to meets. It is unusual to find people as dedicated to the true spirit of sports, without all the fringe benefits such as publicity and cheering crowds given to the varsity sports. Depite all these shortcomings, the crew members will continue to enjoy the thrill of rowing and winning.

Harriers Host UConn

By SCOTT HAYES

The Umass Cross Country team opens defense of its Yankee Conference title tomorrow when the runners host an improved Connecticut team.

Holder of the past three YanCon championships, the UMass squad is "ready to go." The team has had six days to recover from the toughest week of this year's schedule, having faced highly touted Providence, Northeastern and Harvard within five days.

After five meets the harriers stand at 3-2 and the two losses were close contests, 30-27 to Harvard and 30-25 to Northeastern. The team has to be a little disappointed, but the two losses could have gone either way. The only thing that kept UMass from compiling a perfect 5-0 record was the inability of the top five runners to put it all together on the same day. Against Harvard, Gillin and Thomas ran well, but Maguire and Segersten had an off day. The same happened in New York against Northeastern, when Thomas and Maguire ran a good race, but Gillin ran relatively slower, possibly because of his outstanding performance against Harvard.

Coach Ken O'Brien explained that the runners had some trouble recovering from the Harvard meet and getting ready for Northeastern in three days. The mentor also said that the team has "looked good in workouts." O'Brien is hoping that the top five runners will run as a team, and stated that now the runners should start to show consistency, having three meets behind them.

UConn is basically a four man team. Freshman Bruce Clark paces the improved Huskies. Clark was the New England high school Cross Country and two mile champion. He was sought by many colleges and is presently close to the UConn course record.

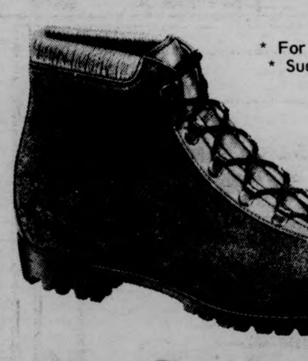
The second man on the UConn squad is veteran Peter Bartolotti. Bartolotti is a senior who has been a steady runner in the past and UConn's number one or two runner for the last few seasons.

The third and fourth runners, Mike McKusker and Bill Cantin have been hot and cold. Cantin was UConn's number one runner last year, and the Yankee Conference Cross Country champion. Cantin also captured the indoor mile and two-mile titles as well as the outdoor mile title. Fred Brough, a consistent performer, is the fifth man for Connecticut.

Tomorrow's meet should be the upswing of the season for UMass, when the harriers start to put it all together and prepare for another shot at Harvard and Northeastern in the New England championships.

CROSS COUNTRY CORNER — Paul Doiron has been by far the top freshmen runner so far this season. Doiron was in a seven way tie for first in the JV meet against BC, placed 23 in the varsity meet against Harvard and finished only seven seconds behind Paul Segersten, UMass' fourth man, to capture 14 in the Northeastern meet.

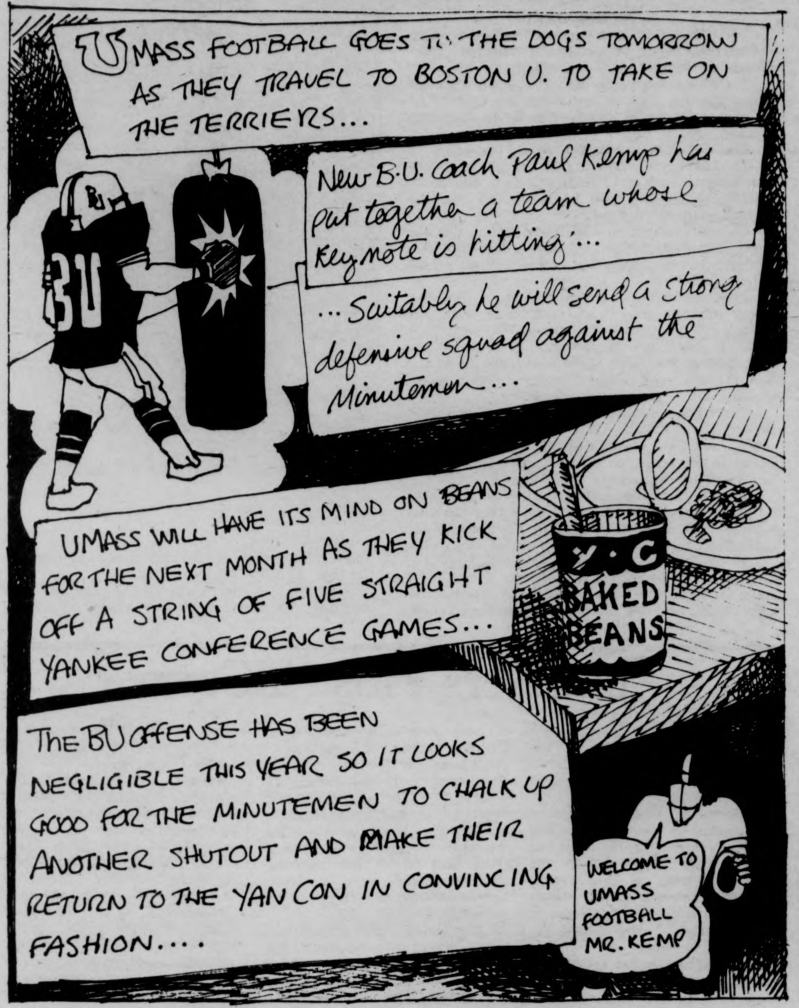
Other top freshmen performers have been Chris Farmer and Mickey Hawkes. Farmer finished 26 and 18 against Harvard and NU while Hawkes placed 25 and 25 respectively. Both Farmer and Hawkes were involved in the seven way tie for the first in the JV meet at BC.



DUNHAM'S
"WAFFLE STOMPERS"
* For either sex
* Suede or Leather
BOLLES SHOE STORE
8 Main St., Amherst
"Home of the Boot Cellar"

STEAK OUT
ROUTE 9 and UNIVERSITY DRIVE
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
Proudly Presents
T.V. and Recording Star
BONNIE FLOYD
and his revue.
featuring
GOLDIE LEWIS
Tuesday through Saturday
Coming Attractions: DRIFTERS PLATTERS CHIFFONS

A's Gain Series Berth, 3-0



UMASS FOOTBALL GOES TO THE DOGS TOMORROW AS THEY TRAVEL TO BOSTON U. TO TAKE ON THE TERRIERS...
New B.U. Coach Paul Kemp has put together a team whose keynote is hitting...
...Suitably he will send a strong defensive squad against the Minutemen...
30
UMASS WILL HAVE ITS MIND ON BEANS FOR THE NEXT MONTH AS THEY KICK OFF A STRING OF FIVE STRAIGHT YANKEE CONFERENCE GAMES...
Y.C BAKED BEANS
THE BU OFFENSE HAS BEEN NEGLIGIBLE THIS YEAR SO IT LOOKS GOOD FOR THE MINUTEMEN TO CHALK UP ANOTHER SHUTOUT AND MAKE THEIR RETURN TO THE YAN CON IN CONVINCING FASHION....
WELCOME TO UMASS FOOTBALL MR. KEMP

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP)-Jim "Catfish" Hunter, Oakland's top money pitcher, gave the A's another shot Thursday at baseball's biggest prize.

His five-hitter beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-0 in the deciding fifth game of the American League playoffs and set up the World Series opener here Saturday between the A's and the New York Mets.

"Charlie Finley, our owner, has told us that if we win the World Series again, those rings he gave us last year are going to look like babies compared to this year's," said the righthander who beat the Cincinnati Reds twice in the 1972 Series.

Finley, who presented World Series rings this spring with an estimated value of $1,400 each, said, "I know damn well we're going to win again."

Hunter, a 21-game winner three seasons in a row, struck out only one batter Thursday, but the Orioles' hitters pulled just a handful of pitches and popped up more than half a dozen.

"I'm a control pitcher, and I was making them hit my pitches. That's why they were popping up," said the hurler after his second victory of the playoffs.

If the A's repeat as World Champions, they'll be the first team to do so since the New York Yankees of 1961-2.

"I'm aware of that, and I was aware that Baltimore had never lost a playoff game, too," said Hunter after his shutout.

The Orioles, who were after a fourth league title in five years, swept their opponents in the playoffs from 1969 through 1971.

Williams made it clear that A's wouldn't go into the World Series overconfident against the Mets, who finished barely over .500 in the regular season in winning the National League's East Division. They won a five-team dogfight for the title.

"Some people said none of those teams were good ones. I disagree. I think they were all good clubs and just knocked each other off all season."

Hunter's pitching gave Oakland its second straight five-game AL playoff triumph. The A's went the distance last year against the Detroit Tigers.

Daily Collegian

SPORTS

WMUA

The UMass football team may not have such an easy time of things, as they kickoff against the BU Terriers Saturday afternoon.

WMUA will be there. Air time is 1:20 with Don Gorsky and Russ Small calling all the action.

UMass Favored Vs. BU

By BILL BALLOU

Match up a football team that's just come off its biggest win of the year with one that's noted for a confused, dying program and has scored just one touchdown all season and it would appear the 1972 presidential election was about to be rerun.

But don't be surprised if the BU game tomorrow in Boston is a close one.

The Terriers, under new coach Paul Kemp, are a strong, enthusiastic, and defensive club who lie to "bump and run" on their pass coverage.

UMass coach Dick MacPherson notes that there are quite a few good athletes on that BU defense. Middle linebacker Gary Dziama, a junior, leads the Terrier "D" with help from cornerback Greg Pemberton.

Offensively, the outlook isn't so good. The Terrier offense has just that one touchdown, even though in halfback Tom Floyd they've got a top-notch runner.

"They move the ball real well," says MacPherson, "that isn't their problem. It's that they can't put it over. They get going and then decide to get fancy and put the ball in the air and that does it."

The BU air attack has, to this point in the season, been nonexistent. Nevertheless, MacPherson's worried.

"We went down to Rutgers last week," he said, "and they were supposed to have no passing game. But by the end of the day -- they had one."

Much of the burden of UMass' success tomorrow may rest with its newly-found running game. Vastly improved against Rutgers, it hasn't satisfied MacPherson yet.

"It's got to get better" he says, a comment which is becoming a weekly tradition.

"You don't win without running. It's just something you've got to have."

The Minutemen are still hurting in the defensive backfield, with Paul Hansen still questionable for tomorrow's game. It appears though, that he will play. He and Bob Levine both took shots against Rutgers and were in Wonderland for part of Saturday.

In the two years MacPherson's coached at UMass, Boston University games have been high-scoring affairs. In 1971 BU won at Nickerson Field 47-21 while Umass took it at home last year by 44-15.

The big thing with the Terriers this year is a supposedly new attitude and "new enthusiasm" instilled by head coach Kemp. "Hitting is the name of the game" Kemp says, and he's practiced his squad hard to get them in shape for his type of game.

BU stands at 2-2 for the season after a 2-8 year in 1972. Game time at Bo's Nickerson Field is 1:30 p.m.

Inside Sports

- Soccer Preview
- Golfers Shoot For ECAC Title
- Champ Crew Team Opens Season
- Cross-Country Preview
- Letters To The Sports Editor

WMUV

Sunday night, the WUMV-TV will broadcast a special double feature. Starting at 7:45, there will be a complete broadcast of the UMass Rugby A team vs. the Holy Cross A squad.

Coach "Doc" Lawrence will provide all the color, explaining everything about the sport of Rugby: the history, the game play, and the UMass players.

Then at 9:15, the BU-UMass football game will be shown in its entirety with Marty Kelley doing the play by play and Earle Barroll providing the color.

Steve Crowe

Violence Is In

After watching that circus of a playoff series between the N.Y. Mets fans and the Cincinnati Reds, I've come to the realization that the most appealing think about American sports is violence.

You've heard all those corny old cliches about sport: "the pride," "the competitive spirit," "the agony of defeat," "the thrill of victory"...But none of them are as important to sport as "the cry of violence!"

You go to a football game to see some good hard hitting. That's what you expect at a football game because it is the most important part of the game.

Boxing is another contact sport which relies on hitting. Think about it, though. What point is brought up most in a conversation about the Ali-Frazier fight? Is it the fact that Frazier decisioned Ali, or is it more important to sports fans and Ali puffed up Frazier's face?

But those other sports, the so-called non-contact sports, are designed to substitute this hitting aspect with finesse.

Basketball players are not allowed to "touch" each other or a foul is called. Hockey players can't whack each other with their sticks or else they get kicked out of the game.

This is the basic rule of the non-contact sports; you hurt someone and you are punished.

But, it is when this rule is broken that the sport becomes most exciting.

A basketball player who is hacked while driving in for a break-away layup; a hockey player knocked unconscious after a hard check; a race car driver who flips his car over...This is what thrills the fans.

They sit anxiously at the edge of their seats, waiting for the athlete to show some sign of life. Don't get me wrong. I'm not saying that fans want to see the athlete get killed...just beat up a little.

Violence-Why isn't soccer popular in this country? Is it that no one understands it? Or that the scoring is too low? These are poor arguments because, in alot of ways, soccer is very similar to hockey.

You know how you could make soccer a popular sport in America?

Put a wall around the field.

Then players could check each other into the boards and more fighting would break out in the heat of the battle. Do that and watch the fans start coming out to the soccer stadium!

And now violence has found it's way into that classic All-American sport-baseball. Which is a good thing-don't get me wrong. Baseball was such a boring game and a few fights and rhubarbs is just what the sport violently needed.

In the Mets-Reds playoffs, it was the violence that turned the series around. Without the fight between Pete Rose and Bud Harrelson there probably wouldn't have been a rumble in that third game of the series. And without that rumble, there wouldn't have been all that fan involvement.

The fans really got into the spirit of things when they pelted Pete Rose with a whiskey bottle in left field. Then there was the fan who got punched in the face when he tried to steal a hat from the Cincinnati dugout and finally, the fan who got whacked across the shoulder when he abused a Cincinnati batter.

There are ads on T.V. telling everyone to "come out to the ballpark." "Being there is half the fun."

That's for sure. Just ask the N.Y. Mets fans.

Poor Richard's

Volume 3, Issue 5 October 12, 1973

Nick Apostola: The Teenage Trustee

STAFF PHOTO — ALAN CHAPMAN

by Barbara Voorhees

The Student Government Association is full of shit!

Every UMie knows that. Regardless of whether you're a bright, shiny, new freshman or a seasoned UMie who's never met a student senator or area representative, don't know who yours are from a hole in the wall and don't want to, never voted in a school election and never will, never read anything by or about the Student Government Association (SGA) and never even wondered what goes on in those offices, you know, I mean you just KNOW that the SGA is full of shit.

Last May, amidst all of the bullshit that really does go on in the SGA offices; that ridiculous, worthless arguing, the politicking, the flak giving and the flak catching, the haughtiness, the lies and the insults, Nick Apostola, who would graduate from UMass that same month with a BDIC in Balkan Studies, was elected SGA president.

The Balkan Boy made good.

He won an election that probably, if for no other reason than its sensationalism, will go down in SGA history.

One of Nick's opponents was none other than Henry Ragin, who planned to abolish all student government as soon as he was elected and turn the offices into an opium den, and who showed up at the election that night along with Student Senator Peter Lewicke and another friend, straight from the Bluewall after a few straight drinks of whiskey, to produce some sensational SGA theatrics.

"I think Henry is far out. If I hadn't been running I would have voted for him," Nick Apostola tells you.

But the straights and semi-straights of UMass student politics who didn't seem to care too much for Ragin's brand of politics won out and with 51 out of 96 votes Nick Apostola was elected president of an organization composed of 123 student senators, including officers, and area representatives, which has a yearly budget of $863,260 in student taxes to fool around with. Your money!

And somehow, maybe it was a slip or something, but I think maybe the UMass student politicians elected someone who just might do a good job.

Nick Apostola shows up at his office on the second floor of the Student Union every school day somewhere around 9 a.m. looking pretty tired and out of it. Except to go to meetings or to eat Nick probably won't leave again until midnight.

He works a few hours on weekends too and all told it adds up to about an 80 hour work week. He is paid roughly $40 a week during the school year and twice as much during the summer months.

"I have high burn out tolerance," Nick tells you. He and the other SGA big wigs who hang around his office define burn out as working 80 hours a week for a long time and then sitting back, looking at what you've done and deciding it simply is just not worth it.

Nick lives on campus in Greenough but is there so infrequently that he says the people who live there don't think he lives there.

He didn't buy a dining commons' ticket so for most meals, when he's not eating out with the President or Chancellor of the University or the Board of Trustees, it's down to the Hatch.

"The Hatch is where it's at, it's the pulse of the University. And that juke box. That juke box makes the place," Nick tells you.

So that he will be legally enrolled in the University, one of the prerequisites for being SGA President, he takes one University course.

When he was an undergrad, he decided to study the government, language and history of the Balkans as a special major because of his background.

He is Rumanian. Both his father, who manages a coat factory in Southbridge, and his mother who keeps the books for the factory, are of Rumanian descent. His grandparents came to this country from Albania.

"Dracula was Rumanian," he tells you.

When his term as SGA President ends Nick wants to travel to Rumania to study theology and become a priest in the Eastern Orthodox Church.

How did a guy interested in religion and the priesthood get involved in politics?

"The Devil made me do it," says Nick. Well, he thinks religion and politics have a lot in common. "In both cases we're trying to save people's souls," he says with a grin.

Besides going to Rumania Nick says he'd like to write a book about his experiences as SGA President.

"Something on the line of 'I Was A Teenage Trustee'. I want to write the book cause I want to make big bucks," Nick tells you.

When he has that little bit of spare time that goes along with his job, Nick likes to do nothing. "Something mindless like going to the movies or watching TV. With my girlfriend."

He doesn't like to party or go drinking. Booze makes him sick. And he says he rarely smokes dope. To this the big wigs in his office laugh and ask, "What about last night? And last Thursday? And last Wednesday?" Shades of Henry Ragin's opium den.

Nick also likes to spend time eating. Besides fancy pants lunches with big wigs in the administration which cuts his food spending in half, Nick loves going home because (how corny) his mother cooks alot of Rumanian dishes for him.

Nick and his friends painted his office. It is furnished with desks that were given to him by the University and a few couches and chairs confiscated from the Student Union lounge.

Buttons hanging on the curtains proclaim, "Structure Freedom" and "End Institutional Racism."

A wooden toy called "Peter, the Pawn" hangs from the curtain rod. When you pull the attached string it jumps.

People are in and out of the office and on the phone all day long to talk to Nick Apostola, SGA President. There's a lot of bullshit, alot of flak and a lot of criticizing. Not a hell of a lot of praise.

A good part of his day is taken up by the shit work; typing, xeroxing, writing memos and reading memos besides answering the phone and talking to visitors.

There's a lot of waiting. He walks around his office taking his watch off, putting it back on, over and over again, watering his small rubber plant, waiting for a phone call, waiting for someone who was supposed to show up an hour ago.

"It's boring but I suppose I enjoy it because I do it," Nick tells you.

And there's a hell of a lot of flak to catch. From administration types, faculty types, plain old students and his fellow politicians. At a meeting of the President's Council, one of the many councils and committees which Nick oversees, an area representative calls him a meathead and an incompetent.

No one can agree on anything. Everyone's got to open their big mouths and have their say.

And Nick must attend the every other week meeting of the faculty senate to advise them on student oriented issues.

He also meets with Whitmore type big administrators on occasion.

And there is the weekly Senate meeting and meetings with area representatives.

And because he is SGA President he is also a member of the UMass Board of Trustees.

"The trustees think the way I look and dress is cute. In fact they think student trustees in general are cute," Nick says.

He agrees that all around him there are a number of people who he deals with who are full of shit. And also a number of people who are busting ass to make this University a better place.

And you ask Nick Apostola what in hell he is doing or trying to do as President of SGA.

"A great deal of decision making goes on in Whitmore. It is done out of the reach of the faculty, the staff, and the students. We have little to say about the nature of these decisions."

"We have to get the decision making out of Whitmore. Not necessarily over to the Student Union but to the areas and dormitories where it belongs."

"Alienation in America has a lot to do with people being divorced from decisions that effect their lives."

"We've got to bring the system down to a level where people can deal with it."

But just what does that mean?

"I don't know. It's just a concept. I don't know how we can do it. I just don't know."

"We're entering a new stage of apathy I think. People seem really tired. They have an 'I don't give a fuck' attitude. It's not like the 50's which was a very naive time. Nobody realized the injustices that were going on then. Now they do but they refuse to deal with them."

"I don't know how to get things together. Somehow I don't think you do it organizationally. We really need a revolution every two years or so."

"I'm really powerless. Like Nixon. He's supposedly the most powerful man in the world but he really can't do anything."

I guess I have power in little ways. I have a negative kind of power. I could fuck up this place really easy if I wanted to."

"I don't think anyone here really has any power. A lot of people together might have power but not just one."

"I'm in a compromised position, all of the time. I live contradictions."

"When I'm feeling out of it I go down to the Hatch. You're always brought back to reality in the Hatch."

Down at the Hatch, Nick eats lunch with Larry Ladd, former SGA President.

They talk about the hassles and the UMass political bullshit which Ladd is quite familiar with and which Nick is becoming ever more familiar with.

The one main problem which both of them cite is that of the length of term of office. With only one year to build relationships with the other people of power at this University it is generally a losing game. As soon as you work your way up to a position in which people know you and trust you it is time to leave and time for a new peson to take over.

After a quick lunch its time to go back to that office again. Up the back stairs of the Student Union which Nick is beginning to know all so well.

In the office it's time for some small talk with another SGA big wig. "Hi big pig." "Hi, little pig."

And then its back to the business of being SGA President.

Nick sits down and puts his arms on the back of his couch and smiles and says, "Well, I'm important."

Inside:

Etchings
Do I wanna go see Phil Curry's what? Oh, you mean he really does have 'em? Well what do they look like? I guess I'll just have to read about them on Page 3

McGillvery

The Handicrafter
In our age of progess, UMies find that the best way forward is actually a step backward. How do I make a wooden frammel anyway? Ed Cohen tells on Page 7

ZIP
McGillvery

Baseball (G)Love Story
PR's reviewer Mike Wallace should have brought a hanky along when he saw Bang the Drum Slowly. Obviously the loser loses more than he bargained for. (G) love means never having to say your sorry? See Page 13.

Poor Richard's

Volume 3, Issue 5

October 12, 1973

Poor Richards is a weekly magazine of the Daily Collegian.

Contributors
St. Andrew
Susan Bergeron
Ken Blanchard
Sherm Boyson
Jon Carr
Alan Chapman
Ed Cohen
Phil Curry
Steve Feld
Kevin Kittredge
Rose Marston
Denny Matteau
Carol McBaron
Don McGilvray
David Miller
Marian Prokop
B. J. Roche
Steve Ruggles
Ed Smith
David Sokol
Barbara Voorhees
Mike Wallace
Lori Ann Yeslow

Editor
Patrick J. Coffey
Asst. Editor
Joyce Kosofsky
Music
Mike Kostek
Weekend
Bob Nesti

POOR RICHARD'S welcomes unsolicited manuscripts, photographs, and sketches. They must be signed and include the author's address and phone number. Due to space limitations, there is no guarantee that all material will be printed.

All manuscripts must be typed, double-spaced, at sixty spaces per line, and are subject to editing for content or length. Deadline for the Friday edition is Wednesday noon.

Letters to the editor are accepted for perusal and or publication. Sometimes we need a good chuckle.

WHAT KIND of MAN READS POOR RICHARD'S?
McGILURAY

Syrup On An Awful Waffle

by "Carol MacBaren"

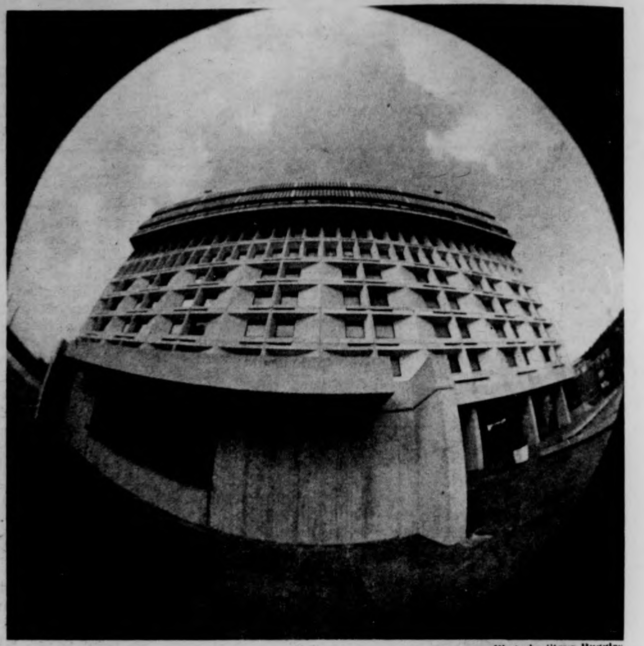


Photo by Steve Ruggles

The trapezoidal elegance of the Campus Center has been with us for three years now, yet it is still the object of cruel generalizations and unusually insipid jokes. Most awful waffle remarks stem from the coldness of the concrete, the innuendo of inhuman environment, or alleged ugliness. Because the Campus Center is a physical object, it is far less difficult to unmask this three-fold shibboleth than to explain away the doctrine of, say, predestination.

Upon closer examination, then, we find that Marcel Breuer did not necessarily use concrete for the Murray D. Lincoln. The exterior begins at the ground with layer upon layer of granite steps which led to a blue fieldstone terrace. Distributed about this pedestal are various outcroppings of concrete which turn out to be such prosaic things as exhaust funnels and exit doors disguised as trapezoidal solids. Towering above all this is the Monolith of the Campus Center built of cast concrete, and studded with recesses of varying size and depth. Most of these are formed by the precast window frames, which contain in their ridges the pipes and heating elements, which are thus removed from the interior.

Inside is a far richer variety of materials. In fact, there are no concrete floors. The most-used areas are paved in the same blue fieldstone used on the terrace, and the Auditorium has a fine teakwood floor. The rest of the public rooms are furnished with carpets in a wide variety of colors and textures. The walls are not necessarily concrete either. The elevator bays are tiled in black slate, thick cork panels are used in the meeting rooms, and some of the rest are either plaster or woven matting. Most of the open areas have concrete walls, but bush-hammered for a warmer, less angular texture. The furnishings show a wide variety, ranging from stackable chairs to massive wooden sofas of the concourse levels. These had cushions so comfortable, that most had vanished within a month of the building's opening. Some of the items chosen were outrageously expensive. A polished granite meeting table was dismantled because it did not get enough use, but it has since found its way to the kitchen as a pizza slab. Though expensive, most of the furnishings seem relatively durable, and reflect the taste of the architect for robustness and permanence.

The feeling of permanence is somewhat of an illusion, and even had the building's administration fooled for a while. A truly inhuman building would be so constructed that changes of use would be impossible or inconvenient. The spaces of the building were planned during the folk generation of the early sixties when a growing sence of concern and involvement meant concern with the turnout at Phi Zappa Krappa's fall dance and involvement with organizing the Homecoming Ball (which is what the Ballroom was built to hold). By the time the center opened, the love generation had come and gone, and the dawn of Mother Earth consciousness was upon us. The new aesthetic dictated a turning away from the horizons of growth, and a new embracing of traditions of an earlier time. The ultramodern center was therefore almost a relic of the past, and had to change to accommodate the new consciousness. The walls in the concourse were decorated with a dozen murals, and a superfluous lounge was turned into a pinball parlor. A market was opened to provide for the new wave of craftsmen who needed an outlet for their leather, candles and woodwork. Waterbeds, books, movies, and even cars were displayed in the new focus of C.C. pedestrian flow. The Campus Center was demonstrating its adaptability to the needs of the day. It can hardly be labeled an inhuman building if within three years the changes of a decade could be comfortably made.

The shibboleth of ugliness is not amenable to the same kind of contrary evidence, since each person is his own arbiter of aesthetic privilege. Ugliness is commonly related to crudeness, shoddiness, or insensitivity in treatment. The physical problems of the building stem mostly from poor engineering or perhaps workmanship, but certainly not from the aesthetic planning. The Trapezoidal motif is a surprisingly flexible one, and one that can be used in a wide variety of ways. Use of such an overall motif can relate widely separated objects. The various floor and wall coverings are set in the end-on fashion characteristic of Breuer, and unify another set of varying elements. Even the treatment of the concrete is subjected to a set of variations which helps to provide sensitive touches where monotony could be a danger. It is precisely the avoidance of the mistakes found in the new library which makes the Campus Center sensitive. The stairways are made so that the tall will not bump their heads. The concrete was treated to get rid of "pimple popping" found in the library, and varying furnishings were selected to take the monotony out of different floors.

I'll have my social security number engraved on my bicycle.

In the event that my bicycle is lost, or stolen, it will be found, and referred back to me. Me, its owner.

The most important thing about that particular bicycle is that,
  It Belongs To Me.
I own it.
Nobody else has the right to use it.

I could have my husband's name engraved on my driver's license... on my student i.d.... on my degree...
 on my death certificate...

In the event
 that I am lost, or stolen,
I could be found, and referred back to him, my husband.

The most important thing about this particular person would be that she belongs to him, her husband.
He owns her.

Nobody else has the right to use her.

by Denny Matteau

Are you looking for FAME!
PRESTIGE?
INDIVIDUALITY?
BE THE FIRST TO LEAP FROM THE TALLEST LIBRARY IN THE WORLD!!
OPTIONAL EXTRA!! BUILT IN PIT WITH BALCONY.
BECOME A LEGEND!!
START A TREND!!
MAKE THE FRONT PAGE OF THE COLLEGIAN!!
IT'S A CLASSY WAY TO GO!!
So- END THOSE BLUES AND MAKE SOME NEWS!
DON'T DELAY!! IT'S NO FUN BEING NUMBER TWO!
9-15
McGILURAY

"Come Up And See My Etchings"

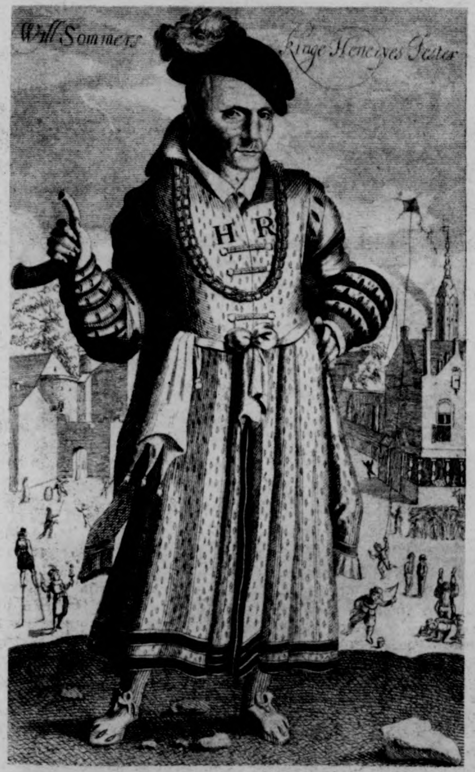
by Phillip C. Curry

Come upstairs and see your WHAT? . . . Believe it or not you too can one day say this line with a straight face. Print collecting e.g. etchings, lithographs, engravings and woodcuts besides providing you with THE most bogus opening line are not really that hard to understand, don't require a Swiss bank account, and gives you a chance to own really beautiful works by famous artists for a fraction of the cost of their oil works.

. . ."Oh that old thing, that's a rather dull etching by James A. McNeil Whistler circa 1894 that I bought on an impulse."

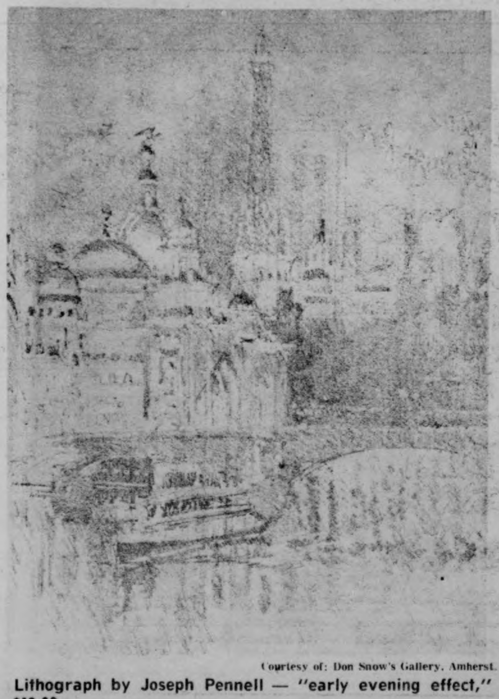
Plus with the economic boom we are currently experiencing prints are definitely a more sound investment than the dollar.

Print making is divided into 4 main category's, etchings, lithographs, engravings, and woodcuts, the differences being how the reproduction is arrived at, all deal with black and white for interpreting their subject matter, with the exception of lithography which can be done in color.



Courtesy of: Don Snow's Gallery, Amherst.

Anonymous, original engraving of a court jester. Cost to you — $5.50.



Courtesy of: Don Snow's Gallery, Amherst.

Lithograph by Joseph Pennell — "early evening effect," $12.00

ETCHING

Etching which is by far the most popular type of print to collect is generally done on a copper plate which is heated and has etching compound, composed chiefly of wax, melted upon it, this is smoothed and allowed to cool leaving a very thin varnish on the surface of the plate. It is then sooted or smoked by holding it over a candle. This enables the etcher to see his lines, which he draws with an etching needle that cuts through the etching ground and exposes the copper plate. When the etching is finished the plate is put in a bath of acid, hydrocloric or nitric, the etching compound is impervious to the acid but the plate is not; wherever the copper shows through is is going to be eaten into, the deeper the line the blacker it will print. When the artist is through with this "biting" process, the etching ground is removed and the plate is ready for printing. This is accomplished by inking the plate surface, wiping it (which leaves only the ink in the lines etched into the surface, then placing a damp paper on it and running through the press, transferring the ink to the paper, creating an original.

LITHOGRAPHY

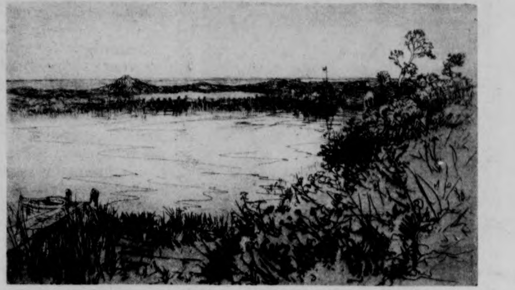
Lithography is a crayon drawing on stone. It is done in the same way you draw on paper with crayon. The crayon is composed partly of a greasy substance. The drawing is done on high quality limestone plates which absorb some of the crayon mark as the drawing is made. After completing a drawing the lithographer "fixes" the plate by dipping it in a weak solution of nitric acid, to set the drawing so it will resist fading during printing. A Print is made by moistening the surface with water, then rolling the plate with a greasy ink which will adhere only where the lines have been drawn. Finally the paper is placed and pressed.

ENGRAVING

Engraving is done on a copper plate as etching, but engraving work is done with a Burin, a V shaped gouge. This method of printing is the most tedious. A fine example of line etching is a dollar bill. The dollar, however, is done on steel for durabilities sake. Engraving was primarily used to interpret oil works in a black and white medium. To print, the engraver charges the plate with ink, wipes it leaving only the ink in engraved areas. A damp paper is then used and it is run through the roller.

WOODCUTTING

Woodcutting is done, oddly enough, on wood, with several sharp chisel shaped instruments on cross sections of close grained hard wood. You start by drawing the work in pencil, then cut away whatever is not to be receiving ink which leaves the work raised from the surrounding surface. This is then charged with ink and rolled to produce the original.



Courtery of: Don Snow's Gallery, Amherst.

Etching of Easthampton, Long Island by Ms. M. N. Moran, worth $9.50.

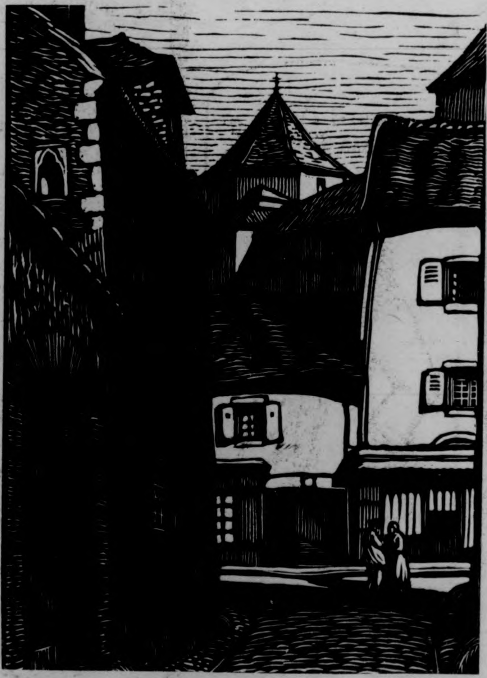
Whew, now that you're a qualified 30 second expert on all phases of print making; it's time to run out to your local Rare Book and Print Shop and spend $40 on a Huza Ruza original and find out that it's a factory reject from Railroad Salvage.

Now you're probably wondering, how do you know if you're getting an original instead of that RR Salvage special? Do some investigating of your own before you purchase a work. Forbes Library at Smith is one of the best in this area for information about prints. Our own 28 story whatsis has a decent selection on the subject. But you should find a reputable dealer to buy from. Sound out the person about their interests in prints, indicate that you are a novice but be subtle. Also indicate your budget, as it has been my experience with print and antique dealers in this area.

(They are a pretty good group of people who aren't out to screw you to the wall and are actually hard to get to stop once they get rambling on the subject.) Also, you need to find a dealer whose interests are near yours, this is where the person is likely to make good purchases. Collecting prints can be either something for your own enjoyment or it can be a lucrative investment. Works by Seymour Haden, Joseph Pennell, James A. McNeil Whistler and others have quadrupled in value in the last 10 years; from a few dollars at that time from $40 to $150 now. Prints can be purchased for $8 and up. One of the largest problems I have encountered is there are so many good pieces I like, that I end up hocking my shoes to buy them.

Usually prints you will purchase will be matted, which means they are in a cardboard frame with a colored border to minimize damage by dirty fingers and to set them off. You should have any works framed as soon as possible. It not only enhances their beauty, but it protects your prints. I have found that the simpler the frame the better, otherwise it leads your eye away from the work.

Finally, a word of caution, as a general rule stick to older works (pre 1930). These have been recognized and have available material and are going to increase in value more quickly than a recent work.



Courtesy of: Don Snow's Gallery, Amherst.

"La Rue Du Fort A Nevers", an original woodcut by F. Chalandie, worth $7.50.

APOSTOLA Cont'd

Yup folks, that was Nick Apostola on Page 1. After his craving for new blood we are glad that he's returned to his sweet former self.

Ed: Here's Johnny.

By Popular Demand
When are we going to see more of John Appleton, who appeared in After Dark, December 1971 issue?

S.W.A.P. "Piece with Honor"

by B. J. Roche

Somewhere in between last period class on Friday and that 9:05 on Monday morning, in Southwest there exists a social phenomena known as the Southwest party. At these cozy little gatherings, one has the opportunity to run into many types of people, some interesting, some pretty wiped out. And somewhere amidst the roaring of some raunchy band or recorded groanings of Mick Jagger, there may be someone who catches one's eye more than any of the other participants. This could be what is known as "the pickup", "scoop", or any other term, depending on the dialect of one's peers.

What I would like to discuss is not merely the quantity of such transactions, but quality. In order to regulate the high standards necessary to insure good pickups in this area, I would like to announce the birth of S.W.A.P., the Southwest Association of Pickups. For a mere five dollars per semester, a member gets all these benefits:

1) A complete rundown of each dorm in Southwest, whether it is fairly straight, coed, whatever. The rundown would also include a recent history of the dorm's parties, giving it a S.W.A.P. rating on each party, as well as a cumulative rating for the semester.

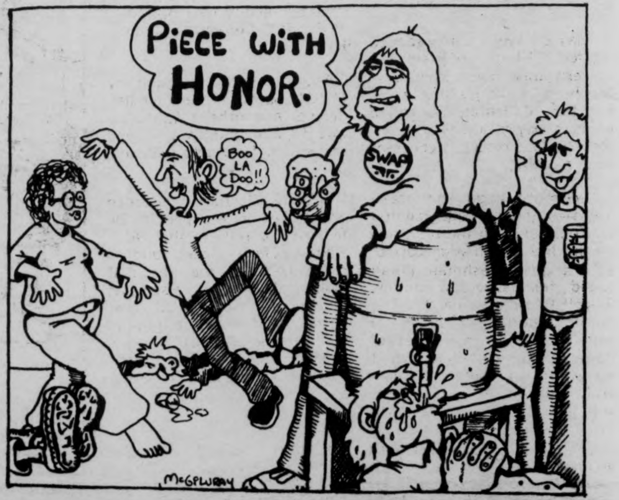
1) A weekly bulletin of what parties will be held where, and when. By Wednesday, you will be able to plan your scene, or choose the casual route of playing it by ear. One good way would be to close your eyes and point to one, and try your luck at whatever you point at.

3) Your own S.W.A.P. button to wear at parties, so people will know if you're up for grabs that night. Saves a lot of time and frustration. If you're out for a pick up, wear it proudly.

4) A S.W.A.P. guide to the quality pick up. This is worth the five dollar fee in itself. Its main idea is to provide something different in the way of picking up. For example, such lines as, "What's your major?", "Where are you from?" and "Have you heard the new Beatles' album?" are all old hat. It suggests new, creative ones, letting the reader use his ingenuity. Example: "Oh yeah, I really like cheese, too, in fact I even have a fondue set up in my room, would you like to go see it?" You get the idea...

Membership would be renewable by the semester, and wouldn't it be worth it to know that your weekend nights would be spent to their full capacity, ot getting to know the people who seem interesting?

To some, this may seem like a crude, crass idea, but then some people look upon picking up as a crass idea. Actually, by the social situation we have created for ourselves, sometimes, the pick up is the only method of meeting someone we would like to meet. Picking up people, like the Dining Commons, is an institution that probably will not leave us for a while. So why not do what the bureaucrats do? Regulate it! I may not sleaze, but I'll fight to the death for someone else's right to a quality sleaze. The S.W.A.P. motto? "Piece with honor."



PIECE WITH HONOR.
BOO LA DOO!!
SWAP
McGILURAY

BACK TO THE CAGE!!
U.Mass. Musical History
Flips a Page
as the concert committee
-- Presents --
DONNY HATHAWAY
and
CHICK COREA
Sunday, October 28, 1973 8:00 p.m.
CURRY HICKS CAGE
Tickets: $3.50 Available only to U.Mass. Undergrads.
On sale at Student Union Lobby Counter
Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Limit: 2 tickets/U.Mass. I.D.

Collegian Cub Reporter

by Sherman Boyson

Maybe I'm biting the hand that feeds my ego, but the ad the Collegian printed last Monday about getting people to join the MDC staff is just a little misleading. Monday's ad saying "Drop in anytime" makes it seem so simple, and it's not as easy as all that.

When I got the urge to write, I thought I might be able to work for the Collegian. I had three stories and figured I could show them to someone there for analysis of whether or not I had any talent. One problem arose — I realized that I didn't have the slightest idea where the Collegian office was.

That's when the search started. First, I tried the student telephone directory. Nowhere in it is there a listing for the Collegian. I called student information and got the expected result: a constant busy signal.

I remembered the story about joining the Collegian that was published in the big issue during the registration period. Like a good freshman I had saved the issue. In it Mr. Tripoli told me he needed me, but not where to go or who to call. Well, I figured a recent issue would have a location. I turned to the editorial pages and scanned the masthead with no results.

Then I got real smart. Call the editors themselves; they'll know what to do. After finding that the Editor-In-Chief, News Editor, and Business Manager lived off campus, I gave up on that.

In desperation I started searching through old Collegians for a clue. A stray article mentioned a second floor Student Union office, so I grabbed my stories and headed out

I had little trouble finding the office, but finding someone to notice me was a different story. There was only one guy in the office. He was on the phone and stayed there, ignoring me for over half an hour. I left after forty minutes, pretty mad and determined to write the Collegian a dirty letter.

But that night I changed my mind. I had never written before, and maybe I had no talent. But goddamn it, I'd make sure first before I gave up.

Sunday afternoon I returned and talked to a reporter. He told me to talk to the News Editor, Cindy Gonet, and to come back to see her that night. Ms. Gonet was just leaving as I returned. She waved goodbye and told me to talk to the Assistant News Editor. Of course, the assistant, Joan Fassnacht, wasn't in at the time.

I couldn't return that night, and tried to call Joan. I was cut off twice by the Collegian, and didn't try a third time.

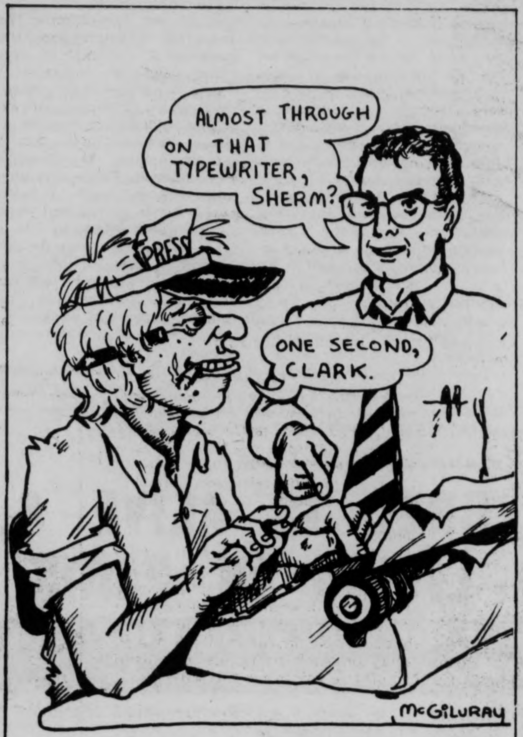
The next week I came in at different times, but always seemed to miss either Cindy or Joan. Finally, one Sunday night I got to talk with Joan and show her my stories.

Don't get me wrong. I'm not trying to discourage people from writing for the Collegian. I'm trying to make it easier to get on the staff by learning from my experience.

To the Collegian I suggest letting people (especially freshmen) know where you are and how to reach you. Maybe the reason you don't have too many freshmen writers is that they can't find you. I realize you are busy, but take some time to talk to them. Maybe part of UMASS's apathy comes from the fact that the students were stifled as freshmen.

To my classmates: If you want to write, then push. Grab an editor, talk to him, and make him listen. Go to the Collegian office — Room 406, Second Floor of the Student Union — or call them at 545-2550. Go after supper; and you'll have a better chance of finding someone to talk to. Bring samples of your work. Make copies of them just in case they get lost. The library is loaded with copying machines.

Do it. You won't believe the satisfaction you get from seeing your name in print. It's great.



ALMOST THROUGH ON THAT TYPEWRITER, SHERM?
PRESS
ONE SECOND, CLARK.
McGILURAY

DELTA CHI FRATERNITY invites all SOUTHWEST MEN
for
"BRUNCH AND BLOODY MARYS ON US"
WE MAY BE No. 2, BUT OUR MARYS ARE THE BLOODIEST, AND OUR BROTHERHOOD THE BEST.
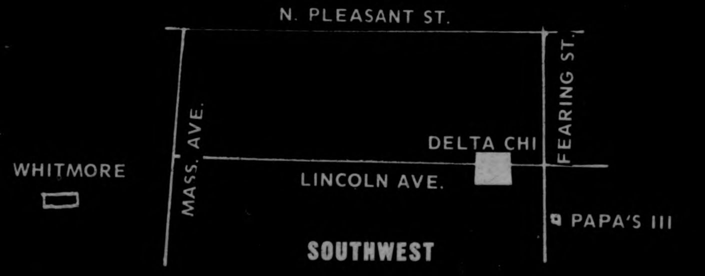
SAT., OCT. 13 11:30 a.m. 314 LINCOLN AVE. 545-0195



Books

Summer Before The Dark

The Summer Before the Dark
by Doris Lessing

by Ed Smith

Doris Lessing has been writing fine prose for a very long time. Until the not too distant past though, few readers outside of closed literary circles were aware of her. This has hopefully been remedied now and her newest book, The Summer Before the Dark, should receive the attention it deserves. It is by no means a novel which incorporates all of Ms. Lessing's finest points; it rather deals with a particular problem of a particular woman.

That woman is Kate Brown, an upper middle-class Londoner. She has been an attentive mother to her children and a faithful wife to her husband for twenty or more years. In return for her loyalty she is treated as an amusing throwback to the middle-ages by her children. They humor her attempts to please them and whisper among themselves that she is going through menopause. Her husband takes longer trips to America every year where he amuses himself with younger women.

The substance of the novel is how she breaks away from this situation and the role associated with it. A friend of her husband's offers a job as an interpreter with the Global Food organization. As the story progresses, she takes the job and eventually finds herself in Instanbul as a hostess for the organization. When the convention she is working with breaks up, Kate Brown has three months to do with as she pleases, for her family has deserted London for the summer.

She meets in Instanbul a young American with whom she travels to Spain. At the beginning of the relationship, it appears they will be lovers on a summer holiday. The situation soon changes. The young man takes sick and ends up being cared for in a convent in a small inland village of Spain. Once again she finds herself unwillingly cast into the role of attentive mother. After allowing herself to play that role for a couple of weeks, she too is taken sick and returns to London.

In a hotel room in London, Kate goes through a physical transformation. After a tew weeks in sickness, she recovers to find herself a changed women. Her body has gone from being sleek and well-curved to being skin and bones. Her face has become gaunt and haggard. Her hair, once a rich, luxurious red and the aspect of her appearance about which she was most proud, has become a wispy grey. As one reads of her physical changes, there is a definite hint that a mental change shall occur as well.

After recovering, Kate finds herself with six more weeks to "enjoy" before her family returns. She rents a room in a London flat and lives there with a girl named Maureen. Maureen is the same age as one of Kate's daughters and through her Ms. Lessing shows the extent of the change in Kate Brown. She develops with Maureen and other-than-mother relationship and the two help each other with their problems. She returns home at the end of the book, but one never sees her confront her family. One gets the idea though that she will make them realize that this is not the "new" Kate, but rather the "real" Kate and they had better accept it.

Ms. Lessing does not complicate her writing with unbridled use of symbolism and metaphor. She uses these devices sparingly and poignantly. Throughout the book Kate's dreams are used as a connector for the widely differing scenes. The dream she discusses involves a seal which Kate is trying to bring to the sea. The dream reoccurs, especially during periods of extreme stress. Just before returning home, in her dream she reaches the sea and the seal is saved. The dream incorporates her journey towards an end she is not sure of and eventually ends on an optimistic note. Hopefully, Kate's family accepts her back as gratefully as the sea does the seal.

There is not a great deal of comment on social conditions in this book, as might be found in other books by this writer. The only place where extensive comment is made is when Kate is in the run-down Spanish village. There the contrast of a rich woman, who's chief problem is one of identity is sharply marked against a town of people who's chief problem is eating. Somehow though Kate's dilema is not lessened or cheapened in the juxtaposition. Rather the reader sees both problems as ones of almost equal severity. Another social problem could be said to be the situation of all women who are, like Kate Brown, stifled by their children and husbands. However, in this novel the problem and the attempted solution are presented in a very personal way that would prohibit its interpretation as a general predicament.

UMASS. DEPT. OF THEATRE
We've something you should see . . .
JACQUES BREL IS ALIVE & WELL & LIVING IN PARIS
. . . AND CAN BE SEEN OCT. 12 & 13 (Fri. & Sat.)
for $$1^{00}$ plus this ad plus Student I.D.
Box Office opens at 6:00 p.m. Performance 8:00 p.m.
BARTLETT AUDITORIUM
For info call 545-2579, 1-5 p.m., Mon. - Fri.

YOU ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN 32 HOUR CONTINUOUS 1¢ SALE
GOOD-BY SPIRO
10 AM FRI. ALL NITE THRU 6 PM SAT.
BUY ONE PAIR OF PANTS AT OUR REG. PRICE AND GET THE 2ND PAIR OF EQUAL VALUE FOR ONLY: 1¢
ALSO: HOURLY SPECIAL SALES ON: EVERYTHING
BOOTS @2AM LACED PURSES JACKETS @3AM RINGS @NOON
PESANT TOPS @4AM SWEATERS
TURTLENECKS TOPS @8PM
BELTS @MIDNITE + MUCH MORE COMPLETE SALE LISTINGS AT:
COME TO: CLIMAX
DO IT IN THEE ALLEY NORTH OF THE POLICE STATION

the New Shakespeare Company

The Theatre is the only human institution that mirrors our insanities, our greatness, our ugliness and beauty, our hates and our loves. Through images, impressions poetry, through the personalities of the actors, Shakespeare gives us the power to generate ideas, feed the imagination, challenge the platitudes, come to grips with the lies, conventions, and hypocrisy in our lives and to reveal the truth.

The New Shakespeare Company San Francisco is 25 actors and technicians, who work together to create their idea of Theatre Today — Shakespeare Today. They are guided and inspired by their passionate conviction that live theatre CAN help to change the climate of the country.

The New Shakespeare Company has been performing for more than five years. Hundreds of performances have been given not only in their own theatre in San Francisco but also in high schools, colleges, universities, and other theatres; and during the past two years in Golden Gate Park.

A Midsummer Night's Dream will be presented Tuesday, October 16. Please see Page 11 ad for details.

HEY FOLKS
Let's bring some real fine entertainment to this campus, what say? We've got the money, you come and help spend it – on what you want to. I'd call that a bargain
COME — work with the Program Council Social Committee.
SUNDAY 7:30 p.m. C.C. 168-170
Our 1st event: Clean Living and NRBQ in a gala hoop-dee-doo shindig. Dance the night to pieces.
FRIDAY, OCT. 19th Campus Center Auditorium

SIR MORGAN'S COVE
139 Green Street Worcester, Ma. 753-4376
THIS WEEK:
Howlin Wolf
Matinee Sunday, 4pm
Coming Next Week: Mose Allison
COMING:
James Cotton Harry James
Muddy Waters Buddy Rich
Brian Auger Willie Dixon
($1 off with this ad Fri. & Sat.; ½ price with student ID Sun. & Mon.)

The Handi-crafter

By Ed Cohen

The University of Massachusetts mirrors all of the complexity found in the world today. It is a relief to know that there are places to go and things to do to relieve the entrapment in that complexity. One place is the Craft Workshop, located across from the Hatch, in the Student Union.

The Craft Workshop is a non profit place, designed to give students an alternative to the university, a place to blow off a little steam, and a way to cope with their creative urge: The workshop is run by a supervisor, Penny Worman, and three assistants; Bear (knickname) Acker, Robert Martin, and Marion Abrams Morningstar. It's open from 10 - 8, Monday - Friday, and 10 - 4 on Saturday, featuring jewelry making, leather-work, pottery and photography, stained glass, silk screen and block printing, and candle making. This year there will be seminars in Batik and making sheepskin outerwear.

The history of the workshop dates back to the existence of a semi-successful RSO group called the Craft Guild; a small club with officers and meetings, populated with dedicated craftsmen who made things to sell. They foresaw a basic need for a craft workshop, wrote up a prospectus, and presented it to the proper administrative authorities. It was approved and the Guild got the space which belonged to the old bookstore and where the workshop now is located. It was started early in the spring of 1971, but did not become cohesive until after the present supervisor was hired.

Penny, a commercial artist and technical illustrator was joined in fall of 1972 by her present staff. Marion, hired primarily as a bookkeeper, has since gained proficiency in jewelry-making, leather, and pottery. Bear, an industrial arts teacher in high school, and a grad student at UMass in the Masters program in wood technology was pumping gas at night. "I became interested in it," Bear related, "not because I was freezing my ass off pumping gas and it was in my area, but I was living in a dorm at the time and saw it as a good thing." Robert Martin, also an industrial arts teacher, commercial artist and painter by profession, heard about the job through an ad and was hired.

Though all have their specialties, they are familiar with the major crafts, and work together to promote a friendly, helpful atmosphere in the workshop.

Since the Craft Workshop has begun, it has experienced surprisingly few of the hassles one would expect.

Penny added, "The financing comes from student fees. I make up a budget in the spring each year and it's always been passed 100 percent. The Student Activities Office which overlooks this place is just as cooperative. Since I'm absolutely hopeless at keeping books, they do a lot of that for me. We just do the minimal stuff here... The maintenance people bring me wood and things. They let kids go down there and use their tools if we don't have one here; they let us take nails, I mean really nice and helpful, no hassles at all."

The only real problem has been with supplies. Last year, four times as many supplies were used. There are no supply houses in Amherst, so they must be ordered from Boston, New York, or St. Louis. Supplies are hard to anticipate, because a needed shipment of leather dye, or buckles will be several weeks late in arriving. The cost of the materials for students is a little above cost, since, as in leather work, snaps and dyes are not paid for, or as in silver, where the solder and flux are not bought separately.

The people who come in to work on their crafts see unstructured environment where no one is forced to produce and where the only person benefiting from the experience is himself. The students range from shy to outgoing, from inexperienced to experienced. But all are enveloped in a healthy atmosphere of people helping people.

The open environment, follows the concept of what the ancient Greek University would have been like: "It's like a free school," says Robert Martin, "totally non-structured." The equipment and the people with the background knowledge are there, not to stuff something down you, but to be there whenever you run into limitations."

The Craft Workshop probably is the only place on campus where a non-art major has access to craft tools and materials, since it's very difficult for a non-art major to take studio courses in the art department.

"There are a lot of kids that come in and just make a couple of things, and it really does them a lot of good," said Marion. "You can see that it's good for them. Most of them don't think they can make anything. Anybody can make a simple belt. It gives them a feeling of accomplishment."

Seeing week to week building of confidence and independance is one joy. But part art work unless criticism is asked for. "I take art department courses," said Marion, "and a lot of times a professor will say, 'That's not good; that's missing something; and it sort of dulls the creative urge because you've been criticized... but here they most often only hear positive things, because if it's not good, they do away with it." However, sometimes it can be more than just an independance and confidence builder.

I see something that a lot of people don't see," Bear said. "It's a sort of manual therapy as much as anything for a campus type of life where the kids don't really have a chance to blow off the right kind of steam. They can tie on a drunk, or they can play handball, or tennis, or throw the football around or something like that, but don't really get a chance to use their hands with their eye-mind-hand coordination. And this is the thing that gets to a lot of anxiety; it's a soothing thing.

For instance, somebody may come in and finally conquer the basics of that craft. Are there facilities there for further advancement? Bob answered, "I worked in a head shop making jewelry and leather goods, and the equipment available here is better and more abundant than it was there. And I was working in a professional capacity."

"This craft shop is better than any other that I've seen at other Universities. I've worked at Tulaine University in New Orleans, and I've worked at Louisiana State in Baton Rouge and the systems were much more rigid and geared toward a polished kind of production rather than an improvisational atmosphere."

The only disheartening period of the workshop's history foreshadowed what could happen if it became too large, came before Christmas vacation last year. During the week before the semester ended there was a mixture of confusion as students sought to finish up their holiday gifts. Many of the tools were stolen then.

"We were without tools for a month. Then the idea came that we'll ask for I.D.'s and then give out tools," said Penny. I tried that for about two weeks but I can't do that. I don't want to be a policeman. I said that I'd look everybody in the eye and say, "don't take it, we need it," and we haven't lost anything since.

"We've had some trouble with rip-offs," Bear commented, "and I say that things are borrowed because I don't think that the people take them. I think that they take them with the idea that they will bring them back as soon as they're done with them, but of course it's easier than to bring them back. It's just part of the human enigma that people use. But the kids who don't have anything to work with when they want get indignant that someone has ripped them off.

The problem with University education, is that it's too long a range concept. People take courses, do papers, without seeing into the future and without knowing if that three weeks spent on a term paper will be of some future use.

"You can't really use a term paper to hold up your pants," said Bear. "It's a lot different than running up against something where you're a small cog in a big wheel today. What can you dream of being alone? Alone you can make a belt, alone you can make something for yourself. You're more independent. You don't have to go out and buy it. You feel you have some worth, you have done something."

How does making something change a person's outlook on life? Basically, one who makes something acquires a sensitivity toward commercial items. Someone makes a belt, goes into a store, and sees the same item selling for a lot more. That person must ask the question, "How can they do that?" Because that person made it cheaply in reality, that item is truly priceless, because that person made it, and it contains part of them. A reverence is gained for handmade items and utilitarian artistry.

"This might sound unrealistic," said Bear, "but if this happened on a one to one basis and enough people do this, then national and local industry has got to start listening to a protest that is not a protest at all, but a non-saleable item. "I started thinking about how does industry really know how much of an item to make. When you look at a documentary film on a conveyor belt, try to think of how can the country use that many of that item. It almost makes you think they must be storing them up some place. Apparently they don't sit that long in the warehouses, not over six months, anyway. So they are being consumed at a tremendous rate. Now, I wonder, just how they can keep the pulse beat on the supply needs, and how do you slow that down? You can't go back in time, yet you fear the future. Well, this is going to worsen, we're going to use up more resources. But it is what it shall be."

Some people call UMass big business, but the school represents society. Joan Baez once remarked that Universities turn out ping-pong balls, and one reason is people fail to ask questions, or feel that as individuals they can do nothing. The craft workshop allows people not only to ask questions, but to gain important answers. Even if these lie in a home-made pair of boots.

Bear concluded: "I think this is something that can be seen as an alternative to dissent and violent revolution. It's a personal revolution, in fact, it's almost a revelation.

As far as building your own house, starting your own

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $$2^{95}$

Time Warp Descends on Mt. Holyoke

900 Casualties

$2700 Missing

by Jon Carr

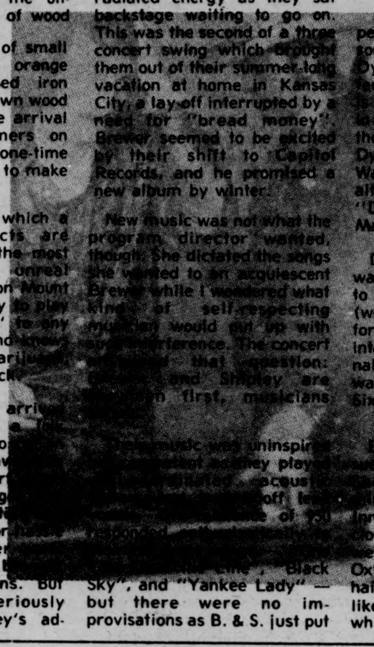
In Concert:
Brewer & Shipley
Mt. Holyoke College
Oct. 5

Brewer or Shipley?

Everything was against them to start with. Mount Holyoke's Chapin Hall is an old wooden auditorium of 1300 seats divided between a level floor and a ring of box balconies which look like they date back to the days of Abe Lincoln's assassination. The stage itself leans against a wall, frightened by the uncomprehending mass of wood upon which it stares.

Backstage a series of small rooms, tortured by orange stucco walls, exposed iron pipes, and scuffed brown wood furniture, wait for the arrival of unknown performers on their way up or one-time celebrities still trying to make a go of things.

And the audience which a Chapin Hall attracts are college students for the most part, afflicted by unreal perceptions based upon Mount Holyoke wealth, ready to play the part of "hippies" to any certified rock star who knows the right words — marijuana, revolution, Tricky Dick.



Brewer and Shipley arrived while David James, a folk group which has yet to [illegible] album, were playing a[illegible] first hour of the concert [illegible] the program director g[illegible] her initial thrill of meeting live rock stars, a minor [illegible] arose over Brewer [illegible] Shipley's not having [illegible] any back-up musicians. But this problem mysteriously evaporated at Shipley's admission of ignorance of the contract.

Neither Brewer or Shipley radiated energy as they sat backstage waiting to go on. This was the second of a three concert swing which brought them out of their summer-long vacation at home in Kansas City, a lay-off interrupted by a need for "bread money". Brewer seemed to be excited by their shift to Capitol Records, and he promised a new album by winter.

New music was not what the program director wanted, though. She dictated the songs she wanted to an acquiescent Brewer while I wondered what kind of self-respecting musician would put up with such interference. The concert [illegible] that question: Brewer and Shipley are [illegible] first, musicians [illegible]

[illegible] music was uninspired [illegible] as they played [illegible] acoustic [illegible] off [illegible] of 950 responded [illegible] "Black Sky", and "Yankee Lady" — but there were no improvisations as B. & S. just put out the standard radio versions. The audience was getting what it wanted.

Brewer and Shipley's best performance came on two songs made famous by Bob Dylan, Blind Lemon Jefferson's "See that my Grave is Kept Clean", which they did in a folk manner reminiscent of the old Brothers Four, and Dylan's own "All Along the Watchtower", rhythmically altered and sung in the Byrds' "Drug-Store Truck Driving Man" style.

Detracting from the music was their cliche-ridden patter to an audience which loved it (were they masochists?). I forced myself to listen in the interest of responsible journalism, falling into a time warp sucking me back into the Sixties.

Brewer scored his first success by relating how he and Shipley were refused admittance to the Yankee Pedlar Inn that night because of their clothes (at concert time they were wearing blue jeans, Oxford shirts, and short, styled hair). Brewer's "But I don't like how they dress, old men in white shoes" drew great applause. His second triumph came from a reference to dope, and his third attempt produced great hilarity at "Tricky Dick's" expense. Brewer's stage talk probably hasn't changed in years.

He knows his audience, though, and the concert ended with thunderous applause.

Photos by Kevin Mack

Shipley or Brewer?

As the photographer and I were leaving we walked out with the road manager. "They were great, they were great" he kept repeating as we faded into the night.

Is This a Planet of Life?

DO YOU WANT A BETTER JOB?
IF SO...
READ THIS CAREFULLY!

Crazy Eyes — Poco (Epic KE 32354)

Called in to clean up Poco's act were Jack Richardson and Bob Ezrin from Alice Cooper's clean Ta-DUM Nimbus 9 production, and they've done their job well. By putting a pinch more of dynamics and some sanely-placed strings in the right places, Robinson and Ezrin have presented, or at least forestalled, the creeping boredom of same old bouncy 'niceness' that each Poco album finds itself awash in.

In the biggest coincidence of the year, "Crazy Eyes" seems to be a freakish tribute to the recently departed Gram Parsons, but although they do play Gram's "Brass Buttons" on here, both tunes were written in 1969, so put this one down to eerie timing, and a liberal interpretation of the song.

"Blue Water", "Let's Dance Tonight", and "A Right Along" are quite fine in any respect. B

— Mike Kostek

The Joker — Steve Miller Band (Capitol SMAS 11235)

If I had to review this album in two words, those words would be: (1) Ho and (2) Hum.

I'm disappointed. Steve Miller is a musician and composer of no little talent who has put out excellent if somewhat spacey albums in the past, but when I first heard this new release my immediate reaction was to check the label to see if I hadn't been slipped a J. Geils by mistake. Everything I liked about his work, the tasty guitar and harp, the soaring vocals and those wonderful weird harmonies are missing. Instead, we have a bunch of old rock and blues progressions, monotonous vocals, and lyrics that sound as if they were written in their entirety in one fifteen-minute sitting at the studio.

The main fault of this album is one of omission. They're just plain and simple wasn't enough work put in to it and the album suffers accordingly. However, the album is not without redeeming factors: (1) There are two live cuts, 'Come on in my Kitchen' and 'Evil' that almost revitalize the old Miller sound, and (2) you can dance to it. C

Photos of Ghosts — Premiata Forneria Marconi (Manticore MC 66668)

Here is Italy's first entry into the field of 'serious' rock and surprisingly, it's not bad. I'd label them a mixture of Moody Blues and Emerson, Lake, and Palmer but PFM doesn't mix the styles of these two groups — they alternate them. It's somewhat unnerving to keep jumping back and forth between pure classical music, the classically derived rock of E, L, & P, and the pretentious lyrics and multi-Muzak of the Moodys. One also gets the impression that someone else translated their lyrics into English for them and taught them to the group phonetically — perhaps the lyrics would have been excusable if sung in the original and a printed translation had been enclosed with the album.

As mentioned above, the album is exceedingly erratic, and in places it strangles itself with attempts to be arty but it is over-all quite listenable and contains some moments of surprising power and grace. C+

— St. Andrew

Two Columbia acts have released important second albums. Looking Glass has Subway Serenade which further establishes them as a tight and solid unit. Besides the single "Jimmy Loves Mary-Anne", a sure winner, there's the lovely ballad "Who's Gonna Sing My Rock 'n' Roll Song"; "Rainbow Man" and "Wait" make for the best of side two. When a group can combine good material with credible performances, the results are always startling, and that's the story behind Looking Glass. Remember the name. B+

Albert Hammond, meanwhile, continues along the middle-of-the-road lines of last year's It Never Rains in Southern California with his new one, The Free Electric Band. In spite of his flair for over-dramatics, and some cringingly awful lyrics, the album does provide for some entertaining moments. My favorite is the ballad "Rebecca", with the lilting "Woman of the World" not far behind. Potential here, also. B minus

---

Dory Previn has released a double album from her Carnegie Hall appearance earlier this year (United Artists) and it's worth your while, especially if she's a new name to you. The album contains cuts from Dory's previous four albums as well as a few new tunes. Dory's music is not for everybody: it is melancholic and sparse, with frequent touches of irony pathos. What we have here is a female Tom Rapp. Also check out her last studio album Mary C. Brown and the Hollywood Sign — definitely one of the year's ten best. A minus

---

Ramatam, noted for their gifted guitarist April Lawton, have their second album out, In April Came The Dawning of the Red Suns (Atlantic). These guys, it just happens, play some of the finest orchestrated wooden music these ears have heard in a while, and these numbers alone: "The Land", "Rainy Sunday Evening", "Autumn Now" (which sounds uncannily like Traffic's "Don't Be Sad") and "Bounty On My Table", are enough to make this a pleaser. The album's other half is heavy-metal jobbers and if I can stop playing the acoustic stuff, I'll one day listen to them! B

Aretha's Hey Now Hey (The Other Side of the Sky) (Atlantic) once again reminds us that Aretha's singing is the finest around. The album combines up-tempo stuff with the just the right amount of ballads, of which "Angel" is, by far, the best. Once again, that winning combination of good songs and great performances. B plus

---

Raspberries have a new one out, Side 3, (Capitol) which features the affected singing of Eric Carmen, who does the best McCartney since Emmet Rhodes. Carmen is the main presence of Raspberries; he writes the singles as well as "I Reach for the Light" from last year's Fresh. The high points of Side 3 are his: "On the Beach", a real stunner, and the single, "Tonight". The remainder unfortunately, does not impress. C plus

---

Eric Clapton's Rainbow Concert (RSO) is getting a lot of flack from critics, but these ears hear the best version yet of "Badge" (Eric's singing here is masterful) and "Presence of the Lord" which, if I'm not mistaken, features some Winwood-Townshend vocal interplay. "Pearly Queen" is given an exhaustive go-around and "Little Wing" has its moments also. Do we really need another take of "After Midnight"? B minus

---

Larry Coryell has taken to singing again and with The Real Great Escape (Vanguard) one asks the musical question "Why didn't he do more before?" The results are satisfying: Side two is super fine with Jim Webb's "P.F. Sloan" and Larry's own "Makes Me Wanna Shout" making for the highs, along with another Webb tune "All My Love's Laughter". As always, the guitar playing is impeccable. He'll be in the area in December and it should be nice. B plus

---

Lastly, the Grateful Dead have a new single just out on their own label, logically, Grateful Dead Records. A Hunter-Garcia tune "Here Comes Sunshine" (4:47) is backed by a Hunter-Godchaux number "Let Me Sing Your Blues Away" (3:15). This is the first studio Dead in a long, long time and the results, as always are delightful. B

— Steve Feld

Books are dying out. Listen to records.

PERFECT PATIO PICNIC
Hobo Burger Buns
Barbecue Baked Beans
Perfection Salad Cheese Cubes
Cold Watermelon

Put your patio picnic in the gourmet class with Hobo Burger Buns. Your guests will rave over this tasty burger creamy filling, moistened and sparked with sour cream and seasonings. For a popular family version of this recipe, substitute your favorite Sloppy Joe recipe for the creamy burger filling.

Singing Ink

Lou Reed's Finely Drawn Chronicle

By David Miller

Berlin
Lou Reed
RCA APL1-0207
Total Playing Time: 49:23

"... But what of the whole glitterglam crowd that Lou courted so fervently in Transformer, isn't his persona in Berlin one of them? 'This is going to totally destroy them, I told people I was gonna do that. They throw me in so many categories,' Lou sighed. 'This one will show them I'm not kidding...' ."

—Rolling Stone, 9-27-73

Mmmm, indeed. This is the album to show you why we use the word "decadence" to indicate a certain condition, and not, say, "cheerfulness" or "enlightenment"...

It's a long road from the Summer of Love up until now, and what seems to have happened is that a certain portion of our subculture, after making the disappointing discovery that evil can't be fought with flowers alone, gave up on the question entirely. Right? Wrong? Who cares? And so we have Berlin , not composed by some "vindictive non-drinker", but Lou Reed, of the Velvet Underground and glitter, a man who ought to know what he's talking about. This album is heavy with tragedy, dense, and (yes) Germanic. No party tape, but possibly the best rock album of the year.

Berlin. The title song opens amid a grotesque roar which proves to be the sounds of a birthday party in progress. Out of this emerges some exquisite quiet cocktail piano music, played by Allan Macmillan. The narrator, the only speaker on the album, sets up a somewhat idyllic scene; "In Berlin by the wall—You were five foot ten inches tall— It was very nice— Candlelight and Dubonnet on ice... Oh honey it was paradise."

Lady Day. The woman likes singing in bars when she hears the music coming from them. "She had to go in and sing— It had to be that way." But something is wrong; as she goes back to her hotel with "... greenish walls— A bathroom in the hall.— I said no,no,no,— Oh, Lady Day..". The song is marked by rhythmically eccentric verses and a chorus sounding as if it came directly from The Three-Penny Opera, complete with bass trombone.

Men of Good Fortune. The narrator steps out of the action for a moment and notices that both men of "good fortune" and "poor beginnings" are able to do both everything and nothing, and die both because of what they want and what they are. But he doesn't relate to it; he just watches. The instrumentation here is stark-keyboard and bass centered, with a subtle use of very slow reverb.

Caroline Says I. The couple's relationship has begun to deteriorate, but not yet much beyond the "tacky" level; they play games and use each other. "The things she does, the things she says— People shouldn't treat others that way... But to me she's still a German Queen." The song moves and closes with an extended instrumental, the rhythm and bass contrasting with the more "classical" reeds and flutes. It segues directly into How Do You Think It Feels, a truly savage song. Things are coming apart badly; "How do you think it feels— When you've been up for five days— Hunting around always— 'Cause you're afraid of sleeping." Reed's voice gets dissipation into every syllable. The number begins quietly but builds with the addition of instruments until the final explosion, with rhythm, high and low brasses, and guitars working in a counterpoint that will crumble your skeleton.

Oh Jim. The narrator has found a solution to his frustration — "Beat her black and blue and get it straight." The instrumentation for the song is based on a single throbbing electronic pulse, like the narrator's hatred at the breaking point.

Side Two opens with Caroline Says II, "Caroline says — as she gets up from the floor— You can hit me all you want to, but I don't love you anymore." Here we find out that "She's not afraid to die," but nobody is considering the possibility that her death might be nothing more than a self-inflicted, utter waste. From here on the apathy of the narrator is complete; he speaks words intended to carry some feeling, but there is nothing behind them. This song, like the first three of the second side, is slow and acoustic-based.

The Kids. The woman's children are taken away from her, "Because she was making it with sisters and brothers... and all of the drugs she took, every one, every one...". In the middle instrumental section, we become gradually aware of the voices of young children crying and screaming, "Mommy! MOMMY!", an incredibly moving thing if you're in the right mood. This is the only moment of real humanity on the album, but the narrator is definitely relieved by this turn of events; "I am such happier this way."

The Bed. The woman commits suicide, and the narrator refers with equal coldness to the places where the children were conceived, where she kept her poetry, and where she slashed her wrists. The unreality of the cut is supported by a ghostly chorus reminiscent of Ligeti's choral music on the 2001 soundtrack. But never mind, the thing is over, and the narrator extricates himself neatly in Sad Song. Not a sad song at all, but a majestic, baroque, conclusion, from the woodwind trio to the chorus which repeats "Sad Song, Sad Song" and winds up sounding like "Hey Jude".

Check out the graphics and photographs which accompany the lyrics sheet, and how lavish and sumptuous the scenes appear — everything in the height of taste. Whether or not Berlin "destroys" glitter — and I'm really not all that sure that it deserves it — Lou Reed has given us a finely drawn chronicle of what happens to a society forced to improve its outer shell because it has no inner life at all.

"... If Tony Glover thinks those early Stones pix look quaint now, wait'll he fixes his orbs on the glitter crew in 18 months."

—letter to Rolling Stone, 9-27-73

Concert Reviews, Area Music and Gink

In Concert:
Duke Ellington
Bowker Auditorium
University of Massachusetts
4 October 1973

Duke Ellington, the living legend, musical giant, and as Max Roach described him, the greatest single contributor to Black Culture over the past 100 years, paid tribute to himself and his history on October 4, by performing music which transcends age and time. Although 74 years of age, the Duke displayed a youthful vigor which is lacking in a lot of people half his age. Above all, his capacity to appeal so deeply to people of all ages is stunning.

From the openning notes of "C Jam Blues", we were all at Duke's Place, and everyone knew it. His mere presence was enough to satisfy those in the audience, and there was an indescribable and undeniable feeling that there was greatness in our midst. To see Ellington moving about as he conducted his band, to listen to him introduce his musicians and his compositions, and finally to listen to his music, immortal classics like "Creole Love Call", "Satin Doll", "Sophisticated Lady", and "Rockin' in Rhythm" and to realize that through hardships and bad times, some of these songs have been around for almost fifty years, was just a moving and spiritual experience. (I doubt that many people will even remember today's rock heroes fifty years hence).

The show itself was varied and didn't let up once from start to finish. Despite the brilliance of his individual musicians and singers Anita Moore and Tony Watkins, the concert and the evening belonged to Duke, the arranger, composer, band leader and musician, whose ability to reach those of all races and ages is awesome. His music is universal and truly, he speaks the universal language. Duke Ellington's appearance at the University of Massachusetts was no less than musical history, and those present lived part of that history. Those who missed the concert missed something very important.

——— David Sokol

In Concert:
Home Cookin'
Bluewall, Oct. 5

For those of you interested in seeing a good, tight local rock band, one of your best bets would be to see Home Cookin', which played last Friday night at the Bluewall.

It's one of the few groups in the area featuring a full horn section, which helps to achieve the hard, driving sound that keeps audiences up and dancing.

Most of the eight musicians in Home Cookin' are former members of Milestone, a now defunct Top-40 band that was well known in the Springfield area. The band's material is no longer Top-40, but would fall into the category of music that most of the more progressive groups attempt to play (you can give your own label to it).

The front sax man, who also provides many of the vocals, has good stage presence; his easy manner with the crowd encourages audience participation and creates a friendly atmosphere.

All the members of Home Cookin' contribute musical ideas that get the band cooking (sorry about that) at just the right moment. It is a mechanical precision, though, not spontaneity, and it makes me wonder if they sound the same every time they play.

At any rate, Home Cookin' has its material down, from Bill Withers to Johnny Winter. Why don't you give 'em a listen?

Ken Blanchard

Mike:

I went to the James Montgomery concert. It was so bad I walked out after his third song. There is really nothing that I can write about it because my head really hurts whenever I think about the concert. However, I do have photos for whatever that's worth. Sorry.

Joyce

In Concert:
NRBQ
Rusty Nail, Oct. 3 & 4

Even the feet of the Kibitzer, Mr. Vodka and Captain Equinox were moved to a flat foot frency as NRBQ made a most bequiling frenzy to the Nail.

Wednesday night was Musicians Night with Clean Livers, Real Tears and sundry others lurching about. Music editors old and new were hanging from the rafters, along with a few other quirks

Thursday was the better night for music as the BQs felt really good and hit their stride with things like Sun Ra's "Approaching The Planet" and Al Anderson's "I Just Want To Have You Back Again" leading the way. Even Chance Wayne showed up (right from Vegas), but he didn't sing his hit "Give Chance A Piece". He did bring down the house with an unbelievable rendition of "Somewhere Over The Rainbow".

Their versa-tune-atility was constantly in evidence as they ranged from true rock 'n' roll to showy thirty second musical time bombs.

Despite a major sore throat, Anderson put his all into "It's Not So Hard" and his own "And When She Smiles" as Terry Adams directed the show masterfully. Their 'put down your drink and dance' style is a most refreshing change from the more commonplace need to dig a band through an alcoholic fog.

Both nights were a squeeze as a surprising number found their way out on the two week night dates. They'll be here on the 19th and back at the Nail in November. Miss them, and you'll just be sustaining your lifelong mediocrity.

——Kostek & Sokol

LOCAL MUSIC

Clean Living — Oct. 17 & 18, Rusty Nail.
Seagull — Oct. 12 & 13, The Hatch;
Goodfriend Cotote — Oct. 12, 13, 14, Rusty Nail.
Some of My Best Friends — Oct. 13, The Pub.
Doc Sullivan — Oct. 12 (3 - 6 p.m.), 14 (4-8 p.m.), 18, The Pub.
Inside Outside -- Oct. 13, Amherst College (Theta Zi).
Billy Whyte — Oct. 16, The Pub.
Willow — Oct. 12, 13, 18, Rusty Scupper.
Auditions — Oct. 15, Rusty Scupper.
Jimmy — Oct. 14, Rusty Scupper.
Synthisis — Oct. 16, Rusty Scupper.
Sloth — Oct. 17, 18, Bluewall.
Henry May Band — Oct. 12, 13, Bluewall.
D. J. — Oct. 12, The Pub.

Sokol's Greatest Hits

THE HOLLIES GREATEST HITS (Epic KE 32061)
THE LAST FIVE YEARS — RICK GRECH (RSO SO 876)
SLADEST — SLADE (Reprise MS 2173)
BEST OF PROCOL HARUM (A & M SP 4401)

by David Sokol

Ostensibly, "Greatest Hits" collections give record companies the chance to make a good deal of money without the expenses of studio time, and give record consumers the opportunity to pick up on what is considered to be the "best of" a particular artist in one compact package. Though imagination is usually lacking on the part of the people who compile "hits" collections, occasionally a gem will be released featuring never-before released tunes or "collectors items" as well as the performers best known material. Kinks Kronikles could likely be the high water mark of these collections.

Over the past month, four different kinds of rock collections have been released, each of which is worthy of merit and mention. The most commercial of these, and surely the one which will sell the best is a new collection of the Hollies Greatest Hits, featuring material which spans the entire gamut of Hollies' recordings from their earliest days with Graham Nash right up to the recent "Long Dark Road" and "Long Cool Woman in a Black Dress." Every song on this record made the national singles charts which is something most "greatest hits" collections can't boast. "Look Through Any Window", "Bus Stop", "On A Carousel", "He Ain't Heavy, He's my Brother", and "Carrie-Ann", they're all here, Hollies fans rejoice. Play it again, Eloise.

A completely different kind of collection is Rick Grech's The Last Five Years. Once called a rock clod among Rock Stars, Grech jumped into the big time, head first by joining Blind Faith. Before that he played with Family, and since then he's worked with Ginger Baker's Airforce and Traffic. Like History of Eric Clapton and Duane Allman's Anthology, Last Five Years doesn't feature hit after hit, but instead gives an overview of what the artist has been up to. Included here are the Grech penned "Second Generation Woman" and "Please Mr. Policeman" from Family, "Doin' It" from Airforce, and "Rock And Roll Stew" from Traffic. Also on the record are BF's (Winwood's) "Sea of Joy" and Grech's own "Kiss the Children" and "Face in the Cloud." This record easily stands on its own, although the collector will have it all already. Play it in good company.

Now for the good part. Slade are English rockers who play rock and roll like they invented it. Sladest includes no less than 7 English smashes (number 1 on the English charts within 10 days of release) and is an ultimate example of non-stop rock. Somehow Reprise has gotten a hold of all these singles and put them together in one fantastic party album. Anyone who's heard "Cum On Feel The Noize" or "Gudbuy T' Jane" knows what's happening here. By the time this one's over, you'll be crazee too. Play it loud.

Moving right along, we get to Procol Harum. Since they've always played five star music, a greatest hits collection, by Procol, besides being redundant, would have to be the best of the best. Even if you own every American Procol album (which you should) this album includes some rare singles tracks and is therefore pretty important. "In the Wee Small Hours of Sixpence", which has only been available as a single up until now is here as well as the classic "Homborg", "Long Gone Geek", and "Lime Street Blues". Of course, "Whiter Shade of Pale", "A Salty Dog", "Whiskey Train", and "Simple Sister" are also here, but what else is new? Play it forever.

Mingus in Area Sunday

It seems to be an extraordinarily good season for concerts in this area — another legendary performer will be featured in concert Sunday night at 7:30 p.m. at Amherst College — the miraculous bassist, composer, pianist and revolutionary musician Charles Mingus.

Mingus' career has been in full bloom since the early forties, when he was playing with Charlie Parker, Art Tatum, Dizzy Gillespie and Bud Powell. At various times he also played with Duke Ellington and Lionel Hampton.

Apart from the company he's kept, Mingus is also great for his ability to combine his classical training with the big band influence of his later years. He has battled often to get his music recorded for the purpose of honour and enshrinement of the musicians as opposed to the standard rip-off proceedings of the recording industry. His attempts at forming his own record company are examples of his love for what he does.

Throughout the '50's and '60's in his Jazz Workshop Mingus pioneered the careers of such giants as the late Eric Dolphy (reeds), Ted Curson or Lonnie Hillyear (trumpet), the fabulous Booker Ervin (tenor sax), Charles McPherson (alto sax) and Dannie Richmond (now with Mark-Almond on drums).

Mingus has had a varied and fantastic career and one should not pass up the chance to see a legend in his own time, and a fighter all his life to preserve the richness and beauty of Afro-American culture in the face of racist oppression and native ignorance. Admission is $3.50.

Music for a Sunday Evening
Sunday, October 14
Charles Mingus
7:30 p.m. Amherst College Alumni Gymnasium
Amherst College Entertainment Committee and H-T Productions

Concerts

Amherst

Charles Mingus — Oct. 14, Amherst College.

University of Massachusetts

University of Massachusetts Trio — Oct. 14, Bowker Auditorium.

University Marching Band — Oct. 13 (Half Time), Boston University, Nickerson Field.

University Orchestra — Oct. 16, Memorial Hall.

Springfield

Carpenters — Skiles and Henderson, Oct. 19, Civic Center.

Williamstown

Dave Mason — Oct. 27, Chapin Hall, Williams College.

Boston

Clean Living — Oct. 12, Zircon.

Sidewinders — Oct. 12 & 13, Sandy's.

The Energetics — Oct. 12-14, Suger Shack.

Freddy Hubbard — Oct. 12-14, Jazz Workshop.

Bobby Blue Bland — Franklin Ajaye — Oct. 12-14, Paul's Mall.

James Montgomery Band — Duke and the Drivers, Oct. 12, Robert's Center, Boston College.

Eric Weisburg & Deliverance — Oct. 12-14, Oliver's.

Robert Klein — Melissa Manchester, Oct. 12, Sander's Theater.

Big Walter Horton — Oct. 12, 13, Joe's Place.

The Manhattans — Oct. 15, Suger Shack.

Willie Dixon — Oct. 15-21, Jazz Workshop.

Miles Davis — Oct. 16-21, Paul's Mall.

Dr. Hook and the Medicine Show — Wiley Crawford Band, Oct. 16-18, The Garage.

Steve Goodman - Ed Holstein — Oct. 17, Tufts College.

Quicksilver, Climax Blues Band — Oct. 18, Orpheum.

Mahavishnu Orchestra — Oct. 19, Music Hall.

Black Oak Arkansas - Foghat — Oct. 21, Orpheum.

Dan Hicks - Maria Muldaur — Oct. 21, Symphony Hall.

John Mayall - Joe Walsh — Oct. 23, Orpheum.

New Riders of the Purple Sage - Commander Cody and his Lost Planet Airman — Oct. 26, Orpheum.

Mott The Hoople - Aerosmith — Oct. 27, Orpheum.

Julian Bream — Oct. 27 & 28, Jordan Hall.

Buckminster Fuller — Oct. 28, Orpheum

David Crosby & Grahm Nash — Oct. 28, Music Hall

Sha Na Na — Nov. 2, Music Hall.

George Carlin — Nov. 4, Orpheum Theater (Ticketron).

Doobie Brothers - Three Man Army — Nov. 4, Music Hall.

J. Geils Band — Nov. 5, Boston Garden.

TONITE
SATURDAY
& SUNDAY GOOD FRIEND COYOTE
at the Rusty Nail
Inn
RTE. 47 SUNDERLAND
665-4937

top of the campus restaurant
featuring Greg Bullen
from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday
seating for cocktails - 9:30 p.m.
FINE FOOD IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RELAXED DINING.
ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAYS AND SATURDAYS
BEST VIEW OF AMHERST.
DISCOUNTS FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR GUESTS
PHONE 549-6000 FOR RESERVATIONS.

hear Seagull
in the Hatch thursday, friday
and saturday,
oct. 11, 12, 13
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Esquire: Like a Box of Toys

ESQUIRE REVIEW
by Kevin Kittredge

I remember sitting on the concrete step in front of the neighborhood store, Maloney's, with my hand buried in a box of Cracker Jacks. Sometimes they were stale, but that was o.k., if you didn't already have the toy.

The Bold Look
1948

Magazines can be like that. You sift through the crap looking for the toy. What would happen if you opened the box and it was full of toys?

"Hey man, I just bought this box of Cracker Jacks and it's full of toys."

"I'll be damned."

The October issue of Esquire magazine hits you like a box full of toys. For $2 you get 564 pages and a magazine that weighs more than my chemistry book. It's their 40th anniversary and the reader can share the toasts.

Like the box of toys, where can I start? Sitting at the bar with Dragnet on ... Officer Gannon says to Joe Friday:

"Where do we start Joe?"

Then that pause and look that only Jack Webb can do and everyone in the bar stops and says with Joe Friday,

"At the beginning."

The magazine begins with "Time Zones". F. Scott Fitzgerald does the 20's with "My Generation". He also has a sequel to his crack-up essays called "Pasting It Together". If you agree with Arnold Gingrich, editor-publisher, that Fitzgerald draws "the finest and purest tone of any writer since Walter Pater," you've got your money's worth already.

Then we're into the 30's and John Steinbeck accomplishes in this essay what it took Studs Terkel 600 pages to do in Hard Times.

The next decade brings William Styron's "My Generation." Not as good as Fitzgerald or Steinbeck, but somebody had to do the 40's.

Gary Wills has the impossible task of the 60's. He begins, "A decade has soft boundaries, but the kernel is hard if you can find it." This essay will fail for most people because every reader was a witness and have their own kernels of how it was. He does capture the motion and blur and should be given another chance with their 50th anniversary.

bright on the beach

The Hawaiian Shirt
1950

Hemingway contributes one of the most anthologized stories with "The Snows of Kilimanjaro". He also has a Gulf Stream letter called "On the Blue Water".

Gadgetry
1972

There's a section called "New York, New York". Gay Talese writes about New York as "a city of things unnoticed". He makes you feel like a traffic light with one eye always open. James Baldwin writes of Harlem, Dorothy Parker writes about elegance and John Koch's paintings, which are the same thing. John Cheever slams the door with "Moving Out", which he did.

Anyone who gets Thomas Wolfe and Tom Wolfe confused should read "Two Tom Wolfes". You'll never be confused again.

I have to put on the brakes here and point out that there are over 65 contributors to the magazine and I can't list them all.

The fiction has the heavyweights. There's Shaw, Updike, O'Hara, Greene, Pirandello, Saroyan, Camus, Nabokov and Capote just to name a few.

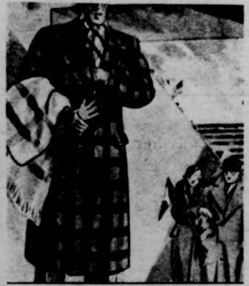
I'd like to stop here and raise my glass and just say, "Well done, Esquire. And thanks for not naming all of the little people that made it possible."

Women's Insurance

by Susan Bergeron

"The highest standard of hospital and medical care is recognized as an absolute necessity for every citizen." So starts a booklet given to every state employee who chooses to use group coverage offered by the state. Apparently, the Group Insurance Commission considers women less than citizens. AETNA's insurance plan is good, as far as insurance companies go, except in its treatment of women. Article VIII, section 3 of this booklet states: "If the person for whom a claim is incurred is a dependent child, the plan that insures the child's father as an employee is the primary plan." This statement assumes the male is head of the household. It also allows no choice for the parents in terms of medical care and what they can afford. In other words, when a woman is an employee under the AETNA plan and her husband is employed elsewhere with a policy that does not have as good coverage, their child must come under the man's policy simply because it is considered the "primary policy".

AETNA's maternity benefits leave something to be desired. The total allotment for a normal delivery allowed is $200. Costs have gone way up on medical care and $200 will not cover a pregnancy today. Another situation where there is no choice involved is a case where a woman decided to have the delivery at home, "no coverage will be allowed for the doctor before or after a period of confinement. . ." And if (God forbid) you happen to be an unmarried mother, no medical or surgical benefits will be provided.



The Plaid Ulster
1934

Routine physicals and especially routine PAP smears are not covered. At least one PAP test a year is advised for women to prevent cervical cancer, one of the easiest cancers to cure if detected in time. Women must pay for two physicals, since a gynecological exam is separate, and gynecologists, outside of doing a pelvic examination, rarely go beyond checking heartbeat and pulse. Seeing how lab fees for PAP tests have gone from between three and five dollars to ten, at least coverage could be provided for the lab fee as is done with X-rays.

This was brought up at the Faculty Senate Committee on the Status of Women meeting Tuesday morning, where it was decided to set up a sub-committee to look into the inadequacies of health care generally and to deal with this discrimination specifically. Proposed was establishing liaisons with Boston area professional and working women's groups in order to pressure the legislature. Heading the sub-committee is Jean Elshtain, who brought up the matter.

The New York City municipality has started a co-operative group insurance plan that proved to be better than the established insurance policies available. Massachusetts state employees should look into this (seeing how there are approximately 59,000 workers now under the AETNA plan and AETNA most definitely is making a profit), a co-op group insurance policy would provide better care at the same cost. Instead of lining corporate pockets, a plan could be formulated with the workers' interests rather than a profit interest, in mind.

Henry May Band
at the BLUEWALL
Friday and Saturday
9 p.m. - 1 a.m.

Charles Mingus
Sunday, October 14
Tickets $3.50
All concerts will be in the Amherst
College Gymnasium at 7:30 p.m.
Tickets will be available in advance at: Faces of Earth, Amherst;
The New Record Shop, Amherst; Del Padre Music, Northampton;
UMass. Campus Center; Uroboros Book Shop, Hampshire College;
and will also be available at the door.
This series is presented in co-operation with H-T Productions.

CAMPUS CENTER
Program Council
presents

the New Shakespeare Company
SAN FRANCISCO
A Midsummer Night's Dream
Tuesday, 8:30 p.m.
Student Union Ballroom
Tickets $2.50 at S.U.
Box Office or Lobby Counter
MARGRIT ROMA Director

Reaching For The Moon

Harry Mahnken as James Tyrone and Diane Tomer as Josie in a scene from "Moon For The Misbegotten."

by Marian Prokop

The purpose of Eugene O'Neill's last play, Moon for the Misbegotten, was a final attempt to reconcile himself to his past. This is evident that the plot is partially autobiographical and one of the main characters, James Tyrone, is described in terms of author's own brother, James O'Neill. For us, it has the timeless and universal theme of reconciliation with ourselves, i.e., to accept ourselves for what we are and the need to be honest, not only with others, but with ourselves.

Briefly, the plot centers around Josie Hogan, a hulk of a woman who proudly considers herself the village slut to retaliate for her physical inelegance. She is being courted by James Tyrone, a natural charmer, also a hopeless alcoholic. Tyrone sees through her mask and recognizes her virtue and her maternal and tender nature. Since his mother has recently died, Tyrone finds, in Josie, the mother figure he is seeking. In each other's company they relax. Tyrone relates to her his excursions while bringing his mother's body home for burial. By taking refuge in each other, they confess their own self-deceptions and conclude with self-understanding.

It is a very personal play beginning in a realistic tone but changes to a more lyrical perspective. However, some critics believe that the play is hindered by an "awkward juxtaposition" of comic and serious components and that it is very difficult to stage. I think that the UMass production of Moon for the Misbegotten inevitably suffered from these flaws in structure though valiant attempts were made to overcome them.

First, the production lacked unity in creating an atmosphere both timeless and universal. The set, designed by Jeff Fiala, was small and expressionistic, a good idea thematically. It emphasized the private world of the characters as opposed to the vastness of the external world and brought on a sense of pressure which forced us to concentrate on the inner psychological action. This worked in the third act by expressing both a moonlit night and a state of utter timelessness, but in the other scenes, the small stage made the characters look confined and larger than life (perhaps this was intentional) but also made movements seem awkward and exaggerated (especially with Josie) to be credible. The use of a small stage in the third act conveyed just the right atmosphere but for the rest of the play, it would have been advantageous for both the actors and audience to use a larger playing area.

Diane Tomer is pictured with John Countryman who plays Phil Hogan.

Secondly, there was too much emphasis on comic effects. In the beginning, the comedy came as a pleasant surprise but eventually became a burden and resulted in the three smaller roles losing all sense of authenticity. Admittedly, some of the play, especially the first act, was very funny, probably the best comedy O'Neill ever wrote outside of Ah, Wilderness! but after a while, in the second and fourth acts, the tone should have become more serious but efforts were still made for comedy (as far as I could tell) for its own sake.

The piano score, composed by Andrew Lichtenberg, served little purpose in developing any atmosphere so I guess its best use was killing time between acts III and IV. It sounded like a mixture of modern love story themes and the lovey-dovey stuff played on Victrolas fifty years ago. Possibly another play for universality, but it didn't work.

The acting ranged from adequate to superb. In the beginning, Diane Tomer as Josie used movements that seemed too exagerated to be believable. Her flailing arms, harsh voice, and rolling eyes were rather amateurish techniques that showed no sensitivity that James Tyrone was supposed to see. I was not able to pick up her accent because it kept changing. When she was with her father, she spoke in an Irish brogue that turned Southern, while at other times her accent sounded typically New England. Fortunately, her scenes with Harry Mahnken (James Tyrone) were good. Specifically the third act where Josie's warmth and tenderness were best conveyed and most needed. Instead of straining to express her attitude, "I'm big, I'm bad, I'm bossy," she managed to tone down enough without losing character to make the scene very effective.

An outstanding performance was Harry Mahnken as Tyrone. His subtle underplay movingly showed Tyrone's charming and refined nature without losing the sense of the inner brooding and guilt-ridden alcoholic. Perhaps a comparison isn't quite fair but he constantly reminded me of Jason Robards playing the same role in the film version of Long Day's Journey Into Night. Very beautiful and very touching.

John Countryman as Josie's father, Phil Hogan, suffered from the problem of a young man playing an old man and getting away with it. Not only did he not act old, with an inconsistent brogue, but he didn't even look old. The fact that he played the role with such energy could be attributed to the comic interpretation, but he still looked even younger than Tyrone. You could let it slide and say well, Tyrone is mature beyond his age, but I really didn't buy it. Nevertheless, his performance particularly in the first act was very funny, but it took some getting used to when he tried to be serious.

In the smaller roles, Dick Sousa as Mike Hogan and David Miller as T. Stedman Harder did what they could in roles that were difficult to portray convincingly because of a two dimensional quality inherent in the characters. I guess the only way to make their parts memorable was to play them for comic effect.

Another problem was shifting from act III which took place around midnight to act IV which opens at dawn without a scene change or blackout. This predicament was due to awkward construction in the play and unfortunately this production suffered. Actually, it's not the way the scene was changed but the time it took in doing it. Act III was done well in the beginning, but it spoiled the end because it took so long to finish, when dawn finally came I was very restless. Surely the change could have been more effective if it had been shortened. The long stretch of time it took for the lights to change, while the music played, and Josie let down her hair inevitably hurt the last act so that it became an exercise in patience.

The production was a good attempt at a very difficult play with too many obstacles both in structure and interpretation to overcome in too short a time (something like 15 rehearsals). Besides a largely comic first act, a very poignant third act, it is highlighted by Mr. Mahnken's superb performance and for these three reasons, I would recommend seeing it.

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Baseball (G)love Story

by Michael Wallace

Baseball (G)Love Story:
A Loser Loses

Bang the Drum Slowly — directed by John Hancock from the '50's novel by Mark Harris. With Michael Moriarty, Robert De Niro and Vincent Gardenia. Music arranged by Steve Lawrence.

Heralded by popular critics to be a motion picture pennant winner, Bang the Drum Slowly jogs the same pathos path beat by Love Story and last season's television sensation Brian's Song. This latest to the "dying genre" involves a major league baseball team. Unlike its football counterpart, death doesn't cut down the star athlete in his glory but a scrub catcher who commands so little respect it seems his demise could go unnoticed even if it occurred on the field during play. Sharing the dugout bench with two relief catchers, one asks him how tall he is.

"Five foot eight." Pearson says.

"Oh yeah, I didn't know shit could pile that high." They laugh.

The tobacco chewing catcher, Bruce Pearson, portrayed by Robert De Niro as dumb to the point of being numb, just chaws and drools his brown sludge and squints as if under a tremendous mental strain to understand why he has an abominable batting average, why his teammates hate and belittle him, why he has a girlfriend who is so eager for him to sign over his insurance policy to her and most recently, why he is going to die of Hodgkin's disease.

Left alone it seems Pearson could pass on unnoticed, unmissed and unmourned. Indeed, De Niro is cast with an I.Q. about half his batting average, so we seldom see that even he senses he stands to lose much. Trying to fathom the irony of his situation, Pearson, a simple farm boy who "made it back from Viet Nam without a scratch" sums it up, "I've been handed a shit deal." Then easily surrenders complacently to his fate with a blank stoicism lost to stupidity.

Game Ball for the Grave

The person sensing the terrible personal tragedy is Pearson's roommate, the team's MVP, ace pitcher, Henry Wiggins (Michael Moriarty) who has what Pearson lacks; athletic greatness, sharp wit, confident cool. Wiggins immediately becomes obsessed with seeing to it his roomy does not die unknown and unloved. Before he knew of the fatal illness, he too was one of Pearson's "raggers" or belittlers. He drops everything, including his wife, to commit himself totally to managing Pearson's affairs. He miraculously cures his batting average. He wards off his goldmining girlfriend, he keeps the truth from the coach and signs Pearson into his own contract to insure his eternal guardianship. "Where I go, he goes." Before the word leaks out, he tries to bring the rest of the team around to cheer rather than shit on the doomed catcher.

It is evident throughout the movie that the focus is on Wiggins, not Pearson, who seems to be left sleeping through it all somewhere in the grandstands. It is the more sensitive Wiggins who is called upon to convey the emotional impact of the film. Unfortunately, director Hancock gets carried away with his unselfish characterization of Wiggins and wastes much of the punch of the pitcher's devotion. Many times more powerful and central to the film's theme are the comparatively few scenes of personal contact, support and love between the two men. In one scene the pathetic Pearson experiences the pangs of death and breaking down like a terrified child cries, "Arthur, I'm scared." And as Wiggins holds him in his arms and shares his misery, the image of comradeship emerges with tremendous emotional impetus.

Just as one source of the film's emotional pull comes from the cruel irony of fate, another comes from the irony of the big league sport magica.

Unnoticed as usual, Pearson keeps the benches warm.

That well known syndrome of sport fans as well as teammates, to cheer the winner, demean the loser and forget both as soon as they depart the arena. Both unfeeling forces play against each other as Wiggins tries to raise the catcher to a level of athletic achievement and respect which he never thought possible. "Going out in a blaze of glory" allows Pearson, if not a real respect from his teammates, at least a temporary final scene of worth and love.

It is Wiggins, not Pearson, who feels the importance of this to the man. It is he we see change from the self concerned, typical ballplayer to someone feeling the deep need for worth and respect in every man through Pearson. It is he who knows that his friend's brief moments of fame and respect are only brief. The film rings true as Wiggins alone attends the funeral; the roar of the crowd now silent, the slap of the teammate now absent and long gone.

Other than misdirecting Wiggins' devotion beyond the personal level where it had most worth, the film is badly hampered by poor writing, some useless gimmic photography and poor settings.

Wiggins who looks like a blue eyes, lanky version of Peanuts' Charlie Brown, is often caught expounding absurd versions of equally Peanutish profundities. Once, Pearson shows a surprising mental alertness to make the observation that, "The only reason everyone is being nice to me is because they know I'm going to die. Wiggins delivers the philisophical comforter. "Everyone knows everyone else is going to die, that's the only reason that they're as nice as they are."

In an argument with the doomed man about being smart, Wiggins, who sidelines as an Octarian Insurance salesman, asked, "You were smart enough to buy the four star Octarian annuity policy weren't you?" Other blatant flourishes or poor writing comes from the team's coach, played by Vincent Gardenia, who struggles over the decision allowing Wiggins to include Pearson in on his contract (before knowing of his condition) but concedes, saying profoundly, "I wouldn't ordinarily allow such a thing — but there's something in your eyes Henry which tells me I have to." In other areas, Gardenia is brilliant as the coach who provides the film's comic relief in locker room pep talks and exemplifies the quick reversal of attitude apparent in the whole team once he learns of Pearson's condition. "I may have badgered some of you, like Pearson here, but it was only for your own good. I only have the utmost respect and love for you. You know that, don't you?" as he pats the catcher's cheek.

A point which probably was intended to have little to do with the film but seems to have a lot to do with the theme; that is, a card game called Tegwar which is constantly being played during the film, usually by Wiggins and a certain hard-assed manager who are experts at the game. The game has no rules except that the stupid and unsuspecting lose their shirts. Pearson had always wanted to play but wasn't included because his exceeding stupidity made him more apt to be a perfect victim for the money game. In the end, through Wiggins' intervention, he is allowed to play, just before he dies.

THE STUDENT HOMOPHILE LEAGUE presents a GAY DANCE with
THE DEADLY NIGHTSHADE
SATURDAY • OCTOBER 13 • 8 p.m. - MIDNITE
WORCESTER DINING COMMONS
$1.00
BE THERE

Famous for having the CHEAPEST in NEW & USED clothes
OLD WEIRD HAROLD'S
NEW & USED CLOTHING
Rt. 9, Hadley
NEW Male Jeans
only $5.00
Get ready for the cold with super-warm
Snorkel Parkas only $20.00
USED FUR COATS & JACKETS
all kinds $15.00 - $40.00
LEATHER & SUEDE JACKETS
as well as
CORDUROY & DENIM JACKETS
and PANTS
along with the usual — flannel shirts, pea coats, vests,
reindeer sweaters, etc.

HOCKEY

Anyone living in Central Area interested in playing with the Central Area hockey league.

Call 5-0599 or 6-4565 ask for John.

King of Hearts

OCT. 12, 1973

75¢ 75¢

Friday Night
MAHAR
7, 9, 11

DEERFIELD DRIVE-IN

Route 5 & 10 So. Deerfield
665-8746
FRI., SAT. & SUN.

UP YOUR ALLEY

R IN COLOR

also WEEKEND WITH THE BABYSITTER
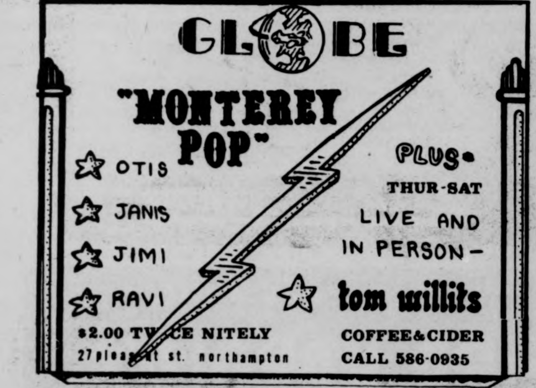
Showtime 7:30
Sun. - Up. Your Alley - 7:30



"MONTEREY POP"

☆ OTIS
☆ JANIS ☆ JIMI
☆ RAVI

$2.00 TWICE NITELY
27 pleasant st. northampton

PLUS-
THUR-SAT LIVE AND IN PERSON -
☆ tom willits
COFFEE&CIDER
CALL 586-0935

"The Good, The Bad and The Ugly"

SAT.,
OCT. 13 — 7 & 10 p.m.

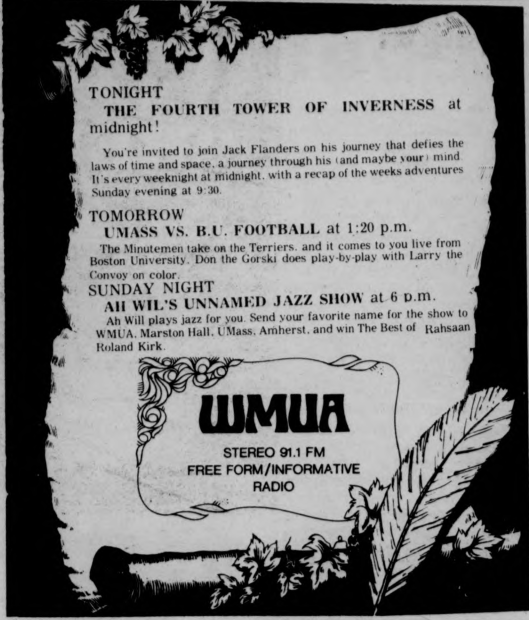
Mahar Aud.

75¢ 75¢

MASH

OCT. 14, SUNDAY 6:00 8:00 10:00

C.C.A. $1.00



TONIGHT
THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS at midnight!

You're invited to join Jack Flanders on his journey that defies the laws of time and space, a journey through his (and maybe your) mind. It's every weeknight at midnight, with a recap of the weeks adventures Sunday evening at 9:30.

TOMORROW
UMASS VS. B.U. FOOTBALL at 1:20 p.m.

The Minutemen take on the Terriers, and it comes to you live from Boston University. Don the Gorski does play-by-play with Larry the Convoy on color.

SUNDAY NIGHT
AH WIL'S UNNAMED JAZZ SHOW at 6 p.m.

Ah Will plays jazz for you. Send your favorite name for the show to WMUA, Marston Hall, UMass, Amherst, and win The Best of Rahsaan Roland Kirk.

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE
RADIO

MOVIE CALENDAR

"A BRASH, BRAWLING JOY OF A MOVIE. IT SHOULD BE SEEN BY EVERYONE."
-THE NATIONAL OBSERVER

"Tell 'em Junior sent you"
STEVE McQUEEN
"JUNIOR BONNER"

OCT. 14, SUNDAY 7 & 9:30

S.U.B. 50¢

Barney wanted women in the worst way. And that's the way he got them.

Paramount Pictures presents
"Last of the Red Hot Lovers"
PG Color by MOVIELAB A Paramount Picture

THURS., OCT. 18 7 & 9

S.U.B. 50¢

VILLAGE INN
DRAKE
LOWENBRAU OKTOBERFEST
ON DRAFT
Restaurant Open 'til 2 a.m.

A COMEDY OF MURDERS
CHARLES CHAPLIN
AS

Monsieur Verdoux
with MARTHA RAYE
This Monday
Thompson 104
6, 8, 10 p.m.
an rbc films presentation

24 HR. TEL. 733-5131
SHOWCASE CINEMAS 12345
We Honor MASTER CHARGE
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPFLD.

WESTWORLD
Where nothing can possibly go worng
PG YUL BRYNNER
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:20-9:20
Sat. & Sun. - 2-3:50-5:30-7:20-9:20

Bang the drum slowly PG
★★★★! HIGHEST RATING! —N.Y. Daily News
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-9:30
Sat. & Sun. - 1:30-3:20-5:20-7:30-9:30

HEAVY TRAFFIC X
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-9:25
Sat. & Sun. - 2-3:40-5:30-7:40-9:40

Hit! R BILLY DEE WILLIAMS
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-10:00
Sat. & Sun. - 2-4:30-7:20-10:00

WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA
WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON

Only Area Showing!
at 7:00 & 9:15

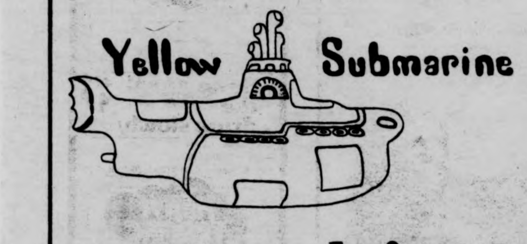
THE YEAR'S BEST AMERICAN FILM THUS FAR!"
—Paul D. Zimmerman,
Newsweek

"The Friends Of Eddie Coyle"
Starring
Robert Mitchum Peter Boyle
Mon. & Tues. - DOLLAR nite

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "Killer Klink," (22)
MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLES "The Doctors" (30)
GOMER PYLE "Duke Slater, Night Club Comic" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "The Delegates" (18)
THE LUCY SHOW (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "Love and Goulash" (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
AMERICA "Gone West" (18)
ZOOM! (24) (57)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night of Dr. Loveless" (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
BOOKBEAT (24)
CHALLENGING SEA (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 WORLD AT WAR (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "Long Night's Journey Into Day" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22)
THE CHAN—ESE WAY (24)
MOVIE "Slaughter of the Vampires" (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
:30 THE DATING GAME (8)
MOVIE "The Swordsman" (18)
LET'S MAKE A DEAL Monty Hall, Host (22)
WALL STREET WEEK (24)
THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES Peter Marshall, host (30)
NANNY AND THE PROFESSOR "The Haunted House" (40)
A SMALL CITY GARDEN (57)
8:00 CALUCCI'S DEPT (3)
THE BRADY BUNCH "Peter and the Wolf." (8) (40)
SANFORD AND SON "This Little TV Went To Market," (22) (30)
WASHINGTON WEEK IN REVIEW (24) (57)
8:30 ROLL OUT! (3)
THE ODD COUPLE "The Odd Holiday" (8) (40)
GIRL WITH SOMETHING EXTRA (22) (30)
VIDEO DRAMA II (24)
WALL STREET WEEK (57)
9:00 MOVIE "Dracula" (3)
ROOM 222 "I Didn't Raise My Girl To Be a Soldier" (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
NEEDLES AND PINS (22) (30)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "The Merriweather File," (27)
9:30 ADAM'S RIB "Katy at the Bat," (8)

The Beatles



50¢

Friday, October 12, 1973
Student Union Ballroom
8-10-12

"The Good, The Bad and The Ugly"

Sat.,
OCT. 13 — 7 & 10 p.m.

Mahar Aud.

75¢ 75¢

TONIGHT

2001, A Space Odyssey

6:30, 9:00, 11:30 p.m.

Campus
Center Auditorium

Admission
75¢

LUIS BUNVEL'S EROTIC MASTERPIECE

"BELLE de JOUR"

starring

CATHERINE DENEUVE

SAT., OCT. 13

at 7-9-11 in S.U.B.

OPEN
FRI. SAT. SUN.

$3.00 PER CAR - SUN. ONLY!

Don't pass her up...

HADLEY DRIVE-IN
RUSSELL ST. - RT. 9 - HADLEY
NEXT TO THE JOLLY BULL
584-2645

She's looking for more than a ride!
SHOWN at 7:00 and again after
"TOGETHER"

Teenage Tramp
Old enough. Ripe enough!

Co-Hit (R)
SHOWN SECOND "TOGETHER"

Now In CINEMA I YVES MONTAND in a film by the director of
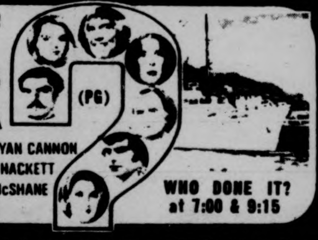
"Z",
Costa-Gauras

SHOWN DAILY
at 7:00 & 9:15

STATE OF SIEGE

Brilliant
The most engrossing and mature film of many a year. You owe it to yourself to see it.
A knockout of a movie

HELD OVER!
THE LAST OF SHEILA
(PG)
RICHARD BENJAMIN DYAN CANNON
JAMES COBURN JOAN HACKETT
JAMES MASON IAN McSHANE
RAQUEL WELCH

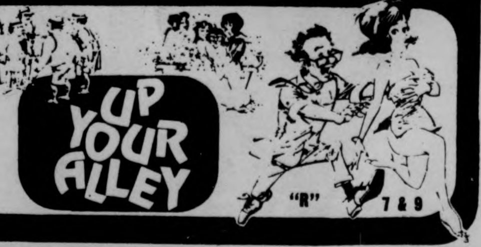


WHO DONE IT?
at 7:00 & 9:15

Campus Cinemas
256-6411
AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

DOLLAR NIGHT!
Mon. & Tues.
Admission $1.00

THE ALL-OUT SEX COMEDY RIOT!
The hysterically funny story of a wild and wacky Mafia gang, the F.B.I., 40 beautiful girls, and how Seymour became the world's greatest lover.



"R" 7 & 9

WEEKEND

complied by Bob Nesti

BANG THE DRUM SLOWLY

Perhaps the best received film of recent months; a sentimental baseball story with Robert DeNiro and Michael Moriarty. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

BELLE DE JOUR (1968)

Luis Bunuel elegant fantasy is concerned with the sexual longings of a bored, Parisean housewife. She acts them out in a dreamlike borlello. A splendid fim to watch, with Catherine Deneuve. Student Union Ballroom, Saturday, 10/13, 7, 9, and 11.

CASABLANCA (1943)

In the forward to the recently published screenplay Howard Koch, who co-authored this film with Philip G. and Julius J. Epstein, wrote that the story of this memorable espionage romance was plotted after the shooting had begun. Despite its shaky beginnings, success of the picture has been unmistakable it won an Oscar for the Best Film of 1943 — today it remains perhaps the best known of cult films. Humphrey Bogart plays Rick, the casino owner in war-torn Casablanca, who is called upon to help Ingrid Bergman, who was his lover in pre-war Paris and who now is married to one of the German's arch-enemies, a fugitive resistance leader. A superb example of Warner Brothers knife-edged craftsmanship during the Forties and certainly one of the most enjoyable films Hollywood has ever produced. Directed with remarkable efficiency by Michael Curtiz. With Claude Rains, Peter Lorre, and Sidney Greenstreet, Lecture Room One, Amherst College, Friday, 10/12 and Saturday, 10/13, 7:30 and 10.

40 CARATS

Take an infantile farce, concerning a fortyish career woman who falls in love with a twenty-one year old millionaire; add generous helpings of flakey one-liners, throw in your stock crazy supporting types, and dress Liv Ullmann in what appears someone's dining room drapes and you have about the worst comedy film of the year. Liv Ullmann had better find a new agent — with this and "Lost Horizon" under her belt, her visa may be taken away. Here she so arch that if she moved, cracks will appear. Calvin Theater, Northampton.

FRIENDS OF EDDIE COYLE

Robert Mitchum as a small time hood on the run. A gritty, knock-a-bout melodrama, filmed in and around Boston. Mitchum gives a much regarded performance and many critics have raved, one even calling it the best American film so far this year. With Peter Boyle. Academy of Music, Northampton.

THE GOOD, THE BAD, AND THE UGLY (1967)

Sergio Leone's stylized Western is an epic exploration of macho themes. The expansive plot revolves around three individuals who search for a missing cache of gold, the time is the American Civil War. The three inflict various violent, sadistic acts on many victims and each other before finally pacing off. Leone has an eye for terrific effects: the images follow like in a comic book. The action is equally as evocative. With Clint Eastwood, Lee Van Cleef, and Eli Wallach. Some memorable moments, although the scope of the picture is largely diminished when not shown in wide screen. Mahar, Saturday, 10/13, 7 and 10.

HARPER (1965)

This detective thriller attempts to recreate the mood of Bogart's Forties detective films with Paul Newman impersonating Humphrey Bogart. It just doesn't work, although the "in" references and the played-up thrills come at you, the sophistication and sly fun of films like "The Big Sleep" are lost in the transistion. The whole film has a marked down quality to it. Written by William Goldman. Directed by Jack Smight. With Lauren Bacall, Julie Harris, and Arthur Hill. Student Union Ballroom, Wednesday, 10/17,7.

Table for two.. Mae West and W. C. Fields.

HEAVY TRAFFIC

The second full length cartoon feature by the makers of "Fritz The Cat". A brutal, often offensive cross-section of urban living whose gritiness is compensated by its strong evocation of city living. Striking use of interplay between real life situations and its cartoon complement. The adventures of a young Jewish boy in New York which no social type rudely presented. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

HIT!

Directed by Sidney J. Furie. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.

JUNIOR BONNER (1972)

This congeneal contemporary Western about a faltering family around a rodeo circuit slipped most filmgoers attention last year, mostly because of poor distribution. Directed in an agreeable way by Sam Peckinpah it makes for a marked departure from what came before and after. Steve McQueen is fine in the title role. Ida Lupino and Robert Preston show us what a fine actor can do with a character part. Student Union Ballroom, Sunday, 10/13, 7 and 9:30.

THE LAST OF THE RED HOT LOVERS (1972)

Neil Simon's farce about a frustrated middle-class man who wants desperately to cheat on his wife. He tries with three of her friends in his mother's apartment. Probably the best of the Simon plays filmed to date, directed by Alan Arkin. Student Union Ballroom, Thursday, 10/18, 7 and 9.

MY LITTLE CHICKADEE (1940)

Somehow the combination of Mae West and W.C. Fields would suggest the most ribald of film comedies; this film, then, is a strange disappoointment. It never seems to rise; what happens just sits on the screen without much direction or energy. The story, by West and Fields, concerns the exploits of West as a wanton woman run out of town because of her midnight liaison with a masked stranger. Fields plays her husband, whom she attaches herself onto while fighting Indians on a train between towns. Some funny bits, such as Mae's impersonation of a schoolteacher and Field's foreplay with a goat; still not nearly as good as West's earlier films. The Globe, Northampton.

Catherine Deneuve in Belle Du Jour.

KING OF HEARTS (1964)

Philippe DeBroca's lovely fantasy about the illusion of sanity in the world. It takes place in a lovely French village during the First World War and stars Alan Bates. The film has a tremendous rapport with college audiences — it has been running for more than two years at a Cambridge theater and often is discussed as one of the finest films every made by students, certainly a good deal of fun. Mahar, Friday, 10/12, 7, 9, and 11.

THE LAST OF SHEILA

The most engaging film released this past summer is this sly comic mystery, a sort of "And Then There Were None" on board a yacht. The script by composer Stephen Sondheim and actor Anthony Perkins has the good fun of an elaborate puzzle. Who and for what reason did someone run down the bitchy gossip columnist Sheila. A year after her death her husband assembles the eight most possible suspects for a week's sailing off the Riviera onboard his yacht the Sheila. The roles are perfectly cast, especially James Mason as the fading director and Dyan Cannon as the agent. Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

MONSIEUR VERDOUX (1947)

"A comedy for murders," suggested by the crimes of Landru. Monsieur Verdoux (Chaplin) had been a bank clerk for thirty years but is dismissed during the Depression. Unable to find honest work he turns to marrying, bigamously, rich women in various parts of France, securing their property, murdering them, and then returning to his unsuspecting and crippled wife. One of Chaplin's most controversial films. When first released James Agee considered it one of the finest films Hollywood has ever produced; others have called it preachy and overdone. Still a work of immense power in which comedy and pathos are intertwined to a disturbing end. A wonderful comic bit by Martha Raye as one of the wives is certainly one of the most memorable moments in all films. Thompson 104, Monday, 10/15, 8 and 10.

A MAN CALLED HORSE (1968)

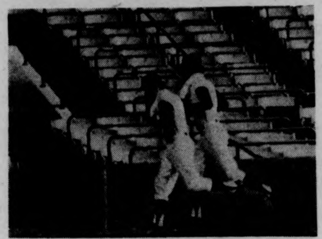
Richard Harris as a British aristocrat is lost in the Midwestern wilds during middle of the Nineteenth century. He is taken up by a tribe of Indians and is initiated as a member. The film attempts to break down the Hollywood stereotype of Indians as warpaging savages by making it appear they're researching the savagery. An overly bloody film, with all sorts of murky undercurrents of what stamina is all about. Harris shouts, which is what he does best, and hardly a word of English is spoken in the undriving quest for accuracy. Thompson 104, Tuesday, 10/16, 8 and 10.

THE MALTESE FALCON (1941)

John Huston directorial debut is their near perfect detective thriller in which Humphrey Bogart portrays his most memorable character: Sam Spade. Adapted from the Dashiell Hammett novel a few films suggest the seedy adventure of being a private eye as well, few films are as precisely and as sharply made as this either. Beautifully cast, with Mary Astor, Peter Lorre, Gladys George, and Sidney Greenstreet. Lecture Room One, Merrill Science Center, Anherst College, Friday, 10/12, 7:30 and 10.

MONKEY BUSINESS (1931)

The Marx Brothers are stowaways on an ocean liner where Groucho and Zeppo on the one hand and Chico and Harpo on the other get mixed up with rival gangs and are involved in a kidnapping. Remarkable sequences: the Marx Brothers in their hiding place in kippered herring barrels carrying on with their day-to-day activities; the hairdressing salon where Chico and Harpo work; Groucho as a seductive ship's officer; Harpo hiding in a Punch and Judy show; Groucho's parody of an interview with a star; the burlesque scenes at the Customs. This is one of the fastest and most malicious of the Marx Brothers films and brought to the screen some of their best vaudeville gags. Thompson 104, Friday, 10/12, 6:30 and 9:30.



Robert DiNiro and Michael Moriarty.

MONTERREY POP (1968)

A fine sampling of mid to late sixties of American popular music filmed at the Monterrey Pop Festival in 1967. The talent includes Otis Redding, Janis Joplin, Jimi Hendrix, and the Mamas and the Papas. In addition on Thursday through Saturday evenings Tom Willits will perform. The Globe, Northampton.

MURDER MY SWEET (1947)

Philip Marlowe, a private detective, after going through various adventures with the help of a girl, unmasks a rich, seductive woman who kills to prevent her past being known. This is a fine example of the American thriller — in its plot, its atmospheric photography and lighting, its brutality (both police and lovers'), and its theatrical touches and twists of plot. It is one of the best films in the genre — and one of Dmytryk's best. And Dick Powell's best performance. Student Union Ballroom, Wednesday, 10/17,11.

THE SEVEN YEAR ITCH (1957)

A faithful husband is left alone when his wife leaves for a holiday to escape the New York summer heat. He is tempted by a pretty neighbor, invites her into his apartment, but, in the end, remains faithful to his wife. This skillful, but essentially vulgar farce, was a great commercial success, although it is not at all like Wilder's other films on sexual mores. Tom Ewell indulges himself with histrionic's but Marilyn Monroe appears in one of her most seductive and appealing roles. Hampden Dining Commons, Sunday, 10/14, 7:30 and 9:30.

STATE OF SIEGE

Costas-Gravas's frightening polemic about American behind-the-scenes espionage in South America. It's partly frightening because it bellows so, but mostly effective due to the efficient direction and the neatly executed performance of Yves Montand. Campus Cinemas, Hadley.

TO HAVE AND HAVE NOT

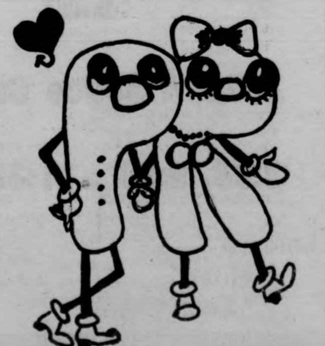
It has been reported Howard Hawks made a bet with Ernest Hemingway that he could turn Hemingway's worst novel into a good film. He won the bet. The story has Humphrey Bogart in Martinique with Lauren Bacall in her film debut. Her first line is immortal: standing in a slinky doorway she asks "Anyone got a match?" Thoroughly enjoyable and indictive of the fine films Warner Brothers produced in the Forties. Amherst Cinema, Amherst.

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY (1968)

Stanley Kubrick's fascinating monkey-to-man-to-superman story. Extraordinary visuals prove McCluhan to be correct. With a computer named HAL and space stations spiralling in three-quarter time to the "Blue Danube Waltz". Campus Center Auditorium, Friday, 10/12, 6:30, 9, and 11.

WESTWORLD

Michael Crichton's dream world, when entire universes can be created. Too bad Crichton can't make a film that doesn't look like a tourist trip through a souped-up Disneyland. Showcase Cinemas, West Springfield.



New England's Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 28 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1973

Weather

Little do you know that the Tuna Roll Kid and Little Miss Sunbeam are both one and the same person!

Recyclable

Eric Walgren Seeks Election Invalidation

By DEAN TUCKER

Eric Walgren is going to take on City Hall in the great American tradition; and he predicts victory for his cause.

Walgren is seeking to have the Spring 1972 Amherst Town Elections declared invalid. He contends that the Amherst selectmen held the elecion during intercession of the UMass academic year, to facilitate town voters, not all voters.

Thirty per cent of the enfranchised voters in Amherst are students. Walgren lost the election by 200 votes. It cannot be determined whether or not Walgren would have won if the students were in town to vote.

Although Walgren is confident he will win his suit, it remains uncertain to him what the court will decide to do to rectify the alleged infraction. They could declare the first election invalid and order a new one be held. They could order the first election and imply the town should be cognizant of student voters in the future, but not order it to do so. The selectmen could also be ordered to take specific action in ensuring students the right to vote.

Walgren is fighting the case alone; defending himself as a pauper. He is armed with a degree from Amherst College and Rutgers Law School, but needs money. He and his Tea Party New Law Fund are accepting contributions at 41 High St., Amherst.

The Amherst selectmen said prior to the election that they had changed the date so the election would be held concurrently with the UMass intercession.

They chose not to change the dates to a time convenient to the UMass voter because they feared it would cause confusion.

This constitutes Walgren's tour de force in his case. He claims that all the selectmen sought to have the widest possible voter enfranchisement; by ignoring the student voters they defeated their own purpose.

District Court Judge Frank Freedman has been criticized for his dismissal of the case and the broad issues it imples.

Walgren has said that should the appeal trial make a declaratory judgement and order a new election, he will run again.

Eric Is Here...

Guest Registration

Let's Get High!

By ROBERTA MARTONE

"Let's get high tonight." Sound familiar? It should. This seems to be the typical UMie reaction after five days of "hitting the books".

In a random sampling taken on campus, most people said they spent their weekends in bars, at parties, or visiting friends. Some said they were "fair game for anything", while others said they weren't "into any routine yet." A small minority mentioned the Saturday football games as weekend entertainment. Movies, concerts, and plays also were given as ways to enjoy the weekend. However, the bars were the most popular.

The hopping places on campus are the Blue Wall and The Hatch. When asked what happened on a typical Friday night at the Blue Wall, one bartender said that the place was generally "rowdy". He said, "On a Friday night, the crowd consumes about fifty kegs of beer. Supposedly the Blue Wall sells more beer than any other place in New England. The bartender also said that although there are few fights, a lot of people get sick or fall asleep on the tables. He said Saturday night was quieter because it was more of a "date night". The crowd usually vacillates between the Blue Wall and The Hatch.

The Top of the Campus has a quieter atmosphere. Some students said they go the TOC to "take a 'breather' from the rowdier" downstairs bars.

While the crowd at the Blue Wall and The Hatch ranges from "freaks" to "straights", and anything in between, The Pub in Amherst is more of a haven for sorority and fraternity people. Other bars in the Amherst area, such The Rusty Nail are frequented by students who have cars.

Business also "picks up" for the campus hotel on the weekends. On an average weekend, said one of the receptionists, they rent about 20 rooms, usually to men who are having their girlfriends visit, or vice-versa. "But on a homecoming weekend, we rent as many as 75 rooms, 3-4 of the hotel, mostly to girls and guys visiting each other," said the receptionist.

Whether you spend your weekends in bars, visiting friends, or going home, one thing is certain-almost nobody studies on the weekends.

Staff Photos - George Withers

Insurance For Young Drivers

New Laws Ease Acquisition

By SHERMAN BOYSON

If the new UMass Parking Council fulfills its goal of having no cars on campus, then auto insurance will no longer be a problem to students. Until that day, a new piece of legislation will make it easier for anyone under 25 to get auto insurance.

Presently, people under the age of 25 can find it pretty difficult to get an insurance agency to cover their cars. Most agencies can just outright refuse to sell auto insurance to young drivers. This is allowed by a procedure called "underwriting considerations". Because of higher risks and costs that the young driver presents, a company can refuse to serve him on the basis of those risks. This leaves the young driver with a hassle in finding a company to insure him.

The easiest and most common way of insuring a minor's car is through his parents' agency. That is the only way a lot of companies will take on a young driver. The agency that tells a customer that it won't do business with the person's children will find that customer eager to take his business elsewhere. Besides the obvious public relations advantage of serving children of established customers, most people will end up living in the area where they were born. Therefore it is a good possibility that the young driver, who is a child of a regular customer, will be around when his is an adult.

If for any number of reasons a young person doesn't want to, or can't go to his parents' company, he'll have to find one on his own. If he goes to a regular agency, he'll be turned away. Blair, Cutting, & Smith in downtown Amherst for example, will not take young drivers unless they have permanent residence in the area, or have parents served by the company. Usually agencies will refer you to an "assigned risk" agency. This is an agency that specifically advertises its willingness to insure the high risk young driver.

Mr. Frank Lawrence of Northampton, probably the best known assigned risk agent in the area, explained why the young driver is an unwanted customer with most agencies.

"First, there is the high accident rate. Young drivers are involved in more accidents than any other age group", Lawrence said. Statistics released by the Travelers Insurance Company in 1972 show that the 18-24 year old age group are involved in nearly 30% of the fatal and non-fatal accidents. The percentage decreases progressively as the age increases. Lawrence went on to say that "young drivers tend to own older cars." He pointed out how this leads to two unwanted risks: "The older car is more likely to be involved in an accident and the car is more likely to be sold. That brings a transfer cost which the agency must bear." The third risk that Lawrence pointed out was that "young drivers are on the road more often, and so more likely to have an accident".

Because of the added costs and risks, most agencies would rather not take the young driver. It is left to the assigned risk company to insure them. These agencies are allowed to charge an $11.50 charge to cover the extra costs involved. Though the cost seems small, volume makes the difference. A lot of those $11.50 fees can really add up.

An assigned risk agency sends the policies they have into Boston. There the policies are put into the "assigned risk pool". The assigned risk pool is a pool which distributes the risk policies to all insurance agencies in proportion to their business volume. A larger company would have to handle more policies than a smaller one. This is forced by an act of legislation of the state.

Because young drivers are forced to go to assigned risk agencies, the chance for cheating the driver occurs. Charlatan agencies would overcharge the drivers or pad their bills with extras the driver doesn't really need. If the driver is unable to shop around, the agency could tell him the extras are necessary.

Lawrence pointed out how "the insurance commissioner is really cracking down on these agencies. Some have had their licenses taken away for cheating the customer."

Now all this is going to change. The Massachusetts legislature has passed a bill that makes those "underwriting considerations" illegal. When the bill goes into effect insurance agencies will not be able to refuse the young driver because of higher risks. Some agencies however, still want to refuse to serve students since they aren't permanent residents; but whether or not that is legal has not been decided.

(Continued on P. 3)

C.C. Tables Evaluated

By MARSHA VENUTI

A proposal for a new table usage policy for the Concourse level of the Campus Center is being prepared to try to prevent turning the UMass temple into a den of theives.

Much work has been done by the Campus Center staff and the board of Governors to minimize rip-offs and organize this business so that the tables will serve the needs of as many students as possible.

Richard Davies, manager of the department of recreation and services, has been supervising the table program since September. He and two student employees of the Campus Center do most of the organizing and checking up, and have been taking most of the complaints.

At this point I'm not really sure what we are trying to do here, how much we want to cater to the craftsman and how much to the small entrepreneur," Davies said in a Collegian interview. "But we are trying to serve as many students as we can." He said that he is currently following last year's policy concerning table usage, with a few new guidelines as specified by the board of governors this year.

"I think that within a couple of weeks we will have a definite policy," Davies said. "It won't be too different from last year's but we will have a more clearly defined purpose." Davies said he is now preparing a proposal, with the help of Bernard Wilkes, retail sales manager of the Campus Center. Also helping are student employees Kathy Hogan and Ron Reed who help supervise the program, and the Crafts Guild. But the final proposal will come from the Board of Governors, Davies said.

Howard Levin, a committee chairman of the Board of Governors of the Campus Center and Student Union complex, says he is concerned that the table usage policy be in the best interests of the students.

As it stands now, there are 26 table spaces available on the concourse level of the Campus Center, and 11 in the Student Union. A temporary table policy dated September 1973 says that those who use the tables must be Campus Center fee paying students or members of student households or families. Personally handcrafted goods may be sold on the concourse level at no charge. Commercially manufactured goods may be sold on the non-concourse level and in the Student Union at a charge of $5 per day. Davies said this money goes to the Building Operations account, which pays for such things as the personnel at the Information Counter.

All sellers must set up and take down their tables, and clean up after themselves. Sellers must sign up at the Information desk on the concourse level; individual sellers may sign up each day or up to a week in advance. RSO groups may sign up daily or up to a month in advance.

First priority for tables is given to RSO groups, second to non-profit organizations, third to individual students, and fourth to Continuing Education students.

Levin said that the policy has been changed every year because it has not been adequate. He said they are now working on a policy that will be workable and durable.

Davies pointed out some of the weak spots in the present policy. He said that there is a problem of where to draw the line at who is a member of a student household or family and who is using his place of residence or personal relationship with a student for his own gain. He said there is also a problem with Continuing Ed students because although they pay a Campus Center fee it may be as little as $6 per semester. This fall Davies found that one person had signed up for a course just so that he could sell his wares to students in the Campus Center. The new policy will try to deal with problems such as these, Davies said.

Ms. Hogan said that many of the people who sell handcrafted goods belong to the Crafts Guild, which meets regularly with Campus Center staff. She said that if there is any question about the authenticity of hand-made articles, the person selling "will be quizzed by the Crafts Guild to see if they really do make it themselves".

Occasionally people set up tables without signing up for them, Ms. Hogan said, but there are not too many problems here. She said that the crafts people are concerned when others don't follow the rules, so they keep a check on the situation. She and other staff members try to watch to see that the rules are followed.

Ye Olde Sweet Cart
(Staff Photo - Bob Ellis)

One of the already organized tables in the C.C.

Cultivating "The Learning Seed"

UMass Student Starts Vietnam Fund

By MARY LAWSON

Ha-Tang Lieng-Hot, a senior agricultural marketing major who lives in Dwight House at UMass, has established the Lieng-Hot Education Fund, Inc.

He did this to bring financial assistance to the young people of his home area, the Central Highlands of South Vietnam. The Montagnards are a race facing cultural extinction because of the Vietnam War, Ha-Tang said in a Collegian interview. They are a primitive, rural tribe and have been outcasts of Vietnam for centuries.

Lieng-Hot was the first Montagnard student in this country.

Through his work for the Medical Relief Program in Vietnam he was recognized by the directors as having the potential to be educated in the United States. MRP directors are providing for his education here. Through them and his other supporters, he said, he has become dedicated to the value of education in overcoming poverty for his people.

Lieng-Hot said, "To be ignorant is just like being blindfolded. This is the condition my people have been facing for many years. Uneducated, they have been gullible, easily deceived and unable to improve their condition. Yet, there is one great cure to this situation by educating the now generation. The earlier the learning seed is cultivated in the young peoples' minds, the better the world they'll build tomorrow!"

Lieng-Hot said he feels it is his responsibility to help educated the young Montagnards. As a result, there are twelve people being educated through the Lieng-Hot Fund. The monthly cost of education through high school in Vietnam is $25 each. This includes room, board, tuition and books.

These 12 Montagnards and others need support desperately, Lieng-Hot said. Through support he suggests Americans can help them from becoming another race like the American Indians.

The Montagnard bracelet, a symbol of unity and friendship, will be sold in Dwight House to raise money for the fund. Eventually, they will be sold in the Campus Center if Lieng-Hot can find help. He would appreciate the support of students and new ideas to help promote the project. Contributions, suggestions, support and questions can be directed to Lieng-Hot Education Fund, Inc., 114 Harris Ave., Needham, Ma., 02192, care of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bridges, or directly to the head of residence in Dwight House. The Bridges are Lieng-Hot's U.S. sponsors.

Speed Traps

By BRIAN COOK

As a result of serious complaints from Rocky Hill Road residents in Hadley, local police installed radar speed traps on several occasions last week to discourage speeding on that road and others adjoining it.

With Route 9 construction, traffic is often backed up from the center of Hadley to the Coolidge Bridge. Consequently, many Amherst-bound commuters take the back roads (Route 47, Rocky Hill Rd., North Maple St., etc.) through Hadley to avoid the early morning and evening rush hour tie-ups on Rt. 9.

The mad dash along these twisting, narrow back roads is like a qualifying heat in a European road race. Those who abide by the speed limits need not check their rear view mirrors for other vehicles, as each short straight-away sends a flurry of growling engines past the bewildered drivers. Part of this well known short-cut is a dirt road paralleling tobacco fields, which sends up blinding clouds of dust as the 4, 6, and 8 cylinder machines eat up the rocks and pot-holes in their surge forward to the finish line. The stretch may yet live up to its name-Cemetery Road.

Mrs. Rogala who lives at 65 Rocky Hill Rd., the longest and most heavily populated section through which the commuters pass, has four children, the youngest of which is four years old. She termed the traffic situation as "terrible". Having lost two family pets in accidents already, she stated that he husband, a sergeant on the UMass police force, was "instrumental in getting the speed traps installed".

Another resident in the area, Mrs. Wilda of 49 Rocky Hill Rd., has three young children. She noted that "there are not enough signs warning of children in the area. The cars move much too fast for this road and the volume of traffic has increased greatly during the past two years with the growth of the University."

The majority of drivers are UMass commuters and most seemed to heed to established speed limits as they became aware of police patrols. However, by the end of the week most radar traps had been discontinued and speed on the road is once again picking up to a frenzied pace.

Crocker Plane Found

DOUGLAS, Mass. (AP) - Federal investigators are examining the wreckage of a small plane found Saturday deep within the Douglas State Forest.

The plane crashed last July 1, taking the lives of the Miller C. Crocker family of Lexington.

Found in the wreckage were the bodies of Crocker, 36; his wife, bernice, 38; and their three sons, Miller, 13; Mathew, 12; and Scott 7.

The plane was enroute from Cumberland, Pa., to Hanscom Field in Bedford when it crashed.

(Staff Photo - Jim Pappas)

They wouldn't listen when we voted for McGovern last year. Now look who's asking for advice about Vice Presidents.

Prof. Convicted For Possesion

Michael M. Thelwell, associate professor of literature and chairman of the Afro-Am department, was convicted Friday in Hampshire County district court for possession of marijuana. Presiding judge Luke F. Ryan placed him on 6 months probation.

He was previously fined $15 for driving without a registration in his possession, $20 for driving without a proper sticker, $20 for driving on a sidewalk, and $25 for violation of road laws.

Correction

It was incorrectly reported in Friday's COLLEGIAN that the Campus Center hotel would be cashing checks. The Student Union area behind the candy counter will still be cashing checks on Sunday-Wednesday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Thursday-Saturday from 4 p.m. to 12 p.m.

The bus ticket counter has been relocated from the Student Union to the Campus Center hotel lobby. Tickets will be available on a 24-hour basis.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002 Telephones 545 2550 (news) 545 0344 (sports) 545 0731 (business)

Second class postage is paid in Amherst THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879 as amended by an act of June 11, 1943 Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year

CALCULATORS 20 models to choose from
Most Available For Immediate Delivery!!
MODELS IN STOCK:
COMMODORE: MM-3 MM-3R MM-3MR MM-2 MM-25R
BOWMAR: MX-40
Texas Inst. 2500 SR-10
Gordon Hoffstein
549-0187
Low, Low Prices

Stationery
and Notes
A. J. Hasting, Inc.
Newsdealer & Stationer
AMHERST MASS.

(Staff Photo - John Stewart)

A door, six months overdue is delaying the establishment of a Southwest Student Union in the old Hampden Dining Commons.

Absent Door Delays SW Student Union

ALISON SIMCOX

A door, six months overdue, is delaying the establishment of a Southwest student union in Hampden Dining Commons.

Over a year ago the Southwest Internal Planning Conference (SWIP) released a report containing plans for the Hampden Dining Commons, which had been ceded to Southwest by the Food Services due to the rising cost of maintaining the commons.

As quoted from The Southwest Broadside, September 7, 1972; "For the fall semester, an information desk will be located in the lobby of the Hampden Dining Commons. In the North end of the commons, offices will be constructed in the two smaller areas on either side of the main dining room; the Southwest governing bodies on the East side, and the Human Resources Center on the West. The large area in the North end will become a theatre for the showing of films and will also be equipped with a stage and lighting for drama".

The Human Resource Center has been established on the West side with several counseling programs in operation, but the only sign of the Southwest governing bodies on the East side is a colossal heap of overturned desks, chairs, leaflets, a filing cabinet, two lockers and a couple of dirty couches. Three potted trees and a directory occupy the main lobby, behind which is a locked storage area.

Food Services uses part of the building for a cafeteria. Munchie's and pinball machines were moved upstairs during the Spring of 1973. A film viewing area has been set up which is sometimes, though rarely, in use.

Plans are by no means abandoned, but cannot be implemented until some type of security measures are procured for the building. A door has long been scheduled for the right-hand side to cover the entrance into the main lobby.

As it is at present, a hole giving access directly into the East side presents too great a risk if expensive equipment were to be moved in.

John Hunt, Master of Southwest, said that although a few programs have been abandoned, such as the Area West Judiciary and a SW Community Relations Board, it is hoped study areas, an information desk, campus phones (there are three next to Munchie's), a center for performing arts, SW Assembly and a few other offices, some of which are now housed in J.Q.A. can soon be placed into Hampden Dining Commons.

Dubois Papers Acquired: UMass: Black History Center

By DAVE GREENSLIT

The papers of pioneer civil rights leader W.E.B. DuBois will help establish UMass as a major international center for research in black history, according to the head of the Department of Black Studies.

Professor Mike Thelwell said that since DuBois was such an important figure in the "development of the modern Afro-American community", it is impossible to research the subject without reference to his life and works.

The University has acquired the late DuBois' papers through an agreement with his wife, according to Chancellor Randolph Bromery. The works will cost $150,000 over a period of 10 years and will be funded by outside sources, Bromery said. He added that prospects for outside sources, Bromery said. He added that prospects for outside financing were "encouraging."

One third of DuBois' papers were located in Cairo where Bromery travelled in the end of August to supervise the packing and shipping of the works. Bromery said boxes containing the 500 lbs. of documents were not itemized and, at a time when Egypt is particularly careful of what passes in and out of the country, the customs preocedure took several hours. The Egyptians delayed releasing two films of DuBois, but Bromery said the films were not confiscated, and arrangements for their release will be made.

In addition to the papers covered by the contract, Bromery said Mrs. DuBois will give him a life-size bronze bust of DuBois, which is now with a sculptor in London, and several hundred photographs. Bromery said he will add these to the library collection. Mrs. DuBois will also donate an oil painting of her husband, he said.

Both Mrs. DuBois and Bromery are working to have DuBois' personal library, now in Ghana, included in the University collection.

Bromery added that the collection is now locked in the University Library and access to them has been "deferred". He gave three reasons:

1 - funding for the "acquisition of the papers" is still in progress,

2 - acid in the old papers has made them brittle and $50-60,000 is needed for the preservation process, and

3 - someone is needed to catalogue and codify the papers.

The DuBois collection contains a great deal of information that until now was unavailable, according to Professor Thelwell. He said many scholars will be attracted to UMass because of the papers.

W.E.B. DuBois was born in Great Barrington, Mass. in 1868. He received his P.H.D. in sociology from Harvard in 1895.

DuBois was an early leader in the movement of social equality for blacks. During a period of extreme oppression was a founder of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and organized the first four Pan-African Congresses.

He died in Ghana in 1963. Af the overthrow of the Nkrum government in Ghana, Mrs DuBois moved many of his papers to Egypt. The remainder are in New York.

When Will Law Go Into Effect?

(Continued from P. 1)

This bill has its advantages and disadvantages. It simply wipes out the raison d'etre for assigned risk agencies. This removes the opportunity for fraudulent companies to cheat the driver. But it also drags down the honest agencies. Lawrence estimates that he will "lose one third" of his present volume.

The reason companies take on assigned risks is that they need the business. Lawrence said, "insurance is a father to son business. The same agency usualy serves all the members of the family through generations. In a young business like ours, a large cliental is not yet built. Now that the students can go to nearby Amherst, there is no reason for them to drive 9 miles to the office in Northampton." Even if some of his satisfied customers stay, the student population will have a complete turnover in 4 years so the future looks bleak.

When the new law will go into effect is a question. Some want it for January 1974, while others want to wait till March. One agent in Amherst said "most policies change in January anyway, so it would be easier to do it then." A larger agency complained that "our volume is too large in January. Waiting until March would make it a lot less confusing".

There are some price differences young drivers suffer that won't be changed. Discrimination by sex, for example. Women have always had the pleasure of letting men know that they only have to pay half as much as men do. This is based on the statistics that show men are involved in 85% of the accidents.

When asked why this ratio exists, one secretary replied "women are just better drivers than men". Lawrence presented a different picture. He pointed out how "men will drive more often than women. When they go out on a date it is the man who drives. And afterwards if they both have been drinking and are unfit to drive, it is again the man who will take the wheel."

Where an individual garages his car can also make a difference in his premium cost. Depending on the number of cars and accidents in an area, the price in one community can differ from that of another. Amherst has the second lowest rate in the state, compared to the highest rate in Boston. Sunderland and Northampton have the same rate as Amherst. Belchertown has a slightly higher rate, "but not enough to make it a factor in deciding where to garage a car" said one agent. The location for which a person will be charged is determined on where he has it most of the time.

Actually, if an individual goes to school in Amherst for 9 months and lives in Boston the other 3 months an insurance agency could charge a higher rate for the time spent in Boston. But the added cost of the paperwork involved makes such a system undesirable, so the agent does not usually charge the higher premium for the 3 months.

The new system makes getting insurance more equal for the young driver. Statistics show that the drivers in the 25-35 age group are also in possession of a high accident percentage. But as one agent said "you couldn't expect the middle aged driver to accept that assigned risk stuff. Adults just wouldn't stand for it". Now the young driver doesn't have to stand for it either.

ENTERTAINMENT
HATCH
Wednesday
Coffeehouse
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"Zonkeraz"
BLUEWALL
Wednesday
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"Sloth"
T.O.C.
Friday & Saturday
Williams & Valen

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday
Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Air Strike On Damascus

(AP Wirephoto via cable from Beirut)

Syrian civil defense personnel and others stand outside a house in Ain RemmaHeh Square in Damascus, where all the foreign embassies are located, after the house was destroyed during Israeli air strike on the city Tuesday.

Egypt, Israel Advance Troops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egyptian tanks launched a broad, day-long attack Sunday on Israel's Sinai defense line. In Syria, the advance of Israeli armor in the direction of Damascus was reported slowed by heavy Syrian artillery fire.

Israeli tanks moved within 21 miles of Damascus, a day after Israeli officers had reported advance armor being about 16 miles from the Syrian capital.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan of Israel, who last week predicted overnight victory in Syria, said Sunday in a nationally televised speech:

"This is not like previous wars. This one is difficult and there are hard battles. It is a war of many days and much blood."

The Cairo command said its armored columns seized unspecified "new areas" of land in the Sinai peninsula and knocked out 150 Israeli antitank missiles.

The Israeli command said its forces beat back the Egyptians to a line three or four miles from the Suez Canal and that the Egyptians lost more than 200 tanks.

The command in Tel Aviv said that 656 Israeli soldiers were killed in the first eight days of Middle East fighting, including the commander of Israeli tank forces in the Sinai. The new conflict, the fourth Arab-Israeli war since 1948, broke out Oct. 6.

Some diplomatic sources in Cairo viewed the new Egyptian offensive in the Sinai as an attempt to divert Israeli energy from the hard-pressed Arab forces in Syria.

The Israeli tanks punching into Syria moved up to the town of Sasa about 21 miles southwest of Damascus and the Tel Aviv command said its advance artillery was shelling the suburbs of the Syrian capital.

Officers told newsmen some spearhead units had probed to within 16 miles of Damascus on Saturday. But Associated Press photographer Spartaco Bodini said the main Israeli column trying to seize control of Sasa ran into tough resistance from Syrian snipers.

AP special correspondent Hugh A. Mulligan said the advance also was slowed by the Syrian shelling.

"Keeping the Israeli spearhead going is difficult because of murderous Syrian artillery fire," Mulligan said from the Syrian front. "The Israelis are not having much sscess in knocking out these long-range Soviet guns firing from the front and the flanks."

Residents of the Syrian capital said in telephone calls to Beirut, Lebanon, that they heard no explosions near the city. A Syrian government newspaper published a special edition to deny the Israeli shelling claims.

There was no word of effective aid from Jordan, which announced its entry into the war Saturday. But a spokesman in Damascus reported the Syrian lines were bolstered by Iraqis and Moroccans and called the defenses "good and strong."

Communiques from Damascus said Israeli jets were attacking air fields in Syria and claimed shooting down several of them. The Egyptian military command claimed 24 Israeli warplanes were shot down in dogfights swirling over the Sinai tank battles.

Cairo claimed its armor struck out against the Israeli defenders at dawn and recaptured more of the occupied peninsula behind Egyptian warplanes bombing Israeli positions all along the front.

"Fighting is still raging with heavy violence and savagery all along the front inside Sinai between our armored and mechanized forces advancing east and the enemy forces trying to stop them," an Egyptian communique said.

Tel Aviv claimed its jets and tanks "are inflicting heavy losses on the enemy and his armored forces." Israeli spokesmen said the Egyptian advance was stopped short and the Egyptian tanks were forced to return to their lines.

FACES OF EARTH
OPEN 9:30 - 6:30 - FRIDAYS till 9

Good Used Clothing

Suede jackets for men & women 5.95
Womens 40's jackets 4.95
13 button bells 5.95
Pea Coats 7.95
Leather jackets 13.95
Suede, leather & cloth vests 1.95 to 3.25

NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE — IN AMHERST!

Gov't. Suggests Prison Reforms

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal crime commission says many criminals should go free and many prisons should be replaced with programs more humane and effective than incarceration.

Only hard-core offenders should be imprisoned and even then, many barriers to community contacts should be lifted, the commission said.

It recommended conjugal visits, coeducational facilities and an end to prison uniforms for convicts and guards. It took a hard-line approach only in the case of organized crime figures.

The 636-page report by the National Advisory Commission on Criminal Justice Standards and Goals was produced during a two-year study financed by a $1.75 million federal grant. The report was based on the work of a task force headed by Joe Frazier Brown, a San Antonio lawyer and former director of the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

Commission Director Thomas J. Madden, general counsel of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, agreed that the recommendations were liberal for a commission of local, state and federal crimefighters.

But he said members recognized that harsh punishment has failed to curb crime.

Woven throughout the report was a call for police, judges and correction officers to employ the "least drastic" method of dealing with a criminal and at the same time protecting the public.

"The entire tenor of this report is that incarceration is not an effective answer for most criminal offenders," the commission said. "The failure of major institutions to reduce crime is incontestable. Recidivism rates are notoriously high. Institutions do succeed in punishing, but they do not deter."

Consequently, the commission proposed:

- No prison sentence should exceed five years exept for those dealing with murderers, professional criminals and persistent dangerous offenders.
- Courts should impose prison sentences only as a last resort after considering such other tactics as immediate release with or without conditions, probation, fines, and sentencing to a halfway house or work-release program.
- States should build no major institutions for juveniles "under any circumstances" and none for adults except in rare cases where no alternative exists.

In The Nation And The World

HONORS PROGRAM

The Commonwealth Scholars' Program will be accepting new members during the weeks of October 9th and October 15th. This Program is intended for those students with a more than ordinary commitment to academic studies. Students who elect to join the Program are excused from University Core Requirements, provided that they take the required Honors courses and maintain certain minimum academic standards. Students who are interested should inquire at Machmer E-23.

This Wednesday and Thursday, the 17th and 18th RALPH KIRKPATRICK,
World Famous Harpsichordist will be performing in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.
All Bach Program on the 17th Bach Couperin Scarlatti Program on the 18th
Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students, $3.00 others
Presented by the Fine Arts Council Telephone 545-0202
Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4 p.m. or Bowker one hour before concert

---

In Choosing Ford: Avoidance Of Party Stress

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon's choice of Rep. Gerald R. Ford for vice president avoids two courses that could have had major implications within the Republican party.

The first would have been to pick one of the major 1976 presidential contenders, John Connally, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York or Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

But resentment of Connally's switch from Democrat to Republican and a wariness towards him among GOP lawmakers would have caused the threat of rejection.

If any of the three men became vice president, he would have three years to build support among Republican party leaders and the public for the 1976 presidential nomination.

To a lesser extent, this would have been true had Nixon taken a second course and selected one of the lesser known, younger Republicans considered the GOP hope beyond 1976.

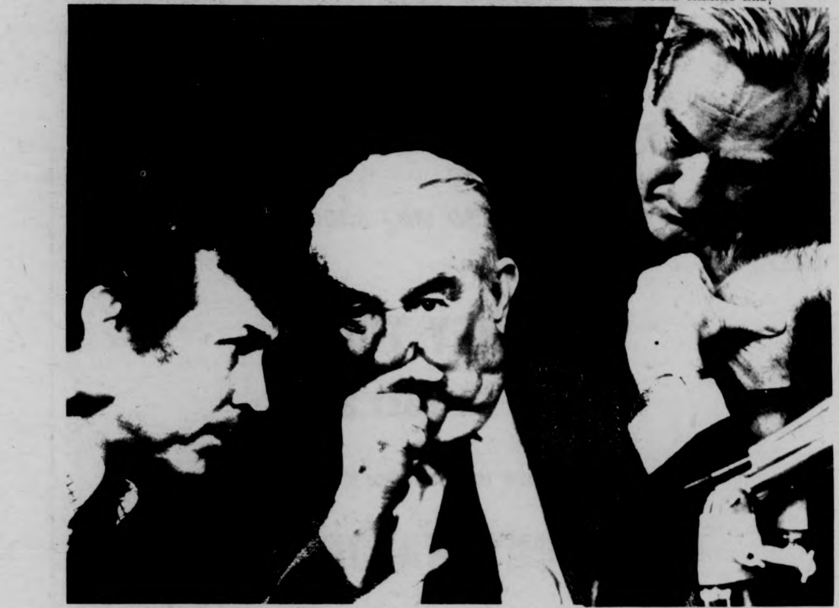
This group includes NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld, Republican National Chairman George Bush, Deputy Atty. Gen. William Ruckelshaus. Indianapolis Mayor Richard Lugar and Govs. Robert Ray of Iowa and Daniel Evans of Washington.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee and Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, both 1976 possibliities could have been included in the list, but were ruled out because of their roles in the Watergate investigation and the Agnew case.

If the President chose any of these men as vice president, he would have created a new political star capable of giving the GOP a fresh image.

By choosing Ford, who says "I have no intention of being a candidate for any political office in 1976," Nixon took the safe middle course that could have relatively little impact on the Republican future.

If Nixon and Ford finish their terms and retire, the GOP race in 1976 could be wide open for the first time since 1952, although two things could change this,



Senator Howard H. Baker, vice-chairman, Senator Sam J. Ervin, chairman, and Samuel Dash, chief counsel of the Senate Select Committee on Campaign Activities confer during hearings on Watergate. NPACT's gavel-to-gavel coverage of the hearings will continue when the committee reconvenes to complete its investigation. The hearings will be transmitted on Channel 57 each Tues., Wed. and Thurs. nights during October beginning at 8:00 p.m.

Thailand Gets Civilian Premier

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - The head of the military government resigned yesterday in the wake of violent street clashes between authorities and thousands of demonstrators. He was replaced with the first civilian premier since 1953.

Dr. Sanya Thammasak, rector of the university where most of the demonstrations were organized, was named by the king to succeed Premier Thanom Kittikachorn.

The new premier announced on radio and television Sunday night that there would be a new constitution within six months, with general elections to follow as soon as possible.

The demonstrators had demanded an end to military government, enactment of a new constitution and the release of 13 dissidents jailed last week on treason charges.

Accounts that could not be confirmed either through the government or other official sources said a number of persons were killed and hundreds injured in the street fighting.

Those accounts came from nurses at hospitals and witnesses at the scenes of the fighting. Red Cross staffers at one overcrowded hospital stood outside, pleading with passersby to give blood.

Demonstrations and sporadic police shooting continued into the night despite the naming of the new premier.

CUSTOM Black & White film processing and boxframing for working professionals & semipros
Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

Colonel Sanders Big Chicken Feed(s)
Monday and Tuesday Only

Feeds 4 to 6
Big Chicken Feed $4.99
— Twelve tender, tasty pieces of finger-lickin' good Kentucky Fried Chicken
— One pint of the Colonel's special cole slaw
— One pint of mashed potatoes
— One pint of special gravy
— Six hot biscuits
clip the coupon

Feeds 5 to 9
Super Chicken Feed $6.99
— Eighteen tender, tasty pieces of finger-lickin' good Kentucky Fried Chicken
— Two pints of the Colonel's special cole slaw
— Two pints of mashed potatoes
— One pint of special gravy
— Nine hot biscuits
clip the coupon

Chicken-In
Chicken-Out

Seating for 54
Free Delivery
256-8745

Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Rte. 9 (across from Zayre's) Hadley
256-8745

Ford Hopes For Military Settlement In Mid-East

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford expressed hope Sunday "we get a military solution quickly" in the Middle East war.

"You can't get a diplomatic solution until you have a military solution," Ford told newsmen who questioned him following White House worship services.

The veteran congressman nominated to succeed Spiro T. Agnew in the nation's second highest office was briefed on the Middle East Saturday by President Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Asked about U.S. aid to Israel, Ford said "we are certainly fully meeting all of our commitments in the ongoing program," which he described as "very substantial."

When asked whether he saw hope that the fighting would end soon, Ford responded that is "a possibility - I hope so. I hope we get a military solution quickly and then we can work on a diplomatic solution."

The improptu session with reporters proceeded Ford's departure on a long-scheduled trip to the western United States.

Traveling in a presidential jet he planned to visit a son who is a student at Utah State University and then fly to Portland, Ore., to address the Portland Republican Century Club and a druggist convention on Monday before returning to Washington.

Nixon disclosed Ford's nomination at the White House Friday night.

The House and Senate must confirm Ford's nomination, and both plan to have confirmation hearings. Ford said he hopes they are "the most open, the most independent, the most frank hearings possible."

Ford earlier said he had helped a Washington lobbyist by assisting a Dutch doctor win immigration to teach at Harvard University.

The lobbyist, Robert N. Winter-Berger, had made allegations about favors involving congressmen, in a book, "the Washington Pay-Off." Ford said the allegations represented one of two incidents in his 25-year House career that might raise questions at the hearings.

Ford commented on the allegation Saturday night while flying back to Washington, from a visit to Cedar Springs, Mich., in his congressional district.

He said his staff looked for files on all dealings with Winter-Berger and found only one - on securing approval of immigration status for the Dutch doctor to teach at Harvard Medical School.

"They knew there are a lot of Dutch in my district and they asked me to help," Ford said. "His the doctor's case had merit so I did. I don't know what his relationship with Mr. Winter-Berger was."

Happiness Is...

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Lori Herskey's definition of pleasure is: "When you go to the doctor for a checkup and you think you need a shot, but you're okay."

Susan Lloyd defines it as "when my brother stops playing his toy piano while I'm watching TV."

The pupils in Mary Ryan's fifth grade class at Nocrest elementary school had read a column in the Miami Herald about things that don't cost much but give a great deal of satisfaction.

So they decided to write the newspaper and give a few examples of their own.

"Getting a new parakeet who chatters all day long and has very colorful feathers" was Roger Allen's suggestion.

Mark Todd says pleasure is "getting my first dog and dreaming of the fun I'll have with him."

Gail Tumolo offered: "Smelling my grandmother's hamburgers."

On the more practical side, Betty Zervoudakis likes "getting money for my birthday."

Darby Sieman thinks nothing beats finding "it's stopped raining and you can go swimming after all."

New this semester!

PSYCHOHISTORY 1,
ASTROLOGY 2,
EXISTENTIALISM 3 . . .
AND SIX OTHER SUBJECTS

Nine of the many new Penguin paperbacks now available at your campus bookstore:

1. IN SEARCH OF NIXON. Bruce Mazlish. A pivotal book in the new field of psychohistory, In Search of Nixon examines the hidden relationship between Nixon the man and Nixon the public figure. Recommended by The New York Times — "valuable as a guide to the day's news." $1.50.
2. THE CASE FOR ASTROLOGY. John Anthony West and Jan Gerhard Toonder. The most convincing case yet made for astrology, with startling evidence of a relationship between events on earth and the positions of the sun, moon, and stars. $1.65.
3. EXISTENTIALISM. John Macquarrie. A complete review of a philosophy that has formed modern man. $1.95.
4. WOMEN AND CHILD CARE IN CHINA. Ruth Sidel. Photographs by Victor W. Sidel. This firsthand report on the changing status of women and children in today's China has important implications for our own society. $1.25.
5. C.I.A.: The Myth and the Madness. Patrick J. McGarvey. An insider's view of the C.I.A., revealing many surprising facts and myth-shattering realities about American intelligence operations. $1.65.
6. THE TAROT. The Origins, Meaning and Uses of the Cards. Alfred Douglas. This exciting book of occult detection tells all that can be told about the ancient and mysterious set of playing cards known as the Tarot. $1.45.
7. PSYCHOANALYSIS AND WOMEN. Edited by Jean Baker Miller, M.D. Writings that revise the traditional psychoanalytic approach to women. Contributors include such eminent figures as Karen Horney, Alfred Adler, Clara Thompson, and Mary Jane Sherfey. $2.95.
8. BEYOND WORDS. Kurt W. Back. The story of sensitivity training and the encounter movement. $1.75.
9. HOW THE GOVERNMENT BREAKS THE LAW. Jethro K. Lieberman. Documented evidence that the greatest lawbreaker in the U.S. is the government itself. $1.95.

PENGUIN BOOKS INC

Mixed Feelings On Agnew's Sentence

BOSTON (AP) - There is a frequent tendency for the courts to treat persons in high places more tenderly than those less well situated, a Boston civil liberties lawyer said of resigned Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's court appearance last week.

William P. Homans Jr., in a comment written for the Boston Sunday Globe, said that people could applaud the tenacity of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson in "forcing the Vice President to come to terms with the criminal justice system."

On the other hand, Henry P. Monaghan, professor of constitutional law at Boston University Law School, in a companion article for the Globe, that Agnew "suffers-is punished, if you will-in a way that the 'ordinary' criminal is not.

"He is the target of a pitiless and unremitting exposure which has destroyed his reputation, not only in his community but around the world, and probably for all time.

"He, unlike the typical criminal, has nowhere to hide, nowhere to begin again," he wrote. "His cries of innocence will fall on deaf ears; the government's published summary of its evidence takes care of that.

"Nevertheless the real question is not what Agnew has suffered but what the government has gained.

"Granted that Agnew drove a hard bargain, I think the government was justified in paying his price," Monaghan wrote.

Homans said that the convicted felon of lowlier station "who actually goes to prison surely suffers no less indignity in confinement."

"He suffers no less in separation from his family. He may indeed suffer more than the highly placed person in being unable to obtain employment after confinement.

"The attorney general's recommendation appears in large part a product of the very natural sympathy which one person in high station is bound to feel for another.

"The nation should consider whether he made the right decision for the wrong reason," Homans wrote.

Agnew's resignation from the vice presidency was announced in Washington almost simulataneously with his appearance last Wednesday in federal court in Baltimore, where he pleaded no contest to a charge of income tax evasion in 1967. All other charges against him were dropped.

Conn. Unemployment Compensation

State Charged With Denying Claims From Pregnant Women

NEW HAVEN (AP) - The woman, who won a class action suit claiming unemployment compensation for pregnant women, says that the state has failed to comply with a court order on the matter.

In legal papers presented Friday in Federal court, Sabine D. Jordan said state Labor Department personnel have engaged in "deliberate and systematic efforts to discourage and undermine" attempts by women seeking to file claims.

Last June U.S. District Court Judge Robert C. Zampano struck down a state law denying pregnant women unemployment compensation two months before and after childbirth. The order was made retroactive to Jan. 1, 1971.

The Jordan leagal papers filed Friday request that the state be found in contempt of Judge Zampano's order.

The motion asks that the department personnel "cease and desist from in any way harrassing, intimidating or discouraging" women from applying for benefits denied when they were pregnant and to deal with these women "in a fair, equitable and unbiased manner."

Judge Zampano ordered the state to answer the charges in court Oct. 23.

The motion lists a number of tactics allegedly employed by the department to turn away or obstruct applicants.

Women are denied interviews, when they first appear at the office and are made to return more than once before their applications are accepted, the motion stated.

Included in the papers are affidavits from women who applied for benefits.

One affadavit stated that an interviewer told a woman, "Just between you and me," the unemployment office is "using one technicality or another" to deny claims.

Another woman alleged in her signed statement that she was told she had no chance of collecting benefits.

"We can find something in just about every case to discredit everyone. The whole thing is laughable," stated the affadavit, quoting a state interviewer.

New Commissioner Opposes Death Penalty

BOSTON (AP) — Newly appointed Massachusetts Correction Commissioner Frank Hall said Sunday he is opposed to the death penalty and does not think it prevents the commission of serious crimes.

"The dealth penalty assumes there is no hope for an individual-not tomorrow, not next year, not 40 years from now," Hall said on WNAC-TV's "Newsmakers" program.

"I don't think I can work in corrections and accept that," he said. "I've got to feel there is hope,"

Hall said the basic responsibility of the correction department is to protect the public by maintaining convicted offenders in confinement.

"But I also feel that what goes with that is an understanding and acceptance of the responsibility for changing that offender, for providing him with some opportunities, so that when he leaves the institution he'll be prepared to accept responsibilities that go with freedom," Hall said.

He said the furlough program is "a very important component" in the process of easing offenders back into society.

"It offers the man some opportunity to be out in the community under what wold be considered reasonably normal circumstances, yet you still have him under supervision," he said.

Persons judged to be dangerous, threats or security risks should not be allowed home leaves or furloughs, Hall said.

Today Is The Last Day To Inspect Your Car...

DO IT!

Everybody else does it so why shouldn't we . . .

LOONEY TUNES
at 64 East St.
is proud to announce its first
DEMONSTRATOR SALE

All receivers, turntables, speakers, pre-amps, power amps, tuners and tape decks are drastically reduced in price. All equipment is fully warranteed and in excellent condition. Come to the Looney House for the stereo of your dreams at prices you can afford. Gobble at Looney Lionel when you come in and save an additional 3 per cent on your purchase.

The sale starts Wednesday, October 17 and is on a first come, first serve basis.

Remember at Looney Tunes our normal prices are our competitors' sale prices and our sale prices beat theirs.

LOONEY TUNES

Come and see what we have to offer —

Off Rt. 9.

Trying to find something out but!

FEEL AS THOUGH YOU'RE BEING STIFLED BY ALL THE RED TAPE?

USE MDC'S SPECIAL NEW COLUMN

WHAT'S THE STORY? appearing soon!

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

Faculty Informed On Collective Bargaining

By JUDY FRIEDLAND

One month is left before UMass faculty vote on collective bargaining, during which time partisans of both sides are trying to inform them as to the long-term implications of unionization.

The elections, which will be held November 15 and 16, will climax the campaign for collective bargaining, which began approximately nine months ago.

The administration has set up several mini-libraries around campus containing literature on collective bargaining. Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery, in a letter to the faculty dated September 13, said, "It is my hope that all of us...will take time to inform ourselves of the pros and cons of faculty unionism. Our efforts during the campaign will be directed towards making available a wide range of materials about the theory and practice of faculty unionism and collective bargaining."

The Massachusetts Society of Professors-Massachusetts Teachers Association-American Association of University Professors-Amherst Chapter (MSP-MTA-AAUP), a coalition seeking to represent the faculty in collective bargaining is sponsoring several lectures on the question of unionization. They have brought in speakers to discuss the rights of non-tenured faculty and collective bargaining in practice.

WMUA broadcasted a debate October 4 on the issue of faculty unionization between members of MSP-MTA-AAUP and the Committee of Concerned Faculty (CCF), a group strongly opposed to the idea of unionization at UMass.

The station plans to broadcast several debates before the election.

Few faculty members have taken advantage of this information, according to Professor Larry Roberts of the Zoology Department and a member of the joint executive board of MSP-MTA-AAUP.

"I anticipate a heightening of interest, however, as the election draws closer," Roberts said. He expects approximately ninety percent of the faculty to vote.

Roberts feels that the union will be victorious.

"We have a lot of support from a broad range of people," he said, "not only the have-nots, but also senior faculty."

MSP-MTA-AAUP's immediate goal is the achievement of a bilateral decision-making process. They plan to establish a legal basis for having the faculty heard.

The union does not disagree entirely with present governance procedures. They see several good policies in the new University Governance Document which they feel could be improved upon, retaining the positive aspects with a legal guarantee.

The CCF was formed last spring solely for defeating collective bargaining. They, too, feel that faculty interest in the issue will increase as the election approaches.

Professor Seymour Shapiro of the Botany Department does not predict victory for the union. He disagrees with the MSP-MTA-AAUP's claim for a need for organization among faculty.

"The faculty is organized," he said. "Every member has a voice in governance through the Faculty Senate, and you don't have to pay for the privilege to speak like in the union."

Shapiro isn't opposed to the principle of unionization; however, he thinks that UMass doesn't need one as there is a history of response to Faculty Senate requests from the Administration. He also feels that the implementation of the University Governance Document will further amplify the faculty's voice.

Students are also concerned about collective bargaining.

According to Nick Apostola, Student Government Association President, and Tom Spriggs, chairman of the Academic Affairs Committee, the SGA is presently researching the amount of student input into the bargaining procedures. They are discussing the issue with universities whose faculty have already unionized.

Apostola and Spriggs feel that the faculty could know more about collective bargaining.

"They're not as informed as they could be," they said. "Actually there's not enough proven about faculty unionization-it's a new field."

The SGA is making "contingency plans" in case the faculty votes for collective bargaining.

The elections were originally scheduled for last spring. Disagreement arose over the definition of a bargaining unit, and the election was postponed.

X-Ray Cures Pelvis Bleeding

By WARREN E. LEARY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON (AP)-Doctors have developed an x-ray and blood clot implant procedure they say can cut the mortality rate of those who suffer internal bleeding after a pelvic injury.

Sixty per cent of deaths from injury of the pelvis, the bony ring formed by the bones in the hip region, result from internal bleeding.

Doctors say traumatic injury to the pelvis often results in ruptures of large blood vessels from which blood flows so rapidly that the body has difficulty clotting it.

A research team at Massachusetts General Hospital, and associated with Harvard Medical School, reports in the current issue of the journal Radiology that their method can detect the site of pelvic hemorrhage and stop it there.

The new method requires immediate angiography, that is injecting into a blood vessel a contrast material which is easily seen on an x-ray, to locate the bleeding site.

Once the site of bleeding is located, the doctors withdraw some of the patient's blood and allow it to clot in a dish. Threads of the clot are broken and injected into the bleeding vessel with a syringe attached to a tube previously inserted into the vessel. The researchers say the procedure is successful when x-ray monitoring shows that the injured blood vessels have been closed and the bleeding stopped by the clots.

"Essentially all we have to do is stop the bleeding for a short period of time and then the normal functions of the body will heal the vessel," says Dr. Arthur C. Waltman, a team member.

After the bleeding is stopped, Dr. Waltman says, a patient's prognosis and survival then depend upon how much hemorrhaging he had before clot placement and complications from other injuries.

Dr. Waltman says the traditional way of treating the hemorrhaging pelvis is to give the patient massive blood transfusions to keep the body's blood levels up until the body, hopefully, clots the blood at the site of bleeding.

Using the old method, he says, some patients consumed as much as 50 or more units of blood before the bleeding stopped or the patient died.

An added complication of the pelvic bleeding and massive transfusions, the researchers say, are large reservoirs of blood, called hematomas, which collect in the abdominal cavity.

These large hematomas can put pressure on the kidneys, bowels and lungs which affects the functioning of the organs. While part of a hematoma can be drained with a catheter, Dr. Waltman says, most of it clots and can cause complications until it is dissolved by the body.

Of the nine cases reviewed in the published report, the doctors say all were treated successfully even though four patients died-one because of hematoma ocmplications and the others from extensive injuries.

All other patients recovered with no renewed bleeding or complications, the report said.

Chelsea Battles Raging Fire

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) - A general alarm fire raged out of control Sunday through an area densely packed with homes and businesses near the northern end of Boston Harbor.

Eyewitnesses reported six to eight blocks have been destroyed by the blaze.

All available men and equipment were called from nearby communities.

Some equipment had trouble getting to the scene because traffic around the area was backed up several miles.

People were being evacuated from their homes in the path of the flames which were fanned by blustery west winds up to 40 miles per hour.

The lower section of the Tobin Mystic bridge was opened for emergency vehicles. It had been closed several weeks ago because a section of road collapsed after a girder was hit by a heavy truck.

Clouds of dense smoke hovered over East Boston, Revere and Winthrop. The red glow of the flames could be seen by watchers across Boston Harbor in South Boston.

Southwest Receives Security Requests

By SUSAN WAIHKONEN and JO ANN DOMINICK

A meeting was called Friday by Mike West, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, to announce that Southwest requests for security were met. Also in attendence were the members of the Southwest committee that was formed as a result of the security problem.

The committee is composed of Heads of Residence and student representatives. Attending were Vice Chancellor Gage, John Hunt, Director of Southwest and Floyd Martin, Assistant Director of Southwest.

West announced that in a meeting on last Tuesday with Gage and David Johnston, Head of Security, it was decided to remove five security officers from day parking and return them to night security.

The plan will go into effect October 21st. It will bring the total of RHA's in Southwest to seven.

Every dorm of over 300 residences is to be guarded between the hours of 11-7. Patterson, JQA, Coolidge and Washington are slated for security 7 nights a week. Kennedy and JA will have security 5 nights a week. Student security will still be used in some dorms.

Long range plans include a permanently assigned community police officer to cover Southwest between the hours of 3-11 and 11-7.

There will be open discussions between the police and students prior to the installments of C.P.O.'s to assure the students that police are there to assist them, not hassle them.

One student representative stated "People realize security is a problem and these are the obvious means of dealing with it; they will accept it."

The committee was pleased by the quick action taken by Student Affairs.

John Hunt stated, "Student Affairs was willing to make the move to get more RHA's since the Southwest people are now more willing to take measures to alleviate problems within the dorms."

At the meeting Mike West took issue with the October 11th MDC editorial on crime and the security system.

West said he was "personally affected, not so much by the (MDC) article as by the editorial." He felt there was a lack of communication, "obviously when it was written, the editorialist didn't know the outcome of the meeting and the fact that the problems were solved."

Before leaving the meeting, Gage said "There's almost any problem we can solve. This was a good example of how sitting down and working together can solve a problem. I'd like it not misrepresented when it works. Unfortunately community trust is not built by badmouthing."

The MDC was given no press release concerning the new security measures.

for people who walk on this earth...

If you've walked barefoot on sand or soil you know how great it is. Your heels sink low and your feet embrace the earth. Then you put on your shoes, return to the city, and become another concrete fighter . . . but the concrete always wins. You yearn for the earth that lies buried beneath the city.

The Earth Shoe is the first shoe in history with the heel lower than the sole . . . this helps return you to nature though you are forced to live in a cement-coated world. The Earth Shoe's patented design gently guides you to a more erect and graceful walk, and reduces fatigue and the aches and pains caused by our hard-surfaced city.

For men and women in shoes, sandals and sabots.

From $23.50 to $43.50
Brochure available

KALSØ earth shoe ®

264 North Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass. 01002
(413) 256-8911

14 Story St.
Brattle Arcade
Cambridge, Mass. 02138
(617) 492-6000

Introducing our Low Boot for men and women.

U S Patent No. 3305947

This is the real Kelso Earth Shoe. The picture in yesterday's ad was not correct.

安城中國飯店

AMHERST
CHINESE FOOD
Authentic Chinese
EAT IN TAKE OUT
62 Main Street, Amherst
253-7835
Hours: M.T.Th., 12-10 p.m.; Fri. Sat., 12-12 p.m.; Sunday, 4-10 p.m.; Closed Weds.

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions:
On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd.
oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

Of Interest...

Nursing Program Counceling

Counseling services are available at Machmer Hall in E22. Office hours - Mondays 1-4:30 and Fridays 9-11 or by appointment. Applications for admission will be available by the end of October. An Informal Get-together will be held in Mor. IV-North, Room 413, on October 18th at 7:00 p.m.

Grad Students Receive Grants

Five Umass graduate students in the department of geology--Mehdi Alavi, Richard A. Jackson, William M. Kelly, Jeffrey W. Pferd and Larry D. Williams--have received Grants-in-Aid of Research from the Society of the Sigma Xi.

Grants-in-Aid of Research are supported by voluntary contributions to the research fund by the membership of Sigma Xi and are made after careful evaluation of the merits of a research proposal. Sigma Xi is a nationwide honor society of more than 200,000 members.

Stockbridge Exam Date

Stockbridge Students

MATH S04 (814360) Equivalency Exam October 31, 1973 Time and Place - 2:30 p.m. French 209 Must sign up immediately in Stockbridge Office.

John W. Denison
Director

Free Bicycle Registration

Free bicycle registration will be held from 10:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m. at the Campus Center on October 16, 17, and 18. Register your bike for free with the UMass police.

Air Force Medal Awarded

Captain Dale T. Pearson, assistant professor of air science at UMass has received the Air Force Commendation Medal for the period 24 April 1969 through 15 March 1973, for overall superior maintenance supervision while stationed at Westover Air Force Base.

Captain Pearson, a native of Torrington, Wyoming, received a B.A. in 1967 and an M.A. in 1968 from the University of Wyoming. While attending the university he was commissioned through the AFROTC. Captain Pearson has been a faculty member at University of Massachusetts since May of 1973, and is a graduate student in the history department working toward a Ph.D.

CORRECTION

A board member announced the CC candy counter is cashing checks on Sunday-Wednesday from 4 p.m. to 10 p.m. and on Thrrsday-Saturday from 4 p.m.-12 p.m.

SPECIAL BREAKFAST
Fresh frozen Orange
or Grapefruit juice
Two eggs; Home fries
Toast with jelly
Coffee
99c
—Sandwiches
—Ice Cream
THE GASLITE II
168 N. Pleasant St. 253-2291
Open 6:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m.

World Series Specials
COLOR
The Prodigy
18" diagonal portable
List $289.00
SALE $275.00
The Consort
14" diagonal portable
List $319.00
SALE $245.00
This Week Only!!
Black & White
The Jaunty
9" diagonal portable
List $89.95
SALE $78.00
The Swagger
12" diagonal portable
List $99.95
SALE $85.00
Also in stock at our regular low prices are many other T.V.'s including color, black & white, portables & solid state in a variety of sizes and styles.
RCA
UNIVERSITY STORE
CAMPUS CENTER
Mon. 8:45 a.m. - 9:00 p.m.
Tues.-Fri. 8:45 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.
Sat. 10:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.

DEFLATION

The price of something has gone down at UMass. This year the Student Senate Lecture Note Program has lowered its prices 20% to $2 and $3 per half semester. $2 for 100 minutes per week and $3 for 150 minutes per week

Notes are available for these courses:

Anthro.	102	Dincauze
Anthro.	104A	Forman
Anthro.	104B	Kaschak
Astro.	100	Taylor
Biochem.	223	Little
Bot.	100A	Walker
Bot.	100B	Webster
Bot.	101	Tippo
Chem.	261A *	Cannon
Chem.	261B	Rausch
Econ.	100	Ray
Econ.	103	Kindahl
Econ.	104	Treyz
Food Sci.	101	Clydesdale
Hist.	150	Story
Micro.	140	Lessie
Na. Res.	100	Johnson
Phys.	100	Chang
Poli. Sci.	100A	Gordon
Poli. Sci.	100B	Kramer
Psych.	101	Simonson-Donohue

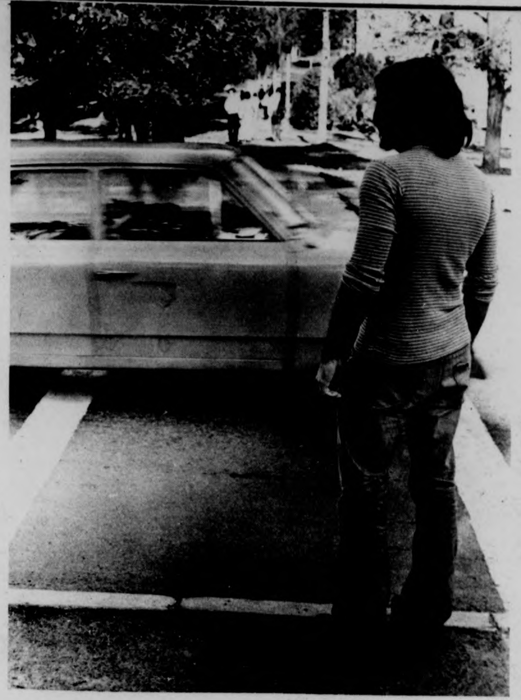
* Answers to problem sets

Psych.	101	Novak
Psych.	101	Miller
Psych.	141	Kamil
Psych.	201	Kates
Psych.	263	Nelson-Shapiro
Psych.	265	Kates
Psych.	270	Gadlin
Psych.	280	Reisman
Psych.	301	Royer
Psych.	325	Turner
Psych.	325	Strickland
Soc.	101	Wilkinson
Soc.	101	Stokes
Soc.	256	Killian
Speech	182	Peirce
Zool.	101	Mrs. Rollason
Zool.	101	Kunkle
Zool.	101	Mr. Rollason
Zool.	101	Moner
Zool.	101	O'Connor
Zool.	135	Dersham
Zool.	221	Coombs

Distributed at:

318SU Lobby	5-2683	9:00 to 4:00 M-F
JQA Lobby in SW	5-3911	10:00 to 4:00 M-F

Noters are also available individually at 25¢ for 50 minutes and 40¢ for 75 minutes.



(Staff Photo-Marcia Lappin)

This passing motorist might soon be $50 poorer.

Motorists Heed: Stop For Pedestrians

By MIKE KNEELAND

The UMass Director of Security has issued a warning to motorists saying the campus police will soon begin ticketing motorists who fail to stop for pedestrians in crosswalks.

"The minute a pedestrian's foot touches the curb, motorists must stop," said David L. Johnston.

State law says pedestrians have the right of way in a crosswalk.

"We haven't issued any tickets yet, but when we do it could cost the driver up to $50," Johnston said.

He said police cars will hide themselves from street view so that violators may be caught.

"Our enforcement of this law coincides with the town of Amherst," Johnston said.

An Amherst police spokesman said he didn't think the police had issued any tickets to motorists.

"We try to enforce it," said the spokesman, "but it's a courtesy thing. A lot of out-of-state drivers don't realize the law is in effect."

He said the police do, however, stop the violators and warn them about the law.

A Northampton police spokesman said some tickets had been issued by his department but "not very many."

Campus police officers say pedestrians should use the crosswalks but that there is no jay-walking ordinance in effect.

"If there was a jay-walking law to enforce," one police officer noted, "we'd be spending most of our time giving tickets to pedestrians."

Look Ma, No Beef!

WASHINGTON (AP) - School lunch cafeterias, which have had to feature chicken and turkey for nearly two years, will do without government-donated beef for a while longer because the price is too high, the Agriculture Department says.

No hamburger has been bought for school lunch donations since Jan. 6, 1972 when it cost the government about 58 cents per pound. The price has nearly doubled and USDA says it will shop around to see if some bargains materialize.

The latest offers by meat packers to sell ground beef to the government for school lunches all were rejected last Friday. Bids were received from six firms offering the meat at prices ranging from almost 99 cents per pound to more than $1.13 per pound.

Although the rejection notice said the department will continue to receive weekly offers, a spokesman said it was "difficult to say" whether price bids in the future would be low enough to warrant purchases.

The department announced Sept. 28 that it would begin considering ground beef offers on a weekly basis but gave no assurances then that it would buy the meat. The decision to consider purchases again was prompted in part by pressure from the American National Cattlemen's Association. The lobby group called on Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz a few days earlier and asked that ground beef be purchased for school lunches to help bolster cattle prices.

CALL
545-2566

HALLOWEEN AT
FACES OF EARTH
NEXT THE TO POST OFFICE
AMHERST

DOLLAR DAYS
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley
all this week at Finast!
Finast
Viva Paper Towels White Decorator or Assorted 126 ct rolls 3 $1
Peaches or Fruit Cocktail Fruit n Honey 3 16 oz cans $1
Green Giant Niblets Corn Whole Kernel Vacuum Packed 12 oz cans 5 $1
Hunts Pear Shaped Tomatoes 3 28 oz cans $1
Bartlett Pears Juicy Idea for the Lunch Box ... Excellent for Cooking and Canning, Too! 3 lbs $1
FIRST O' THE FRESH
Egg Plant Plain, Fried or Parmigiana, Delicious lb 29¢
Cranberries Fresh 1 lb pkg 39¢
Yellow Turnip lb 12¢
Fresh Crisp and Crunchy Good Jumbo Celery 3 bchs $1
Tangerine & Grapefruit in One Tangelos 15 for $1
Boiled Ham Domestic Freshly Sliced To Order half lb 99¢
Mr. Deli Specials Available in Stores with Service Deli
Turkey Roll 55
German Bologna 75
Jarlsberg Cheese 79
Mr. Deli White Bread 2 59
Chuck Steaks or Roasts TV SPECIAL Center Cut USDA CHOICE Bone In Tender Flavorful 79¢ lb
1st Cut Bone In Chuck Steak lb 69¢
Quarter Loin Pork Chops Each Package Contains An Equal Amount of Sirloin Hip & Center Cut Chops 99¢ lb
Calif Roasts USDA CHOICE Semi Boneless Chuck Tender Juicy Flavorful 99¢ lb
Pork Chops OUR BEST CENTER CUT $1.29 lb
London Broil USDA CHOICE Boneless Shoulder $1.39 lb
Country Style Pork Ribs 99¢ lb
Boneless Loin Pork Roast $1.29 lb
Fresh American Lamb Sale
Loin Lamb Chops $1.89 lb
Rib Lamb Chops $1.59 lb
Shoulder Chops $1.29 lb
Lamb Combo For Stew or Chops 79¢ lb
Fresh Chicken Parts Sale
Chicken Legs 69¢ lb
Chicken Drumsticks 75¢ lb
Chicken Breasts 89¢ lb
Chicken Thighs 69¢ lb
OVEN READY Lamb Legs Enjoy the Wonderful Flavor of Tender, Juicy Young Lamb, Roasted to a Golden Brown Perfection 99¢ lb
We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities
MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley
Prices Effective thru Saturday Oct. 20, 1973

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR IN CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fasshacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Jim Lavrakas
NIGHT STAFF	Jan Alexander, Judy Cohen
EDITORIAL	Dean Tucker
SPORTS	Steve Miller, Rich Sevieri
DARKROOM	George Withers, Tom Stewart, Steve Ruggles, Jim Pappas
AD LAYOUT	Vicki Newman

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Fred Weiss

A Tragic Irony

Three years suspended sentence and a ten thousand dollar fine. You could get a larger jail sentence for selling some pot or calling some cops "pigs". Yet this was the sentence that former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew received when pleading "no contest" to tax evasion charges last Wednesday.

Agnew, the sharp tongued, wooden wit of the lawless "law and order" Nixon administration; the man who won fame for his verbal blasts at the "permissive society (after all were not all protesters against the war permissive?!) and the press: Attorney General Elliot Richardson justified just a "caress on the wrists" of a sentence as being in "the best interests of the country". Despite the fact that Agnew's conviction was diluted by extensive plea bargaining, Richardson called it "Justice".

More interesting than the personal drama concerning the Agnew conviction and the irony in itself of a hard talking "law and order" man leaving office for accepting graft, is the contrast that it gives to the drama of this past decade.

Richard Nixon told us to have "compassion" for Spiro Agnew. Richard Nixon told us that those who went to Canada to avoid being drafted to fight in Vietnam were "bums". Richard Nixon tells us a lot of things. He speaks about democracy, then he threatens to break relations with one of the most democratic countries in the world - Sweden. He speaks about democracy, then recognizes the military juntas in Spain, Greece and more recently Chile. Richard Nixon's mind works in many strange ways.

Despite the fact that he received over $100,000 in graft, Spiro T. Agnew will never spend a night in jail. If you divide that sum in to $25, you will realize that right now throughout this country 4,000 people are doing time in prisons for petty larceny; small "corner store" jobs. This is not a sociological dissertation trying to justify these small robberies (blue collar crime); rather it stands out to magnify the absurdity of the Agnew case.

How do you tell some kid in jail down South that smoking marijuana is a greater crime than the Vice President of the United States taking bribes? How do you explain to someone awaiting trial in jail, because he or she cannot post bail, that this is a country of "equal justice under law"? What can you tell someone in jail for selling "pornography", when Agnew will never go to jail for selling state engineering contracts?

Perhaps most frustrating has been the reaction of some of the American people. If you want to believe that Agnew is a martyr, a hero, framed by circumstances-- you are kidding yourself! Spiro T. Agnew is a crook! The evidence against him concerning offenses much more serious than simple tax evasion is more solid than those prison walls that Agnew will never know!

We have also seen a greater resurgence of the great American cliche-ridden rationalization concerning politicians and the political system in general. In the past few days the rationalization has been repeated and expanded in bars, beauty salons, construction sights, and sadly enough even universities throughout the nation.

The rationalization goes as follows: "Agnew took money. Too bad, but so what? They ALL take money, they're all crooks; You can't trust anyone anymore. Agnew just got caught!" With this rationalization many have made Agnew out to be a victim rather than what he is, a criminal opportunist taking advantage of a public trust for his own benefit. Through his recent actions and statements, Agnew seems to have become a cheerleader for the desciples of this tragic cult of rationalizers.

Agnew is not the only crook who misused his political clout; Agnew isn't even the worst offender in the breed of political parasite living off conditioned cynicism of the American conscience. Perhaps this is the great tragedy of our times: people are so conditioned to corruption that they seem to have surrendered to it, rather than fight against it.

The people of the United States deserve a better break in government. But they can no longer be passive participants in the electoral process. They should not resign themselves to mediocrity, and not rationalize corruption. Rather they should support the concept of honest government; still more, they must demand it. Root out the "conflicts of interest", make officials responsible for auditing their finances. These are public figures; they must make themselves more responsible to their constituencies. We are living in times too dangerous, too important, and too exciting to accept anything less than a government run by people who have the public welfare, and not simply their private interest, at heart. Such is not a utopian whimper. Rather, it is a realistic possibility if people care enough to put pressure on those running for office.

Martin Luther King spent time in prison for his work with Civil Rights. Add to that the names of the Berrigans, the Muhammad Alis, the Benjamin Spocks, and countless others whose names we will never know who saw the inside walls of prisons for following their consciences. Spiro T. Agnew will never spend a night in prison, and this must say something about the state of the nation and the quality of justice in our contemporary society.

Fred Weiss is a Collegian columnist.

Charles Camelopard

Say What Spiro?

Former Vice President Agnew was seen pounding the pavement in Washington this week. He was carrying an old beat up attache case. His suit was slightly rumpled and his shoes needed a shine. I approached the former VP hoping to get a few words of political wisdom from the man who had so much to say a few years ago.

"How are you doing Mr. Agnew, my name is Charles Camelopard, I'm the Washington correspondent for the Massachusetts daily Collegian, could I ask you a few questions," I said.

"Nattering nabob of negativism," Agnew mumbled looking straight into my eye. "No comment."

"But sir, please, I'm a student journalist, an interview with you would surely get me an "A" for this semester," I begged. By now I was having trouble concealing my fervor to get a statement from the former Vice President.

"A student?" asked Mr. Agnew.

"Yessir, I'm a student, would you please answer a few questions for me?"

"Effete intellectual snob," said Mr. Agnew. His eyes were cold and his stare cutting.

By now the ex-Vice President was practically running. "Could you please slow down, sir I'm having a hard time catching up with you."

"I am a big trophy," said Agnew, his gate now almost impossible for me to keep pace with.

"Mr. Agnew, Mr. Agnew," I called, "If you don't want to talk here we can go out to my parents house in the suburbs." My father is a college professor we have a nice secluded house."

"Radiclib," said Agnew.

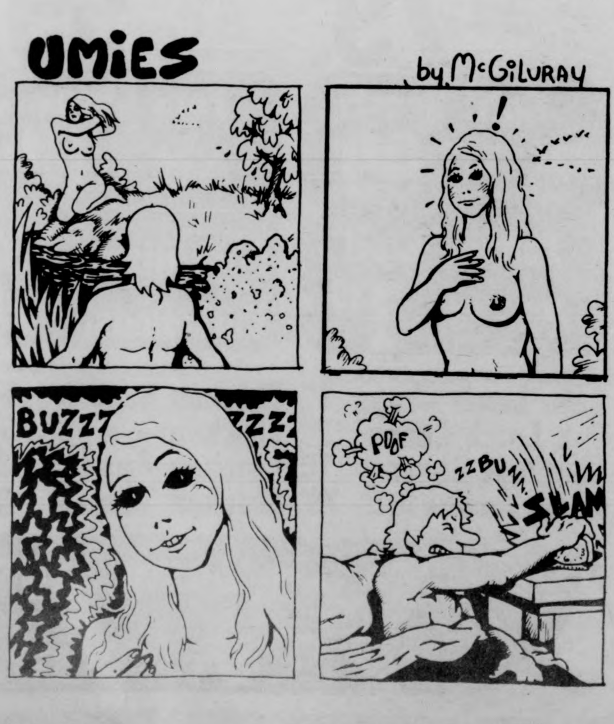
Undaunted I kept up the pursuit. "Mr. Agnew," I asked, "I've heard it is possible that you will be disbarred by the Maryland Bar Association. Do you have any comment to make about that?"

"Damned lies," he shot back at me.

The Vice President was running full tilt now. I only had time for one more question that I had to shout as he pulled away from me. "Mr. Agnew, Mr. Agnew," I yelled; where are you going, where are you going?"

I heard him holler as he ran out of sight. "To the unemployment agency my dear Camelopard, I have to get a job you know."

Charles Camelopard is the Collegian's Washington correspondent.



Editorial Points

It's really a lot of fun working for the Collegian. You get headaches, ulcers, bad grades and now something new. If you are pressed for time and park your car in front of the Student Union you get a nice non-refundable parking ticket from one of the smiling UMass Meter Maids.

+ + + +

Whatever happened to the chimes that told the hour in the chapel?

+ + + +

Don't get caught with your drawers down (or bad ball joints). Today is the last day for car inspection.

+ + + +

The Breathalyzer stops drivers who drink 3 beers in one hour, 4 beers in two hours, or five beers in three hours. You only have to walk for a year if you get caught.

+ + + +

Is it really true that Josh the Jesus freak is running an Orange Julius stand in Coney Island since sale of his book dropped off?

+ + + +

One ounce of Dewars' (or is it 7-8's) for ninety cents in the Bluewall. It's worth it. Where else can you sit among the ravages of two thousand diners and enjoy an afternoon cocktail? Not even at the Drake.

Letters To The Editor

Talk Instead Of Fight

To The Editor:

I believe that the time has come for us Arabs and for the Israelis to realize that we are both losers in war regardless of who wins the battle. After twenty-five years of futile hostility in the area, the time has come for us to re-examine our positions and move on to establish a lasting peace. It is true that the feelings of hate, hostility, fear, suspicion, distrust and prejudice prevailing in the area are difficult to overcome; but it is equally true that if they are to be overcome, we must begin sometime.

Both Jews and Arabs in the Middle East have been too concerned with the injustices inflicted upon them to see the injustice they have caused each other. Israel's concern for the injustice inflicted upon Jews blinded it to the injustice it has inflicted on the Palestinian Arabs. The Arabs' concern with the injustice done to the Palestinians blinded them to the injustice inflicted on Jews. There are other political and economic factors involved which tend to complicate the picture; but the base of the tragedy is human and if each of us can see both sides of the issue, we might be able to reach a solution.

No human hates for the sake of hating and no human kills for the sake of killing. Humans do hate and do kill when these are perceived to be the only options open to them. The Arabs and Israelis are ordinary humans, no more and no less. They kill each other because each perceives killing as the only option to him. Well, it's time to change these damned perceptions; it is time to give ourselves the chance to find other options that might lead us to peace.

I am a Lebanese Arab in the Department of Political Science and I extend my hand to all Arabs, Jews and other concerned people who believe that it is time for us to start talking instead of fighting. I am not very optimistic but I think that this call is long overdue.

Said Khouri

Sexopinballmania

To The Editor:

I am sorry that this letter is late, but I have been very busy. I have to start this letter by saying that I agree and identify with Bob Rossman 1000 per cent in his evaluation of "The Pinball Curse". I have played the role of VULTURE many a time trying to get a shot at Outer Space, Stardust, or Olympic Hockey. While all the time I am saying to myself, "you dumb son-of-a-bitch, let someone who knows how to play use the machines." I then will curse everything imaginable, try to use psychic powers to make the ball go into the "hell hole", or even promise to attend Mass at the Newman Center this Sunday. If this does not work withdrawal symptoms will set in, and I will be forced to run to the likes of Royal Guard, the scum of the dregs in pinball circles, and pop in my quarter. I also agree that pinball can be compared to sex. After all, the object of the game is to get my (pin) balls in the hole and score. The flippers can be viewed as phallic symbols, but all of this can be carried to extremes to which this author does not subscribe. But you cannot deny the fact that both sports are tension releasing and result in satisfaction.

I have often asked myself Bob's question, "Why do people play pinball?" Here are some of my own theories. First of all, pinball depicts the ultimate 20th century struggle between man and machine. Secondly, the machines are instruments upon which students can vent their frustrations. This is very understandable at a large university where people are being shit on by computers (machines again), teachers, departments, administrators, peers, etc. Psychologists would call this phenomenom "displacement", where intelligent human beings at an institution for higher education would not displace their aggression by breaking chairs, etc., but by a more civilized means e.g. pinball. Sociologists would call this "cooling out the mark". finally, people like the competition. How many people would play if there were no replays or token replays? They want to beat their friends or the replay rate and want to beat it every time: man's aspiration for perfection.

Seriously, I love playing pinball and have become quite good at it once UMass addicted me to it. I have the game down to a science. I know what to do in order to exploit every machine in the Campus Center to the fullest. When you put in your quarter and the machine responds with three clicks, you are in another world. You can forget about finals or the DC meals. You are in the company of a "Noble Savage". Pinball is a disease, and there is no cure, serum, or hope. One can only hope to control his urges as I have this semester. Last year I had a $3.50 a week habit. This year I have only spent about $9 since Sept. 3rd, and am yielding a replay about every three or four games. My advice to all is not to indulge in the Number One evil and vice on campus, especially the freshmen because it will steal money from you when you don't have it. But most of all, you should refrain from pinball, so that the next time I go to play King Kool, I won't have to fight you VULTURES!

Tony Yantosca

Tiny Tim A Closet Boy

To The Editor:

I am slowly realizing, while reading these letters to the Editor, that there are a lot of fucked up people in this world. I am referring to TimothyP. Walbridge and others in agreement with him. How can these boys proclaim themselves so great. I do not call them men because it is usually around the fourth grade that boys go through a stage when they hate girls. As soon as these boys grow up, if they ever will, they will realize just what makes a woman. I am not going to define woman because it is not possible to have a straight definition of a personality. Women are not out to dominate men, and men who are in support of womens' rights are not submitting themselves to degradation. We are merely recognizing that all people, male and female, should have the same rights and opportunities. Mr. Walbridge seems to have such a fear of losing his phallus to some female that he is probably in some closet right now making sure he still has one. If he would get out of there and have a decent mature relationship with a woman, then maybe he will realize just how beautiful women are. It is my belief that men and women are born with the same mental capabilities. It is a childs upbringing and the pressures of society that determine a persons role within the framework of society.

So tell me Tiny Tim how can you respect yourself if you are not able to get along with the opposite sex. If you are so respectful then why don't you have the courage to print your correct name. Get out of the closet boy, try for once to be a real human and maybe you won't be such a lonely frustrated little boy.

Brian Kelly

Zero Spiro Cartoon

To The Editor:

Although we agree wholeheartedly with the premises of free speech and a free press we also feel that such freedoms should not be abused. One of the essentials of a "free and responsible" press is obviously the meaningful communication of ideas. The Spiro Agnew cartoon by McGilvrary appearing in Thursday's issue of the Collegian fails to live up to this responsibility. We ask only one question: What does this cartoon contribute? Our answer is NOTHING! This cartoon is not only irrelevant but vulgar. A cartoon such as this reflects little forethought and no discernable political perspective.

Our personal feelings are such that we believe that quantity of press should never be sacrificed for quality of press.

Sylvia Feuer
Bob Pyne

Recycle 'Collegian'

To The Editor:

In addition to the food that we must eat daily in the dining commons, there is another disgusting aspect of these infernal buildings. Abandoned Collegians left on tables, are dumped daily into plastic bags where they will have trouble decomposing, let alone being recycled.

Nature people and other eco-freaks, don't you care? There are "Recyclable Paper Only" bins outside both Franklin and Hampshire dining commons, in various spots in the Student Union and around campus (outside Whitmore). So take your Collegian with you for a few minutes and find the correct bin to put it in instead of "littering". Otherwise you will be just as callous to nature as the plastic bag to which you abandon your paper!

Ranan Cohen

Josh Campaign A Waste

To The Editor:

The recent "Josh Propaganda Campaign" has been an example to all of us of the repulsive wastefulness of so many publicity campaigns on campus. Who could have possibly missed the huge sign in the Student Union and the reminder on every blackboard?. What possible excuse is there for the 12,000 or more handouts and the some 1,000 posters that were tacked on every bulletin board, shoved under every door, and thrust into thousands of undesiring hands.

An enormous amount of time, money and paper was shamefully wasted in the printing of those handbills. So many eyes passed right by the useless collage of six identical posters in a row only to be greeted by six more around the corner. So many hands were seen disgustedly tossing to the ground the flyers which they were so aggressively forced to take. So many open minds were closed to Josh by the offensiveness of his advertising.

The Josh campaign is far from alone in this offense. Recall registration last year, tripping on MOBE posters all the way down the steps of Boyden. We can all think of scores of other examples.

In this era of "environmental awareness", there is right before our eyes and oftentimes generated by us, a tremendous problem of waste and litter. Here is something we can do something about. RSO groups and other organizations--when organizing publicity and informational campaigns, consider the best ways of reaching the most people with the least amount of waste. Large signs in key locations, ads or articles in the Collegian, and radio announcements can be just as effective and nowhere near as repulsive as the wasteful publication of handouts. Teachers--try to use educational handbills only when necessary; if an announcement will do the same thing, don't waste paper. Everyone–Make UMass a nicer place to be by removing old posters and recycling them. Let's make a conscious effort to limit the amount of wasted paper and conserve a natural resource.

A petition has been circulating, in order to get support for our position, in hopes of initiating some action in the matter. So far, 300 people have registered their approval of our stand. Join us.

Diana Taylor Roy
Gail Bassard
Jane Huntington
Laurie Markowitz
Dave Morrell
Martha Seif
Chuck Trudeau

UMass Teachers Not Sick

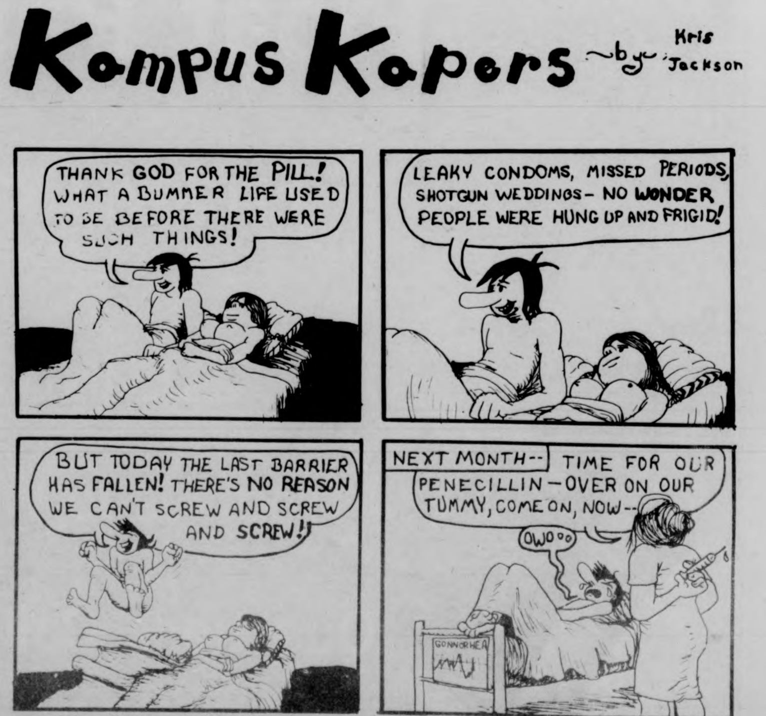
To The Editor:

The Clinic to Improve University Teaching is indebted to the Collegian for its assistance over the past year in informing the UMass community about our development and the services which we offer. We feel, however, that the "Teacher, Heal Thyself!" headline for the article of October 9, may have misled or alienated many faculty members. We do not believe that University teachers are either "sick" or in need of health services from us. We have, however, developed and tested a systematic teaching improvement process for University faculty - a few of whom have had the opportunity to participate in either pre- or in-service teaching preparation programs. We would like to encourage members of the UMass faculty to try this process.

Faculty members who choose to participate in our teaching improvement process will work with an instructional improvement specialist who will help them identify their specific teaching strengths and weaknesses on the basis of personal interviews, classroom observation, videotapes of classes, and the results of a student questionnaire. Following this process teaching improvement strategies developed by the Clinic may be undertaken by faculty members, again with the assistance of a teaching improvement specialist. It should be noted that all data collected while working with the Clinic is kept in strictest confidence.

Please call me at 5-2820 or 5-2518 if you would like additional information or would like to try one of our teaching improvement services. We would be delighted to hear from you.

Glenn R. Erickson



Kampus Kapers
by Kris Jackson
THANK GOD FOR THE PILL! WHAT A BUMMER LIFE USED TO BE BEFORE THERE WERE SUCH THINGS!
LEAKY CONDOMS, MISSED PERIODS, SHOTGUN WEDDINGS-- NO WONDER PEOPLE WERE HUNG UP AND FRIGID!
BUT TODAY THE LAST BARRIER HAS FALLEN! THERE'S NO REASON WE CAN'T SCREW AND SCREW AND SCREW!!
NEXT MONTH-- TIME FOR OUR PENECILLIN--OVER ON OUR TUMMY, COME ON, NOW-- OWOOO

(Staff Photo-Jim Pappas)

Half the maintenance and twice the patience. Is it a study in motion and balance, or is it motion and balance on the way to study.

Don Luce To Speak On POWs Still Held

Tonight at 10p.m., WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will air a speech by journalist-agriculturalist Don Luce concerning the plight of many thousands of political prisoners still being held by the Saigon government.

Tonight's broadcast, portions of which were taped at Mt. Holyoke college on October 3rd, is being presented as a special feature of "Focus," WMUA's weekly public affairs series moderated by Kenneth Mosakowski.

Luce has spent most of the last 14 years in Vietnam, first as an agricultural volunteer with International Voluntary Services and later under sponsorship of the World Council of Churches.

In 1970, Luce was principally responsible for exposing the infamous "tiger cages" in South Vietnam's Con Son prison. Since 1971, he has been director of the Indochina Mobile Education Project.

"AHORA"
Reunion Regular, 15 de octubre de 1973 LUGAR: Campus Center-Room 176 HORA: 7:30 p.m. No Faltes

Starting This Week,

Thursdays, the Collegian

becomes a classroom.

A course in layout will begin.

Central One-On-One Counseling Begins

The Central Area Counseling Center, located in Gorman, opens today at 1:00 p.m.

Last year, the Center, staffed by professionals, focused essentially on one-to-one individual counseling and intensive therapy. This year the emphasis has switched to Outreach Programs in dormitories, including workshops, seminars, team building, and organizational development. Tapes, books, and articles on Racism, Sexism, Drugs-Alcohol, Counseling, Academics and other concerns will be available at the Center.

David Shimizu, from the doctoral Program in the School of Education, is the Graduate Assistant for the Outreach Program, David received both his B.A. in Psychology and M.Ed. in Social Science from the University of Guam. There are five professionals and ten undergraduates working out of the Center. The undergraduates, with expressed interest and ability in counseling, will undergo an extensive training program during the semester. They are: Karen O'Brien, 306 Chadbourne; Janice bergman, 203 Crabtree; Ann Carlson, 307 Greenough; Larry Formica, 303 Brett; Matt Brady, 111 Brett; Marlene Davis, 417 Dwight; Don Grayson, 219 Wheeler; Kitty Horgan, 203 Brooks; Buffy Wiesman, an undergraduate commuter interested in offering services to commuters; Bob Sullivan, B6 Gorman, a member of the Central Area Academic Affairs committee, who will work with Academic questions.

The Central Area counseling Center, B2 Gorman, will be open Monday through Friday 1 p.m. to 9 p.m., and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on thursday, for people who can't make regular hours. Anyone with special needs, concerns, or suggestions for new directions may call the Center . (5-0894); after hours, call Parney (6-4544).

Just what is an automatic transmission Adjustment?
...and what should it cost?

A regular adjustment consists of tightening the bands, adjusting linkage, replacing the filter and refilling with fluid. Doing this once a year for about every 10,000 miles) is like an insurance policy against major trouble, and it keeps your transmission shifting smoothly and efficiently.

United Transmission Exchange, Inc.

389 King Street, Northampton
584-6790

Homecoming Float Parade

Friday, Oct. 19

OPEN TO UNIVERSITY

Trophies to Winners

Questions Call 5-0174

Campus Representatives Split Service Award

Two members of the UMass faculty-one from the Amherst campus, the other from the Boston campus-have been selected to receive the University's Medal for Outstanding Service.

They are the first recipients of the media, which was authorized by Trustees in 1972 to bring special recognition to persons who have given significant and exceptional service to the University.

Selected to receive the medal were Seymour Shapiro, a professor in the Department of Botany at Amherst, and Thomas N. Brown, chairman of the History Department of College I on the Boston campus.

Both men are representatives of their campus faculties to the University's Board of Trustees.

Professor Shapiro was named head of the Amherst Botany Department and professor of Botany in 1964. He has served as acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.

He has frequently served as a moderator and advisor to the Chancellor on major campus issues, and as faculty liaison with students during times of crisis. He is known as an outstanding teacher, scholar and administrator.

Professor Brown has been a member of the Boston campus faculty since the Boston campus was established, and was the first chairman of the Faculty Senate in Boston. He headed the search committee which resulted in the selection of Dr. Carlos L. Golino as Chancellor of UMass-Boston.

He was nominated for the honor by Daisy M. Tagliacozzo, Dean of College I on the Boston campus.

In her letter nominating Professor Brown, Dean Tagliacozzo said "In any difficult situation whose solution requires prudent and sympathetic judgement, both the faculty and administration have turned repeatedly to Professor Brown."

Police Emergency 5-3111

WESTWORLD
...Where nothing can possibly go wrong
Bang the drum slowly
HEAVY TRAFFIC
Hit!

24 HR. TEL. 733-5131
SHOWCASE CINEMAS 1·2·3·4·5
We Honor MASTER CHARGE
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPFLD.

WESTWORLD PG YUL BRYNNER
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:20-9:20
Sat. & Sun. - 2-3:50-5:30-7:20-9:20

Bang the drum slowly PG ★★★★! "HIGHEST RATING!" —N.Y. Daily News
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-9:30
Sat. & Sun. - 1:30-3:20-5:20-7:30-9:30

HEAVY TRAFFIC X
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-9:25
Sat. & Sun. - 2-3:40-5:30-7:40-9:40

Hit! R BILLY DEE WILLIAMS
Wed. Mat. - 2:00
Daily - 7:30-10:00
Sat. & Sun. - 2-4:30-7:20-10:00

WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

see "STAR TREK"
4 p.m. - 5 p.m.
and original
"SUPERMAN" flicks
5 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.
at the BLUEWALL
everyday free!

STATE OF SIEGE
THE LAST OF SHEILA
UP YOUR ALLEY

Now In CINEMA I
YVES MONTAND in a film by the director of "Z", Costa-Gauras
SHOWN DAILY at 7:00 & 9:15

Brilliant
The most engrossing and mature film of many a year. You owe it to yourself to see it.
A knockout of a movie

HELD OVER! THE LAST OF SHEILA (PG)
RICHARD BENJAMIN DYAN CANNON JAMES COBURN JOAN HACKETT JAMES MASON IAN McSHANE RAQUEL WELCH
WHO DONE IT? at 7:00 & 9:15

Campus Cinemas 256-6411 AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

DOLLAR NIGHT! Mon. & Tues. Admission 1^{00}

THE ALL-OUT SEX COMEDY RIOT!
The hysterically funny story of a wild and wacky Mafia gang, the F.B.I., 40 beautiful girls, and how Seymour became the world's greatest lover.
UP YOUR ALLEY "R" 7 & 9

A COMEDY OF MURDERS
CHARLES CHAPLIN
AS

Monsieur Verdoux
FROM AN IDEA SUGGESTED BY ORSON WELLES
WITH MARTHA RAYE
WRITTEN, DIRECTED AND SCORED BY CHARLES CHAPLIN
TONIGHT
Thompson 104 6, 8, 10 p.m.
Amherst Film Coop
ar. rbc films presentation

A Man Called Horse
starring
RICHARD HARRIS

"A Straightforward, Unadorned Adventure Story!"
— NEW YORK MORNING TELEGRAPH
"Boasts An Authentic Version Of Indian Life!"
—NEWSWEEK MAGAZINE

Thompson 104 Oct. 16, 1973
8 p.m. & 10:15 p.m.
Admission 75¢

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON
NOW — 7:00 & 9:15
only area showing!
"THE YEAR'S BEST AMERICAN FILM THUS FAR!" Paul D. Zimmerman Newsweek
"The Friends Of Eddie Coyle"
Starring
Robert Mitchum Peter Boyle
A Paramount Picture R
mon. & tues. —DOLLAR nite

VEGETATING IN THE 'OLE DORM, AGAIN? Well . . .
TONITE
MAGIC MUSHROOM assorted shorts of sorts
CHARLIE CHAPLIN &
The Fatal Glass of Beer
W. C. FIELDS &
FRANKENSTEIN & ABBOT & COSTELLO with Keystone Cops & ROAD RUNNER & BUGS BUNNY plus
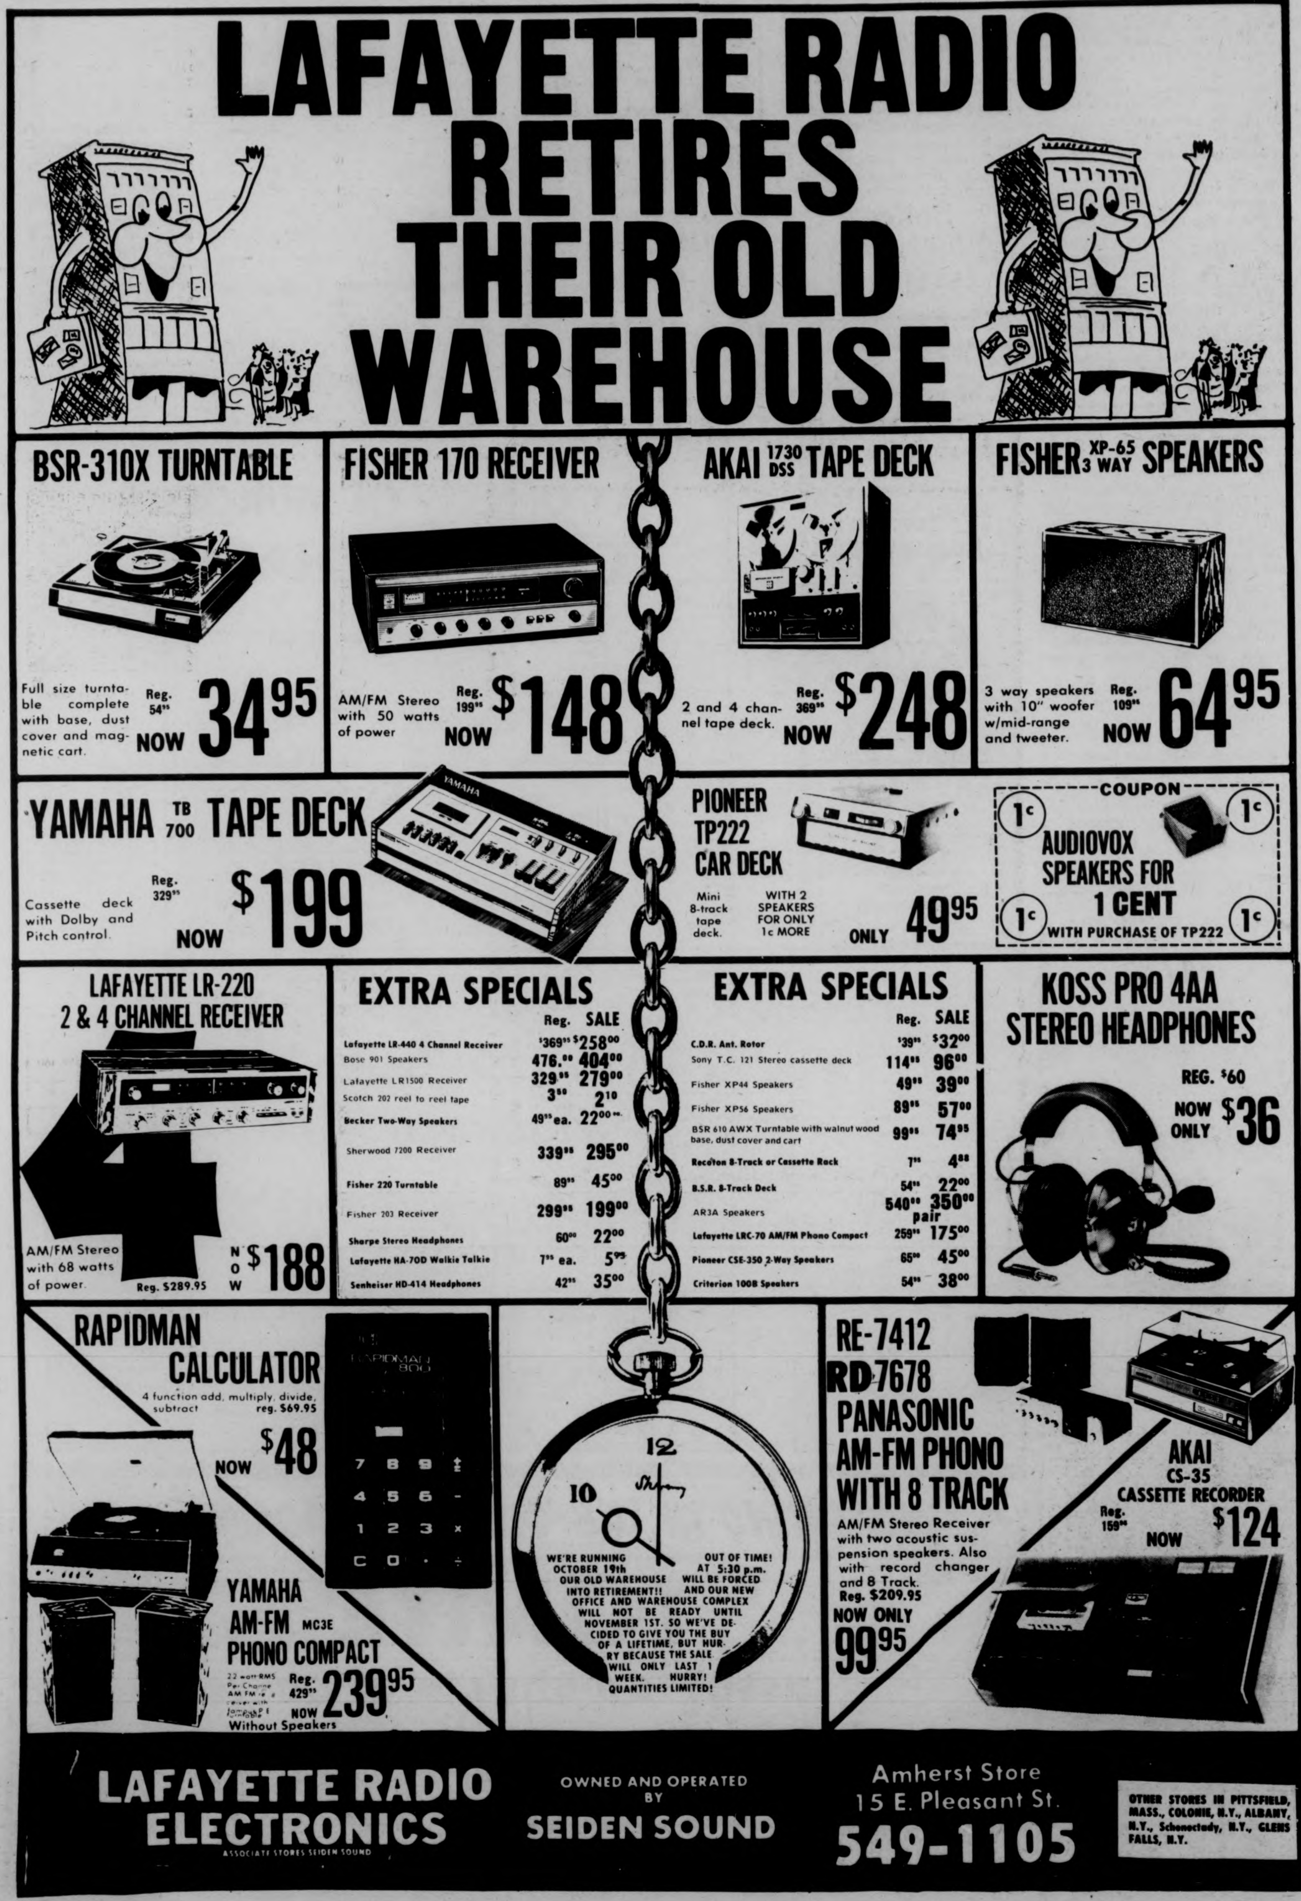
WOLFMAN &
PINK PANTHER
James Thurber's
Unicorn in the Garden & more
ALL TONITE AT
S.U.B. 7, 9:15, 11:30



LAFAYETTE RADIO RETIRES THEIR OLD WAREHOUSE

BSR-310X TURNTABLE
Full size turntable complete with base, dust cover and magnetic cart. Reg. 54^{95} NOW 34^{95}

FISHER 170 RECEIVER
AM/FM Stereo with 50 watts of power Reg. 199^{95} NOW $148

AKAI 1730 DSS TAPE DECK
2 and 4 channel tape deck. Reg. 369^{95} NOW $248

FISHER XP-65 3 WAY SPEAKERS
3 way speakers with 10" woofer w/mid-range and tweeter. Reg. 109^{95} NOW 64^{95}

YAMAHA TB 700 TAPE DECK
Cassette deck with Dolby and Pitch control. Reg. 329^{95} NOW $199

PIONEER TP222 CAR DECK
Mini 8-track tape deck. WITH 2 SPEAKERS FOR ONLY 1c MORE ONLY 49^{95}

COUPON
1c 1c
AUDIOVOX SPEAKERS FOR 1 CENT
WITH PURCHASE OF TP222
1c 1c

LAFAYETTE LR-220 2 & 4 CHANNEL RECEIVER
AM/FM Stereo with 68 watts of power. Reg. $289.95 NOW $188

EXTRA SPECIALS

	Reg.	SALE
Lafayette LR-440 4 Channel Receiver	369^{95}	258^{00}
Bose 901 Speakers	476.00	404^{00}
Lafayette LR1500 Receiver	329^{95}	279^{00}
Scotch 202 reel to reel tape	3^{50}	2^{10}
Becker Two-Way Speakers	49^{95} ea.	22^{00} ea.
Sherwood 7200 Receiver	339^{95}	295^{00}
Fisher 220 Turntable	89^{95}	45^{00}
Fisher 203 Receiver	299^{95}	199^{00}
Sharpe Stereo Headphones	60^{00}	22^{00}
Lafayette HA-70D Walkie Talkie	7^{95} ea.	5^{95}
Senheiser HD-414 Headphones	42^{95}	35^{00}

EXTRA SPECIALS

	Reg.	SALE
C.D.R. Ant. Rotor	39^{95}	32^{00}
Sony T.C. 121 Stereo cassette deck	114^{95}	96^{00}
Fisher XP44 Speakers	49^{95}	39^{00}
Fisher XP56 Speakers	89^{95}	57^{00}
BSR 610 AWX Turntable with walnut wood base, dust cover and cart	99^{95}	74^{95}
Recoton 8-Track or Cassette Rack	7^{95}	4^{88}
B.S.R. 8-Track Deck	54^{95}	22^{00}
AR3A Speakers	540^{00}	350^{00} pair
Lafayette LRC-70 AM/FM Phono Compact	259^{95}	175^{00}
Pioneer CSE-350 2-Way Speakers	65^{00}	45^{00}
Criterion 100B Speakers	54^{95}	38^{00}

KOSS PRO 4AA STEREO HEADPHONES
REG. $60 NOW ONLY $36

RAPIDMAN CALCULATOR
4 function add, multiply, divide, subtract reg. $69.95 NOW $48

YAMAHA AM-FM MC3E PHONO COMPACT
22 watt RMS Per Channel AM FM receiver with turntable Reg. 429^{95} NOW 239^{95} Without Speakers

WE'RE RUNNING OUT OF TIME! OCTOBER 19th AT 5:30 p.m. OUR OLD WAREHOUSE WILL BE FORCED INTO RETIREMENT!! AND OUR NEW OFFICE AND WAREHOUSE COMPLEX WILL NOT BE READY UNTIL NOVEMBER 1ST. SO WE'VE DECIDED TO GIVE YOU THE BUY OF A LIFETIME, BUT HURRY BECAUSE THE SALE WILL ONLY LAST 1 WEEK. HURRY! QUANTITIES LIMITED!

RE-7412 RD-7678 PANASONIC AM-FM PHONO WITH 8 TRACK
AM/FM Stereo Receiver with two acoustic suspension speakers. Also with record changer and 8 Track. Reg. $209.95 NOW ONLY 99^{95}

AKAI CS-35 CASSETTE RECORDER
Reg. 159^{95} NOW $124

LAFAYETTE RADIO ELECTRONICS
ASSOCIATE STORES SEIDEN SOUND

OWNED AND OPERATED BY SEIDEN SOUND

Amherst Store
15 E. Pleasant St.
549-1105

OTHER STORES IN PITTSFIELD, MASS., COLONIE, N.Y., ALBANY, N.Y., Schenectady, N.Y., GLENS FALLS, N.Y.

Notices

ADVOCATES COMMITTEE
There will be a mandatory meeting of all advocates tonite at 7:30 in 911 C.C.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA
Meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in Mem. Hall. Smoker to follow at 7:30 in C.C.

ALPHA ZETA
AZ officers--Exec. board meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

ATTENTION
Will the owner of a Starnoid Model Parasport 10 speed bicycle which was stolen on UMass campus around 10-4, 10-5 please contact Amherst Police. Info needed by 8:00 a.m. Tues., 10-16.

ATTENTION WRITERS
Need interesting involving scripts or stories for ambitious film of professional nature. Have any material or ideas for the cinema? All entries considered. Call Alan 253-7850.

CHAPLIN SPEAKS
All Chaplin films aren't silent two-reelers. See "M. Verdoux" tonight, one of his greatest works. Thompson, 104 at 6, 8, 10 p.m.

"THE CHILD"
A movie on natural childbirth with speaker Evelyn Duston, Lamaze birth method instructor. Tonight 7:00 at IGU, open to all Greek men and women.

CONSTITUENTS FROM 5TH MASS. DISTRICT
Congressman P. Cronin will give seminar lecture 11-29 on Energy Crisis. He plans a rap session with students from Lexington, Lowell, Lawrence area at 1:15-2:00. Please advise coordinator G. Horvay, School of Engrg. of your plans to attend, so that suitable room may be reserved.

DAMES CLUB
Will hold a Friendship Night for foreign wives on Weds., 10-17 at 8 p.m. in Farley 4-H House. All University student wives invited.

DOG OBEDIENCE
Classes every Monday, 7:30 p.m. Grinnel arena. Barry, 429 Pierpont, 6-5278.

GRENOBLE MEETING
Meeting on Tues. at 7 p.m., 3rd floor lounge, Herter Hall. For students interested in GRENOBLE Program in Spring '74. You need not be a French major to participate in the program.

GSS PLEDGES
Meeting Monday at 7:10 p.m., Memorial Hall. All pledges please attend.

GSS
Meeting Monday, 6:10 p.m., Chapter Room. All members please attend.

MARIJUANA MEETING
Meeting of the UM Committee of a sane drug policy, Monday, 10-15, 8:00 p.m. in the main floor lounge, Cance. Work to reform marijuana laws. New members welcome.

NEWMAN COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION
Will meet tonight at 8:00 in the Newman Center. Those interested in a Christian discussion group and-or other educational matters are invited.

OUTING CLUB
Slide how, lecturer, voting in constitution, tonight 6:30, 917 C.C.; Pretrip meetings; Mt. Marcy tonight 5:30 locker; long Trail Oct. 17, 3-4 p.m. locker.

PART TIME JOB
Available in Project 10 for a person skilled in recreation and leisure studies to be our activities coordinator. The job involves 20 hrs. per week. Send resume to The Project House, Pierpont House, 546-0871.

PEP CLUB
Organizational meeting for anyone interested in joining the newly formed UMass Pep Club. Ideas and help needed on Homecoming projects. 7 p.m., Tues., 10-16, Rm. 175 C.C.

RECREATION COMMITTEE
Program Council's Recreation Committee will meet tonight, 7:30 p.m. C.C. 905-909. We're looking for new and returning members who want to help their fellow UMies have fun in the C.C.

FOUND
Thurs. nite in Bluewall men's blue, belted cloth jacket. Claim in C.C. lost and found.

LOST
Kodak instamatic camera CX 126 in brown leather case. Lost 10-8 on 5-College bus or steps of Amherst Col. Converse Hall. Reward--no questions. Call 256-8208.

Oblong three tone brown suede wallet. Lost about 2 weeks ago. Please contact Sandy Greig at 256-6988.

Red wallet lost in Arts and Crafts on Thurs. Would appreciate its return to lost and found or calll 6-8368. Means a lot to me. No questions asked.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

When seeking quick reports, condensed versions, look up Gemini. For a story with embellishments, leave it to Sagittarius. For the dramatic touch, call on Leo. For sensitivity and a dreamlike quality, the task goes to Pisces. For a futuristic view, the assignment belongs to Aquarius. For sharp, original strokes, it is Aries. For a compilation of data, Taurus is the person. To get research files in order, rely on Virgo. Cancer can project a budget and Libra can balance the pros and cons. Scorpio can inject passion and Capricorn can provide material of lasting value. Each of the zodiacal signs has a contribution to make to a writing project--and to life.

+++

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Check appointment schedule. Be sure your own needs are met--don't bend to breaking point. Your own viewpoint should not be buried. Some who claim to know best may know very little. Know it and adhere to personal principles.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): You have more on your side than might be imagined. Those who oppose or naysay are testing--and bluffing. Know it and respond accordingly. Follow through on hunch. Collect data. Fill in gaps. Money promises should be double-checked.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Legal matters, co-operative efforts, partnerships may be under strain. Find alternatives. Don't feel there is but one way. Look around. Make inquiries. Someone is not telling whole truth. Give full rein to curiosity. Reject superficial explanations.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): One who cries "wolf" deserves what you feel should be given--no more, no less. Means be frank in your appraisal. False sentimentality is no favor for others or for yourself. Message will become increasingly clear.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Romantic interests could hit snag. You perceive what is real, what is illusion. Truth, instead of making you free, could merely annoy. Be grown-up, willing to laugh at yourself. Your appetite will not be affected, world will continue to spin.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept.22): You have backing from "quiet" sources. Your opposition lacks substance. There is channel for your efforts, creative endeavors. If diplomatic, you get hearing and green light. One at top who seems indifferent is merely being cautious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Study Virgo message. Nothing now is apt to be cut-and-dried. There are complications but don't blow them up out of proportion. Ideas could flounder. You need time to develop, test and analyze. Don't rush, especially in traffic.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your financial bounce will be higher than suspected. What you have, can offer, is marketable. Know it and refuse to be cowed, frightened, intimidated. Partner, associate may try to "buy you cheap." A bit of laughter is best weapon.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22- Dec. 21): Unorthodox procedures are most likely to succeed. You cannot force, push or cajole. Let others show their hands. You do best now as an overall observer. Aries, Libra persons could play key roles. Finish rather than initiate project. Maintain low profile.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Rhythm of action is subdued. In efforts to break through to new project, suspicion blocks progress. Those who claim to be doing much for you may be laying down on job. Face reality. Get on high horse--assert independence. You have right to No. 1 treatment.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 Feb. 18): Emotional responses could lead to proverbial lovers' quarrel. Means don't take others, or yourself, too seriously. You don't know it all but you know enough. Means bide your time. You get what you want if you don't insist. You will understand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Examine potential. You can spread emotional wings. There is no need to be confined. Obstacles come from within. Shake off foolish doubts and start climbing. Goal is available. Know it and act like you know it.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have compelling, unusual voice. You convince, win by sincerity. Taurus persons are drawn to you. You are embarking on new project, adventure. Much of the past is finished. You can awake and sing. You will be happier--success is available. Go for brass ring!

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS
- 1 Man's nickname
- 4 Pronoun
- 6 Commemorative disk
- 11 Punctuation mark
- 13 Beginning
- 15 Latin conjunction
- 16 Earthquakes
- 18 Preposition
- 19 Symbol for tantalum
- 21 Arabian chieftain
- 22 Outfits
- 24 Shut up
- 26 Dry
- 28 Toll
- 29 Test
- 31 Wife of Geraint
- 33 Rupees (abbr.)
- 34 Supercilious person
- 36 Microbe
- 38 Fire Department (abbr.)
- 40 Rail bird
- 42 Unkempt
- 45 Spanish for "river"
- 47 Insect
- 49 Tumor on skin
- 50 Merit
- 52 The sweetsop
- 54 Symbol for tellurium
- 55 Man's nickname
- 56 Suffers patiently
- 59 Diphthong
- 61 Couch
- 63 Mountain nymphs
- 65 Stingy person
- 66 Prefix: down
- 67 Snake

DOWN
- 1 Simian
- 2 Improve
- 3 Teutonic deity
- 4 Additional
- 5 Dropsy
- 6 Anchoring
- 7 Be mistaken
- 8 Metal plate
- 9 Symbol for silver
- 10 Stretcher
- 12 Pronoun
- 14 Part of face (pl.)
- 17 Mud
- 20 Southern blackbirds
- 23 Supposing that
- 24 Liquid measure (abbr.)
- 25 Makes into leather
- 27 Expires
- 30 Weaving machine
- 32 Delineated
- 35 Wider
- 37 Flesh
- 38 Liberates
- 39 Crown
- 41 Aleutian island
- 43 Fears
- 44 Symbol for yttrium
- 46 Conjunction
- 48 King of Judea
- 51 Seines
- 53 Withered
- 57 Born
- 58 Compass point
- 60 Extrasensory perception
- 62 Note of scale
- 64 Cooled lava

ASIDE ALONE
STERES RERUNS
ITEA TAINT DA
DUD RACES HEN
EN RITES TOAD
SECEDES DIARY
LEES REAR FEEDS BEARDED ARAS RIATA NE
TAR BATCH ATA
AS IRISH SPIN LEANED ENTERS SANDS SHADE

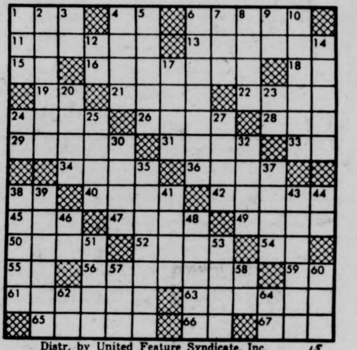
15.



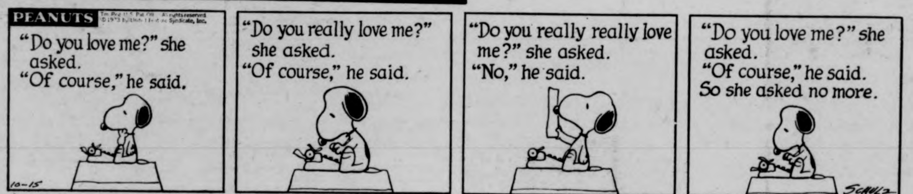
Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 15

MDC Classifieds

75¢ First Day

50¢ Each Additional Day

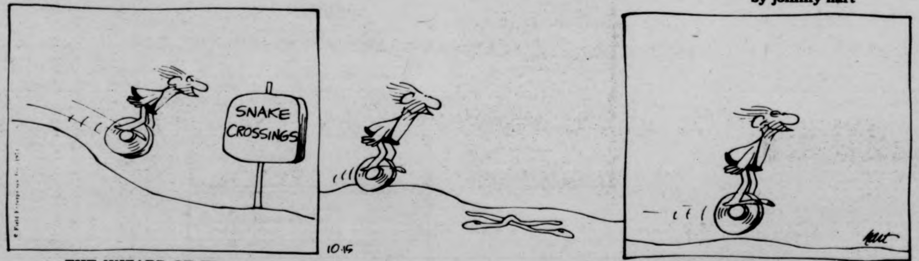
Tuesday Nite
Some of My Best Friends
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937



PEANUTS
"Do you love me?" she asked. "Of course," he said.
"Do you really love me?" she asked. "Of course," he said.
"Do you really really love me?" she asked. "No," he said.
"Do you love me?" she asked. "Of course," he said. So she asked no more.
10-15
SCHULZ

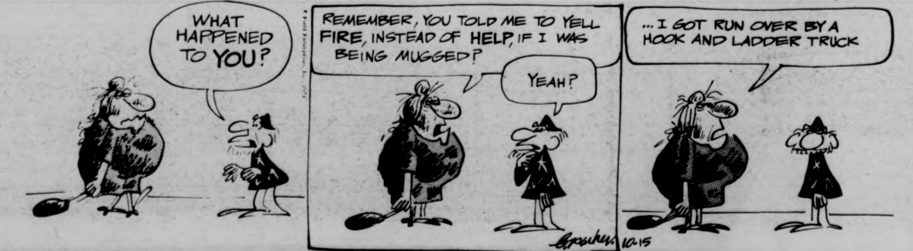
B.C.

by johnny hart



THE WIZARD OF ID

by Brant parker and Johnny hart



WHAT HAPPENED TO YOU?
REMEMBER, YOU TOLD ME TO YELL FIRE, INSTEAD OF HELP, IF I WAS BEING MUGGED?
YEAH?
... I GOT RUN OVER BY A HOOK AND LADDER TRUCK
10-15

WMPIRG Sponsors Symposium

Energy Crisis!

The Air Conservation Council of the Western Massachusetts Lung Association in conjunction with the Cooperative Extension Service from University of Massachusetts, Environmental Protection Committee of Springfield, League of Women Voters, Springfield College, and the Western Massachusetts Public Interest Research Group (WMPIRG) will conduct a "Symposium on the Energy Crisis" on this Wednesday, from 1:30 to 7:30 p.m. The event will take place at Springfield College's Beveridge Center.

The Council was organized in 1971 to cooperate and involve itself with individuals and organizations whose intent is to restore ecological balance necessary for the existence of all life. It has with the aid of their co-sponsors, invited speakers from industry, research and government to present the public with solutions to the problem and steps by which the citizen may be satisfying his energy needs in the future.

The program will consist of several workshops on air conservation and a speakers program. Lecture topics include; "An Overview of the Energy Crisis - Its Causes and Impact", "Effects of Air Pollution on Human Health", "Nuclear Research and Implementation", "Wind, Solar and Tidal Energy", and "Government Action"; followed by panel discussion between lecturers and audience.

A turkey dinner will be served in the Faculty Dining Room at 6:35 p.m.

At 8:00 p.m. the series moves to Kiley Junior High School where Mr. Jules Bergman, Science Editor for the American Broadcasting Company will deliver his views on "The Energy Crisis".

Registration forms for the Symposium may be obtained from the Western Massachusetts Lung Association, 393 Maple Street, Springfield. Limited seats are available without charge but need to be reserved on a first come first served basis. Advance registraton is advised for all those wishing to attend the symposium and is a necessity for those who plan to attend the turkey dinner.

Folkdancing Featured

An evening of music and dance is planned by the 'Round the World Wives' for Monday, October 15th, at 7:30 p.m.

The performance will take place at the Amherst Women's Club on 35 Triangle Street. The Five College Folkdancing Group will feature songs and dances from many parts of the world.

Refreshments will be served by members of the Amherst Baptist Church.

Sally Hafner is in charge of the evening program, one of several activities sponsored by the 'Round the World Wives'. She urges anybody in need of transportation in order to attend the meeting to give her a call (256-8420).

Pulse Elicits Souls

Project Pulse, now part of the newly formed Student Affairs Research and Evaluation Office, has resumed its operations for the fall 1973 term.

Pulse is a student attitude and opinion survey project designed to provide data for various decision makers on campus. through the use of a weekly telephone survey, Pulse attempts to elicit attitudes and opinions from students on various relevant campus issues. By computerizing the results of their surveys, Pulse manages to convert this information into readily usable form.

Any group or individual on campus can request a survey to be performed. People will be accomodated depending on the timeliness, importance, and wide applicability of the survey requested.

The Pulse office is open daily and is now located in 243 Whitmore (formerly the Counseling Center) or call 5-1543.

HOCKEY

Anyone living in Central Area interested in playing with the Central Area hockey league.

Call 5-0599 or 6-4565 ask for John.

MIT

School of Architecture and Planning

Planning and architecture are ways of producing significant change ... by improving and transforming our physical and social environment.

We seek applicants of any undergraduate background who have the capacity to think, innovate and effect positive social change.

MINORITY AND WOMEN STUDENTS ARE ESPECIALLY URGED TO APPLY.

Meet with Ted Jojola who will be on campus Monday, October 22, to discuss our Master of City Planning (MCP), Master of Architecture (M Arch) and Ph.D. programs with interested students. Appointments may be made through Career Planning & Placement Service.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!

tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.

tf10/19

Good foods, better wines, best beers — 8-11 daily. Montague Mini-Mart. Montague Center.

tf10-15

Used Israeli Lamb Skin Jacket $15; two beautiful Peasant Skirts $5 ea. Call 256-0364, evenings.

tf10/16

Vivitar Lens 85 mm to 205 mm zoom fits Pentax, Yashica, Mamiya Sekor. Just like new. Call 549-0591.

tf10/16

Brown snorkel parka, brand new, never worn, size men's sm. Contact Caryn, 6-7305

tf10-17

Fish — 15 gal. glass tank set up. 2 large Discusses, 2 Fire Eels, 2 Tri-color Sharks & 1 Clown Loach, $80 or best offer. Call 546-9953.

tf10-15

72 VW Bus, 25000 mi., radio, curtains, new disc brakes. Just tuned, 2 Radial snows, other extras. Call 549-6728, $2800.

tf10/16

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers. $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305.

tf10-18

1973 Yamaha, Rt. 3, 360 c.c., excellent condition, asking $775. Call Jim, 545-2822.

tf10-17

1966 Plymouth Belvedere, 4 dr., 6 cyl. auto., AM-FM, new shocks, starter, good rubber, fall inspection sticker, available Nov. 1, $400. 549-6555.

tf10-15

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 12, with ¾" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed. $160. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m.

tf10-19

2 Gdyr. snow tires with studs, 7.00-13, 8,000 miles, $10 each; 6.40-6.50-13 with rim, $10. Contact Jim Nollet, 126 James Hall, 546-7595.

tf10-15

The tightest Raleigh Super Course you'll ever see! Nervex lugs, tubulars, Stronglight Cotterless cranks, $200. Eric, 665-3101.

tf10-16

Brother DeLuxe portable typewriter, like new, $10; BSR 310 turntable, $15; 50w Lafayette amplifier, $70; two Criterion 50A speakers, $30 ea., all 1 month old. Praktica (Zeiss) camera, Meyer 180 telephoto lens, Takumar multicoated 28mm wide-angle lens, double lens, flash and magnifying lens. Call for Al, 549-1716.

tf10-19

Ski boots, Kotlach, buckle type, size 10, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0131 days, and 549-6872 after 6 p.m.

tf10-19

FOR SALE

Fender Telecaster, $160, excellent shape; Doiric organ for sale, portable & electric, lists $500, asking $100. 256-6011, Miles.

tf10-17

Speakers — pair of Hitachi KS-3200R, includes 2-8 inch woofers, 2-2½ inch tweeters, excellent condition, $50 or best offer. 6-6083.

tf10-19

Zenith 21" console color, $150; RCA black & white console t.v., $65. Television Center, 55 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5100.

tf11-5

Gibson B-25, 12 STRG, excellent cond., red sunburst case, 8 yrs. old, hardly ever used. Best offer. Doug, 253-9501.

tf10-19

Borg Warner electric range, very good shape, best offer. Call Doug, 253-9501.

tf10-19

For sale - 1 Sansui 5000X rec. 2 CS99A Pion speaker, AKAITP DKJVC turntable, ex. equipment, current list price $1,533, will sell for $865. 586-3658, Terry.

tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 546-4538.

tf10-18

Dryer, $35; Oriental rug, 9x15, spots, badly worn, $25; crocks, 8 gal., $10; 4 gal., $5. Antq. man. vac., $7. Wanted — dehumidifier, freezer. 256-0503.

tf10-16

10 speed Gazelle Tour de L'Avenir, runs like new $90. Includes 3 ft. cable and lock. Call 6-6249.

tf10-19

Konica Autoreflex-T 35mm-SLR camera, f1.4 lens with case, excellent condition, list $414, best offer over $169. Call 665-3546, Mon.-Thurs.

tf10-16

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie.

tf11

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings.

tf10-16

Pizza people, delivery people, counter help. Apply in person or call the Hungry U. 256-6350.

tf10-15

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 584-6458.

tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long, good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.

tf10-17

SPEED TYPIST
In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.

ask for Charlotte

Pufton resident needed to take care of dog. I will pay $10 per month plus food. Call 549-6718.

tf10-17

PERSONAL

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.

tf10-17

To the girl in Drake Sunday, 10-7. Call collect 603-523-7050 about opportunity in N.H. in regards to ed position we talked about. Rich.

tf10-18

Homosexual thoughts & feelings bothering you, or would like information? Call 586-2811, ask for Paul after 6:30.

tf10-15

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.

tf11-11

"Help, Cecil, help!" I'm late again, but only by a few days. Can you forgive me? Happy birthday to my favorite sea serpent!

10-15

Michael — to everything there is a season and a time for every purpose under heaven. Linda.

10-15

Parents — problems with child care? Join the Child Care Exchange — an alternative to sitters etc. Infants to 8 yrs. Call Joan, 586-2224.

tf10-19

Happy birthday Bobby Baby. From all your lovers on 5-W.

10-15

Tired of dorm living? 1 bedroom in King Philip, available immediately. Price negotiable. Call 665-3318 after 6 p.m., on bus line.

tf10-19

SERVICES

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.

tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.

tf10-19

Couples' Workshop — building trust & intimacy, communicating clearly.

Couples' Workshop — building trust & intimacy, communicating clearly, meditation, massage, maintaining individuality, resolving conflict. Tues. nights, Oct. 23-Dec. 11. Free. Contact David Andes, Student Development Office, 545-0333 or home 1-369-1649 by Oct. 17.

tf10-15

Research — thousands of topics, $2.75 per page. Send $1 for mail order catalog. Research assistance, inc. 11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 2, L.A., Calif. 90025.

tf12-12

RIDE WANTED

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses. tf10-18

Need ride from Belchertown for 8 a.m., back at 1 p.m. Quabbin apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-4521, keep trying.

tf10-17

AUTO FOR SALE

1963 Dodge Dart, reliable, local transportation. 584-2500, best offer.

tf10-15

1965 Fairlane, 6 cyl. std. 665-3451 after 6 p.m.

tf10-15

1966 Cutlass Supreme, 62,000 miles, very good condition, $500. Call 1-617-544-3520.

tf10-17

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323 7706 anytime.

tf10-16

1967 Rambler Rebel, 53,000 mi., new brakes, cooling, tune-up, parts, a.t., $450.00. 549-3857 or 545-1388.

tf10-15

1941 antique Chevy, a classic looking car, excel. body, new rebuilt eng., a good buy has to be seen, many spare parts, best offer. 549-6495.

tf10-17

1971 Plymouth Cricket, must sell, good cond., ex. mil., 4 sp. std. trans., rack and pinion steering, 4 dr. sedan. Call Jim, 546-5234.

tf10-15

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192.

tf10-19

1966 Olds Toronado, air cond., stereo, power windows & 6-way seat, just inspected, front wheel drive, $500 firm. Call 549-0924, 5 to 9 p.m.

tf10-19

Reliable 1969 VW Squareback, automatic, extras plus 2 good snow tires, $1195 firm. 323-7018 after 4 p.m., keep trying!

tf10-18

1948 Packard, good running condition, straight 8 with overdrive, cloth interior. 546-8688.

tf10-17

1964 Corvair for sale — good running condition. Call 5-2412, Room 214, Angie. Price $200, leave message.

tf10-16

1965 Ford Fairlane, 6 cylinders, standard, body slightly dented, 2 new tires, new fall inspection sticker. Call for Al, 549-1716.

tf10-16

1971 Toyota Corona, standard shift, $600. Call 1-467-3796.

tf10-19

LOST

Buck knife on 10-4 nite, between C.C. & S.W. If found please call 6-7489, reward.

tf10-19

Lost keys on black penknife case, turn in at C.C. Lost & Found. Desperate!

tf10-16

Lost — fr. back of motorcycle Wed., on Univ. Dr., Blalock's Soc. Stats., 2nd Ed. Call Daphne, 5-2658 (day), 256-6372 (night). Return Machmer, W31.

tf10-16

FOR RENT

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.

tf10-27

Motorhome for rent by the week or day, completely self-contained, sleeps eight. Call 772-0383.

tf10-15

6 bedroom house for rent, located in Wendell, $375 per month. Call 1-617-544-3520.

tf10-17

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month.

tf10/19

WANTED

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531.

tf10-17

Wanted — warm, friendly babysitter with own car, for 11 month old, 9-12 weekdays. 253-3607.

tf10-19

I need a place to board my horse. It must be near campus and reasonable. Call Cyndy, Rm. 307, 545-2510.

10-15

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.

tf10/18

ENTERTAINMENT

Sorry, but I have no open dates left in Oct. Thanks UMass for a fantastic Sept. and Oct. Your friend, Steve the D.J., 467-2842.

tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long. Good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.

tf10-17

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 1-584-6458.

tf10-17

Horse back riding, Running Deer Ranch, 549-3630.

tf10-19

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board.

tf10-15

1972 Honda Sl-125, exc. condition, well kept, best Jap woods bike with knobby & shop manual. Call Joel, 665-4477 evenings after 6 p.m.

tf10-19

ROOMMATE WANTED

Mature girl needed to share new apt. on Rte. 9, Hadley. Rent $46.25 per month plus utilities, must have no car or pets. Call 586-0852.

tf10-17

A couple of people wanted to share house 9 miles from UMass — going for $68 a month plus utilities. If interested call 546-6214, avail. immed.

tf10-15

Wanna Spend A Summer In England?

The Oxford Summer Seminar at Trinity College, Oxford, England, is now accepting applications for this summer. The program, although sponsored primarily by the UMass English Department, also this year offers several interdisciplinary courses that would be helpful to students in art, sociology, philosophy, and history.

The Seminar provides a chance to earn academic credit for a course taught by an Oxford don. Classes are small (limit of 15) and usually combine both a seminar and tutorial approach. Graduates and undergraduates of all majors are welcome to apply and it is recommended that students have approximately a B average in his or her major field.

One of the courses offered is a study in the aspects of literature and art with visits to London art galleries and country houses directly to relate the course to England. These is a course on Shakespeare which will correlate the plays studied with those given at Stratford during the coming season. The course in Paleography is excellent for those interested in the classics or medieval English literature. There is also an interdisciplinary course that will study literature in its historical context while incorporating both music, slides and a trip to a manor house. The British sociology course is being taught by A.H. Halsey who is the head of Oxford's department and educational consultant to Parliament. There are approximately a dozen courses planned.

The Seminar lasts for six weeks and there is plenty of free travel time both before and after. There is an optional tour available.

The cost of the Seminar is $950 (some financial aid available) and includes a 707-charter trip Boston-London-Boston, three nights upon arrival at the Hotel Penta, tickets to musical and theatrical events, room, board, tuition, a day at Warwick Castle, a play at Stratford, a guest speaker program, trips connected with an elected course, and a final banquet. Since Oxford is only an hour away from London by rail, there is also the opportunity to see museums, plays and sporting events outside of Trinity College itself.

The deadline for applications is February 22nd and students are notified immediately of their acceptance if they are qualified. The limit is 120 and since courses are filled on a first-come-first-serve basis, it is best to submit applications early. A refundable downpayment of $150 is required.

For further information and details see Professor Ernest Hofer, Associate Head of the English Department, in Bartlett 160. Applications are available in the English Office, room 160.

Mayor White Hits Media On Torch Killing

BOSTON (AP) - Mayor Kevin H. White criticized the news media Sunday for having "blown all out of proportion" the incidents surrounding the murder of a young white woman who was forced to douse herself with gasoline and was set afire by a group of six black youths Oct. 2.

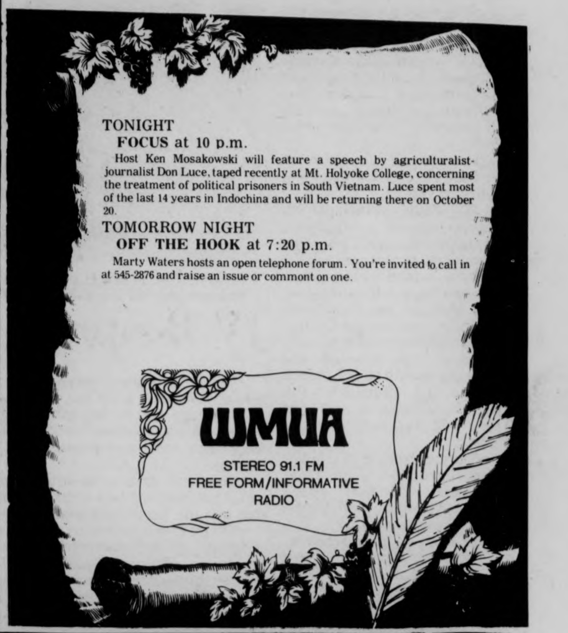
"We weren't near a racial war, but if you read the papers for a couple of days, even I was apprehensive that the town was going to go up, and I couldn't tell myself why," White said on radio station WEEI's "Bay State Forum" program.

This is not to say to you that people are not afraid to walk the streets. They are. But I do think the attendant publicity received in the past week was a little unfair. I thought it was overboard," White said.

The mayor defended his offer of a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Evelyn Wagler, 24, in light of criticism from black community leaders who called it a "racist bounty."

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Sabotage" (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "The Prince From the Phone Company." (22)
MISTERROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES "The Buggy" (30)
GOMER PYLE "Opie Joins the Marines" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "The Gigolo" (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy and Arthur Godfrey" (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
HOGAN'S HEROES (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "Let's Kill Karlovassi" (18)
ZOOM! (24) (57)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night of the Legion Death" (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 MOVIE "Mother Wore Tights" (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "Talk To the Snail." (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 POLICE SURGEON (8)
GREEN ACRES "Give Me Land, Lots Of Land" (18)
THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES Peter Marshall, host (22) (30)
WOMAN (24)
POLKA With Frank Knight (40)
WALSH'S ANIMALS "Pumas To Pussycats" (57)
8:00 THE ROOKIES "Cry Wolf" (8) (40)
LOTSA LUCK "Do Me a Favor" (22) (30)
SPECIAL OF THE WEEK "The Mystery of Nefertiti." (24) (57)
8:30 DIANA "Fire One." (22) (30)
9:00 HERE'S LUCY "Girl Friday Follies" (3)
NFL MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL GAME (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
MOVIE "With Six You Get Eggroll." (22) (30)
GOVERNOR'S REPORT (24)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS SPECIAL "The Birth and Death of a Star" (57)
9:30 NEW DICK VAN DYKE SHOW (3)
10:00 THE SEVENTH ANNUAL COUNTRY MUSIC ASSOCIATION AWARDS PRESENTATIONS (3)
WASHINGTON DEBATE (24)
NEWS (27)
THE ADVOCATES "Do You Support the dent's Refusal to Turn Over the White House Tapes?" (57)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (22) (30)
NOTRE DAME FOOTBALL (18)
11:30 MOVIE "To Die In Paris" (3)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)
11:45 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (8) (40)
12:15 COLLEGE FOOTBALL '73 (8) (40)
1:00 TOMORROW Host Tom Snyder (22) (30)
1:15 NEWS (8) (40)
1:30 NEWS, WEATHER (3)
2:00 NEWS (22) (30)



TONIGHT
FOCUS at 10 p.m.

Host Ken Mosakowski will feature a speech by agriculturalist-journalist Don Luce, taped recently at Mt. Holyoke College, concerning the treatment of political prisoners in South Vietnam. Luce spent most of the last 14 years in Indochina and will be returning there on October 20.

TOMORROW NIGHT
OFF THE HOOK at 7:20 p.m.

Marty Waters hosts an open telephone forum. You're invited to call in at 545-2876 and raise an issue or commont on one.

BACK TO THE CAGE!!

U.Mass. Musical History
Flips a Page
as the concert committee

— Presents —

DONNY HATHAWAY
and
CHICK COREA

Sunday, October 28, 1973 8:00 p.m.

CURRY HICKS CAGE

Tickets: $3.50 Available only to U.Mass. Undergrads.
On sale at Student Union Lobby Counter
Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Limit: 2 tickets/U.Mass. I.D.

UMass Pups Finally Open Season Today

By GEOFFREY KURINSKY

The Junior Varsity football squad has sat around and watched the varsity display their talents long enough. It's been six weeks. Do you know what it's like sitting around with all that enthusiasm and nothing to do it with?

This afternoon, the Pups get their chance under fire as they travel to New Haven, Connecticut for a clash with the Pups of Ivy power Yale.

"Our emphasis is pretty much low key," Coach Billy Maxweii cited. "Basically, we try to give the freshman the basic rudiments that they'll need for varsity football, which hopefully, is in each guys' future."

Coach Maxwell will take 40 players down to New Haven (out of a total roster of 85).

The JV's displayed their talents two weeks ago in a victorious scrimmage against crosstown rival Amherst. In that meeting the Minutemen scored twice, while keeping the Lord Jeffs at bay.

Brian McNally and Pete Costa will handle the quarterbacking chores at Yale, both showing poise in practice. The running and blocking chores will be led by Bob Peck and J.J. Edmunds. Bill Dwyer (the recipient of a 70 yard TD pass) will start at tight end for the pups.

Standouts on defense in practice thus far have been John Toner (linebacker), Russel Cook (defensive lineman), and Ronald Harris (defensive back).

The JV's play a limited schedule. After Yale, they come up against Rhode Island, Boston College, Connecticut, and conclude the season against New Hampshire.

(Staff Photo - Joe Martins)

....Joe Artman finally got to finish in the daylight on Saturday but finished well off the pace in the ECAC Championship with an 82.

JV Booters Lose First, 2-0

By BOB HIGGINS

The junior varsity soccer team suffered their first defeat of the season yesterday, a 2-0 loss to Amherst College.

The team, now 2-1, was outplayed by Amherst throughout much of the game, and never mounted much of an attack. A good Amherst defense, along with some bad passing by UMass, kept the Minutemen from scoring.

Amherst's goals came on two very fine plays. At 13:15 of the first half, Curt Hartman took a pass in front of the UMass net and blasted a shot into the lower right-hand corner.

UMass then held until 15:10 of the second half, and even then it took a great play. An Amherst player lofted a pass in front of the UMass net, and Tim Versacci headed it past goalie Buddy Butler.

The UMass defense and goaltending was very good. Butler made two outstanding plays in the second half. The first came on a breakaway when he took the ball away from the shooter right in front of the net. The other was on a penalty shot when he dove to his right to block a very hard shot.

Golfers Finish 5th In First ECAC Bid

By RICH SEVIERI

The UMass Golf team making their first appearance in the Eastern Athletic Conference's Fall Championship finished in fifth place, 10 strokes behind winner Central Connecticut.

Central Connecticut in winning their third ECAC Fall Championship in four years had three different players shooting 76 and one a 79 over the Pleasant Valley Country Club Course, for a combined total of 319 to edge the University of Pennsylvania which posted 323.

Princeton was third at 325. Harvard fourth shot 326. UMass finished fifth in the ten team field at 329. Only the best four scores of the five member teams are used.

In the 18 hole stroke-play format, the individual crown went to Paul Maloney of Southern Conn. who had a 76. None of the Central Conn. golfers had qualified for the individual phase of competition. Dave Ziembra of Navy was runnerup with a 77.

Freshman John Lasek playing in his first major competition paced the UMass squad with an 81. Medalist qualifiers Dave Kern and Joe Artman both had 82. Frank Agostino had an 84 for the combined total of 329 for UMass.

Pleasant Valley played tough and high winds did not help matters. Only eight golfers could break 80 in a field of the 100 best collegiate players in the East.

UMass coach Fan Gaudette sited the hard greens that were cut low making them treacherously fast, and difficult pin placements as the reasons for high scoring.

"We didn't play well," said Gaudette, "maybe we were a little nervous in our first major competition. On this given day we didn't have it but learned from the experience." Next weekend UMass travels to Yale for a 54 hole medal tournament and Gaudette is looking for a good showing.

Other teams in order of finish were sixth place Columbia at 334, UConn 336, OSwego State 339, Canasius 342, and Syracuse at 345.

Football Scoreboard

PRO	COLLEGE
NY Jets 9, New England 7	Harvard 57, Columbia 0
Washington 21, NY Giants 3	Miami 15, BC 10
Philadelphia 27, St. Lous 24	Rhode Island 15, Vermont 14
Denver 48, Houston 20	Delaware 35, UConn 7
Buffalo 31, Baltimore 13	New Hampshire 13, Maine 0
Cincinnati 19, Pittsburgh 7	Colgate 22, Holy Cross 21
Oakland 27, San Diego 17	Ohio State 24, Wisconsin 0
Los Angeles 37, Dallas 31	Missouri 13, Nebraska 12
Minnesota 17, San Francisco 13	UCLA 59, Stanford 13
New Orleans 20, Detroit 13	USC 46, Washington State 35
Green Bay 10, Kansas City 10 (tie)	Notre Dame 28, Rice 0
Atlanta 46, Chicago 6	Penn State 54, Army 3
	Michigan 31, Michigan State 0
	Oklahoma 52, Texas 13

Raqueteers Blank Southern Conn.

By NANCY M. THOMPSON

The pressure was on the Southern Connecticut State College netwomen Friday at the Boyden courts as the UMass Women's Tennis team made a clean sweep of the courts with an impressive 9-0 victory.

Ann Foley, (with new sneakers), returning to her number one spot, ran the show on her court as she defeated her opponent Kathy Bagley of SConn, 6-2, 6-4. Coach Ogilvie was happy with Ann's win, stating, "It's her first win of the year. She played quite well today and I'm quite pleased with her play."

Donna Siscavage, playing second, kept her opponent, Lesley Pitiger on the run throughout two of the three sets played, for her first win of the season. Fine serving held through the first 6set for 6-0 only to be downed in the second set 3-6. The third set proved as good as the first when Ms. Siscavage had outplayed her opponent at 5-1 but kept the crowd awaiting her 6-4 win.

Aggressive third singles player, Karen Wesley, also battled her way through three sets of competition, down in the first set 3-6, but coming back with winning results, a 6-4, 6-1 follow-up against SConn's Paula Fitzgerald. Patty Heslam, moving from her old doubles position to fourth singles proved to be another winner, hitting hard to her opponent Iris Tayler forcing her to a 6-1 score and following that with a close but certain 7-5.

Nancy O'Neil, seeing her first play of the year, followed the rest of the team and made her presence known. In two sets Ms. O'Neil defeated Debbie Verova of SConn 8-7, 6-4. Beth Perkins, coming up from doubles to the sixth singles spot showed consistant skill and effort in ousting SConn's Sylvia Dewyea, 6-2,6-1

In doubles play, UMass just keeps on winning. The first team, Ronnie Sanders and Diane Greene found that teamwork paid off in defeating Donna Baker and Sharon Asga 6-0, 6-0. Galen Good and Meg Parry found a win in a hard played match with Cathy Jupiter and Judy Maidente, taking it 6-1, 6-3. UMass' Donna Brosca and Karen Thomas on the third doubles court followed suit and won their match against Lulu Sprague and Sadie Aquino 6-2, 6-4, to complete the UMass winning streak for the day.

UMass is now 3-1. Next the netwomen will confront Springfield College in one of the major matches of the season. Springfield's number one player won in the New England College Tournament last year so there should be interesting competition out on the Boyden courts this afternoon

Sports Lecture

The Sports Studies Lecture Series will present Professor Peter McIntosh of Oxford University at 8 p.m. tonight in SBA 120.

Professor McIntosh is the author of Sport in Society and several other books. He is a member of the United Kingdom Sports Council and chairman of the 1971 UNESCO working group on "Sport Mass Media and International Understanding".

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

Just as a great painting is more than canvas and paints, there are some things that go beyond the sum of their parts. The Porsche Targa is such an object.

"That's IT"

It is a piece of machinery whose purpose far exceeds transporting you from one point to another. Its goal is to afford the ultimate driving experience. In performance, in engineering, in comfort.

The Targa has come amazingly close to that goal; each year, with subtle improvements, a bit more.

First, consider its superbly thought-out features. It has a built-in roll bar, and a huge fixed rear window. To give the car the practicality of a hardtop coupe. And you the exhilarating experience of a roadster.

It has an aerodynamic shape, to protect you from wind blast. And a rear-engine design that has been steadily improved upon for 25 years.

All controls are meticulously engineered to be functional and logically accessible.

Yet it is the total effect of these innovations that impresses.

With the removable top stored in the trunk, cushioned in luxurious bucket seats, you ride in "Belle Epoque" comfort.

But the grandest feature of the Targa is the experience of driving it.

The handling is quick, correct, precise, because of Porsche's legendary engineering. Putting the driver and car in perfect collaboration. It is almost as if you just "think" where you want the car to go.

The Targa is available in all three 911 models: 911T, 911E, and 911S.

But be warned.

It is very difficult to be humble about owning any Porsche. And if it's a Targa, that's IT.

JONES
721 WORTHINGTON STREET
SPRINGFIELD, MASS. 01101

PORSCHE
AUDI INC.

UNIVERSITY OF GHANA CULTURAL DANCERS with GHANA ARTS COUNCIL DANCERS
and
WEST AFRICA INTERNATIONAL RAMBLERS DANCE BAND
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19 STUDENT UNION BALLROOM 8 p.m.
Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students, $3.00 others Cabaret Style - - - - - - - - - Come and Dance!
Presented by the Fine Arts Council in association with the African Student Association and the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies
A Third World Cultural Series Event
Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4
Telephone 545-0202

UMass Course Record Broken As Harriers Outrun UConn

By SCOTT HAYES

Those of you who trudged up the apple orchard on Saturday, witnessed a duel between UConn's freshmen standout Bruce Clark and Randy Thomas of UMass, as well as a 25-32 victory of the UMass harriers.

If you weren't at the meet, you missed seeing the course record bettered by two runners, Clark and Thomas. Clark, who took an early lead in the race, broke Thomas' previous record of 25:10 by running the course in 24:54. Thomas also bested his own record by ten seconds, completing the hilly course in 25:00.

Clark was in first place going through the orchard, but Thomas took first on the hill. Clark regained the lead on the downhill part of the course, and coming up the hill for the second time, the two runners were tied. Clark beat Thomas downhill to the finish and won individual honors.

Thomas did find a weakness in Clark's running and felt he could beat him on the hills. Thomas said after the race, "I had him at the top of the hill, but he recovered real well."

Bill Gillin captured third with a time of 25:20. UConn's Mike McCusker finished fourth while Tom Maguire of UMass completed the course in 25:44 good for fifth place. Paul Segersten was the fourth UMass runner across the finish line, placing sixth in 25:50.

Freshman John McGrail, the fifth UMass runner to finish, along with John Scheer, also a freshman, went right out from the start of the race. The hills got to Scheer, however, and he finished thirteenth. Coach O'Brien credited Mc'Grail's success to his aggressiveness. The mentor said, "It's great to see the freshmen run well." The freshmen ran in a group in Saturday's race, with McGrail, Chris Farmer, Paul Doiron and Scheer capturing ninth, tenth, twelfth and thirteenth respectively.

The course footing was slower than usual, because of equestrian work, but only 74 seconds separated Thomas and McGrail, the first and fifth UMass finishers.

UMass also won the junior varsity meet 18-39, with Mickey Hawkes taking first in 19:56. Mike Gillin took second while Andy Levey finished fourth. Jim Hunt and Robb Leary rounded out the JV scoring with fifth and sixth place finishes.

CROSS COUNTRY CORNER -- UMass harriers are now 1-0 in the Yankee Conference and 4-2 overall. UConn, probably the toughest YanCon foe for UMass, ran without the services of last year's YanCon Cross Country champion, Bill Cantin. Pete Bortolotti ran in Saturday's race despite an illness.

Runners will host Rhode Island on Tuesday. The meet will begin at 4:00.

(Staff Photo - Kevin Erkkila)

UMass' rugged fullback Kurt Syer engages in a kicking duel with a Boston University opponent. The Minutemen kicked the Terriers around at Nickerson Field Saturday for their first Yankee Conference victory of the season.

80 yd. TD Ends MDC Supremacy

By MDC STAFF

WOPE FIELD - The Massachusetts Daily Collegian blew a 24-2 lead and lost a heartbreaker to the Student Senate in touch football action yesterday by a score of 38-36. Senate Speaker David Booker caught Collegian quarterback-Sports Editor Steve Crowe in the end zone for a two point safety early in the game that proved decisive.

The Collegian led all the way from early after the 1 p.m. start until just before 4 o'clock and the final gun. On the last play of the game quarterback Mike Gregory hit an open Senate receiver for an eighty yard touchdown that capped a spectacular Senate comeback that saw them score three fourth quarter touchdowns.

Collegian Editor-in-Chief Steve Tripoli said that the Senate was "hitting a lot harder than last year. We never expected them to come on so strong after the shellacking they took last time we played." The score of the last Collegian-Senate game of last fall was 54-12 Collegian.

Sports Editor Steve Crowe promised to "come back strong" in the next confrontation, scheduled for next Monday at 1 p.m. at the same location. "We're not gonna let the !?&—?"+ get the upper hand next week. We've got something to prove and we're gonna prove it."

UMass Sportsweek

Monday, Oct. 15
Field Hockey vs. Springfield	HOME	4:30
Women's Tennis vs. Springfield	HOME	3:30
JV Football vs. Yale	Away	3:00
JV Field Hockey vs. Springfield	HOME	3:30
Tuesday, Oct. 16
Cross Country Vs. Rhode Island	HOME	4:00
Thursday, Oct. 18
Field Hockey vs. Worcester State	Away	3:00
JV Soccer vs. Greenfield CC	HOME	3:00
JV Field Hockey vs. Westfield State	Away	3:00
Friday, Oct. 19 through Sunday, Oct. 21
Womens Tennis-New England Tennis Tournament	New Haven
Saturday, Oct. 20
Football vs. Rhode Island	HOME	1:00
Soccer vs. Rhode Island	HOME	10:30
Cross Country vs. New Hampshire	HOME	11:00

UMass, 20-6

	UMass	BU
FIRST DOWNS — Total	14	16
Rushing	9	9
Passing	4	7
Penalties	1	0
RUSHING — Attempts	45	49
Yards gained	160	149
Yards lost	23	40
Net yards gained	137	109
PASSING — Yards gained	128	180
Passes attempted	22	25
Completed	9	12
Had intercepted	2	1
TOTAL OFFENSE — Yards	265	289
Plays passing & rushing	67	74
Average gain per play	3.8	3.89
PUNTING — No. of punts	5	7
Punting average	33.0	39.0
Punts returned	4	4
Yards returned	32	25
KICKOFFS — No. returned	2	2
Yards returned	38	42
PENALTIES — Number	6	2
Yards penalized	81	23
FUMBLES — Number	2	2
Fumbles lost	2	2

Attendance: 6679

UMass	0	14	6	0	— 20
Boston U	0	0	6	0	— 6

Schubert Shines

HOLYOKE, MASS. (AP) - The New England Colonials maintained their hold on first place in the Atlantic Coast Football League with a 35-20 win over the Western Mass Pioneers Saturday night.

Former University of Massachusetts receiver Steve Schubert sparked the once-beaten Colonials to their sixth victory of the season by catching seven passes for 129 yards and two touchdowns.

New England's Ted Demars rushed for 112 yards to maintain his lead as the league's leading runner.

Pioneer scores came on two touchdowns by Cleo House and a pass from Bob Wattigny to Steve Barrios.

Pats Lose, 9-7

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - The New York Jets, sticking on the ground with rookie Boill Demory at quarterback, set up three field goals with Bobby Howfield Sunday in fashioning a 9-7 National Football League upset victory over the New England Patriots.

With injured quarterbacks Joe Namath and Al Woodall watching from the bench, Demory connected on his lone pass completion right in the final period to set up a game-winning 22-yard field goal by Howfield with just 1:56 remaining.

Demory, a rookie from Arizona, summoned from his home when Namath was injured three weeks ago, engineered what amounted to virtually an exclusive ground attack, handing off to John Riggins and Emerson Boozer.

Notices

INTRAMURALS-All men's and women's I-M 10 pin team bowling entries are due today, Monday Oct. 15 at 5 p.m. All volleyball men's and women's and co-rec are due on Thursday, Oct. 18.

VOLLEYBALL-There will be tryouts for all candidates for the Men's Power Volleyball Club today, Monday, and Wednesday, Oct. 17 from 6-8 p.m. in the WoPE gymnasium.

Stewart Quits Racing

LONDON (AP)-Three-time world auto racing champion Jackie Stewart of Scotland, who has won more Grand Prix races than any other driver, announced Sunday that he will quit racing.

The jaunty 34-year-old king of Formula One racing announced his decision at a luncheon, just eight days after seeing his teammate, Frenchman Francois Cevert, killed while practicing for the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

There had been speculation that Stewart might retire ever since he clinched his third world crown after the Italian Grand Prix last month.

One of the finest drivers of the decade, Stewart has competed in 99 Grand Prix races, scoring an all-time record 27 victories-two more than his idol and fellow Scot, the late Jimmy Clark, who was killed on the track in 1968.

But in the nine years during which he has been a Grand Prix driver, nine of Stewart's closest friends have died in motor racing.

CAMPUS CENTER PROGRAM COUNCIL
presents
The New Shakespeare Company
performs
"A Midsummer Night's Dream"
Tuesday, Oct. 16, 8:30 p.m. S.U. Ballroom
Tickets at S.U. Lobby Counter and the door
ONE PERFORMANCE ONLY

Mets Win, 10-7 To Even Series

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) - Aging Willie Mays, in his final days as a major league baseball player, delivered a 12th-inning single to key New York's four-run rally Sunday and the Mets defeated Oakland 10-7 in the second game of the 1973 World Series.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Minutemen
SPORTS

The Mets' victory, in a game which required more time than any previous one in World Series history, tied the best-of-seven Series at 1-1. The teams move to New York for Game 3 Tuesday night.

Oakland scored one more run in a 12th-inning rally keyed by Reggie Jackson's triple, but Mets' relief pitcher George Stone put out the fire with the bases loaded.

Bud Harrelson, thrown out at the plate on a controversial call two innings earlier, doubled to open the Mets' 12th and scored when the 42-year-old Mays bounced a two-out single through the middle of the diamond.

Then two errors by A's second baseman Mike Andrews allowed three more Met runs before the rally ended.

The Mets thought they had a run in the 10th when Harrelson tried to score from third on Felix Millan's fly to Joe Rudi in left. But plate umpire Augie Donatelli called the runner out, touching off a raging argument.

Numerous television replays, from several camera angles, indicated that A's catcher Ray Fosse missed the tag on Harrelson.

That kept the ball game going and the Mets, who had pieced together a four-run rally earlier on a series of topped hits and a costly A's error, did it again in the 12th.

After Harrelson's double-his third hit of the day-reliever Tug McGraw bunted. The ball popped into the air, over the head of charging third baseman Sal Bando and fell for a single, Harrelson taking third on the play.

Rollie Fingers, the reliever with the handlebar mustache, got the next two batters. He struck out Wayne Garrett, who had homered earlier, and got Felix Millan on an easy pop to first.

That brought up Mays, who already has announced his retirement effective at the end of this season. Willie had been the goat, falling down on Deron Johnson's drive that fell for a double and touched off Oakland's tying two-run rally in the ninth.

This time, though, Mays was the hero. He swung and missed Fingers' first pitch. Then he swung again at the next serve and rapped the ball through the middle, scoring Harrelson with the tie-breaking run.

McGraw stopped at second. A moment later the bases were loaded.

Clean Jones, who also had homered earlier, poked his third hit of the game.

Then John Millner hit a soft roller to second. But Andrews, the A's third second baseman of the game, let the ball get past him for an error, reminiscent of the error Millan made in the opener which gave the A's their first-game victory, 2-1.

Two runners-McGraw and Mays-scored on the play, and as they went to the dugout, the gritty reliever embraced the aging superstar. A moment later, Jerry Grote hit another grounder to Andrews, and the se[illegible] baseman's throw was wide for his second straight error-Oakland's fifth of the game-and another Met run.

McGraw, who struck out eight batters in six innings-his longest pitching stint of the season-surrendered a leadoff triple to Jackson in the bottom of the 12th. That was Jackson's fourth straight hit and after Gene Tenace walked, Stone relieved.

Stone was the 11th pitcher used in the game by the two teams, tying a World Series record. He gave up an RBI single to Jesus Alou before shutting the A's off.

Oakland had bounced from behind with a two-out, two-run rally to the tie the score 6-6 in the ninth against McGraw.

Tenace delivered the tying hit after Mays, inserted in center field at the start of the inning, fell down on Johnson's driver that dropped for a double.

After Johnson reached second, McGraw retired the next two batters and looked like he would finish the A's off. But Bando walked and Jackson, who had doubled home a run in the seventh, singled through the right side, making it 6-5 and keeping Oakland alive. Then Tenace, the 1972 World Series hero, ripped the next pitch for a single that scored the tying run and sent the game into extra innings.

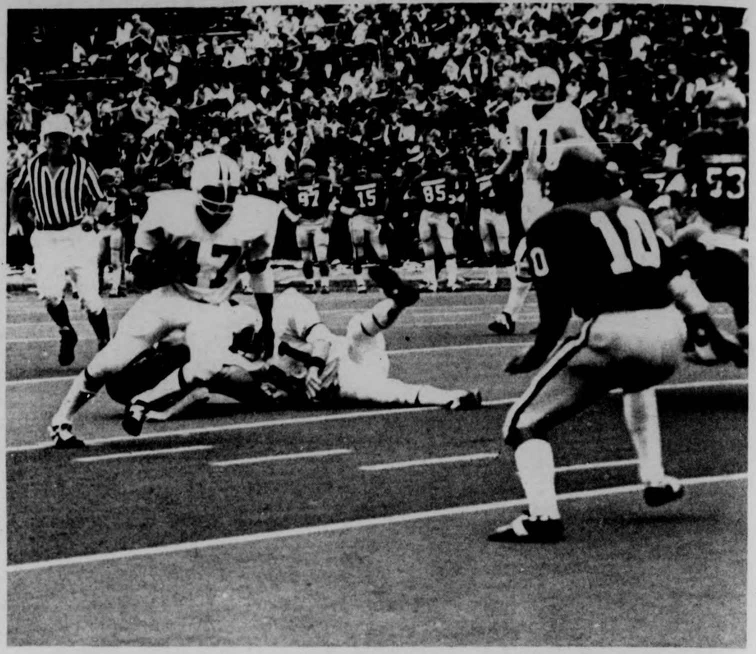
The game last four hours, 13 minutes, longest in terms of time in Series' history. The previous time record was 3:28 in the 1945 Series.

Postponed

The UMass crew did not row at the Fall Festival Regatta in Lowell, Mass. due to choppy waters. It is not yet known when the regatta will be rescheduled.

Inside Sports

- ECAC Golf
- UMass Sportsweek
- X Country
- Scoreboard
- Womens Tennis



(Staff Photo - Kevin Mack)

....Bernie Street gets a good block from Gary Mika (81) and breaks into BU's secondary. Street ran for 62 yards total and received the game ball from his teammates.

Street Rushes UMass To Win

By BILL BALLOU

Running back Bernie Street got the game ball Saturday. A running back? The game ball? Pshaw, you say.

But it's true, and a well-deserved award for the sophomore who picked up 62 net yards in 17 carries during UMass' 20-6 win over Boston University in Boston Saturday.

Street's stats might not be headed for enshrinement in the college football Hall of Fame, but for a team that had been stumbling along without a running game until Peil Pennington showed them how last week, they were good news.

Unfortunately the score, the running game, and the punting of Andy Dutkanicz were about the only bits of good news for UMass fans who attended the dull affair.

The score, which put the Minutemen at four wins and two losses for the season, was deceptive. Boston University out firstdowned and out total yardaged UMass, and moved the ball well, as the pre-game scouting reports had indicated they would. But they couldn't score, as pre-game scouting reports indicated.

When they did score, at 5:35 of the third quarter, it was the first touchdown for the offense all season. They came awfully close on two other occasions, and could very likely have won if not for two fumbles.

The first one came halfway through the second period when Dennis Kiernan popped Harmon Hudson at the UMass five, with Ed McAleney recovering. The second one came at the UMass three, with Joe Driscoll losing it in the fourth quarter. McAleny recovered that one too.

The one that didn't get away, though, set off a wild celebration in the stands and on the BU bench. It came on a beautiful 12 yard pass from BU quarterback Ray Roach to halfback Al Rich.

The UMass touchdowns came on two Pennington runs from inside the ten yard line (five and one yarders) and a two yard pass from Fred Kelleher to Tim Berra. Kelleher came on again in relief, this time late in the third quarter as Pennington suffered a hand injury. It's not thought to be serious.

Dutkanicz' kicking highlighted the battle of the feet, a battle which took on extra importance because of the inability of either of the two offensive units to gain controal of the game.

Dutkanicz kept BU's Greg Pemberton, a good kick returner, at bay and sent three kickoffs well into the end zone. He also handled the point after chores, taking over from the dissappointing John Ames, but he only converted two of three attempts.

Mention of Dutkanicz and the running attack were about the only things that could make a tired-looking Dick MacPherson smile after the game.

"The running game was encouraging," he said, "especially when you consider it was done against a tough defensive team like BU. And, of course, the play of Street was encouraging."

Dutkanicz helped us a lot too. He did a great job keeping Pemberton bottled up. He can be dangerous."

Pennington, who was 7-15 passing with 38 yards rushing while he was in there, broke a record early in the game. His seven completions gave him a career total of 248, breaking Greg Landry's old record of 242.

The Minutemen are now 2-0 in the Yankee Conference, 4-2 overall, while BU is 1-4 overall, 1-2 in the conference.

INCIDENTALLY: It was pro sports day at BU and they gave away 10,000 tickets. Still, only 6,679 showed up....Tim Berra had seven receptions, giving him 36 on the season, just seven shy of Steve Schubert's record....The UMass offense tried a Bob Wolfe to Peil Pennington option pass early in the game, but it didn't work....McAleney's recovered three fumbles so far this season.

Booters Win, Colburn Scores 4

By WALT POWERS

Curt Syer was tired but happy. "This could be the turning point of our season", said the rugged UMass soccer fullback. Minutes earlier, two of Tom Coburn's four goals had broken a 3-3 tie at BU's Nickerson field, giving the Minutemen booters a 5-3 victory. Saturday's win was significant, because it: A: Evened their Conference record at I-I, B: Gave UMass a winning 2-I-I record, and C: Was the team's first road victory of the season, occuring on a playing surface they were completely unfamiliar with.

For much of the hot, sunny morning, though, UMass and BU seemed headed for a flop-footed tie.

The Minutemen opened the scoring at 4.53, when Brian McKenney took a short pass in front, and banged it past BU goalie George Scanlon. The play developed after Konstantin Pavlou of BU was warned for intentional tripping Jim Vollinger was given the assist on the goal. Three minutes later Pavlou slammed home a John Dimodoca pass to even the score.

Play was fairly even after that, UMass, the faster, but less controlled unit. At 21.41, BU's Tod Cohen was left unguarded, and UMass Goalie Carl Vercollone was too far in front. Cohen's long blast sailed just over Vercollone's outstretched arms, and just under the crossbar, giving BU its only lead of the game.

That lead lasted until 41.25. Halfback Mike Nugent dribbled down the left sideline, drew Scanlon well out of his net, then passed in front to Coburn, who rolled it into an almost empty net. Both teams played defensively after that, and the half ended tied at 3-3.

UMass pressed early in the second half, but offsides and errant passing kept them off the board. Later, The Minutemen dribbled more, and it worked. Charley Palano dribbled deep into the BU zone and this led to Tom Coburn's first tie-breaker, a short drive from the left into the net's right corner at 36.59. This was the turning point of the game. The UMass bench quieted when Tod Cohen chipped-in Jeff Pike's free kick off Carl Vercollone's outstretched hands, but this momentary lapse merely set the stage for Coburn's histrionics.

Action moved quickly into the BU zone. Coburn took a short pass from Mark Tyma, and sent a short bouncer on the BU goalie, who couldn't handle it; at 39.55 it rolled in off him for the game winner. Just three minutes later, Coburn raced in alone from midfield, faked the helpless Scanlon to the left, then drilled the ball into the right corner. The goal was his ninth in four games.

(AP Photo)

- War in the mideast, see page four

New England's
Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather

The quick brown fox jumped over the lazy dog's back.

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 28A UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS TUESDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1973

To Go, Or Not To Go-That Is The Question

By DANA IRLBACHER

Each year, students--most of whom list their reasons as "personal"--are withdrawing from UMass at a small but steadily rising rate.

To happy UMass enrollees the question, perhaps, arises, "Are these students doing the right thing?" According to some major counseling and administrative figures on campus, "many of them are."

The idea of withdrawing can be looked upon as "serious or frivolous depending on the set of decisions a student has," said Don Banks, of the newly organized Student Development and Career Planning Center.

Banks said that a combination of reasons might cause a student to consider withdrawing.

Unhappiness in school could be a result of difficulties such as separation, ill-adjustments, depression, cultural alienation, parental pressure, etc. But there are other reasons.

Dr. Andrew McCashin, of Mental Heatlh, said he sees two other "groups of students" who withdraw for general reasons. One he terms the "existential" group, of which "students more or less question their identity" in a university setting. Another group, he said, may leave because they are "just tired of school," but are planning to return later on.

Ron LaFrance, coordinator of Room To Move, said some withdraw for serious mental health reasons and are referred to state hospitals. But, he added, these students are few in number.

Foreign students have extra pressures on them to succeed in an American university due to hard parental push, pressure from financial and scholarship programs and emigration laws which are strict in defining a "foreign student," said Judson Haverkamp, Foreign Student Advisor. In this sense, he added, foreign students "are far less likely to withdraw, and those who leave do so only under crisis situations."

Haverkamp said he knows of three or four students who have withdrawn since Fall, 1971. As graduate foreign students outnumber their undergraduate counterparts on a 6 to 1 ratio, it explains why those who withdrew were graduates.

Any with drawing students in good academic standing may also re-enter the University at any time, which helps to discount fears of "not being allowed back in."

It is "impossible," as Registrar Ralph Jones put it, to determine exactly how and when each student will withdraw. Normally, students in residental areas may file for withdrawal with their Area Director during the semester, but many times students will either leave without notice, or will withdraw during summer break.

Most students who withdraw, according to those interviewed and Registrar statistics, are freshmen, sophomores and first semester juniors. Males withdraw at a number higher than that of females, but "they also return more often than women," said Jones. There are more men enrolled at UMass than women.

Concerning the rate of student withdrawals over the years, Jones pointed out statistics which indicate a rising trend. These statistics include only undergraduate students who chose to leave school for "personal" as well as other reasons. Approximately 3 percent of enrolled students withdrew in Fall, 1970. In Fall, 1971, slightly under 4 percent withdrew. Somewhat over 4 percent withdrew in Fall, 1972, and this semester (so far) 6 percent have withdrawn out of the total enrollment.

Banks said that there are two ways to view a "drop out." There are those students who want higher education but find the academic load hard to handle. Student withdrawals, he said, should not be looked at negatively when "those who leave have found that school wasn't what they wanted."

McCashin agreed with this when he said that a student withdrawal is not always seen as a "mental health problem." The idea that students must "check-off" certain reasons for leaving on the withdrawal forms, he said, could be seen as a subtle way of saying, "Something's wrong with the student, he or she is not following the norm of remaining straight through."

Perhaps another problem concerning student withdrawals McCashin said, is knowing that there are students who never see it as one of their alternatives. It is healthy for students to see this at one time or another during their academic stay.

Ron LaFrance sees the "problem" of student withdrawals due, more or less, to the University environment.

"Not enough emphasis is placed on the personal growth of the student, while too much stress is on academic growth," he said. Not enough is done to aid freshmen, either, he added. One example of a good solution to this problem, he said, is Ted Sloven's freshman "orientation course" under the Psychology department.

Generally, all the individuals interviewed agreed that most students enrolled at UMass belong here. Yet, they said, it is realistic to expect that those who feel they do not belong here will continue to leave, and in many cases that is a positive sign, not only for the student but for the educational system as well.

AP Photo

- Chelsea fire, see page five

Amherst Town Meeting

It's A Dog's Life

By MIKE ALLAIN

Amherst Town Meeting members last night passed an amendment to town by-laws which will enable selectmen to restrain, muzzle, or dispose of any dog in violation of newly-adopted restrictive guidelines.

Town Meeting members also voted after nearly an hour's debate to rescind an earlier vote and approve the Shumway Street termination of the proposed Northeast Bypass.

Tighter dog leash laws were the subject of approximately forty minutes of occasionally heated discussion. The Citizens Advisory Committee advanced a proposal, one of 29 articles in the Town Warrant, which would have called for the impoundment of any dog found unrestrained on unauthorized premises.

Town Selectmen offered an alternate proposal in which the Board would act as an overseer of actions of a town dog officer. Selectman Merle Howles told the meeting that the Selectmen favored a policy in which all impoundments would not be at the discretion of a dog officer.

The CAC proposal was defeated by 105 to 75. The proposal of the selectmen was passed by a vocal majority.

The new bypass plan, presented by Henry Yost of North East Street, changes the site of the proposed bypass which is designed to lessen traffic congestion in the center of town.

Town Meeting members had voted on October 30, 1972, to favor a route along East Street for the new bypass.

The change was passed by a 111 to 75 vote.

Don't Drink The Campus Pond

By MARK CITRON

Professor Sydney Siggia says the campus pond is "chemically quite clean". He should know. He teaches Chem 210 which for the past three years has used the campus pond to run quantitative analysis tests.

Chemically clean, does not mean the pond is fit for humans: drinking or bathing.

Here's the story.

A few years ago the American Chemical Society (ACS) wanted to monitor all water bodies in the U.S. using classes like Chem 210. Chem 210 checks the water for certain ion concentrations that, smong other things, indicate industrial pollution. These tests include chlorine, phosphate, ammonia, total iron and hardness.

The classes began by using the Connecticut River, but they ran into a problem: the Connecticut was too clean. It was too clean above Springfield. It was the same below Springfield. Some of the ion concentrations were so low that they couldn't be measured.

Besides, the Connecticut was too far away to be convenient. The class started using the campus pond.

"The pond is in fantastically good shape," says Professor Siggia.

All the ion concentrations tests his classes made were well within the allowable limits.

"One of the questions that needed to be answered," says Professor Siggia, "Are these kids proficient enough (in performing these tests)? And the answer is yes."

But what of the biological pollutants, this reporter asked? Professor Siggia professed ignorance.

Gathering the samples

George Reed, environmental health specialist for University Health Services, said of the pond, "I haven't the faintest idea of the quality of water there, and I'm not concerned with it."

In fact, no one on campus really knew about the pond biological pollutants. And so, about three weeks ago, this reporter, with the help of Professor Reynold Czarnecki in the microbiology department, began running tests on the pond water.

The method followed was from Standard Methods for the Examination of Water and Wastewater of the American Public Health Association. This was to be the official standard test.

I did my research and the first tests were to be run with tap water as a control. The pond water sample was taken, the first set of tubes were innoculated with pond and tap water. Both were incubated for 48 hours and I was not surprised to see all the pond water tubes had bacterial growth.

But I was not prepared to see that three of the tap water tubes had growth. This was my control and I automatically assumed that I had contaminated the samples. But I wanted to make sure that it wasn't possible that the tap water could also be contaminated. The research into that question is somewhere else on this page, in the article about drinking water.

Used was the MPN Coliform test. It determines the Most Probable Number (MPN) of coliform microorganisms per 100 mililiters of sample. Coliform organisms are a definitive indicator of water contamination.

The MPN test itself flows through a series of procedures before a positive "completed test" is attained, and the results can be evaluated.

The U.S. Public Health Service standards recommend that for drinking water the maximum number of coliforms permitted should be 1 coliform per 100m. of sample. Another source says that 50 or more coliforms per 100m. of water, swimming beach water is subject to question. A count of 200 or more indicated poor water. A sample with 1,000 or more is considered unsafe for human swimmers.

Photos - Al Chapman

Professor Siggia

The campus pond was over 900.

Compare this to Cranberry Pond in Sunderland, another small body of water controlled by the University. Mary Margaret O'Geen of Western Mass. Public Health Service, says that the Cranberry coliform count is less than 100.

"The (Cranberry Pond) water is good, "O'Green said. "It could be used for drinking purposes if treated."

William Doubleday, regional engineer for Mass. Division of Water Pollution Control, said one of the biggest sources of campus pond contamination is the ducks.

"Those ducks aren't housebroken. You just have to train them not to shit in the pond," Doubleday smiled.

Doubleday said the pond is being fed by underground piping from a brook that originates in Amherst. He said that there had been trouble in the past by oil spills in Amherst ending up in the campus pond, and that he wouldn't be surprised to learn that overflows in sewer lines were spilling into the pond.

"The sewage treatment plant is set up for 3 1/2 million gallons, and you try to stuff 6-8 million gallons into it and you've got a problem" Doubleday said. "It's like trying to get five pounds of shit in a two pound bag."

Doubleday cited Hadley Pond as what these overflows can do.

Making the tests

"Hadley Pond used to be a good fishing pond-now it's a sludge bed," Doubleday said.

Is the campus pond hazardous? Probably not. All the health officials say no and point to the fish and ducks that are living in the pond. Just don't drink the water, they warn humans.

What about the American Chemical Society program to have all water bodies in the U.S. monitored by classes such as Chem 210? It never got funded and fell through.

Finally, the tests run by this reporter.

How accurate were they?

First, remember I'm not an expert, or a professional. I merely followed the standard procedure. Error is always possible. However, a second series of tests, begun last week, has so far shown the tap water for that particular time and day with zero coliform, and the pond with a high amount of coliform.

Again, the campus pond is probably not hazardous, just don't drink the pond water.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news) 545-0344 (sports), 545-0731 (business)

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

More Dirty H_2O

By MARK B. CITRON

The water you drink on campus at times does not meet health standards for purity. Health and water experts are quick to point out that this does not represent any hazard, but the concensus also says that the situation is not good.

During the first week of October, Cashin and Thatcher dormitories registered excessively high micro-organism counts in water tests performed by Western Mass. Public Health Service. Retests two days later showed both dorms well below those hazardous readings, and within the safe area as defined by the U.S. Public Health Service (USPHS). This example of high bacterial counts followed by a retest showing the water is safe is not particularly unusual on this campus.

Angelo Iantosca, regional sanitary engineer for Western Mass. Public Health Service, is not overly concerned about these isolated cases of high counts. "The water is safe for drinking," he says.

But Iantosca is not directly involved in overseeing the water purity on this campus. Neither is the town of Amherst. The man with the responsibility is George Reed, environmental health specialist for University Health Services.

Reed agrees with Iantosca that there is nothing to worry about. Reed feels that the testing procedures keeps him "on top of the situation". The procedure works like this: Reed sends one of the three students working for him out to take a random sample of tap water. The sample is brought to the Western Mass. Public Health Service laboratory where Mary Margaret O'Geen, the chemist, runs tests looking for Coliform.

Coliforms are a group of microorganisms normally found in human intestines. Outside their natural habitat for example, in the urinary tract they may cause infections. But the coliforms are also present in other warm-blooded animals, cold-blooded animals, plants and soils. When the coliforms are found in water supplies, and this is their importance, they indicate pollution. In fact, they are the definitive method of testing for water contamination.

Coliform test results of four or more indicates contamination and calls for a retest. The early October tests for Cashin and Thatcher showed levels of 38 and 20 respectively. What do these numbers mean? An example would be the problems with the Granby Heights condominiums being built on Route 116. There, people last summer were reported getting sick and a water sample was taken. It showed Coliform counts of well over 650. The well from which the water was drawn was closed and chlorinated.

Here at the University, when the Coliform counts have been high, there have been no reported outbreaks of diarrhea; no sickness. Retests on coliform is often preceded by a check on the water chlorination. If the chlorination is found defective, it is corrected and a retest taken. In the Cashin and Thatcher examples, the retest showed levels of one and zero.

It should be pointed out here that Reed has no formal communication with the UMass infirmary and that a limited number of cases of gastric disorders would probably go unnoticed. This is not to say that a large number of cases would go unreported, as the Granby Heights incident showed. But to wait until outbreaks of sickness occur does not seem the most expedient method of water pollution control. Iantosca, queried about this problem, said "higher chlorine residuals than normal water supplies" are used in such cases.

William Doubleday, Regional Engineer for Mass. Division of Water Pollution Control, considers even one coliform "not good". Other water experts polled by MDC agreed with him. The problem here is the USPHS standards call for a maximum of one coliform per 100 mililiters of sample per month (the "Coliform Index"). So, if 20 samples are taken in a month, the average must be 20 coliforms or less. That means when a large number of samples is taken in a month, results could be high for a day,but when averaged into the monthly total they would not exceed the USPHS standards.

Don't start boiling your water. Again, while campus water purity is not extraordinarily good, there is no need for alarm. But the physical quality of the water has caused a great deal of excitement.

The water around much of Amherst is brown and discolored. Angelo Iantosca says the "physical quality (of the water) leaves much to be desired." Those questioned who draw their water from Atkins reservoir in North Amherst had the opinion that "a bath tub full of the stuff looks like someone shit in the tub" or "you think they forget to take the sludge out".

The brown or green coloring is a natural occurence. The changing of the seasons in the Fall and the subsequent falling of leaves releases many organic acids into the water supply that cause discoloration, Doubleday said. There is also a release of certain materials that serve as nutrients for algae and aquatic weed growth which also causes discoloration. This fall the problem has been

(Continued on P. 3)

TONITE
Some of my Best Friends
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED

We're looking for part-time help to promote the campus market for film developing.

Our rep will distribute promotional materials, posters, "free" processing coupons, etc. No photo experience necessary.

Good money-maker! Your efforts backed by college newspaper ads. Don't pass this one up.

BEST PHOTO
Ms. Ronda Tyler
100 Summers St.
Coolville, Ohio 45723

Yes, send me the information:

Name
Address
City
State Zip
College or Univ.

VITA

Three Down, One To Go

By JOAN FASSNACHT

VITA (Volunteer Income Tax Assistance) has been termed a success. According to Richard A. Sockol, coordinator of the year-old program, VITA is "an excellent community and student based program."

OUTREACH is responsible for the implementation of the VITA program here at UMass in which students are trained to give free tax assistance to low-income families. VITA was begun in the summer of 1972 by William M. Burke, Director of the Center for OUTREACH programs.

VITA'S four major goals included:

1. To assist the community with this need.
2. To eliminate the expense and confusion usually associated with tax preparation.
3. To provide a legitimate and viable learning experience for the student.
4. To foster a better relationship between the University and its surrounding communities.

In a year-end evaluation of the program, Sockol felt that the first three goals of VITA had been successfully met. He would like to see expansion of the fourth goal. Community programs such as VITA can help eliminate many negative images associated with University activities. Sockol feels that if more students would work with and for the community people, such negative feelings would be eliminated.

VITA volunteers served two distinct areas in western Massachusetts last semester. One area included Springfield, Holyoke, Chicopee, Northampton, Eashampton, Belchertown, and Ware. (termed "off-campus" areas). The other served the UMass community including Amherst, Sunderland, and Pelham (termed "on-campus" areas).

In all, VITA assisted 2,696 people last semester; 41.3% of which were termed "off-campus" and 58.7% on campus.

That more people were assisted and more forms were prepared on campus can be attributed to four factors:

1. The on-campus community is more densely populated than the off-campus community.
2. The central location of the campus is ideal for this or any kind of community action, for people constantly pass through it.
3. On-campus centers are open to the public more hours.
4. More money is placed in advertising on the campus.

Four suggestions were offered to improve the program's efficiency:

1. Place less people in the center.
2. Man each center for a lesser amount of hours.
3. Eliminate some centers altogether.
4. Contact additional agencies.

One hundred and eighty students attended the two-part training sessions held this past January. The Internal Revenue Service provided UMass with twelve Revenue Agents who instructed students and distributed educational materials. After twelve hours of training, students were given certificates as having completed the IRS portion of the session.

Most students who participated in the program were satisfied with the results. However, some students felt that the Federal trainers spent too much time on problems that did not directly affect the poor or elderly. It has been suggested that more instruction should be given in the areas of retirement income, foreign students, welfare benefits, and alimony payment areas.

Students received from one to three credits on a Pass/Fail basis for the successful completion of the requirements of the course. All students received a Pass.

In his final statement, Sockol concluded that VITA, by assisting 2,696 people, had directly saved participating towns about $29,117. The program, he said, has "without a doubt been economically feasible and educationally sound."

"We wholeheartedly recommend VITA as an excellent community and student based program and without hesitation would offer it to UMass students," said Sockol.

Staff Photo - Paul Timmerman

An unidentified artist paints Old Deerfield.

Commentary

A Message To The Black Community

(Ed. Note - The following is in response to the article "Facism In New Africa House" printed on pg. 2 of Friday's Collegian.)

Despite our many efforts to discourage any such action, it has come to our attention that members of the black community are proceeding with plans to answer the recent anonymous slander of the Department published by the editor of the Collegian on Friday, October 12, 1973. While we appreciate your expressions of support and understand your anger. We must again urge that you under no circumstances or provocation do this.

The ignorant, impudence, petty racism, and lack of journalistic taste, scruple or principle of the editors of this newspaper are evident. We must not lend dignity to these pages by responding in kind to their provocations.

So far as the nameless authors of the slander are concerned, in the unlikely event that they are indeed black, students, and believe their charges to have merit, they have only to find the fundamental courage, and decency to step from behind their cloak of anonymity and bring the issue to the community where they can be discussed. That they have not done so is comment enough.

As for the Collegian and its editors, the proper class-room for instructing them in fundamental principles of journalistic responsibility is the law courts and this will be done.

Michael Thelwell, Chairman Dept. of Afro-American Studies

Chester Davis, Associate Chairman Dept. of Afro-American Studies

Watch for DOMINO'S

(Continued from P. 2)

compounded by a lack of rainfall which hasn't allowed the normal settling out of these pigments.

"When water is high, the heavier organic material settles out in the sediment...but Atkins reservoir is now two-thirds empty and these organic materials are getting into the water supply," said George Reed.

The three local water sources are 1) wells in the southern part of Amherst, 2) Pelham reservoir and 3) Atkins reservoir. Atkins reservoir serves North Amherst and is the major source of the water discoloration.

Another factor, recently cited in the Amherst Record, are beavers. People involved in forestry and wildlife management decided a few years back that more wetlands were needed for the wildlife. Beavers and their prodigious dam building were thought a natural solution to the problem. But beavers are also prodigious at procreation, and today Angelo Iantosca calls the beavers a "problem".

Iantosca said, "They (beavers) have been in several watersheds and we've had to remove them. They deteriorate water quality."

The problem with the water discoloration appears to be iron and manganese. Paul. Garnt, a chemist in the Western Mass. Public Health Service who tests for these elements, says the combined standard for the two elements is .3 ppm, while his results for iron alone is now approaching .5ppm.

Doubleday says that he's received so many calls about the discolored water that he's made available copies of a paper explaining the role of iron and manganese in the water discoloration problem. The paper says evidence of these metals is seen by "staining and discoloration of laundry and bathroom fixtures, deposits on food during cooking and highly colored water."

Photo - Al Chapman

The author with findings

Iantosca says, "with the iron problem, you can even see flakes as a precipitate."

Garnt said that one of the problems with these organic materials and metals in the water supply is that they "tie up chlorine chemically, so you have to add more chlorine to get at the bacteria." He said this extra chlorine can be seen in a morning shower, where it builds up overnight and you "think you're getting a (chlorine) gas attack" when you turn on the shower.

Iantosca says these elements are "harmless but aesthetically undesirable." He says the only solution, and Doubleday agree, would be rapid filtration and chemical treatment. But the problem with this solution is money, and for Amherst that is a problem not soon to be resolved.

FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES

Sher-wood
Louisville
Victoriaville
Koho
Cooper
STICKS

Hyde
CCM Daoust
SKATES

Skate Sharpening
377 MAIN ST., AMHERST 253-3973
Mon.-Fri., 10-5:30
Sat., 9-4

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday
Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

The Mideast War

U.S., Soviets Take Sides, Supply Arms

(AP Photo)

ON DAMASCUS ROAD - ISRAELI INFANTRYMAN LEADS SYRIAN CIVILIAN in Arab dress from ruins of house to unit headquarters. Syrian was suspected to have sniped at Israeli troops passing through village overrun by advancing Israelis, Saturday. He was detained as POW.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt claimed its tanks dug in along new lines in the Sinai Monday and Israel reported routing an Iraqi tank column on the Syrian front as the Middle East war raged through its 10th day.

The Tel Aviv command said Israeli warplanes bombed and strafed targets near Cairo and Damascus after seizing control of the skies over both fronts. But Cairo said it shot down nine Israeli planes attacking Egyptian air bases and staged a dawn commando raid in the desert behind Israel's Sinai lines.

The State Department announced in Washington that the United States has begun to resupply Israel with military equipment, citing what it called a massive Soviet airlift to replenish Arab arsenals.

The Soviet Union pledged a "determination to assist in every way" the Arab battle to liberate lands captured by Israel in 1967, Tass reported.

The official Soviet news agency said the promise was made during talks between Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Houari Boumedienne of Algeria on "Israel's imperialist aggression."

The announcement of open U.S. arms deliveries to Israel could fuel more anti-American sentiment in the Arab world, already angered by earlier reports of U.S. arms being sent to the Jewish state.

Portuguese sources in Lisbon said U.S. military cargo planes and Phantom jets were passing rapidly through an American base in the Azores, heading east.

President Nixon said at a Medal of Honor ceremony at the White House that U.S. policy is directed at "the right of every nation in the Middle East to maintain its independence and security." He did not comment on the arms deliveries.

The United Arab Emirates, which include two Persian Gulf oil countries, told Nixon through the U.S. Embassy in Abu Dhabi of their "deep concern" over the arms shipments. Similar sentiments have been voiced in stronger language by Egypt, Syria, Iraq, Saudi Arabia, Sudan and Libya since the conflict erupted Oct. 6.

There has been much talk in Arab capitals of an oil cutoff, such as the three-month shutdown in 1967 and oil-producing Arab countries meet Tuesday in Kuwait to discuss oil's role in the war.

But the U.S. government released figures in Washington purporting to show that the United States could get along at least for the time being even if the Arab oil spigots were screwed shut.

The Israeli push into Syria was reported slowed by heavy Syrian tank and artillery fire about 21 miles from Damascus, near the town of Sasa. Associated Press correspondent John Vinocur said from the front that Syria's Soviet-built cannons were blasting Israeli positions all along the some 19 miles of road leading from the 1967 Golan Heights cease-fire lines. But the Israeli command claimed later in Tel Aviv that Israeli tanks crashed through Iraqi armor on the central Syrian front and advanced into more Arab-held territory.

"Dozens of tanks were destroyed and the remnants of the enemy units scattered and retreated," the communique said.

Israeli tank crews in the column battling up the road to Damascus told Vinocur they destroyed about 25 Arab tanks in duels that lasted most of the day.

"Tank battles are still raging in the northern sector of the front," a Syrian communique said.

Syria charged that Israeli air strikes included bombing of civilian targets at Latakia and Tartus, Mediterranean ports with major oil installations.

The Tel Aviv command said Israeli jets over the ports were bombing fuel depots. It said the Israel warplanes also attacked the Syrian tanks defending the road to Damascus and pounded Egyptian missile batteries and air bases 53 and 36 miles from Cairo.

Air raid sirens howled over the Egyptian capital for the fourth time since the conflict broke out. Residents reported hearing faint explosions but no damage was seen and the all-clear sounded 55 minutes later.

The Syrian Embassy in Athens released a statement claiming that Syrians have captured American pilots from planes shot down during air raids on Syrian towns.

Reports Of U.S. Weapons Flown To Mideast Denied

By ADOLPHE V. BERNOTAS
Associated Press Writer

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) - A spokesman at Pease Air Base Monday refused to confirm or deny reports that either Israeli or American planes are ferrying weapons to the Middle East.

Every question put to the public information officer, Sgt. Dennis Sweatt, was answered with, "We have no comment on that."

The questions ranged from whether the unmarked 707s were loading nuclear weapons to whether they were refueling on their route elsewhere.

The same answer greeted a question about whether the KC 135 tankers and F111-A fighter bombers stationed at Pease were flying missions to the Middle East.

Sweatt volunteered that "our entire complement of aircraft are here on the base."

All University Students?

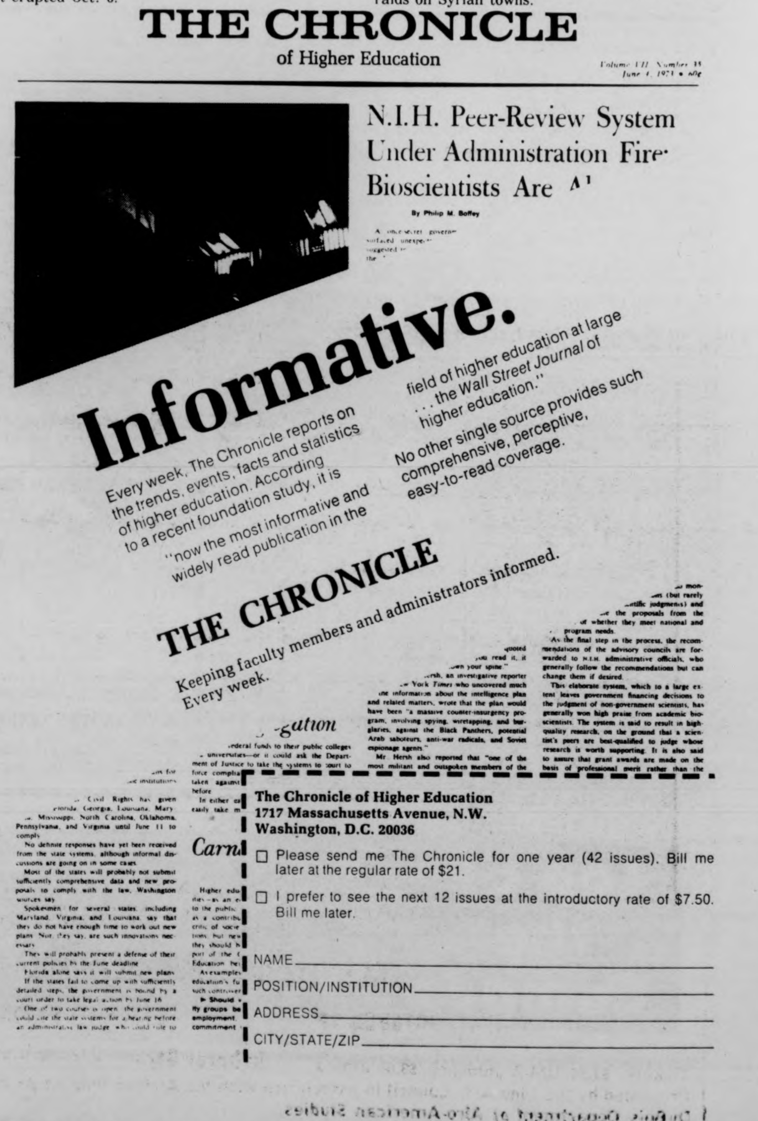
Registration for Greek Area Colloquia is this week! Sign up sheets and brief descriptions of colloqs. are available in the Greek Affairs Office (inside Student Affairs) in Whitmore. Times and meeting place of colloquia will be available there also. For any information call Cindy Waldron at 5-0939. Some tentative colloquia for this semester are:

Fingerspelling and Sign Language

Basic Intro. to Table Tennis

Modern Dance

A Cooking Colloquia



THE CHRONICLE
of Higher Education

N.I.H. Peer-Review System Under Administration Fire: Bioscientists Are A

By Philip M. Boffey

Informative.

Every week, The Chronicle reports on the trends, events, facts and statistics of higher education. According to a recent foundation study, it is "now the most informative and widely read publication in the field of higher education at large . . . the Wall Street Journal of higher education."

No other single source provides such comprehensive, perceptive, easy-to-read coverage.

THE CHRONICLE

Keeping faculty members and administrators informed. Every week.

The Chronicle of Higher Education
1717 Massachusetts Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036

☐ Please send me The Chronicle for one year (42 issues). Bill me later at the regular rate of $21.

☐ I prefer to see the next 12 issues at the introductory rate of $7.50. Bill me later.

NAME ______

POSITION/INSTITUTION ______

ADDRESS ______

CITY/STATE/ZIP ______

Chelsea Blaze Leaves 1000 Homeless

By WARREN LEARY
Associated Press Writer

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) - More than 1,000 persons sought food, something to wear and a place to stay Monday as National Guardsmen patrolled the smoldering ruins of 18 blocks- about 20 per cent - of this industrial satellite of Boston.

A hurricane fire leveled the area in this industrial suburb of 32,000 just across the Mystic River from Boston Sunday. About 80 per cent of the area was industrial, some of it scheduled for urban renewal.

Mayor Philip Spelman said 100 homes and apartments were destroyed, others badly damaged and more than 1,000 persons in 200 families were without a place to live.

The Red Cross appealed for listings of vacant homes and Gov. Francis W. Sargent asked President Nixon to declare the city a disaster area.

More thatn 2,000 firemen from 85 communities, some as far away as New Hampshire and Rhode Island, fought the blaze at its height. Crowds. Twenty firemen were treated for smoke inhalation, four were hospitalized.

Low water pressure, winds gusting up to 45 m.p.h. at the start of the blaze and low humidity of 30 per cent all combined to increase the destruction.

"We had hundreds of pieces of apparatus but only so much water to go around," Fire Chief Herbert C. Fothergill said. The fire was controlled only when firemen tanked in water from other areas and laid extremely long hose lines to hydrants in other parts of the city, he said.

The city had been preparing a $3 million bond issue to improve its water and sewer systems.

The fire, according to Fothergill, apparently started in a three-story wooden warehouse.

He said his department had "no evidence" of arson.

He estimated 280 living structures and another 520 industrial or commercial buildings were destroyed or damaged.

In February, the National Board of Fire Underwriters described Chelsea as having "The highest potential for conflagration of any city in the United States" because of some 138 million gallons of gasoline and other flammable liquids stored above ground. those were not involved Sunday.

The fire chief on that occasion called the city "a huge tenement."

No estimate of damage was possible except "in the millions," according to the chief.

Perhaps 4,000 people spent the night away from home in schools, churches, armories and with relatives.

(AP Photo)

CHELSEA HOME ENGULFED IN FLAMES

Chelsea Warned, Pays Price

BOSTON (AP) - A vice president of the National Fire Protection Association Monday blamed the Chelsea fire on "timid local officials, who show crass indifference to fire safety and the recommendations of their fire departments."

"The city of Chelsea has been warned time and again that much of its industrial and tenement area is a tinderbox," added Robert W.Grant, vice president of the NFPA.

"Chelsea's failure to insist on even minimum fire protection systems shows a cynical disregard by the city for the welfare of its people.

"The city is typical of fire trap districts in most older industrial cities across America."

Grant said pending legislation in Congress would help iocal government with fire protection.

"Chelsea is fortunate; no lives have been lost. The question now is how large a city must be gutted and how many more lives lost before the words 'fire prevention' are given more than lip service by local and federal authorities," said Grant.

"Sparks Falling Like Leaves"

By JAMES F. DONAHUE
Associated Press Writer

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) - Bessie Brown remembers standing in the street outside her apartment building, watching the flames and smoke raging toward her across the housetops, feeling the furnace blast heat of the onrushing fire storm less than two blocks away.

Mrs. Brown does not know how old she is, but a friend guesses she is 75 or 80. She is a widow who has lived for 35 years in a five-room third-floor apartment on the fringe of the area hit by the fire.

"I was scared," she said Monday, recalling Sunday's blaze that destroyed a large portion of Chelsea. 'The way the wind was blowing. The sparks. They were falling like leaves only they were burning. But beautiful, like leaves in the autumn. I saw the flames spurting. I realized my street would be on fire, too."

Kept in a National Guard armory for an uncomfortable sleepless night on a narrow cloth cot, she did not know today if her home was still standing.

"We asked, but nobody knew," she said. "Nobody tells us."

She did not want to spend another night in the Armory. "I was so tired, the cot started out comfortable. But not for long. It is not comfortable now. Who can sleep?"

She sat in a striped housecoat and slippers, all she had taken with her. Her iron-gray hair was neatly combed and tied in a bun.

"We did not know what was happening," she said, remembering what it was like when she first discovered the fire.

"We looked out the front window and I saw the smoke. Such black smoke you wouldn't believe."

She was with a granddaughter, Heather Brown, 13, who lives with her.

Heather commented, "It was terribly windy, but I was not really scared. I just didn't think anything could happen to us. But the sparks were frightening to watch; like grandma said, they came down like leaves."

LAYOUT 101

Classes for this non-credit, practical course in layout begin Thursday night, 6:30 p.m. Open to all, especially the Collegian Staff

Collegian Office, Student Union

TONITE
Some of My Best Friends
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

No Lease Required
RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions: On Route 47.

Mount Sugarloaf SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd. oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

WUMU-TV presents
THE VIDEO SIDEWALK
featuring
HARRY CHAPLIN with guests
Cheech & Chong
TUES., WEDS., THURS.
1 - 3 p.m.
C.C. Concourse
(Near Coffee Shop)

UNIVERSITY OF GHANA CULTURAL DANCERS with GHANA ARTS COUNCIL DANCERS
and
WEST AFRICA INTERNATIONAL RAMBLERS DANCE BAND

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19 STUDENT UNION BALLROOM 8 p.m.

Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students, $3.00 others Cabaret Style - - - - - - - - - Come and Dance!
Presented by the Fine Arts Council in association with the African Student Association and the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies
A Third World Cultural Series Event

Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4
Telephone 545-0202

Spiro Bids Farewell— Denies Any Wrongdoing

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spiro T. Agnew said farewell to public life Monday night with new denials of wrongdoing, praise for Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford, and a call for political reform as a result of "my nightmare come true."

In a nationally televised address, Agnew said he sees only good ahead for America.

"...The government at Washington does live, it lives in the pages of our Constitution and in the hearts of citizens," the resigned vice president said. "Thank you, goodnight and farewell."

The words were emotional, the delivery was not. In a level voice, Agnew repeated his flat denials of bribery and extortion charges against him.

He had only praise for President Nixon, and for Ford, the man nominated to succeed him in the vice presidency.

"In choosing Gerald Ford, the President has made a wise nomination," Agnew said. "...He'll make an excellent vice president, and he is clearly qualified to undertake the highest office should the occasion require."

Agnew said he did not want his last moments on the public stage to be spent in "a paroxysm of bitterness." But he said he wanted the nation to understand fully the reasons for his resignation last Wednesday.

Agnew said he hopes the trauma of his case will "form the crucible out of which a new system of campaign financing is forged," to avoid even the appearance of wrongdoing by public officials in raising political funds.

Agnew urged an overhaul of political finance laws, to provide public financing for every candidate for office. He also urged reform of the system of justice, and specifically attacked the use of immunity to gain testimony against people accused of wrongdoing.

"As things now stand, immunity is an open invitation to perjury," Agnew said. "In the hands of an ambitious prosecutor it can amount to an invitation to legalized extortion and bribery."

Agnew specifically denied, as he had before, the accusations of bribery and extortion leveled by government prosecutors. And he said that while he accepted conviction on the tax evasion charge, his plea of no contest was not an admission of guilt for any other purpose.

In an interview with the Nashville, Tenn., Banner, Agnew said pressure from the highest levels of the Nixon administration forced him to resign.

Miami Voodoo Cult Suspected In Killings

MIAMI (AP) - Police here are investigating a voodoo cult in the Latin community following the slaying of a man who reportedly threatened to use the head of his attacker in a sacrificial ritual.

Police said yesterday they were sifting through the belongings of Juan Olivier Hernandez, 36, for information about the cult and clues to the identity of his killer. One officer said they found a "lot of weird stuff" in his room.

Hernandez was killed Saturdaynight when he was shot three times by an attacker who witnesses said had chased him through Miami's Little Havana section.

Police said witnesses told them Hernandez had earlier told the killer - described as a male in his 30s - that he intended to use his head in a sacrificial rite. These witnesses also told police that Hernandez practiced a form of voodoo or black magic.

Police said Hernandez was carrying a gold-painted hammer when he was killed. His trousers were decorated with two one-inch strips of freshly glued glitter, they said.

Dr. Hazel Weidman, a University of Miami anthropologist who has been studying the growth of voodoo in the Cuban community, said a cult was flourishing in the area.

"It is a combination of Western African religion and Roman Catholicism," she said. "In Cuba it was a lower class phenomenon but here it is beginning to be used by Cubans of all classes. It helps them make the transition from Cuban culture to American culture."

Police said there were a number of bizarre incidents in the city's Latin community over the weekend.

Roberto Gonzalez, 42, discovered the skinned body of what appeared to be a dog in front of his home. The body of the animal had pennies under its feet, a banana in its mouth and an apple in its rectum, police said.

Neighbors said a gasoline-soaked wooden cross was found in the backyard of Raul Pacheco, 42, a minister of the Church of God.

Bugging Common In High Places

By VERNON A. GUIDRY JR.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The late President Lyndon B. Johnson confided during his White House tenure that he believed "That even his phone was tapped," Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said yesterday.

Douglas, in an attack on what he called the "dirty business" of wiretapping, also said he was "morally certain" that the Supreme Court's conference room was bugged. The most secret deliberations of the justices on pending cases take place in the room.

Douglas' assertion came in a dissent to a court action in a wiretap-related case.

"We who live in the District of Columbia know that electronic surveillance is commonplace," wrote Douglas. "I am indeed morally certain that the conference room has been 'bugged' and President Johnson during his term in the White House asserted to me that even his phone was tapped."

Douglas gave no additional information and his office responded to inquiries by saying there would be no more comment.

Other members of the court, as least initially, gave no indication they shared Douglas' fears about the conference room.

In other actions Monday, the court agreed to decide:

- Whether Montgomery, Ala., may permit segregated private schools to use public stadiums under a policy that a group of Negroes from the city says undermines school desegregation.

- Whether Missouri goes too far in protecting separation of church and state when it denies the services of federally financed teachers to poor children in nonpublic schools.

- Whether local governments may exercise their police power to ban communal living by unrelated persons in the interest of promoting the traditional family through zoning laws.

Douglas' ire on wiretapping was raised by the court's refusal to grant bail pending appeal in a federal contempt of court case in which Margaret Anne Heustche refused to answer questions from a grand jury about a series of break-ins in 1972 at draft board offices in Evanston, Ill.

Minorities Run For Mayor

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Race looms as the biggest issue in Tuesday's runoff mayoral election between incumbent Jewish Mayor Sam Massell and popular black Vice Mayor Maynard Jackson.

Ironically, Massell, who rode to victory four years ago as a liberal with overwhelming black support, is the candidate accused of injecting racism into the campaign.

Massell, who barely made the runoff in the Oct. 2 general election, has sought to tie Jackson with Hosea Williams, a black activist candidate in the runoff for president of city Council.

Although candidates for the two top offices in city government do not run as a team, Massell has constantly linked the polished, 35-year-old Jackson with Williams, a bearded civil rights campaigner and local leader of Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Massell's ads speak of the "Jackson-Williams team," which he claims "scares Atlantans to death."

His latest advertising points out Jackson's endorsement of Williams in the 1972 Senate race and attributes a statement to Williams that the hope for blacks lies in, "bucks, ballots and bullets."

Massell added, "I just have the guts to say a black man can be bad, just like whites can."

WEAR-HOUSE
PLAIDS
201 N. PLEASANT ST. thurs. & fri. till 9pm
bells · cuffed baggies · slacks ·
plaids
THREE BUCKS
THIS CERTIFICATE IS NEGOTIABLE ONLY IN THE WEARHOUSE TOWARD ONE PAIR OF PLAID SLACKS 3333332
OMINUM OMINUM
COUPON
3 please go away

Let us help you plan your get-away . . . and return. We're a full service travel agency!

☐ airline tickets
☐ steamship tickets
☐ railroad tickets
☐ hotels ☐ resorts ☐ cruises ☐ honeymoons
☐ tours ☐ vacations
☐ car rentals

Peter Pan WORLD TRAVEL INC.
79 SOUTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST • TEL. 256-6704

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday Oct. 16, 17,
Prime Rib Special
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95

(AP Photo)

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. -- Everything got blown out of proportion one day last week as Lonnie Holcomb (L) and his friend Carol Mancuso (R) blow up a storm during a lunch break.

Thais Demonstrate Against Military

By RICHARD BLYSTONE
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Three of Thailand's most powerful military leaders, including the ex-premier, left the country on Monday after two days of bloody demonstrations in the capital against military rule, the government radio said.

The announcement over Radio Thailand, coupled with a declaration by the new civilian premier, Dr. Sanya Thammasak, that he had reached a compromise agreement with student demonstration leaders, appeared to ease the explosive situation in Bangkok.

The radio announced that the leaders - former Premier thanom Kittikachorn, Deputy Premier and Field Marshal Praphas Charusathien, and Col. Narong Kittikachorn - flew to an undisclosed destination in a move to restore peace.

Praphas was considered the most powerful man in the military ruling group. Narong was the deputy chief of national security.

A curfew was lifted Monday night and students raced around the city in commandeered cars and buses, appealing to demonstrators to clear the streets and go home.

Seven student leaders, including the head of the powerful National Student Center, went on national television to appeal for an end to the violence.

During the day, the city's main police headquarters was stormed and burned by an armed mob in one of numerous clashes with authorities. Several other police stations also were attacked.

Complete casualty figures were not available, but a report on the police radio communications network said many police were killed in one skirmish. One doctor said a check of four hospitals indicated more than 165 dead so far. Hundreds have been wounded.

"Send The Tea Back"

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Philadelphia is going to beat Boston to the tea party, reenacting the Revolutionary War protest Tuesday as the kickoff of the 1976 Bicentennnial celebration.

Boston has scheduled its historic replay during the winter.

"Philadelphia is where the opposition to the tea began in 1972," said Dr. Jerry Grundfest, history coordinator for Philadelphia '76. "It didn't pick up in Boston until November.

"The intellectual center of the revolution was here. We've got to get going first."

Costumed elementary school pupils will carry placards reading, "We'll tar and feather the captain," and "Send the tea back."

"BUTCH CASSIDY
AND
THE SUNDANCE KID"
Tuesday, Oct. 16 6:30 9:00 11:30
Student Union Ballroom

FREE FLIGHT DEMONSTRATION for those who qualify

NAVY INFORMATION TEAM
ON CAMPUS
MEMORIAL HALL - OCT. 17th & 18th 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.
to interview prospective aviators.
Starting salary as an aviator $10,500

FLY NAVY

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS
EDITOR IN CHIEF Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR Patrick Coffey

ADVERTISING MANAGER Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. NEWS EDITOR Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR Joyce Kosofsky
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR Geoffrey L. Kurinsky
TODAY'S STAFF
ISSUE EDITOR Karen Lynch
EDITORIAL Jerry Lazar
SPORTS Geoff Kurinsky
DARKROOM Pete Manera, Richard Harding, Dennis Conlon
AD LAYOUT Jane Levin

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

In Reply

(The following letter, concerning the commentary entitled "Fascism In New Africa House" in Friday's Collegian, is in reply to the letter appearing in today's Collegian, page 10.)

Mr. Bracey:

The commentary to which you refer was not written by a Collegian staff member, editor, or any person in any way connected with the Collegian. It was jointly written by three black women associated with New Africa House. As stated in the editor's note preceding the commentary in question, it purported to represent "the views of some of the black students of New Africa House." It was in no way, as you suggest, a "sneaky attempt to poke fun at New Africa House and the DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies."

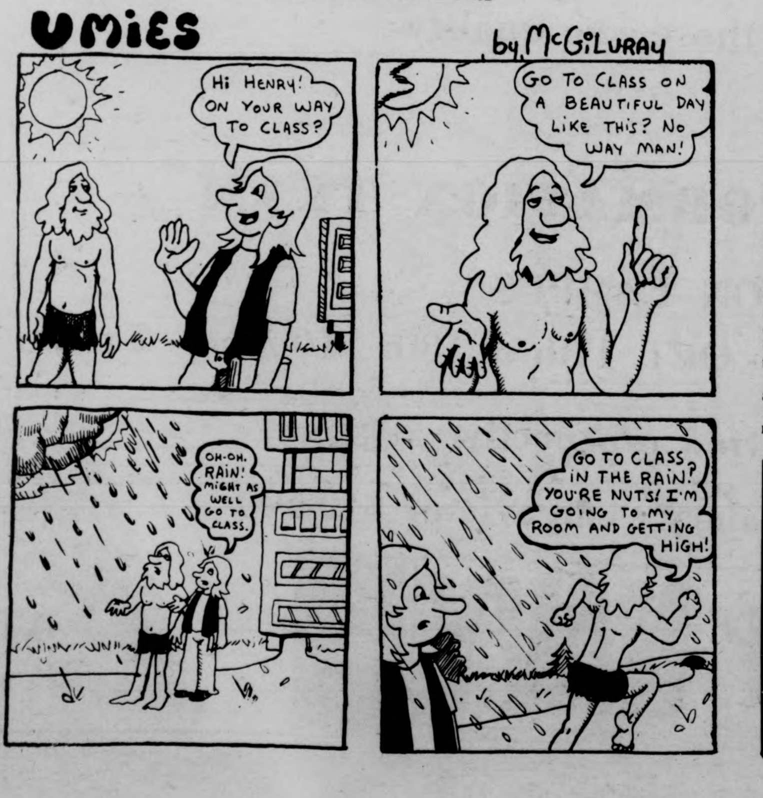
The headline of the commentary was suggested by those three women, who did not wish to have their names revealed "for fear of reprisal."

The editorial should never have been printed without a byline, a mistake on the part of the Collegian. Our lawyer has advised us against anonymous commentary in the future, and no commentary will be used anonymously from now on without the express consent of the Editor-in-Chief or the Board of Editors of the Collegian.

Although the Collegian may be rightfully criticized of being occasionally inaccurate, it is certainly not our policy to publish lies. It is also not the intent of the Collegian to align itself with any party in this matter.

Opportunity for rebuttal has been offered to the parties concerned with Friday's commentary, and that offer remains open.

Board of Editors
Daily Collegian



UMIES
by McGiLURAY
Hi HENRY! ON YOUR WAY TO CLASS?
GO TO CLASS ON A BEAUTIFUL DAY LIKE THIS? NO WAY MAN!
OH-OH. RAIN! MIGHT AS WELL GO TO CLASS.
GO TO CLASS IN THE RAIN? YOU'RE NUTS! I'M GOING TO MY ROOM AND GETTING HIGH!

Gerry Cataldo

He Laughed At Us

Let there be no mistake about it, the former Vice President is a crook. He ranks down there with the "big boys", just another goon who used political office to line his pockets. He stood there before the judge and said that he understood everything that was happening. He stood there and took it all like a man, the man that he wasn't. He had the gall to speak with the press after the hearing, and utter those now disgusting words, "in the national interest". He had the absolute nerve while in office to attack those "nattering nabobs of negativism", and scorn the "effete corps of impudent snobs". The people cheered him, and he lined his pockets. One word brought down all the phony rhetoric; crook!

He was Mr. Clean in the administration. Watergate never touched him, and most people believed he was above such acts. He was called several things by several people, but most felt that the guy was honest. He had his strongest support from the conservative wing of the Republican Party, the very people who usually point their fingers in disgust at those who connive and cheat while in public office. They supported him just a week ago, but I wonder where they are today. He probably couldn't get elected Alderman in Podunk, Illinois.

There will most likely be no jail for the former Vice President. Giving up his office, paying some $10,000 in fines, and the financial burden of back taxes, was deemed sufficient punishment. He left office in disgrace, and he and his family will have to live with that. But more than the personal tragedy, he has disgraced an entire nation, a political system, and the second highest office in our land. He'll never be able to erase that crime, and I don't think that America will ever really forgive him. I for one can have no compassion for a man who has displayed such little regard for the responsibilities and trust placed in him by the American people. A heartbeat away from the Presidency, and laughing all the way to the bank,no better, really, than a two bit hood. He is a product of a society so concerned with personal appeal and vote getting potential that sometimes the basic qualities of honesty and dedication are not questioned. We owe it to ourselves to be more careful, or at the very least more skeptical.

All in all we were lucky this time. If anything had happened to our fearless leader, then you-know-who- would have been opening up a new account in Washington. Or he could have cooled his heels until 1976, and run for President on another law and order platform. Ironic as hell, isn't it? Law and Order!! He preached it, screamed it, and made the new permissiveness the cause of all our national ills. And they cheered him like hell, while he laughed at every one of them.

He'll probably go the way of most disgraced men, off the front page and into relative obscurity. But not until he speaks to the nation Monday night and tells his story. I for one am not interested, and with any luck at all will miss it. Prime time on the networks costs a few bucks, from what I understand, so I just hope he doesn't start crying poor-mouth on the air. I think the guy has a nerve to ask the country that he disgraced to sit back and listen to him tell his story. He's got a nerve.

It may be overly idealistic to expect a little honesty and dedication from public officials today, especially at the local level. But it would be nice to think that in order for a guy to reach the top his record has to be a pretty clean one. And it wouldn't be too much to expect that somewhere along the line somebody would investigate a candidate's or an elected official's past, not only to insure against political embarrassment, but to assure honesty in leadership. It took over five years to get the info this time. That means, for five years we were all duped. He laughed at us. A heart beat away, and he laughed at us.

Gerry Cataldo is a Collegian columnist.

The Struggle In The Middle East

By PEDRO HERNANDEZ

When speaking about Imperialism in the Middle East, what comes to mind first and foremost is "OIL...Oil exploitation is fantastically profitable. The fixed-capital investment necessary to extract one barrel of crude oil daily is $190 in the Middle East compared with $730 in Venezuela and $1,500 in the USA. The cost of producing one barrel of crude oil in the Middle East is only fifteen cents as against $1.63 in the USA. The eight giant oil companies controlling World Oil fix the prices in the World market according to the cost of production at the Gulf of Mexico. Middle East Oil is really a gold mine. The rate of profit on Middle East Oil according to official figures (and these are, naturally, understated), averaged in the period 1948 - 60-67 per cent annum on capital invested, as agaisst 21 per cent in Venezuela and 10.8 per cent in the USA.

The Israeli economic is not a backward economic, suffering from exploitation by Western Imperialism, but on the contrary it is subsidized heavily by Western Capitalism. One need only think of the hundreds of millions of reparations paid by West Germany. This is not the product of Bonn's construction over Nazi crimes against the Jews; after all twenty million Russians were killed by the Nazis and still not a single mark was paid to Russia by Bonn! It is because Washington willed it that Bonn paid up to Israel. Altogether, between 1949 and 1964 nearly $6,000 million came to Israel via German reparations, economic aid from the USA Government and from Jews in the USA and elsewhere. This sum comes to some $3,000 per head of the population of Israel, or more than L 1,000 this is a fantastic sum. Even at the height of Empire, the net profit per average BRiton from investments in the Empire did not come to L 10 per head per year! Even in a year of economic depression with hardly any immigration at all (1966), capital imports into Israel reached $505 million, or some L 72 per head. Is Israel interested in Agrarian Revolution, in radical land reform! OF COURSE NOT. Zionism got rid of the Arab fellahs. Agrarian Revolution-that is, the restoration of the land to its original cultivators-is the last thing Israel would wish for.

Lastly, does Israel have an interest in the unity of the Arab Countries into one state! OF COURSE NOT. ISRAEL is not colony suppressed by Imperialism, but a colony, a SETTLER'S CITADEL, a launching-pad of Imperialism.

It is a tragedy that the sons of the very people who had been persecuted and massacred in such a bestial fashion should themselves be driven into a chauvinistic, Militaristic fervour, and become the blind tool of Imperialism in subjugating the Arab Masses. In the same way that the existing social orders to be blamed for the calamity of the Jews, so it is to be blamed for the exploitation of their catastrophe for reactionary, oppressive aims. ZIONISM does not redeem Jewry from suffering. On the contrary, it imperils them with a new danger, that of being a buffer between Imperialism and the national and social liberatory struggle of the Arab masses.

The only possible solution to the needs of the Middle East is the workers and peasant's Revolution aimed at the establishment of a Socialist Republic, with full rights for JEWS, KURDS, PALESTINIANS and all national minorities.....

Pedro Hernandez is a Collegian commentator.

Editorial Points

Don't you just love waking up at 9:00 a.m. Sunday morning, knowing that you can go back to sleep for a few more hours?

And don't you hate it when you wake up again at noon and discover that it's really Monday afterall, and you just missed all your morning classes?

+++

Don't you love buying a new album, coming back to your dorm room, and blasting it on your stereo?

And don't you hate it when your neighbors on both sides start pounding on the walls?

+++

Don't you love coming back to your dorm room after a long day of classes, figuring you can catch an hour of sleep before supper?

And don't you hate it when you suddenly realize your key is locked inside your room?

Letters To The Editor

Talking, Not Fighting

To The Editor:

I was deeply impressed by Mr. Said Khouri's appeal to "talking instead of fighting", published as a letter to the Collegian (October 15, 1973). This is a positive response to his appeal. As an Israeli, I feel, like Mr. Khouri, that both Arabs and Israelis are "losers in war regardless of who wins the battle". I also agree with him when he says that "it is time to give ourselves the chance to find other options that might lead us to peace".

It is unfortunate, very unfortunate indeed, that up to now only the voices of the hardliners and intransigents in both sides have been given any attention at all. When a radio station in New York, in the eighth day of the fierce fighting which is costing so many lives on both sides of the front, broadcasts a discussion of the Middle East situation in which Dr. Mahdi, a representative of the most extremist Palestinian groups, faces Mr. Mellman, arguing for an intransigent, no-concession line to be taken by Israel, it is not promoting the kind of discussion suggested by Mr. Khouri. It is rather perpetuating the tiresome and dangerous war of words between the sides, which has been going on ever since the creation of Israel, and which is the fertile ground in which the seeds of real war develop. Such a "debate" is indeed as useless, for bringing peace to the region, as the "debates" in the Security Council. As a matter of fact, it is equivalent to the shoutings across New York streets between Arab and Jewish demonstrators. It is no debate at all, for it is not a dialogue but a succession of monologues, in which each participant presents his views and immediately blocks his ears, to avoid any danger of being convinced of, let alone understanding, the other's arguments. As a matter of fact, in these pseudo-debates, no arguments are ever presented at all, for the appeal is not to reason and understanding, but only to deep rooted emotions, whose arousal can only generate more violent and irreconcilable feelings.

I think the kind of discussion Mr. Khouri is proposing is a completely different one, and I am, therefore, willing to engage in it. I belong to the small, but significant, part of the Israeli public which has consistently argued for a more flexible and liberal policy on the issue of peace and territories. Let me quote a part of a tentative platform for the next general elections, that has been worked out by our group (before the current events), and which has won wide support among intellectuals, students, workers, kibbutz members, and others:

"On Palestine and the State of Israel":

1. The historical Eretz-Israel (Palestine) is the joint homeland of two peoples: the Jewish people and the Arab-Palestinian people.
2. The State of Israel is the realization of the national rights of the Jewish people, the fulfilment of its expectations and hopes for political independence.
3. Therefore, the basis of our conception is loyalty to the independence, sovereignity and security of the State of Israel.
4. The national rights of the Palestinian people were not realized. The Palestinian people has the right to self-determination, based on peaceful co-existence with Israel. This includes the right to create an independent state, beside Israel.
5. There is a mutual link between Jews in the State of Israel and the other parts of the Jewish people in the world, and there is a mutual link between the Palestinians and the Arab world.
6. The link between Jews in the State of Israel and elsewhere has multiple expressions. The central one is, and will be, manifested by the immigration of Jews who want to link their lives with the State of Israel.

On Peace and Security:

1. Every attempt by any of these two people of Eretz-Israel (Palestine) to dominate the other works against peace and security for both peoples. The idea of a "Greater Israel" (Eretz-Israel Hashlema), and the idea of "liberation of the whole territory of Palestine" are dangerous for the two peoples, and must be totally rejected.
2. The cornerstone for durable and reliable security is peace between the State of Israel, the Palestinian people, and the Arab states. This shall be based on an agreement signed by all sides involved, as a result of negotiations entirely free from outside impositions, prior conditions and faits accomplis, and which shall have as its foundation mutual recognition and mutual respect of the national rights of all sides...."

Unfortunately, statements like this have been ignored, both by the international press, and by Arab political opinion. I think I can discern in Mr. Khouri's appeal for mutual recognition of the other side's rights something quite close to my own opinions, as expressed in the above quoted statement. There may be differences in details, but the spirit of our positions is the same, and this makes me hope that meaningful and helpful results can evolve from an intensive, and rational exchange of views in accordance with the spirit of Mr. Khouri's appeal. I suggest, therefore, that we organize some sort of joint committee, including Israelis, Palestinians, Jews, Arabs, and any other interested persons, in order to discuss and elaborate on the issues raised in both Mr. Khouri's and my letters. I invite Mr. Khouri to join me in this effort, although, like him, I do not feel overly optimistic about its chances of success. But this is a moment of sorrow and distress, when one must bet even when the odds are very poor.

Marcelo Dascal
Visiting Lecturer, Linguistics and Philosophy (UMass)

Too Bad

To John Newcomb Marsh:

1) In reference to your point about death as a result of lack of nutrition: Dead people tell no tales.

2) If you think the D.C. food is good, I'd hate to taste your mother's cooking.

3) I hope you have as many crabs on your nuts as I found worms in mine.

4) To add insult to insult, I found lots of four letter words in YOUR letter such as food, meal, nuts, cups, four, John, etc. Too bad you can't count.

May you forever eat lentil loaf,

Susan Shapiro
Merrill Pellows

Zamir Nestelbaum

War Breeds War

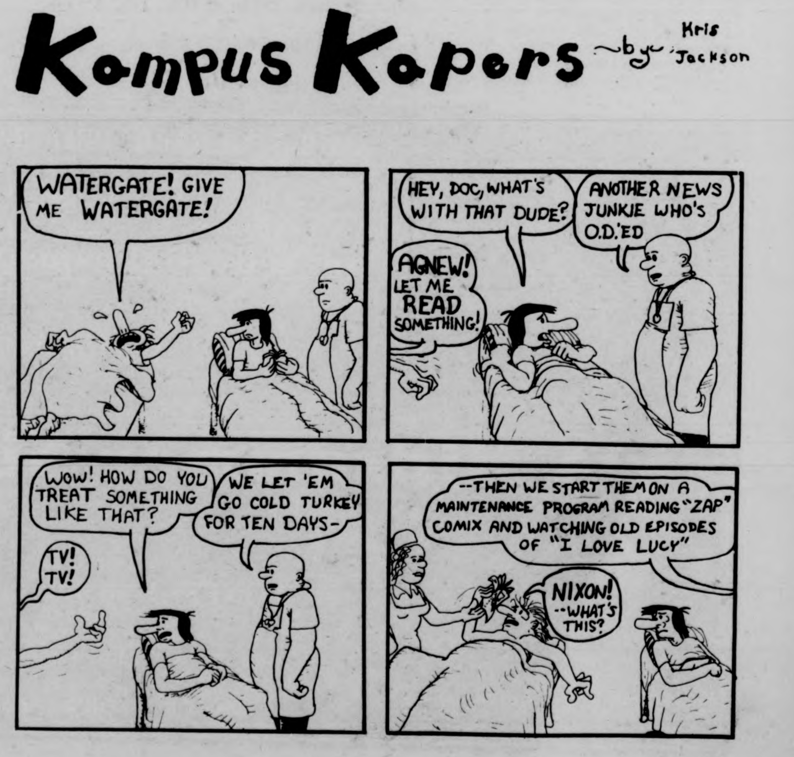
On a serious note!....Events of the last two weeks have dampened much of the humour one needs to look at the world without breaking down into an ignominious and pitiful weeping. We have seen dramatic proof of one of the great moral hypocrites of our time and his inevitable fall and disgrace before the American people. We have also seen a vicious sneak attack on the most sacred and holy days of the year by a "brave group of countries" against a much smaller foe. Once again the combined, and thankfully inept, forces of the Arab World have gathered up their military might, their nationalistic zeal, their religious fervor, and their pernicious agressiveness and attacked on a day held sacred by the Israelis. The renewal of fighting in this never-ending battle grieves my heart. Men are falling on both sides in the name of some higher ideological ideal when in fact their deaths are mere statistics in the dirty politics that has characterized the region for the last half century. The Arabs, feeling that the present state of mideast affairs was intolerable, decided that they had no recourse but toward war. The Israelis, too confident in the always perilous cease fire, were lax in their intelligence operations and were caught off guard last week.

This struggle has gone on now in one form or another for three quarters of a century, and to be understood, one must examine the background. Israel was created as a haven for the remnants of the European Jewish Population who survived the murderous exterminations of the haughty Nazi-Germans. Their claim to the land can be traced to Biblical references and indeed most of the original partition state had been purchased from the Arabs by the Jewish Agency in the early Zionist Drives. The emotional importance of the State of Israel to Jews cannot be minimized. Jewish theology and Jewish Culture is permeated with references to it. From Jeremiah's sad soliloquy on his love for Jerusalem to the fervent prayer of millions of persecuted Jews in the Ghettos for Two Thousand Years "Next Year in Jerusalem!" The Zionist movement was created in the firm belief that the embattled European Jews could not safely remain there and live as Jews in Peace. Early Zionists sought to escape the hopelessness of their European station and live in freedom. World War II confirmed this in the minds of those few who survived. Where else could they go—but to Israel? And so the politics of Israel since 1948 has reflected this intense drive for Jewish unification and solidarity. Israelis determined never to be led to death again and have taken always a hard line in dealing with their enemies. The mood and the politics of the people have demanded this. Moreover, constant Arab attacks have left in power the more militaristic and hard nose of Israeli parties. This vicous cycle leads to more wars and less chance of peace. In other words, War breeds War.

The Arab states too have a great emotional stake in the struggle. Arab Nationalism, a great force even underestimated by the crafty and worldly British Colonialists, has blossomed in the last century and is presently raging. The presence of a Jewish state in its midst has given the Arab World a common foe against which to struggle and unify. Long humiliated by the British and Turks and other cruel imperialists, the Arabs have sworn never to let anything which they consider in the path of the Great Arab Good remain in existence. Because of this, they called the Palestinians out of their homes in 1948 so that their Armies could sweep in and destroy the Jewish State. Because of this, they keep the Palestinian refugees locked into these poverty stricken refugee camps for all these years, in order to keep any peace distant. Arab Politics, like Israeli politics, have been pursued from points of weakness and emotion rather then strength and rationality. Because of the great emotional impact of Arab Nationalism and Arab Unity, and because of the political instability of the great Arab oligarchies, Arab politicians have had to utilize the popular issue of war against Israel, in order to remain in power. Once pledged to these policies, they have had to deliver or face a coup d'etat. In times of great tensions, politics always gravitate toward the extreme. This is the situation that Anwar Sadat found himslef in before the sneak attack. Faced with the successorship of General Nasser, and old fire-eater, Sadat has found it necessary, in order to prolong the state of conditions upon which his power is based—where a few Egyptians own virtually the entire country, to prolong the politics of war. After the 1967 debacle, Egypt has attempted by diplomatic means to regain face and its lost territory. Israel, fairly profitable in the cease fire condition, found all diplomatic possibilities unsuitable to its superior bargaining position, for reasons previously alluded to. And so given Arab politics which necessitate action, and Israeli politics which necessitate a firm line, Egypt attacked on Israel's holiest day, when she least expected it. An inevitable Israeli win will give the Israelis much in the short run, will probably topple Sadat, but will make the next conflict a matter of a decade or so away. Any Arab victory at all would gravely imperil the lives of the Jewish people in Israel. In either eventuality, peace loses and people die for naught. We must pray for peace and some change in the local politics, and those politics of oil and the superpowers which I have not even mentioned, which greatly cloud and complicate the area.

Zamir Nestelbaum is a Collegian Columnist.

More Letters,
See Page 10.



Kompus Kapers
~by~ Kris Jackson
WATERGATE! GIVE ME WATERGATE!
HEY, DOC, WHAT'S WITH THAT DUDE?
ANOTHER NEWS JUNKIE WHO'S O.D.'ED
AGNEW! LET ME READ SOMETHING!
WOW! HOW DO YOU TREAT SOMETHING LIKE THAT?
WE LET 'EM GO COLD TURKEY FOR TEN DAYS-
TV! TV!
--THEN WE START THEM ON A MAINTENANCE PROGRAM READING "ZAP" COMIX AND WATCHING OLD EPISODES OF "I LOVE LUCY" NIXON! --WHAT'S THIS?

More Letters To The Editor

A Rather Poor Attempt At Fantasy And Satire?

To The Editor:

Opening the Collegian on Friday, October 12, 1973, on my way to the editorial page to read the cartoons (rapidly becoming the only items in the paper that make any sense at all), I was struck by an article entitled "Fascism in New Africa House". Noting that the Collegian has a history of taking cheap shots at black people on this campus e.g. the April Fool's issue last spring, and that Halloween is fast approaching I concluded that what I was reading was a rather poor attempt at fantasy and satire, a sort of premature Halloween prank. You know "trick of treat" and all that.

The title, of course, is just an eye-catcher. No discussion of fascism or fascist behavior appears anywhere in the article. A number of other features leads me to think that this article was not done by anyone familiar with the actions and behavior of black people.

First, the article claims to be an "editorial" representing the views of "some of the black students of New Africa House". Sounds fishy to me. As courageous and outspoken as are the black students on this campus, none of them would ever think of writing such an editorial without affixing their names prominently to it so that the whole world would know that they had a legitimate gripe. The idea of an anonymous letter smacks of the "tomish" "scared-of-white-folks" attitude that was more prominent during the 1940's and 1950's. The Collegian staff being behind the times did not realize that contemporary black militants do not conduct themselves in this fashion. Can you imagine Malcolm X or Martin Luther King, or even Roy Wilkins, writing an anonymous editorial.

Second, what black students in their right minds would jump into print in a white newspaper to talk about internal problems of the black community, if such problems exist? What audience could they hope to be reaching? If black students have a beef against New Africa House or the Afro-Am Dept. they would bring it there first. Since I have been here, I have not received, nor know of, any written or verbal list of complaints addressed to New Africa House or to the Dept. As Malcolm X so wisely said: "We need to stop airing our differences in front of the white men...". The Collegian staff, not having read Malcolm's writings, purported to be airing an internal struggle in the black community. Any blacks on their staff would have advised them against such an action.

Third, the attacks on the personal behavior of the chairman of the Afro-Am Dept. are a real tipoff that the intent of the "editorial" was satire. The chairman is accused of getting some traffic tickets, smoking grass, and carrying a machete. What black student, or black staff member, has not been stopped by the police in this or some other area, at least once; especially if one is out relatively late at night. The part about grass is really a joke. More grass is smoked on this campus than tobacco. The chairman is a close follower of the Rastafari Brethren and may even have been carrying the grass for use in religious ceremonies. The machete, of course, was just one more took for cutting through the redtape at Whitmore. Who really knows? At any rate, no black student on this campus considers any of the above actions indications of fascism.

Fourth, the list of demands from June 1972 is a fake. I have a copy of a list of demands that was given to the Afro-Am Dept. in the Spring, 1972. The Collegian must have gotten a copy of that list, added its own version of black student demands, and attempted to generate more laughs at the expense of the black community. The demand re "who was W.E.B. DuBois" is a real dilly. The Afro-Am Dept. has been offering a course on the life of Dr. Du Bois for the past two years, has sponsored lectures every year since the formation of the dept. on the life and works of Dr. Du Bois, and had the late Dr. Du Bois' widow and son on the campus last year. If no one knows who W.E.B. Du Bois is, it is certainly not the fault of the Afro-Am Dept.

Finally, I think that I may have detected the real motivation behind this sneaky attempt to poke fun at New Africa House and the DuBois Dept. of Afro-American Studies. Buried in the second column of the "editorial" is a mention of "low grades". This is it. Some disgruntled student - white or black - has taken a course in the Afro-Am Dept., did not do the work, got a deservedly low grade and in a feeble, not to say feebleminded, attempt at revenge, conspired with the Collegian to attack the Dept. through the medium of a phoney "editorial". My chief regret is that the cartoonists, who have been doing such good work all year, were not pressed into service to provide pictures of the black community rolling their eyes, doing the cakewalk and eating watermelon. That would have been an appropriate expression of the Collegian's feelings about black people and may have provided at least some humor in what I feel was a rather dreary and unsuccessful attempt at humor and satire.

Not so respectfully,
John H. Bracey, Jr., Assoc. Prof.
W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies

For reply, see page 8

CAMBRIDGE TEA AND SPICE
126 MAIN St.
Northampton
50% OFF
Everything except food
2 weeks only

A Man Called Horse
starring
RICHARD HARRIS
"A Straightforward, Unadorned Adventure Story!"
— NEW YORK MORNING TELEGRAPH
"Boasts An Authentic Version Of Indian Life!"
—NEWSWEEK MAGAZINE
Thompson 104 Oct. 16, 1973
8 p.m. & 10:15 p.m.
Admission 75¢

Television Tonight

6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "The Seventh Captain." (18)
MAKING THINGS WORK (24)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "The Tenant." (27)
WILD WILD WEST "Night of the Assassins." (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
CAPTURE (27)
7:00 UNTAMED WORLD (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "A Day In the LIfe of Alan Brady" (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Vengeance of Kali" (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 OZZIE'S GIRLS "Brenda's Term Paper," (3)
LET'S MAKE A DEAL Monty Hall, host (8) (22)
GREEN ACRES "I Didn't Raise My Husband to be a Farmer." (18)
FREE TIME (24)
TREASURE HUNT Geoff Edwards, host (30)
DRAGNET "The Fur Job." (40)
THE OPEN DOOR (57)
8:00 MAUDE (3)
NEW TEMPERATURES RISING "A Classic Case" (8) (40)
CAN YOU TOP THIS? (18)
1973 WORLD SERIES OF BASEBALL (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARING (24) (57)
8:30 HAWAII FIVE-O "Murder Is a Taxing Affair." (3)
MOVIE "Third Girl From the Left." (8) (40)
TOWARDS THE YEAR 2000 (18)
9:00 THE 700 CLUB (18)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "Hay-Fork and Bill-Hook" (27)
9:30 MOVIE "Viva Max." (3)
10:00 MARCUS WELBY, M.D. "A Question of Fault." (8) (40)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "The Pleasure Seekers" (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)
1:00 NEWS (8) (40)
TOMORROW Tom Snyder, host (22) (30)
1:30 NEWS, WEATHER (3)

CAMPUS CENTER PROGRAM COUNCIL
presents
The New Shakespeare Company
performs
"A Midsummer Night's Dream"
TONITE! 8:30 p.m. S.U. Ballroom
Tickets at S.U. Lobby Counter and the door
ONE PERFORMANCE ONLY

Experience It!

Room To Move is sponsoring a T-group experience beginning next week.

The T-group will provide an opportunity for people to gain greater awareness of themselves in a group setting, look at group process and explore new modes of behavior in an open supportive atmosphere.

The group will meet for two hours each Monday for the rest of the semester. It will be co-led by staff members at Room To Move.

There will be an organizational meeting for group members on Thursday at 4 in Room To Move. The T-group is scheduled to begin Monday.

There are limited number of spaces left for this experience. If you are interested please contact Larry Ruhf at Room To Move immediately. 545-0400.

CCEBS To Hold Gala

CCEBS is sponsoring a Third World banquet and programmed this Saturday, October 20 in the Student Union Ballroom from 6-8 p.m. Student counselors have organized this back-to-campus event in the interest of achieving student involvement and community involvement.

The theme for the occasion, which very appropriately summarizes the commitment of the entire CCEBS program is "A Tribute to the Future of Third World Students".

Get dressed-up and be prompt. Programme and dinner will begin at exactly 6 p.m. From 10-2, Harambee presents a dance, with music by STONE LOVE and PLATINUM GOLD, from the New York area.

The banquet is free; however, admission is by ticket only. Each CCEBS student (graduate and undergraduate) will receive two complimentary tickets. There are a limited number of tickets for other students who are interested in attending this affair. The Harambees' dance does not require a ticket.

Tickets are available at New Africa House, rooms 208 and 210, October 17-19.

Superchess!

CHESS EXPERT TO APPEAR

John Stopa, one of New England's top chess players, will take on all comers in a simultaneous chess exhibition in the Campus Center. He will play against everyone who brings a chess set to Campus Center 165-169, at 7:30 p.m. this Wednesday.

There is no charge for spectators or for players who bring an acceptable set (no miniature or "Renaissance" design sets). Anyone who wants to play and does not bring a set will be charged 50 cents set rental.

Police
Emergency
5-3111

Your Head

In Case Of Death...

By DRS. ANDREW W. MCCASHIN AND STEPHEN M. KLEIN

Q. A month before school began my father died, leaving my mother, older sister and myself. My older sister is married and lives in Louisiana. My mother insisted that I come back to school this year. I had my doubts about leaving her. She is very lonely and sad and I find myself feeling guilty and depressed. I think I should be with her but she won't hear of it. How do I convince her that I really want to go home?

A. The death of someone close is painful in many ways. The loss itself is the most obvious reality to be coped with. Mourning is a natural and necessary psychological process. Feelings of guilt, remorse and anxiety following a death are less clear and more difficult to work through. This is expecially true when one loses a parent.

A parent represents much of what we hold secure and dependable from the earliest moments of our lives. The process of growing up to some extent requires an emotional rejection of our parents. A certain amount of guilt and anxiety accompanies the pushing away from them in search of our own sense of autonomy and independence. When a parent dies during this period of transition from adolescense to adult these feelings of guilt and anxiety cannot help but be intensified. Remorse is often expressed in the form of wishing that one had treated the lost parent better and more lovingly.

Your desire to return home arises from these feelings creating a sense of obligation that you must take care of your mother and maybe even attempt to fulfill your father's role. There is probably also an unconscious wish to be a child again, to somehow make things as they were, to return to safer and more secure times, staying close to the parent you still have.

Your mother is understandably struggling with feelings of sadness and loneliness. She has a readjustment of her own to make, an adjustment that includes the reality that she has two grown children who no longer live with her. Returning home may serve to delay this readjustment, making it ultimately more difficult to achieve.

A death in the family has the potential to bring the surviving members closer together. This can be done in a healthy manner so long as the closeness does not take the form of a clinging dependency which impedes the growth of everyone involved. Call and visit your mother as you feel she needs your support, but don't move in with her, that won't help anyone.

Send, bring, or call in your questions and comments to 303 Machmer Hall, 545-2337. All inquiries are strictly confidential.

Phi Sigma Kappa
cordially invites all university women
to visit our chapter house
and find out about our Little Sisters Program
510 North Pleasant St.
TUESDAY, OCT. 16
at 10:00 p.m.
Meet our brothers and little sisters

DEFLATION

The price of something has gone down at UMass. This year the Student Senate Lecture Note Program has lowered its prices 20% to $2 and $3 per half semester. $2 for 100 minutes per week and $3 for 150 minutes per week

Notes are available for these courses:

Anthro.	102	Dincauze
Anthro.	104A	Forman
Anthro.	104B	Kaschak
Astro.	100	Taylor
Biochem.	223	Little
Bot.	100A	Walker
Bot.	100B	Webster
Bot.	101	Tippo
Chem.	261A *	Cannon
Chem.	261B	Rausch
Econ.	100	Ray
Econ.	103	Kindahl
Econ.	104	Treyz
Food Sci.	101	Clydesdale
Hist.	150	Story
Micro.	140	Lessie
Na. Res.	100	Johnson
Phys.	100	Chang
Poli. Sci.	100A	Gordon
Poli. Sci.	100B	Kramer
Psych.	101	Simonson-Donohue
Psych.	101	Novak
Psych.	101	Miller
Psych.	141	Kamil
Psych.	201	Kates
Psych.	263	Nelson-Shapiro
Psych.	265	Kates
Psych.	270	Gadlin
Psych.	280	Reisman
Psych.	301	Royer
Psych.	325	Turner
Psych.	325	Strickland
Soc.	101	Wilkinson
Soc.	101	Stokes
Soc.	256	Killian
Speech	182	Peirce
Zool.	101	Mrs. Rollason
Zool.	101	Kunkle
Zool.	101	Mr. Rollason
Zool.	101	Moner
Zool.	101	O'Connor
Zool.	135	Dersham
Zool.	221	Coombs

* Answers to problem sets

Distributed at:

318SU Lobby	5-2683	9:00 to 4:00 M-F
JQA Lobby in SW	5-3911	11:00 to 4:00 M-F

Noters are also available individually at 25¢ for 50 minutes and 40¢ for 75 minutes.

Notices

ALCOHOL
Does it play a role in your life? How large a role? One that might be worth discussing? Room To Move's Alcohol Rap Session takes place Tuesdays, 7:30 p.m. in the C.C.

"A MAN CALLED HORSE"
Tonight at 8 p.m. and 10:15 in Thompson 104.

ASTRONOMY CLUB
There will be a meeting tonight in Hasbrouck 22, at 7:30. New members welcome.

BEEN RIPPED OFF?
Then sue in Small Claims Court. For info, contact John Lynn, WMPIRG Office, 413 A, S.U.B. M and Th 11-1:15 or call 545-0712.

BELCHERTOWN BUS
Hurry--sign the petition to get the bus back before bad weather--it is outside the Commuter LOUNGE NEAR THE Hatch.

BOXING CLUB
Club has workouts and beginning instruction every Tues. and Thurs. night 7-9, 19th floor, Washington. Informal workout; new members welcomed.

CENTER FOR JEWISH STUDIES
Courses begin tonite, 6:30 "In the Beginning"; 7:30 -- Martin Buber. Be sure to come!

CHESS CLUB
Tonight's regular meeting starts 7:30 in C.C. 174-176. The simultaneous exhibition is tomorrow night in C.C. 165-169.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
At our weekly meetings, members tell how they have used Christian Science to solve their problems. Everyone is welcome to tonight's meeting in C.C. 911.

COMPARATIVE LIT. COLLOQUIUM
Music and Literature, Part II tomorrow at 12:15 in 6th floor lounge Thompson--Speakers: Prof. F. Fata, Italian, Prof. R. Stern, Music, Prof. R. Creed, English

CONCERT COMMITTEE
Meeting for members and all those interested in work on the Oct. 28 Concert in S.U. Council Chambers at 7:30 tonight.

COUNSELING CENTER OPENS
The Central Area Counseling Center, located in B-2 Gorman, is now open and staffed. Hours 1 p.m.-9 p.m., Mon.-Fri., Thurs. 10 a.m.-9 p.m. Phone 5-0894.

INNKEEPER'S
Innkeeper's will hold a meeting tonite at 8 in 105 C.C. New York Hotel Show will be discussed. Refreshments will be served.

LETTUCE AND GRAPE BOYCOTT
Important meeting today to discuss regional UFW meeting held in Boston and our strategy, Rm. 175 C.C.

MOVIE
"Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid", tonight S.U.B. Ballroom 6:30, 9, 11.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB
Meets tonight at 7 in the basement lounge of Greenough House, Central

(Continued on P. 13)

CALL
545-2566

THE PIZZA REVOLUTION
is coming

This Wednesday and Thursday, the 17th and 18th RALPH KIRKPATRICK,
World Famous Harpsichordist will be performing in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.
All Bach Program on the 17th Bach Couperin Scarlatti Program on the 18th
Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students,
$3.00 others
Presented by the Fine Arts Council
Telephone 545-0202
Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4 p.m. or Bowker one hour before concert

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

Used Israeli Lamb Skin Jacket $15; two beautiful Peasant Skirts $5 ea. Call 256-0364, evenings.
tf10/16

Vivitar Lens 85 mm to 205 mm zoom fits Pentax, Yashica, Mamiya Sekor. Just like new. Call 549-0591.
tf10/16

Brown snorkel parka, brand new, never worn, size men's sm. Contact Caryn, 6-7305
tf10-17

72 VW Bus, 25000 mi., radio, curtains, new disc brakes. Just tuned, 2 Radial snows, other extras. Call 549-6728, $2800.
tf10/16

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers, $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305.
tf10-18

1973 Yamaha, Rt. 3, 360 c.c., excellent condition, asking $775. Call Jim, 545-2822.
tf10-17

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 42, with 3/4" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed. $160. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m.
tf10-19

The tightest Raleigh Super Course you'll ever see! Nervex lugs, tubulars, Stronglight Cotterless cranks. $200. Eric, 665-3104.
tf10-16

Brother DeLuxe portable typewriter, like new, $40; BSR 310 turntable, $45; 50w Lafayette amplifier, $70; two Criterion 50A speakers, $30 ea., all 1 month old. Praktica (Zeiss) camera, Meyer 180 telephoto lens, Takumar multicoated 28mm wide-angle lens, double lens, flash and magnifying lens. Call for Al, 549-1716.
tf10-19

Ski boots, Kotlach, buckle type, size 10, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and 549-6872 after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

Need a clean apartment used vacuum $10., and up. Kinners Vacuum, 19 Park St., Turners Falls. 863-9356.
tf10-23

King size or twin beds for sale. Excellent condition. 549-1742.
tf10-23

Alpine skis lam. wood, cable binding, 5'4". Plus leather ski boots, womens size 7. Both for $30. Call 584-7152.
tf10-17

Gibson Es-335 Semi-Hollow elec. guitar. 2 Humbucking pick ups, custom finish, hard case, exc. cond. $325. Call Dave at 617-544-3520.
tf10-19

Garrard SL95B comp. $110. Hitachi AM-FM cass. recdr. $50. Lobster trap $25. Shortwave radio $20. Or $175 takes all. Prices firm. 549-6562 bef. 8 a.m.
tf10-17

FOR SALE

Fender Telecaster, $160, excellent shape; Doiric organ for sale, portable & electric, lists $500, asking $100. 256-6011, Miles.
tf10-17

Speakers — pair of Hitachi KS-3200R, includes 2-8 inch woofers, 2-2½ inch tweeters, excellent condition, $50 or best offer. 6-6083.
tf10-19

Zenith 21" console color, $150; RCA black & white console t.v., $65. Television Center, 55 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5100.
tf11-5

Gibson B-25, 12 STRG, excellent cond., red sunburst case, 8 yrs. old, hardly ever used. Best offer. Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

Borg Warner electric range, very good shape, best offer. Call Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

For sale — 1 Sansui 5000X rec. 2 CS99A Pion speaker, AKAITP DKJVC turntable, ex. equipment, current list price $1,533, will sell for $865. 586-3658, Terry.
tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 546-4538.
tf10-18

Dryer, $35; Oriental rug, 9x15, spots, badly worn, $25; crocks, 8 gal., $10; 4 gal., $5. Antq. man. vac., $7. Wanted — dehumidifier, freezer. 256-0503.
tf10-16

10 speed Gazelle Tour de L'Avenir, runs like new $90. Includes 3 ft. cable and lock. Call 6-6249.
tf10-19

Konica Autoreflex-T 35mm-SLR camera, f1.4 lens with case, excellent condition, list $414, best offer over $169. Call 665-3546, Mon.-Thurs.
tf10-16

Guitar — Harmony, hollow body, electric, Pearl inlay neck, Bigsby Tremelo. Asking $50. 546-7971.
tf10-16

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie.
t11

34 girls need 2 kitchenboys to work one hr. lunch shift & one hr. supper shift. 2 meals given free. Applicants call 545-0527 evenings.
tf10-16

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 584-6458.
tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long, good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.
tf10-17

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

Puffton resident needed to take care of dog. I will pay $10 per month plus food. Call 549-6718.
tf10-17

Mother — Prof. with school age kids needs a paragon: efficient, kind capable individual to take over, part time. 253-7156, 5-0417.
tf10-18

PERSONAL

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.
tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

To the girl in Drake Sunday, 10-7. Call collect 603-523-7050 about opportunity in N.H. in regards to ed position we talked about. Rich.
tf10-18

Parents — problems with child care? Join the Child Care Exchange — an alternative to sitters etc. Infants to 8 yrs. Call Joan, 586-2224.
tf10-19

Tired of dorm living? 1 bedroom in King Philip, available immediately. Price negotiable. Call 665-3318 after 6 p.m., on bus line.
tf10-19

Light your Fire with MARIO and the 3rd Floor Perverts.
tf10-17

F Shepard abandoned by evicted owners, needs good home w people w understanding. Call 549-1868, around supper time.
tf10-19

Woofer — Happy 21st Birthday from the Ex-Cromagnon! (And it's still not too late for mine!)
tf10-16

Pat Garrett: What Aesthetic beauty is there in a Pine Box? Billie-Jo. PS. Did you ever hear of a lucky tortoise's foot?
tf10-16

SERVICES

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.
tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.
tf10-19

Bike repairs — Will do some bike repairs on campus and pick up and deliver others. Cheap and reliable. Call Tom after 5, 584-1985.
tf10-19

Pastel Portraits drawn from photo I take. All ages frm newborns to grandparents. Samples shown in Amherst. Please call 568-1075.
tf10-23

Research — thousands of topics, $2.75 per page. Send $1 for mail order catalog. Research assistance, inc. 11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 2, L.A., Calif. 90025.
tf12-12

RIDE WANTED

Need ride from Belchertown for 8 a.m., back at 1 p.m. Quabbin apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-4521, keep trying.
tf10-17

Clark School for the Deaf, NHmptn. child needs ride to and from Boston weekends. Will pay all expenses. Call Paula, 256-0126.
tf10-17

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses.
tf10-18

RIDE WANTED

Ride needed to UMass from Springfield Forest Park area. Mon., Wed., & Fri., mornings will share expenses. Call 734-2414.
tf10-16

AUTO FOR SALE

68 'Cuda 383 hdrs. Mags, 4 spd. Hurst trac. bars, Tach, exc. cond. Call 253-9034 or 5-2163 leave mess.
tf10-19

Great buy! 1964 TR4. Excellent running condition, body needs work, first $300 takes it away. Wire wheels, call 253-3516 day or night.
tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 546-4538.
tf10-19

1966 Cutlass Supreme, 62,000 miles, very good condition, $500. Call 1-617-544-3520.
tf10-17

1970 Dodge Superbee, 383 magnum, auto., p.s., p.b., mags, stereo, a real steal, must be seen; also waterbed, $25. Call 323-7706 anytime.
tf10-16

1941 antique Chevy, a classic looking car, excel. body, new rebuilt eng., a good buy, has to be seen, many spare parts, best offer. 549-6495.
tf10-17

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192.
tf10-19

1966 Olds Toronado, air cond., stereo, power windows & 6-way seat, just inspected, front wheel drive, $500 firm. Call 549-0924, 5 to 9 p.m.
tf10-19

Reliable 1969 VW Squareback, automatic, extras plus 2 good snow tires, $1195 firm. 323-7018 after 4 p.m., keep trying!
tf10-18

1948 Packard, good running condition, straight 8 with overdrive, cloth interior. 546-8688.
tf10-17

1964 Corvair for sale — good running condition. Call 5-2412, Room 214, Angie. Price $200, leave message.
tf10-16

1965 Ford Fairlane, 6 cylinders, standard, body slightly dented, 2 new tires, new fall inspection sticker. Call for Al, 549-1716.
tf10-16

1971 Toyota Corona, standard shift, $600. Call 1-467-3796.
tf10-19

LOST

Buck knife on 10-4 nite, between C.C. & S.W. If found please call 6-7489, reward.
tf10-19

Lost keys on black penknife case, turn in at C.C. Lost & Found. Desperate!
tf10-16

Lost — fr. back of motorcycle Wed., on Univ. Dr., Blalock's Soc. Stats., 2nd Ed. Call Daphne, 5-2658 (day), 256-6372 (night). Return Machmer, W31.
tf10-16

Please, I lost my Black Shawl at a roadstop in Montague. I miss it. Maureen 253-9033, let ring.
tf10-18

FOR RENT

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

6 bedroom house for rent, located in Wendell, $375 per month. Call 1-617-544-3520.
tf10-17

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month.
tf10/19

WANTED

Need actor for serious but fun horror film. Call Mike from 5 to 9 tonite. 467-7999. 3 roles, lotsa fun.
tf10-19

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531.
tf10-17

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.
tf10/18

Wanted — warm, friendly babysitter with own car, for 11 month old, 9-12 weekdays. 253-3607.
tf10-19

ENTERTAINMENT

Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid. Tues., Oct. 16, 7, 9, 11, SUB. For good entertainment — "Butch Cassidy and The Sundance Kid.". S.U.B.
tf10-16

Smith College just postponed for one week. Oct. 26 is now open. Please do not call before 5 p.m. This message from Steve the DJ.
tf10-16

Sorry, but I have no open dates left in Oct. Thanks UMass for a fantastic Sept. and Oct. Your friend, Steve the D.J., 467-2842.
tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long. Good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.
tf10-17

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 1-584-6458.
tf10-17

Horse back riding, Running Deer Ranch, 549-3630.
tf10-19

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

1972 Honda Sl-125, exc. condition, well kept, best Jap woods bike with knobby & shop manual. Call Joel, 665-4477 evenings after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

ROOMMATE WANTED

Mature girl needed to share new apt. on Rte. 9, Hadley. Rent $46.25 per month plus utilities, must have no car or pets. Call 586-0852.
tf10-17

Couple needed to share two bedroom apt. with another couple. Riverglade Apts. 256-0628.
tf10-17

First Class To Brazil!

Prof. Roberto White from the History Department, is coordinating a charter flight to Brazil, sponsored by The New England Council of Latin American Studies, (NECLAS).

The trip is part of a proposed multi-disciplinary Introduction to Brazilian Culture to be held during the Winter term of 74, from Jan. 1st to the 22nd.

This course will consist of 12 class days each approximately five hours in duration. Students will be required to read five books and submit a ten page paper relating a significant experience which they derived from the stay in Rio de Janeiro. Classes will consist of lectures in English by Brazilian academics and intellectuals on history, anthropology, sociology, art, music, politics, and economic development. Guided tours to important cultural institutions will be conducted by Professor White.

This is a 3 credits course but students have the option of making for I-3 extra credits based on independent studies.

Prof. White will make arrangements for those interested in having accomodations with Brazilians families. However students have the option of making theirown arrangements or to get the complete pack for $495.00, which includes $280.00 for the travel ticket and registration fees, (travel tickets usually cost about $720.00), plus accommodations, ($140.00) and UMass tuition.

"There is space available still for the charter flight, however it is rapidly being filled", Prof. White said.

He pointed out that those interested in participating must join the NECLAS and send a check for $2 (students) or $6 (non-students), to:

Professor Joseph Criscenti,
Secretary-Treasurer, NECLAS; 28
Richard Road, Needham, Ma.
02192.

For further information call: Prof. Roberto White Dept. of History Tel. 413-545-1364 for 546-6699.

Notices

(Continued from P. 12)

Area. All philosophy students invited to discuss cataclysmic dept. meeting. Refreshments served.

PRE-VET CLUB
Meeting on Committee Work, tomorrow at 7 p.m. in Rm. 808 C.C.

PROGRAM COUNCIL
First meeting tonight C.C. 903 at 7 for Special Events Committee. Please be there.

STUDENTS INTERESTED IN NURSING PROGRAM
Counseling services available at Machmer in E-22. Office hours: Mon. 1-4:30, Fri. 9-11 or by appointment. Applications for admission will be available by end of Oct. Informal get together will be Thurs. at 7 p.m. Morrill 4 North Rm. 413.

WMPIRG
Meeting tonight at 7:30 in Duke's Rm, S.U.B. Guest speaker Jay Stryker, UMass Staff Asst. in Radiation Safety, will discuss the effects of nuclear power plants. All interested students and faculty welcome

FOUND
Jacket, Friday, Thompson 104. Call Rick 6-5481.

A pair of keys found at Worcester Dining Commons. To claim call 546-6572.

Gold Timex watch with metallic band outside Machmer. Call Nancy 6-5974.

LOST
Engagement ring, family heirloom of great sentimental value. Please contact Bobbi at 36 Univ. Park or call 256-0641 anytime after 5. Substantial reward.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50° per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

MEET THE COLLEGE
HEROS
AT THE HUNGRY-U
103 N.PLEASANT ST.
253-9080
PIZZAS TOO!!

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Virgo thrives on competition. These persons enjoy matching wits, the clash of ideas is music to their ears. The Virgo woman is attracted to a man because of his intelligence first--other factors follow; the ideas, the words, the mind always take the lead where the Virgo woman is concerned. the Virgo man seeks a woman who will back him, will support his intellectual goals. The Virgo, man or woman, lays no claim to genius, but these natives revere the right to think, to analyze, to draw independent conclusions. Many consider Virgo cold, punctual, calculating--but, in truth, Virgo plods forward, aiming sonsistently toward a shining light of human awareness. Virgo will serve that purpose, that ideal in a steady, if not spectacular, manner.

+++

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You may be asked to arrange accommodations for relative in transit. Practical approach to fluid situation is necessary. Aquarius, Leo persons may be involved. You get chance now to express appreciation for past favors.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Accent is on money, valuables, personal possessions. Be sure you are not giving up something for nothing. Highlight versatility. Examine various possibilities. Cycle is such that you can pick, choose. Don't sell yourself short.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be conspicuous. Wear bright colors. Obstacles can be overcome now if you assert yourself. Applies in business and personal areas. Sense of timing is sharp. Cycle is such that you make successful contacts. Get going!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may feel confined, impatient. Key is to analyze. Door can be opened to greater freedom of action--but you have to investigate. Gemini, Virgo persons could figure prominently. Emphasis is on gaining co-operation of special group, organization.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Professional efforts pay dividends. You receive reward for creative endeavors. Emphasis is on fulfillment of fond hopes, wishes. Friend helps brighten home atmosphere. Celebration of special anniversary could be on agenda.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Now you can decide about direction, general goal. You may have opportunity to sign and seal favorable agreement. One in authority lends support. Don't waste time with person who continually gives you runaround. Go directly to source.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You may be asked to put beliefs on the line. Know it and don't make claims unless you can support them. Be responsible. Older individual is interested in your welfare. You could get more money--but overtime is involved.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Check accounts. Review lease, receipts, don't affix signature to any document you have not thoroughly studied. Key now is to finish what you start--leave no loose ends. Aries, Libra could figure prominently.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Look to one who is optimistic, creative. Listen and learn--and be inspired. Question of legal commitment could arise. Don't repeat past mistakes. Highlight willingness to wait for right time. Message will be clarified.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Slow pace is fine if it also is steady. Means know difference between being careful and timid. Refuse to be intimidated. One who talks big game may be small fry at heart. Cancer-born individual could play key role.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb.18): What you do seems more interesting. And what you do has your mark, style. You have greater sense of freedom. There is opportunity now for change, greater social fulfillment, a variety of experiences. Sagittarian could play key role.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Emphasis is on details, mortgages, leases and policies. Steer clear of the sensational. Conservative course now serves your best interests. Home, property, basic values are spotlighted. You work for what you get--but you can get quality.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

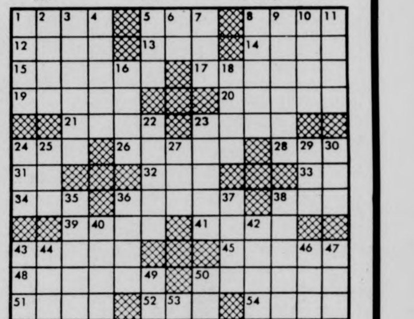
ACROSS
1 War god
5 Flying mammal
8 Narrow, flat board
12 Title of respect
13 The self
14 Wan
15 Disinclined
17 Talks idly
19 Join
20 Regions
21 Polished man (colloq.)
23 Unmarried woman
24 Hasten
26 Evil spirit
28 Hit lightly
31 Paid notice
32 Negative
33 Sun god
34 Opening
36 Repulse
38 Knock
39 Leave out
41 Run easily
43 Europeans
45 Contests
48 Omits from pronunciation
50 Decipher
51 Insects
52 Garden tool
54 Silkworm
55 Pedal digits
56 Before
57 Rodents

DOWN
1 Man's name
2 Rant
3 Come out into view
4 Kind of cloth
5 Insect
6 Symbol for silver
7 Cover
8 Masts
9 Newest
10 Appellation of Athena
11 Girl's nickname
16 Dispatch
18 Precipitation
22 Doctrine
23 Roadside hotel
24 Ugly, old woman
25 Mountain in Crete
27 Cleaning implement
29 Macaw
30 Soft food
35 Protective organization
36 Ascend
37 Theater box
38 Parasitic fish
40 Ancient Persians
42 Kind of race horse
43 Animal's coat
44 Mixture
46 Prepare for print
47 Oceans
49 Pronoun
50 River in Scotland
53 Conjunction

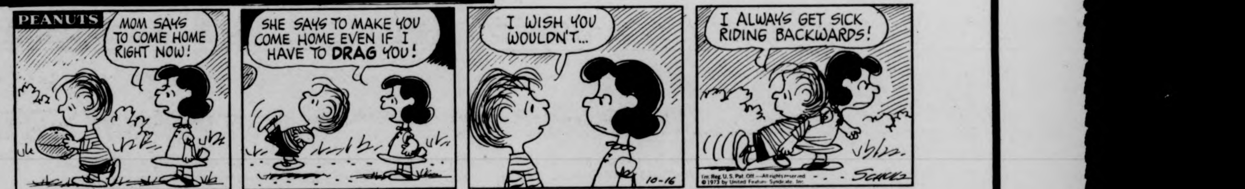
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

A	B	E	■	M	E	■	M	E	D	A	L	■
P	E	R	I	O	D	■	O	R	I	G	I	N
E	T	■	T	R	E	M	O	R	S	■	T	O
■	T	A	■	E	M	I	R	■	K	I	T	S
P	E	N	T	■	A	R	I	D	■	F	E	E
T	R	I	A	L	■	E	N	I	D	■	R	S
■	■	S	N	O	B	■	G	E	R	M	■	■
F	D	■	S	O	R	A	■	S	E	E	D	Y
R	I	O	■	M	O	T	H	■	W	A	R	T
E	A	R	N	■	A	T	E	S	■	T	E	■
E	D	■	E	N	D	U	R	E	S	■	A	E
S	E	T	T	E	E	■	O	R	E	A	D	S
■	M	I	S	E	R	■	D	E	■	A	S	P

16

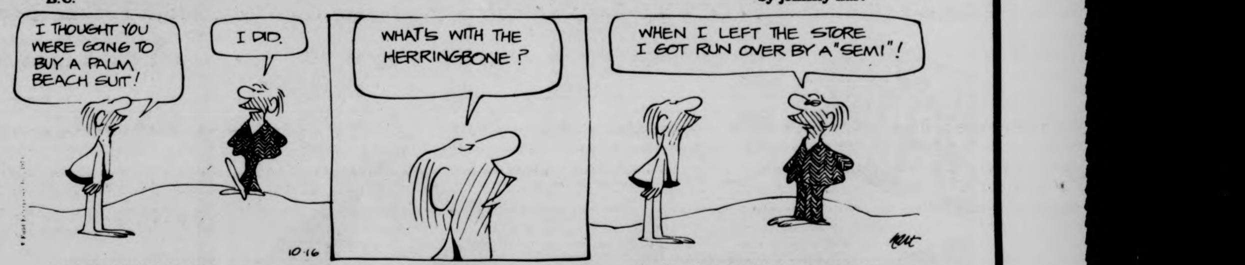


Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 16



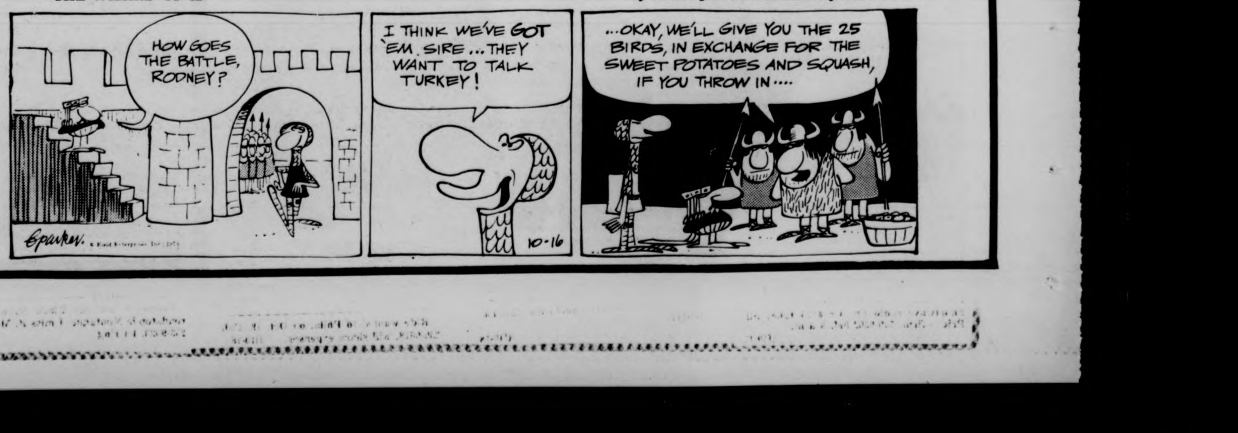
PEANUTS
MOM SAYS TO COME HOME RIGHT NOW!
SHE SAYS TO MAKE YOU COME HOME EVEN IF I HAVE TO DRAG YOU!
I WISH YOU WOULDN'T...
I ALWAYS GET SICK RIDING BACKWARDS!

B.C. by johnny hart



I THOUGHT YOU WERE GOING TO BUY A PALM BEACH SUIT!
I DID.
WHAT'S WITH THE HERRINGBONE?
WHEN I LEFT THE STORE I GOT RUN OVER BY A "SEMI"!

THE WIZARD OF ID by Brant parker and Johnny hart



HOW GOES THE BATTLE, RODNEY?
I THINK WE'VE GOT 'EM, SIRE ... THEY WANT TO TALK TURKEY!
...OKAY, WE'LL GIVE YOU THE 25 BIRDS, IN EXCHANGE FOR THE SWEET POTATOES AND SQUASH, IF YOU THROW IN ....

Runners Face URI In Orchard

By SCOTT HAYES

The individual battle that develops between opposing runners during a race is the most exciting part of a cross country meet. The runners put their bodies to the test, and push themselves as much as they possibly can.

If you attend today's meet, you may see many duels, including one that may decide first place. UMass co-captain Randy Thomas will most likely be battling Tom Grundy of Rhode Island for individual honors when the harriers race URI today. The meet will begin at 4:00 at the Women's Physical Education Building.

You can see almost the entire race from the apple orchard, near Dickinson in Orchard Hill, and cheer on your favorite runners as they try to pick up their fifth win of the season.

Rhode Island is led by Tom Grundy, who finished fourth in the Yankee Conference meet last year. Grundy is a good front runner and is backed up by freshman Steve Hague. Hague was among the top New England high school harriers. Paul Piliero, second man on the team last year, Dick McLaughlin and Peter Porto round out the top five for URI. Rhode Island was second only to UMass in the Yankee Conference last year, and although the Rams lost two runners to graduation, they still have a strong top three. URI is 4-2, having lost to Northeastern and Providence.

Bill Gillin and the rest of the UMass squad will have to fight off the top URI runners. More matchups may develop as UMass tries to get five or six men within one minute of its first runner across the finish line.

Rhode Island is accustomed to flat, fast courses, and UMass is hoping that the hilly orchard course will prove to be a home advantage. The course shouldn't affect the URI veterans, but it may play a role in the finish of Hague, a relatively inexperienced freshman.

Coach Ken O'Brien commented that the freshmen went out early in the UConn race and were aggressive. He stated that the freshmen are mentally ready, having run well in the big meet (UConn). O'Brien also added that in order to help the team, the freshmen have to adapt to the five mile varsity course.

The next two races will decide who the top seven runners are for the Yankee Conference meet on October 27.

Correction

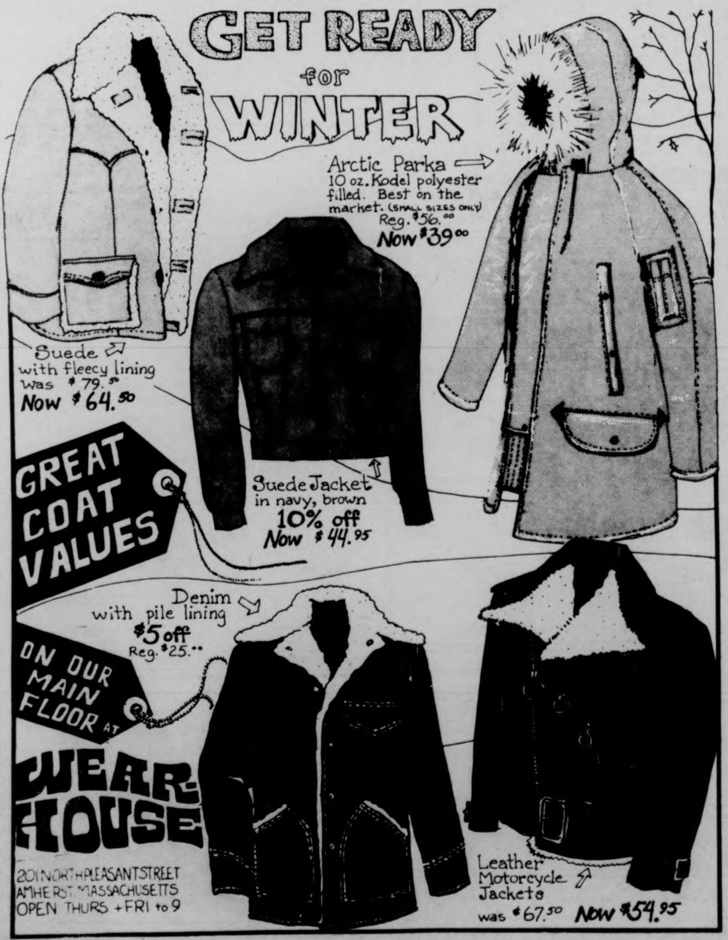
In these days of Watergate, it seems that even local politicians have given into the insidious lure of corruption. Such was the case Sunday in the Student Senate - Collegian football game.

It seems that the "winning" touchdown was scored by the Senate three minutes after time had run out (guess what side had the only watch?) So the score stands corrected, and the Collegian maintains its undefeated, untied record by a score of 36-52. Members of the Senate team have admitted the indiscretion.

It just goes to show that the only good politician is an indicted politician.

(Staff Photo - Joe Martins)

UMass harrier Randy Thomas finishes right behind UConn standout Bruce Clark in Saturday's 25-32 UMass cross-country victory. Both runners bested Thomas' old course record on the orchard course with Clark breaking the former mark of 25:10 by 16 secends.



Hub Weekend Wrapup

With just one week of full activity under their belts, the Celtics, Bruins, and Whalers from Boston are riding high.

All the teams from the Hub are presently leading their divisions in this young winter sports season.

The Celtics are undefeated on the year, having beaten Buffalo and Philadelphia. The world champion New York Knicks, plagued by injuries, were stunned by the Houston Rockets on Saturday and currently sport a 1-1 record.

The Bruins are also undefeated. In their first three games, the Bruins have defeated Vancouver, Detroit, and the NY Islanders. The New York Rangers are hot on the heels of the Bruins with a record of two wins and a tie.

The New England Whalers are also leading their division of the WHA. After losing their opener to Quebec, the Whalers have reeled off three straight victories.

Notices

INTRAMURALS-All men's, women's, and co-rec volleyball entries are due on Thursday, Oct. 18.

VOLLEYBALL-There will be tryouts for all candidates for the Men's Power Volleyball Club today, Monday, and Wednesday, Oct. 17 from 6-8 p.m. in the WoPE gymnasium.

Cancelled

The freshman football team will have to wait two more weeks to debut. Their contest with Yale was cancelled because the Elis didn't have a center (that's the truth). They were all injured.

Instead, to give the frosh some action, they squared off with the sub-varsity in a scrimmage in back of Alumni Stadium. For details on the scrimmage, see tomorrow's Collegian.

Weekly Specials $1.99
Seconds on us
Monday: Fish Fry
Tuesday: Spaghetti
Wednesday: Deep Sea Dinner
Thursday: Turkey Gobbler
Friday: Clam Fry
HOWARD JOHNSON'S
Rt. 9
Hadley

ENTERTAINMENT
HATCH
Wednesday
Coffeehouse
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"Zonkeraz"
BLUEWALL
Wednesday
Thursday, Friday & Saturday
"Sloth"
T.O.C.
Friday & Saturday
Williams & Valen

The Versatile Paul St. Onge

By GEOFFREY KURINSKY

"It's all a matter of confidence." That's Paul St. Onge's philosophy on successful football. "You have to believe in yourself and in your teammates. This has been the key to our gradual improvement over the last two games."

Fortunately, St. Onge lives by his philosophy on the gridiron.

Last year, when Doug Winslow graduated, the middle-linebacker position was a giant question mark. Twenty pounds lighter, St. Onge walked into training camp in the summer, ready and believing he was capable of playing middle-linebacker.

Trouble struck again during the first couple of games in the offensive backfield, and St. Onge answered the call-he went to the other side, to play fullback for Coach MacPherson.

"I played fullback in prep school and in my freshman year. So for me, it was just a matter of re-learning blocking techniques. The main adjustment I had to make was having to get along without the use of my hands. Where on defense I could use my hands to block, on offense I have to get by with just body blocking."

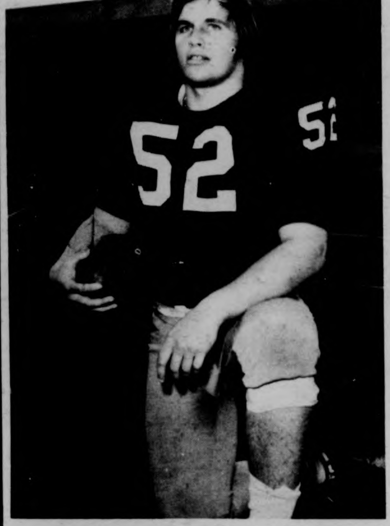
"The philosophy's a little different on offense. When you're playing defense you want to get off the field as soon as possible to give the offense a chance to score some points. On offense, you try to stay on the field as long as possible, to try to gain some momentum toward the goalline and also to give the defense a rest."

St. Onge credited Coach MacPherson for sticking with his running attack when it was going through bad times. "It was never a question of lack of ability, it was just a matter of putting things together. MacPherson didn't give up. He stuck with the running game and through hard work and a tremendous amount of confidence in each other, results are starting to show."

In summing up the season to this point, St. Onge said that Rutgers was the key game for the Minutemen. "After a pretty disappointing showing at Harvard, a loss at Rutgers would have really put us down in the dumps. It's a lot easier to work on sorespots after you've won than after you've just lost. Our main problem this year has been that we are not really playing as a unit. The more and more this team plays together, the better the cohesiveness will be. That's why we have improved over the last two games and hopefully this will continue through the rest of the season."

On Pennington, St. Onge commended him for keeping his head, in light of the media (Collegian) abuse he has had to put up with. "It would be a real bad thing if you let outside attitudes affect your play on the field."

Paul St. Onge is a junior. After next year, one of his aspirations is to coach, or perhaps to play semi-pro ball. Seeing as he believes in himself, there is very little that Paul St. Onge won't be able to do in his life ahead.



Ruggers Handed Double Shutout

By WADIE BAHOU

The UMass Rugby team, with two disappointing offensive showings, was shutout twice this past Sunday, 4-0 and 6-0, by the Hartford Rugby Club. The "A" game, in the words of faculty coach Doctor Laurence, "was not worth talking about", as the "A's" once again could not score although they had many opportunities to do so. Tremendous hustle by the forwards gave the backs fine field position for most of the afternoon, but the inability of the backs to move the ball any further hurt them tremendously. So, for the fourth consecutive week, the UMass "offense" was non-existent, and a team which scored twelve tries in its opening game of the season, has now scored but one lone try in its past three games. Defensively, the ruggers were great, and only a mental mistake by one of the backs kept the game from ending as a scoreless tie. Nonetheless, the "A" team absorbed its third loss in five games.

The "B" team suffered the same fate, as they, too, were shutout, and nothing much can be said for this game except for the obvious. No one could be singled out for outstanding play with the exception of scrumhalf Larry Tebo. The defense was outstanding, and the offense was lacking.

The UMass Rugby team, in dropping two more matches, now has an unimpressive 6-5 record.

Shake-Up In Top 10

Alabama, Oklahoma and Michigan became the chief threats to Ohio State's reign atop the college football rankings Monday in the wake of a shake-up that dropped Nebraska from second place to 11th and defending champion Southern California from fourth to sixth.

Ohio State ran its record to 40 Saturday with a convincing 24-0 whipping of Wisconsin and assured itself of the No. 1 spot for the third consecutive week.

Alabama, a 35-14 winner over Florida, climbed from third to second with six first-place votes and 930 points. Oklahoma, runner-up the last two years, vaulted from sixth to third following a 52-13 rout of Texas that dropped the losers out of the Top Twenty.

Michigan rose from fifth to fourth with one first-place ballot and 855 points for a 31-0 blanking of Michigan State. Penn State, seventh last week, walloped Army 54-3 and moved up to fifth place with four No. 1 votes and 657 points.

Southern Cal, No. 1 all last season and this year until a 7-7 tie with Oklahoma on Sept. 29 that dropped the Trojans to fourth, skidded farther down to sixth after struggling past Washington State 46-35.

Missouri, a 13-12 upset winner over Nebraska, shot from 12th to seventh.

The 8-9-10 teams shifted around. Notre Dame climbed from ninth to eighth by troucing Rice 28-0 and Louisiana State went from 10th to ninth by trimming Auburn 20-6 while Tennessee slipped from eighth to 10th after a hard-fought 20-14 victory over Georgia Tech.

(Staff Photo - Kevin Mack)

A little pass interference, maybe? UMass flanker Tim Berra is molested by a BU defender in Saturday's game which was won by the Minutemen, 20-6.

Minuteman Statistics

1973 Football Statistics
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
Won 4 Lost 2 YC 2-0-0

SCORING	TD	PAT(1)	PAT(2)	FG	PTS
Berra, fl	8	0	1	0	50
Pennington, qb	3	0	0	0	18
Wolfe, W, te	2	0	1	0	14
Hajdusek, se	2	0	0	0	12
Mika, te	2	0	0	0	12
Wolfe, R, hb	1	0	0	0	6
Ames, k	0	5(6)	0	0(1)	5
Dutkanicz, k	0	4(6)	0	0(2)	4
UMASS	18	9(12)	2(5)	0(3)	121
OPP	13	11(12)	1(1)	3(4)	102

PASSING	ATT	COMP	INT	YDS	TD	PCT	AVE/ COMP
Kelliher, qb	32	16	4	233	5	.500	14.4
Mondalto, hb	2	1	1	42	0	.500	42.0
Pennington, qb	142	60	7	744	8	.423	12.4
Wolfe, R, hb	1	0	0	0	0	---	---
Rohan, qb	2	0	0	0	0	---	---
UMASS	179	77	12	1019	13	.430	13.2
OPP	132	67	7	911	7	.508	13.6

PUNTING	NO	YDS	AVE	LG	NET
Dutkanicz, k	32	1266	39.6	65
Mondalto, hb	1	35	35.0	35
Team	1	-5	---	--
UMASS	34	1296	38.1	65
OPP	40	1444	36.1	60

INTERCEPTIONS
Parrott (2-36); Hansen (2-0); Brown (1-36);
Kiernan (1-3); Talarico (1-0)
UMASS (7-74)
OPP (12-9)

RUSHING	ATT	GAIN	LOSS	NET	AVE	LG
Wolfe, R, hb	65	152	21	131	2.0	23
Street, hb	45	134	12	122	2.7	12
Pennington, qb	61	223	109	114	1.9	35
St. Onge, fb	23	54	0	54	2.4	5
Mondalto, hb	12	43	3	40	3.3	8
Roland, hb	9	13	2	11	1.2	4
Torrance, fb	6	12	5	7	1.2	6
Verolini, fb	2	6	0	6	3.0	4
Peters, fb	1	5	0	5	5.0	5
Others	12	19	46	-27	---	5
UMASS	236	662	198	464	1.9	35
OPP	299	1306	274	1022	3.4	79

PASS RECEIVING	NO	YDS	TD	AVE	LG
Berra, fl	36	474	7	13.2	42
Hajdusek, se	15	174	2	11.6	44
Wolfe, W, te	14	219	2	15.6	47
Wolfe, R, hb	4	67	0	16.8	22
Mika, te	4	53	2	13.2	25
Harriman, fl	1	20	0	20.0	20
St. Onge, fb	1	8	0	8.0	8
Mondalto, hb	1	0	0	---	0

KICKOFF RETURNS	NO	YDS	AVE	TD	LG
Berra, fl	15	372	24.8	1	93
Wolfe, R, hb	2	38	19.0	0	19
Street, hb	1	14	14.0	0	14
St. Onge, fb	1	7	7.0	0	7
UMASS	19	431	22.7	1	93
OPP	20	423	21.2	0	40

PUNT RETURNS	NO	YDS	AVE	LG
Parrott, cb	5	45	9.0	18
Berra, fl	17	114	6.7	13
UMASS	22	159	7.2	18
OPP	13	117	9.0	23

DOMINO'S PIZZA this Friday

see
"STAR TREK"
4 p.m. - 5 p.m.
and original "SUPERMAN"
flicks
5 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.
at the BLUEWALL
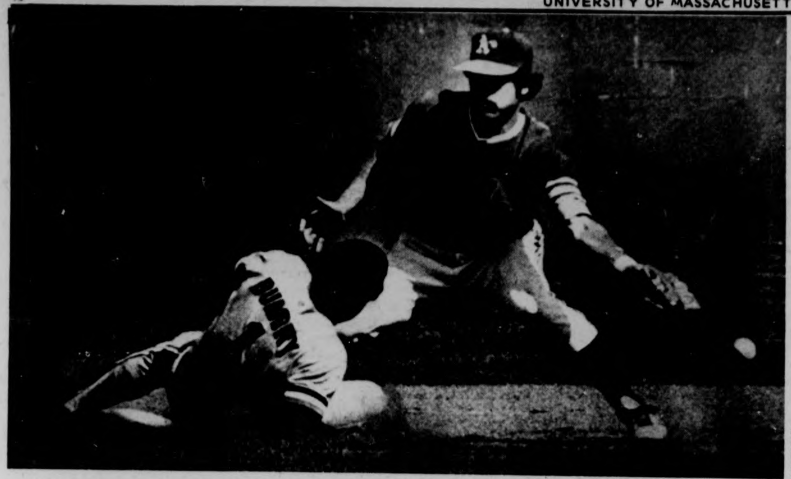
everyday free!

Colonel Sanders Big Chicken Feed(s)
Monday and Tuesday Only
Feeds 4 to 6
Big Chicken Feed $4.99
— Twelve tender, tasty pieces of finger-lickin' good Kentucky Fried Chicken
— One pint of the Colonel's special cole slaw
— One pint of mashed potatoes
— One pint of special gravy
— Six hot biscuits
clip the coupon
Feeds 5 to 9
Super Chicken Feed $6.99
— Eighteen tender, tasty pieces of finger-lickin' good Kentucky Fried Chicken
— Two pints of the Colonel's special cole slaw
— Two pints of mashed potatoes
— One pint of special gravy
— Nine hot biscuits
clip the coupon
Chicken-In
Chicken-Out
Seating for 54
Free Delivery
256-8745
Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Rte. 9 (across from Zayre's) Hadley
256-8745

Put Lift In Your Life
Add a credit and soar toward graduation
GLIDING
P.E. 652
Add anytime till Nov. 1
Call 665-8700



(AP Photo)

Dick Green, Oakland second baseman, drops the throw as the runner is safe on a steal of second base. The A's have been plagued by miscues around second in the Series as two Mike Andrews errors paved the way for four Mets runs in the twelfth inning as the New Yorkers won, 10-7.

Women Stickers Salvage Tie

By BETH O'BRIEN

The few people who stopped by the North P.E. fields yesterday were treated to a fastpaced, hard-hitting and grueling contest, otherwise known as the annual UMass-Springfield field hockey clash. The 70-odd minutes of action did little to resolve the age-old rivalry between the teams, as the 1-1 final score merely indicated that ability-wise, they were very close.

But the Springfield game is one that is always eagerly anticipated, and the tie was a disappointment to both squads.

Coach Farr took some liberties with an old McPhearson adage, which probably best describes the feeling: "A tie is like kissing (in this case) your brother. It was like not playing at all."

The first half saw decent hockey from both teams, with Springfield scoring first, and left wing Linda Lambdin tying it up later in the half.

A marked deterioration in the UMass play characterized the first 10 minutes of the second half, but the defense was tough and Springfield let their best opportunity to go ahead slip by.

UMass came on strong later in the game, pressing for a score, but finding no holes. UMass had plenty of second half scoring opportunities, out-shooting Springfield on goal, 8-2.

While defensive play for both teams was exceptional, the UMass passing and running game left a lot to be desired and Springfield didn't take advantage of some great positioning in the circle. On the positive side, it was the closest, most exciting, fastest and most emotional game so far. The question of who's better just has to wait another year for an answer.

******

The UMass JV's looked impressive as they out-ran, out-cut, out-passed and out-scored the Springfield's J.V., 4-0.

Martha Meyer and Donna O'Brien scored in the first half, and Donna Peterson got two goals in the second half. An especially bright spot in the game was the play of the forward line. The passing was sharp and there was a lot of cutting to the ball.

If this contest is any indication of future varsity clashes between the two teams, UMass has some bright seasons ahead.

Netwomen Bow To Springfield

By NANCY THOMPSON

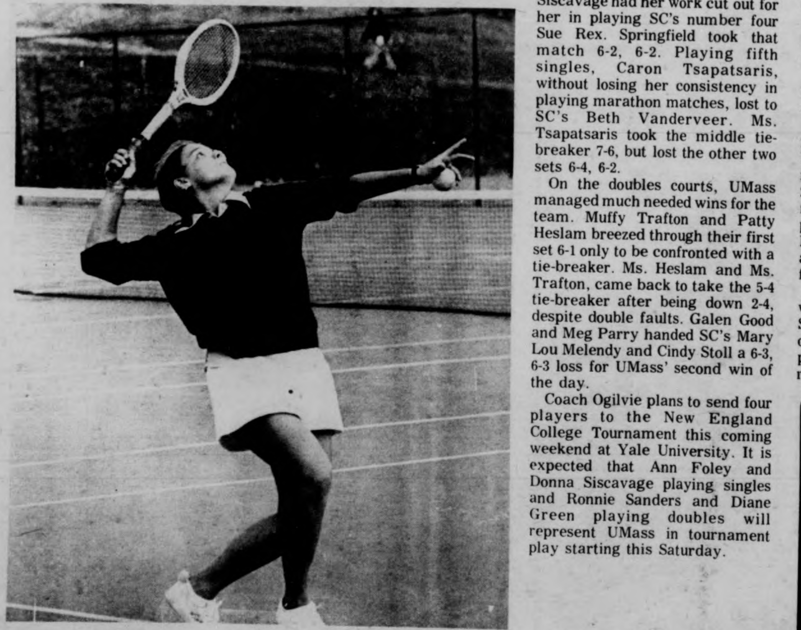
The Springfield College netwomen, bringing excellent play to the Boyden courts yesterday afternoon, dealt UMass a 5-2 loss for their afternoon work. Springfield held on to all five of the singles matches, losing only to both UMass doubles teams. In three of the five singles matches the sets were split one each, so a third had to be played to decide the results.

On the first court Ann Foley found tough competition against well-known Lisa Taylor of SC. The play was fast, the hitting hard, and neither player had much opportunity at the net, but Springfield still took the match 6-1, 6-4. Diane Green, second singles, split sets with her opponent only to fall in the third set to SC's Chris Davis 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. Ronnie Sanders was last to finish as she too split sets and went into a third with Springfield's Laura Bohne. Though Ms. Sanders passed her opponent's forehand many times she was still out hit 6-4, 5-7, 3-6.

On the fourth court Donna Siscavage had her work cut out for her in playing SC's number four Sue Rex. Springfield took that match 6-2, 6-2. Playing fifth singles, Caron Tsapatsaris, without losing her consistency in playing marathon matches, lost to SC's Beth Vanderveer. Ms. Tsapatsaris took the middle tie-breaker 7-6, but lost the other two sets 6-4, 6-2.

On the doubles courts, UMass managed much needed wins for the team. Muffy Trafton and Patty Heslam breezed through their first set 6-1 only to be confronted with a tie-breaker. Ms. Heslam and Ms. Trafton, came back to take the 5-4 tie-breaker after being down 2-4, despite double faults. Galen Good and Meg Parry handed SC's Mary Lou Melendy and Cindy Stoll a 6-3, 6-3 loss for UMass' second win of the day.

Coach Ogilvie plans to send four players to the New England College Tournament this coming weekend at Yale University. It is expected that Ann Foley and Donna Siscavage playing singles and Ronnie Sanders and Diane Green playing doubles will represent UMass in tournament play starting this Saturday.



(Staff Photo - Paul Timmerman)

Donna Siscavage had a tough time yesterday, as she and her mates lost to Springfield. Donna will compete in the New England Tennis Tournament this weekend along with teammates Ann Foley, Ronnie Sanders, and Diane Green.

Seaver, Hunter; A Pair Of Aces

By HAL BOCK

NEW YORK (AP) - Tom Seaver and Jim "Catfish" Hunter, respective aces of the New York Mets and Oakland A's pitching staffs, were set to go in Tuesday night's third game and hoped to restore some order to the wild 1973 World Series.

The Mets and A's split the first two games of the Series, with some sloppy play on both sides marring the action.

Oakland took the opener 2-1, with both A's runs unearned following an error on an easy grounder by New York second baseman Felix Millan. Then the Mets got even, winning a 4-hour, 13-minute marathon 10-7 Sunday and scoring five unearned runs along the way. There were a half-dozen errors in that game - five of them by the A's.

"Welcome to the best World Series yet!" said the scoreboard greeting in Oakland before the first two games of the Series. It has hardly been that so far.

The first game of the series was settled on an easy bouncer that squirted under Millan's glove at second. "It was an easy out," he said. "I just missed it."

And game two was decided by consecutive errors by Oakland second baseman Mike Andrews - the first one on a play identical to the one Millan booted the day before. "It hit the tip of my glove," said Andrews. "I looked in my glove for it." The ball, however, wasn't there.

Andrews was the third infielder used by Manager Dick Williams in Oakland's revolving door act at second base. But he wasn't the man the Oakland skipper would have liked there.

However, Manny Trillo, a utility infielder the A's wanted to add for the Series, was unavailable because the Mets had blocked the roster move.

Baseball rules prohibit roster changes for the Series except in case of injury. The A's wanted to substitute Trillo for catcher Juan Morales, a Series eligible whom they sold to Montreal in September. The Mets and the National League refused permission for the move and the A's went into the Series with 24 players.

The refusal so miffed Oakland owner Charles O. Finley that he ordered a public announcement of the action, defying Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, who had warned him not to do so. Finley was reprimanded by the commissioner, with whom he has clashed before. He faces a possible fine.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Strangely, the A's came up with an injury following Sunday's game which may allow them to add Trillo to their roster after all.

Andrews, the goat of the second game defeat, was examined by Oakland team physician Dr. Harry R. Walker Monday and ordered to return to his home in Boston. Walker declared Andrews "disabled for the rest of the year."

The Mets' most important casualty remains right fielder Rusty Staub, still nursing a badly bruised right shoulder injured in the National League playoffs.

Staub left Oakland ahead of his teammates so he could work out at Shea Stadium Monday. The rest of the Mets stayed overnight in California but the A's, like Staub, flew to New York immediately and also worked at Shea Monday.

Ed McAleney Cited As Player Of Week

UMass defensive end Ed McAleney has been chosen Yankee Conference defensive player of the week for his outstanding performance in the Minutemen's 20-6 victory over BU.

McAleney recovered two BU fumbles deep in UMass territory to stop Terrier scoring drives.

In the second period, McAleney recovered a BU miscue at the UMass six after the Terriers had a first and goal at the five. The 6'2", 230 lb. junior recovered his second fumble in the third period as he picked up a loose ball on the Minuteman three yard line, halting a BU drive which had given them a first and goal at the nine.

The offensive player of the week was Rhode Island quarterback Steve Crone. Crone completed nine of sixteen passes in leading URI past Vermont, 15-14. Crone is the man the Minutemen will have to keep an eye on if they hope to defeat the Rams this Saturday.

Inside Sports

- St. Onge-The Big Switch
- Football Stats
- Cross Country Preview
- Hub Weekend Wrapup

New England's
Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather
Pattie couldn't think of anything to put here.

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 29 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1973

For whom do the bells toll? Not us!

(Staff Photo - David Less)

Does Anybody Know What Time It Is?

The Chapel Bells Are Silent

By TERRY PEARSON

Most people have forgotten about the bells that used to ring hourly from the tower in the Old Chapel. Some deprived souls have never even heard them. Some of us remember them fondly; lying on the grass outside Bartlett on sunny days, or by the pond, where the combination made it possible to forget where we actually were. Others remember them not-so-fondly; lying in bed the night before an eight a.m. exam, listening to them chime every sleepless hour. Now, because of lack of funds and vandalism, the bells don't ring any more.

There are three kinds of bells in the tower. First, there is the bell which used to ring on the hour. The bell was timed according to the clock on the front of the Old Chapel. For those who haven't noticed, that clock has not been working for a year. So, if the clock isn't fixed, the bell isn't going to ring. There used to be a rope which could be used to ring the bell manually, however, students used to pull the rope at odd hours, so the rope was put into the tower which is locked.

Another set of chimes is called the carolon which is an organ that can be played manually, or by rolls like a player piano. Unfortunately, vandalism is one reason why the carolon isn't working. According to Dr. Alviani of the music department, repair of damage to the keyboard and the switches will cost $300, which the music department cannot afford.

Another reason the carolon is out of use, according to Ms. Perry, music departmental secretary, is that the chimes resonate through the walls of the nearby buildings, and complaints, particularly from Bartlett, put an end to the chimes, at least during class hours.

The third kind of bells is a set of about ten bells which must be played manually by an experienced musician, and there are no funds to hire one.

There have been some steps taken to repair the carolon, by the music department and the Alumni Association, and a proposal to play the carolon from the top floor of the library, where it will not affect other buildings. However, there has been no action taken on repairing the clock, which runs the hourly bells. No one really knows if or when the bells will ring again, and probably doesn't even care.

The Old Chapel has lost some of its finest music.

(Staff Photo - David Less)

Howard Baker Approves Ford As Vice President

By MARK VOGLER
Special to the Collegian

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Sen. Howard H. Baker, Jr.--considered by many Republican party colleagues to be a presidential hopeful--labels Vice President designate Gerald R. Ford "a most formidable contender" for the GOP candidacy in 1976.

The distinguished senator from Tennessee appeared to show signs of disappointment outside the White House Friday night following President Nixon's announcement of former Vice President Spiro Agnew's replacement.

Agnew resigned last Wednesday before pleading no contest to income tax evasion charges dating back to 1967. The Justice Department had mounted a stockpile of evidence against Agnew which included alleged acts of extortion and bribery stretching over a 10-year period and involving at least $87,500.

Baker, who has enhanced his political reputation while serving as vice chairman of the Watergate Committee, was reported to have been high on the President's list of possible V.P.s.

"It's not important at this time to say whether Jerry Ford is a likelihood for the presidency in 1976; but I'd say it would be inappropriate to say that he isn't. It's uniquely up to Jerry to decide whether he is or is not," Baker said.

"He certainly can be a contender. He has the talent, he has the capacity and he has the platform. I've got a strong feeling right now that his thoughts aren't turned in that direction--his thoughts are toward confirmation and trying to do a good job."

Ford is "well suited" as president of the Senate "where he can do the job with some vigor--which we can use right now," Baker added.

Baker disagreed with one reporter's suggestion that the "entire Agnew situation and Ford's succession is further clouding Watergate from public view."

"On the contrary, no one that I know of in the Congress or in the government has been a stronger right arm as far as I'm concerned than Jerry Ford has in doing those things that are obviously distasteful to Republicans that would appear necessary to go about the business at hand," he said.

"He has frequently indicated to me that he understands, that he shares with me the distress that we have to do these things. There has never been a word of caution or suggestion from Jerry Ford to me or any other Republican that I know of that we not do what we think has to be done.

"I have very great admiration for Jerry in that respect and I don't interpret his nomination as any sort of implication in that respect."

Asked whether the appointment of Ford was a consensus of the Republican party, Baker replied that "if there is a consensus--and I expect there may be a consensus--it's developed spontaneously within the last hour or so."

Baker said Ford is "imminently attractive" to most Republicans. "Certainly in the House, and I believe certainly in the Senate."

Most Congressional leaders have echoed the senator's sentiments of Gerald Ford.

His congressional record is marked with 25 years of impressive service in the House of Representatives. He has been the House Republican leader since 1965.

Asked about the 1976 campaign, Ford said: "I have no intentions of running for President or Vice President." He added that he had informed the President so after he had been chosen.

However, Baker and other Republican party leaders still regard Ford as Presidential timber--capable at any time to step in for President Nixon if the circumstances warrant it, capable of winning in '76.

On The Inside:

● Southwest Security

As a result of dormitory theft and vandalism, two of the towers -- Washington and JQA -- have tightened up their security systems. (See details P. 3)

● Nobel Peace Prize

Henry Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho win the Nobel Peace Prize for their efforts in ending the Vietnam war. (See details P. 5)

● Energy Crisis

..In an effort to ease the energy crisis, the federal government prepares to open the eastern Gulf of Mexico to offshore oil exploration. (See details P. 5)

(Staff Photo - Dennis Conlon)

For 25¢ this student got his picture in the paper, a supply of California orange, and the satisfaction of knowing he has helped out a worthy cause.

Tabs Turned In For Seeing Eye Dogs

By JAN ALEXANDER

Every once in a while, something new appears on campus that will arouse a certain amount of curiosity among the more alert members of the UMass community. The latest of these additions are small signs on the soft drink machines of the Campus Center asking that soda tabs be put in the boxes on top of the machines.

The request is that of Ms. Debbie Fennessey, a junior and a resident of Emerson, who is helping to raise money to buy seeing eye dogs for blind children.

"The project is an on-going one," said Ms. Fennessey, "In three weeks I've collected over 3,000 tabs." The tabs are sent to a can company in Williamsburg, Pennsylvania and recycled into cans. The money the company saves is donated to the 4-H and Lions Clubs of Williamsburg, which are working in conjunction to buy seeing eye dogs with the money.

"About 120,000 tabs are needed to buy one seeing eye dog," estimates Ms. Fennessey. "1,000 tabs weighs in at a little over a pound," she continued.

Asked how she became involved in the project, Ms. Fennessey said she had been hiking on Mt. Sugarloaf, and had seen a tab collecting box in one of the lodges. She contacted a man whose name was listed on the box, and asked if she could start collecting at UMass.

"I decided to do it because I've always been interested in helping the blind, and because I feel it's a good cause," Ms. Fennessey said.

Boxes have been set up on soft drink machines in Cumberland Farms, Pete's Package Store, Bell's Pizza and The Hungry U, as well as in the Campus Center and Student Union.

Graduate Senate

Cut Down Stealing

By JANINE DEVLIN

The prosecution of graduate students which are apprehended by the Campus Bookstore for shoplifting was of primary concern Monday night, at the meeting of the Graduate Student Senate.

"The new Campus Director," said the Senate President John Muller, "wants to cut down the stealing." There is a judicial system for the protection of undergraduates, but no similar judicial system for graduate students exists. The Senate did not intervene in the judicial proceedings. They did, however, unanimously approve the proposition that a statement be issued which would declare that any graduate shoplifter will be "remanded to the proper authorities", and will warrant no particular exemption from the law, because he is a University graduate student.

Introduced for consideration was the concept of the Revenue Sharing Plan, whereby organizations will in the future qualify for a grant, from the Graduate Senate, by meeting certain "academic criteria". This will be voted upon during the next Senate meeting. The Revenue Sharing Plan, considered by Muller to be "of crucial importance", would only formalize the procedure whereby money is currently obtained by "degree granting units" from the Graduate Senate.

The Senate voted as well not to allocate $100 for "fringe area" expenses incurred by North Village. The "fringe areas" were specified by proponents of the motion, -with some reluctance-as "beer", (then amended to "punch").

Instead, $52 was allocated, which was the precise cost of a fringe area referred to by the representative as "a social gathering under congenial conditions".

Action On Israel

There will be an organizing meeting for an Israel Action Committee in Room 302 of the Student Union this afternoon at 4:00 p.m. All interested persons are welcome.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news), 545-0344 (sports), 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879, as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

DVP Presents

Prof. To Speak On Black Nationalism

GARVEY SCHOLAR TO LECTURE TOMORROW

The Distinguished Visitors Program, in cooperation with the University's Department of Afro-American Studies, will present in the Engineering East Auditorium, this Thursday, at 8:00 p.m., Mr. Robert Hill, Associate Professor in African-American Studies at Northwestern University, and one of the world's foremost authorities on Marcus Garvey and his organization: The Universal Negro Improvement Association (U.N.I.A.). Mr. Hill will speak on the topic: "The Crisis of Black Nationalism and the Tradition of Marcus Garvey."

The Jamaican scholar received his university education at the University of Toronto and the University of the West Indies in Kingston, Jamaica. He has taught at Michigan State, Dartmouth and Cornell, and is a Senior Research Fellow of the Institute of the Black World in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Hill's interest in Marcus Garvey was stimulated in his high school years through meeting Jamaican members of the Universal Negro Improvement Association. It is these contacts which he credits with giving him a perspective on the human meaning of the Garvey movement in particular and of mass political movements in general.

Mr. Hill has tracked the Garvey movement through the colonial archives of Europe and interviewed hundreds of former UNIA members in America and the Caribbean. The results of his research will be set forth in his forthcoming book: THE BLACK INTERNATIONALE: Marcus Garvey and the U.N.I.A., to be published by Doubleday in early 1974.

Esquire's January issue on new young black intellectuals reported that Professor Hill is also preparing two additional works: TO FREE AFRICA, a study of the Black West Indians who struggled in behalf of Africa's independence and and as yet untitled work on the West Indian years of black abolitionists Henry Highland Garnet and Samuel Ringold Ward.

Mr. Hill's interests in the politics of mass movements has likewise been deepened by his close friendship with the great West Indian intellectual and activist, C.L.R. James. An article on James, "C.L.R. James: The England Years, 1932-38" will shortly appear in Radical America. In addition Professor Hill has been personally involved in political work both in Canada and in his native Jamaica where, in 1969, he was secretary and editor of the weekly newspaper ABENG (the battle horn of the Jamaican Maroons) which focussed on the need for the social and political development of the Jamaican masses as the fundamental means of confronting the problems of Jamaican underdevelopment.

Robert Hill is one of the most respected and prodigious young researchers on panafricanism and colonialism in the Third World. He has recently completed compiling a bibliography of the newly discovered Marcus Garvey papers for the world-reknowned Schomburg Collection of the New York Public Library. And this past year he has finished a massive 3 volume collection of colonial documents on panafrican struggle for the Institute of the Black World.

Mr. Hill's lecture will draw heavily upon many previously unpublished sources and will pose the question of the future cultural and political tasks for black people in the Diaspora "who are no longer what they were but are not quite yet what they need to be."

Budgets: Boring But Necessary

By KEVIN KITTREDGE

Budgets are boring. They look like a baseball box score, but lack all emotion and drama. However, budgets are as necessary as the white lines and fences of a ball park. They are the skeleton of any organization and determine its boundaries.

Most student organizations are funded by the Student Activities Tax Fund (SATF). The SATF funds, exceeding $800,000 for fiscal 1973-74, are administered and divided by the Student Senate.

To receive funds, an organization must first submit a rationale for its existence. The average length of these statements is two or three paragraphs and does not require any knowledge of legal jargon. Any student or group of students that is unhappy with some aspect of student life can start an organization and apply for SATF funds.

Secondly, organizations must submit a budget. Most of the existing organizations use their old budgets to determine their needs. However, if the organization is a new one it can go to the Student Activities Office for assistance and guidance in drawing up a budget.

Once the budget has been submitted to the Student Senate it is debated on the floor and then sent to the Budget Committee for amendment or approval.

However, once a budget is approved the organization must live up to its promised goals. The staff of the "Spectrum" became aware of this when their budget was cut almost in half from $26,000 to $14,000.

Larry Popple, of the Student Activities Office, said, "the 'Spectrum' had promised two issues with the first one due in November for the fall semester. It was never distributed until the second semester."

Robin Ellington, of "Spectrum," said this was true, but blamed the delay on shipping problems. However, she doesn't feel that this was the reason for the budget cut. She feels the actions of Paul Hamel, the Student Senate Treasurer, were partly responsible for the budget cut.

"Paul Hamel took the floor and pulled out the centerfold of our current issue and said, 'Students don't need this type of extravagance and expensive printing.' This is a high quality magazine and the quality of printing is essential to the display of the artists work," she said.

As a result, "Spectrum" will be limited to only one issue this year. They are working on a new idea of presenting the material in loose-leaf form and are still undecided on trying to increase the budget to its original amount.

SATF appropriations are as diverse as the student body itself. For example, if you want an abortion, but have already spent your allowance, there is an appropriation of $2,000 in the Medical Emergency Loan Fund.

There are also funds available to help students repair their bicycles or cars. For students that would rather walk, the Outing Club offers instruction and rental equipment in backpacking, mountain climbing, canoeing and cross-country skiing.

Zoology Carnival Is Today

By JOAN FASSNACHT

A Zoology Carnival will be held tomorrow, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.in Morrill rooms 323, 327, 336, and 338.

The Carnival is sponsored by the Zoology Committee of Undergraduate Affairs in an effort to better inform students, faculty, and other members of the university community of the research being conducted by the department.

The basic purpose of the Carnival is to give undergraduate students an opportunity to see what kinds of research professors are engaged in. This particular Carnival is designed to inform interested students in Independent Study projects or Senior Honors projects.

Brian O'Connor, a committee member said, "We especially want to inform pre-med and pre-dental students of these projects. Such an activity would help them get into medical or dental school."

He added, "Although it is too late for this year's graduating class to participate in the Senior Honors program, there is still time for them to pick up an Independent Study project for three to six credits in the Spring."

Committee faculty members include: Prof. Joseph Kunkel, chairman, Prof. Grace Rollason, and Prof. Brian O'Connor. Richard Komuneicki, a graduate student, also serves on the committee.

EARN! Sell Carpet Shampoo to $50.00 and MORE daily. Write Jes Distributor's 9309 Aurora N., Seattle, WN98103.

DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE

A MOON FOR THE MISBEGOTTEN

by Eugene O'Neill

Thurs., Oct. 18, Fri., Oct. 19, Sat., Oct. 20

ALL TICKETS $1.00 THIS WEEKEND

Bartlett Aud. 8 p.m.

Box Office opens 6 p.m. on show nights
For information call
545-2579 Mon.-Fri. 1-5 p.m.

TONITE
&
Tomorrow Nite

CLEAN LIVING

at the

Rusty Nail Inn

Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

(Staff Photo - Harry Charyen)

Imagine trying to climb over this? Well, this is one of the activities done in the new Outdoor Education Program offered in the General Phys. Ed. program.

Outdoor Education Program Started

By BOB ESTELLE

If one were to go into the woods northwest of the Llewyn Derby track, one would find a number of interesting things. He would cross a narrow log with boards nailed to it. Looking on the left, he would see a vertical wall with one side smooth and the other surrounded with ropes. Going further into the woods, there is another footbridge and a rope-and-pulley bridge. Other such facilities are located beyond these bridges.

This is all part of a new program designed by the School of Physical Education which is generally known as Outdoor Education. The instructor, Mr. Tunner Brosky, feels that it is a meaningful experience both to himself and the students.

Based on Socartes' principle of "know thyself", the course mainly involves a group of students collectively deciding how to accomplish a certain task. A task like scaling the wall is given to the group. Then they seek how to have the entire group climb over the wall, taking into account the capabilities of each member of the group. When the task is accomplished, and time is not important, the group encounters another task.

Brosky first observed this program a few years ago at Hamilton-Wenham Regional High School and was able to persuade Dr. David Bischoff, Dean of the School of Physical Education, to start the program here.

Over the years, Brosky has observed that people are afraid to open themselves up to other people for fear of criticism. He feels that this program is a tool that helps overcome this.

He says, "it helps people understand their own capabilities and teaches them to work with others to achieve a common goal." He went on further to explain that the class does this by "recognizing each individual's capabilities and using them." It even goes as far as helping the less capable and it does use the talents these people have. Brosky summarizes his own feelings about this program by stating that "this is the most meaningful activity I have ever been involved in as a teacher."

Anyone wanting more information about this outward bound-type program should contact Brosky in Boyden Building or in his office in WOPE.

Insurance Companies Support Sex Changes

By C.G. McDANIEL
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Sex change operations have become so well accepted that some insurance companies will pay for them, a New York physician reported Tuesday.

The physician, Dr. Robert C. Granato of Elmhurst, N.Y., a Columbia University urologist, said Blue Cross will now pay for hospitalization of these patients because transsexualism has become "such a well known and accepted condition."

Southwest Security

Washington Tightens Up...

By CHRIS WALTER

The first several weeks of this semester brought a large increase in theft and vandalism in South West, especially in the towers. As a result, one of the towers, George Washington, has increased its security in the hopes of curbing the crime rate in the dorm.

Gerry Morrissey, recently appointed director of security in Washington, describes the present system as being, "One of the tightest in South West." Morrissey went on to say that, "Washington had a bad reputation in the past as being an easy dorm to rip-off. That's being changed." Morrissey cited his most important changes in the system as being tight organization and an expanded program.

Thirty-three persons are now employed in security, which is in effect from 7 p.m. until 7 a.m. There are two people per shift and shifts are changed every four hours to insure alert personnel at all times. Over the Columbus Day weekend, 24 hour security was instituted, and according to Morrissey, "Nothing was stolen." This is especially impressive since last year's Columbus Day weekend was one of the worst of the year in terms of theft.

20 residents are employed as permanent security personnel, with the other thirteen acting as alternates to insure that personnel will always be available. Morrissey stressed the, "tighter organization and stricter rules," which now govern security members. Students who fail to show up for duty and do not give 24 hour notice of their intention are automatically fired, with no second chances. Morrissey feels that with the improved security now operating, Washington may be one of the safer dorms in Southwest.

...JQA, Too!

By STEVE TETREAULT

Obviously fed up with weekend lawlessness which has resulted in several incidents, John Quincy Adams dorm will present a new security proposal to its residents tonight.

The proposal calls for a new approach to weekend security. If passed, the residents of the dorm will be required to post a guest list of people invited to floor parties. Each resident would be allowed two guests, and these guests would receive a hand stamp upon entering the building.

Also a resident of that particular floor would be required to be present at the door to strengthen security. Also floor parties would not be allowed to be advertised.

This proposal came about as a result of several meetings between the Heads of Residence of the tower. Jean Parrish, head of JQA Upper, told the Collegian that the measures will not effect security during the week, but only try to prevent damages which result from weekend get-togethers. Ms. Parrish said that a major source of damage comes from men trying to get into JQA "just to see who's around". JQA is primarily a women's dorm.

Recent incidents which have prompted this proposal include the recent harrassment of one woman by a group of drunk men who forced her to ride in an elevator for fifteen minutes; the breaking of a bottle over someone's head at a floor party; the ripping out of several fire extinguishers; and the constant hassle of dorm security with men trying to enter the dorm with no other motive than to "find out where the party is".

MDC NEWS HOTLINE 5-2550

VILLAGE INN
DRAKE
LOWENBRAU OKTOBERFEST
ON DRAFT
Restaurant Open 'til 2 a.m.

LEARN CHINESE SELF-DEFENSE! KUNG-FU ACADEMY

Adult and Children Classes in the only Kung Fu School in Western New England area.
Master in Charge — A. Chan
Enroll Now — Call 549-6223

SIMULTANEOUS CHESS EXHIBITION

John Stopa, expert chess player, will take on all challengers simultaneously. Stopa tied for first in the 1973 Massachusetts Open and in the 1973 U. S. Junior Open. Play begins at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Room 165-169 of the Campus Center. NO CHARGE to play if you bring a set, 50c set rental otherwise; spectators admitted free.

Sponsored by Program Council

This Wednesday and Thursday, the 17th and 18th RALPH KIRKPATRICK, World Famous Harpsichordist will be performing in Bowker Auditorium at 8 p.m.

All Bach Program on the 17th Bach Couperin Scarlatti Program on the 18th

Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students,
$3.00 others

Presented by the Fine Arts Council
Telephone 545-0202

Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4 p.m. or Bowker one hour before concert

In The Nation And The World

(AP CABLEPHOTO)

ON ROAD TO DAMASCUS-ISRAELI SOLDIERS RUN FOR COVER in rocky terrain alongside Damascus road, 10 mi. inside Syria as more than a score of heavy artillery shells impact amid infantry, tanks, and halftracks. Shells exploding only 150 f. away caused no casualties.

U.S.-Mid-East Involvement

No Troops To Go; Arms Sent

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The State Department said yesterday the United States does not intend to send American combat forces to the Middle East.

But, it was learned, the ongoing U.S. shipment of jet airplanes, tanks and other weapons to Israel may eventually equal the massive Soviet shipments to Egypt and Syria or even exceed them.

"We will be guided by what Israel's military needs are," said Robert J. McCloskey, the State Department spokesman, in regard to Washington's resupply plans.

Officials said Moscow has ferried some 5,000 tons of equipment to Egypt and Syria in 300 flights during one week. The U.S. airlift amounted in its first two days, to about one-tenth that amount.

Meanwhile, President Nixon agreed to receive four Arab foreign ministers at the White House Wednesday.

They are Abdel Aziz Bouteflika of Algeria, Sabah al-Sabah of Kuwait, Ahmed Taibi Benhima of Morocco and Umar al-Saqqaf of Saudi Arabia.

An Arab spokesman discouraged speculation that they asked to see Nixon, to discuss oil shipments to the United States.

"They want only to take up the U.S. involvement in the war," the spokesman said.

Mid-East War Rages; Cease Fire Hinted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel claimed a task force crossed the Suez Canal and was striking at Egyptian anti-aircraft missile batteries and artillery in the rear lines yesterday. Cairo said its forces were waging a "vicious battle" against Israeli armor trying to punch through an Egyptian beachhead.

A Cairo communique said Egyptian commanders had thrown armor, infantry and planes into the fight.

President Anwar Sadat warned that Egypt has missiles ready to carry the Arab attack into "the very depths of Israel," if the Israeli attack th Arab heartland. But he added that he is ready to accept a cease-fire and attend a U.N. peace conference if Israel pulls out of all Arab lands occupied since 1967.

Later in the day, Premier Golda Meir told the Israeli parliament she has received no cease-fire offer "from any source." She said the Egyptian drive into the Sinai had been blunted after 11 days of fierce desert tank battles, and added:

"The time for a cease-fire will come indeed when the enemy's strength has been broken.

"I have been asked repeatedly, 'When will it end?'," she said. "My answer is, when we manage to defeat the enemy."

Sadat and Mrs. Meir spoke soon after the Israeli command in Tel Aviv claimed its jets were bombing targets in the Nile Delta about 100 miles north of Cairo as furious tank battles raged in the Sinai peninsula and on the Syrian front along the road to Damascus.

A military communique from Cairo said Egyptian troops were battling late in the day to beat back the Israeli attempt to smash through to Egyptian territory on the western side of the canal.

Mrs. Meir said nothing about where the Israeli force was reported to have crossed into the western bank of the canal from the Sinai battleground to the east, nor did she say how big the force was.

Previous Israeli commando teams have mounted hit-and-run raids on the western bank of the canal. But Israel has never invaded Egypt proper in force.

Egypt seized control along the eastern bank of the 103-mile-long waterway after its forces stormed across and knocked back Israeli defenders as the current round of Middle East hostilities erupted Oct. 6. Israel seized the entire Sinai up to the canal in the 1967 war.

The Israeli push into Syria has slowed markedly in the last two days and observers believed the brunt of Israeli firepower may have been turned to the south against the Egyptians in the Sinai.

CALL
545-2566

SPECIAL BREAKFAST
Fresh frozen Orange
or Grapefruit juice
Two eggs; Home fries
Toast with jelly
Coffee
99c
—Sandwiches
—Ice Cream
THE GASLITE II
168 N. Pleasant St. 253-2291
Open 6:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m.

WEAR-HOUSE
PLAIDS
201 N. PLEASANT ST. thurs. & fri. till 9pm
bells · cuffed baggies · slacks ·
plaids
THREE BUCKS
3
THIS CERTIFICATE IS NEGOTIABLE ONLY IN THE WEARHOUSE TOWARD ONE PAIR OF PLAID SLACKS 3333332
THE WEARHOUSE
OMINUM OMINUM
COUPON

dvp presents:
Prof. Robert Hill
speaking on:
Crisis of Black Nationalism after Marcus Garvey
Thursday, Oct. 18 Engineering East 8:15 p.m.

Kissinger, Le Duc Tho Win Nobel Peace Prize

By OYVIND NORSTROM
Associated Press Writer

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam were awarded the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize yesterday for fashioning the cease-fire which officially ended the Vietnam war.

Mrs. Aase Lionaes, chairwoman of the Nobel committee, announced the award would be shared equally by the arthitects of the truce, who conducted 42 months of on-and-off, tough negotiations in Paris before reaching agreement in January.

In a brief statement, Mrs. Lionaes said the prize winners "had acted in accord with Alfred Nobel's idea...that conflicts should be solved through negotiations and not by war."

Kissinder, 50, and Tho, 62, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo and the first ranking member of a Communist government to win the prize, will each receive 255,000 Swedish crowns, or about $60,000, the Nobel medal and the peace prize diploma.

The presentations will be made in a formal ceremony at the University of Oslo Dec. 10. Mrs. Lionaes said she hoped both winners would attend. She said both had been notified immediately before the public announcement at the Nobel Institute.

Kissinger was attending a White House meeting on the Middle East when he received the word. He was beaming as he left to drive to the State Department, saying, "I'm very pleased." No comment was available from Tho.

President Nixon said, "By jointly citing Dr. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, the Nobel Committee has also given deserved recognition to the art of negotiation," which Nixon said "will be more essential than ever as we seek to build and maintain a structure of peace in the world."

Kissinger, who was Nixon's chief national security adviser when he negotiated the cease-fire, is the 16th American to win the peace prize. Tho is the first Asian to be so honored.

A total of 47 candidates had been nominated for the 1973 prize, including Nixon and Yugoslav President Tito.

Kissinger and Tho earned their prize the hard way-in hundreds of hours of tense and exhausting secret talks that often looked virtually hopeless.

Their meetings began in 1969, in such secrecy that Kissinger sometimes traveled to them by subway to avoid attracting the attention of newsmen.

When they ended in a blaze of news and television coverage in January, they were still nominally secret. But Kissinger and Tho found themselves followed wherever they went in Paris by scores of newsmen and photographers.

(AP Photo)

Gulf Of Mexico To Open For Oil Search

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Faced with a growing energy crisis, the United States is preparing to open the eastern Gulf of Mexico to oil exploration to boost domestic production.

The Interior Department plans to permit offshore drilling despite environmentalists' warnings that oil spills could ruin beaches that attract tourists and fears that discovery of oil could force military base closings.

The beaches and bases provide important revenue for local communities along the eastern Gulf.

The U.S. Geological Survey believes the area has between two billion and three billion barrels of oil and production potential of up to 590,000 barrels daily. That is about half as much oil as is being pumped off the Louisiana and Texas Coasts.

The Interior Department has indicated it will accept oil company bids in December for driling rights on more than 800,000 acres of the Gulf off the Florida, Mississippi and Alabama coasts.

Full development of the eastern Gulf would require about 1,500 wells, says the Interior Department.

Several members of Florida's congressional delegation have appealed to President Nixon to halt the leasing, but he has not intervened.

The eastern Gulf leasing is part of the Interior Department's five-year plan for expanding offshore supplies of about 1,300 wells in the western Gulf off Texas and Louisiana.

The schedule calls for 15 lease sales through May 1978 with the first covering the eastern Gulf. Lease-selling shifts to Louisiana in March and then to southern California next September.

Senate Asks For Ford Tax Audit

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Rules Committee yesterday asked for an Internal Revenue Service audit of Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford's income tax returns.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said the committee also is seeking access to Ford's tax returns for the last seven years, a period coinciding with his service as House Republican leader.

Cannon told newsmen these are part of the background material the committee wants for its public hearings on Ford's nomination to replace Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned as vice president last week.

No date was set for the start of the hearings, but Cannon said his guess is that they would begin about Oct. 30 or 31.

Cannon said the unprecedented request is for an IRS audit of Ford's tax returns over the last five years.

Ford already has said he would make his tax returns available, along with a statement of his financial affairs. He has said he owns no stocks or bonds other than $9,000 of debentures in a business that was family owned.

Cannon said he has written the 60-year-old Michigan congressman asking a financial statement and his tax returns and also has asked the House clerk for campaign contribution and expenditure reports filed by Ford.

Asked whether any attempt would be made to drag out the hearings on Ford's nomination until the controversy over the Watergate tapes is resolved, Cannon said "I know nothing about it."

PARTS GERMAN PARTS
WE'VE GOT A PART FOR YOU!
and if we don't, we'll get it.
AT
BRITISH ALLIED MOTOR PARTS, INC. JAPANESE
319 MAIN ST., AMHERST 256-8341 256-8342
Chilton's Repair Manuals
PARTS AMERICAN PARTS

UNIVERSITY
HOMECOMING FLOAT PARADE
FRI., OCT. 19
at 7:00 p.m.
starts at HAGIS MALL
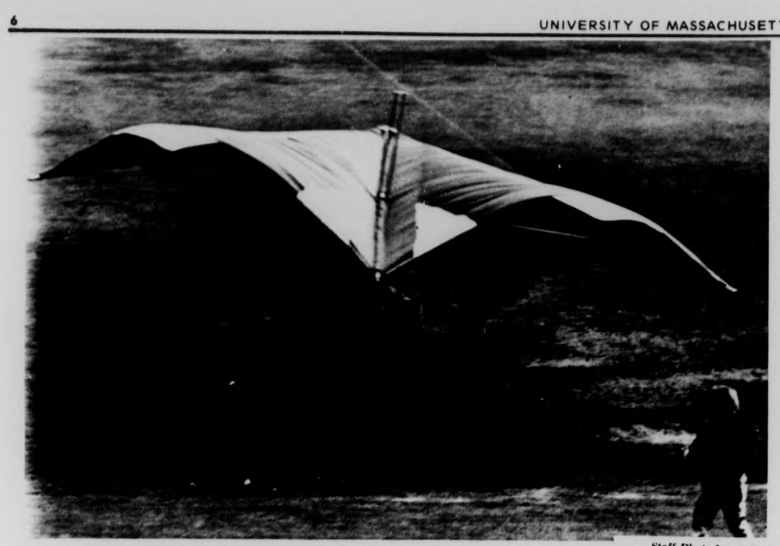
(All interested in submitting a Float call 5-0174 or Student Activities)
Sponsored by Greek Council
TROPHIES WILL BE AWARDED

The Pizza Revolution is coming!

UNIVERSITY OF GHANA CULTURAL DANCERS with GHANA ARTS COUNCIL DANCERS
and
WEST AFRICA INTERNATIONAL RAMBLERS DANCE BAND
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19 8 p.m.
Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students, $3.00 others
Presented by the Fine Arts Council in association with the African Student Association and the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies
A Third World Cultural Series Event
Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4
Telephone 545-0202



Staff Photo-Larry Stein

Howard Noble of New Britain, Conn. spends his free time flying his kite. Mr. Noble constructed this 35 pound kite from aluminum poles and a nylon sail.

U.S. Administration Charged With Spending Errors

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a sharply critical report on U.S. aid to Cambodia, the General Accounting Offices said yesterday the Nixon administration has filed incomplete spending reports and used military personnel for more than their assigned task of auditing equipment deliveries.

The report also said U.S. economic aid in fiscal 1971 and 1972 had exceeded the amount the Cambodian economy could absorb; supervision of military aid remains inadequate, and funds are still going to nonexistent Cambodian troops. It said aid supervision had improved in recent months.

The GAO study was made to monitor restrictions voted by Congress on the level of U.S. aid and employes in Cambodia, and the ban on U.S. combat troops and military advisers.

The congressional fiscal watchdog agency urged the State and Defense departments to include all spending in Cambodia in reports to Congress and to give more complete information about the kind of military aid being provided.

In assessing the impact of the congressional ban on military advisors in Cambodia, the report noted that Nixon administration officials had sharply limited the role of the Military Equipment Delivery Teams set up to monitor U.S. equipment deliveries.

"Although MEDT personnel were not assigned to Cambodian military units," the report said, "MEDT activities expanded considerably from verifying requirements and monitoring deliveries, as initially described by Secretaries of State and Defense."

These included, it reported, recommending changes in force structure, advising and assisting on contingency plans, providing technical assistance on logistical aspects of military aid and providing technical military assistance and information about American material.

DECORATING SUPPLIES

A. J. Hastings, Inc.
Newsdealer & Stationer
AMHERST, MASS.

New Premier Names Civilian-Dominated Cabinet

By DENNIS NEELD
Associated Press Writer

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Thailand's new premier named a civilian-dominated Cabinet yesterday following a student revolt that overthrew the old military regime in two days of riots and street fighting.

The capital remained under student control with troops and all but a few traffic police keeping out of sight. But the students put aside their banners and took up brushes to clean up the debris of battle.

All but two important posts in Prime Minister Sanya Thammasak's Cabinet went to civilians.

The ministers were chosen in consultation with student leaders and were widely hailed among the thousands of youths who took to the streets to confront police and troops at height of the revolt.

The overthrow of Thailand's three military strongmen not only returns the country to civilian rule but greatly increases the influence of King Bhumibol Adulyadej. Prime Minister Sanya, a respected university rector, is regarded as a king's man.

According to palace sources, the king persuaded army strongmen to leave the country. He warned they would turn Bangkok into a slaughterhouse if they brought troops into the capital to crush the revolt.

As it is, more then 283 civilians are known to have been killed and several hundreds wounded.

The ratio of civilians to military men in the new Cabinet roughly reverses the ratio under the former premier, Field Marshal Thanom Kittikachorn and his strongman deputy, Field Marshal Praphas Charusathien.

The government radio announced that Thanom had left the country, but there has been no report of his having arrived in any other country.

New Foreign Minister Charoonpan Issarangkul indicated there would be no change in Thailand's foreign policy and the country's close and friendly relations with the United States would continue.

The United States has more than 38,000 servicemen at six air bases in Thailand.

Atlanta Mayor Holds Slim Lead

By TONY LEDWELL
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - As the Collegian was going to press it was learned that Maynard Jackson had gone ahead to win the election and become the new Mayor of Atlanta. This story was written earlier.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Atlanta Mayor Sam Massell grabbed an early but slim lead yesterday over black challenger Maynard Jackson in a bitter mayoral runoff election.

The early returns were apparently split evenly between predominantly white and predominantly black precincts.

The results of the election could give Atlanta a predominantly black city government. The general election two weeks ago assured blacks of at least nine of the 18 city council seats. Blacks also won a majority-five-of the seats on the nine-member school board.

A hitch in the runoff election developed late in the day, when Fulton County Superior Court Judge Charles Wofford granted an injunction preventing final certification of the results until a suit challenging the general election is settled.

Attorney Henry M. Henderson filed the suit, claiming voting irregularities such as misprinted ballots. No date was set for a hearing on the matter.

The new city officals will assume office Jan. 7, 1974, the same day a new city charter goes into effect. For the first time in 100 years, the lines of executive and legislative authority in city government will be clearly delineated.

The charter replaces the office of vice mayor, which Jackson won four years ago, with that of City Council President.

The un-dormitories.

Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST

- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd.
oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND

- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

No Lease Required
RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions: On Route 47.

Cuban Kidnaps Ambassadors

BRUSSELS (AP) - An armed Cuban took the Belgian and French ambassadors to Cuba hostage yesterday in an attempt to obtain safe passage out of Fidel Castro's island nation, a Belgian Foreign Ministry spokesman said.

The spokesman said Ambassador Jean Somershausen arrived at his residence to find a man holding his wife and a French newsman at gunpoint. The gunman asked the Belgian ambassador to negotiate safe conduct out of Cuba for him with Cuban authorities.

Somershausen made a few calls to officials, the ministry spokesman said. Then the gunman decided to move to the French embassy, where he took the French ambassador and the ambassador's secretary as additional hostages.

In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry said it had received no report from its ambassador, Pierre Anthonioz.

HORSEFEATHERS!

Anyone who comes to the Collegian Layout course starting tomorrow can learn a lot about newspaper layout, especially the Collegian's.

Page
Design
Headline Writing Story Counting and much more

Thursdays, the Collegian becomes a classroom, starting tomorrow, 6:30 p.m. Open to all, especially the Collegian staff — refreshments.

CUSTOM
Black & White film processing
and boxframing,
for working professionals & semipros

Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

Zonkeraz

in the HATCH
Thursday, Friday, & Saturday
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

(AP Photo)

AMHERST, Mass.--SECURITY CHECK--Student guards Deborah Polhemus, 20, of Tiburon, Calif., and Justin D. Parks, 26, of Southport, Conn., check bicycles while making rounds at Dakin Hall at Hampshire College. Students patrol through the night for campus security.

Officials Weighed Clean-Air Proposals

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Officials in 17 areas weighed new clean-air proposals Tuesday and tried to figure out how and whether they could meet the new regulations aimed mainly at cutting the number of vehicles on the road.

The Environmental Protection Agency announced Monday it had approved transportation control plans for 17 areas - five of them in California - in an effort to meet 1977 clean-air deadlines set by Congress.

George Taylor, deputy executive director for the California Air Resources Board, noted that the rules called for installation of pollution control devices on older cars and said, "Whether we meet this will depend on whether a suitable device is developed for these vehicles."

Taylor said most of the California areas will need more time to meet mass transit proposals and added: "The regulations are probably not meetable in the Los Angeles area even with more time. There are too many people."

Russell E. Train, EPA administrator, conceded on Monday that the new restrictions, which range up to fuel rationing, were "unreasonable" and said he would ask Congress for authority to extend the deadline for areas in serious trouble.

Massachusetts officials began hearings on Monday on the latest plans which in Boston would ban on-street parking from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. and put a surcharge on off-street parking.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce said it was completely opposed to the regulations which, it said, would cut the number of shoppers and force some stores out of business.

The most severe regulations were proposed for the California areas - Los Angeles, San Francisco, Sacramento, San Diego and the San Joaquin Valley - and Denver, Colo. The federal agency said these cities would have to cut back drastically on the number of vehicles on the road, partly, by rationing fuel.

In Los Angeles, officials said the latest EPA proposals were an improvement over earlier plans.

Watch for
DOMINO'S

Pentagon Papers

Senate Urging Secrecy

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Senate committee is urging the overhaul of secrecy classification procedures for government documents in the wake of the Pentagon Papers disclosures.

The special committee named to study the subject recommended that Congress withdraw broad authority given to the executive branch to restrict circulation of government papers and instead set up guidelines defining areas of national security.

Machinery was proposed for questioning executive decisions on classification of documents for national security reasons.

Meanwhile, the committee recommended that individual senators possessing secret documents consult with the Senate Ethics Committee before deciding whether to disclose them.

The special bipartisan 10-member committee was established in August 1972 after Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, made public portions of the Pentagon Papers, a secret study of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, which previously had been leaked to the press.

Balked in his effort to read the papers to the Senate floor, Gravel called a midnight meeting of a Senate subcommittee and read the documents into the record.

The Special Committee to Study Questions Related to Secret and Confidential Documents is headed by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., and Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Drawing from Supreme Court decisions, the committee said Congress has given the executive branch, in an exemption under the Freedom of Information Act, total authority to require secrecy in the interest of national defense or foreign policy.

see
"STAR TREK"
4 p.m. - 5 p.m.
and original "SUPERMAN"
flicks
5 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.
at the BLUEWALL
everyday free!

SLOTH
BLUEWALL
October 17, 18, 19, 20
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

1950's ROCK 'N' ROLL
FREAKOUT
DANCE FIGHT GET LAID FEATURING PHILADELPHIAS OWN BOB-SHOO-BOP ★
★ REVUE
Formerly with Little Richard
Weds., Oct. 24, 8:00 in the S.U.B.
Tickets - $2.00 at door

Three superb novels by JOHN GARDNER
–now specially gift-boxed for Christmas!

Treat yourself and all the very special people you know to a priceless "package" of entertainment for only $4.15:

THE SUNLIGHT DIALOGUES
14 weeks on the N.Y. Times best seller list.
FIRST TIME IN PAPERBACK.
(Single copy: $1.95)

GRENDEL
"A work of extraordinary beauty."
—Saturday Review
(Single copy: 95¢)

THE WRECKAGE OF AGATHON
"Highly original."
—New York Times
(Single copy: $1.25)

ALL THREE BOOKS, HANDSOMELY GIFT-BOXED: $4.15
"Available now at the University Bookstore BALLANTINE BOOKS, INC.

Ford Admits Aiding Liddy In Job Hunt

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President -designate Gerald R. Ford confirmed yesterday that he helped get Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy a job in government as a political favor for another congressman.

But Ford denied another story, published in a book last year, that he underwent psychiatric treatment for a year. He called it a "categorical inaccuracy."

The House Republican leader said he called the Treasury Department to help get Liddy a job there in 1967 or 1968 at the request of Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., R-N.Y.

Ford told newsmen: "I said, 'Ham, he's not my constituent, he's yours. It's your responsibility. But I'll make a phone call'."

Ford said he called Eugene T. Rossides, then assistant secretary for trade, and Liddy subsequently got a job in the Treasury Department.

Liddy later joined the White House "plumbers unit" and became counsel for President Nixon's re-election finance committee.

Liddy was convicted of conspiring to burgle and wiretap the Democrats' Watergate national headquarters while he worked for the Nixon committee.

The allegation that Ford had psychiatric treatment for a year from a Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker in New York City was published by Washington lobbyist Robert N. Winter-Berger in his book "The Washington Pay-Off."

Ford told newsmen he visited Hutschnecker for 15 minutes one time to meet him - not for treatment.

Hutschnecker said in a telephone interview from his New York office that the book's allegation is untrue.

"He (Ford) never came here as a patient in the first place," Hutschnecker said. "This is sheer fantasy."

Hutschnecker said Ford did visit him briefly one day but said he could not recall why.

Ford said Winter-Berger had urged him repeatedly to visit Hutschnecker and he did so while in New York for a speech.

"He (Winter-berger) extolled Hutschnecker's virtues as an eminent doctor and said I should meet him," Ford said.

Asked how Winter-Berger had gotten close enough to Ford to make such suggestions, Ford said the lobbyist was originally introduced to him by longtime friends.

Egyptian Missle Subject Of Controversy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Assessments differ on the Zafer missile, which Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said yesterday was poised against Israel, but everyone agrees it has the range to hit Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

Jane's Yearbook of Weapons Systems, published in London, credits the missile with a range of 233 miles, carrying a 1,100-pound warhead.

Jane's current edition said it is not known whether the missile is as yet operational, but noted that the Egyptian armed forces include a missile command with a strength of 4,000 men.

Israeli commentators rate the Zafer as having a shorter range, 180 miles with a warhead of 880 pounds.

And Israeli sources claimed the Egyptian-made rockets have never been tested operationally and their accuracy is unproven. The range of 180 miles, however, would put Tel Aviv and Jerusalem within range if accuracy is achieved.

A Soviet-built Kelt rocket was officially reported by the Israelis to have been fired at Tel Aviv by the Egyptians on the first day of the current war. It was shot down by an Israeli jet pilot after it was spotted on a radar screen.

Jane's estimates that Egypt has built about 100 missiles of all types. In Arabic Zafer means victorious.

While the Egyptians gave much attention to their rockets, at least initially, the Israelis keep their missile potential secret.

However, the London-based International Institute of Strategic Studies reported earlier this year that the Israelis are believed to have the MD-660 Jericho missile in production. The institute said it has a range of 280 miles but is not yet known to be deployed operationally.

Penn Central Asks For Safety Standard Exemption

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Railroad Administration yesterday was asked by the Penn Central for an exemption from safety standards which the railroad claims could put it out of business and create power and food shortages in areas of the Northeast.

The standards - which set maximum speeds for trains depending on the condition of the railroad track - went into effect at midnight Monday. Penn Central says almost 7,000 miles of its 38,000 miles of track do not meet the minimum federal standard for use at any speed.

It asked the FRA to exempt the track from the safety standards until the end of 1974. An FRA examiner heard testimony on the request Tuesday. A decision is likely by Wednesday, a spokesman for the federal agency said.

Penn Central said it has shut down operations on 2,789 miles of substandard track to keep from violating the new law and sent maintenance supervisors to other stretches of substandard track to oversee restoration work.

The safety law provides that railroads may continue to run trains over substandard track if the track is being restored and if a supervisor watches over the track at all times.

Without the exemption, Penn Central could be fined up to $2,500 per day for running trains over substandard track. It also could be subject to a court injunction ordering it to shut down all operations over non-federally approved roadbed.

The company contended it has neither the time nor the money to upgrade the track. It also said a shortage of railroad crossties make it impossible to comply with the federal regulations; it would cost more than $49 million to repair the faulty track and repairs would take at least eight years.

The substandard track totals 6,851 miles, John DePodesta, attorney for Penn Central, told the FRA hearing Tuesday.

Most of the track is on branch and secondary lines and in switching yards, DePodesta said.

CUTTING SHAPING STYLING
That's our Business
The Cellar is the place to go to achieve the look you want.
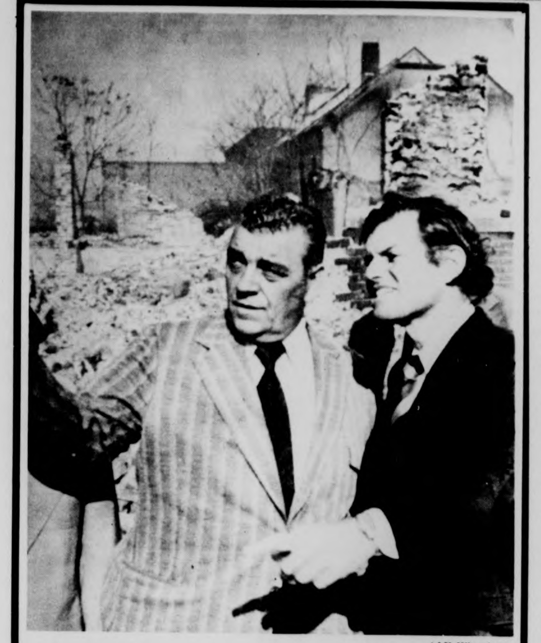
189 No. Pleasant St,
Amherst
253-9233

Colonel Sanders
Big Clam Fry...
Wednesdays and Thursdays, Only...
Feeds 4 - 6
Boat of tendersweet baby clams
Quart of French Fries
Pint of Cole Slaw
Quart of Soda
$4.99
Clip the coupon
Chicken-In seating for 54
Chicken-Out Delivery Free
256-8745
Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Rte. 9 (across from Zayre's) Hadley
256-8745

CARPENTERS
IN CONCERT
Special Guest Stars
SKILES AND HENDERSON
FRI. - OCT. 19 - 8 p.m.
Springfield Civic Center
1277 Main St. Springfield, Mass. 01103
TICKETS: $6.50 - $5.50 - $4.50
SPRINGFIELD
Civic Center Box Office
NORTHAMPTON
Mad Apple
HOLYOKE
Mad Hatter

EMS
Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.
SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT BACKPACKING, SKI-TOURING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT.
Located on Route 9 at the Amherst-Hadley Town Line (413) 253-9504
PRE-SEASON SKI-TOURING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off most models of touring skis, boots, bindings and poles. Brands on sale include EMS Asnes, Bonna, EMS Madshus, Rieber, Falk VM poles, Rottefella and others.
MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973
20-30 per cent off on many models of down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, frame and day packs, down-filled parkas, tents, gloves, mittens and many other items. Brands on sale include Alpine Designs, North Face, Gerry, EMS, Janus, Camp Trails, Rough Rider, Bergens, etc.
ALL BICYCLE PACKS 20% off
Supply Limited
Store hours: 9-9 Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30 Sat.



(AP Wirephoto)

CHELSEA, Mass.--TOURS FIRE SCENE--Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy tours area in Chelsea Monday which was destroyed by fire overnight. He is with Chelsea Mayor Philip Spelman.

Truth-In-Lending Law Is Being Violated

BOSTON (AP) - Two consumer groups said Tuesday a survey they conducted of 470 banks in Massachusetts showed a large number were violating provisions of the state's 1966 truth-in-lending law.

The groups said the banks were violating the law that requires them to quote only the annual percentage rate when discussing a loan with the public.

The report of the survey was published by the Eastern Massachusetts Public Interest Research group.

The eastern group said it found 25 per cent of the banks it surveyed in violation of the law. The western group said it found 46 per cent of the banks surveyed in the state's four western counties in violation.

"Despite the intention of the truth-in-lending law," the report said, "The average consumer continues to be frustrated in attempts to compare interest rates on loans.

"And those banks which make the extra effort to comply with the applicable laws face regular discrimination at the hands of those banks less scrupulous in this regard," the report said.

REPRESENTATIVE WANTED
We're looking for part-time help to promote the campus market for film developing.
Our rep will distribute promotional materials, posters, "free" processing coupons, etc. No photo experience necessary.
Good money-maker! Your efforts backed by college newspaper ads. Don't pass this one up.
BEST PHOTO
Ms. Ronda Tyler
100 Summers St.
Coolville, Ohio 45723
Yes, send me the information:
Name
Address
City
State Zip
College or Univ.

"King Of Hot Jazz Drummers"

Gene Krupa Dies At 64

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) - Gene Krupa, king of hot jazz drummers, died Tuesday at his home here. He was 64.

He had been released a week ago from Yonkers General Hospital, where he was treated for leukemia.

A 1959 movie called "The Gene Krupa Story," starring Sal Mineo as Krupa, told of Krupa's career from his Chicago beginnings around 1927 to 1943, when he made a comeback after serving a prison term for possession of marijuana.

Krupa played with Benny Goodman in the mid-1930s and later formed his own band, which he revived after his return from prison.

He seldom discussed his marijuana conviction, but in 1969 talked about it to a group of teenagers on Long Island.

With shoulders hunched and face grimacing, he demonstrated for the youngsters drum rolls played by a "straight" drummer and by one on marijuana

"When you play the drums, you try to draw the sound out," he said. "But when you're on drugs, you pound."

Krupa's last public appearance was Aug. 18 in Saratoga, N.Y., with the reconstituted Benny Goodman quartet - clarinetist Goodman, pianist Teddy Wilson, vibraharpist Lionel Hampton and Krupa.

They had been reunited last summer for the Newport Jazz Festival in New York, where his fellow drummers presented Krupa with a scroll saying they wanted to honor him while he was still alive.

Krupa's first wife, Ethel, whom he married in 1933, died in 1955. He was divorced from his second wife, Patricia Bowler, whom he married in 1959.

Survivors include two adopted children and a brother, Jules, of Chicago.

A Requiem Mass will be held Thursdav at St. Denis Church here. The body will be flown to Chicago for burial.

RUNNING DEER RANCH

Montague Road, Leverett
TRAIL RIDING LESSONS - BOARDING HORSE SALES
Tel. 549-3630
for reservations

Put Lift In Your Life
Add a credit and soar toward graduation
GLIDING
P.E. 652
Add anytime till Nov. 1
Call 665-8700

THIS OLD JALOPY WILL NEVER PASS INSPECTION-
YOU NEED A GOLDEN VALUE CARD! IT CAN GET YOU REDUCED PRICES ON PARTS TIRES, AND EVEN GAS!
HOT ZIGGITY! I'M GONNA RUSH RIGHT DOWN AND GET ONE!
AHH-DON'T GO BREAKING ANY SPEED LIMITS!

WHAT IS GOLDEN VALUE CARD?
It's a year's membership card to over 100 local merchants who have pledged to Save you money!
McGrath's RESTAURANT
16 West St. (Rt. 5), West Hatfield
247-5947
Fine Colonial Atmosphere
Wonderful Family Dining
FAMOUS FOR ROAST TOP SIRLOIN OF BEEF. We also feature steaks, sea food, cocktails and a complete selection of wines. We cater to luncheons and dinners for parties up to 50 people. Call us for a menu and price.
Open: 10:30 am - 2:00 pm - Lunch
5:00 pm - 10:00 pm - Dinner
Sunday - 12 noon - 9 pm closed all day Tuesday
You and your guest are invited to enjoy two dinners from the regular menu for the price of one.
This GOLDEN BOOK offer valid anytime, one time only.

SKI MT. TOM
Mt. Tom Ski Area
Route 5, Holyoke
(Only minutes away from Route 91)
536-0416
Your best "Close To Home" Skiing with complete facilities
Open every day & night * Excellent ski school
Snowmaking on the entire area
All GOLDEN BOOK skiers will enjoy $1.50 off the price of their "All Lift" ticket, as well as the ticket on one guest.
This GOLDEN BOOK offer valid Weekdays and Weeknights
This is an unlimited GOLDEN BOOK offer

MISTER TIRE
Route 116
Plainfield, Mass.
Located right in the center at Plainfield, Mass.
As an introductory offer to GOLDEN BOOK members, we will give 50% off the list price on car and truck tires.
Free mounting and balancing on cars and pickups only.
This is an unlimited GOLDEN BOOK offer
Complete full line of Dunlop Tires
Industrial, commercial, farm, Standard, Foreign
ON CAMPUS WED., THURS., FRI. CONCOURSE BETWEEN C.C. & S.U.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS
EDITOR IN CHIEF Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR Patrick Coffey

ADVERTISING MANAGER Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR Geoffrey L. Kurinsky
ASST. NEWS EDITOR Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR Joyce Kosofsky
TODAY'S STAFF
ISSUE EDITOR Steve Feld
NIGHT STAFF Lauria Caggiano
EDITORIAL Jerry Lazar
SPORTS Walt Powers
DARKROOM Steve Smith, Dan Smith, Dave Less
Dave Appleton, Larry Stein
AD LAYOUT Lisa Saunders

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Living In Fine Arts

By KAREN A. MONACO

Do you remember the 100 kids who were living in the Campus Center Hotel for the first couple of weeks of school because they hadn't received room assignments? Well, the University is hoping that we've all forgotten about them. You'll notice that we haven't heard a thing about them since then, have we? Those people at Housing are really clever bastards. But they couldn't fool my friend Moey and I.

We were sitting in my room last week when Moey queried, "Gee Karen, I wonder where they put all those kids who were living at the CC?"

"I really hadn't been worrying too much about it." I said. But she was determined.

"Well, where can 100 people just go? I mean they had to put them somewhere."

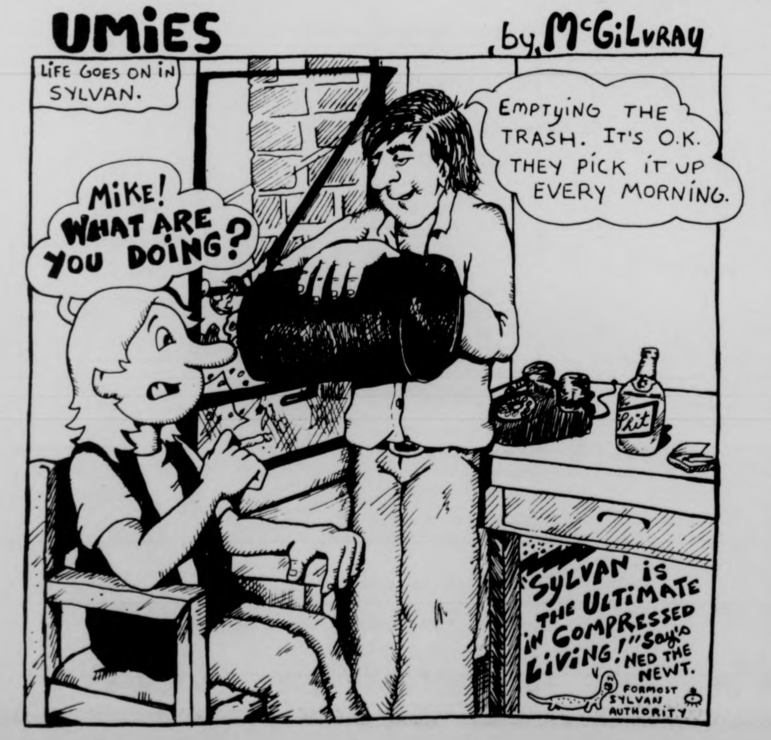
"I suppose you're right," I conceded, "it must be something like the principle of diffusion that we learned in Chemistry; the atoms start bouncing off each other and move from an area of higher concentration to an area of lower concentration." Moey hummed in contemplation but wondered why I had to put it in terms of Chemistry. Well, naturally I had to going to UMass and all. And besides, it was one of the few things that I remembered.

"No, I just can't buy it, I said. "Besides, you didn't do so hot in Chem anyway, did you?" (I never told her I got an A.)

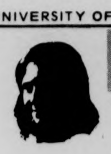
"Karen, I bet I know where they are!" she shrieked.

In five minutes we were down at the Fine Arts Building and proceding to walk up the entrance ramp. I guess they weren't expecting us though because the doors were locked. But, as I said, she was determined. So we walked back down the ramp, and took a left on the CC side of the building to find another entrance which we did, and which I don't think I could tell you how we did it if my sweet mothers life depended on it. In fact, I can't tell you how we found anything, how we entered, how we left, reentered, where we walked, turned etc.

(Continued on P. 11)



UMiES
by McGiLvRAY
LiFE GOES ON iN SYLVAN.
EMPTYiNG THE TRASH. IT'S O.K. THEY PiCK iT UP EVERY MORNiNG.
MiKE! WHAT ARE YOU DOiNG?
Shit
"SYLVAN IS THE ULTiMATE iN COMPRESSED LiViNG!" SAY'S NED THE NEWT.
FORMOST SYLVAN AUTHORITY



Reid Fishman

My Name Is Spiro

Garry: "Hello, my name is Garry Moore, and welcome to, 'To Tell the Truth'. Our first guest tonight is a man who has served as the nation's second highest executive, and I'm sure you'll be interested in hearing his story."

Announcer: "Number one, what is your name?"

No. 1: "My name is Spiro Agnew."

No. 2: "My name is Spiro Agnew."

No. 3: "My name is Spiro Agnew."

Garry: "Well now you've heard all three of our contestants claiming to be Spiro Agnew. And here is his story.

'I, Spiro Theodore Agnew, began my political career in 1957, when I was appointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals of Baltimore County, a position which I held until 1961. In 1962, I ran successfully for County Executive, thus making me the first Republican to hold that office since 1895. In 1966, I ran for Governor of Maryland against a segregationist named George Mahoney, and won that election decisively. During my term as governor, I was known widely as a liberal, but during the Baltimore racial problems of 1968, I turned to being a conservative. Although I had supported Nelson Rockefeller for President in 1968, I altered my position to support Richard Nixon at the 1968 Republican Convention. This enabled me to obtain the Republican Vice Presidential Nomination, and later, become the Vice President of the United States, a position I held until my resignation last week. I have always done my best to work for the good of the nation!

Announcer: Well, there you have it, so let's start the questioning with Kitty Carlisle."

Kitty: "Thank you, Garry. Alright, former vice president number one, I guess the most obvious question to ask would be, why did you resign as vice president?"

No. 1: "Well, I resigned with numerous counts of accepting kickback payments from major contractors, and although I'm not guilty of these charges, I didn't want any dispersions cast on the office of the vice president."

Kitty: "Tell me, number two. Were you acquitted of these charges?"

No. 2: "No, I was not. I pleaded guilty in exchange for a lighter sentence."

Garry: "I'm sorry Kitty, your time is up. Let's move on to Bill Cullen."

Bill: "Yes, number three, were you guilty of these charges?"

No. 3: "No, I was not!"

Bill: "Then I can't understand why you pleaded guilty. Why did you plead guilty, number three?

No. 3: "I pleaded guilty in the interest of expediency. I thought the nation would suffer more if subjected to a lengthy trial of that sort."

Garry: "We're going to have to move on to Peggy Cass. Peggy?"

Peggy: "Gee, I'm awfully confused. Is there any truth to any of the charges, number two?"

No. 2: "No there isn't. Those charges are damned lies!"

Peggy: "Gee, I hope they don't censor that. Tell me number one, if these charges are really what number two just called them, then how did they become so well-known?"

No. 1: "Because of illegal acts by the press to gain information leaks. The press is responsible for my resignation."

Garry: "Time's up Peggy. It's time to move on to Gene Rayburn."

Gene: "Thank you, Garry. Mr. Agnew number one seems to place a great deal of the blame on the press. Number three, what is your opinion of the press?"

No. 3: "I feel that the press, as a group of effete snobs, have continually plotted my downfall and are responsible for the atrocious state of mistrust the country is presently experiencing. Well let me say one thing to the press. They won't have Spiro Agnew to kick around any more!!"

Garry: "Well that about does it. Now we'll ask our panel to cast their votes for either Spiro Agnew number one, number two, or number three. Kitty, what have you decided?

Kitty: "Well frankly, I'm stumped. They all seem to be such good actors, but I voted for number three."

Garry: "Bill Cullen, what have you decided?"

Bill: "Honestly, I think they're all lying, but because of number two's insistence that the charges were false, I voted for him."

Garry: "Alright, Peggy, tell us how you voted."

Peggy: "Gee, I'm still confused, but number two looks like a vice president, so I voted for him."

Garry: "Well, it comes down to Gene Rayburn, Gene, how did you vote?"

Gene: "Well Garry, I think they all could fool almost anybody, but number one seemed a little nervous on that question about the press, so I voted for him."

Garry: "Alright, the panel seems to be pretty well confused, as we have one vote for number one, two for number two, and one vote for number three. So without further adieu, will the real Spiro Theodore Agnew please stand up?!"

Reid Fishman is a Collegian columnist.

Studying Distractions

By BOB ROSSMAN

In search for some inspiration for my next column, I realize that this search, in itself, is the inspiration. Confusing? Should be. Well, as I write this it is 4:00 a.m. I guess that still doesn't explain what that has to do with the price of eggs. Actually, I told my friends that I was going to pull an all-nighter tonight to catch up on all the studying I haven't done yet this semester. This article is just a distraction, not the first of the night (and hopefully not the last), but nonetheless a very welcome one.

This all brings me back to the point of this article-the importance of distractions to studying. They needn't be that important or monumental, or even as time consuming as writing and typing an article for the Collegian, but they must be there for the sake of your sanity. For most people little ones will suffice, like telephone calls, friends walking past your door and saying hello, or even getting up to go to the bathroom. However, there are people, like myself, for whom these are just not enough.

People who put off all their studying until just before midterms and finals don't always do so on purpose. Everyone knows that weekends are not made for studying. After all, after a hard week of going to some classes, and avoiding doing homework every night, you gotta have a couple of days to relax and-or do what you want.

And those every nights-well, that's hard work, too. I couldn't begin to count all those times that I told my friends that I thought that that would be the night when I'd finally crack the ol' books, only to find something much better to do. Something better can be anything from seeing that movie that I've been waiting to see for so long, to a mean game of whist (which usually turns into six or seven games), to finding a pinball machine that's hungry for my money only.

Finally midterms come and there's no more putting it off. Personally, this week I have five exams and four papers to write. Having not opened a book yet this semester, I figured tonight's the night to start. I have started, but the distractions on this night of nights have greatly outnumbered the accomplishments.

A list:

1. A game of frisbee in the corridor.
2. Three phone calls (one made, two received).
3. Having a bite to eat (half a lemon cream pie).
4. Listening to a friend's problems with her boyfriend.
5. Constant peeking to find out what the score of the football game was.
6. Bullshitting with friends.
7. A nightcap with some friends.
8. Writing a column for the Collegian.

The only reason that I pull all-nighters is that people don't believe that I study, and since I have an image to keep up, I do it when nobody's around. The sight of me wielding a textbook might play hard on my friends that have weak hearts. I usually like to keep up the status quo, and those who read this article will know that they were right all along.

Bob Rossman is a Collegian commentator.

Editorial Points

Did you notice that huge rainbow in the sky yesterday afternoon? Reliable sources indicate that Spiro Agnew was seen running around campus, asking directions to the end of the rainbow.

*****

In an unrelated incident, a young girl was spotted running around campus asking directions to Kansas.

Meanwhile, 18,000 UMies were overheard chanting, "There's no place like home, there's no place like home..."

*****

A statement was released simultaneously in San Clemente denying the rainbow's existence, and denying rumors that the little dog running around campus was named Checkers.

Letters To The Editor

Almy's: Setting The Record Straight

To The Editor:

A letter which appeared in last Wednesday's Collegian concerning itself with the "arrogant employment practices" of Almy's department store in Hadley. The arguments offered contained glaring inaccuracies, and while I do not for a minute deny anyone the right to express his or her discontentment with any issue, I also feel that a responsibility to base such arguments on facts should be assumed by all. In the interest of accurate presentation of facts, I will take this opportunity to set the record straight.

It was stated in the letter in question, that "on Sat., Sept. 29, approximately 40 low level employees were laid off." In truth, however, 17 employees were laid off; 12 part time, and 5 full time. It was also asked in the letter, "why then were new sales personnel being hireddurring the previous two weeks?" The facts are that two people were hired during this period, one being an assistant manager trainee, the other a full time worker. It was also stated in the letter that "full time employees are eligible for a raise...when they have been with the store for three months." This is also an untruth, as raises have nothing to do with time employed, but are based on performance. Cost of living raises are granted when warranted. A further allegation was "the store has to chip in a few bucks a week towards a medical insurance program, give the employees a couple of paid holidays." In fact, however, the Blue Cross-Blue Shield plan is fully paid for single coverage; this runs over $20 per person, per month, and over $50 per month, family coverage. Also, nine holidays each year are fully paid by Almy's.

It was also stated that "from management's point of view it is better to keep turning over the lowest level of help..." Now it shouldn't be too hard to realize that few people in business adhere to such a policy, and Almy's is not one of them. The simple fact is that it does take "more than two hours" to train help. A store's greatest asset is experience, however more than just time in service is required on any job to remain employed.

Concerning a contract with dentists, Almy's has in fact a contract with Boston based Community Dentists and Opticians for a 20 percent discount for employees. This service does not extend to the Hadley store because of its distance from the Boston area. Management as well as employees are exempt from this service in Hadley.

Concerning the ten percent discount afforded other colleges in the area but not UMass, this is the biggest irony of all. This service was set up by Welcome Wagon; and six merchants from the area agree to offer a discount to a particular college, for a substantial fee. UMass is not included in this as yet, because Welcome Wagon has not found six merchants in the area willing to grant new freshmen students a 10 percent discount, on the first purchase. Almy's, however, agreed to join this plan for UMass, and the only thing holding the service back is the need for three more merchants in the area to join the plan. So your attention should be directed not at Almy's, but at the three merchants in the area who are supporting the discount plan for the other colleges, but who refuse to support it for UMass. Another clear case of not having the facts straight, and barking up the wrong tree.

I hope it's apparent to you by now, just what is happening here. It seems to be the desire of some people to avenge personal disputes, regardless of their validity, by distorting facts and painting a picture sufficiently enticing as to draw support from students. It is not only wrong to suggest that students at UMass will jump onto a cause simply because one has disregarded facts in shaping an argument, but it is also insulting. I am convinced that both sides of the story are necessary to and desirable for the correct consideration of such an issue.

I am writing this letter in that light, and I sincerely hope it will be read in that light. I am also writing this because people who have treated me fairly in the past, deserve to be treated fairly now, especially in print. There is no personal gain involved, as they who know me can testify. What it all comes down to is the truth. That's what we should be driving at, and we should demand nothing less. We must apply the same standards that we insist on from others, to ourselves.

Gerry Cataldo

In All Fairness

To The Editor:

In a recent letter to the Editor concerning "Arrogant Employment Practices" Almys Department Store was singled out as discriminating between Mount Holyoke, Smith and Amherst students and UMass students. In all fairness I would like to correct the impression that students from the colleges get better treatment than UMass students.

At the time of student registration this fall local businessmen welcomed the new students to the area through Welcome Wagon International. As the size of the incoming freshman group at UMass is in the neighborhood of 3000-4000 students I am sorry it was not feasible for the local Welcome Wagon organization to handle such a large number. As a matter of fact Almys asked us to include the university but I regretfully had to decline. This was a pilot program and we hope to be able to cover all institutions in the area next year.

Kerstin Liander
Area Supervisor
Welcome Wagon International

Stressing Symmetry

To The Editor:

I wish to express my gratefulness for the publication of my letter in the Collegian (October 16, 1973). Unfortunately, a full sentence, which I consider rather important, was inexplicably suppressed. I would be glad if you could print the missing sentence, together with the following explanation of why I consider it important.

After quoting an excerpt of a statement prepared by a political group, to which I belong, for the next general elections in Israel, I commented on it, saying that "unfortunately, statements like this have been ignored, both by the international press, and by Arab public opinion". I also added-and this is the sentence which was suppressed: "To my knowledge, nothing of this kind--namely, a statement stressing the symmetry, rather than the asymmetry in the rights of Israelis and Palestinians--has been put forward by any Arab political group". The importance of this remark is twofold. On the one hand, it indicates that, at best, only a few, isolated individuals in the Arab world are willing-like Mr. Khouri-to recognize, or even discuss, the legitimate right of the Israelis to independence, sovereignity and security. When a "peace-conference", organized by radicals and leftists in Europe, was convened in Bologna, early this year, the Arab delegates refused to sit together with those Israelis who did not want to subscribe to their total denial of Israel's right to exist. It must be realized that symmetry is essential for the achievement of peace. I recognize and support the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination, but I want them to recognize the same right to the people of Israel.

The remark is also important in order to understand why only a relatively small part of the public opinion in Israel supports the views I put forward. For, the standard argument of those who oppose such views is to point out that nobody on the Arab side is willing to talk, negotiate, and consider seriously even very moderate proposals like ours. The only means I can see now-especially in view of the present war-for opening an alternative for peace (and strengthening the position of those in Israel who are ready to make large concessions in exchange for peace) is the growth and manifestation of a strong and responsible current of opinion in the Arab world accepting and defending Israel's right to existence, along the lines of Mr. Khouri's letter. This means, of course, a very long and complex process. But nothing else, except perhaps a clear and unambiguous commitment by the Arab governments to the existence, independence, and security of Israel, coupled with reliable safeguards, could shortcircuit that long process. Since, in all likelyhood, such a commitment is not forthcoming, let us try, together, to take the first steps on the long and difficult path to peace.

Marcel Dascal

Living In Fine Arts

(Continued from P. 10)

It's as if the whole adventure has been repressed into the depths of my unconscious. All Moey would tell me was that she was sure that the one-time residents of the CC Hotel had been transported probably in the dark of the night to somewhere in the Fine Arts Bldg. One of the few things that we can remember is that there are two auditoriums, one in green and the other in rust that you simply won't believe. Theformer has a series of four or five suspended balconies. We climbed to the highest one, I casting my acrophobic tendencies to the wind and the two of us had a collective hemmorhage. But none of what we saw amazed us more than what we discovered when we got lost down in the basement.

Needless to say, the measures which we had undertaken to prevent that from happening failed. A trail of cement chips don't stand out too well beside other chips of cement. So there we were, lost in a room in the cellar or maybe it was a bathroom because we had seen sinks lying around outside before we'd entered. Then again, there were a few doors in and out, so what kind of a bathroom could that have been? (I'll leave that for you to ponder.) Suddenly, a rather nice-looking young man opened one of the doors for us. We were relieved until he asked for the password.

"Oh come on. Give us a hint," I pressed. I was beginning to think that we'd stumbled into a prostitution ring and I didn't know what Moey was thinking. He begrudgingly agreed to give us a hint.

"Frankie ...... It has to do with the old Jackie Gleason show."

"I know," I said, "the password's 'Fontaine'."

"Right you are," he said, and allowed us to enter inside. My chemistry was a little off this time I guess. Sometimes an area of higher concentration can just move to an area of higher concentration. So Moey was right for once. We know that they were the CC bunch because there were a few color TV sets lying around, and all kinds of CC towels, glasses, a couple of chambermaids, etc.

It's pretty nice down there. I talked to one woman who said that they'd all gotten out of having meal tickets. Instead, the University has Bell's deliver to them every day. Not too tough to take. They can come and go as they please provided they give the construction crew the password and carry a small scrap of green carpet for identification purposes. It seems acedemis has already arrived at the Fine Arts. The Orchard Hill course in Human Sexuality has been moved from HoJo's to the basement of the FAB and there is tale of starting a colloquium called "cement in the Seventies". Moey and I spent a very pleasant afternoon with them all and we really hated to go.

I think of them often now but especially at around 11:00 on nights when some of the Hill people turn into animals and prevent me from entering the world of the Sandperson. The basement of the Fine Arts is a nice place to visit and I wouldn't mind living there either. I wonder if Housing would grant a request to move in?

Karen A. Monaco is a Collegian commentator.

A Pat On The Back

To The Editor:

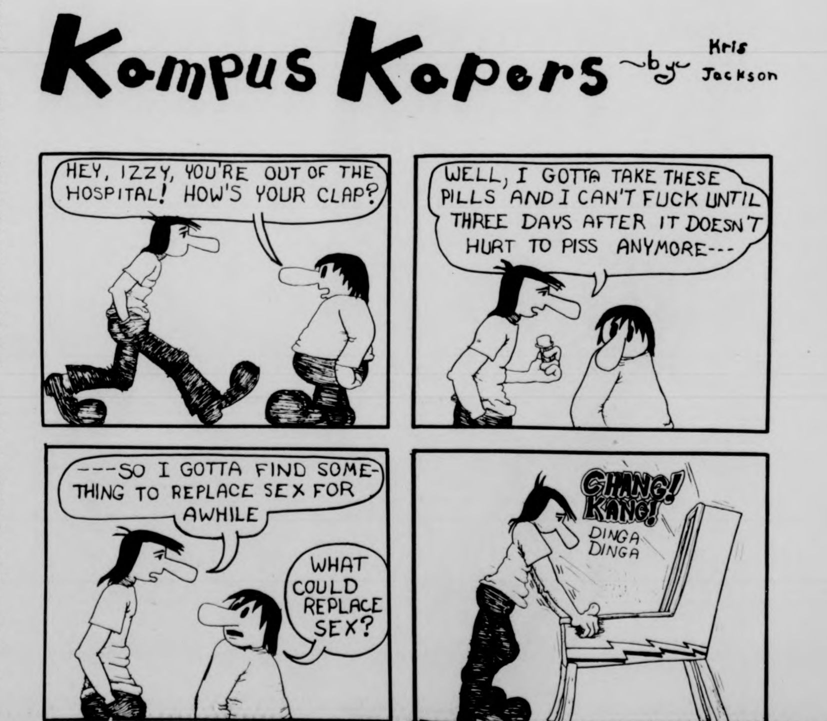
An article concerning the proposed recommendations of the Faculty Senate Campus Committee on Communication Skills appeared in the Daily Collegian of 12 October under the by-line of Steve Tetreault. I congratulate the Daily Collegian and Mr. Tetreault on the accuracy with which he reported his interview with me and on the excellence of his summary of the rough draft of the propsed recommendations.

The purpose of making such a preliminary rough draft public was to elicit maximum input from all people concerned about Rhetoric before the final recommendations are submitted to the Faculty Senate. All members of the Committee on Communication Skillls are prepared to accept suggestions for the development of a Rhetoric Program designed to meet the present and future needs of the students of this university.

For the name of your representative on the committee, please contact Mr. Nicholas Apostola or Mr. Marshal Spriggs at 5-0341 in the Student Government Association.

Again let me congratulate the Collegian for its service to the university community in reporting the proposed modifications in the Rhetoric Program which are intended to be in response to the general student and faculty requests of last fall.

John A. Muller
Chairman, CCCS



Kampus Kapers ~by~ Kris Jackson
HEY, IZZY, YOU'RE OUT OF THE HOSPITAL! HOW'S YOUR CLAP?
WELL, I GOTTA TAKE THESE PILLS AND I CAN'T FUCK UNTIL THREE DAYS AFTER IT DOESN'T HURT TO PISS ANYMORE---
---SO I GOTTA FIND SOMETHING TO REPLACE SEX FOR AWHILE
WHAT COULD REPLACE SEX?
CHANG! KANG!
DINGA DINGA

Nixon Declares Chelsea A "Disaster Area"

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) - This fire-ravaged industrial city was declared a federal disaster area Tuesday by President Nixon.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., who announced the action from his Washington office, said the declaration makes the city eligible for federal aid to help it recover from a wind-driven conflagration Sunday that destroyed 401 buildings over a 30-block industrial and residential area.

Brooke said he would meet Wednesday with federal, state and city official "to discuss the prompt implementation of disaster assistance to the city."

"Our most immediate need is for temporary housing for those made homeless by the fire," Brooke said. "Mobile homes are now being readied for dispatch to Chelsea."

Gov. Francis W. Sargent, in a statement issued at the State House, said federal action will allow a start in the task of rebuilding the community.

He said state agencies already have begun relief operations for people whose homes and jobs were wiped out, providing emergency shelter and food.

He said the Department and Housing and Urban Development would work first on housing, placing the homeless in public housing if necessary for a year and as a last resort employ mobile homes. In some cases the agency would make mortgage payments for one year.

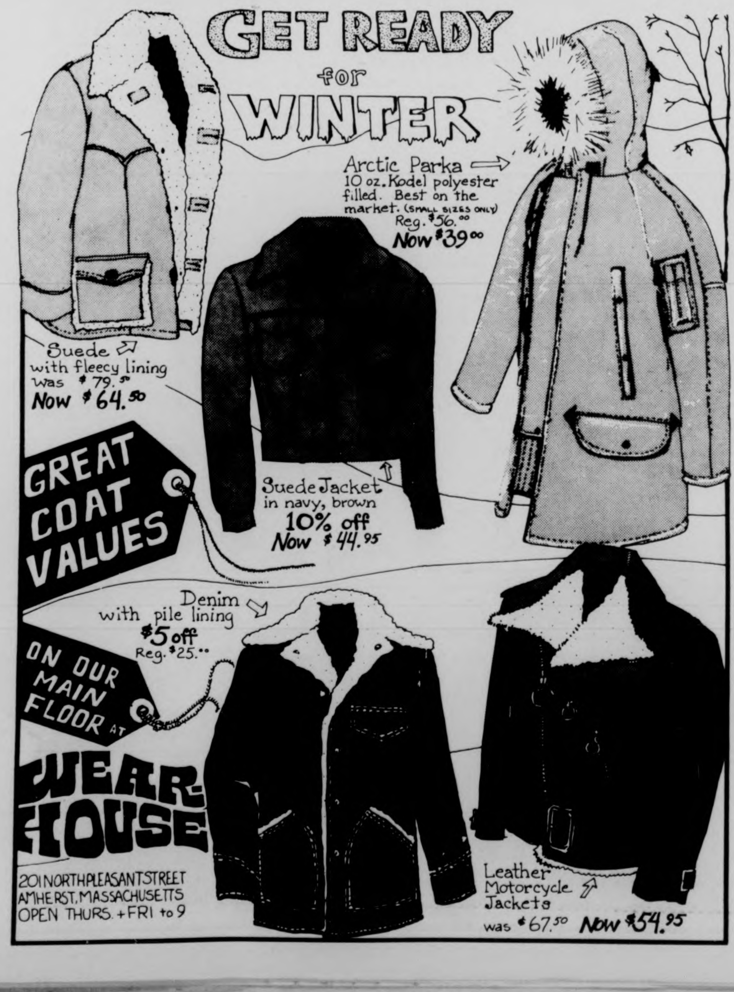
HUD also is mandated to repair damaged schools, and other municipally owned buildings and facilities, and the federal government will reimburse the city and the state for expenses of fighting the fire. More than 1,500 firemen fought the blaze, many of them from other cities and towns.

The Veterans Administration is to aid veterans who have mortgages but who lost their homes.

The Small Business Administration will arrange loans on liberal terms for small businesses and property owners whose losses were not covered by insurance will get income tax credits for those losses.

(AP Wirephoto)

As the fire raged on in Chelsea. The area under fire was declared a disaster area and is up for federal funding to rebuild the scarred section of the city.



GET READY for WINTER

Arctic Parka
10 oz. Kodel polyester filled. Best on the market. (SMALL SIZES ONLY)
Reg. $56.00
Now $39.00

Suede with fleecy lining was $79.50
Now $64.50

GREAT COAT VALUES

Suede Jacket in navy, brown
10% off
Now $44.95

Denim
with pile lining
$5 off
Reg. $25.00

ON OUR MAIN FLOOR AT

WEAR-HOUSE

201 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
OPEN THURS. + FRI to 9

Leather Motorcycle Jackets was $67.50 Now $54.95

CALCULATORS 20 models to choose from

Most Available For Immediate Delivery!!

MODELS IN STOCK:

COMMODORE:
MM-3
MM-3R
MM-3MR
MM-2
MM-25R

BOWMAR:
MX-40
Texas Inst.
2500
SR-10

Gordon Hoffstein
549-0187
Low, Low Prices

"MICH NIGHT" TONIGHT

Michelob Goblet 40¢
after 9 p.m.
at
THE CHEQUERS

DON'T MISS DON'T MISS

"FREE" Juke Box 9 p.m. until 1 a.m.
hot hor d'oeuvres after 11:00 p.m.

the
HATCH COFFEEHOUSE brings you fine entertainment
every wednesday night
this week featuring John Lennon
+ Cha Cha,
Mike Frank and many others with "HENRI" as MC 9pm-1am hatch cafeteria FREE!

(Staff Photo - David Less)

Ronald McDonald was among the guests at the North Adams Fall Foliage parade on Sunday. Fortunately, he was clean.

Getting Screwed? Here's Help!

Getting screwed? Whether you've been at UMass for 4 weeks or 4 years there's bound to be a time when you think you're not getting a fair deal, goin through unnecessary red tape, or you just don't know who to turn to or what steps to take next. There is help, and it's closer than you think (and probably easier, too).

The answer to your problem may be the Ombudsman's office. Who, what, where is an Ombudsman many of you are asking. It's amazing how many people at UMass either don't know about the Ombudsman's office or don't understand what it's there for.

The office is located in room 919 of the Campus Center. The present Ombudsman is Jay Savereid and his assistant is Phyllis Foster. They are there to help any person (this includes undergrads, grads, faculty, staff, special students, alumni, visitors, and even your mother and father) with questions and problems concerning the University system. Problems the office deals with range from Tenure Grievances to financial aid difficulties, from teacher-student hassles to housing problems. The Ombudsman's office also provides information, answers questions, and can refer you to the proper office or person, and therefore, save you a lot of running around.

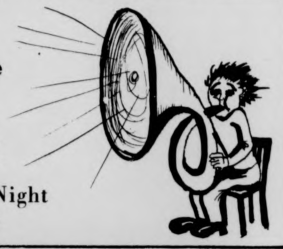
The Ombudsman's office is not there to take the place of other offices or people you should deal with. But once you have taken appropriate steps toward solving your problem and you still find channels clogged, the Ombudsman's office is the next step you should take.

The Ombudsman's office does not promise 100 per cent satisfaction for all cases. But if your gripe is legitimate, there's no reason to go on complaining or feeling unsatisfied.

You can often see someone in the office on a walk-in basis, but it is wiser to call and make an appointment. Now, there is a second alternative also. The Collegian will run as a regular feature from the Ombudsman's office a column called "What's the Story?"

The column will help serve people who don't have the time to come to the office or people who have problems they think the rest of the University community might be interested in or should know about. "What's the Story?" will continue as long as it's supplied with questions.

Questions can be dropped off at the "What's the Story?" box in front of the Campus Center store, sent through the campus mail to Box 6 Campus Center, or brought to the Ombudsman's office.



HATCH
Coffeehouse
ANYONE can play!
Every Wednesday Night
Call 253-2833

DOMINO'S PIZZA
this Friday

Guest Lecturers To Appear

The public is invited to talks by two guest lecturers at the UMass department of hotel, restaurant and travel administration.

The lectures are for Dr. Robert Lundy's introductory course in hotel, travel and resort administration. Monday, Oct. 15, President Peter K. Dallo of Tour Services, Inc., will speak on "The Role of a Tour Operator in the Travel Industry." Wednesday, Oct. 17, Sturbridge Vice-President John E. Auchmoody will talk on "Operations and Plans for the Old Sturbridge Village Complex."

The lectures on both days will be at 8 a.m. in Goessmann Auditorium, 11:15 a.m. in Flint 204 and 2:30 p.m. in Chenoweth 227.

SKI THE ALPS

AUSTRIA • FRANCE
$269
1-week, per person, double, from New York or Nassau. Add $98 from Chicago. Singles add $11.

Features round-trip jet to Luxembourg, RT bus to Kitzbuhel, 2 meals daily, double room in chalet, Dec. 14 and weekly in Jan. Add $10 Feb. and March. Also, 1-week ski tours to Chamonix and 2 weeks to Kitzbuhel or Chamonix. Lowest-cost ski tours to Europe of any scheduled airline.

$250 Car or Rail Tour*
One week, per person, double, features round-trip jet from New York to Luxembourg and car with unlimited mileage—or $260* unlimited rail travel in 13 European countries for singles. Add $98 from Chicago. Offered Nov. thru March.

SEE YOUR TRAVEL AGENT
All prices subject to change.

To: ICELANDIC AIRLINES
(212) 757-8585
630 Fifth Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10020
Outside N.Y. State: Toll Free
(800) 221-9760

Send folder CN on tours to Europe from N.Y. ☐, from Chicago ☐, from Miami/Nassau ☐.

Name
Street
City
State Zip
My Travel Agent is

ICELANDIC
3056

YOUR MONEY'S WELL SPENT AT Archer Kent

Archer Kent

191 North Pleasant St.
AMHERST

OPEN SUNDAYS!

We reserve the right to limit quantities.
Prices Effective thru October 21, 1973

DISCOUNT HEALTH & BEAUTY AIDS

Mfr. 85c
VASELINE
Intensive Care Lotion
44c
6 oz.

Mfr. $1.79
DIAL
Anti-Perspirant
- Regular
- Unscented
- Powdered
79c
9 oz.

Mfr. $1.65
NYQUIL
Nightime colds Medicine
6 oz. 88c

Mfr. 98c
PERTUSSIN
Wild Berry
3 oz. 48c

Mfr. 90c
EXCEDRIN
36 Tablets
55c

Mfr. 89c
LAVORIS
Mouthwash
49c
7 oz.

Mfr. $1.09
PEPSODENT
TOOTHPASTE
51c
7 oz.

Archer Kent
Mfr. $1.25
TAME
Creme Rinse
77c
- Regular
- With Body
- Lemon
Coupon

$1.29 Binaca Spray one third oz. 77c
$1.15 Bright Side Shampoo 6 oz. 66c
$1.08 Q-Tips box of 170 49c
$1.00 Wilkinson Bond 5 blades 2/99c
79c Cashmere Talc 6½ oz. 49c

PLAYTEX
Deodorant Tampons
Special Trial Price
29c box of 8

Mfr. 93c
SUCRETS
Lozenges
53c
24 Lozenges

WE DISCOUNT OVER 3000 ITEMS EVERY DAY

Amherst Plans United Nations Day Celebration

The United Nations came into being on October 24, 1945, a date observed each year as United Nations Day. On that day, the charter of the United Nations drawn up in the last days of the Second World War, entered into force.

The Organization's anniversary "should be an occasion for Governments and peoples to reaffirm their faith in the purposes and principles of the charter," the General Assembly has stated. The Assembly declared that United Nations Day "shall be an international holiday" and recommended that it be observed as a public holiday by all Member States.

Amherst will celebrate UN Day on the evening of October 23, 1973 at 8:00 P.M. in the Red Room of Converse Hall, Amherst College. The senior Political Officer in the Political Affairs Division of the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs, Dr. Claire DeHedervary will speak on World Peace Through the United Nations.

Dr. DeHedervary is a native of Belgium and has been with the UN since 1948. Conversant in six languages, she holds a Ph.D. in Economics from Harvard, and has done extensive study in economics and political science in France and at Columbia University. She has served with the Department of Political and Security Council Affairs since 1958.

Speaking on the U.N. role of maintaining world peace, Secretary-General Waldheim has observed "It is perfectly true that some of the assumptions on which the United Nations was based have proved unfounded and that many of the hopes that were entertained at its birth have been disappointed". Yet the focus and the attempts of the U.N. are of paramount importance in our search for a peaceful world.

Secreatry of State Henry Kissinger in his speech to the U.N. General Assembly this past September stated the following:

"We strive for a world in which rule of law governs and fundamental rights are the birthright of all. Beyond the bilateral diplomacy, the pragmatic agreements and dramatic steps of recent years, we envisage a comprehensive institutionalized peace encompassing all nations, large and small - a peace which this organization is uniquely situated to foster and to anchor in the heart of men.

The United Nations day celebration is sponsored by the Amherst Baha'i Community, The League of Women Voters and the Amherst United Nations Association.

"MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley"

BIG DOLLAR DAYS SAVINGS!
all this week at Finast!

Finast Rain Check Policy
If an advertised special is ever sold out please ask the manager for a rain check. It entitles you to the same item at the same price the following week. Or if you wish we will gladly give you a comparable item at the same low price. Thank You.

Finast
FIRST NATIONAL STORES

Double Your Money-Back Meat Guarantee
Finast meats can't be beat ... and we are so sure we can please you we offer to give you double your money back on any meat you purchase, if you are not completely satisfied. (Just return the unused portion along with the package label and register tape).

Finast Fruit Drinks — All Your Favorite Flavors — 4 46 oz cans $1
Viva Paper Towels — White Decorator Assorted — 3 126 ct rolls $1
Scotties Facial Tissue — White or Calypso — With Coupon Below — 4 pkgs 200 $1
Green Giant Niblets Corn — Whole Kernel Vacuum Pack — 5 12 oz cans $1
Fruit & Honey Halves or Sliced Peaches or Fruit Cocktail — Mix or Match — 3 16 oz cans $1
Downy Fabric Softener — With Coupon Below — For Softer Whiter Fresher Clothes — half gallon plas ctn $1

Bartlett Pears — Lunch Box Favorite — Juicy Idea for the Lunch Box ... Excellent For Cooking and Canning, Too! — 3 lbs $1
First o' the Fresh
Washed Potatoes US #1 10 lb bag 89¢
Jumbo Celery Crunchy Good 3 bchs $1
Tangelos Tangerine & Grapefruit in One 15 for $1
Egg Plant Plain, Fried or Parmigiana lb 29¢
Cranberries Sauce Good with Meat or Poultry 1 lb pkg 39¢
Yellow Turnips Boil, Mash, Cheese and Bake lb 12¢

Family Circle Illustrated Library of Cooking — A delightful offer to you VOLUME I for only 29¢ — Volume 2 thru 16 $1.69 each

In Store Bake Shop!
Freshly Baked 25 oz Pumpkin Pies 79¢
Raisin Bread 14 oz pkg 49¢
In Stores with Bake Shop Only

Mr. Deli Specials!
Boiled Ham Domestic Freshly Sliced To Order half lb 99¢
All White Meat quarter lb Turkey Roll Tender Tasty 55¢
German Bologna Handschumacher half lb 75¢
Jarlsberg Cheese Norwegian half lb 79¢
White Bread Mr. Deli Fresh 2 1 lb lvs 59¢
Available in Stores with Service Deli

Chuck Steaks or Roasts TV Special Center Cut USDA Choice Bone In Tender Flavorful 79¢ lb
Quarter Loin Pork Chops Each Package Contains An Equal Amount of Sirloin Hip & Center Cut Chops 99¢ lb
Calif Roasts USDA Choice Semi Boneless Chuck Tender Juicy Flavorful 99¢ lb
Pork Chops OUR BEST CENTER CUT $1.29 lb
London Broil USDA Choice Boneless Shoulder $1.39 lb
Country Style Pork Ribs 99¢ lb
Boneless Loin Pork Roast $1.29 lb

USDA Choice 1st Cut USDA Choice Chuck Steaks Tender Bone In 69¢ lb

Frozen Food Favorites
Tropicana Orange Juice Florida Frozen Concentrate 3 12 oz cans $1
Pepperidge Farm Pie Tarts 4 5 oz pkgs $1
Taterlan Hash Browns 3 32 oz pkgs $1
Birds Eye Thick n' Frosty 4 20 oz ctns $1
Finast Spinach Leaf or Chopped 6 10 oz pkgs $1
Chopped Broccoli Farlane 5 10 oz pkgs $1
Finast Creem Rite 3 32 oz ctns 89¢

Fresh American Lamb Sale!
Loin Lamb Chops $1.89 lb
Rib Lamb Chops $1.59 lb
Shoulder Chops $1.29 lb
Lamb Combo For Stew or Chops 79¢ lb

Fresh Chicken Parts Sale!
Chicken Legs 69¢ lb
Chicken Drumsticks 75¢ lb
Chicken Breasts 89¢ lb
Chicken Thighs 69¢ lb

Oven Ready Lamb Legs Enjoy the Flavor of Tender Juicy Young Lamb 99¢ lb

FreshEggs Large Brown Any Brand Grade A one dozen 69¢

Fresh Eggs Large Brown Any Brand Grade A one dozen 69¢ With This Coupon and $5 Purchase Limit One Coupon Valid thru Oct 20 Finast

Health & Beauty Aids!
Mfg List 1.69 - Normal, Dry, Oily Breck Shampoo 11 oz btl $1
MFG LIST 1.69 Romilar III Cough Syrup 3 oz btl $1
Regular Super Modess Sanitary Napkins pkg 40 99¢
MFG LIST 1.75 Bufferin 100's btl 100 1.09
MFG LIST 1.05 Ammens Powder Medicated 6¼ oz ctn 79¢
MFG LIST 1.13 Close-up Toothpaste 6¼ oz tube 79¢

SAVE 30¢ WITH THIS COUPON
Land O' Lakes Butter With This Coupon 1 lb pkg 79¢ and a Purchase of $5 or More Limit One Coupon per Customer Valid thru Sat., Oct 20 Finast

10¢ off WITH THIS COUPON Toward purchase of one 32 oz jar Vlasic Kosher Dills MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast
8¢ off WITH THIS COUPON Toward purchase of one 23 oz pkg Duncan Hines Family Brownie Mix MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast
10¢ off WITH THIS COUPON Toward purchase of one 1 lb pkg Imperial Margarine Soft MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast
50¢ off WITH THIS COUPON Toward purchase of one 8 oz jar Maxim Freeze Dried Coffee MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast
Downy Fabric Softener With This Coupon one half gal jug $1 MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast
Scotties Facial Tissue With This Coupon 4 pkgs 200 $1 MFG Valid thru Oct 20 Finast

"MOUNTAIN FARMS MALL - Hadley"
We Reserve the Right to Limit Quantities

Jackie Kennedy Talks

NEW YORK (AP) - Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis says that had President John F. Kennedy lived "he would be older now, and wiser, and he would still maintain his deep belief that problems can be solved by men."

"And so they must be," she added in an essay in November McCall's marking the 10th anniversary of her first husband's assassination.

Before sending the magazine the finished essay in handwritten form, Mrs. Onassis confided to a friend that writing "is hard but Caroline is trying to help me-which is so touching."

Mrs. Onassis wrote that she does not dwell on the tragedy of Dallas, because "one must not let oneself be numbed by sadness-he would not have wished that."

"What I think about the last decade is how much we missed him in it," Mrs. Onassis went on. "I think of Jack-the bright light of his days...

"When he came to the presidency, it was a time when the world seemed new-when it was right to hope and hopes could be realized...Then the glass shattered.

"I don't know how he would have coped with the problems that lay there like sleeping beasts, but I know he would have approached them...

"He would say over and over that the Greek word for idiot meant one who took no part in the affairs of his state...One of his earliest themes was the importance of service.

"God grant us always young people who feel that way. That is my prayer."

Nielsen Releases TV Ratings

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS' "All in the Family" series was the nation's most widely watched evening TV show for the second consecutive week in a row, according to A.C. Nielsen ratings made public yesterday.

The ratings for Oct. 1-7, the fourth week of the new TV season, showed CBS' "Hawkins," a new once-a-month series with Jimmy Stewart, ranked as among the nation's 20 most popular programs.

The "Hawkins" ranking, in 19th place, marked the first time in the new season that any new series has been rated as among the top 20.

CBS dominated the list with 12 programs.

The week's second most popular new series was NBC's "Love Story," which the ratings put in 22nd place. It was followed by two other NBC series - "The Magician" and "Police Story," which tied for 26th place in the week's national ratings.

CBS' new "Calucci's Dept." came in last of all shows rated.

The top 20 programs, in order of their ranking on the latest Nielsen list, were: "All in the Family" CBS; "Sanford and Son" NBC; "The Waltons," "Hawaii Five-O, "Maude" and "M.A.S.H" all CBS; "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie;" "World of Disney" NBC and "ABC Sunday Movie" tied for eighth place; "Mary Tyler Moore" CBS and "NBC Monday Movie."

The other winners were: "Adam-12" NBC; "Gunsmoke" CBS; "NBC Saturday Movie;" "Bob Newhart" CBS; "The Rookies" ABC; "CBS Friday Movie;" "Sonny and Cher" and "Hawkins" both CBS, and "Flip Wilson" NBC, which tied with CBS' "Cannon."

Sargent Plans Foreign Student Reception

On United Nations Day, October 24, Governor Francis Sargent will host a reception for foreign students at the Statehouse in Boston. The yearly event, designated "International Students' Day", represents the culmination of United Nations Week activities and brings together international students from all parts of Massachusetts.

This year's program will feature an address by Governor Sargent, a panel discussion on "Problems of International Fisheries", entertainment and opportunities for social interaction. Lunch will be provided for all participants.

According to Mr. Burt Skiverski, aide to Governor Sargent, the event is designed "to give the foreign students a chance to meet with their fellows from other colleges in Massachusetts and to provide the opportunity for them to observe the processes of the Commonwealth's Government."

Interested students should contact the Foreign Student Office, Whitmore 239, for further information. Funds for travel reimbursement are available and if sufficient interest is expressed a bus may be chartered for the event.

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Oct. 16, 17, 18
Prime Rib
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95 Special

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

For a time in the United States, there were more persons born under Aquarius than any other zodiacal sign. After that, there was a reversal and fewer Aquarians were born when compared to births under the other signs. Now, according to figures by the Census Bureau, the leading sign where births are concerned is Leo. More persons in the United States are born from July 23 to Aug. 22 than at any other time of the year.

+++

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Face responsibilities. One who seems evasive will succumb if you apply pressure in mature, legal manner. You have more on your side than might be apparent. Sagittarius, Gemini individuals could figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Study Aries message for helpful hint. Strive for facts, not wishful thinking. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio persons are likely to be in picture. Relatives may appear heavy handed. Do what you have to do, one step at a time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Some ideas can be transformed into money-making procedures. Young person may be rebellious. Key is to be analytical. Don't rush, force or jump to conclusions. What appears to be out of hand is merely a temporary situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Home atmosphere commands attention. Family member should be approached in diplomatic manner. Obtain hint from Gemini message. You have more responsibility but you can handle it. Older person acts in surprising manner.

LEO (July 23- Aug. 22): If you take situations, individuals for granted, you could be in for rude awakening. Do your own checking. Applies especially where legal affairs are concerned. One behind the scenes is sitting on the fence. You have some persuading to do.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Momentum is on your side. Means follow through--don't be delayed by doubts, fears, suspicions. Capricorn, Cancer persons play roles. Accent is on ways to fulfill special desires. Position is strong. Money picture will change--in your favor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): One who pulls strings may be wary of you. You tend now to project argumentative or revolutionary image. Be moderate in explaining views. You soon will be rid of burden. Know it and avoid panic. Aries could play significant role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Special study brings benefits. Bring creative abilities into play. Highlight originality. Stimulate learning process. Broaden horizons. Check messages. Long-distance communications may be garbled. Know it and carefully examine meanings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You are able to discover best ways of enhancing security, emotional and otherwise. Accent is on clarification of puzzle. One close to you can provide light as well as heat. Be receptive. Share knowledge--and feelings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If discreet, you gain. Otherwise, you could become entangled in situation which is costly, embarrassing. Permit others, including partner, mate, to fully express themselves. You can listen and learn. Study Sagittarius message.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Maintain steady pace. Avoid sensationalism. One who works with you expresses uncertainty. Strive to respond in mature, humane manner. Overbearing attitude will create unnecessary friction. Remember diet, health resolutions.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What seemed certain may be blocked by red tape, legal and otherwise. Be perceptive. If aware of subtle nuances, you find that adversity fades. Gemini, Virgo individuals could figure prominently. Question of change should be answered affirmatively.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Scandinavian 5 Bundle
9 Hit lightly
12 Seed coating
13 Among
14 Man's name
15 Soaks in a liquid
17 Printer's measure
18 Scold
19 War god
21 Part of leg
23 Occupied chair of authority
27 Man's nickname
28 Evaluated
29 Intellect
31 Recede
34 Conjunction 35 Lair
37 Soft food
39 Prefix meaning "good"
40 A month (abbr.)
42 Distress signal
44 Theater boxes
46 A state (abbr.)
48 Rashness
50 Collision
53 Temporary shelter
54 Goal
55 Latin conjunction 57 Cooked slowly
61 Knock
62 Country of Asia
64 American ostrich
65 Worm
66 Indefinite number
67 Traded for money

DOWN

1 Spanish plural article
2 Skill
3 Baker's product
4 Gratified
5 Founded
6 Part of "to be"
7 Falsehood
8 Girl's name
9 Sound of bell
10 Sea in Asia
11 Boy attendant
16 Rates highly 20 Stitch
22 A continent (abbr.)
23 Urge on
24 Unusual
25 Latin conjunction
26 Plunge
30 Natural gift
32 Vegetable
33 Full of activity
36 Negative
38 Baggage carriers
41 Compresses
43 Place
45 Enlisted man (colloq.)
47 Exists
49 Untidy
50 Solicitude
51 Inlets
52 Tiller
56 Chinese pagoda
58 Pronoun
59 Lamprey
60 Parent (colloq.)
63 Preposition

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

ARES BAT SLAT DAME EGO PALE AVERSE PRATES
MERGE AREAS
GENT MISS
HIE DEMON TAP
AD NOT RA GAP REPEL RAP OMIT LOPE POLES GAMES
ELIDES DECODE
LICE HOE ERIA TOES ERE RATS

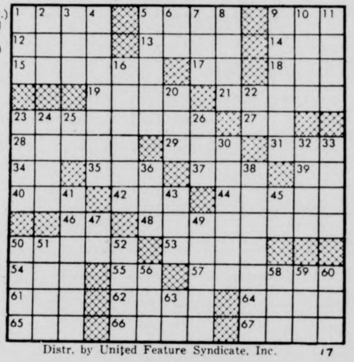
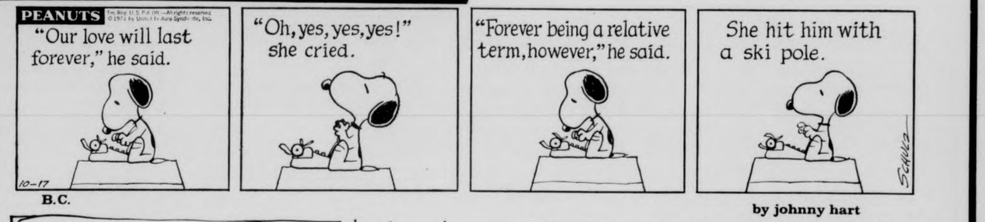
17

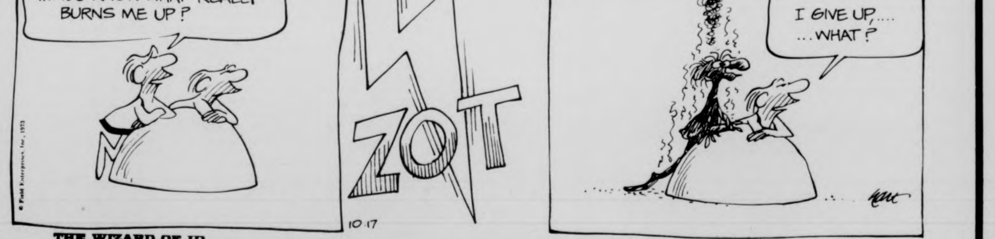


Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 17



PEANUTS
Tm Reg U.S. Pat Off—All rights reserved © 1973 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
"Our love will last forever," he said.
"Oh, yes, yes, yes!" she cried.
"Forever being a relative term, however," he said.
She hit him with a ski pole.
10-17
SCHULZ

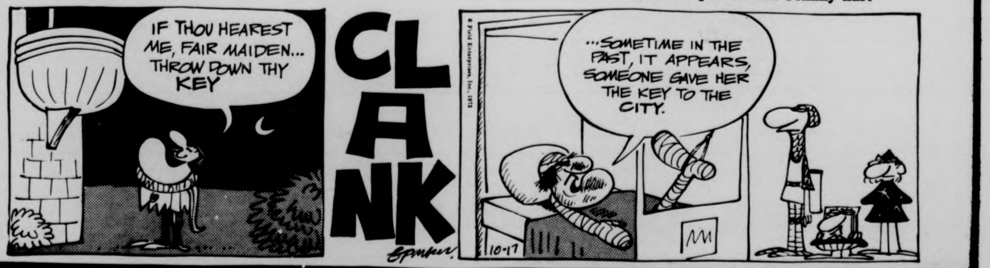
B.C.



... YOU KNOW WHAT REALLY BURNS ME UP?
ZOT
I GIVE UP,.... ...WHAT?
10-17

by johnny hart

THE WIZARD OF ID



IF THOU HEAREST ME, FAIR MAIDEN... THROW DOWN THY KEY CLANK
...SOMETIME IN THE PAST, IT APPEARS, SOMEONE GAVE HER THE KEY TO THE CITY.
10-17

by Brant parker and Johnny hart

NEA Finds Southern University Demonstrations Caused Student Deaths

In the judgment of the National Education Association's investigating team, the arrests of student leaders during demonstrations last Nov. 16 at Southern University were responsible for the subsequent deaths of two students.

According to the report we are releasing today, "all evidence points to the conclusion that the untimely and extraordinary arrests robbed the demonstrations of much of their effective student leadership...and were the immediate cause of the confrontation that ended in death on the morning of Nov. 16."

The decision by Southern University officials to initiate action which led to the arrests of student leaders and the firing of two faculty members stems, in our view, from a tradition of authoritarian control and exemplifies the extent of Southern's deeply-rooted problems.

The NEA investigating team, acting in response to requests from our members in Louisiana and specifically on the Southern campus, identified three major problem areas in assessing the educational climate at the university.

First, Southern University is controlled completely by the all-white Louisiana State Board of Education. This tends to distinguish the student protest movement at Southern from protests of white students at predominantly white universities.

When Southern University students complained about their exclusion from the policy determinations that shape university life, they were speaking to administrators who are themselves excluded from full and effective participation in those determinations at the highest levels.

Second, NEA investigators concluded that Southern University is woefully underfinanced. Historically, the State Board of Education has operated Louisiana's black colleges on an irreducible minimum of tax support.

This system of financing has resulted in setting rigid limitations on career choices available to black college graduates. All-white control and resultant poor financing have imposed on the black college student a sterile, conformist educational experience and does little more than educate him for good citizenship in a society that, in reality, has excluded him from full citizenship.

The third major problem area is Southern's history of autocratic control. As a result, students have no adequate machinery for the resolution of grievances and are provided no right of due process in the university's discipline procedures. Also, Southern's teacher termination provisions leave faculty members utterly defenseless against arbitrary dismissals.

Program Planned On Accounting Careers

A series of Fall meetings on interviewing and accounting careers has been planned by the Accounting Association.

Tomorrow at 7:15 p.m., a panel discussion on "Life as a 'Big Eight' Accountant" will be held in Room 329 Public Health. Three recent UMass accounting graduates will discuss their work and experiences in public accounting and answer student questions. The panelists will be: Priscilla Burnaby, Coopers & Lybrand-Boston, B.B.A., UMass, 1971; Larry Logan, Haskins & Sells-New Haven, M.S.B.A., UMass, 1972; and Charlie Peters, Price Waterhouse & Co.-Boston, B.B.A., UMass, 1973.

Future programs are planned on "Interviewing" and "Careers in Accounting other than 'Big Eight' Public Accounting." Officers of the Accounting Association are Brian Cuddy, President; Betty Andelman, Vice-President; Earlene Davis, Secretary; and John Basdekis, Treasurer. Information on joining the Accounting Association can be obtained from the faculty advisor, Dr. Martin Gosman, in 339 SBA (telephone 545-2844).

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Stowaway" (18)
HOGAN'S HEROES "I Look Better in Basic Black." (22)
MISTER ROGERS NEIGHBORHOOD (24) (57)
ADVENTURES OF SUPERMAN (27)
BEVERLY HILLBILLIES "The Big Chicken." (30)
GOMER PYLE "Gomer and the Father Figure" (40)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "McCoys Ahoy" (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy and the Beauty Doctor." (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "Marriage, Sgt. Carter Style." (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES "The 43rd: A Moving Story" (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3) (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "Laya" (18)
ZOOM! (24) (57)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "AMost Momentous Occasion." (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night Of the Jack of Diamonds." (40)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (8)
MAKING THINGS GROW (24)
UNTAMED WORLD (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 WHAT IN THE WORLD (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "Obnoxious, Offensive, Egomaniac Etc." (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Gunmen of the Rio Grande." (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 THE PRICE IS RIGHT (3)
YOU ASKED FOR IT (8)
GREEN ACRES "Lisa Bakes A Cake." (18)
THE HOLLYWOOD SQUARES Peter Marshall, host (22)
FRENCH CHEF (24) (57)
ANIMAL WORLD (30)
DRAGNET "The Hit and Run Driver" (40)
8:00 THE SONNY AND CHER COMEDY HOUR (3)
DEAL WITH THE ISSUES (8)
THE CHAMPIONS "Full Circle" (18)
1973 WORLD SERIES OF BASEBALL (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARINGS (24) (57)
BOB AND CAROL AND TED AND ALICE (40)
8:30 MOVIE "The Man Who Could Talk To Kids." (8) (40)
9:00 CANNON "Night Flight to Murder. (3)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "Well of Doom" (27)
10:00 DAN AUGUST "Dead Witness To A Killing." (3)
OWEN MARSHALL, COUNSELOR AT LAW "N' Is For Nightmare." (8) (40)
NEWS (27)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "Marines, Let's Go" (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)

"Horror House"
Friday October 19
7:00, 8:45, 10:30
Mahar Auditorium
(Also Little Rascals Shorts)

SHOWCASE CINEMAS 1·2·3·4·5
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD.
WEST SPFLD. 24 HR. TEL. 733-5131
We Honor MASTER CHARGE

WESTWORLD
LAST 7 DAYS
PG
Eves. 7:30-9:20
Fri. 6-10
Sat. 2-4-5:40-9:50
Sun.-Mon. 2-3:35-5:20-7:20-9:20

SNEAK PREVIEW — FRI. 8:00 SAT. 7:30

CHARLES BRONSON
The STONE KILLER
R
Eves. 7:30-9:30
Sat.-Sun.-Mon. 2-3:50-5:30-7:30-9:30

Electra Glide IN BLUE
PG
starring ROBERT BLAKE
Daily 2-7:30-9:40
Sat.-Sun.-Mon. 1-3-5:10-7:30-9:40

His name is Captain Peg and he wasn't born to die in bed!
G
KIRK DOUGLAS IN SCALAWAG
Daily 2-7-9
Sat.-Sun.-Mon. 1:30-3:20-5-7-9

WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA
WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

"FREE! STUDENT DISCOUNT CARDS! SAVE 50¢ FOR YOURSELF AND A GUEST—GET YOUR CARDS NOW AT THE THEATRE!"

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

Brown snorkel parka, brand new, never worn, size men's sm. Contact Caryn, 6-7305
tf10-17

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers, $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305.
tf10-18

1973 Yamaha, Rt. 3, 360 c.c., excellent condition, asking $775. Call Jim, 545-2822.
tf10-17

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 42, with ¼" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed. $160. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m.
tf10-19

Brother DeLuxe portable typewriter, like new, $40; BSR 310 turntable, $45; 50w Lafayette amplifier, $70; two Criterion 50A speakers, $30 ea., all 1 month old. Praktica (Zeiss) camera, Meyer 180 telephoto lens, Takumar multicoated 28mm wide-angle lens, double lens, flash and magnifying lens. Call for Al, 549-1716.
tf10-19

Ski boots, Kotlach, buckle type, size 10, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and 549-6872 after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

Need a clean apartment used vacuum $40., and up. Kinners Vacuum, 19 Park St., Turners Falls. 863-9356.
tf10-23

King size or twin beds for sale. Excellent condition. 549-1742.
tf10-23

10 speed Gazelle Tour de L'Avenir, runs like new $90. Includes 3 ft. cable and lock. Call 6-6249.
tf10-19

FOR SALE

Alpine skis lam. wood, cable binding, 5'4". Plus leather ski boots, womens size 7. Both for $30. Call 584-7152.
tf10-17

Gibson Es-335 Semi-Hollow elec. guitar. 2 Humbucking pick ups, custom finish, hard case, exc. cond. $325. Call Dave at 617-544-3520.
tf10-19

Garrard SL95B comp. $110. Hitachi AM-FM cass. recdr. $50. Lobster trap $25. Shortwave radio $20. Or $175 takes all. Prices firm. 549-6562 bef. 8 a.m.
tf10-17

Head 320 Skis with Tyrolia Bindings, $90. Nordica Ski Boots size 10, $30. Call Mike 546-5170.
tf10-18

1 Wirewheel, Tono cover, 2 studded snowtires 6. 15-13-155-13 4 ply nylon from 67 TR Spitfire, price negotiable. Call 532-9285.
tf10-18

69 Corvette Conv. 4 spd. posi AM-FM well maintained. Mostly new parts, complete serv. rec. $3000, 549-6258.
tf10-19

Must sell my stereo, complete component system, electrophonic, excellent condition. Very rsble. 6-7476.
tf10-19

Kowa six 2¼ SLR less than 1 yr. old F1.8 lens, interchangeable-lens hood grip new $400. Asking $200. Call 323-7866 eves.
tf10-19

For sale 1972 Honda CB350, 2800 miles $600 firm. 549-4473. Keep trying.
tf10-17

Guitar - Aria, 6 steel string. Good case $75. Tape recorder - Akai, X-360. 4 heads, 3 motors. Auto reverse. Best offer. Call Mark 253-9517.
tf10-23

Skis, bindings, boot Head 360, 190 cm, Tyrolia, Rieker 8½m, $100. Head 180 cm, Telmat-Marker, Lange 6W, $100. Margaret 545-2348 days.
tf10-19

FOR SALE

Winter's coming! Think ahead, rust colored bootlength coat, fur trimmed on hood & cuffs a real bargain. Sz. 15-16. Kathy 545-0344 day.
tf10-19

Fender Telecaster, $160, excellent shape; Doiric organ for sale, portable & electric, lists $500, asking $100. 256-6011, Miles.
tf10-17

Speakers — pair of Hitachi KS-3200R, includes 2-8 inch woofers, 2-2½ inch tweeters, excellent condition, $50 or best offer. 6-6083.
tf10-19

Zenith 21" console color, $150; RCA black & white console t.v., $65. Television Center, 55 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5100.
tf11-5

Gibson B-25, 12 STRG, excellent cond., red sunburst case, 8 yrs. old, hardly ever used. Best offer. Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

Borg Warner electric range, very good shape, best offer. Call Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

For sale — 1 Sansui 5000X rec. 2 CS99A Pion speaker, AKAITP DKJVC turntable, ex. equipment, current list price $1,533, will sell for $865. 586-3658, Terry.
tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 546-4538.
tf10-18

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

73 Honda 350, low mileage excellent condition, still under warranty, must sell $550 or best offer, 549-6258.
tf10-19

1972 Honda Sl-125, exc. condition, well kept, best Jap woods bike with knobby & shop manual. Call Joel, 665-4477 evenings after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

AUTO FOR SALE

68 'Cuda 383 hdrs. Mags, 4 spd. Hurst trac. bars, Tach, exc. cond. Call 253-9034 or 5-2163 leave mess.
tf10-19

Great buy! 1964 TR4. Excellent running condition, body needs work, first $300 takes it away. Wire wheels, call 253-3516 day or night.
tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 516-4538.
tf10-19

1966 Cutlass Supreme, 62,000 miles, very good condition, $500. Call 1-617-544-3520.
tf10-17

1941 antique Chevy, a classic looking car, excel. body, new rebuilt eng., a good buy, has to be seen, many spare parts, best offer. 549-6495.
tf10-17

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192.
tf10-19

1966 Olds Toronado, air cond., stereo, power windows & 6-way seat, just inspected, front wheel drive, $500 firm. Call 549-0924, 5 to 9 p.m.
tf10-19

Reliable 1969 VW Squareback, automatic, extras plus 2 good snow tires, $1195 firm. 323-7018 after 4 p.m., keep trying!
tf10-18

1948 Packard, good running condition, straight 8 with overdrive, cloth interior. 546-8688.
tf10-17

1971 Toyota Corona, standard shift, $600. Call 1-467-3796.
tf10-19

Van 1966 Ford Supervan H.D. Six, sticker and new paint, $450 or best offer, must sell. Call 546-8661.
tf10-18

64 VW Van without engine good for parts or can be rebuilt. Best offer. Call Warren at 665-2995.
tf10-17

AUTO FOR SALE

72 VW Deluxe Bus 25000 m. New brakes, Radial snows, camping equip. Warranty serviced. Excellent cond. 549-6728.
tf10-23

Ford Cortina GT 1968 Michelins, Konis, tach, radio, good gas mileage, runs pretty good. Very reasonable. 549-0894 after 5:30.
tf10-19

1969 MGB, blue, body & roof in good shape, new brake shoes front, rebuilt eng., FM stereo tape deck, runs very well, please call Bill at 549-1809.
tf10-19

Rebuilt Eng. good ext. ex int. gas heater. Must sell imd. $350. 665-2381 ask for Mark.
tf10-18

1960 Alfa-Romeo GT Sprint, hardtop, runs very well, 28MPG. Looks fine. Classic, voted top five GT cars in the world. Call 546-7433.
tf10-19

65 VW Sedan $150 Leslie, 220 Puffton. No phone.
tf10-18

WANTED

Need actor for serious but fun horror film. Call Mike from 5 to 9 tonite. 467-7999. 3 roles, lotsa fun.
tf10-19

Teachers needed overseas. All subjects, all levels, travel paid. No language requirement, not restricted to Ed. Majors. Information on where to apply in over 40 countries. Send $2 to Overseas Teaching, P.O. Box 524-V, Centralia, Wa. 98531.
tf10-17

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700.
tf10/18

Wanted — warm, friendly babysitter with own car, for 11 month old, 9-12 weekdays. 253-3607.
tf10-19

Notices

AMATEUR RADIO:
Meeting tonite (Wed.) 6:30, 905 C.C. Novice code class 7:30 at club.

BICYCLE CLUB MTG.:
Meeting tonight in C.C., 7:00. Room is posted on C.C. schedule. Discussion of bulk bicycle purchase.

CENTRAL AREA COUNSELING CENTER:
Grad and undergrad counselors available for any problems or questions you might want to rap about. Rm. B2, Gorman House, Mon.-Fri. 1-9 and Thurs. 10-9. Call 5-0894.

CHESS EXHIBITION:
Simultaneous chess exhibition tonight, 7:30, C.C. 165-169. U.S. Junior co-champion will take on everyone who brings a set. Free.

COMMUTERS:
Meeting of Commuter Assembly Executive Council today at 5:30 in Commuter Lounge, S.U.B. All are welcome.

ETA KAPPA NU:
Meeting this afternoon at 12:15 p.m. of all active members, to be held in EBE 104.

FINNISH LANGUAGE CLUB:
Finnish Club will meet Thurs. 10/18 at 7:30 in Rm. 801 C.C. All interested in Finnish culture and language welcome.

FLUID DYNAMICS FOR THE SELF:
This offering teaches you to respond in the most natural environment, the water. A real rush. Awaken to a new awareness. Call Neptune 253-5897 between 6-10 p.m. Very limited enrollment.

CENTER FOR JEWISH STUDIES:
Due to Holiday of Succoth, no classes will be held today and tomorrow.

ISRAELI DANCING:
Don't forget Israeli Dancing every Wednesday in the Cape Cod Lounge, 7:30-10:30. Instruction for beginners along with advanced dancing. See you tonight!

KUNDALINI YOGA CLUB:
Meets today, 5:00 in C.C. 917.

MOVIE:
"The Boys in the Band" is not a musical. Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11 p.m. Thursday 10/18.

OHAG AGENDA:
Deadline for items to be placed on the OHAG Agenda (meets Monday nights) is 6:00 p.m. Weds. Financial items should be first submitted to Finance Committee.

OHAG COMMITTEE APPTS:
Orchard Hillers wishing to serve on an OHAG Committee or serve as OHAG rep to a Senate Committee see your representative or Cindy McGrath 6-6944.

RUGBY MEETING:
Important organizational meeting tonight 8:00, 917 C.C. Be there with dues.

SCIENCE FICTION CLUB:
General meeting tonite, 7:30 in the S-F Library. Elections. Attendance mandatory.

SENATE WOMEN'S CAUCUS:
All women in the Student Senate are asked to attend a Woman's Caucus at 6:30 tonight in the Senate Office, 420 S.U.B.

SKI CLUB:
The UMass Ski Club will have its first meeting today. Elections will be held and memberships will be taken, come and find out how the Club can cut the cost of skiing. Ski movie from Austria and guest speaker.

SPEAKER'S COLLOQUIM:
Steve Karchmer, Exec. Secrty, of SEIU, Loc. 495 will speak Thurs. 10/18 at 2:30 p.m., C.C. 917 on "Managing a Local Union in the Public Employment Sector". The public is invited to attend.

STRATEGY GAMES CLUB:
Avalon Hill players; meeting Wed. 10/17 at 6:00 p.m. in C.C. 103. All interested welcome.

STUDENT SENATE MEETING:
The Student Senate will meet tonight in Rm. 113 C.C. at 7 p.m. All interested persons are urged to attend.

FOUND:
Peasant top found at Brittany Manor. Describe it and it's yours. Call 256-0668. Keep trying.

LOST:
Pr. gold wire rims in gold burlap case. Name written on case. Lost sometime last month. Call Jamie 546-5423, Lewis 104.

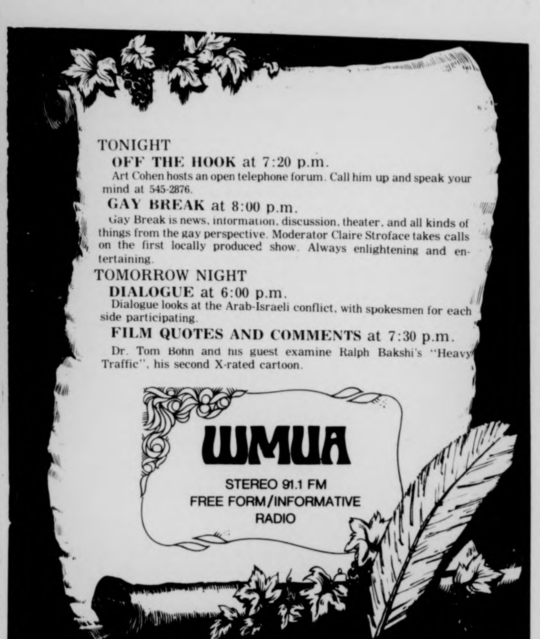
LOST:
Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity flag. Large silver and magenta flag. Please return to 510 N. Pleasant St. 545-0174.

LOST:
Woman's gold timex watch on 10/11 in vicinity of C.C. Please call Dana 253-5870.

LOST:
On Boyden Intramural football fields (#5?) a silver lady's timex watch. If found return to VMS 417 or call 546-1421. Thanks.

LOST:
On 10/10, green key case with 1 UMass key. Please call 546-9528.

HARPER 7:00+9:00 11:00
WITH PAUL NEWMAN AND LAUREN BACALL
WED., OCT. 17 S.U.B



TONIGHT
OFF THE HOOK at 7:20 p.m.
Art Cohen hosts an open telephone forum. Call him up and speak your mind at 545-2876.
GAY BREAK at 8:00 p.m.
Gay Break is news, information, discussion, theater, and all kinds of things from the gay perspective. Moderator Claire Stroface takes calls on the first locally produced show. Always enlightening and entertaining.
TOMORROW NIGHT
DIALOGUE at 6:00 p.m.
Dialogue looks at the Arab-Israeli conflict, with spokesmen for each side participating.
FILM QUOTES AND COMMENTS at 7:30 p.m.
Dr. Tom Bohn and his guest examine Ralph Bakshi's "Heavy Traffic", his second X-rated cartoon.

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE RADIO

Police
Emergency
5-3111

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

Men! Women! Jobs on ships! No experience required. Excellent pay. Worldwide Travel. Perfect summer job or career. Send $3.00 for information. Seafax, Dept. M-17, P.O. Box 2049, Port Angeles, Washington 98362.
tf10-17

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

To the girl in Drake Sunday, 10-7. Call collect 603-523-7050 about opportunity in N.H. in regards to ed position we talked about. Rich.
tf10-18

Parents — problems with child care? Join the Child Care Exchange — an alternative to sitters etc. Infants to 8 yrs. Call Joan, 586-2224.
tf10-19

Tired of dorm living? 1 bedroom in King Philip, available immediately. Price negotiable. Call 665-3318 after 6 p.m., on bus line.
tf10-19

Light your Fire with MARIO and the 3rd Floor Perverts.
tf10-17

F Shepard abandoned by evicted owners, needs good home w people w understanding. Call 549-1868, around supper time.
tf10-19

To lovely girl in Whitmor Coffee Shop, noon Monday. Your eyes haunt me. Call 6-5149 if mine haunt you.
tf10-17

"Puddin' Face" — A very Happy 21st — Let me know about a Friday dinner for two at Toc. Love, "Peach Fuzz".
tf10-18

Al E. — Showers aren't the same without you but that was last year, how do you get your jollies now? — CM.
tf10-17

Kenny S., Happy Birthday from the boys in No. 60 and all your Friends in Riverglade Apts.
tf10-18

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie.
t11

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 584-6458.
tf10-17

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long, good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.
tf10-17

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer
8:30 p.m.-4:00 a.m.

ask for Charlotte.

Puffton resident needed to take care of dog. I will pay $10 per month plus food. Call 549-6718.
tf10-17

Mother — Prof. with school age kids needs a paragon: efficient, kind capable individual to take over, part time. 253-7456, 5-0417.
tf10-18

Supervisor — Direct Sales! You may be one of the three key people I seek to develop and train distributors. High income potential for management minded people. Write: Mr. Weiss, P.O. Box 552, Randolph, MA. 02368.
tf10-30

FOR RENT

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

6 bedroom house for rent, located in Wendell, $375 per month. Call 1-617-544-3520.
tf10-17

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month.
tf10/19

ROOMMATE WANTED

Mature girl needed to share new apt. on Rte. 9, Hadley. Rent $46.25 per month plus utilities, must have no car or pets. Call 586-0852.
tf10-17

Couple needed to share two bedroom apt. with another couple. Riverglade Apts. 256-0628.
tf10-17

Graduate Students wanted to share house in Belchertown, furnished with utilities. Call 323-7082.
tf10-18

Female roommate own room in 6 room house in Hadley. Please call 586-2815 keep trying.
tf10-19

Female to share room in Brittany Manor Apt. Free bus $150, 256-8173.
tf10-19

Roommate wanted to share Cliffside 2 bdrm. Apt. Own bdrm. quiet, nice location; on bus rte. dw. ac. $85-mo. incl. utilities. Call 665-4314.
tf10-19

SERVICES

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.
tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.
tf10-19

Bike repairs — Will do some bike repairs on campus and pick up and deliver others. Cheap and reliable. Call Tom after 5, 584-4985.
tf10-19

Pastel Portraits drawn from photo I take. All ages frm newborns to grandparents. Samples shown in Amherst. Please call 568-1075.
tf10-23

Research — thousands of topics, $2.75 per page. Send $1 for mail order catalog. Research assistance, inc. 11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 2, L.A., Calif. 90025.
tf12-12

RIDE WANTED

Need ride from Belchertown for 8 a.m., back at 1 p.m. Quabbin apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-452f, keep trying.
tf10-17

Clark School for the Deaf, NHmptn, child needs ride to and from Boston weekends. Will pay all expenses. Call Paula, 256-0126.
tf10-17

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses.
tf10-18

I need ride to Cornell Univ., Ithaca, Fri., Oct. 19. Will share expenses and driving both ways. Call 665-4366, after 5. Please!!
tf10-17

To Ithaca or Syracuse 19 or 20, back 21 or 22. Will share expenses. Call 549-6356 ask for Dorothee or leave message.
tf10-18

Need ride from Belchertown for 8, back at 4. Quabbin Apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-4521, keep trying.
tf10-19

LOST

Engagement ring — Family heirloom of sentimental value. Contact Bobbi at 36 Univ. Pk. or call 256-0641, substantial reward.
tf10-19

Buck knife on 10-4 nite, between C.C. & S.W. If found please call 6-7489, reward.
tf10-19

Please, I lost my Black Shawl at a roadstop in Montague. I miss it, Maureen 253-9033, let ring.
tf10-18

Experienced juggler wanted. Call 545-0418.
tf10-19

Experienced Magician wanted. Call 545-0418.
tf10-19

Sorry, but I have no open dates left in Oct. Thanks UMass for a fantastic Sept. and Oct. Your friend, Steve the D.J., 467-2842.
tf10-17

Horse [illegible] riding, Running Deer Ranch 549-3630.
tf10-19

Wanted — female pianist to play standards & sing-a-long. Good pay. Call Music Ventures, 584-6458.
tf10-17

Wanted — rhythm guitarist & pianist (preferably singers), & male vocalist for 50's revue. Guaranteed work. Call 1-584-6458.
tf10-17

FREE

Free kittens to give away to good homes they are really fine and box trained. Please call Carlotta 664-3494 after 5.
tf10-24

Free two year old Irish Setter to good home preferable with lots of room or on farm. Call Laurie 546-4748, 5-7 p.m.
tf10-26

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Centrally located in So. Deerfield, 3 rooms, heat, hot water, stove, refrigerator. $130-mo. Call 665-3758.
tf10-17

Pitching UMass' No. 1 Problem

"No one looked outstanding for us this fall as far as pitchers are concerned and it is now clear how much we will miss Flanagan and White who could strike out ten or twelve per game and allow only a minimal amount of hits." -Coach Dick Bergquist

By MIKE BROPHY

It was a fall season that saw excellent playing weather enable all the candidates good outdoor experience before the winter season set in as the fall version of the Diamond Nine compiled a record of 6-3 on the season.

Going into the fall campaign, Coach Bergquist knew that he had his work cut out for him as three of his players that still had eligibility left, signed with the pro ranks last summer. Eddie McMahon, Mike Flanagan, and Steve Newell were expected to return from last year's 22-7 squad. However, the pro player draft held in New York had different ideas.

"Filling the holes left by those three and the regular graduates from last year will be a heck of a chore," said Bergquist as he thought of who to put where in preparation for the spring trip to Miami.

Mike Koperniak has been shuffled from the right side of second over to fill the hole left by McMahon at shortstop. He has proven to be alright as he had played short before. That leaves second base up for grabs, but "second basemen are easier to come by than shortstops," said Bergquist.

Koperniak managed to hit a respectable .320 during the 14 games and scrimmages held this fall. He rapped out three doubles and one triple, a ball that just missed clearing the wall in deep left field.

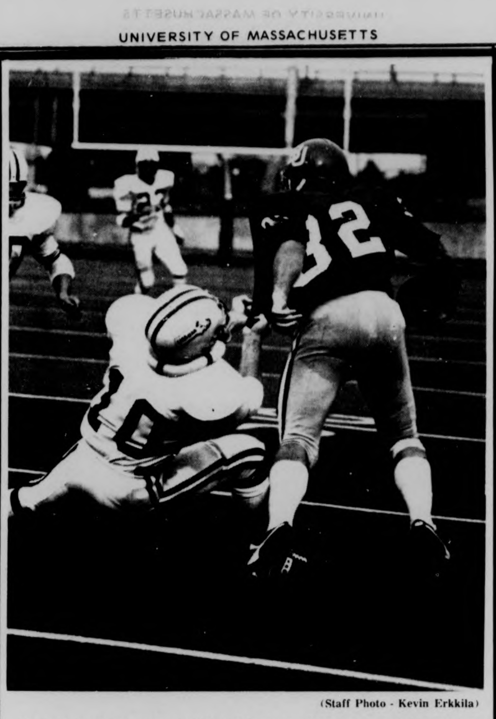
Junior Ron Beaurivage led the hitters with a .388 batting average as he collected one double, a triple, and two home runs. "Ron could easily be the best first baseman in New England, both offensively and defensively, if he continues to improve at the rate he has in the past," mentioned Bergquist.

Sophomore outfielder Mark Fontaine had a fine fall in batting .375 and Bergquist feels he may fill the role of designated pinch hitter with the unexpected loss of Peter Collins (left school) draining the power hitting rather substantially.

Of the final fifty candidates that will compose the varsity and JV units, there were only two seniors and three juniors.

Steve Newell helped Bergquist in working with the newcomers. He is finishing school while waiting to return to the Montreal Expos training camp next spring.

The addition of Jeff McKay to the baseball coaching staff will be of great help to the program. McKay comes from UCal-Berkeley where he was an assistant coach for five years.



(Staff Photo - Kevin Erkkila)

Paul Hansen hauls down BU fullback Joe Driscoll in Saturdays 20-6 victory. That's Mark Finnerty (20) and Bob Parrott (23) coming over to help out.

Andrews Reinstated Over Finley Protest

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn slapped Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley on the wrists Tuesday and put second baseman Mike Andrews back on the rebellious A's World Series squad.

Andrews, supposedly suffering from a shoulder ailment, was placed on the disabled list Sunday, an action which Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, called "highly suspicious" and which Andrews' teammates and Kuhn labeled embarrassing-and worse.

Andrews committed two 12th inning errors Sunday which gave the New York Mets three runs and a 10-7 victory that squared the Series at one game apiece. Less than two hours later, he was on the disabled list while his teammates were flying to New York for Tuesday night's third game.

Finley had requested that the A's be given permission to replace Andrews with Manny Trillo.

"There is no basis to grant the request and it is accordingly denied," Kuhn replied.

"I might add that the handling of this matter had the unfortunate effect of unfairly embarrassing a player who has given many years of able service to professional baseball.

"It is my determination that Andrews remains a full-fledged member of the Oakland World Series squad," Kuhn added. "There is no suggestion that this condition Andrews' shoulder has changed or worsened since the Series began, or has been injured in this Series. The fact that Andrews was used in game 2 by the Oakland club appears to indicate to the contrary."

Finley said the A's would abide by the commissioner's decision.

"We will play the Mets with 23 players," he said, adding that Andrews still would not appear in the rest of the Series.

Delaware No. 1

Delaware's Blue Hens, who downed Connecticut 35-7 last weekend, remained No. 1 in The Associated Press college division football poll Tuesday, with Tennessee State, Cal Poly-SLO and Hawaii holding their ground behind them.

Western Kentucky rocketed from 11th to sixth and Boise State plummeted from fifth to 11th. Nevada-Las Vegas, 5-1, and Elon, 6-0, moved onto the charts after dumping ranked teams in Saturday games.

1. Delaware
2. Tennessee State
3. Cal Poly
4. Hawaii
5. Grambling
6. Western Kentucky
7. South Dakota
8. Louisiana Tech
9. Wittenberg
10. No. Dakota State

All Is Quiet For Willie Mays

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP) - There is a breed of man which is apart from all others. The very few who fit the category embody whatever it is the others strive for.

Such a man is Willie Mays, and such a man is not content with fame and money and the accolades of swarming humanity. His contentment comes from within, and it comes only at a tremendous cost.

Sunday Willie Mays mustered something everyone thought was gone, and his single over second base helped pull the New York Mets even with Oakland at one victory apiece in the World Series.

After 22 years in the major leagues, after stardom seldom dreamed of even by the greatest ones, he was out there falling down and running badly. Puffing and straining and hustling and doing what he-Willie Mays-is expected to do despite the obstacles of time and trauma.

The sports writers who swarm to the World Series had a hero when the game was over, and they wrote about him. They talked about him. They shook their heads and smiled in the long hours after the game when they wrote their stories and straggled to the Oakland airport to get a charter flight to New York so they could write some more when the sun came up on the eastern coast of the United States.

It is important to understand sports writers, while usually affable and talented, are not particularly pleasant in the middle of the night after a 12-inning World Series game and a scramble to the airport.

They knew the Mets were staying behind, sleeping comfortably and flying to New York Monday, to get ready for Game Three. They probably resented that a bit but didn't say anything.

So they boarded the DC-8 at the airport and they filled the first seats available.

When the late arrivals got to the back of the plane, they found a man asleep on the fourth seat from the rear.

The man was Willie Mays.

He was flying to New York early-after 22 years-after delivering what he had to deliver on Sunday. He was flying to New York to take batting practice Monday so that maybe, just maybe, he could do it again.

The stewardesses wrapped Willie in a blanket and he slept through a movie and steak dinner and the booze and the poker game going on behind him. He got off the plane sleepy, a long way from his home in California.

Nobody asked him any questions. And-funny thing- it was a quiet flight for a bunch of sports writers.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50° per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

And now the movie...
"...perhaps the most remarkable film to emerge since Cecil B DeMille founded Hollywood" VERNON SCOTT UPI Group rates for this and all shows are available. Contact theatre manager in person or call for complete details!
"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"
NOW! CINEMA I At 7:15 & 9:15 Rated G
STATE OF SIEGE
HELD OVER! NOW in CINEMA II
Yves Montand in a film by the Director of "Z" - Costa - Gauras 7:15 & 9:30
Campus Cinemas 256-6411 AMHERST HADLEY LINE
DOLLAR NIGHTS! MON. & TUES ADMISSION $1.00
WESTWORLD
7:15 & 9:15
Starring Yul Brenner Richard Benjamin
BOY, HAVE WE GOT A VACATION FOR YOU...
...Where nothing can possibly go worng
WESTWORLD

THE BOYS
IN THE BAND
is not a musical!
Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11 p.m.
Oct. 18th, Thursday

10% of all Sales
this week donated to Israel
Polaroid Cameras 10% above cost
Swinger - Big Shot - Super Color - Square Shooter
Stationary — Half-Price
Barton's Candies — 20% off
TARA
22 Center Street (off Main St.) Northampton
584-6764
Thursday p.m.'s till 9:00

Commentary

I Wish I Was There

By DEAN TUCKER

It happened quite a few years ago, so many in fact that exact memory is impossible and what I'm trying to remember is turning into one of those cloudy nostalgias that everyone has sometimes.

I'm sure it was sometime before the Giants and Dodgers blew New York for the West Coast.

Every year, my Aunt Josie and Uncle Tony, two Middle Americans who lived in the Bronz, would come away from the city to visit us in New Hampshire, breathe some fresh air and regale my family with tales of the city.

It was all very exciting; they were young and always had brand new convertibles that were bright red. I became very fond of them. Every year I would anxiously await their visit. Oh yeah, they would always lay a few dollars on me for ice cream or whatever captivated.

One of those years in October, my parents started buzzing about when Tony and Josie would come, what we would have to buy for food, because these two were very Italian and ate accordingly, and how nice it would be to see them.

I got up one morning and while getting ready for school I asked my mother when they were coming. She told me that they had called the night before to say that they couldn't make it because they were going to stay in the city to go to a couple of World Series games.

I couldn't believe it. The World Series had interrupted something very important in my childhood scheme. I saw Tony and Josie many times after that but it was never the same. I couldn't believe they thought more of the World Series than of their visit with my family.

Somehow I got dumped in New York City a few years ago, too broke to go anywhere else. It was in July and the Amazin' Mets were on their way to the top. I caught the fever, and by the time October rolled around the talk was Mets, Mets, Mets. Nobody wanted to work. The Viet Nam War was unspoken. Even what's-his-name, the president, couldn't impress many New York working class people. The Mets were their government and Casey Stengel was emperor, the supreme high and exalted deluxe ruler. What he said counted.

He led his troops all the way over Baltimore, and the city returned to normal after a week of celebrating in saloons and repeated play by plays by a thousand potential Mel Allens were finally talked out.

As I sit here now, I can forgive Tony and Josie for not visiting us that year, and if I had my druthers, I'd be at Shea swilling beer and cheering on the Mets and feeling the amazing thing a bunch of guys with a ball and a stick and a chubby inarticulate great leader can do to that big city.

Pitt Preps For BC

PITTSBURGH (AP)-Now that his Pitt football team has its second victory, Coach Johnny Majors says he is looking for consistency.

"I don't want us to be a yo-yo," Majors said at his weekly news conference Tuesday, "up one week and down the next."

The Panthers upset West Virginia 35-7 Saturday and this week travel to Boston to face highly regarded Boston College.

BC, 3-2, nearly upset the University of Miami last week, holding a 10-9 edge with six minutes remaining in the game.

But Miami moved the ball 82 yards to score and win the game 15-10.

Boston Coach Joe Yukica was asked how good his team is.

"A mark of a good team is to cap drives with touchdowns and we just didn't do that against Miami," he said.

He was referring to the fact that BC got inside the Miami two-yard line on second down and failed to score what could have been the winning touchdown.

"Boston College is much better than they were last year," said Majors. "They are as well coached as any team we'll face this year."

Boston has an offense keyed around Mike Esposito, rated one of the best running backs in the East. However he also is a pass receiver, returns kicks and catches passes.

Gary Marangi is the quarterback and he is considered an excellent passer, having only two of some 70 passes intercepted this season.

Pitt, of course, is led by freshman running sensation Tony Dorsett, who is on his way to setting a host of Panther records.

Dorsett has scored six touchdowns and the Pitt season record in that department is 13, set in 1917 by George McCaren.

Sports Staff Meeting
Thursday, 7:00 p.m.
All Members Please Attend

(AP Wirephoto)

Casey Stengel, ex-manager of the Braves, Yankees, and the original Amazin' Mets, slips through the boarding gate for his flight to New York.

AP Sports Shorts

BOCA RATON, Fla. (AP) - Second-seeded Margaret Court, suffering from a stomach inflammation, withdrew Tuesday from the $110,000 Virginia Slims Championship tennis tournament.

Mrs. Court, 31, was admitted to Boca Raton Community Hospital Monday night with viral gastroentiritis. Hospital spokesmen said she was in satisfactory condition.

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The American Bowling Congress has banned "soaked" bowling balls from sanctioned league and tournament competition, ABC officials announced Tuesday.

Al Matzelle, ABC executive secretary, aid the ruling by the ABC's board would apply to the group's 4.1 million members.

The process, discovered by a member of the professional bowlers' tour less than one year ago, involves soaking a plastic bowling ball in a chemical solvent to soften its outer shell and provide an easier hook on oiled bowling lanes.

Officials had feared accidents because of the highly toxic soaking solutions being used.

CLEVELAND (AP) - The Cleveland Browns said Tuesday that linebacker Billy Andrews was admitted to Mt. Sinai Hospital for a back examination and X-rays.

A spokesman for the National Football League team said Andrews' back problems were not related to Monday night's game with Miami, which the Dolphins won 17-9.

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The Kansas City-Omaha Kings signed Howie "Butch" Komives Tuesday and put Mike Ratliff on waivers to make room for the veteran guard on their National Basketball Association roster.

Komives, released recently after one season with Buffalo, played eight previous years with Detroit and the New York Knicks of the NBA. The 6-foot-1 guard played college basketball at Bowling Green, Ohio.

NEW YORK (AP) - Quarterback John Hadl and wide receiver Harold Jackson of the Los Angeles Rams were named Tuesdaa by The Associated Press as the Offensive Players of the Week in the National Football League.

They were selected for their performances in Sunday's 37-31 victory over the Dallas Cowboys-the fifth consecutive triumph for the unbeaten Rams. Hadl completed 12 of 22 passes for 279 yards and four touchdowns. All four TD aerials were caught by Jackson, who had a total of seven receptions for 238 yards.

NEW YORK (AP) - Charles Hall, a 260 pound defensive tackle from Tulane University, was selected Tuesday by The Associated Press as the Lineman of he Week in college football.

Players Balk At NFL's Control Of Broadcasters

WASHINGTON (AP) - The National Football League Players Association has asked the Federal Communications Commission to prohibit immediately any agreement which gives the NFL control over the choice of radio and television announcers for its games.

But in New York, Jim Kensil, executive director of the league, said the NFL has already relinquished any control it had.

"We deleted that from our constitution last week," he said, adding that the league could not reassert control over the television networks' choice of announcers.

In a brief filed Tuesday with the FCC, which is conducting a probe into broadcasting of sports events, the association said the NFL commissioner's power over the choice of announcers "has a chilling effect on their reporting.

"The NFL is image-conscious to the extreme," the association said. "Thus, an announcer critical of the NFL faces the threat of losing his job because of the power vested in the NFL commissioner to remove him from his job."

As a result, the brief says, there is a total lack of reference by the network announcers to the association, no analysis of the standard player contract or the option clause and a ban on an association spokesman being interviewed on the union's position on issues.

Suspended

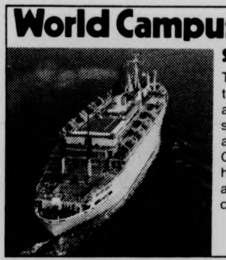
CHARDON, Ohio (AP) - Twenty-one members of the 44-man Chardon High School football squad have been suspended for the remainder fo the season for breaking training rules.

The action was taken by Coach Lou Provenzano before Monday's practice session. He could not be reached Tuesday for comment.

However, one of he suspended players said the players were asked if they had taken a drink since practice sessions started in June, and the 21 who were suspended admitted that they had.

School officials would not say how many of the suspended players were starters.

Chardon has lost four straight games after winning its first two contests.



World Campus Afloat: Join Us!
Sails each September & February.
This is the way you've always wanted to learn . . . and should. Combine accredited study with a fascinating semester of travel to Africa, Australasia, the Orient, and the Americas. Over 8500 students from 450 colleges have already participated. Financial aid is available. Write now for free catalog:
WCA, Chapman College
Box 1000, Orange, CA 92666

HAWAII —
$299 incl. everything but food
Seven Sixty
Travel, Inc.
Albany, N.Y.
For more Info:
LESLIE HALFOND
625 Field
Amherst, Mass.
413-546-6861

FIRST MEETING OF THE UMASS. SKI CLUB
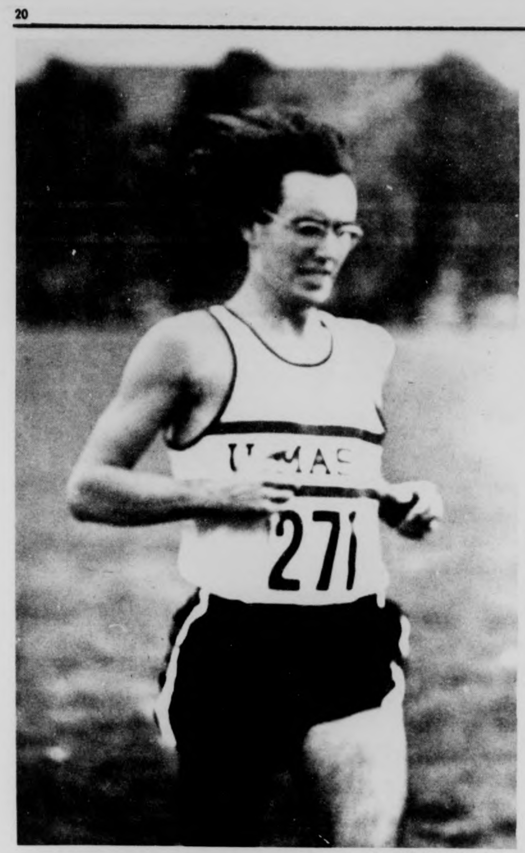
Wed., Oct. 17 -
Mahar Aud. 8:00 p.m.
* MEMBERSHIPS TAKEN
* ELECTIONS FOR OFFICER
* SKI MOVIE
* GUEST SPEAKER
Find out About:
Weekly night skiing, discounts on equip. & lifts, free transportation to ski areas, trip to Innsbruck, vacation trips, plus other benefits.

WESTERN AUTO
NOW HAS IN STOCK
HOCKEY EQUIPMENT
(COOPER)
Hockey pants, gloves, sticks,
Helmets, elbow guards, shoulder pads
Hockey Skates CCM, Bauer
Figure Skates: Hydes, Bauer
WESTERN AUTO
Main St.
Northampton



(Staff Photo - Larry Stein)

Bill Gillin hits his mid-race stride against URI. He went on to tie teammate Randy Thomas for first in yesterdays trouncing of URI.

Campaneris Sinks Mets In 11th; Oakland Takes 2-1 Series Lead

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Bert Campaneris delivered a two-out single in the 11th inning Tuesday night, scoring Ted Kubiak and giving the Oakland A's a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets in the third game of the 1973 World Series.

The victory gave the A's a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series, with Game 4 scheduled for 8:30 p.m., EDT, Wednesday in New York.

Kubiak had walked on a 3-1 pitch, then dashed to second on Met catcher Jerry Grote's passed ball as Angel Mangual struck out.

Then Campaneris, whose stolen base had helped the A's tie the score 2-2 in the eighth inning against Met starter Tom Seaver, singled to center, scoring Kubiak. The speedy Oakland shortstop tried to reach second on the throw to the plate but was thrown out when the Mets cut off the throw home.

That gave the A's the lead, and reliever Paul Lindblad needed just three outs to nail down the victory.

But he couldn't do it. Wayne Garrett, who had homered in the first inning, delivered a checked-swing single to center leading off the Mets' last chance. That brought Rollie Fingers out of the Oakland bullpen.

The ace reliever, the 18th player used in the game by Oakland, retired Felix Millan on a sacrifice and then finished the Mets off by getting Rusty Staub on a fly ball and Cleon Jones on a grounder to shortstop Campaneris.

Garrett was the 14th player left on base by the Mets.

The A's rushed from their dugout to congratulate Fingers, who was credited with a save. And the capacity crowd of 54,817 peacefully filed out of Shea Stadium.

The game lasted 3 hours and 15 minutes on a bone-chilling night, with gusty winds blowing throughout. It started on a promising note for the Mets, with two first-inning runs and the ace of their staff, Seaver, pitching.

But it ended dismally in defeat for New York after the A's came from behind to tie the score with runs in the sixth and eighth innings against Seaver. Harry Parker, the fourth New York pitcher of the game, was the loser and Lindblad, who relieved in the ninth, was the winner.

Bot teams had chances to break the tie in the ninth inning.

The A's had tied the score in the eighth on the speed of Camperneris. The fleet shortstop opened with a single to left and stole second. Then Joe Rudi singled past Milner, scoring the fleet Oakland shortstop.

After a sacrifice moved Rudi to second, Seaver pitched out of the jam, getting Reggie Jackson on a fly ball and striking out Gene Tenace. The strikeout was the 12th of the game for Seaver, who left for a pinch hitter in the bottom of the eighth.

The A's had nicked him for their first run in the sixth on doubles by Sal Bando and Tenace. A leaping catch at the fence by center fielder Don Hahn on leadoff batter Rudi prevented more scoring.

The Mets opened fast against Oakland starter Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

Garrett lined Hunter's second pitch of the game over the auxiliary scoreboard in right field for a home run. It was Garrett's second hit of the Series and also his second home run.

Millan followed with a single to left and then the Mets played hit and run. Millan broke for second and, as Campaneris went over to cover the base, Staub dumped a single through the vacated shortstop position. Millan raced to third on the hit.

Hunter, obviously shaken, uncorked a wild pitch that bounced all the way to the A's dugout and Millan trotted home for a 2-0 New York lead.

The way Seaver was throwing early in the game, it seemed that might be enough. The fireballing ace of the Mets' staff struck out the side twice and fanned five A's in order over one stretch. But Oakland finally caught him in the eighth and the two clubs battled into extra innings for the second time in three World Series games.

Gillin, Thomas Win As UMass Harriers Overwhelm URI

By SCOTT HAYES

Bill Gillin and Randy Thomas battled cold and windy conditions yesterday, to finish in a tie for first with a time of 25:27, and lead UMass to an easy 18-43 win over Rhode Island.

The two co-captains didn't have any trouble with URI's top runner, Tom Grundy, who finished 21 seconds off the pace.

The only competition Gillin and Thomas had came from the adverse conditions, which accounted for the slower times. The two juniors took an early command of the race and opened up a huge lead over Rhode Island's Grundy in the middle of the race. Grundy finished third, and was the first URI runner to finish.

Tom Wilson, who had been having his problems, ran a fine race and finished fourth with a time of 26:07. Wilson, a junior, ran well in the season's opener at Boston College, finishing fifth, but dropped down in the next three meets. Wilson placed seventeenth against Harvard, twentieth in the UConn meet, and managed only thirty-seventh against Northeastern.

Chris Farmer captured fifth for UMass, and Phil Broughton placed sixth. Both runners were clocked in 26:10 for the hilly five-mile course.

Freshman Steve Hague was unimpressive for Rhode Island, finishing seventh with a time of 26:21. Grundy and Hague never contested Gillin and Thomas for the top positions, and three UMass runners were able to separate the top two URI runners.

Mickey Hawkes, who finished first in Saturday's junior varsity meet, came on strong towards the end of the race and finished eighth. Paul Doiron came up with another good performance, finishing in ninth place.

Senior Doug O'Connell bettered his home course time of 27:13 by 14 seconds and as a result, moved up from Saturday's twenty-first place finish to eleventh.

UMass completely dominated the race and URI's fifth runner finished eighteenth. Due to the scoring in cross country, however, only the top seven runners for each team are counted, and URI's fifth man was awarded twelfth place. UMass had thirteen runners across the finish line before the Rams finished five runners.

Rhode Island, Yankee Conference runner-up last season, won't come near UMass in the Yankee Conference meet if they continue to run as poorly as they did yesterday.

Tom Maguire, Paul Segersten, John McGrail, Chris Chambers and John Scheer didn't run in yesterday's meet. Coach Ken O'Brien has split the top ten runners into two groups of five to keep the team ready for the big meets. With the new system, the runners have run under race conditions only once a week and will be well rested for the more important meets.

CROSS COUNTRY CORNER--The Harriers are now 5-2 and have a 2-0 record against Yankee Conference teams. The only battles that developed in yesterday's meet were between UMass runners. Gillin and Thomas tied as did Farmer and Broughton. Andy Levey ran the course in 27:05 and teammate Jim Hunt tied him.

Tom Grundy and the other Ram front runners didn't seem to be in the race and never pushed Thomas and Gillin, who ran a controlled race.

(Staff Photo - Kevin Erkkila)

UMass Goalie Carl Vercollone comes out of his net to foil BU attackman Konstantin Pavlou. Vercollone's diving saves helped UMass to Saturday's 5-3 victory.

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
Minutemen
SPORTS

Yan Con Football Standings

	W-L	PCT.
UMass	2-0	1.000
UConn	2-0	1.000
Rhode Island	1-1	.500
New Hampshire	1-1	.500
Maine	2-3	.400
Boston U	1-2	.333
Vermont	1-3	.250

Steve Crowe

The Old Man

Wouldn't it be great if Willie Mays hits a home run in his last time at bat to win the World Series from the New York Mets?

How many of you die-hard nostalgia fans out there have had this dream at one time or another? I have had it many times, simply because I would really like to see it happen.

I don't have a favorite team in the series this year. There doesn't seem to be too much of a choice. Either I pick a no-name bunch of Mets or I go with the classier, but more distant from home, Oakland A's.

When I don't have a favorite team in a series, (my only favorite teams are from Boston), I usually go with the underdogs. But I just can't cheer for the Mets.

So what do I cheer for?

I cheer for Willie Mays. I root for him to go out of baseball in style.

Willie Mays has been playing pro baseball since the day most of us UMies were born. For twenty-two years he has been one of the best players in all of baseball. We've heard Willie Mays bedtime stories since we were old enough to wear a baseball glove. We listened to his every word on the blasting caps commercial ("Don't touch it!") For years, his Topps bubble gum card has gone very high on the trade market. One year I traded a Mickey Mantle, a Roger Maris, and a Gary Geiger for one Willie Mays. Of course they were my doubles cards, but they were my best doubles!

But now, as I watch the 42 year old Mays struggling with his baseball play, I can only think of the story of the Old Man and the Sea. The Old Man spent days trying to bring that marlin back to shore and Willie Mays is, likewise, trying to bring his career to a close in a respectable style. But both were treated miserably in their plight.

The Old Man's fish was torn apart by the sharks and after last Sunday's pathetic performance by Willie Mays, the press also tore into his legend. They said he looked foolish, that he looked like an old man playing a young man's game, that he should have quit years ago.

In the Hemingway novel, the old man, totally exhausted from his struggle with the sharks, just fell asleep in his hut. There was no assurance that the next day of his life would be any brighter than they had been in the past.

But for Willie Mays, you hope the ending is different. You hope that he leaves baseball in the same manner he came in, in a blaze of glory. The first hit of his career was a homerun and somehow, you even believe that this is just what is going to happen in his last time at bat. You start making up reasons why this will happen, saying that it is fate and fate alone that has given Willie Mays a chance to even play in another World Series. (This seems to be the only logical explanation for the Mets getting into the Series.)

Fantasy! you say. Yes, it is. But what better ending for the great Willie Mays legend could there possibly be?

New England's Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

Weather

"Kathy, I'm lost," I said, though I knew she was sleeping.

Recyclable

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 30 UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS THURSDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1973

Students Needed For Israeli Work Force

By SUE ADLEY

The outbreak of the near Mid-East crisis has led more than 50 people within the last few weeks to volunteer their services in Israel.

What does this involve? Rabbi Aryeh Meir of Hillel, the Jewish organization on campus, described it as a "civilian volunteer program".

"This was set up," he said, "to fill places within the Israeli society that were due to the depleted work force as a result of the crisis. All of the workers have left their jobs to fight in the army, which is now fully mobilized and will be for some time to come. People are needed to work on farms (especially the kibbutzim, the collective farms), drive city trucks and help out in schools. This is totally civilian work."

That is where the student volunteers come in. The program is being run by a New York City organization called "Sherut la'am," which is a Hebrew term meaning "service to the nation". It offers people between the ages of 18 and 24 the opportunity to go to Israel for six months or more to work in various aspects of Israeli society. "This is a type of 'Peace Corps' program," Rabbi Meir said, "and a similar program was offered during the six-day war in 1967."

After initially signing up, the candidates for the program are interviewed by people in Hillel. If they pass this preliminary test, they are interviewed by representatives from Sherut la'am. If they are accepted the second time, they are in the program. Aside from the interviews, the candidates must fill out several applications.

"Sherut la'am would like the people to leave as soon as possible and make a commitment to go to Israel for at least six months. However, if they can go only for a shorter time (the rest of the semester, for example), they may do that also," said Rabbi Meir. Aside from the commitment, the only other things that are expected of the people going are a validated passport, a recent medical exam and payment of their own round-trip plane fare, which is approximately $450.

"At this time, we cannot accept anyone who can't pay for his own flight tickets. All money in contributions that Hillel has acquired (much from the recent rally for Israel at the University) is being used for aid to Israel. This amount is over $10,000," the Rabbi said.

The volunteers have several alternatives as to their studies. First, they make arrangements with their professors for make-up work, or special work they may do in relation to their experiences while in Israel, such as a term paper. The second choice is to withdraw, take a leave of absence or take incompletes on grade reports for subjects this semester. According to Rabbi Meir, most students have had little or no trouble so far doing one of these.

A few students, while waiting to be interviewed in the Hillel office by Sherut la'am, expressed their reasons for applying. Jeffrey Plotkin, a student from Athol, said he hoped to fill a need. Plotkin has been in Israel twice, and has worked on a Kibbutzim before through an agency in London, where he once lived. "What do I hope to accomplish? I'd like to fill the vacuum created by the war, and aid the economy," he said.

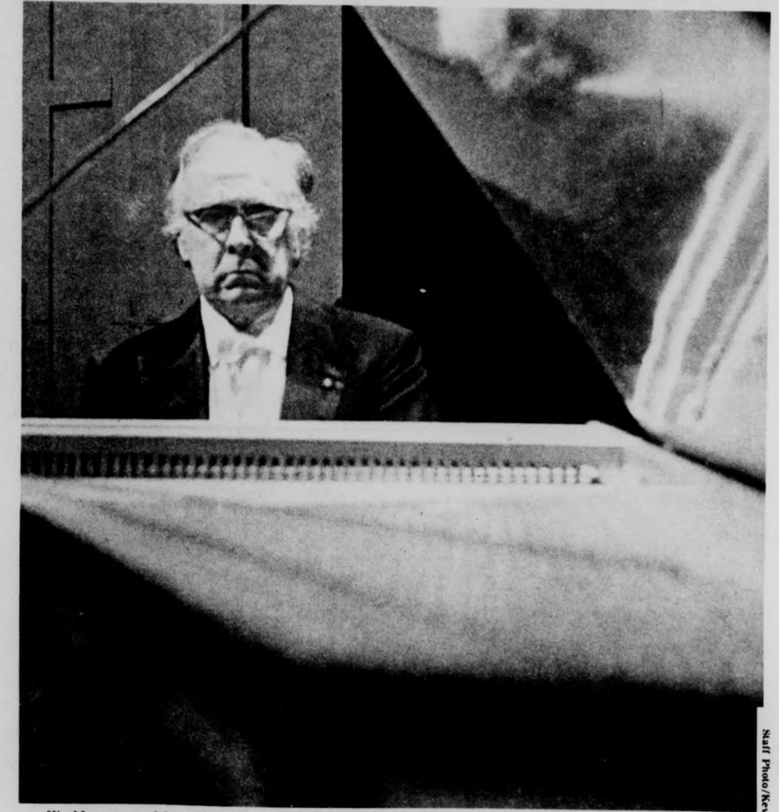
Marcia Rosen is a student who lives on campus. "I'd like to do something for someone else. I've always wanted to go to Israel, and now Israel needs me," she said. Ms. Rosen expressed an interest in possibly going for a full six-month stint, and perhaps doing hospital work.

Giuseppe and Louise DeSimone live in Northampton, and are not students at the University. Both said they want to stay for at least six months, and longer if they are needed. "Israel is very short of people, and I would just like to try to be of some help, maybe in the Kibbutzim. It's a very sad situation for both Israel and the Arabs," DeSimone said. "Agriculture in Israel is very important. The country is shorthanded right now, and by my services I could help to fill this shortage of manpower," Ms. DeSimone said.

Rabbi Meir gave his feelings about the volunteers: "We have both Jews and non-Jews applying. Most of them are concerned about the fate of Israel. They are moved by things other than personal gain, such as the Jewish humanitarian cause. They feel they can best fulfill themselves by going and contributing."

The Rabbi said that there are many and varied reasons why people apply. "Personal reasons are very different. Some people are bored with what they're doing now. Others feel the opportunity is romantic and exciting. Still others feel they want to make a sacrifice. Most of the people have a genuine sense of wanting to serve and give, rather than to take," he said.

"There is no pay, the work is hard and the living standard is considerably lower on the Kibbutzim than here. After the initial excitement and romantic feelings are gone, the back-breaking work can get to be a drag. During the interviews we try to prepare the candidates for this psychologically and really make them think whether or not they will be able to stick it out once they are there," Rabbi Meir said.



Staff Photo/Kevin Mack

World renowned harpsichordist, Ralph Kirkpatrick, appeared last night at Bowker Auditorium in a concert presented by the Fine Arts Council. Last night's program consisted entirely of works by Johann Sebastian Bach. Mr. Kirkpatrick will be performing again tonight at 8:00 p.m. in Bowker Auditorium, playing pieces by J. S. Bach, Francois Couperin, and Domenico Scarlatti.

Staff Photo/Janice Cerrone

LAST NIGHT IN THE HATCH...Each wednesday a coffeehouse is held giving everyone an opportunity to play or just sit around and get high. Mike Frank is shown taking the honors.

UMass Police Duties Unsure

By DAVE DROLET

Selectman Leo Bouchard has been upset recently with the fact that campus police have full "special police" powers with respect to the town of Amherst off-campus. While representing a motion at Tuesday night's Board of Selectmen meeting which could curtail those powers, he ran into an equally upset campus police official.

Philip J. Cavanaugh, the officer, who insisted he was speaking as a citizen only, strongly disagreed with Selectman Bouchard's contention that there was "deep resentment" among the townspeople as regards the activities of UMass police in town. Cavanaugh stated that all of the hullaballou stemmed from one unfortunate "traffic incident" last spring involving the stopping of an Amherst citizen, "and too much emphasis has been placed this evening and in the papers on traffic."

"University police are fully qualified and were the first in the state to require a psychiatric exam" of officers, he continued. "I have never known my brother officers to order anyone from a car without good reason. We have willingly answered call upon call" for assistance from the town.

When queried as regards where the "line should be drawn" with respect to UMass police activities in the town (off campus), Cavanaugh replied: "I don't think a line should be drawn." The officer is going to be discretionary. If you choose to limit him, you are going to cause a great disservice to Amherst."

Cavanaugh continued his remarks, with mention to a high speed chase at which point Selectman Bouchard interrupted with disbelief: "Any police officer who goes through the town of Amherst at 105 MPH at 12:30 at night..." Bouchard finished his statement with a shake of the head. His motion was subsequently defeated and Town Manager Allen Torrey was directed by the board to continue the mutual assistance agreement between the town and campus police.

In a related event, all 39 members of the UMass police force have reportedly been sworn in recently by Franklin County officials to have jurisdiction to make arrests there in connection with their UMass police work and to patrol the Mt. Sugarloaf State Reservation in South Deefield.

Inside:

U.S. and Soviet officials discuss the Middle East conflict. See story on page 4.

Opinion Varies On Fine Arts Center

By MIKE KNEELAND

As construction nears an end on the $13.8 million Fine Arts Center, some students and faculty members are voicing their displeasures with the results.

Repesentatives monitoring the construction do not even agree on what are and what aren't the problems.

For instance, much criticism has been directed towards the Center's 2200-seat concert hall:

In a press release the administration says a special seating arrangement in the Concert Hall allows those "sitting furthest away from the stage a better view of the performance..."

But Dr. Richard Dubois, a Professor of Music who has been long associated with the Fine Arts Center, says there are many "awkward angles" in some of the balcony seats that may partially obstruct the spectator's view.

Another knowledgable source, who asked not to be identified, said there are "400 seats that the stage can't be seen from." The source said the entire top balcony in the hall is useless.

The view from the balcony is not the only controversy that surrounds the Center's Concert Hall. There is also an acoustics problem.

Dr. Dubois said some preliminary testing has indicated that the Hall is too "live," meaning there is a slight echo.

"We've got to give the architect a chance though," said the music professor. "A more precise scientific test will be conducted soon by the architectural firm."

Dr. Dubois said it might not be difficult to correct a slight acoustics problem. "When the curtains are up and the audience is filled," he said, "the sound might not be 'live'."

Another observer, who also asked that he not be identified by name, said there is a "very serious acoustics problem."

The source said the acoustic problem exists because of the balcony's design.

But the University press release says the balcony seating design is on the contrary, "an acoustical aid."

The Concert Hall is also planned to be used for other functions, including opera, lectures and films. Stage lighting has not yet been installed making it impossible for opera and ballet to perform.

Sources say there might be a problem getting stage lighting installed due to fire law violations. Dr. Dubois said no fire laws are being violated.

Critics also say there is a problem with the 700-seat Theatre in the Center. They say they re pleased with the Theatre itself, but there is one main problem: lack of an adequate loading dock.

This means that touring shows, which the University hopes to attract, will not be able to transfer their equipment into the theatre, sources say.

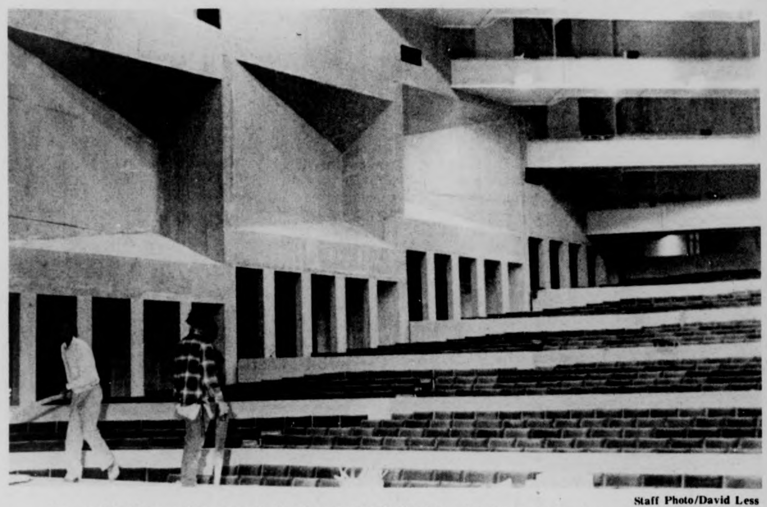
Some experts lay blame for the Center's inadequacies with the architectural firm. Roche and Dinkeloo of Hamden, Conn. A theatre consultant was not hired and critics say this is simply "unbelievable." They point out that few designers have sufficient experience designing theatres.

Kevin Roche, chief designer of Roche and Dinkeloo, has included in his designs an IBM World's Fair Bldg. in New York; the Vivian Beaumont Theatre in New York City's Lincoln Center; the Ford Foundations Headquarters in New York; Museums Complex in Oakland, Calif; and a high school and a few colleges.

The Fine Arts Center is also equipped with a 250-seat lecture hall, a 200-seat studio theatre, 17 classrooms, 75 laboratory-studios, and 56 faculty offices. The entire Center totals more than 200,000 square feet.

Besides Dr. Dubois, Technical Director Ray Nichols and Alan Light of the Fine Arts Council are assuming major roles with the Center's progress. All three men are hopeful the end product will meet their standards.

"I think the whole University should be proud of the excellent Fine Arts Center we'll soon have," concluded Dr. Dubois.



Staff Photo/David Less

Above: Working on the stage in the Concert Hall. Right: A bird's eye view from a window in the Center.

Arab-Israeli Peace Coalition: Trying To Reach A Common Plane

By KATHY FRAZER

"We are not just talking, but trying to reach a common plane" stated Said Khouri Tuesday afternoon at the Arab and Israeli Peace Coalition in the Campus Center.

The meeting of faculty members and students formed the Joint Committee for Peace in the Middle East whose basic objective "is to bring people together to discuss and exchange ideas in spite of the differences," Khouri said.

Marcelo Dascal, an Israeli, and Said Khouri, an Arab, then lead an exchange of views and dialogue on the goals of the Committee. The following statement was then prepared and submitted to the Collegian.

A group of Arab, Israeli and other people concerned about the recent developments in the Middle East, and deeply convinced that it is better now to talk instead of fight, has met in Amherst, and have created a Joint Committee.

The aims of the committee are: 1. To promote the exchange of views between Arab and Israeli students, professors, and other Arab and Israeli citizens now visiting the U.S. 2. To foster rational discussion of the issues involved in the Middle East conflict, aimed at developing joint proposals based on areas of common agreement. 3. To promote the understanding, in each side, of the other sides' fears, expectations, and basic rights. 4. To contribute to the dissipation of the atmosphere of mutual fear, distrust, and threats.

Although we are a group with diverse opinions concerning the conflict and its causes, there is a unanimous feeling that both Arab and Israelis need to understand the point of view of the other side in order to form a basis for rational discussion.

We understand the tremendous difficulties that we face, but we are determined to face them nevertheless.

Our essential commitment is to the rules and aims of rational-instead of emotional-discussion of the issues.

We invite every person deeply concerned with the Middle East problems and willing to accept our basic commitment and statement of aims to join us.

Barry Blufer
Marcelo Dascal
Osman El-Refaie
Alan J. Gross
Noah Hashachar
Richard A. Hoffman
Robert Hyfler
Abbass Kamalizad
Said Khouri
Fred London
Nancy Mazanson
Rabbi Aryeh Meir
Linda Saffan
David Schimmel
Ira Mark Serkes

The Joint Committee was established as a result of recent letters from Khouri and Dascal in the Collegian. All those interested may call 545-2064 for further information.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports); 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year, except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year.

Infirmary
(In An Emergency)
(54)5-2671

DOMINO'S
PIZZA
this Friday

Trying to find something out... but!

Bring questions to box in front of C.C.
Store.

FEEL
AS THOUGH YOU'RE BEING STIFLED
BY ALL
THE RED TAPE?

USE
MDC'S SPECIAL NEW COLUMN

WHAT'S THE STORY? appearing soon!

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

Senate To Discuss Lettuce Boycott Act

By FRAN BROCK

At last night's Student Senate meeting, it was announced that the Commissioner of Agriculture for Massachusetts will attend the Senate meeting next Wednesday night, at 7 o'clock, in order to discuss the repeal of the Lettuce Boycott Act, passed by the Senate three weeks ago.

Along with the Commissioner, there should be members of the Teamster's Union and, hopefully, members of the United Farm Workers Union. Students will also be present to debate the issue.

The meeting will be held in the Public Health Auditorium to insure seats for those in the student body wishing to attend.

A motion was brought before the Senate last night, to raise the Students Activities tax $3 for the spring semester. This increase would be used to fund the Index.

The referendum, brought before the students two weeks ago, resulted in a 7-1 vote in favor of the increase.

Because the referendum was binding with a 28.33 percent of the students voting, the motion was passed.

Other motions dealt with were the funding of the Ski Patrol and the establishing of an escrow, or holding account for concerts in case money was needed to pay for damages. The latter account is to be funded half by the Senate and half by the Concert Committee. This motion was passed; the Ski Patrol was defeated.

Also carried by the Senate, was the appropriation of $300 to the Student Senate Transit-Service to fund an experimental bus service. The service will follow routes similar to those used last year and will resume the South Deerfield and Belchertown routes for commuters from these areas.

If the experiment proves successful, as determined by the Transit Service, a motion will go before the administration to fund the added routes.

Monday, October 22, at one o'clock, the Student Senate will once again challenge the Collegian staff in a game of football. A plea was made for more players and more moral support. The Senate plans on winning this time.

For The Insomniac: 24-Hour Ticket Sales

By MARSHA VENUTI

You may have noticed that the bus ticket window on the main floor of the Student Union has been closed. It is now located in the hotel lobby on the third floor of the Campus Center.

Don Witkoski, manager of the Campus Center Hotel, said that the move was made "to better serve the students." Now there is 24-hour service, he said, which was not offered when the office was located in the Student Union.

In a Collegian interview, Witkoski said that three students have been hired in the hotel to sell bus tickets. An attendant is on duty daily until 10 p.m. specifically to sell tickets, and after that the hotel clerk can sell the tickets. Witkoski said that he expects a better margin of profit because although the office is open more hours, this system uses people who are already employed by the Campus Center.

"Last year we made approximately $11,000 commission from the bus company," Witkoski said. "We hope to reach $12,000 this year." This would mean a net return of $4,000, he said, "which is an improvement over last year's deficit of $130."

Witkoski said that this new system will benefit the students because "now they can purchase a bus ticket up until the last minute, no matter what time the bus is scheduled to leave." Students won't be told to go to the next stop or get the ticket on the bus, as sometimes happened before, he said. People purchasing tickets can wait for the bus comfortably in the hotel lobby, and watch from there for the bus to arrive.

Staff Photo/Bob Gamuche

For the first time in your life you're in the Hatch and there isn't a line to wait in and..POOF!! You either wake up, find you've forgotten something or find that you only have 16¢ and your coffee costs (are you ready) 17¢.

The Life Of A Umie Is One Long Line

By JANET P. ROME

Being at UMass means waiting in lines-from the day you register as a freshman, until the day you wait for your diploma as a senior. You wait for everything in between. That includes your already cold coffee at the Hatch.

Between the hours of 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. you may wait anywhere from five to fifteen minutes to pay for your edible purchases. One thirsty Umie moving inches toward the cashier claimed, "I must spend at least the same time waiting to pay for my coffee as I do to drink it." The overweight, overaged cashier said, "It'd be a lot easier if people would have the right change for their coffee (17 cents). Then we wouldn't have to think up the 8 cents change."

I was fed up myself. I went to talk to Tony Leslie, one of the directors of the Hatch, and "Mr. Franz" Stegbuchner, manager of the Hatch. When I asked about personnel procedures, I was told that there is only one cashier on duty from 7-9 a.m. and from 3 p.m. on. Both cashiers are open from 9 a.m. -3 p.m. The reason you may be late for your 11:15 while you're standing in line at 11:10 is because the ladies take fifteen minute breaks and one of the two women may be drinking coffee while you're waiting to consume your own.

One remedy to the situation is the quicker, self-service line at the other side of the Hatch. (On the other side of the jukebox). If more people frequented that line, which sells coffee, doughnuts, and muffins, service would be quicker on all counts. The main line has more variety and the grill, but if you're just looking for a quick pick-me-up you'd be doing yourself a favor by going the alternate route-The Third Line on the Left."

Kirkpatrick, Music: The Perfect Union

By MARC BOUCHARD

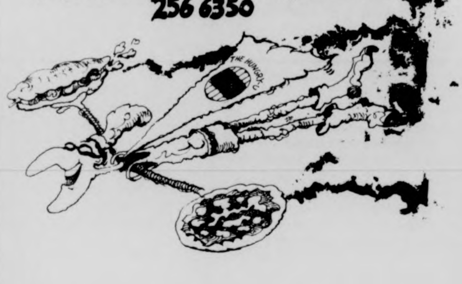
THE MAN shuffled onto the stage. He reminded you of a fine, old Harvard professor who had aged well, but who was horribly ill at ease on a concert stage. But all questions vanished as his hands, after a short moment of contemplation, desended to the fine harpsichord's keyboard. The master has arrived.

Ralph Kirkpatrick, in his concert last night at Bowker auditorium, proved that, musical points aside, he and the harpsichord are an incomparable recital team. The further away from the harpsichord you get, the less enchanting and more mechanical it sounds. But in a small house, the size of Bowker or smaller, the listener can be surrounded and comforted by the tight little sounds without ever losing contact with the piece.

Mr. Kirkpatrick is such a fine performer because he does not break any illusions. Except for an occasional head jerk or a slight grimace at a crescendo (such as it is) he is the picture of serenity, the essence of controlled brilliance.

If you didn't catch his All-Bach performance at Bowker last night, try and secure a ticket for his Bach, Couperin and Domenico Scarlatti program tonight at 8:00.

FOR LIGHTNING FAST DELIVERY ON ANY OF OUR DELICIOUS PIZZAS OR SUBS CALL THE HUNGRY-U
PIZZA PATROL
256 6350



Lafayette's First Annual Veteran's Day Auction
Monday,
Nov. 22nd

All merchandise cash & carry, no lay-aways, all credit cards accepted.
1-5 p.m.
Amps, stereo receivers, speakers ... you name it, we're auctioning it!

Imported RUGBY SHIRTS
$14.95
at FENTON'S
ATHLETIC SUPPLIES
377 MAIN ST. AMHERST
(next to Domino's)

U.S., Soviets Discuss Mid-East War

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States and the Soviet Union have engaged in extensive discussions in the last few days in efforts to find a solution to the Middle East conflict, it was learned Wednesday.

U.S. officials are known to feel that the discussions have not reached the point of specific language for a solution. But they believe there has been a change in the diplomatic situation.

The talks apparently have taken place between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador to the United States.

Sources at the United Nations indicated, meanwhile, that there have been little, if any, meaningful discussions in New York on the matter.

Among the possibilities coming from the U.S.-Soviet discussions are a cease-fire in place or a return to the boundaries existing before the Arab attack nearly two weeks ago.

The talks with the Soviet Union are understood to go beyond a cease-fire itself to cover an over-all settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict.

In a related matter, State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey said Wednesday an American route has been established for the air delivery of arms and other military equipment to Israel.

McCloskey declined to outline the delivery route, but the United States has an agreement with Portugal allowing American military aircraft to land and refuel in the Azores in the Middle Atlantic.

Meanwhile, President Nixon met with the foreign minister of four Arab nations Wednesday and proclaimed afterward that a Mideast peace "can and will and must be achieved."

Nixon and Foreign Minister Umar al-Saggaf of Saudi Arabia talked briefly to newsmen in the White House rose garden after a 50-minute conference that also included the foreign ministers of Algeria, Kuwait and Morocco.

Kissinger and the Arab ministers decided after the White House conference to continue the discussions at the State Department, a spokesman for Kissinger reported.

Nixon conferred with the foreign ministers after they had spent 45 minutes with Kissinger and prior to their trip to the State Department to continue discussions with the Secretary of State.

Nixon, while acknowledging that the United States and the Arab nations have differences over means toward peace as well as "certain ends," said all were dedicated to the goal of "a fair and just and equitable peace."

(AP Cablephoto from Tel Aviv)

FIRE SYRIAN POSITIONS--Israeli 155mm self-propelled gun kicks up cloud of smoke as it is fired on Syrian positions southwest of Damascus. Tank and artillery duels have characterized action recently on the Syrian front.

Israelis Bog Down On Road To Damascus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Israeli command claimed destruction of at least 90 Egyptian tanks Wednesday along the Suez Canal, and its top military man declared "we are now calling the tune."

The Egyptian command reported "fierce battles" along the central and southern Sinai front and claimed Israeli forces suffered "heavy losses in tanks and armored cars."

On the Syrian front, Syrian artillery barrages crashed down on Israelis stalled on the road to Damascus.

In Kuwait, an organization of Arab oil-producing countries announced it has decided to cut oil production by not less than 5 per cent each succeeding month until Israel withdraws from occupied Arab lands and Palestinian refugees' rights are restored.

Israel's chief of staff, Lt. Gen. David Elazar, the head ot Tel Aviv's armies, said Israel's main effort was now concentrated against the Egyptians, and "we are now initiating the attacks on both sides of the Suez Canal."

The Israeli state radio's top commentator, former army intelligence chief Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, called the Suez battle "the biggest armored clash in our military history."

The Israeli command said "large-scale armored battles" raged in the central area along the canal.

Elazar did not indicate if assaults by Tel Aviv forces on the west bank involved an Israeli task force that the command said Tuesday had crossed the waterway to operate in Egypt proper.

Another military spokesman said Wednesday that the task force, whose size has not been specified, "continues to operate in Egypt proper."

In Cairo, Gen. Izzeltin Mukhtar said over television that an Israeli task force operating on the west bank of the canal had been destroyed.

An Israeli military spokesman said in Tel Aviv that the task force "had encountered rear command posts. It has tried to destroy them and has succeeded."

President Nixon met at the White House with four Arab foreign ministers dispatched to Washington from U.N. duty to discuss American military aid to Israel.

Nixon acknowledged afterward that the four - from Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Morocco and Algeria - had "differences" with American policy in the Middle East. But he expressed confidence "a fair and just and peaceful settlement" can end the war, now 12 days old.

King Hussein of Jordan said the future of the Middle East will be shaped by the outcome of the conflict, the fourth major Arab-Israeli war since the birth of Israel in 1948.

"We may still be very far from peace....Yet we may be very close to it," he told newsmen in Amman in his first public statements since fighting broke out. "I believe very strongly that Israel is now in a position to make up her mind, and should do so."

The 37-year-old monarch, who lost much of his kingdom including East Jerusalem in the 1967 war, is reported to have come under heavy pressure from other Arab nations to enter the war full-scale and turn his 250-mile border with Israel into a third front, draining Israeli energies from Syria and the Sinai.

The Israeli push into Syria remained blocked for the fourth day on the approaches to Sasa, a town about 21 miles southwest of Damascus and about 19 miles beyond the cease-fire lines drawn when Israel seized the Golan Heights from Syria in 1967.

Syrian artillery rained shells on the battle-scarred road to Damascus. Associated Press photographer Horst Faas said from the front that dust swirling up from explosions was so thick it clouded the view of Mt. Hermon looking down on the battleground.

Syria said its armor also resumed a counterattack against the Israeli forces that have punched into Syria along a jagged 20-mile wide front.

The Syrians said Israeli planes also attacked Syria's two main Mediterranean ports of Latakia and Tartus for at least the third time in war. The ports are said to be funnels for Soviet military aid reported pouring into Syria and Egypt.

Damascus said three Israeli jets were shot down during the raids but it disclosed nothing on any damage. The Syrians said an Israeli Mirage also was knocked out of the sky in a dogfight 13 miles northwest of Damascus.

The report brought to 559 the number of Israeli aircraft claimed shot down by Syria and Egypt. Israel was reliably estimated to have 488 planes in its air force before the war started and military analysts considered the Arab claims inflated.

The United States nevertheless has mounted an emergency program to resupply Israel with F4 Phantom jets, tanks and other war material. U.S. officials said in Washington that American transport planes are delivering 700-800 tons of equipment a day.

Arab oil ministers met in Kuwait to discuss using their oil as a weapon against Israel and those who support the Israelis.

MDC
NEWS HOTLINE
5-2550

The Flavor of America
Howard Johnson's
Hadley Rt. 9
Daily Specials $1.99
Monday: Fish Fry
Tuesday: Spaghetti Spree
Wednesday: Deep Sea Dinner
Thursday: Turkey Gobbler
Friday: Clam Fry
Seconds on us

Male
Cinch-back, 100% cotton corduroy jeans. Lots of colors and super detailing. Sizes 26 to 36, at...
WEAR-HOUSE
201 NORTH PLEASANT STREET
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
OPEN THURS. & FRI till 9

Nixon Scores Big Legal Victory

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A federal judge ruled Wednesday that the Senate Watergate committee has no authority to sue President Nixon in an effort ot obtain White House tapes of presidential conversations.

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's dismissal of the committee's civil suit marked the first legal victory for the President in his battle to withhold the tapes from the committee and special Watergate prosecutor.

Two court decisions have affirmed the special prosecutor's argument that the President must give the tapes to a federal grand jury investigating the scandal.

But Sirica said the committee had failed to get congressional authority to sue the President.

A committee spokesman said the decision would probably be appealed.

Meanwhile, three corporations which admitted making illegal contributions to President Nixon's re-election campaign pleaded guilty to misdemeanor violations of federal law.

In a brief order, Sirica said the court lacked jurisdiction in the tapes suit, an argument made by the White House in its opposition to the committee's civil action.

"No jurisdictional statute known to the court, including the four which plaintiffs name, warrants an assumption of jurisdiction, and the court is therefore left with no alternative here but to dismiss the action," Sirica said.

Sirica's decision followed by less than a week the U.S. Court of Appeals ruling upholding his earlier order in the case involving nine tapes subpoenaed by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

In that case Sirica ordered the President to give him the tapes to hear in private so that he could determine if Nixon's claim that they must be kept secret was valid.

The President is expected to carry his appeal in that case to the Supreme Court. He has until Friday to ask the Supreme Court to review the case.

The three companies charged Wednesday with misdemeanors over campaign contributions are American Airlines, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., and Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. Charges were also filed against the board chairman of Goodyear and Minnesota Mining.

Goodyear and its board chairman, Russell deYoung, pleaded guilty in federal court in Cleveland. The company was fined $5,000 and deYoung $1,000, the maximum fines for each.

After entering guilty pleas in federal court in St. Paul, Minn., Minnesota Mining was fined $3,000 and its board chairman and chief executive officer, Harry Heltzer, $500.

American Airlines entered a guilty plea and was fined $5,000.

The companies and their executives were charged with violating federal law which prohibits campaign contributions from corporate funds.

In The Nation And The World

(AP Wirephoto)

(AP)-President Anwar Sadat, left and his war minister, General Ahmed Ismail acknowledge crowd cheers on their way to National Assembly Building here Tuesday before delivering his nationwide speech.

Egypt Stops Laughing At Itself

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associated Press writer

CAIRO (AP) - Moshe Dayan phones Anwar Sadat and asks him, "Is this 48, 56, or 67?," a reference to the dates of Egypt's last three defeats at the hands of Israel.

"No," Sadat retorts, "this is 10-6-73," the day the latest Middle East war began.

Well, it's not a very funny joke, and therein lies a tale of Egyptian success on the battlefield.

Egyptian wit is dormant as Cairo's troops dig in on the other side of the Suez Canal after crossing what had been termed the best antitank ditch in the world.

Jokesmiths seems to have run dry. What few jokes are traded in the coffee houses these days are flat by the usual Egyptian standards, like the one above.

The reason is that for centuries Egyptians accustomed to the short end of the stick have aimed their native humor at the foibles of their own leaders, and the trials that life threw their way.

Egyptian jokes at their best are a sharply barbed defense mechanism against poverty, hidebound bureaucrats, bumbling politicians, nagging wives and so on.

But suddenly the Egyptians have the unaccustomed feeling of being winners. Result: no jokes aimed at President Sadat, his generals or the troops.

White House Defends Bebe Rebozo's "Contribution"

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Under a barrage of questions, a White House spokesman said wednesday that President Nixon is confident that his close friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo, "acted properly" in connection with a reported $100,000 in campaign contributions.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren turned aside some earlier questions about the money, which Rebozo is said to have kept in a safe deposit box for several years and Nixon's feelings about it, by saying, "This is a story that has gone on too long as far as I am concerned."

Warren has said that Nixon was informed by Rebozo earlier this year that he had received the money. Warren said that Rebozo had discussed the $100,000 before the Senate Watergate Investigating Committee staff. The money purportedly came from multimillionaire Howard Hughes.

Rebozo has said the money was returned last spring to a Hughes attorney.

Warren said "we are confident" that it was a campaign contribution.

A reporter asked whether in view of the many times the President and Rebozo spent together Nixon really expected the American people to believe that Rebozo had never told him about this money in the safe deposit box.

"Yes," replied Warren, "because it happens to be the truth."

Ford Ready For Tough Inquiry

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford says he expects Congress to conduct an intensive investigation into his past before it confirms him because he is in "a precedent-setting circumstance."

Ford, the first man to come under the 25th Amendment's procedure for replacing a vice president, said in an interview, "What they do in my case will be a good example for what they might do in some other case."

"And I believe that under the circumstances the person selected in this situation as in any other has to have his life exposed in a factual way to the maximum degree."

Ford said he will give the Senate Rules committee the full access it wants to his medical records and said he has no objection to its request to audit his federal income tax returns.

Ford also said the FBI has interviewed him for its investigation for Congress' confirmation committees and said "to my knowledge" it found no incidents that might embarass him.

The Time is Coming to get up and DANCE
to CLEAN LIVING and NRBQ
2 Shows: 7:00 - 10:30
11:00 - 2:30
C.C. Auditorium $1.50
Tickets available on Concourse level and at the door
Presented by the Program Council
TOMORROW

Colonel Sanders
Big Clam Fry...
Wednesdays and Thursdays, Only...
Feeds 4 - 6
Boat of tendersweet baby clams
Quart of French Fries
Pint ot Cole Slaw
Quart of Soda
$4.99
Clip the coupon
Chicken-In seating for 54
Chicken-Out Delivery Free
256-8745
Kentucky Fried Chicken.
Rte. 9 (across from Zayre's) Hadley
256-8745

(AP Wirephoto)

PREPARES FOR HORSE TRIALS--Capt. Mark Phillips, fiance of Britain's Princess Anne, rides Maid Marion, an 8-year-old bay mare, during practice for next weekend's Ledyard Farm Horse Trials at Hamilton, Mass. He is a member of Britain's Olympic Gold Medal Team.

Close Fighting Highlights Cambodian Conflict

PHNOM PENH (AP)-Close fighting and hand-to-hand combat were reported all day Wednesday in the market of the isolated and besieged district town of Tram Khnar, diplomatic sources said.

Tram Khnar, 24 miles southwest of Phnom Penh and 12 miles behind insurgent lines, has been surrounded for almost a year.

Cambodian military sources said the town straddling Highway 3 is garrisoned by an under-strength government brigade estimated at about 1,000 men.

The town, too far away from artillery support from government lines, has four 105mm howitzers and two 37mm antiaircraft pieces inside its defense perimeter.

Field reports from Phnom Penh's southern defense zone reported government troops launched a combined armor and infantry operation north of the government's main defense line on the Prek Thnot River and only five miles from Phnom Penh.

Military commanders said the operation was designed to root out long time insurgents hiding in the swamps and marshes north of the Prek Thnot River and south of the Chosung Ek lake that borders on Phnom Penh.

Agencies Assemble At Chelsea Disaster Area

CHELSEA, Mass. (AP) - Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., gathered a score of federal, state and other officials at the Chelsea Armory yesterday for a planning session on specific ways the agencies can help people burned out in last Sunday's 18-block fire.

David Meeker, assistant secretary of the Housing and Urban Development Administration, accompanied Brooke. Mayor Paul Spelman attended the four hour session, along with representatives of state agencies and the federal offices which will be involved under President Nixon's declaration of Chelsea as a disaster area.

It was announced that the center for dispensing all forms of assistance will be operated in the Williams School, which is on the edge of the fire area and was itself damaged in the fire.

An Army Corps of Engineers spokesman said that talks are under way with contractors, and it is expected by the end of the week they will bring in bulldozers to knock down walls which remained standing after the fire.

Many of them are a menace to people who might go near them because of destruction of other walls and supporting walls and roofs.

The housing agency reported that the primary aim is to obtain shelter for people whose homes were destroyed, and if this cannot be accomplished soon, mobile homes will be brought in.

The mobile homes were called a last resort because of sewer and utility problems.

49, 416 New Canadians Register During Amnesty

OTTAWA (AP)-The government's 60-day amnesty program for illegal immigrants brought 49,416 registrations by the Oct. 15 deadline.

An immigration official said yesterday afternoon the final total may be altered slightly by last minute mail registrations. Persons who sent letters postmarkedbefore midnight Oct. 15 would qualify under the program.

With registration over, the task of processing applications continues. So far 22,918 persons have been approved for landing, 26,498 are under consideration and 19 have been deferred for review.

About 4,236 aliens came forward on the final registration day Monday.

Oil On Top In Mid-East

Energy Crises Tied In Policy

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The new Arab-Israel war can mean a delayed but painful jolt to the American consumer and perhaps even to his West European and Japanese counterparts.

The war's impact on an already worrisome energy situation depends on whether - and how much - the Arab oil producers want to punish Washington for supporting Israel.

Current figures show that Arab oil accounts for about 1.1 million barrels a day of U.S. imports, or only about six per cent of the U.S. daily consumption. It is highlv unlikely that the Arab nations ever would act in unison to cut off all of that. But even what might seem a relatively small cutback would hurt in today's circumstances.

Western thirst for oil rises so sharply and rapidly that available statistics tend to fall behind the actual situation.

But is could easily happen that measures to conserve energy would require rapid and burdensome rationing for the U.S. public, say industry experts.

Several days ago William E. Simon, chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee, said that if the United States was willing to make an all-out conservation effort it could cut consumption by as much as three million barrels a day.

"That could be achieved, but not without very severe rationing," says John Lichtblau, an oil economist with the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation.

A petroleum planner who asked to remain anonymous said that without stringent rationing the best that might be accomplished would be a cut of half that much.

As of this month the United States was importing 6.4 million barrels of crude and refinery products daily, a large chunk of a daily U.S. consumption estimated anywhere between 13 and 17 million barrels. The sources of these imports are Iran, Nigeria, Canada, Latin American and the Arab producing countries.

The oil story is complicated.

In the 1967 Arab-Israel war, the Arabs declared an embargo, but it had little impact because the United States didn't need Arab oil then.

Today there is not spare production capacity in the United States to speak of, or almost any place else.

Arab producers don't want to shut off their oil incomes. Even a temporary shutdown would hurt and could even damge the Arab war effort that their contributions help finance. A selective embargo seeking to shut off exports to the United States wouldn't work, either, because trans-shipment deals could get the oil to America anyway.

Arabs Link Oil To Israel Stand

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A group of Arab oil-producing countries announced yesterday they would cut oil production by a minimum of five per cent immediately and an additional five per cent each succeeding month until Israel withdraws from occupied Arab territory and restores Palestinian refugees' rights.

The Organization of Arab Petroleum Exporting Countries took the action at a meeting held in Kuwait to determine how to use oil resources as a weapon against Israel and its supporters in the Middle East war.

Oil production cutbacks also were an underlying concern as President Nixon met in Washington with the foreign ministers of Algeria, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Morocco for 50 minutes.

Nixon said afterward that while there were differences between the Arabs and the United States he believes "a fair and just and peaceful settlement" can be reached in the war.

The U.S. House of Representatives, meanwhile, passed an across-the-board mandatory fuel allocation bill that would go beyond the Nixon adminstration's limited program.

The bill, opposed by the administration, would not solve the energy crises but would spread the expected shortage of petroleum fuels evenly, its supporters said.

The Washington action came amid reports of increased fighting in the Middle East, accelerating U.S. efforts to resupply Israel and growing concern about the effects of an Arab production cutback.

Sea Conference Doubtful In Chile

OTTAWA (AP) - The recent overthrow of Chile's Marxist government could result in the 1974 Law of the Sea conference being held elsewhere, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp said yesterday.

He told Lloyd Crouse PC South Shore in the Commons that it is doubtful if the conference will be held ago, but no decision was made.

A new venue for the two-month conference, to start in April, is expected to be high on the agenda of a preparatory conference late this year in New York.

Outside the House, Mr. Sharp said Canada has not formally invited the conference to this country.

"Besides," he said, "It's not very advantageous to have it at home. You cannot make as strong a pitch if you are the host."

Canada and a number of other coastal states are expected to press for a 200-mile offshore jurisdictional limit that would facilitate control over all marine resources, including oil under the continental shelf.

BLUEWALL
October 17, 18, 19, 20
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Boston Assessments Differ In Black, White Sections

BOSTON (AP)-State Reps. Royal L. Bolling and Royal L. Bolling Jr., both Boston Democrats, charged yesterday that homeowners in the predominantly black Roxbury section of the city pay "proportionally two to four times as much property tax" as homeowners in the predominantly white West Roxbury section.

"A comparison of the assessments in the two areas over the past three years indicates a disparity of alarming proportions," the Bollings said in a statement.

see the exciting U.Mass.
HOMECOMING GAME
Sunday, Oct. 21
at the BLUEWALL!

---

74 Slowdown Expected In Nation's Economy

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Three prominent economists told Congress yesterday they expected a slowdown in the nation's economy in 1974.

Nobel Prize winner Paul A. Samuelson predicted "both inflation and stagnation in job opportunities."

"Although the bulk of expert opinion is still against this, the American economy might face in 1974 a full-fledged recession," the Massachusetts Institute of Technology economist said.

Paul W. McCracken, former chairman of President Nixon's Council of Economic Advisers, said a 1974 recession was possible but that there were many buffers against it, including greatly improved prospects for U.S. exports.

"What is more likely is a period of sluggish growth, but the U.S. economy in 1974 will employ more people and generate more real purchasing power and output than in 1973," he said.

McCracken, a University of Michigan professor, said a recent survey by a university research center showed that a two-to-one majority of American consumers expect bad business conditions for the next five years.

Michael K. Evans, of Chase Econometric Associates, Inc., the third economist appearing on a panel before the Senate-House Economic Committee, said "there is virtually no chance that the slowdown next year will not develop on schedule."

No. Ireland Still Hot

BELFAST (AP) - British troops arrested 17 suspected guerrillas yesterday following the killing of a Belfast policeman. In Londonderry, a guerrilla sniper shot and wounded a soldier.

An army spokesman said those arrested in Belfast included top members of the diehard Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army.

Paul Dudley White Suffers Stroke

BOSTON (AP) - Dr. Paul Dudley White, the noted heart specialist, has suffered another stroke and is described as "moderately to seriously ill" at Massachusetts General Hospital.

A hospital spokesman said yesterday that Dr. White, 87, was admitted Monday after suffering a stroke which affected his speech and the right side of his body.

The world-famous leader of the fight against heart and blood vessel disease suffered what was described as a "mild stroke" on May 29, and was hospitalized until June 19.

On Aug. 13, he was re-admitted to Massachusetts General and had a blood clot removed from his brain on Aug. 17th. A hospital spokesman said Dr. White did not have a stroke at that time, as was reported, and was discharged Sept. 18.

Dr. White had long campaigned for a regiment of exercise and moderation of food and drink as a way of avoiding or minimizing heart disease.

He became nationally known when he became President Dwight D. Eisenhower's medical consultant when the President was stricken with a heart attack in 1955.

Monitor Feels Pinch

BOSTON (AP) - The Christian Science Monitor yesterday confirmed that it has temporarily dropped its Saturday editions effective Nov. 3.

John Huse, editor, said publication of the Saturday editions would be suspended for the duration of the newsprint shortage.

A spokesman for the paper said the news content had already been reduced somewhat, particularly the international edition which is printed in London. Two pages were dropped from that edition.

The newspaper's circulation is between 150,000 and 200,000 daily, and publication will continue Monday through Friday, the spokesman said. Copies of the newspaper are printed at five plants: Beverly, Somerset, N.J., Chicago, Glendale, Calif., and London.

Tho Could Reject Nobel Peace Prize

PARIS (AP) -A North Vietnamese official indicated yesterday that Politburo member Le Duc Tho may reject the Nobel Peace Prize awarded to him jointly with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"I am only expressing my personal opinion," the official said, "but I would be very surprised if Le Duc Tho accepts the prize." The official declined the use of his name.

There has been no official comment thus far from Hanoi on the award announced on Tuesday.

The official said the award was particularly inappropriate because it placed Tho and Kissinger as peacemakers on the same plane.

Ski In Spain!

The UMass Physical Education Department is offering a two-credit ski instructional program in the Sierra Nevada Mts. Granada, Spain over intersession, January 8-15.

The all inclusive price of $361 will cover the costs of instruction, transportation, lodging, meals, and tax and tip.

Approximately 20 hours of on the slope instruction by Sierra Nevada Ski school staff and 10 hours of biomechanical analysis by UMass' Dr. Gideon Ariel will be offered.

Students will stay six nights in a four star hotel located at the base of the mountain. This eliminates wasted travel time to and from the ski area. Three meals per day are also featured in the pact.

A ski pass will be provided to allow for daily unlimited use of all T-bars, chairlifts, and cable cars.

Students will be flown from Boston to Malaga, Spain via TWA. Baggage allowance is limited to 44 lbs. per person. Skis, poles and boots will be carried at no additional charge.

For additional information on the program and enrollment procedures, contact the general physical education office in 209 Boyden, (545-2338). There will be an organizational meeting on Tuesday, October 23 at 4:30 p.m. in Room 249 Boyden.

NABISCO
BARNUM'S ANIMALS
CRACKERS
NET WT. 2 OZ. 57 GRAMS

Staff Photo/David Less

"Some people think UMass is a zoo....but this is ridiculous!"

People In The News

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)-Singer Elvis Presley, hospitalized with pneumonia, is "doing great and watching television," his father said Tuesday night.

"Elvis may be released from the hospital in three or four days because he is feeling much better. He is able to get up and walk around," said Vernon Presley.

++++

WASHINGTON (AP)-H.R. Haldeman's crewcut is gone.

The former White House staff chief appeared at U.S. District Courthouse yesterday with hair several inches longer than usual.

Haldeman went before a federal grand jury receiving evidence on a number of matters from the special Watergate's prosecutor's office.

++++

TOKYO (AP)-Rudolph A. Peterson, former San Francisco banker who heads the United Nations Development Program, left Peking on Wednesday for Shanghai and Kwangchow, the Hsinhua News Agency reported.

In a broadcast monitored here, Hsinhua said Peterson and other U.N. officials discussed China's role in U.N. multilaterial assistance programs. They visited factories and places of historical interest in Peking, the broadcast said.

++++

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP)-Ed Leach says he got sick of New York's snow and dirt, so he moved here to live in a tent made of plastic garbage bags. "I just threw a bundle on my back and took off for Miami," said Leach, who arrived two years ago in this farm town 35 miles south of Miami.

Leach, in his mid-50's, doesn't like to talk about the past. He said he worked as a dispatcher for several large companies, but now he just does odd jobs to earn enough for food.

Biochemistry Seminar: Today's Scheduled Events

A SPECIAL LECTURE by Dr. W.G. Gelb of Pharmacia, Inc. on the subject of Affinity Chromatography Gradient Gel Electrophoresis at 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. in Room 1108, Graduate Research Tower. Equipment utilized for the above techniques will be on display.

At 4:30 p.m. Dr. Martin Freundlich of the Department of Biochemistry, State University of New York at Stony Brook will speak on Leucine tRNA and Its Role in Repression of the Biosynthesis of Isoleucine, Leucine and Valine in S. typhimurium in Room 203, Graduate Research Tower. Coffee will be served at 4:15 p.m.

Wheat Shortage Possible In '74

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's reserve of wheat, even with a record crop this year, could be wiped out entirely by rising export demand, according to reports Wednesday by the Agriculture Department.

Export orders also are continuing to drain off reserves of corn and soybeans, commodities essential for more livestock production in 1974.

Although some of the figures used by the department are in apparent disagreement, their main thrust is toward another record export season for U.S. farm goods, and more competition in the marketplace for consumers already facing the highest retail food prices in history.

Women's Radio Show Planned For Area

A women's radio show is being planned by a group from this area, with time made available on WMUA, on the FM station at the University.

The format will be whatever women want it to be--music, panels, radio theatre, interviews, politics or local issues--anything having to do with social change from a feminist perspective.

Those interested in any aspect of the program, including a study group to get FCC licenses, are asked to write Women's Programming, WMUA, at Marston Hall, UMass, or call Robin at 546-5175 or Joanne at 545-2418.

The Lighthouse

Featuring fresh cooked seafood at low prices. Lobsfer in the rough - fried clams, shrimp, scallops, steamers, fish & chips.

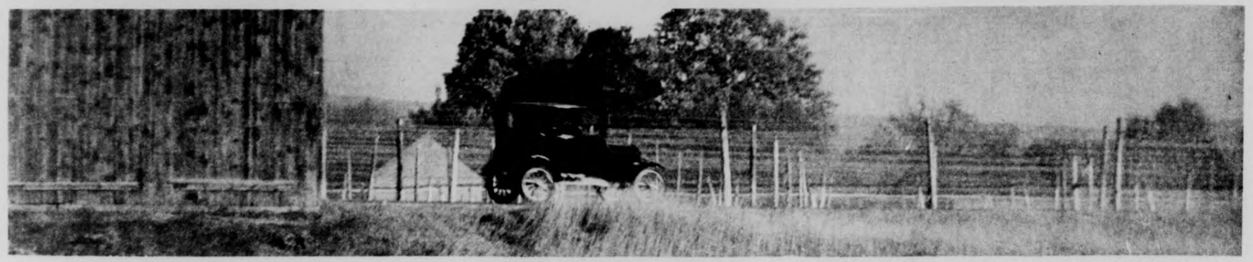
Fish & Chips 99¢

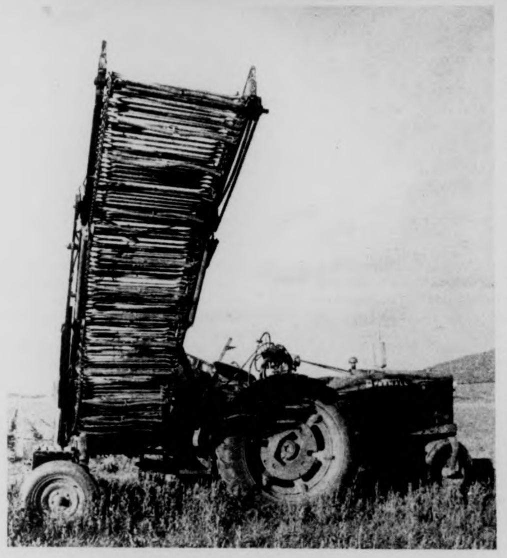
Bring your own beverage if you wish.

Rt. 116, Sunderland On the Amherst town line
Tel. 549-6662

— TONIGHT —
And Every Thursday Night
The Collegian Becomes a Classroom
Layout 101 - Session 1: Intro to Page Layout
Collegian Office, 6:30 p.m., Open to All,
Collegian Staffers Urged to Attend — Refreshments.

Pioneer Valley: Out Of The Past.





Photos and Story By Steve Ruggles

The Pioneer valley is a beautiful region for photographers and sightseers alike; particularly in the fall. From the top of Mount Sugarloaf in Sunderland, the University is a Metropolis plopped in the middle of a vast sea of foliage, hills, and tobacco fields. It makes a good picture, but lately, I've been attracted to other scenes.

This weeken, my camera ran across some pictures which are unique in that it's really difficult to date the scenes.

On route 47 between the Rusty Nail and Hadley, there are a cluster of tobacco fields and sheds. Interspersed are potato fields, farm houses, barns, and also some not so aesthetically pleasing views.

The tobacco fields certainly take on a different look from July to now. The nets are down, the tobacco harvested, and the fields fumigated. This process has probably gone on for scores of years.

The tobacco sheds are a different story. Their changes take more than three months to occur. Some sheds are very dilapidated; some aren't so dilapidated. It's difficult to tell how old these sheds are.

The Model T Ford sedan really fits in with the surroundings. Probably the only way you can tell that the picture was not taken in the 20's or 30's is because they didn't make the zoom lens that I used to take the picture back then.

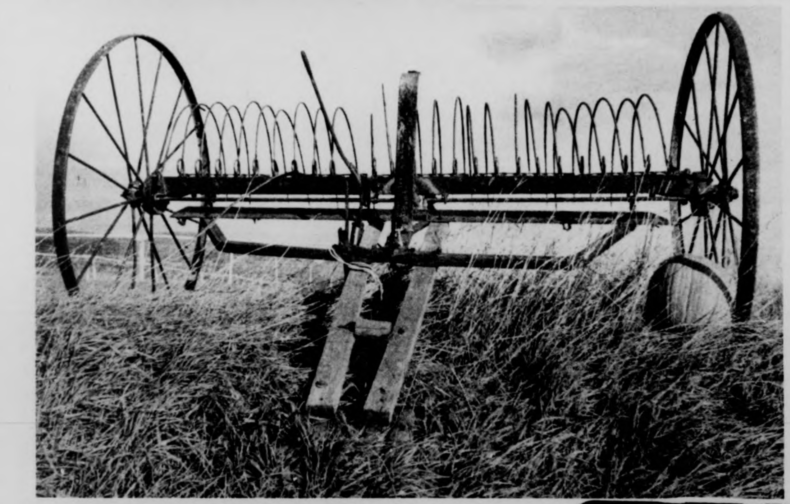
The old hay rake has always been an important piece of machinery on the farm. This elderly hay rake was discovered napping in the field while being kept company by a Halloween pumpkin.

The Farmall tractor dates the photo to an extent, but the owner of the machine says it's over 20 years old. This tractor is used for potato harvesting.

UMass is only a drop in the Pioneer Valley bucket. Many students don't get the chance to get off campus to see the scenery. Many just don't know where to go, or what there is to see. These pictures are just an example of the kinds of ageless scenes that one can see in this area.

The whole world isn't modernized and made of cement and bricks...just part of it!!

23
FUMIGATED
KEEP OUT



The Amherst area is abounding with scenes from 10, 20, 30, even 40 years ago. This Hay rake was found on Route 47.

COPY IT
COPY IT
COPY IT
on the Royal Bond Copier perfect reproduction of
— PHOTOGRAPHS
— DOCUMENTS
— TRANSPARENCIES
at
Hampshire Business Machines
5 Pray St., Amherst
549-6177
549-4439

The un-dormitories.
Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd. oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

No Lease Required
RENT: FROM $185
CALL 413-256-8534
Directions: On Route 47.

SPECIAL OFFER!
Pay for 3... 4th one free prints from your favorite COLOR SLIDES
Get beautiful KODAK Color Prints from your favorite color slides during our Prints-from-Slides special. You buy three and get the fourth one free. No limit to the number of slides. Offer expires November 9, 1973. Hurry in today and ask us for details.
TRIPOD CAMERA SHOP INC
Northampton Amherst
219 Main St. Northampton
584-6040
98 N. Pleasant St., Amherst
253-3039

Computers Enter Supermarkets

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Price stamps on supermarket packages may fall victim to computerization in the near future and consumers don't seem to like the idea.

The food industry is preparing to introduce a new, automated checkout system and part of the plan calls for the elimination of price stamps on individual packages. The price for each item will be posted on the shelf, but not on the can, jar or box.

Virginia H. Knauer, special assistant to the President for consumer affairs, addressed a group of packaging industry executives on Wednesday and urged them to consult consumers before implementing the new plan in order to "help avert a great irritation between business and consumers."

Consumers who are familiar with the idea of packages without price stamps don't seem too happy.

"It looks like a very anti-consumer process," said Ellen Zawel, head of the National Consumer Congress, a group organized after last spring's meat boycott.

Mrs. Zawel said the program "is absolutely in opposition" too consumers' efforts for more information on food packages. Told that the system was expected to cut down the amount of time shoppers spend waiting at the checkout counter, Mrs. Zawel said, "Consumers would rather save themselves money."

Here's how the system would work, according to industry spokesmen:

Manufacturers of packaged items-things like canned goods, cake mixes, cereals,-would stamp a basic code number on the label of each product.

Individual stores would assign prices corresponding to the code numbers. The prices would be posted on shelves above or below the items, but not on the packages themselves.

At the checkout counter, a scanner would "read" the code number and relay it to a computer which, in turn, would figure out the proper price and feed it into the cash register.

Robert Springer, vice president of General Foods and one of the industry group that helped develop the system, said it already had been tested in an Ohio store and probably would be in operation in several dozen stores "about the middle of 1974."

Sewall: No Cause For Investigation

By DAVE SWEARINGEN
Associated Press Writer

AUGUSTA, Maine (AP)-The Legislative Ethics Committee adjourned abruptly Wednesday after it was told there were no grounds on which it could investigate a possible conflict of interest involving Sen. Joseph Sewall, R-Old Town.

The committee, in essence, told Rep. Stanley E. Sproul, R-Augusta, to either file formal charges against Sewall or keep his mouth shut publicly about the case. Sproul later told newsmen he had two complaints against Sewall, one of them from a Wickford, R.I. man.

"This is a continuation of the crap we've had over the last two or three months-alert number one, alert number two, and now alert number three. If this man Sproul is not willing to back up his charges, then he should take his little bundle and leave," said Senate President Kenneth P. MacLeod, R-Brewer.

MacLeod was referring to "alerts" issued by Sproul to the public on a variety of topics over the past several months. The last alert dealt with Sewall's possible conflict of interest.

Sproul said he came to the Wednesday hearing with the understanding it was preliminary, and to establish ground rules for the investigation. He added that he had no qualms about being put under oath, although his charges were ready to be completely detailed.

The chairman of the ethics panel-House Speaker Richard D. Hewes, R-Cape Elizabeth-gave Sproul the oath, but he was stopped from testifying after several committee members objected to Sproul reading into the record a letter he addressed to Hewes on Monday.

The last paragraph of the letter said Sproul had "received two specific complaints of a serious nature that would have a direct bearing on the question of whether or not contracts between the Dewall Co. headed by Sen. Sewall and the state have always been beyond reproach.

"I have not had time to investigate these complaints adequately enough to use them for the basis of a formal complaint for a hearing, or to make them public at this time..."

Sproul declined to identify one of the complainants, but said the other was Dr. John E. Lukens of Wickford, R.I., who is in the aerial survey business.

Lukens, said Sproul, was disturbed over the circumstances surrounding bids on an aerial survey of the Maine coast being sought last winter by the State Planning Office.

The Rhode Island man asked Atty. Gen. Jon A. Lund for an investigation last month, but Lund ruled there were no grounds for a complaint because the contract was never awarded. The planning office said federal funds for the project were frozen.

Sewall used some sort of influence to keep the contract from being awarded. Sewall noted that his firm's bid in the project wasn't submitted in time, but added that the contract wasn't awarded.

Lund appeared before the ethics committee to tell its members-all legislative leaders-that to act on any conflict of interest case, they must either have formal charges under oath from any citizen, or a request from an individual legislator for an advisory opinion.

Sewall said he would consider asking for an advisory ruling. Sproul said he would have to consult with his complainants to see if they wished to file formal charges.

Sewall told the committee he would respond at a public hearing to any formal charges brought against him, but "it is not my intent to answer here today to irresponsible, undocumented allegations made in the press."

"If I have to file a formal complaint, I certainly will. I'll listen to Sproul's advice, and see what he says," Lukens told The Associated Press in a telephone interview late Wednesday.

The Rhode Island man said he had filed his complaint with Lund when he learned that Sproul was raising the conflict of interest question, so he gave the lawmaker a copy of the complaint.

"We felt as though the rejection of our bid was purely on the grounds they wanted to give it to the company-which was Sewall's-which didn't have time to get the bid in.

Georgia Gov. Sees "No Polarization"

By DALLAS LEE
Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) - Gov. Jimmy Carter said Wednesday that the election of a black as mayor of Atlanta and a white as city council president showed "that there has been no polarization" in Atlanta.

Maynard Jackson, 35, won the mayoral post from incumbent Sam Massell with 20 per cent of the votes in white precincts as well as overwhelming support from black areas in a runoff election Tuesday.

He gained 59.2 per cent of the total vote in the election. At the same time, Wyche Fowler, a moderate white, defeated Hosea Williams, a black civil rights activist, by a three-to-one margin for the city council presidency.

The racial issue was a key one in the mayoral runoff and Carter said, "I am very grateful that the outcome does not indicate any racial division in the city. The simultaneous election of Maynard Jackson and Wyche Fowler...is a fine indication that there has been no polarization in the capital city."

Jackson, who will take office next Jan. 7 as the first black chief executive of a major city in the South, said after his victory: "Sam's tactics backfired on him...I never lost faith in this city."

The Atlanta Journal, in an editorial on Wednesday, said that the voters proved Atlanta "too young to die" by rejecting Massell's efforts to "bring Ku Klux Klan politics back to city hall."

During his campaign, Massell, who won the mayor's seat four years ago with strong support from black precincts, contended that Jackson "scares the daylights out of many white Atlantans."

MIT Raises Tuition Rate

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - Massachusetts Institute of Technology announced Wednesday a $250 increase in tuition, bringing the academic year rate to $3,350 effective with the beginning of the summer session next year.

President Jerome B. Weisner said that the increase was taken after a review of probable costs and revenues over the next several years.

He said MIT's costs for energy had risen 30 per cent in the last 12 months, and that it will go even higher.

Congress Passes Fuel Bill

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Wednesday overwhelmingly passed an across-the-board mandatory fuel allocation bill that would go beyond the Nixon Administration's own, more limited program.

Only minutes before the 337-72 vote, word reached the House floor that the Arab oil producing states had announced a five per cent monthly cut in exports to the United States until Israel withdraws from Arab territory.

Both supporters and opponents of the legislation agreed it "would not provide one additional barrel of oil," only ensure that all sections of the country share the burden of fuel shortages equally.

The bill introduced by Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald, D-Mass., would require allocation of crude oil and all refined petroleum products, including home heating oil and gasoline. The administration's fuel oil program, scheduled to take effect Nov. 1, would allocate home heating oil, kerosene, jet fuel and certain other distillates, but does not include crude oil or gasoline.

The House bill also would allow service stations automatically to pass any rise in the wholesale price of fuel on to the consumer - something they are prohibited from doing under Phase 4 regulations.

The bill, which is opposed by the administration, would require President Nixon to carry out mandatory allocation within 25 days of its enactment. The measure must first go to conference with the Senate, which has passed a similar bill.

Lafayette's First Annual Veteran's Day Auction
Monday,
Nov. 22nd
All merchandise cash & carry, no lay-aways, all credit cards accepted.
1-5 p.m.
Amps, stereo receivers, speakers ... you name it, we're auctioning it!

BACK TO THE CAGE
U.Mass. Musical History
Flips a Page
the concert committee
— Presents —
DONNY HATHAWAY
and
CHICK COREA
Sunday, October 28, 1973 8:00 p.m.
Curry Hicks Cage
Tickets: $3.50 Available Only to U.Mass. Undergrads
On Sale at Student Union Lobby Counter
Monday - Friday 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
Limit: 2 tickets/U.Mass. I.D.

U.F.O.s Back Again?

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

John Gilligan is sure the thing he saw in the sky the other night wasn't a bird or a plane.

What was it? Gilligan, who's the governor of Ohio, doesn't really know and that makes him the most prominent on a growing list of people reporting UFOs.

UFOs - unidentified flying objects - have been sighted in growing numbers the last several days. The reports have increased ever since two fellows went fishing in Pascagoula, Miss., last week and said they were briefly taken captive by reddish-looking creatures in wrinkled skin who emerged from a weird-looking spacecraft.

Since then there have been tales of flying objects shaped like cars, cigars, basketballs and turnips and other alleged sightings of funny-looking beings like the ones described in Pascagoula.

The recent renewed reports of UFOs have centered largely on objects that flash various colors at a distance too great to determine exactly what they are.

Gilligan said he and his wife Katie watched a vertical-shaped, amber-colored object for 30 to 35 minutes while driving near Ann Arbor, Mich., Monday night. Gilligan said he didn't know what the object was, but was sure it wasn't a bird or a plane.

He said the object penetrated a cloud cover, and disappeared when the cover broke up.

Similar strange objects reported in Vermont, Tennessee and other areas in the last several days have been explained by astronomers as probably either planes, stars, or balloons, or the planet Mars, their reflections made to look weird by atmospheric conditions.

But that doesn't explain the strange beings which the two Pascagoula fishermen, Charles Hickson and Calvin Parker, say they saw. Two scientists said they placed Hickson and Parker under hypnosis for four hours of questioning, and are sure the two were telling the truth.

There is no documentary proof that extraterrestrial beings have ever existed.

The Air Force closed a 21-year study of 12,097 UFOs in 1969 by concluding there was no evidence of anybody or anything visiting earth from another planet. The Air Force report, endorsed by the National Academy of Sciences, said 90 per cent of all UFO sightings could be palusibly related to planes, satellites, balloons and various natural phenomena.

The Soviet Union apparently isn't so sure. The Soviet news agency Tass said Tuesday that heretofore unreceived signals from the upper layers of the atmosphere had been monitored at four Soviet stations. The report said research was under way to determine what caused the signals, and that the possibility of communication from an extraterrestrial civilization had not been ruled out.

LSU Fears "Yellow Journalism"

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - Because of the newsprint shortage, the Louisiana State University student newspaper, The Daily Reveille, will switch to telephone directory type paper next semester.

Some of the pages will be yellow, like in the telephone book, and Reveille staffers already are beginning to dread the inevitable "yellow journalism" jokes.

"We're pushing to get some purple ink, so we can beg off on purple and gold, the school colors, rather than yellow journalism," said student managing editor Rusty Rein.

The Reveille's existing newsprint supply is being rationed now, so it will last through the fall semester.

Labor Leader To Speak

The Speaker's Program of the Labor Relations and Research Center will kick off its season tonight with a speech by Mr. Steve Karchmar on "Managing a Local Union in the Public Employment Sector".

Karchmar, a graduate of the Labor Relations and Research Center program in Labor Studies, is presently the Executive Secretary of the Service Employees International Union, Loc. 495 in the Worcester area. He has gained recognition in the labor field for his local's rapid growth in membership and for the major improvements in wages and working conditions he has won for the union's members employed in municipal government.

The LRRC will also be having further colloquium during the remainder of the year. Karchmer's speech will begin at 2:30 p.m. in the Campus Center, Rm. 917.

For further information contact David Bloodsworth, Asst. Director, LRRC.

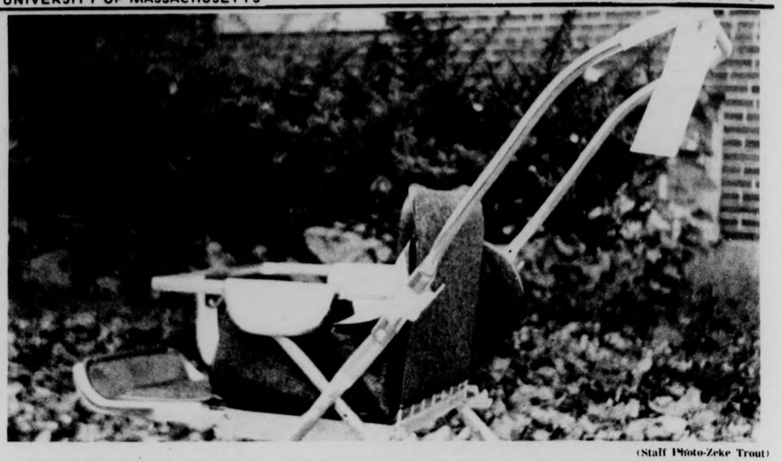
Barbara Stewart
on CUSTOMER SERVICE

Hi! Today I thought I'd tell you about a slightly different aspect of the fashion business. CUSTOMER SERVICE. These two words, CUSTOMER SERVICE, set the fashion specialty store apart from the mass merchandiser and the large department store. Traditionally, customer service has meant alterations ... gift wrap ... out-of-town delivery ... and return privileges; all of which we provide as just good basic services. But for us at Stewart's, the good service is extended to include a bright 'hello' to a familiar friend or a new face, an understanding of our customers' wants and needs based on over one hundred years of combined experience on the sales floor and a selection of fine quality merchandise tailored to the community. I guess you could say that at Stewart's College Towne, CUSTOMER SERVICE really means PERSONAL SERVICE, and we intend to keep it that way.

Oh! and if you happen by our way Saturday mornings between 9:00 and 11:00, drop in and join us for that second cup of coffee and ... There'll be a new treat every week.

STEWART'S COLLEGE TOWNE

96 Main Street, Northampton



(Staff Photo-Zeke Trout)

First this ten dollar ticket for illegally parking in front of Lewis House, then my stroller gets towed. Fifteen bucks..and the thing only cost $24.95.

Electric Cars Almost A Reality

BOSTON (AP)-Electric cars rolled nearer to Boston Wednesday with a joint announcement of establishment of a dealership, and of a chain of "service" stations where the car batteries can be exchanged, or recharged.

Charles F. Myers, president of Electromotion Inc., of nearby Bedford, made the announcement at the showroom of Gaston Andrey, Inc., car dealer with outlets in Brookline, Framingham and Watertown.

Andrey will spearhead the program with leasing of electric vehicles to selected commercial firms, government agencies and private individuals.

Andrey already has exchange-recharge stations in Watertown and Framingham, and is to establish more within the Route 128 perimeter.

At these stations, a vehicle with run down batteries can have an exchange of fully charged batteries in a two minute exchange time. The vehicle could be left at the station for a charge, or be recharged by being plugged into a standard 120 volt outlet.

The vehicles will need to be recharged every 30 to 40 miles.

We Believe
A Stereo System
Should Sound Better
At Home Than
It Does On Paper.

If you have $400-500 to put into a stereo system, there are lots of really good receivers and record players to choose from, but very few speakers that hold up their all-important end of the system. Which is why some systems wind up sounding less impressive at home than they did in the advertisement.

We sell The Smaller Advent Loudspeaker because it turns this situation upside down. Not only do a pair of Smaller Advents sound as good as you (and we) had hoped, but well beyond unreasonable expectations. There is just nothing remotely like them.

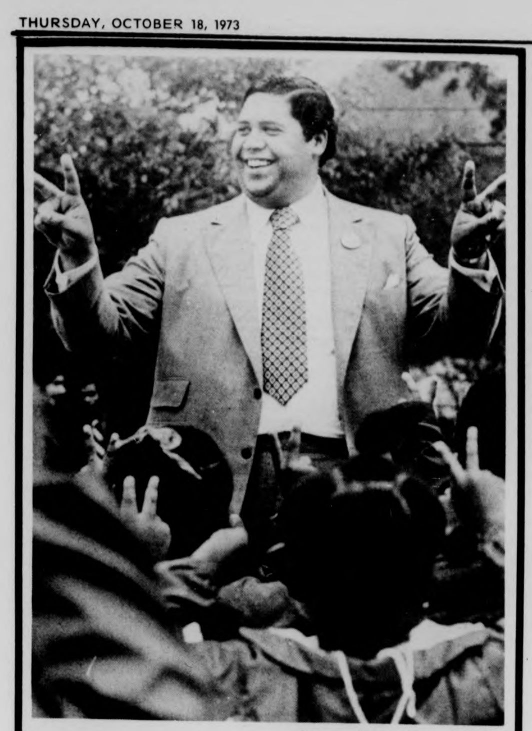
The Smaller Advents were designed to sound as good in every respect, including frequency bandwidth, as any speakers of any price. Test reports in both High Fidelity and Stereo Review magazines agree that their response and overall performance would be noteworthy in any speaker, regardless of size or cost.

To understand just how much of a difference these speakers make in what you actually can hear for your money, come in and listen to the system we've built around a pair of them.

TRIPOD AUDIO

98 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst, Mass. 01002

219 Main Street
Northampton, Mass. 01060



Atlanta Elects A Black Mayor

New Atlanta Mayor to be Mayor Maynard Jackson flashes the victory sign to a group of school children after he defeated the present mayor, Sam Masell by a small margin.

Gibbs Announces Refinery Plans

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) -Gibbs Oil Co. of Revere, Mass., is expected to announce plans Thursday to build a $350 million oil refinery in Sanford.

The project also involves construction of a pipeline that would feed crude oil from a proposed $12 million pier in Portland to Sanford, 30 miles away.

The initial word of the project was received Wednesday from Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis and municipal officials of Portland and Sanford.

Gibbs officials planned to hold a news conference here Thursday to outline the details of the project.

Gibbs, one of New England's leading independents, has for more than a year acknowledged plans to build a refinery in northern New England. The company said it was examining sites in Sanford and in various New Hampshire locations.

The company has already taken options on 1,200 acres in Sanford and has applied for a zoning variance that would permit construction of the 250,000 barrel-a-day refinery.

Gibbs supplies more than 100 gasoline stations in Maine, which operate under the Tulsa and I-95 brand names. The company claims to be the state's largest independent marketer of gas and oil.

In his announcement, Curtis said one aspect of the project would be the development of a modern port complex in Portland.

Portland, the state's largest city, is already one of the largest oil-handling ports on the East Coast. It is the U.S. terminus of the pipeline that carries crude oil to refineries in Montreal.

The Gibbs project is the latest in a series of refinery proposals put forward in Maine over the past six years. A Pittston Co. application to build a refinery at Eastport is currently undergoing environmental review, while all the other projects have come to naught.

The Sanford project differs from the others in that the refinery would be constructed at an inland location. Sanford, a textile mill town of just under 16,000, is located in Maine's southwest corner, just a few miles across the border from Rochester, N.H.

HOMECOMING FLOAT PARADE

Friday, Oct. 19, 1973

Haigis Mall 7:00 p.m.

All Floats Line Up By 6:30 p.m.

Boy Sacrificed "To Appease Satan"

DELAND, Fla. (AP) - A young woman who said she was the priestess of a satanic cult testified Wednesday that a California boy was tortured and killed as a sacrifice "to appease the master, Satan."

Deborah A. Shook, 22, of Washington, N.J., took the witness stand at the murder trial of a youth she said was the cult's high priest.

She told a 12-member circuit court jury that she saw Ross Michael Cochran, 17, bound to a black wooden altar in the basement of a rundown rooming house last April and later wiped up the blood after Cochran was taken away.

David Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., is the first of six persons to be tried on first-degree murder charges in the death of the Fresno, Calif., youth.

Police say Cochran was flogged with chains and slashed with broken glass in a satanic ceremony in nearby Daytona Beach before being taken to a wooded area where he was clubbed to death.

Miss Shook said she was "married" to the third member, Nicholas Frazee, 23, of Dayton, Ohio, in a ritual that required them to have sexual relations before Hester and a group of witnesses.

She testified that Hester said he used the group's "sacrificial knife" to kill Cochran but later told her, "I was going to use the knife, but it was too dull so I had to use a log." She said Cochran's sacrifice was "supposed to appease the master, Satan. The knife had been blessed with a type of ritual."

Miss Shook has pleaded guilty to charges of aggravated battery and Frazee to a third-degree murder charge. Both agreed to testify for the state and are under presentence investigation.

Have You Seen The Light?

SEABROOK, N.H. (AP) - A search by Coast Guard and police off the coast here Wednesday found no evidence to corroborate a report of a strange object plunging into the sea.

Four Seabrook women said Tuesday night they had seen a strange light in the sky which then seemed to fall into the ocean. But authorities said they turned up empty handed after investigating the search.

Forget Ecology-Just An Experiment

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Communities that retreat from clean-air standards will be volunteering as the guinea pigs of an "unplanned experiment" on their health, says a new government report.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare reported that any variances granted by the Environmental Protection Agency from health-protecting sulfur oxide standards would offer an opportunity for doctors to observe the impact of rising pollution levels on public health.

The report urged medical surveys and follow-up studies for 10 to 15 years on children, normal adults and "special risk groups" in the areas receiving such variances.

EPA has offered to approve variances from the health-related sulfur dioxide standard where shortages of low-sulfur fuels make the burning of high-sulfur fuels necessary.

So far, however, no such variances have been granted.

The HEW report, prepared for and released by the Office of Management and Budget, did not clearly specify that it was talking about the granting of variances; but its author, Dr. David P. Rail, said in an interview that variances from primary air standards were, in fact, the subject.

"In view of the current shortage of low sulfur fuels," Rall's report said, "a significant deterioration in regional air quality is expected to develop this winter and to be repeated for a number of years subsequently."

The report said "advantage should be taken of this situation by initiating a prospective study designed to document the health effects of these changes" by studying "the consequences on the health of the exposed populations of these unplanned experiments."

Ralls is director of the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences.

Last Sept. 12, the Natural Resources Defense Council, a well-known environment group, wrote to the White House Energy Policy Office, protesting the offer of air quality variances as "a shocking attempt to make Americans' lungs bear the burden of the administration's failure to take meaningful steps to improve our short-term energy situation."

TRUCKIN' GEAR

BASS SPORTS
US SKI TEAM
Used by the U.S. Ski Team

EIGER

trak

FROM THE SKIER'S FRIEND

House of Walsh, Inc.
Amherst, Massachusetts

UNIVERSITY OF GHANA CULTURAL DANCERS with GHANA ARTS COUNCIL DANCERS
and
WEST AFRICA INTERNATIONAL RAMBLERS DANCE BAND

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19 8 p.m.

Tickets: $1.50 UM-A students, $3.00 others
Presented by the Fine Arts Council in association with the African Student Association and the W.E.B. DuBois Department of Afro-American Studies
A Third World Cultural Series Event

Box Office, 125 Herter Hall, M-F, 9-4
Telephone 545-0202

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR	Geoffrey L. Kurinsky
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Jan Alexander
NIGHT STAFF	Marc Bouchard
EDITORIAL	Liz Thompson
DARK ROOM	Steve Ruggles, David Less
SPORTS	Glenn Poster
AD LAYOUT	Dena Strauss

undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

A Well-Known Condition

By DENNY MATTEAU

On the Associated Press wire yesterday, there was a story that ran something like this:

"CHICAGO (AP): Sex change operations have become so well accepted that some insurance companies will pay for them, a New York physician reported yesterday.

"The physician...said Blue Cross will now pay for hospitalization of these patients because transexualism has become such a well-known and accepted condition!"

Wouldn't it be nice to read a story that says:

"SOMEPLACE (AP): Births have become so well accepted that some insurance companies will pay for them, a Someplace physician reported yesterday.

"The physician...said Blue Cross will now pay for these patients because pregnancy has become "such a well-known and accepted condition.' "

But I guess that's just an idle wish. Pregnancy is pretty rare among insurance executives, much rarer than transexualism, apparently.

Some other thoughts this side of the barrier:

I was sitting in the C.C. concourse, reading The Dialectic of Sex by Shulamith Firestone. I was up to page 89, the part about smiles, which goes, in part, like this:

"...What woman can afford to frown when a passing stranger violates her privacy, at will? If she responds to his 'Baby, you're looking good today!' with 'No better than when I didn't know you,' he will grumble, 'What's eating that bitch?' Or worse. Very often the real nature of these seemingly friendly remarks emerges when the child or woman does not smile as she should: 'Dirty old scum bag. I wouldn't screw you even if you had a smile on your puss!'...Their violence is amazing. Yet these same men feel that the woman...is to blame for not being friendly..."

I got up and walked absent-mindedly through the Hatch. As I passed from the Hatch to the hall, I felt a slap on my buttocks. I turned and saw a male acquaintance, a friend of a friend. And I smiled.

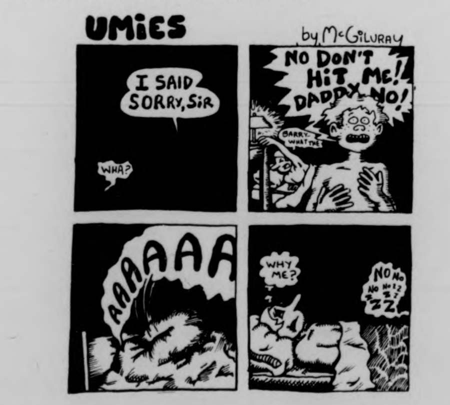
Of course, in my absent-minded state, I may not have noticed a simple "Hi", but I would have noticed a tap on the shoulder. ("Jeez," says the poor fella, if he recognizes himself, 'Try to be nice to that kid and look what happens!").

I'm not mad at that guy. It's always nice to see a familiar face and say 'Hi', and I'm quite sure he did not think "AHA, here comes that chick So-and-so, I think I'll slap her on the rearend, thereby symbolizing my sexual superiority, sublimated and disguised as friendliness." I'm quite sure he didn't think about it at all, and neither would I, if I hadn't coincidently just read that section of The Dialectic of Sex.

His tap on my buttocks was just as, actually much more, unconscious as the white's "Hello, boy." was down South. I'm not crusading against men who greet women this way, because it is so easy to change the style without touching the attitude behind it. I'm just commenting on its existence, and possible implications. Shulamith goes on to say:

"Because it makes them uncomfortable to know that the woman or the child or the black or the workman is grumbling, the oppressed groups must also appear to like their oppression...The smile is the child-woman equivalent of the shuffle; it indicates acquiescence of the victim to his own oppression."

Denny Matteau is a Collegian commentator.



Matt Tackeff

The Brink Of War

For those who have been euphoriated by the proclamations and negotiations of the so-called U.S.-Soviet "Detente," the current fighting in the Middle East must be an excruciating dash to all of that wishful thinking. It is only surprising that the time bomb went off as late as 1973. It is no longer possible to take casually the fact that the fuse has always been lit.

The Arabs have never yielded to any accommodation with the Jews. They haven't ever accepted the Israeli offers to sit down at the same table to discuss the conflict which threatens to engulf the rest of the world. The Jewish presence in the Middle East has always been considered by the Arabs as an illegitimate invasion of Arab territory. The Jewish community back to the time when it consisted of little more than a sprinkling of communal farms, and right up to the present-day satus of nationhood, has been the recipient of nothing more than Arab promises of belligerence. The Arab diplomats have been shrill in their denunciations of "Zionist Imperialism," and vow never to negotiate until the Jews relinquish all occupied Arab territoris. But they have never denied that they consider the mere existence of any Jewish state to be an occupation of Arab territory. In spite of the complete lack of any foundation for peaceful resolution of the conflict, there are still those who denounce Israel for the crime of "militarism".

The conflict has been made even more disasterous in the light of the current Soviet involvement in the Arab war plans. It is clear that the Soviets knew Arab plans of attack well in advance of the Egyptian crossing of the Suez Canal. Yet there was not attempt to deter the assault, nor even any forewarnings to the United States. An enormously bloody and explosive conflict has been ushered in, with a seal of approval, by the very people who have been so seemingly sincere in their exhortations for peaceful coexistence.

The true color of Soviet ambitions come to light in the headlines. There has never been any true desire for peaceful coexistence on the part of the Soviets. Their purposes in seeking negotiations with the United States has been merely to deceive the Americans and exploit their dangerous optimism. With all of their talk about the imperialistic nature of those who oppose them, it is time to examine, once and for all, the true imperialistic nature of the Soviet Union.

Since the Soviet takeover of Russia in 1917, the heirs to the throne of Lenin have pursued an unceasing campaign of aggression against the non-communist world. The ultimate goal of the Soviet foreign policy has been to gradually subordinate the entire world to a Soviet style dictatorship. This goal of world conquest has been pursued by a variety of brilliant strategies.

Direct takeover of Eastern Europe by military means, and the active subversion of Western Europe have been only two strategies of expansion. But these strategies have placed the Soviets in direct confrontation with the Western powers. Thus, the tacticians of Marxist-Leninism have pursued a policy of formenting peripheral wars, in which there would be a smaller chance of a direct confrontation with the United States or any other Western power. And by means of active peripheral involvement, the Soviets hope to gain ultimate power in the various "client" states, such as Egypt, Syria, Algeria, and Iraq. But the Soviets have clearly miscalculated. Their actions in the Middle East threaten to provoke the United into the very type of confrontation which they have proclaimed a desire to avoid.

With the threat of an Arab oil blackmail against the United States and the Soviet move to replenish the Arab war effort, thus prolonging this needless bloodshed, the intoxicated optimists who still believe in "Detente" should take a hard look at the nature of the partner with whom the United states is to negotiate.

Matt Tackeff is a Collegian columnist

Steve Anderson

They're Human

There is an overwhelming elitism on this campus. It is personified in the student-worker relationship. Although it may exist in academic circles, I do not feel qualified to comment on that.

The elitism that many people possess surfaces when they deal with the blue-collar workers on campus. Sometimes people regard them as less than equal or even less than human. This idea often eminates from the differences in education between the two groups. Janitors bare the brunt of the problem. Instead of regarding janitors as an important part of the dorm who perform a worthwhile job, they are seen as shuffling men who don't ever manage to get all their work done.

People find it difficult to believe that someone could be proud of cleaning the same building day after day for years. Pride in your work is something that we relate more to white collar work. It is possible to be proud of your work no matter what it is and many janitors are very proud. This is in spite of both adverse opinion and almost malicious actions. When someone writes on the walls or dumps garbage in the lounge they are making work for the custodians and more often than not they don't think about it. Why not? Everyone knows its going to be cleaned up and everyone knows who's going to do it but some people don't really care. Others don't even think of the extra work they make. This attitude is stronger in Southwest than other sections of campus or at least it was two years ago.

Dining Commons ladies are another group that get a lot of criticism. Sometimes they deserve it but most of the time they don't. The frustrations people feel about the food they get should be directed to Joel Stoneham not to the women in blue. They don't set policy. On the whole, the D.C. women are polite and considerate. Few of them deviate from this norm although those that do are highly visible.

The Dining Commons ladies and the custodians take a lot of grief that should go to the administration but doesn't because people don't seem to have the time or energy.

Steve Anderson is a Collegian columnist

Gerald Ford Is Unqualified

By DENNIS SIMKOWSKI

Richard M. Nixon has descended to brand new depths with his selection of the morally devoid capitalist. Reports of corruption have already surfaced in the case of the vice-president-designate, which should be no real surprise considering the ideological inseparability of the two. Gerald Ford, a leading Vietnam Hawk, is an undeniably staunch supporter of Nixonite policies as he proudly admits, and that fact, in itself, should feed fuel to the political bonfire "up on Capitol Hill", but that is not the prevailing sentiment of the hawks. Speaker Carl Albert, the chief House Democrat, went so far as to actually suggest Ford. Albert, currently just a "heart-beat away" and an Impeachment away from the commander-in-chief's padded chair and oval office, said Ford was one Congress would be sure to confirm. Closer to home, Massachusetts Republicans and Democrats hailed (heiled?) his nomination and predicted swift congressional confirmation. Liberal Republican Silvio O. Conte, Amherst's man on the Hill, had recommended Ford in a telegram to Nixon, stating that the politician has friends on the two sides of the System. Edward Boland, Springfield's Democratic Congressman, said, "I think it's a great choice, because he has been an effective minority leader, he has a real fine personality, and he has excellent communication with the members of Congress...He looks like the Rock of Gibralter." Lt. Governor Dwight said "Gerry Ford is very solid, able and accomplished." Liberal Republican Governor Francis W. Sargent called the nomination "outstanding" and said that Ford, known by the gov "for a number of years," has "a thorough understanding of the problems which confront this nation." Senators Kennedy and Brooke feel Ford is a "good choice", and "has had an outstanding career of service to the country", respectively.

These are strange adulations for

(Continued on P. 13)

Editorial Staff Meeting
Tonight
Collegian Office, 7 p.m.
Very Important

Letters To The Editor

Ticketing Cars Or Preventing Thefts?

To The Editor:

We feel that the administration and the Campus Security have abandoned their responsibility to the students of this university. We all pay somewhere in the vicinity of $170 a month for our rooms and what do we get for it? Practically nothing? Anyone could break into my room and steal my $460 stereo (if I could afford one) and what would the administration or the security say? "Oh, gee, we're sorry, but there's nothing we can do about it." Anyone could come in, beat up my roommate and rape her, shoot me in the head and throw me out the window, and again what would the security or the administration say? "Oh, gee, that's too bad. Guess we're going to have to put in a new window."

The administration seems to think that their inspired parking system is more important than the students' property and lives. For crying out loud, most of us are paying so much just for the "privilege" of living in one of the dorms that we can't afford cars! But what do we get for the money we pay to live here? Besides free toilets and showers, hardly anything.

Now to aggravate the situation even more the Collegian decides to publicize the fact that the administration has left the students unprotected. They're telling everyone that no one down here in Southwest has any able-bodied security guards. First, they take their guns away so the security men are practically defenseless, and now they take the security guards away all together so the students are defenseless. What is a student security guard, especially a girl, supposed to do if six big dudes come in and decide to bust up the place? By the time she called the police, if she was able to, and got them to the dorm, those people could really hurt someone.

They say it is temporary, but even so if one life is lost or one girl raped or one stereo stolen that is far more serious than five hundred cars parked in the wrong place. Since the security guards have been taken away, we might as well have nothing. We might as well leave all our doors unlocked.

We think it is time that the administration realigned its priorities in favor of the students. After all, aren't we the ones that this university exists for?

Anne Mary DesFosses
Mary Farnell

The Unreal Dormitory

To The Editor:

HAVE YOU ever seen the ad in this newspaper, or heard the delightful sounding ad on the radio pertaining to the un-dormitory. Well if you have and if you believe it then you are as foolish as we were. HAS the idea of the swimming pool that closes on the second of Sept. and reopens in June appealed to you? Or is the fact that we boast two pro tennis courts that are nothing but blades of grass? Well, if you are one of the people that envy the lucky people that live at Mr. Sugarloaf, let me burst your bubble. The veritable oasis that the ads depict is nothing but a shithole in the figurative and literal sense.

Last Friday night the sewage began to back up in the cellar apartments. This forced me to live with a friend that lives next door (I'm still here) others are not lucky enough to have friends in the complex. After much arguing, threatening and group action they started cleaning up Monday. After six weeks I still do not have the key to my mailbox, my neighbors have cockroaches and were even fortunate enough to find a dead mouse (even the mouse couldn't stand it) under their refrigerator. One woman with three children told our group that she lived on wet rugs for one month before the management got around to moving her. The obvious dangers of hepatitis and typhus were neglected by the apathetic and indecent management. These are not isolated incidences but rather commonplace since we have lived here. Just think we have all this luxury for just two hundred dollars a month!!

Monday night at the Sunderland town meeting, the Board of Health officials questioned why the State Board has not taken action, since they have full-time employees who can more adequately deal with the situation. If it is because they are unaware then we must make them aware. People paying good money for living places whether here or anywhere in this area have a right to demand places that can be habitable. A time must come when corporate management companies armed with fat-cat lawyers must listen to the needs of their tenants rather than just accepting the rent checks. Wet ceilings, floors, insects and a stench that could probably kill a pig are not what I call fit for human habitation. Until such time where all our needs are met I ask all those that read this to boycott the UNREAL DORMITORIES and all places like them.

Steven Reedman
Robert W. Landry

Sex Is Not The Only Pastime On Campus

To The Editor:

It has come to my attention in the past few weeks that a definite theme of sexism and cheapening of male-female relationships has found its way into none other than the Massachusetts Daily Collegian. I refer, specifically, to the subject matter of the comic (?) strips "UMies" by Don McGilvray and "Kampus Kapers" by Kris Jackson.

In October 15 issue, for example, "UMies" presents the image of woman as some great sex goddess - a queen to be dreamed of. (No liberated woman wants to be placed on a pedestal.) The "Kampus Kapers" of that same issue reached the exact opposite end of the spectrum: woman as a passive, hormone-injected fast screw who has thrilled her male friend (?) by taking oral contraceptives. Of course, she takes them only for his pleasure. (No thought is given to the fact that birth control pills are still being studied for their possible side effects.) By the way, Mr. Jackson, how many men know what anxiety a missed period brings to a woman? She's the one to go through an abortion or unwedded motherhood.

Last Friday's Poor Richard's too seemed to follow the new trend. It carried an article about picking up people at bars and parties. I think it is interesting to note that McGilvray cartoon and B.J. Roche article both spoke of "Piece with Honor" - an obvious reference to sex for sex's sake. But the term "piece" is degrading: it reduces men and women to users of each other and the beauty of sex itself is debased in the process.

While it cannot be denied that sex is a very integral (and beautiful) part of life, I fail to see why it must be portrayed as the only pastime on this campus. I shudder to think of a person unacquainted with UMass getting his or her first impression of this place from such distasteful humor.

I look forward to the day when Mr. McGilvray and Mr. Jackson return to their clothed-character cartoons. ("Comic strip" is an unfortunate pun.)

Donna A. Diodati

Burps And Heartburn

To The Editor:

On the evening of October 15, at 5:30 p.m. I had the eminent pleasure of enjoying one of the Dining Commons' better efforts. I thoroughly enjoyed my microscopic portion of fried chicken filet. My companions also enjoyed their equally stomach panging portions of roast lamb. I must take this opportunity to remind Joel Stoneham that the student 'body' has been anxiously awaiting his increased portion policy. As yet, I've neither seen nor felt any evidence of it. Truly, Mr. Stoneham is reminiscent of a character right out of the pages of Dickens when, each night, he sends poor, study-wrought students to their beds: their stomachs still growing or puking, whatever the case may be.

I know that there are children starving in Asia, but now Stoneham's added a new dimension: we, the students, starving on campus. Mr. Stoneham, haven't you heard? This is the promised land...of plenty and abundance. Why are the D.C. lines so reminiscent of the old bread lines of the Great Depression? The Student Body of the University of Massachusetts wishes, at this point, to thank you, Mr. Stoneham, for their increased needs of groovy drugs like: vitamin pills, Pepto-Bismol, Kaopectate, Ex-Lax, and Booze in order to make the evening meal at the D.C. a fond memory.

Dennis S. Racine

Sacrificing Residents' Safety

To The Editor:

David Johnston's decision to reassign nighttime security patrolmen to daytime parking ticket duty is reprehensible. As a result of this decision, there is little security inside the dorms, and virtually none at all outside. The only patrols are those conducted by the police cars. Johnston must realize that there is no deterrent to crime at night in any area which cannot be reached by car. Anyone walking, for example, from Baker House to the Infirmary is fair game for assault. There have been two this year already.

Apparently Johnston is willing to sacrifice the safety of the residents of this campus in order to ticket and tow cars. Even more amazing, he considers this attitude justified, apparently. I hope that a woman who has just been raped can take great consolation in knowing that the parking system is a shining success.

He does not see crime here as a great problem? Possibly that is because he does not have to live here. Why is Central Area, which last year had the lowest crime rate on campus, tied now with Southwest for the highest?

The patrolmen must be returned to their jobs, not in "thirty to sixty days," but now.

Timothy O'Brien
V.P./Sec.
Central Area Council

Editorial Points

Ever notice how a lot of students bop around campus humming, whistling, and singing under their breath? If you haven't noticed that lately, then it must be mid-semester exam time!

+++

Ah, yes. Who amongst us doesn't know the trials and turmoils of mid-semester exams? Those endless days that all seem to blend into one. those gallons of Maxwell House and handsful of No-Doz, those pages on pages of blurred print.....

By the time you get around to actually sitting down and taking the exam, passing it is anti-climactic.

+++

Flunking it, on the other hand, is grounds for suicide. (Or an afternoon in the Bluewall).

Student Togetherness

To The Editor:

Does the apathy on this campus bother you? Well, it bothers me a lot and instead of sitting in my room getting lazy ulcers from it, I did something. I joined the Student Senate. To those of you out there laughing, I feel sorry for you. You are the ones who made the Senate seem like an ineffectual tool. It doesn't have to be that way. We are supposed to be representing you and it's pretty hard to state the positions of constituents who don't give a damn.

The Senate is now in the position to give a very national statement (almost reminiscent of the sixties). This concerns the use of lettuce in the campus food services. Are we going to support the workers or are we going to sit by while the world around us is changing and not be a part of that change? Show your support of either side of the issue. Get to know you senator and tell him-her how you feel. Come to Senate meetings.

This is only one of the many issues facing the Senate this year. Don't let the Senate face them in a vacuum. You can join Senate committees to change things about the school or to keep them the same, that you have a voice in our policy making. Or just get to know your senator, find out what the Senate is doing. Nick Apostola has his new blood now and only you can stop them from becoming an elitist clique. It is time that there was a showing of real student togetherness, student power.

If you want to help facilitate communications between the Senate and the students in the future call me, drop by my room or catch me at the next Senate meeting. I'm in 112 Knowlton (5-2510). This is your school-remember that.

Tyla Michelove
Student Senator from Knowlton

Ford Is Not The One

(Continued from P. 12)

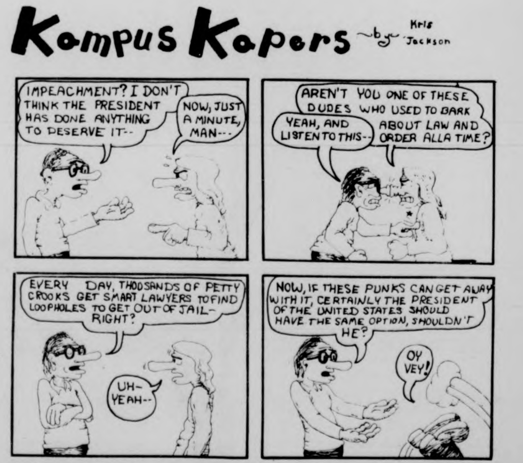
a man who is firmly dedicated to the Welfare State, big business and domestic surveillance activities. He's opposed Civil Rights and labor legislation, busing for school integration, amnesty and a host of other travesties can be attributed to him. He even pushed a suggestion that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas be impeached,, perhaps on behest of our fearless leader in the White House in an attempt to further pack the Court.

In The Washington Pay-Off, former Washington lobbyist, Robert Winter-Berger, documented his deals with Ford whom he met in 1966 after paying a friend $500. "Because (the meeting) was good, it subsequently cost me another $500 in cash, plus a number of favors. Gerry Ford knew about this, and it did not faze him. In one of our early conversations, Ford had occasion to say: 'In Washington, money's the name of the game. Without it you're dead.' "

However, Ford specifically prohibited gift-giving in the office. "And I don't want to know about anything you hand out to my people on the outside," Ford said. He's discreet and careful: "The first time you make a mistake, no matter how close we may be by that time, we're through." ...Ford's help was gained in preventing an investigation of an AVCO defense contract...Old Kent Bank & Trust of Grand Rapids did plenty of business with federal projects in Ford's home state. Ford was a Bank Director and stockholder...he violated Michigan's campaign spending law in 1970...In return for a $30,000 contribution to the Republican National Committee, Francis Kellogg was awarded a trip to a conference of African nations in Morocco as a U.S. Representative. Ford got him the favor..a General Electric lobbyist attended a 1966 Ford fund-raising dinner on behalf of a GE executive, where Richard M. Nixon was the guest speaker. That executive was appointed the Director of NASA on March 5, 1969 by none other than Nixon. Congress approved it on April 3. Nixon said, "I am a man of strong loyalties, and for better or worse I will always back up to the nth degree those who have helped me financially when I really needed it." Incidentally, Ford was an important element in the catapulting of Nixon to the presidency in 1968.

The Associated Press says Ford is "approachable, smiles easily, and observes all the traditional congressional courtesies." I say that doesn't qualify the man for the office and he hasn't yet clipped his Hawk wings either. Just recently he expressed hope for a military solution--quickly--in the Middle East War.

Dennis Simkowski is a Collegian commentator



Kampus Kapers ~by~ Kris Jackson
IMPEACHMENT? I DON'T THINK THE PRESIDENT HAS DONE ANYTHING TO DESERVE IT-- NOW, JUST A MINUTE, MAN--- AREN'T YOU ONE OF THESE DUDES WHO USED TO BARK ABOUT LAW AND ORDER ALLA TIME?
YEAH, AND LISTEN TO THIS--
EVERY DAY, THOUSANDS OF PETTY CROOKS GET SMART LAWYERS TO FIND LOOPHOLES TO GET OUT OF JAIL- RIGHT?
UH- YEAH--
NOW, IF THESE PUNKS CAN GET AWAY WITH IT, CERTAINLY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES SHOULD HAVE THE SAME OPTION, SHOULDN'T HE?
OY VEY!

More Letters To The Editor

Israeli Expansionism

To The Editor:

Ben Gurion, Ex-Prime Minister of Israel, once addressed the students saying: "The map (of Israel) is not the map of our country. We have another map which you students and youngsters in Jewish schools must translate into reality. The Israeli nation must expand its territory from the Euphrates to the Nile". This quotation stands into sharp contrast with Zionist propaganda which pictures the state of Israel as constantly attacked by her Arab neighbors. The state of Israel was created at the expense of the Palestinians, now either in refugee camps or second rate citizens in their own land or scattered all over the world. Expansion is organically related to Zionist ideology, according to which world Jewry should have a home in Palestine. Speaking in 1938 Ben Gurion said: "Our right to Palestine is not the right of the Palestine Jews but of the entire Jewish people which is scattered in the world over and of which only 3 per cent live in Palestine..."

In 1919, according to British estimations, Jews in Palestine were 9.7 per cent of the population and Palestinians 91.3 per cent Jewish immigrants kept pouring into Palestine especially during Nazi persecution. In 1946, two years before the declaration of the state of Israel, the Jewish population was 35.1 per cent and the Arab 64.9 per cent. In 1947 U.N. decreed a partition resolution according to which the country was to be divided into two states, one for the Palestinians and the other for the Zionists. But through terrorism and massacres, get hold of 20.000km. instead of the 14.000km. allotted to them in U.N. resolution. The most notorious of these messacres is the Deir Yassin massacre on April 9, 1948. "The village of Deir Yassin near Jerusalem was especially noted by its Jewish neighbors for its friendly peaceful relations (I quote from Burning Issues of the Mideast Crisis by Peter Buch). This was the village selected by the Irgun Svai Leumi, the chief Jewish chauvinist-terrorist group, for a massacre in which 250 Arabs perished, including 100 women and children. About 150 bodies were thrown down into a cistern. The houses were destroyed. The few survivors were marched triumphantly through Jerusalem streets".

In 1948 the state of Israel was declared. In 1956 Israel, together with French and British Imperialists attacked Egypt in what came to be know as the Tripartite Aggression. Israel occupied Gaza Strip and Sinai and withdrew only months later under U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. pressure. In 1967 Israel occupied Egyptian Sinai, Syrian Golan Heights and Palestinian West Bank of Jordan. U.N. 67 resolution for a peaceful settlement, accepted by Egypt, was rejected by Israel. The Arab attempts to liberate their occupied lands, pictured as an Arab invasion, have been described by Eban, Israeli Minister of Foreign Affairs as "sacrilegious" and "blasphemous". Israel wants to keep the occupied territories where she has started to build colonies and bring settlers. Israel needs more land for the new immigrants and if possible for the whole of world Jewry. Israeli army is now marching towards Damascus. Menahem Beigin, ex-Israeli Minister and Zionist leader addresses the Israeli army saying: "You Israelis must have no compunction when you kill your enemy. You must not sympathize with him until we have destroyed the so called Arab culture." He also wrote: "turning our eyes to the north we see the fertile lowlands of Syria and the Lebanon..to the east the wide rich valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris and the oil of Iraq, to the west the land of the Egyptians. We shall be unable to develop until we have regulated our territorial problems from positions of strength. We shall force the Arabs into absolute submission."

Shall we the Arabs wait until Ben Gurion's and Beigin's dreams are carried out? The war today is a liberation war to restore occupied Arab territories. We call upon all progressive, liberal and humanitarian powers to support us. We call upon progressive Jews all over the world, who have known persecution, to support us against Israeli persecution and expansionism.

R. Ashour

We're All Neighbors

To The Editor:

Three cheers for Said Khouri! No matter how you slice it, there are plenty of reasons for both the Arabs and the Israelis to be destroying each other, but there is one reason for not fighting which surpasses all others; no human being has the right to kill another human being. As far as I am concerned (and I hope I am not alone) the Right to Life (after birth) is not mine to take away.

If you have been reading newspapers, or watching the 6 o'clock news, you realize that this nice, comfortable world of ours is in chaos. The world we live in, and the planet we live on, are very small indeed, and the time is now to stop the killing and live in peace. We're all neighbors on this tiny ball of dirt, and we've got to start working together, because there's no alternative. We're all in this together.

Allen Bromberger

Guns: A Necessity?

To The Editor:

With national issues dominating the concerns of most on campus, many of the issues closer to home don't seem to be getting the attention they deserve; this is particularly true of crime on campus, which seems to get attention only from the persons it involves. Well, one thing is only too apparent: serious crime (rape, assault, grand larceny, etc.) is one the rise at UMass, and it is going to continue to rise as long as apathy and unawareness survive on campus.

Reading the security-related article in Thursday's Collegian brings to mind what is being done on campus to deter crime and the factors that cause it, or more specifically, the campus police. And the efficiency and effectiveness of the campus police brings back to life a somewhat dead question, that being by what means and to what extent should the campus police be armed in order to enforce the law.

Guns do give the policeman a definite air of authority, and oftentimes, the confidence to properly carry out his duty in a potentially dangerous situation; and indeed, instances where policemen are required to remove their guns from their holsters are quite infrequent. However, how long can we afford to chance even an accidental shooting, which is always a possibility whenever a gun is bared? We must realize that someday an instance may arise where a policeman might have to use his gun; this could be very dangerous in the densely populated Southwest, where the heaviest concentration of crime is. Guns kill! Yet, we cannot leave the police defenseless, because they do meet some pretty interesting people in their line of work.

So where does the answer for UMass lie? Some schools are successfully employing non-kill weapons, but non-kill weapons are not always effective in different situations, and the police may not be as confident with their non-kill weapons when they deal with people using real guns.- Other schools allow their officers to carry firearms only in an emergency, but in certain situations, this could be impractical, and sometimes even put the police officers at a hazardous disadvantage. And then there are the schools like Southern University.....

This letter welcomes any answers or ideas from the college community, and hopes that a solution to this problem is forthcoming, before something happens and its too late. Remember, all the action and answers in the world won't change history, but they can certainly prevent it from repeating itself.

Stephen White
Chuck Quirk
Susan Facey

From The Governor

Dear Students:

I want to extend greetings and best wishes to all of you for this academic year. It promises to be a challenging year, both in higher education and state government.

The state is opening three new campuses this year, in Charlestown, in Roxbury, and the new UMass campus in Boston. This has made possible public higher education for an additional 7000 people.

I am tremendously encouraged that we have been able to expand the state's educational facilities, for it is those of you on the campus who have so often provided the energies, ideas and leadership necessary to bring public attention to important issues. Many of you in the past have volunteered for public service internships and independent studies in government. I hope you will take advantage of these programs, and take an active role in dealing with the problems facing Massachusetts and the nation.

We will need you help on many fronts: student rights and confidentiality; the development of reasonable drug legislation; consumer protection; better care for the mentally ill. I have just appointed a new Commissioner of Correction--and he, and the state face the continuing and vital task of reforming our correction system.

These and other issues will require concerted and coordinated efforts, and I hope you will join us in those efforts.

Again, with best wishes for a good year.

Sincerely,
Francis W. Sargent
Governor

Dangerous Crusades

To The Editor:

The atmosphere of the past two weeks has been pregnant with warnings that we have failed to grasp. This generation, one that prides itself on being peace-loving, has blundered miserably. When the presend Arab Israeli conflict was little more than a gunshot, we blindly paraded to the Student Union Ballroom, begged for money, and even talked of supplying warplanes to the Israelis. Partisan efforts like these breed dangerous crusades. And this is one thing that America in 1973 does not need.

History is chock full of instances where nations, wracked by internal problems, turn to a foreign incident and espouse some gallant principles, just to divert the attention of its people from domestic concerns. Our President may be corrupt, but he is not stupid. If we are too vocal in our support for the Israelis, he is apt to engage our armed forces in what to him would be a "splendid little war." To America it would be a tragedy.

Nineteen seventy-three began as a year for Americans to clean house. We must not allow anything to be swept under the rug. Golda Meir and Moshe Dayan are not so much our friends as are Sam Ervin and Judge Sirica. Our enemy is not the Arab in the Russian tank, but the square in the Oval office.

Thomas Kilmartin

Help Chelsea Victims

To The Editor:

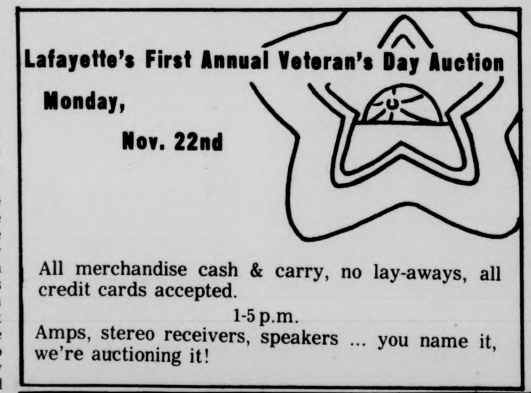
Recently 1100 people were left homeless due to the tragic Chelsea Fire which swept across the densely packed residential area near the northern end of Boston Harbor. Everything they owned went up in flames and they are in desperate need of food and clothing. Due to the residential conditions, these people were not able to obtain any sort of insurance before the fire occurred.

You can help give these people a new start by donating childrens' and adults' winter clothing and non-perishable food which is desperately needed at this time. Remember when you go home this long weekend that others aren't as fortunate as you. Just a little can do so much and now is the time to do it.

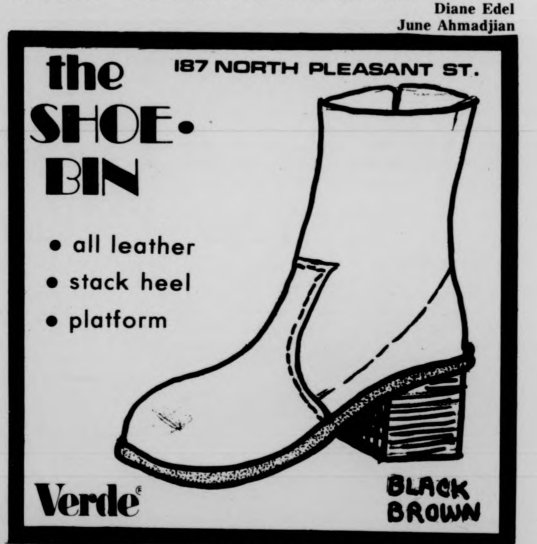
Collection boxes will be set up on the Campus Center Concourse Level, next to the Gamma Sigma Heart Fund Sign-up table, October 16th through October 25th.

Anything you can give would be gratefully appreciated.

Diane Edel
June Ahmadjian



Lafayette's First Annual Veteran's Day Auction
Monday,
Nov. 22nd
All merchandise cash & carry, no lay-aways, all credit cards accepted.
1-5 p.m.
Amps, stereo receivers, speakers ... you name it, we're auctioning it!



the SHOE-BIN
187 NORTH PLEASANT ST.
- all leather
- stack heel
- platform

Verde
BLACK BROWN

Zonkeraz
in the HATCH
Thursday, Friday, & Saturday
9:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m.

Bike Clinic To Open

In response to the growing interest in bicycle safety, Peloton Bicycle and Ski Inc. in conjunction with the UMass Bicycle Club, has again this year decided to provide free of cost a series of bicycle maintenance clinics.

The series, to begin on October 25, will consist of four sessions each devoted to some particular bicycle mechanism. The first clinic will deal with everything involved in the steering and braking systems with stress put on how to keep these parts working safely. The second clinic's emphasis will be on the building and repairing of wheels. The third clinic explores the "expensive" areas of the bicycle, the hubs and the crankset. These mechanisms, if allowed to remain unmaintained, cause some of the most costly repairs a bicycle ship has to do. The clinic will also deal with tire replacement. The fourth and last class will tackle the ever troublesome multiple gearing mechanisms.

Since the clinics are free and space for the classes is limited, the staff at Peloton has requested a class of only twenty five pupils. Therefore, to enroll please call Peloton at 549-6904 or stop in at the shop to sign up. The shop is located in the Amherst Carriage Shops at the fork of North and East Pleasant Streets in Amherst.

The clinics are open to all with no qualifications except interest. The starting time of 7:30 p.m. will hopefully be suited to college students and other working members of the community.

Also, when the tools finally arrive, a bicycle workshop will open in the Craft Center, located in the basement of the Student Union. The use of these tools and space will be available free to anyone. For any information about this or racing and touring activities in the area check for notices in the Collegian or come to the weekly meetings Wed. night at 7 p.m. usually in 803 C.C.

Engineers Offer Seminar Program

Speakers coming to UMass this fall through the department of mechanical and aerospace engineering Seminar Program include J. H. Hollomon of MIT, Dr. Edward Teller and Congressman Paul Cronin.

Dr. Hollomon, director for the Center for Policy Alternatives at MIT, will speak on "Technology and Social Change" Thursday, Oct. 18, in an event co-sponsored by the industrial engineering department.

Dr. Teller, director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore, Cal., will talk on "Energy Resources of the Future" Monday, Nov. 5, with the cosponsorhip of the physics department.

Congressman Cronin, who represents the Massachusetts Fifth District, will talk on the energy crisis. The co-sponsors are the departments of chemical, civil, electrical and industrial engineering.

All lectures are at 4 p.m., with coffee at 3:30 p.m., in Gunness Lab 10. The talks are open without charge to all those interested. A complete schedule of the Seminar Series is available from the department of mechanical and aerospace engineering, Marston Hall.

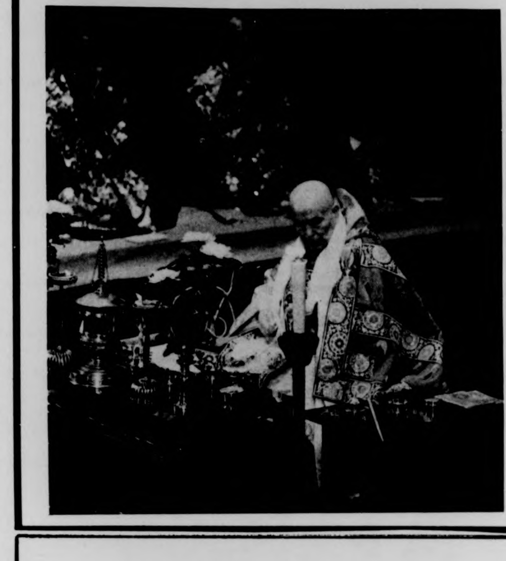
Job Openings At Southwest

The Southwest Business Office has one position available for a qualified Graduate or Undergraduate to work 20 hours per week as assistant to the Business Manager.

Applicants should have some background in accounting and computer programming.

We are actively soliciting qualified minority and women applicants.

For interview contact John Zilinskas at 545-1400.



Japanese Buddhists Perform

A touring group of twenty-four Buddhist monks will present an unusual concert of traditional Japanese Buddhist music on Monday evening, Oct. 22, at Amherst College's Buckley Recital Hall.

The Japanese Shomyo, or chanting of Buddhist hymns and sutras, has a history of about twelve centuries. The significance of the Shomyo (originally "sabda-vidya" from the Sanskrit) is particularly noticeable in the strong influence it has had on all genres of Japanese traditional music.

The "Daihannya Tendoku E" ceremony is performed to pray for peace of departed souls, to avert misfortune and to bring good luck, that is, to invoke or exorcize spirits and in general to implore them to listen to the prayers of men.

Hei (the lay of the Taira clan) is the name given to the recitation of the Heike monogatari, the best-known of the Japanese romantic "war tales" narrated to the accompaniment of a biwa, or Japanese lute, also known as the "Heike biwa" (the biwa used in reciting the tale of the Taira clan). There are now only four aged masters in Japan who uphold the direct tradition of the Heikyoku.

The monks (musicians) are venturing outside of Japan for the first time, appearing locally, courtesy of the Doshisha-Amherst Summer School in cooperation with the Japanese-American Club.

The concert will start at 8:15 p.m. Tickets will be on sale at the door for $3.00.

Are You A Guinea Pig?

By TONY GRANITE

HOW TO KICK THE SMOKING HABIT FOREVER is the subject of a doctoral study at Indiana U., where a grad student is experimenting with alternatives to write about in a dissertation.

The Indiana Daily Student tells about it in a piece titled, "Can habit be kicked?"

Reasearcher David Richter is convinced that if he can discover the things that smoking expresses, he may be able to offer alternative ways of expressing those feelings "if they are feelings."

Richter is doing his dissertation in counseling. He is advertising for smokers as guinea pigs.

+ + +

FREEDOM FOR PETS has been declared at UCal-Davis, which is now called "the most doggedly liberal school in the University of California system."

According to an AP dispatch, "A student can bring his dog to the university, provided that other residents of his dormitory floor vote to accept him and his roommate is also willing.

"The dog has to dine alone in his room, but he can go to class, if the professor approves."

"UCD also offers a class called 'Companion Animals'."

+ + +

KUDOS FOR COPS took the form of a letter to the editor of the USoFla Oracle, this month.

One Sharon L. Levine wrote that "Last night I locked my keys in my car on campus and didn't know who (sic) to call except the University Police. Well, to say the least, how grateful I am to them. Two officers (named) spent at least a good hour trying to get into my car. They finally succeeded and I am internally (sic) grateful to them..."

+ + +

HEADLINE OF THE WEEK covers a UConn Daily Campus piece: "My Fair Lady Examined."

WHY HAVE COLLEGE STUDENTS TRAVELED BY BUS FOR GENERATIONS?
*IT'S CONVENIENT — Buses leave from or near the campus several times daily.
*IT'S DIRECT — To where you want to go.
*IT'S FRIENDLY — Meet new people on every trip.
Peter Pan BUS LINES
Hourly service to Boston, New York City, Albany and everywhere, direct from the University Campus. Extra express service to Natick and Boston every weekend.
Lobby Shop, Student Union
Tel. 545-2528 or 545-2006 straight-legged western cuts flannel shirts

2-pockets
AMERICAN CLASSICS
brushed corduroys
WEAR-HOUSE
thurs. & fri. till 9PM
201 n. pleasant st. amherst
© REFLECTIONS

OPENING TONIGHT
"FRAGMENTS"
Experiments With Art
Student Union Gallery
Reception 8:30 p.m.
C.C. Program Council

Someone Out There Needs You

SVS (Student Volunteer Services) of OUTREACH knows of several community agencies that are in desperate need of student volunteers. They are:

The Montague Pre-School needs classroom aides for their pre-school program.

The Gill Elementary School needs teachers to work in classrooms with children in Kindergarten to fourth grade.

The Hampshire Community Action Council needs math and science tutors to work on a high school equivalency program.

Northern Education Services (NES) needs tutors for educational programs in Springfield. Transportation is provided.

Belchertown Housing Authority needs case workers and transportation workers. Also, people willing to visit elderly people in their homes are needed.

A number of new agencies, in additon to the over 75 agencies that have been working with us since the beginning of the semester, have contacted us for help. Some of them are as follows:

Community Care Center needs counselors for a drop-in center in a low income area.

Executive Office of Elderly Affairs wants volunteers to work in the planning office for elderly programs in Amherst.

Monson State Hospital needs students to participate in a speech and hearing testing program to learn how to test patients.

Project Change, Mental Health Association needs a special behavior modification specialist.

Holyoke-Chicopee Headstart needs people to work on pre-school and family service programs, especially the establishment of a food co-op.

Valley Co-operative School - Is a new school being run by a group of community residents in Northampton. The project is really new and they need students to work on curriculum development. Their approach to learning stresses the importance of experiential types of experiences. They are willing to have any interested member of the community join them in this new experiment; possible activities are wide open.

Amherst Junior High Woodworking Shop - Desperately needs an instructor to work with students in the shop in the mornings. A number of the students that you will be working with are kids who are presently experiencing some emotional and adjustment problems.

If any of these programs interest you, please contact a mamber of the Student Volunteer Services at the OUTREACH office in 509 Goodell Library. If you can't stop by maybe you would like to call, our number is 545-2021.

Heart Fund Needs Walkers

Gamma Sigma Sigma, a campus service sorority, is sponsoring the 1973 Heart Fund Cup in conjunction with the third annual Heart Fund Walk, October 27.

This Trophy will be awarded to the Greek house or dorm that accumulates the greatest amount of money through walkers.

Those interested may sign up to walk today, October 18, 19, 23, 24, 25 on Campus Center concourse.

S.H.L. Holds Coffeehouse

The Student Homophile League has of late devoted its Thursday night meetings to discussing and developing programs and activities to better serve Amherst's gay community.

Tonight SHL takes the evening off. McKimmie house and SHL will sponsor a gay coffeehouse in McKimmie house lounge, and all members of the gay community are cordially invited to join in, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

MAD APPLE MUSIC
THE STORE THAT OFFERS
SO MUCH MORETHAN JUST ANOTHER RECORD STORE.

This Week's Special
NEWEST RELEASES –

	List
New Riders of the Purple Sage	$5.98	$3.79
Cheech 'n Chong	$5.98	$3.18
Grateful Dead	$5.98	$3.79
Neil Young	$5.98	$3.79
Three Dog Night	$5.98	$3.79
George Harrison	$5.98	$3.18

Brand new 8-track tapes — $1.99

Open 10-5:30 Daily
10-9 Thursday

Main St., Northampton
46 Elm St., Westfield

Top of the Campus
Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Oct. 16, 17, 18
Prime Rib
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95 Special

PICK-A-DILLY factory shoe outlet
A Fall Shoe-in of Values
$4.88
$5.97
$6.97
Values to $20
Great Buys! Great Values! Great Savings
FAMOUS NAME FOOTWEAR
All the latest, greatest looks in Footwear ... low heels, high heels, stack heels, platforms! moccasins, oxfords, clogs, wooden soles, crepe soles!
Shoes for every occassion!!
SUPER VALUES. SUPER SAVINGS. SOME SLIGHTLY IRREGULAR "Shoes For The Entire Family"
Pioneer Valley Factory Shoe Outlet
East St., Ware, Mass. — in the Industries Yard.
First Quality Shoes for the Entire Family at Factory Prices in Our Factory Store.
Mon. thru Sat.
Friday to 9 p.m.
Open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

African Dancers To Perform

The Fine Arts Council, in association with the African Students Assoc. and the W.E.B. Dubois Dept. of Afro-American Studies will present an evening of African Dance and Music in the Student Union Ballroom on Friday, Oct. 19 at 8:30 p.m.

Two groups of Dancers from Ghana. The Ghana Arts Council Dancers and University of Ghana Cultural dancers will be featured.

Both groups specialize in the traditional dances of the Akan and Ashanti people of Ghana and are internationally noted for their authentic reproduction of these forms.

The Dancers will be presented by Chief Nana NKetsia IV of Ghana, presently on the five-college Black Studies Faculty. Chief NKetsia is one of the foremost living authorities on West African culture and was minister of culture in the regime of the Orageyfo Dr. Kwame N'Krumah. In that capacity Chief NKetsia was responsible for establishing the cultural dance troupe.

Also present will be "The Ramblers" the leading West African Hi-life band. Hi-life is the rhythmic popular Dance music of contemporary West Africa. The setting will be cabaret style and the audience is invited to dance during the intermissions.

Tickets are available at: Fine Arts council, 125 Herter Hall, Telephone 545-0202, Box Office open Monday through Friday, 9-4 p.m.; Tickets for UMass students are $1.50, all others $3.00 - or Student Union Box Office one hour before the concert.

UMass Police

New Emergency

Number

5-3111

McGovern Campaign Under Investigations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Massachusetts McGovern-for-President Committee was cited Wednesday for four apparent violations of the Federal Election Campaign Act.

The accusations came in a formal report to the comptroller general, who referred it to the Justice Department "for appropriate action."

The Office of Federal Elections in the General Accounting Office reported following an audit of the Massachusetts committee that:

-137 receipts over $100, totaling $66,675, were deposited in the committee's bank account between April 7 and Dec. 31, 1972, but were not itemized as required by law, and that $54,000 of these unitemized receipts were not reported at all to the federal elections office.

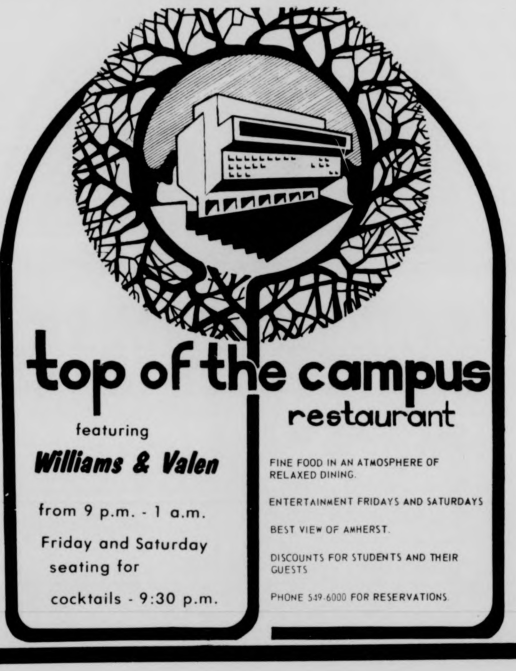
-The committee failed to report a $50,000 expenditure in partial payment of a $75,000 loan.

-Committee records did not disclose the occupation and place of business for 36 of 78 contributors examined by auditors, and some receipts and expenditures in itemized schedules were not included in summary schedules on two reports.

-The committee has not filed reports since Dec. 31 although regulations require continuous reporting on debts and obligations. The last report showed debts of more than $33,000.

Officers of the Massachusetts committee, John McKean, chairman; James F. Blaikie, treasurer, and Charles E. Cerf, controller.

The GAO report said Blaikie gave as possible reasons for failure to itemize the 137 contributions: Campaign workers may have forwarded personal checks to cover total amounts they collected in cash, and the committee occasionally cashed checks which may have included in the deposits.



top of the campus restaurant
featuring
Williams & Valen
from 9 p.m. - 1 a.m.
Friday and Saturday
seating for cocktails - 9:30 p.m.
FINE FOOD IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF RELAXED DINING.
ENTERTAINMENT FRIDAYS AND SATURDAYS
BEST VIEW OF AMHERST.
DISCOUNTS FOR STUDENTS AND THEIR GUESTS
PHONE 549-6000 FOR RESERVATIONS.

Long Dresses
For Homecoming
Rani
The Indian Boutique
63 N. Pleasant St.
AMHERST
211 Main St.
NORTHAMPTON
9:30-5:30, Mon.-Sat.

dvp
presents:
Prof. Robert Hill
speaking on:
Crisis of Black Nationalism after Marcus Garvey
Thursday, Oct. 18
Engineering East
8:15 p.m.

Car Repairs-Cheap!

The Student Auto Workshop is open for you to come and repair your car. You can learn by doing with the assistance of our skilled mechanics. Our tool collection has been increased as well as our work area. This year we have incorporated a parts department which is stocked to supply your need in foreign and domestic parts at very reasonable prices.

We hope the following list can aid in your decision of times to attend the shop.

Tuesday, 3 to 11, Domestic.
Wednesday, 3 to 11, Foreign.
Thursday, 3 to 11, Foreign.
Saturday, 9 to 5, Foreign and Domestic.
Sunday, 10 to 4, Foreign and Domestic.

CLOSED MONDAY AND FRIDAY.

The rates for use of our facilities are $1.50 for the first hour.
$1.00 for each additional hour.

Our place of business is in the Campus Center Garage on the lower level (permit parking area-no ticket needed). Just drive down and take a look-see any time that we're open.

CALL

545-2566

Chilean Seminar

By LUIS MANUEL MEDINA

The New England Council of Latin American Studies, (NECLAS), will offer a movie about Cuba, "Memories of Underdevelopment" and a Seminar about the Chilean situation after Allende's death.

The activity will be held on Friday and Saturday 26-27 October at the University of New Hampshire, Durham, N.H. For more information contact: Prof. Robert Potash, Department of History, Herter Hall, U.Mass.

Landscapers Meet

A Conference on Landscape Assessment is to be held at the Campus Center on November 15 and 16. Students interested in attending should call Jeff Riotte or Marsh McLoughlin at Dickinson House--5-0930. Advance registration is required.

Mass Transit To Be Discussed

The Amherst Committee on Public Transportation will hold its ninth meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Board Room of Amherst Town Hall.

Scheduled for the committee's agenda tonight is a question-and-answer session with State Representative James Collins and State Senate John Olver, concerning the present status of public transit bills being considered in this session of the Massachusetts legislature.

The committee was created by a vote of Annual Town Meeting in March of this year to study the feasibility of establishing a public transit system to serve Amherst and possibly nearby communities.

Tonight's meeting is open to the public. Citizens concerned about local traffic and public transit problems are invited to sit in on the proceedings.

radio shack
of amherst
The Full Line
Audio Center In Hampshire County
•STEREO COMPONENT SYSTEMS
•COMPACT STEREO UNITS
•PORTABLE CASSETTE RECORDERS •PORTABLE TABLE MODEL RADIOS
•STEREO HEADPHONES
•CITIZENS BAND •2-WAY RADIO
•TELEVISIONS (color & B/W)
•ELECTRONIC PARTS AND MORE - MUCH MORE LOCALLY OWNED & OPERATED
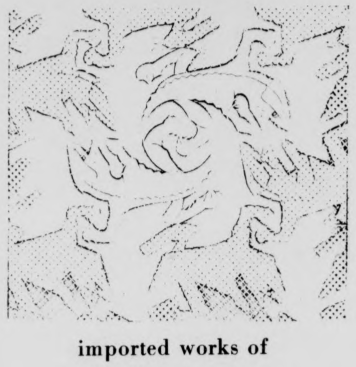
WE SERVICE WHAT WE SELL
STOP BY - We're at
318 College St. (Rte. 9)
AMHERST - on the UMass bus route
MON.-THURS. 10 A.M. - 5:30 P.M.
FRIDAYS 'TIL 9 P.M. SATURDAYS 9 A.M. - 5 P.M.

PRINTS



imported works of
M. C. Escher
at the University Store
CAMPUS CENTER
While you are at the store, look at our fine selection of mat and illustration boards for your new print.

DOMINO'S
PIZZA (Ovens in Trucks for Hot Delivery)
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY
Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12 - inch Pizza $1.75
16 - inch Pizza $2.95
Our Deluxe Pizza
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Ham, Green Pepper, Onion
12 - inch Pizza $3.15
16 - inch Pizza $4.95
ADDITIONAL ITEMS
Ham
Mushrooms
Onions
Green Peppers
Pepperoni
Ground Beef
Fresh Sausage
on 12 - inch Pizza 35¢
on 16 - inch Pizza 50¢
25¢ Off
Any Small
PIZZA
(ONE COUPON PER PIZZA)
Name
Address
Expires 10-22-73
50¢ Off
Any Large
PIZZA
(ONE COUPON PER PIZZA)
Name
Address
Expires 10-22-73

Attorney For Students

Debts, Dunning Letters And Defenses

By RICHARD M. HOWLAND

One of the undeniably excruciating almost sexually orgasmic events of mortal man's economic life is the final payment on an installment loan or mortgage. In fact this exquisite pleasure is so rare in the average mortal sojourn that it is itself the occasion for such bacchanalian revel as is reserved for events such as birth and marriage (in whatever order.)

The short of it is that paying off debts is a very satisfying accomplishment. The problem that has been plaguing many members of this community is the converse one of being presently unable to fulfill a financial obligation.

The typical course begins with the installment purchase of an extravagance. Many less than happy individuals buy goods or services on the premise that payments will only require a few more dollars a month out of income. The crisis develops when priorities or urgencies or disasters alter the available income to meet obligations.

Then you get the charmers. These are idiotic reminders that your bill is overdue and that the assistant account managers is suffering diarrhea because you're late! He recovers. He marks your account "nasty!"

Then she writes (it's a sexist business the men suffer gastritis and the women threaten suit). Only she never, absolutely never, has a name. All she has are initials and a vicious pen. If you don't pay yesterday, everything plus a whole lot of fees (which, after all, if you could make the payment you just might deal with the fees) It'll be sent to the Collector! Which it is. And most people despair.

The Collector promptly informs you that you have a hell of a bill to pay, plus fees, plus they are going to screw your credit (even at discount houses) plus they send a copy to your mother. The very next letter is a five minute notice that its all over but the shouting. Everything must go; all is repossessed; credit is shot, lawyers are on the verge of vilifying you to random and usually remote judges; watch for the sheriff! They'll take everything you have but the children.

Obviously, the payment you couldn't make has exploded beyond any realistic possibility that you ever will pay it.

What I have outlined is a more or less typical case. The fact of the matter, however, is that there is plenty you can do to prevent a bad situation from growing worse by acting promptly. Two factors are on your side. First, all of the creditors involved want more than anything else, to get paid the principal and then as much "interest" as they can. Second most of the really unpleasant things are prohibited by law.

The first steps that should be taken in most cases, don't involve the law. If the debt is legitimate and you do not feel that the seller has breached your agreement, communicate your problem to the seller as soon as you are aware of it. Explain why payment must be delayed and when it will be resumed. If the payment must be reduced, explain why and how much you will be able to pay on a regular basis. Most creditors will respect your openness and accept a good faith explanation. Some may offer realistic and straight forward assistance to ease a present burden. In my experience, however, this willingness to negotiate and adjust depends upon the debtor being the first to call attention to the problem. Like anything else it doesn't always work.

The law (chapter 93 particularly section 49 below) requires that debt collection be undertaken in a fair and reasonable manner. It protects against harassment by any unreasonable means, or by telling others of your difficulty including the use of envelopes that indicate debt collection is the subject matter. If you are subjected to an unfair practice or think that you are, call or write Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, State House, Boston 02133, or see me.

The statute follows: Chapter 93, Section 49. Debt collection in an unfair, deceptive or unreasonable manner.

No one who is a creditor, or an assignee of a creditor, of a natural person present or residing in Massachusetts who has incurred a debt primarily for personal, family or household purposes shall collect or attempt to collect such debt in an unfair, deceptive or unreasonable manner.

For the purposes of this section, such collection or attempt to collect shall be deemed unfair, deceptive or unreasonable if:

(a) The creditor communicates, threatens to communicate or implies the fact of such debt or alleged debt to a person other than the person who might reasonably be expected to be liable therefor, except with the written permission of the alleged debtor. The provisions of this paragraph shall not prohibit a creditor from notifying a debtor of the fact that the creditor may report a debt or alleged debt to a credit bureau or engage an agent or an attorney for the purpose of collecting the debt or alleged debt. For the purposes of this paragraph, the use of language on envelopes indicating that the communication relates to the collection of a debt shall be deemed a communication of such debt or alleged debt.

(b) The creditor communicates directly with the alleged debtor after notification from an attorney representing such debtor that all further communications relative to the debt should be addressed to him.

(c) The creditor communicates with the alleged debtor in such a manner as to harass or embarrass the alleged debtor, including, but not limited to communication at an unreasonable hour, with unreasonable frequency, by threats of violence, by use of offensive language, or by threats of any action which the creditor in the usual course of business does not in fact take.

(d) The creditor communicates with alleged debtors through the use of forms or instruments that simulate the form and appearance of judicial process.

Failure to comply with the provisions of this section shall constitute an unfair or deceptive act or practice under the provisions of chapter ninety-three A.

Bridge Club?
Any Volunteers?

For all the bridge players who have not been able to make it to our meetings on Thursday nights, the Bridge Club is changing its meetings to Tuesday night soon. Our schedule of Intercollegiate matches is increasing, so we are very interested in hearing from all interested players.

With a victory over Yale in our one September match, we are looking ahead to one of the years bigger tournaments coming up November 10 and 11 in Philadelphia. Teams are now forming for that match and others being planned in the near future.

Franchised by the ACBL, we are giving rating points this year. Players are coming from other schools in the Five College area this year, which allows us to have larger games. Come and join us tonight at 7:00 in CC 174-176.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

Not since a deluge of mail was received concerning the pros and cons of Leo have I been so besieged as recently--and this time the subject was Sagittarius. I have really been getting the lowdown on these natives from you, the readers. Now, listen: I probably know as much about astrology and the signs as any person--and have written and studied and delineated. Yet, it never fails--I learn from you. I gain new insights--from you. Sagittarius is one of the most difficult signs to really pin down, to analyze and comprehend.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Practical matters dominate. Frankness wins day. Don't beat about bush. Say what you mean--mean what you say. Friend should not be permitted to skirt rules in your name. Hold off on co-signing. Protect your own interests.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Be versatile, willing to change horses in midstream. Create your own traditions. Refuse to be bogged down by someone else's style. Gemini, Virgo persons could play key roles. Speak up--express views without being obnoxious.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Money, savings account, luxury item, time payments--these tend now to be highlighted. Life can be more beautiful if you give yourself a chance. Means now is time to project, to perceive potential, to make home a happy, harmonious place.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Avoid seeing only what you want to see. Broaden view. Get facts, not rumors. Eschew wishful thinking. Cycle is such that you can make unorthodox move--and succeed. Family member expresses misgivings. Live your life.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accept what amounts to overtime assignment. If you give now, you also will receive. Older individual is in your corner. Pace may be getting out of hand. Know it and keep resolutions. Means check diet, rest and work schedule.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You may be asked to choose between situation which is pleasant and expensive--and one which is necessary. Take the latter, even if it means temporary sacrifice. You will understand and ultimately benefit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Persons in authority recognize your personal spark. You feel more individual and act like it. Strive for independence, originality. Highlight the new. Be yourself. Don't be intimidated by one who is cynical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Study Libra message. Find ways of expressing yourself. Stamp your style. Member of opposite sex figures prominently. Emotional responses are accentuated. You tend now to act first and ponder later. Aquarian is likely to be in picture.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends offer many suggestions but few are workable. Do your own choosing. Reach beyond what was a limitation. You are in a new ball game. The rules favor the versatile, the adventurous. Know it and act accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Not wise to push one in authority. Many around you now are apt to be supersensitive. Maintain steady pace. Nothing will be handed you on proverbial silver platter. Take one step--then review situation before proceeding. Progress can be slow but sure.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You do best now by taking overall view. Narrow attitude could spell defeat of purpose. Read, write, publish, advertise--spread emotional wings. Key is to create, express. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius persons play roles.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Look behind scenes for answer to financial snag. Budget needs review, discussion. One close to you may be taking too much for granted. Trim excess expense. Be a comparison shopper, especially in connection with household items.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1 Brilliant display
5 Trinket
9 Church bench
12 Sandarac tree
13 Exchange premium
14 Guido's high note
15 Military students
17 Note of scale
18 Tattered cloth
19 Abound
21 Showers
23 Was present
27 A state (abbr.)
28 Wicked person
29 Afternoon party
31 Obstruct
34 Paid notice
35 Protects
38 Parent (colloq.)
39 Communist
41 Click beetle
42 Additional
44 Printer's measure
46 Reconditioned tires
48 Part of flower
51 Traced
52 Anger
53 Latin conjunction 55 Employable
59 Worm
60 Drunkards
62 Regrets
63 Place
64 Sound a horn
65 Fall in drops

DOWN

1 Moccasin
2 Anglo-Saxon money
3 Insane
4 Sham
5 Established on
6 For example (abbr.)
7 Succor
8 Entrance
9 Punctuation mark
10 Verve
11 Moves from side to side
16 Cared for 20 Measured mechanically
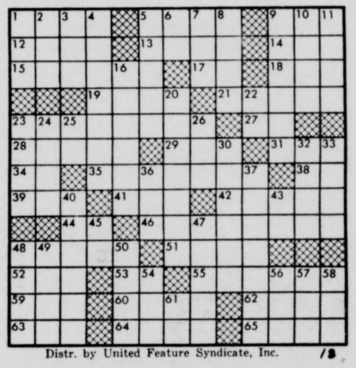
22 Part of "to be"
23 At a distance
24 Rise and fall of ocean
25 Symbol for tellurium
26 Lair
30 Worships
32 Imitated
33 Planet
36 Preposition
37 Administrator
40 Hate
43 Exclamation
45 Parent (colloq.)
47 Confidence
48 Baker's products
49 Gaelic
50 For fear that
54 Also
56 Prickly envelope of fruit
57 Hawaiian wreath
58 Extrasensory perception
61 Preposition

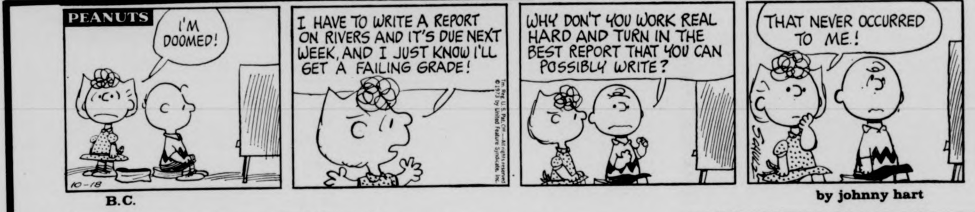
Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

L	A	P	P		B	A	L	E		T	A	P
A	R	I	L		A	M	I	D		I	R	A
S	T	E	E	P	S		E	N		N	A	G
			A	R	E	S		A	N	K	L	E
P	R	E	S	I	D	E	D		A	L
R	A	T	E	D		W	I	T		E	B	B
O	R		D	E	N		P	A	P		E	U
D	E	C		S	O	S		L	O	G	E	S
		R	I		T	E	M	E	R	I	T	Y
C	R	A	S	H		T	E	N	T
A	I	M		E	T		S	T	E	W	E	D
R	A	P		L	A	O	S		R	H	E	A
E	S	S		M	A	N	Y		S	O	L	D

18

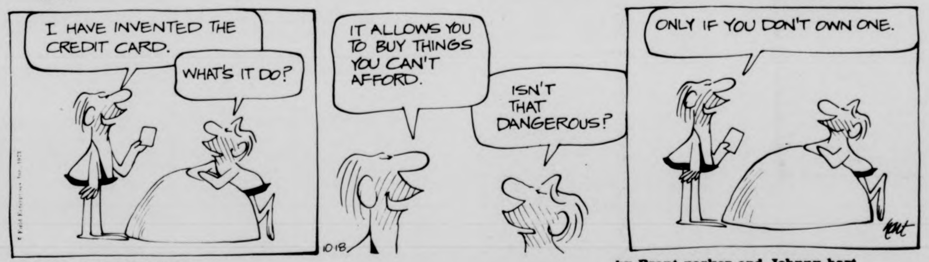


Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 18



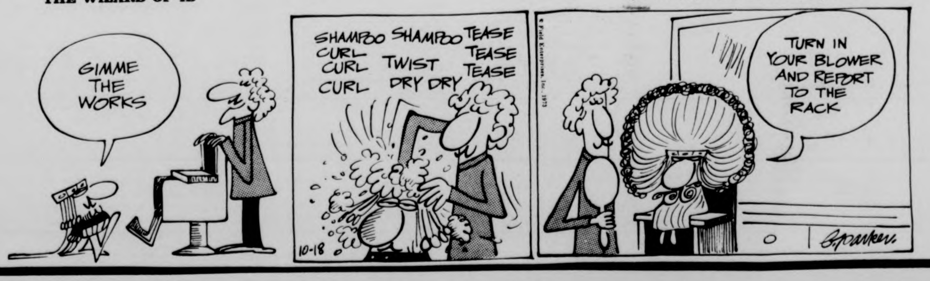
PEANUTS
I'M DOOMED!
10-18
I HAVE TO WRITE A REPORT ON RIVERS AND IT'S DUE NEXT WEEK, AND I JUST KNOW I'LL GET A FAILING GRADE!
WHY DON'T YOU WORK REAL HARD AND TURN IN THE BEST REPORT THAT YOU CAN POSSIBLY WRITE?
THAT NEVER OCCURRED TO ME!
SCHULZ

B.C. by johnny hart



I HAVE INVENTED THE CREDIT CARD.
WHAT'S IT DO?
IT ALLOWS YOU TO BUY THINGS YOU CAN'T AFFORD.
ISN'T THAT DANGEROUS?
10-18
ONLY IF YOU DON'T OWN ONE.
hart

THE WIZARD OF ID by Brant parker and Johnny hart



3rd World Health Seminar

The Black Action Team of Room to Move will sponsor a seven week seminar on Community health issues affecting Third World people. This series will allow brothers and sisters to examine the pressing health concerns of their community and to study the health care system available to them.

Topics to be covered include:

The Politics of Medical Care

The Organization of Health Services

Opportunities for Minorities in Medical Fields

Personal Health! How and When you can Care for Yourself

Sickle Cell Anemia and Other Diseases of Special Interest to Third World People

A Look at Family Planning:
  a. Pregnancy Care
  b. Contraception

Stress in the Third World Community and Its unwelcome Effects:
  a. Drug Abuse
  b. Alcoholism
  c. Hypertension

Minority health professionals from the 5-college area will serve as resource persons to the seminar. These include: Dr. William Dorrity, Dr. June Butts, R.N. Joyce Austin, R.N. Loraine Collins, Bob Padget, Mary Ellen Bias, and Francis Kauffman.

The series will start next Tuesday, October 23, and every Monday evening thereafter from 7-9 p.m. in the 2nd floor Lounge in the New Africa House. All interested brothers and sisters are welcome.

Parade Promotes Psyching

By GEOFFREY PIPER

This Saturday at 1:00 p.m. the Minutemen will be returning to Alumni Stadium to face the Rhode Island Rams. After their recent string of victories Coach MacPherson's Big Red Machine is ready to slam the Rams back to Rhode Island with their horns hanging low.

Why don't you get involved with Homecoming this year to encourage our guys in the red and white? A Homecoming parade is scheduled to leave from Haigis Mall at 7:00 Friday night, and it will eventually end up at the center of Amherst. The band, cheerleaders, and the Greeks (with their wild floats) will be trying to make it clear to everyone in the area that UMass is psyched for this game. The parade will be highlighted by a rally at Amherst center, beginning around 8:00 p.m. The team will be there in full force, and Coach MacPherson will probably have something to say to the crowd.

So before you dive into your weekend beer, truck on down to the parade. Show the team some support and enthusiasm by making a lot of good noise (The Wednesday Night Orchard Hill Mob should all be there). Join in and march along. Hear what Big Mac has to say about Saturday's game before you take the plunge into the Blue Wall, and contribute some noise, spirit, or both to the Minuteman cause. How often do you get the chance to "get up for the game" the night before instead of the night after?

Watch for DOMINO'S

"Last of the Red Hot Lovers"

TONIGHT

7 & 9 p.m.

S.U. Ballroom

50¢

"STAR TREK"
4 p.m. - 5 p.m.
and original "SUPERMAN"
flicks
5 p.m. - 5:30 p.m.
at the BLUEWALL
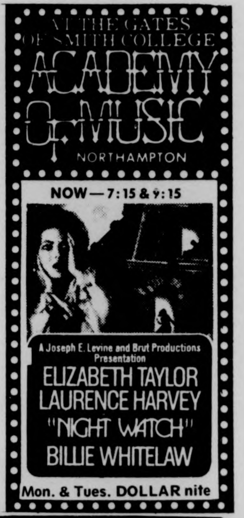
everyday free!



AT THE GATES OF SMITH COLLEGE
ACADEMY OF MUSIC
NORTHAMPTON
NOW — 7:15 & 9:15
A Joseph E. Levine and Brut Productions Presentation
ELIZABETH TAYLOR
LAURENCE HARVEY
"NIGHT WATCH"
BILLIE WHITELAW
Mon. & Tues. DOLLAR nite

"Horror House"
Friday
October 19
7:00, 8:45, 10:30
Mahar Auditorium
(Also Little Rascals Shorts)

THE BOYS IN THE BAND
is not a musical!
Mahar Aud. 7, 9, 11 p.m.
Oct. 18th, Thursday

The Chequers
University Drive at Amity Street, Amherst 256-8189
Enjoy a great dinner and a movie
Thursday night at one fantastic price . . .
$6.95 two persons
This Thursday: Lasagna, oven baked garlic bread, fresh garden salad.
Then on to CAMPUS CINEMAS to enjoy the movie of your choice at one of the three luxurious CAMPUS CINEMAS.

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands! tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688. tf10/19

Scott 357 AM-FM stereo receiver and EPI model 50 speakers, $220. Ask for Steve, Rm. 315, 545-2304, 2305. tf10-18

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 42, with 3/4" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed. $160. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m. tf10-19

Brother DeLuxe portable typewriter, like new, $40; BSR 310 turntable, $45; 50w Lafayette amplifier, $70; two Criterion 50A speakers, $30 ea., all 1 month old. Praktica (Zeiss) camera, Meyer 180 telephoto lens, Takumar multicoated 28mm wide-angle lens, double lens, flash and magnifying lens. Call for Al, 549-1716. tf10-19

Ski boots, Kotlach, buckle type, size 10, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and 549-6872 after 6 p.m. tf10-19

Need a clean apartment used vacuum $10., and up. Kinners Vacuum, 19 Park St., Turners Falls, 863-9356. tf10-23

10 speed Gazelle Tour de L'Avenir, runs like new $90. Includes 3 ft. cable and lock. Call 6-6249. tf10-19

Gibson Es-335 Semi-Hollow elec. guitar. 2 Humbucking pick ups, custom finish, hard case, exc. cond. $325. Call Dave at 617-544-3520. tf10-19

FOR SALE

Head 320 Skis with Tyrolia Bindings, $90. Nordica Ski Boots size 10, $30. Call Mike 546-5170. tf10-18

1 Wirewheel, Tono cover, 2 studded snowtires 6. 15-13-155-13 4 ply nylon from 67 TR Spitfire, price negotiable. Call 532-9285. tf10-18

69 Corvette Conv. 4 spd. posi AM-FM well maintained. Mostly new parts, complete serv. rec. $3000, 549-6258. tf10-19

Must sell my stereo, complete component system, electrophonic, excellent condition. Very rsble. 6-7476. tf10-19

Kowa six 2 1/4 SLR less than 1 yr. old F1.8 lens, interchangeable-lens hood grip new $400. Asking $200. Call 323-7866 eves. tf10-19

Guitar - Arla, 6 steel string. Good case $75. Tape recorder - Akai, X-360, 4 heads, 3 motors. Auto reverse. Best offer. Call Mark 253-9517. tf10-23

Skis, bindings, boot Head 360, 190 cm, Tyrolia, Rieker 8 1/2m, $100. Head 180 cm, Telmat-Marker, Lange 6W, $100. Margaret 545-2348 days. tf10-19

Winter's coming! Think ahead, rust colored bootlength coat, fur trimmed on hood & cuffs a real bargain. Sz. 15-16. Kathy 545-0344 day. tf10-19

Speakers — pair of Hitachi KS-3200R, includes 2-8 inch woofers, 2-2 1/2 inch tweeters, excellent condition, $50 or best offer. 6-6083. tf10-19

Zenith 21" console color, $150; RCA black & white console t.v., $65. Television Center, 55 N. Pleasant St., Amherst, 253-5100. tf11-5

FOR SALE

Gibson B-25, 12 STRG, excellent cond., red sunburst case, 8 yrs. old, hardly ever used. Best offer. Doug, 253-9501. tf10-19

Borg Warner electric range, very good shape, best offer. Call Doug, 253-9501. tf10-19

For sale — 1 Sansui 5000X rec. 2 CS99A Pion speaker, AKAITP DKJVC turntable, ex. equipment, current list price $1,533, will sell for $865. 586-3658, Terry. tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina, four wheel disc brake, good tires, automatic, $200. Ask for Leslie at 546-4538. tf10-18

Stereo, Ambassador — AM-FM 8-track, air susp. speakers, BSR wood base turntable, dust cover, headphones and many extras. Call 6-6416. tf10-23

Paul's Oldtime Furniture — best prices on furniture, costumes, bric a brac. What more can I say. In the Alley behind Aubuchon, 253-3511. tf10-24

Head 360 skis, 205 CM, used only five times, excellent condition. New $150, now $75. 253-5907 after 5:00 p.m. tf10-23

3 Wharfdale W24 speakers, 1 yr. old, will negotiate. Call Judy, 256-0584. tf10-18

12 gauge shotguns; Winchester model 1400, auto. 26-inch mod., $90. Also model 370, single 30-inch full, $25. 546-5993. tf10-19

For sale — Teton goosedown coat, med.; G.E. hot comb & tape recorder. 6-6363. tf10-19

USD Fujica ST701 55mm 1-8 Mtr. MDS calibration 400, 135mm ins. with c., p.s.t., grp. Kako Fish, acc. sh. 49mm ins. sde. trpd., cam. c.s., $175. 546-7529. tf10-24

AUTO FOR SALE

68 'Cuda 383 hdrs. Mags. 4 spd. Hurst trac. bars, Tach, exc. cond. Call 253-9034 or 5-2163 leave mess. tf10-19

Great buy! 1964 TR4. Excellent running condition, body needs work, first $300 takes it away. Wire wheels, call 253-3516 day or night. tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina Four Wheel, Disc Brakes, Good Tires, Automatic. $100. Ask for Leslie at "5-2418 or 5-2419". tf10-19

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192. tf10-19

1966 Olds Toronado, air cond., stereo, power windows & 6-way seat, just inspected, front wheel drive, $500 firm. Call 549-0924, 5 to 9 p.m. tf10-19

Reliable 1969 VW Squareback, automatic, extras plus 2 good snow tires, $1195 firm. 323-7018 after 4 p.m., keep trying! tf10-18

1971 Toyota Corona, standard shift, $600. Call 1-467-3796. tf10-19

Van 1966 Ford Supervan H.D. Six, sticker and new paint, $450 or best offer, must sell. Call 546-8661. tf10-18

1965 Plymouth 383, 2 BBL, V-8, a.t., p.s., radio, 4D new tires, sticker, good shape, must sell, $225. 253-7941, ask for Bob. tf10-24

1970 VW, sunroof, excellent mech. cond. See at 401 N. Pleasant St., $1100 firm. tf10-25

1960 Alfa-Romeo GT Sprint, hardtop, runs very well, 28MPG. Looks fine. Classic, voted top five GT cars in the world. Call 546-7433. tf10-19

65 VW Sedan $150 Leslie, 220 Puffton. No phone. tf10-18

AUTO FOR SALE

72 VW Deluxe Bus 25000 m. New brakes, Radial snows, camping equip. Warranty serviced. Excellent cond. 549-6728. tf10-23

Ford Cortina GT 1968 Michelins, Konis, tach, radio, good gas mileage, runs pretty good. Very reasonable. 549-0894 after 5:30. tf10-19

1969 MGB, blue, body & roof in good shape, new brake shoes front, rebuilt eng., FM stereo tape deck, runs very well, please call Bill at 549-1809. tf10-19

1965 VW Bus Bebuilt eng. Good ext., Ex. int., Gas Heater. Must Sell Immediately. $350. 665-2381. Ask for Mark. tf10-18

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

73 Honda 350, low mileage excellent condition, still under warranty, must sell $550 or best offer, 549-6258. tf10-19

1972 Honda Sl-125, exc. condition, well kept, best Jap woods bike with knobby & shop manual. Call Joel, 665-4477 evenings after 6 p.m. tf10-19

WANTED

Musicians interested in addressing cont. musical problems - cellist - trombone - saxophone - bassist. Call 584-6077, 5-6 p.m. only. tf10-23

Open minded attractive liberal female likes exotic, for modeling, good pay. Write giving details, K.B., Box 262, Holyoke, Ma. 01040. tf10-19

Wanted — warm, friendly babysitter with own car, for 11 month old, 9-12 weekdays. 253-3607. tf10-19

Garage space, central Amherst. Safe and inexpensive. D. H. Jones 549-3700. tf10/18

Need actor for serious but fun horror film. Call Mike from 5 to 9 tonite. 467-7999. 3 roles, lotsa fun. tf10-19

Notices

ALPHA ZETA

Meeting for all members, Tues, 10-23, 6:30 p.m. 805 C.C. New members will not get membership shingles until they attend meeting.

COIN CLUB

Meeting Thursday 10-18, 811 C.C. 7:30-10 p.m. Amateurs and new members welcome.

FREE FILM

The film co-op presents Douglas Fairbanks in a comedy, Matrimaniac (1916) tonight in C.C. 165-169 at 9:00. Admission is free.

GAY COFFEEHOUSE

HAPPENING tonight from 7:30 on, in McKimmie House Lounge. Everyone welcome. There will be no regular student homophile league meeting tonight.

GAY WOMEN'S CAUCUS

Meeting in C.C. 805-809 at 7:30. All women are welcome.

HEALTH ADVISORY BOARD

The board will meet tonight at 4:30, 911 C.C.

HOLIDAY SERVICES

Thursday, 10-18, Simhat Torah (rejoicing in the Torah) celebration 8:15 p.m., S.U. 302-308. Friday, 10-19 Simhat Torah, 9:00 a.m., S.U. 302.

ITALIAN CLUB MEETING

At 7:00 in the third floor lounge of Herter Hall, Greg Compese will show a film that he made in Boston's North End. All welcome.

JAPANESE FILM SERIES

Movie: Akahige (Red Beard), Friday, Oct. 19, Thompson 104, 7 and 10; tickets at the door.

N.E.S. TUTORING

There will be a meeting tonight in Room 178 C.C. at 7:30 for any tutors interested in planning a Halloween Party. All are welcome.

NORTHAMPTON VOLUNTEERS

The Northampton bus leaves from Hasbrouck at 6:30, stops at Paterson (Sunset Ave. side) at 6:35. All are welcome. There will be a get together after the Northampton trip.

NURSING INFORMATION FOR CAS

Anyone interested in nursing major-There will be an informal get-together in Mor. IV - North, Room 413, tonight at 7:00.

PARACHUTE CLASS TONIGHT

Class starts at 7:00 (be on time), Rm. 917 C.C. Bring fee and forms with you; notebook may be handy. For more info. call John 256-0570.

SKI PATROL

Meeting tonight at 6:30 in 903 C.C. Planning for Hill course (10-22-73) will be discussed. Attendance mandatory.

TAU BETA PI

Meeting tonight at 6:30 of all active members. Held in EBE 102.

UNIVERSITY MEN

Come down and see No. 2 (remember us?) open smoker tonight 6:30-8:00. Delta Chi 314 Lincoln Ave.; call for rides 5-0195.

UMASS VS. B.C.

Water polo game tonight at 6:00, Boyden Pool. Spectators welcome.

WHO IS GURU MAHARAJ JI

Does he have the highest meditation? Can he show you your soul? Do you want to see it. . .C.C. 168, 7:30 tonight.

WUMV

Monday nights class will meet Wed. at 8:00 p.m. 102 C.C.

FOUND

"Popular Arts in America" found in SBA. Can be picked up at C.C. Lost and Found.

LOST

In SU (think in lounge), ring-blue enamel, flowers, chipped. Sentimental. Brenda 549-0532.

Gold key case. Vitally important. Lost in vicinity of Skinner Auditorium. If found, please call 546-4018.

ROOM TO MOVE
Campus Drug Drop-In Center
CALL 5-0400
24 HOURS A DAY
7 DAYS A WEEK

DEPARTMENT OF THEATRE
A MOON FOR THE MISBEGOTTEN
by Eugene O'Neill
Tonight, Fri., Oct. 19, and Sat., Oct. 20
ALL TICKETS $1.00 THIS WEEKEND
Bartlett Aud. 8 p.m.
Box Office opens 6 p.m. on show nights
For information call
545-2579, Mon.-Fri., 1-5 p.m.

24 HR TEL 733-5131
SHOWCASE CINEMAS 12345
We Honor MASTER CHARGE
ROUTE 5 RIVERDALE RD. WEST SPFLD.

WESTWORLD
Where nothing can possibly go worng
PG
YUL BRYNNER
Eves. — 7:30-9:20; Sun. & Mon. — 2-3:35-5:20-7:20-9:20

Electra Glide IN BLUE
PG
Daily — 2-7:30-9:40; Sat., Sun. & Mon. — 1-3-5:10-7:30-9:40

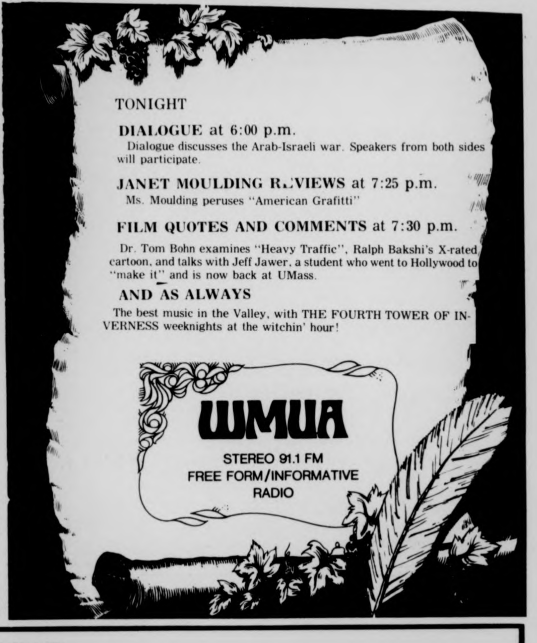
CHARLES BRONSON. The STONE KILLER R
Eves. — 7:30-9:30; Sat., Sun. & Mon. — 2-3:50-5:30-7:30-9:30

His name is Captain Peg
KIRK DOUGLAS in SCALAWAG
Daily — 2-7-9; Sat., Sun. & Mon. — 1:30-3:20-5:00-7:00-9:00

WE'RE ADDING A NEW CINEMA
WATCH FOR GALA OPENING

Television Tonight

5:00 ENSIGN O'TOOLE "Operation: Swindle" (18)
5:30 THE REAL McCOYS "Beware A Smart Woman." (18)
THE LUCY SHOW "Lucy and the Old Mansion." (22)
THE ELECTRIC COMPANY (24) (57)
GOMER PYLE "To Save a Life." (27)
HOGAN'S HEROES "How To Cook A German Goose By Radar." (30)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (40)
5:55 WHAT'S HAPPENING UPDATE (3)
6:00 NEWS (3) (8) (22)
I SPY "The Lotus Eater" (18)
MAKING THINGS GROW (24)
PETTICOAT JUNCTION "Sorry Doctor, I Ain't Taking No Shots" (27)
TO TELL THE TRUTH Garry Moore, host (30)
WILD WILD WEST "Night Of the Samurai" (40)
ZOOM! (57)
6:15 NATIONAL GOVERNMENT (24)
6:30 NEWS (3) (22) (30)
ABC EVENING NEWS (18)
ANIMAL WORLD (27)
LOUIS LYONS: NEWS AND COMMENT (57)
6:55 NEWSBEAT NEWS (40)
7:00 THE STARLOST (3)
TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES Bob Barker, host (8)
DICK VAN DYKE SHOW "The Man From My Uncle." (18)
NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (22) (30)
YOUR FUTURE IS NOW (24)
MOVIE "Battle Zone" (27)
ABC EVENING NEWS (40)
THE REPORTERS (57)
7:30 THRILLSEEKERS (8)
MOVIE "Footsteps In the Fog." (18)
HOLLYWOOD AND THE STARS "The Swashbucklers" (22)
FREE TIME (24)
WAIT TILL YOUR FATHER GETS HOME "Jamie's Project." (30)
DRAGNET "The Bookie" (40)
THE OPEN DOOR (57)
8:00 THE WALTONS "The Chicken Thief," (3)
TOMA "Crime Without Victim." (40)
1973 WORLD SERIES OF BASEBALL (22) (30)
THE FLIP WILSON SHOW (22) (30)
THE WATERGATE HEARINGS (24) (57)
9:00 MOVIE "Joy In the Morning" (3)
ABC NEWS CLOSE-UP ON WEST VIRGINIA-LIFE LIBERTY AND THE PURSUIT OF COAL (8) (40)
THE 700 CLUB (18)
IRONSIDE (22) (30)
BORIS KARLOFF PRESENTS THRILLER "Choose A Victim" (27)
10:00 STREETS OF SAN FRANCISCO "The Stamp of Death." (8) (40)
NBC FOLLIES (22) (30)
NEWS (27)
10:30 THE LIVING WORD (18)
10:45 MANTRAP (27)
11:00 NEWS, WEATHER, SPORTS (3) (8) (18) (22) (30) (40)
11:30 MOVIE "Mozambique." (3)
WIDE WORLD OF ENTERTAINMENT (8) (40)
JOHNNY CARSON SHOW (22) (30)
1:00 NEWS (8) (40)
TOMORROW Tom Snyder, host (22) (30)
1:25 NEWS, WEATHER (3)
2:00 NEWS (22) (30)



TONIGHT

DIALOGUE at 6:00 p.m.
Dialogue discusses the Arab-Israeli war. Speakers from both sides will participate.

JANET MOULDING REVIEWS at 7:25 p.m.
Ms. Moulding peruses "American Grafitti"

FILM QUOTES AND COMMENTS at 7:30 p.m.
Dr. Tom Bohn examines "Heavy Traffic", Ralph Bakshi's X-rated cartoon, and talks with Jeff Jawer, a student who went to Hollywood to "make it" and is now back at UMass.

AND AS ALWAYS
The best music in the Valley, with THE FOURTH TOWER OF INVERNESS weeknights at the witchin' hour!

WMUA
STEREO 91.1 FM
FREE FORM/INFORMATIVE RADIO

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

To the coaches and players of UM's basketball team — wishing you the very best of luck in the coming season. Iris Frankel. tf10-19

If you are she whose bike I fixed, Rt. 9, 5:30 p.m., 10-15 — after you hurt your knee. Please call 1-536-2613 any weekday evening. tf10-24

I love you J.H. — N.J.G. tf10-18

Person who called about King P's cats — please. Please call me again. 3080. tf10-19

Sam — happy 20th birthday! May it be like our love — beautiful. Missy. tf10-18

Brian — happy 20th birthday! Love C. tf10-18

On Oct. 27 — put on your walking shoes and help Gamma Sig fight heart disease. Sign up Oct. 18, 19, C.C. Concourse. tf10-19

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002. tf11-11

To the girl in Drake Sunday, 10-7. Call collect 603-523-7050 about opportunity in N.H. in regards to ed position we talked about. Rich. tf10-18

Parents — problems with child care? Join the Child Care Exchange — an alternative to sitters etc. Infants to 8 yrs. Call Joan, 586-2221 tf10-19

Tired of dorm living? [illegible] bedroom in King Philip [illegible]. Call 665-2318 after 5 p.m. [illegible] tf10-19

[illegible] tf10-18

PERSONAL

"Puddin' Face" — A very Happy 21st — Let me know about a Friday dinner for two at Toc. Love, "Peach Fuzz". tf10-18

Kenny S., Happy Birthday from the boys in No. 60 and all your Friends in Riverglade Apts. tf10-18

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie. t11

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-1:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

Mother — Prof. with school age kids needs a paragon: efficient, kind capable individual to take over, part time. 253-7456, 5-0417. tf10-18

Supervisor — Direct Sales! You may be one of the three key people I seek to develop and train distributors. High income potential for management minded people. Write: Mr. Weiss, P.O. Box 552, Randolph, MA 02368. [illegible]

Secretary to help in [illegible] [illegible] tf10-19

FOR RENT

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373. tf10-27

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month. tf10/19

SERVICES

Do not get ripped off! Experienced electronic and electrical repairs. Reasonable rates. Call 545-2308, Bill 401, or Mark 415. tf11-1

Professional typing, dissertations, theses, etc. 55c for average page. Let my fingers do the walking! Call Tom 546-1165. Save this ad. tf10-19

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051. tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying. tf10-19

Bike repairs — Will do some bike repairs on campus and pick up and deliver others. Cheap and reliable. Call Tom after 5, 584-1985. tf10-19

Pastel Portraits drawn from photo [illegible]. All ages from newborns to grandparents. Samples shown [illegible] call 5[illegible] tf10-23

Research — thousands of topics, $2.75 per page. Send $1 for mail order catalog. [illegible] tf10-12

RIDE WANTED

Would like ride to Springfield on Fridays around 1:00 p.m. Call Sue, 546-6816, will share expenses. tf10-19

Ride wanted to Phila. on Oct. 19. Call 256-0618, will share expenses. tf10-18

To Ithaca or Syracuse 19 or 20, back 21 or 22. Will share expenses. Call 549-6356 ask for Dorothee or leave message. tf10-18

Need ric m Belchertown for 8, back at 4. Quab .pts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joann 323-4521, keep trying. tf10-19

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Funky up & down 1 bedroom apt. in Hamp. Large workshop & heat included. Call 1-268-7048. tf10-19

Country living 4 miles from UMass, 2 bdrm. apt. in farmhouse, on 60 acres. One of the most scenic views in valley, $210. 1-268-7048. tf10-19

ROOMMATE WANTED

Graduate Students wanted to share house in Belchertown, furnished with utilities. Call 323-7082. tf10-18

Female roommate own room in 6 room house in Hadley. Please call 586-2815 keep trying. tf10-19

Female to share room in Brittany Manor Apt. [illegible] 256-8171 tf10-19

Roommate wanted to share Cliffside 2 bdrm. Apt. Own bdrm, quiet, nice location, on bus rte. dw, ac, $85-mo. incl. utilities. Call 665-4311. tf10-19

LOST

Buck knife on 10-4 nite, between C.C. & S.W. If found please call 6-7489, reward. tf10-19

Please, I lost my Black Shawl at a roadstop in Montague. I miss it, Maureen 253-9033, let ring. tf10-18

ENTERTAINMENT

Horse back riding, Running Deer Ranch, 549-3630. tf10-19

Experienced juggler wanted. Call 545-0418. tf10-19

Experienced Magician wanted. Call 545-0418. tf10-19

O.K., there's no home football game Oct. 27. Don't sit home: join GSS in the Heart Fund walk. Sign up Oct. 18 and 19, C.C. Concourse. tf10-19

FREE

Free kittens to give away to good homes they are really fine and box trained. Please call Carlotta 664-3191 after 5. tf10-24

Free two year old Irish Setter to good home preferable with lots of room or on farm. Call Laurie 546-4741, [illegible] p.m. tf10-20

Free puppy — 8 wks. old, female, must be given away before Friday. Please take her! Call 6-7494 as soon as possible. tf10-19

An Oakland Athletic (Bill North) is sitting between Manager Dick Williams and Owner Charles Finley. Something else has come between Williams and Finley.

Williams To Leave A's After Series

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - An Oakland A's player confirmed Wednesday that Manager Dick Williams had told his players he would leave the team following the World Series.

"He told the team he would resign, win or lose," an Oakland player who asked not to be identified told The Associated Press.

Williams has been prominently mentioned for the vacant New York Yankee manager's job but strongly denied that rumor when it was presented to him.

"I deny that 1,000 per cent," the A's manager said of the possibility that he might be coming to New York. "I know nothing about it. There has been gossip all over the place, but I don't know anything about it."

Williams, however, had no comment on the report that he might leave the A's.

The Yankees are seeking a manager to replace Ralph Houk, who joined the Detroit Tigers after resigning as Yankee skipper. The New York club, commenting on the rumor, said only: "Williams is under contract to Oakland."

The unnamed A's player said Williams had not mentioned the Yankee job when he revealed his plans to the team in a clubhouse meeting before the third game of the 1973 World Series. The A's won the game 3-2 in 12 innings for a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series.

"He told us he was in full sympathy with us over the Mike Andrews affair," the player continued.

Andrews, a utility infielder, made two costly errors in the second game of the Series and was sent home by owner Charles O. Finley, who claimed the player was injured and sought to replace him on the A's Series roster. That move was blocked by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Andrews returned to the club for Wednesday night's fourth game.

At a news conference here Wednesday, Andrews said that the claim by Finley that he had a bad shoulder was "a lie."

"Maybe he just said he was leaving to shake up the team after the Andrews thing," another Oakland player suggested.

Deron Johnson, used as Oakland's designated hitter this season, said that Williams had mumbled something about the Yankees at the conclusion of his clubhouse meeting. Johnson said the remark did not sound like any kind of a flat statement to him but that some of the A's players interpreted it to mean that Williams was going to the Yanks.

Dick O'Connor of the Palo Alto, Calif., Times, here covering the Series, reported earlier that Williams had informed the players of his decision to leave the club at the clubhouse meeting.

Williams has managed the A's into the World Series in each of the last two years. The A's were World Champions in 1972. Oakland has won three consecutive American League West Division championships under Williams who also managed the Boston Red Sox to the American League title in 1967.

If Williams leaves the club, speculation on a successor centers around Irv Noren, the A's third base coach. Noren, who has three years of minor league managerial experience, has served as Williams' top aide for the last three seasons.

MDC
Sportsline
5-0344

LONDON
$389 or $379
inc. everything — one meal

Seven-Sixty Travel Inc.
Albany, N.Y.

For more info:
Leslie Halfond
625 Field
AMHERST, MASS.
413-546-6861

TONITE
CLEAN LIVING
at the
Rusty Nail Inn
Rte. 47, Sunderland
665-4937

Yogi's Son Tim

By BOB ESTELLE

The old Yankee philosophy of hard work has made Tim Berra the premiere wide receiver in the Yankee Conference. This Montclair, New Jersey native, at 5'11", 185 lbs., has improved his speed from a 5.0 forty to a 4.8 by working on sprinters drills during the summer. UMass receiver coach Bill Maxwell says that this has made him a better pass receiver.

The followers of UMass football need little proof of this All they have seen is that Berra has 36 receptions for 474 yards and seven touchdowns via the air this season. Most of this is done against either the opposition's best defensive back or mostly double coverage, but this has not impeded his performance. For example, he still caught seven passes, one for a touchdown against BU while two Terriers were constantly breathing down his neck.

He has also shown a great deal of versatility in running back punts and kickoffs for the Minutemen. His 93 yard touchdown on a kickoff return opening the second half against Villanova is a good example. These are credentials that belong to not only the top receiver in the YanCon, but to an All-New England and All-East prospect.

Tim Berra

Berra is the son of New York Met manager and former New York Yankee catcher Yogi Berra. But the notoriety he has gotten from this doesn't bother him. "As far as being Yogi Berra's son goes, it really is nothing. I've gotten a little more notoriety because of it. But up here, people accepted me as just plain Tim Berra."

But Tim Berra is a quiet unassuming person. Coach Maxwell says that he is dedicated to the task at hand which is being a football player.

Berra came to UMass from Montclair High School in New Jersey. He made All-Country but feels that it really wasn't a big honor. In looking for a college, he wanted to go somewhere that was within driving distance of his home. UMass was the only school that offered him a scholarship that met this criteria.

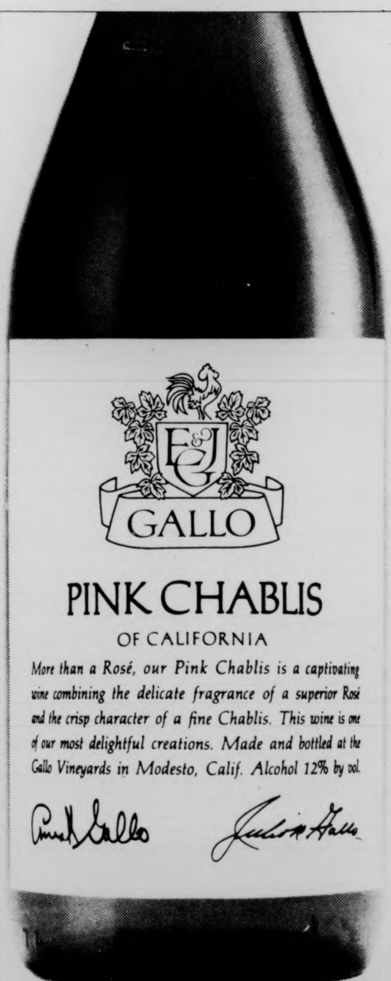
He started out as an offensive halfback as a freshman and was converted to a wide receiver as a soph. His performance improved with each game and he became a key man in last year's Boardwalk Bowl champs.

Berra feels that UMass is no different than any other large university. And he has strong feelings on the football program. "We have a good program here. But UMass could benefit itself by getting out of the Yankee Conference. Then, we could get better competition which would benefit the whole program."

He also has strong feelings about his coach, Dick MacPherson.

"Coach MacPherson has done a great job. The evidence of our Boardwalk Bowl victory and our win over Boston College last year show that. But I believe he does a lot more for the school than just the football program. He promotes scholarship as well as athletics and is 100 percent for the University. He has done everything asked of him."

Tim, a senior, is a Physical Education major and his plans call for more than just being a good football player. "Pro football is always a possibility but right now, I plan on getting my degree and then, I'll see what comes along."



GALLO
PINK CHABLIS
OF CALIFORNIA
More than a Rosé, our Pink Chablis is a captivating wine combining the delicate fragrance of a superior Rosé and the crisp character of a fine Chablis. This wine is one of our most delightful creations. Made and bottled at the Gallo Vineyards in Modesto, Calif. Alcohol 12% by vol.

TIME Magazine reports:

"Gallo's Pink Chablis recently triumphed over ten costlier competitors in a blind tasting among a panel of wine-industry executives in Los Angeles."

Time Magazine November 27, 1972 page 81.

More than a Rosé.

Staff Photo/Marcia Lappin

It's a long way to the Superbowl. Just ask these Knights of the Intramural gridiron, or even Patriots Coach Chuch Fairbanks. Winning may not be the only thing, but it sure is a lot more fun.

Sports Staff Meeting
Tonight 7:00
Collegian Office
All Members Please Attend

Commentary

Bruins, Canadians To Reign

By DAVID EIBEL

The National Hockey League, diluted by two seasons of WHA raiding, entered its 57th season last Wednesday night and this year's race promises to be one of the closest in years.

The news of Ken Dryden's decision to pursue a career as a lawyer in Ontario must have been greeted with champagne parties by the other fifteen clubs in the league. Dryden had been a veritable impregnable brick wall during his three year stint with the Montreal Canadiens. It was the former Ivy Leaguer who was the key to the Montrealers' two Stanley Cup victories in the last three seasons and without him--the Canadiens will still be right up near the top of the Eastern Division--the Eastern division will not have a runaway champion this year.

The Canadiens have a solid corps of forwards and defensemen led by Yvan Cournoyer, Jacques Lemaire and the Mahovlich boys up front and Guy Lapointe, Jacques Laperriere and Serge Savard on the blueline. The Canadiens have balance plus, but the bench that was so powerful in recent years has been depleted by trades. The red-white-and-blue lost Rejean Houle and Marc Tardif to the World Hockey Association, along with once highly touted defenseman Dale Hoganson to the Quebec Nordiques at $90,000 a season. The "Bowmen" traded a number of top minor league prospects from their Nova Scotia breeding ground including Tony Featherstone and Bob Murdoch from their major league roster. To make a long story short the Canadiens have little support for their frontline skaters. Top prospects Yvon Lambert and Dave Gardner have not shown anything in training camp and Lambert according to Montreal reports cannot even skate well enough to play at the pro level. If the Canadiens suffer any injuries their bench weaknesses will surely lose them many a game in what should be a hotly contested Eastern Division.

The only team capable of overhauling the Canadiens is the Boston Bruins. Even though the Bruins have been hurt more by WHA defections and downright stupid draft maneuvers in recent years, the Beantowners still have the two best players in the National Hockey League: the Parry Sound millionaire Bobby Orr, and the pride of Sault Ste. Marie Phil Esposito.

Orr was supposed to be finished as a superstar within the next three years due to recurring knee problems but all evidence points to the fact that Bobby Orr this year is "as good as news." Ron Harris came close to ending Phil Esposito's career with a vicious crossbody check in last year's playoffs but number seven has started off this season just like he ended the past one, standing in the slot and firing in those vicious ten-footers. With five goals after only three games, Phil may be on his way to yet more records in the Bruins' colors.

However, the Bruins boast more than two hockey players. Esposito's linemates, the much-maligned Ken Hodge and the king of the corners, Wayne Cashman came to camp this year in the best shape ever, and have started off the 73-74 season, along with their center, like three captive and hungry bears let loose for the first time. After only three games, the line has twelve goals and 26 total points and seems set on setting a new NHL record for scoring by a line.

The Bruins have a mix of veterans and rookies, and a fairly strong bench to go with them. Cigar chomping Johnny Bucyk has the legs for at least another strong season. The Bruins' prize pick in the draft, Andre Savard formerly of the Quebec Remparts should be a superstar given time. On defense Don Awrey became expendable with the acquisition of Al Sims former Peterborough Pete defenseman who had 62 assists in his last year of junior play. Along with Orr, Dallas Smith, Carol Vadnais and Gary Doak, the Bruin defense corps, barring injury should improve on the club's porous defensive record of years gone by. If the Bruins are to win the Prince of Wales Trophy, emblematic of the Eastern Division championship, there will be no more room for the 9-8, 8-6, and other scoring-derby games of last year.

Goaltending in the final analysis will be the key to the Bruins' season. If Gilles Gilbert can translate promise into a full season of brilliance, the Bruins will win at all. Two years ago I sat in the Montreal Forum and watched in awe as Gilbert kicked out 47 Montreal Canadien drives and singlehandedly led the Minnesota North Stars to a 3-1 victory. In his first two encounters, Gilbert was not the expected star but no one can label him yet with any certainty as a good or bad goaltender.

In any event the Bruins and the Canadiens will be the class in the Eastern Division of the NHL this year. In the end I pick the Bruins to win because of their superior bench and greater offensive firepower.

The Pizza Revolution is coming!

Contrasting Styles Of A's And Mets

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) - Should the Oakland Athletics win their second straight World Series title, mothers the globe over will be faced with a moral dilemma.

No longer will they be able to call their teenage tykes around their knees and tell them: "Listen, son, eat your cereal, keep your hair combed, be good to your friends, mind your elders and some day you will grow up to be a world champion."

The kid might retort: "Like the Oakland A's."

Togetherness, the rallying cry of the "You Gotta Believe" New York Mets, is not the trademark of the swashbuckling, free-wheeling, unconventional American League champions.

Dissension is. They seem to thrive on it. They love a good fight, mainly among themselves.

They are constantly berating their owner, Charles O. Finley, hardly an example of baseball's straight-laced traditions himself. They feud, fuss and fight. They effect wild mustaches and beards, let their hair grow to unconscionable lengths like some Haight Ashbury hippie and scorn some of the game's proudest traditions.

Some of their top stars-Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, among them-have complained they are fed up and would like to be traded. The latest report is that Manager Dick Williams even is looking for another job.

Finley, a maverick who is constantly provoking the ire of the baseball brass, acts impulsively. He will fire an executive or a player at the drop of an epithet, usually one of his own. The current case of infielder Mike Andrews, who blew the second World Series game by making two errors, is an example.

Finley has virtually cleaned out his administrative staff. He is his own general manager and public realtions director. Everybody else is his errand boy.

He has an ego that stretches from the Golden Gate Bridge to the Lincoln Tunnel. He has a personal mascot, a mule which he named after himself, "Charlie O." He dresses his team like a neighborhood softball team while he is a walking mannequin in gold pants, green jacket and big plaid green tie.

But the team keeps winning.

The Athletics beat one of the squarest teams in baseball last year when they whipped the Cincinnati Reds in the World Series. Sparky Anderson, the Reds' manager, is a stickler for short hair, jackets and ties at dinner, and proper decorum on and off the field.

The Mets are not much different.

Donald M. Grant, the chairman of the board, is a typical Wall Streeter in his white shirts, conservative ties and striped suits with slender lapels.

Krause NFL Player Of Week

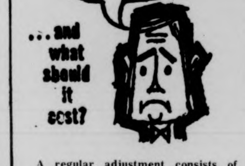
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) - Paul Krause intercepted two passes Sunday to preserve the Vikings' 17-13 victory over San Francisco, and as a result was named The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The first interception came after San Francisco quarterback Steve Spurrier had taken his team down to the 12-yard line. Then Krause, who has more interceptions than any other active player in the NFL, stepped in front of Doug Cunningham and picked off his 60th career interception.

With three minutes to go, Spurrier had the 49ers driving again. This time, Krause, latched onto the ball at the Minnesota 36-yard line and returned it 24 yards.

Lafayette's First Annual Veteran's Day Auction
Monday,
Nov. 22nd

All merchandise cash & carry, no lay-aways, all credit cards accepted.
1-5 p.m.
Amps, stereo receivers, speakers ... you name it, we're auctioning it!



Just what is an automatic transmission Adjustment?
...and what should it cost?

A regular adjustment consists of tightening the bands, adjusting linkage, replacing the filter and refilling with fluid. Doing this once a year for about every 10,000 miles) is like an insurance policy against major trouble, and it keeps your transmission shifting smoothly and efficiently.

United Transmission Exchange, Inc.
389 King Street, Northampton
584-6790

Staub Powers Mets To Victory

By ASSOCIATED PRESS and MDC Staff

NEW YORK (AP)-Ailing Rusty Staub, playing with a damaged right shoulder, drove in five runs-one short of the World Series record-Wednesday night, and led the New York Mets to a 6-1 victory over the Oakland A's in the fourth game of the 1973 baseball championship showdown.

The victory deadlocked the best-of-seven series at two games apiece with Game 5 scheduled for Thursday night in New York. The teams return to Oakland for the sixth game Saturday afternoon.

Staub, who banged up his shoulder during the National League championship playoffs against Cincinnati, unloaded a three-run home run in the first inning and added a two-run single in the fourth, providing Jon Matlack with a comfortable lead all the way.

Matlack, a hard-luck loser in the opening game when he surrendered two unearned runs and was beaten 2-1, pitched a masterful three-hit ball for eight innings to square the Series at two games each.

Often a victim of the Mets' sometimes balky offense, the young left-hander never had that trouble on a cool, crisp night that made topcoats standard for a well-behaved capacity Shea Stadium crowd of 54,817.

New York wasted no time getting to Oakland starter Ken Holtzman, who won the first game of the series.

Leadoff man Wayne Garrett drove Holtzman's second pitch of the game into right center field for a single. Felix Millan bunted the next pitch up the third base line and beat it out for a single, giving the Mets runners at first and second with none out.

Staub, the Mets' leading run-producer with 76 RBI's during the regular season, was the next batter. He squared around twice as if to bunt but Holtzman's first two pitches were high. Manager Yogi Berra then took the sacrifice sign off and, one pitch later, Staub tagged a long drive over the left field fence about 360 feet away.

Oakland's only run came in the top of the fourth inning when Sal Bando walked, Reggie Jackson doubled, sending Bando to third, and Gene Tenace singled, scoring Bando. But this was the last time the A's could do anything against the domineering Matlack.

But the Mets came back in the bottom half of the inning, driving three more runs across the plate. Darold Knowles came out of the Oakland bullpen to relieve John "Blue Moon" Odom, who had replaced Holtzman in the first.

Don Hahn and Bud Harrelson led off the inning with back-to-back singles. After Matlack struck out, Wayne Garrett was hit by a pitch, to load the bases. Then, Felix Millan hit what appeared to be an inning-ending double play to A's second baseman Dick Green. But this has been an error-marred series, and Green usually a steady fielder booted the grounder allowing Hahn to score. Batting next, Rusty Staub, who went four-for-four, singled to drive in two more runs.

Reinstated Mike Andrews received a standing ovation from the sympathetic Mets fans when he went to bat as a pinch-hitter late in the game. Even after his ground out to second base, the fans cheered him. It was reported on T.V. that Charlie Finley, the A's owner who had "put Andrews on the disabled list" (after Sunday's game in which the substitute second baseman made two costly errors) even stood up when Andrews stepped up to the plate.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

SPORTS

Staff Photo/Emmett Schmarsow

Defenseman Andy Scheffer (10) moves in to break up an Army pass, while Jackie Moran (31) and tri-captain Rich Lally look on. Strong defense was a major factor in the gorilla's 9-5 victory over seventh-rarked Army.

Gorillas Ready For Spring

By MIKE ELLIOTT

"That was one of the best games we ever played," said UMass lacrosse coach Dick Garber after an impressive 9-5 win over seventh-ranked Army on Saturday. "I was very impressed.", said Garber. "The team was very strong and well-balanced. Everyone played well. We completely controlled the game."

The Army game was an indication of what to expect from the 1974 version of Garber's Gorillas. "This is probably the strongest UMass team ever," said Coach Garber. That statement in itself says a lot for this year's team since UMass is the reigning Northeast Champion, has been for the past five years and over the years has consistently had one of the best teams in the country.

The Army game was one of the best wins by a UMass team but it was only a scrimmage for the lacrosse season starts in the spring. The fall season serves basically to introduce newcomers to the system and to give the coaches some idea of the team they have. The coaches will have picked a team by the end of the fall season (Oct. 27) so they can concentrate on perfecting that team in the spring.

In 1974 the lacrosse team will try to improve on last year's excellent season. UMass has lost six men due to graduation: Fred Michels, Tom Bock, Kevin Corrigan, Bill Will, Joe DeRiso, and All-American Dwight Blomquist. However, the Gorillas have five All-Americans returning: Billy Blaustein, Hirsch Seidman, John Rutledge, Frank Garahan, and Gene Hardiman.

These five, along with about twenty other lettermen form a strong nucleus. The roster is filled out with a fine midfield of three freshmen: Steve Pappas, Tim Keefe, and Vin LoBello. There are also two fine attackmen in Harold McVey and Jeff Spooner and two new defensemen: junior college transfer Curt Olsen and freshman Tim Murphy from Long Island. George Perano, a former midfielder, has returned after a year of absence.

Returning starters from last year also include Rich Lally, Russ Incorvia, and John McCarthy on defense; Peter Connolly and Andy Scheffer on attack; John Martin and Jack Moran at midfield.

"The guys are really psyched up for the season," said an enthusiastic coach Garber, "They hope to improve our national ranking this year."

Garber was especially high on attackman Harold McVey, a transfer from Nassau Community on Long Island. Said Garber, "McVey and Jeff Spooner are two of the best attackmen in the country and could play for any team."

The Coach was pleased with the turnout this fall. There were over one-hundred hopefuls out for the team. This year's team is big, fast, and very well-balanced. There are two games left this fall before the team winds up practice on October 27 and Coach Garber is very anxious to get underway with the real schedule.

There is only one chance left for UMass fans to see the lacrosse team in action before the spring and that is this Sunday at 1:30 p.m. when UMass will play a round-robin against a few schools, one of which will be Williams College, runnerup to UMass in the Northeast Division last year.

Inside Sports

- Yogi's Son Tim
- Williams Leaving Oakland

Horse Tale

NEW YORK (AP)-Triple Crown winner Secretariat will bid farewell to racing in the Canadian International Championships at Woodbine Sunday, Oct. 28.

The 3-year-old colt who has earned $1,224,053 in purses for Meadow Stable, will retire to stud under a $6.08 million syndicate after the 1 5-8 mile turf test, trainer Lucien Laurin said Wednesday.

Secretariat's last triumph also was on the grass, in the 1 1-2 mile Man O'War Stakes at Belmont Oct. 8.

Laurin also announced that Secretariat's stablemate, Riva Ridge, would wind up his career in the $100,000-added Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct Oct. 27.

Bill Ballou

Sportswriter Quiz

What follows is your chance to learn once and for all whether you have the ability to get into the glamorous field--SPORTSWRITING. Just answer the following multiple choice questions. Answers appear below:

1) Complete this sentence. "Hi neighbor, Have a -----". A. enema B. Gansett C. heart.

2) Mel Parnell is famous for A. pitching a no-hitter B. hitting a home run C. talking about pitching a no-hitter and hitting a home run D. all of these.

3) A "red light district" is A. a place for athletes to relax when they're on the road. B. the location of "walk--don't walk" signs C. The immediate area surrounding the goal judge's seat at a hockey game.

4) A sportswriter's favorite non-alcoholic beverage is A. Schaefer B. Knickerbocker Natural C. Utica Club

5) What famous sportswriter coined the phrase "the four horsemen." A. Grantland Rice B. Uncle Ben C. John Quill

6) "The Hot Corner" is found on A. 42nd Street B. a baseball diamond C. the end of a McDonald's apple pie.

7) A sportswriter changes his underwear A. once a week B. once a year C. with the appearance of Halley's Comet.

8) Roman Mejias was A. the emperor immediately following Claudius B. Superman's first home C. a Red Sox star D. none of these.

9) The greatest football coach in the history of Notre Dame was A. Knute Rockne B. Fig Newton C. Pat O'Brien.

10) The Yankee Conference is A. a meeting between Thurman Munson and Lindy McDaniel B. a joke C. All the New England state universities plus BU.

11) What this country needs is A. non-smell socks and jocks B. a good 10 cent draft C. another Gomer Hodge.

12) The Red Sox manager recently fired was A. Allie Crisco B. Johnny Pesky C. Ebbie Casket D. Barney Rubble E. who cares.

13) What famous Celtic player "Stole the Ball" A. G. Gordon Liddy B. Alexander Monday C. Jesse James D. John Havlicek

14) The President of the Boston Bruins is A. Weston Adams, Jr. B. Junior Miss C. Western Sandwich D. a turkey

15) The Lacrosse team is called Garber's Gorillas because A. They play in the cage B. they are unusually hairy. C. their coach makes baby food D. they never miss Magilla E. none of these.

ANSWERS: 10-12--join the staff; 7-10--qualified to write letter to the editor; 4-7--may some day be as good as Marty Kelley; 0-4--an obvious loser.

1) B. Gansett. An enama is what you need after having a Gansett.

2) D. all of these. If you remember Mel, it's a shame.

3) C. the immediate area surrounding the goal judge's seat at a hockey game. The sportswriter knows athletes don't frequent those other places.

4) A. Schaefer. The sportswriter has a finely honed taste.

5) A. Grantland Rice. John Quill is more entertaining, weather you like it or not.

6) B. a baseball diamond. There's no McDonald's on 42nd street, despite all the hamburg.

7) C. with the appearance of Halley's Comet. Or if he has a date that year, every Christmas.

8) D. none of these. And they traded Pete Runnels for him.

9) A. Knute Rockne. Pat O'Brien just took over when he was ill.

10) B. a joke. If you went to the Maine game, you know why.

11) A. non-smell socks and jocks. If you've ever tried to interview someone in the lockerroom after a game, you know why.

12) E. who cares. It's just that he managed like Barney Rubble.

13) D. John Havlicek. Alexander Monday was the guy who stole Johnny Most's voice.

14) D. a turkey. Just try and find him the last week of November.

15) E. none of these. but I've never been able to find out why.

New England's
Largest College Daily

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

VOLUME CI, ISSUE 31, 32 PAGES, TWO SECTIONS
UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1973 1973

Weather

"You should know what happens on a dark and stormy night," she said as they entered the room.

Recyclable

Oversubscription

The Battle Of Courses

By FRITS GEURTSEN

Without a doubt the most hated word on campus at the beginning of every semester is the word "oversubscribed". What this means, for those few of you who have somehow never encountered it, is "full, unable to hold more" and pertains to courses. Most students assume that the reasons for oversubscription are the same from department to department. But, as evidenced by the following, this is not true at all.

Of the numerous departments on campus, a certain "few" seemed to have more oversubscriptions than others, and quite a large number of these were perennial oversubscriptions. Among these were the French Department, the Psychology Department, and the Accounting Department.

Professor David O'Connell, the Scheduling Officer for the French Department, admitted the large amount of oversubscription and pointed to the University language requirement as one reason for it.

He went on to say "although we do get more students applying than we'd really like to handle, we don't turn students away. As a result we end up with, in my opinion, a prostitution of the educational process..None of our professors are pleased with the situation at all."

When asked what might be done to alleviate the problem, O'Connell replied "We need more teaching assistants. It would be nice, of course, to get more professors, but that's way out of the budget. One of the reasons, in fact, for letting in so many students is to get more money to pay for the needed TA's. It's still not nearly enough though. There are countless numbers of qualified TA's clamoring to get in, but we just can't afford them. It all boils down to a question of money."

Dorothy Thayer, Staff Associate of the Psychology Department, painted a somewhat different picture.

She said, "Of course, we need more teachers. We always will, but even more important to us at the present time is the limited amount of space available to us. We don't have enough rooms and a lot of those that we do have are too small. What we really need are morre auditoriums like those found in Thompson. As far as teachers are concerned we could use more-especially those who are qualified to teach special branches of psychology."

When asked how much this shortage of teachers and space affected their ability to serve the students, Ms. Thayer replied, "It is just impossible for us to fit all of the students into their desired sections and courses every semester, but I can say that those who don't get in one semester, will almost definitely do so the next."

Ms. Thayer also said that oversubscription was a greater problem in the past than it is now and indicated the centrality of their registrations as the prime cause of the improvement. Since students must go straight to the main office, rather than through the professors, many mistakes are eliminated and much time is saved. This was a very needed change in light of the fact that the Psychology Department is growing rapidly. Many of the students taking psychology are not psychology majors however, but rather students taking courses required by their majors or as electives.

Ms. Thayer went on to say "We try to meet this great demand as well as possible-through increasing the number of sections and so forth-but there are still bound to be students whom we can't fit in. We hope that the students understand this. One way that we can improve in the future I think is to make use of some of the lesser used time periods such as 8:00 and 3:35. Other than this we can only wait for the space and the teachers."

Professor Anthony Krzystofik, head of the Accounting Department, shed still another light on the oversubscription problem.

He said, "Our problem isn't space, nor is it really that we can't afford the teachers. Right now there's an acute shortage of qualified accounting professors. The problem is country-wide, but we feel it most in the northeast. The relative youth of our department makes it somewhat difficult to attract doctoral students, a prime market for teachers. Within the past year, our growth has been quitte rapid and I foresee fewer problems in the future."

Because of the nature of the courses being taught, Krzytofik said that the instructors preferred to keep to classes of between thirty and forty students. This then means that students have to be turned away. Students are chosen for the courses by class year and major. As was the case with the Psychology Department, any student dropped one semester, can be assured of getting the course the following semester.

The Accounting Department has already put into practice the policy of using the so-called "bad hours" of 8:00 and 3:35. For the most part, students don't sign up for these, but accept them rather than drop the course when the other sections are filled.

So what does a student do if he wants a course and he meets up with "oversubscribed"? In the case of the French Department, sign up and you'll be accepted one way or another. As for Psychology, get your name on the waiting list and the chances are good that a space will open for you. And for Accounting, if you can't for some reason wait until the following semester, talk to the professor and you'll get in, or in special cases, see the Department head. As far as other departments are concerned, obviously each one is different and you'll have to call their main offices to find out what the story is. It's worth the try.

LOTTERY TICKETS
INSTRUCTIONS
Cigarette Papers
CON-FORM
CON-FORM
25¢
25¢
THE GAME

Staff Photo/Harry Charych

The three vices: find them all at a drop of a coin in the campus center.

Mideast War At-A-Glance

CAIRO-Egypt's military command reported "fierce fighting" Thursday for the second consecutive day in a Sinai armor battle and said "heavy losses" were inflicted on Israeli forces. The Israelis were encircled at several points, the command said.

TEL AVIV-Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said Thursday in a Sinai interview that Israel's big push on the Suez front will come in several days. Another spokesman said Israel had driven a wedge into Egyptian forces all the way to the Suez Canal and had floated tanks across the canal in daylight to relieve an Israeli task force said to be operating on the waterway's western bank.

BEIRUT, Lebanon-Radio Damascus reported the Syrian command said Thursday it kept up a day-long shelling of Israeli armor. Reports from Associated Press correspondents on the Syrian front said the shelling, including barrages of up to 40 shells in one area in only five minutes, was keeping the Israelis pinned down along a 20-mile-wide front.

CAIRO-The official Egyptian Middle East News Agency said Thursday that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin held "three long meetings" in cairo with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt. The one-sentence report did not say what the two discussed, but the wording indicated that the Soviet leader has left the Egyptian capital.

KUWAIT-Saudi Arabia, the Middle East's biggest oil producer and the third largest supplier of oil to the United States, said Thursday it is cutting petroleum production 10 per cent. Other Persian Gulf countries agreed Wednesday to cut production 5 per cent a month as a measure to bring western pressure on Israel to meet Arab demands.

Details Page Four

Old Bus Routes
Have Been Reinstated
Page Two

★ ★ ★

Fuel Conservation
Plans Readied
Page Five

English As Second Language

By LUIS MEDINA

One of the biggest problems for the Spanish speaking students in American universities is the difficulty which they have in communicating with their professors or fellow students.

That language barrier not only hampers academic success of the students but also doesn't provide channels in communicating the Latin culture to Americans or vice-versa.

In an effort to provide that skill to Latin students, the English Department on campus has been negotiating a course between the Worcester City and students of the University Without Walls (UWW) Program. The negotiations were held this Wednesday at Casa Comunidad, Worcester, a social services center and also a place for holding classes. Mr. Gustavo Lairet, City Coordinator for Adult Education and Mr. Tim Cabanas, Course Director of English as a Second Language (ESL) at the English Department on campus agreed to provide the Rhetoric classes; Ms. Maggie Murcloch, (British-Bolivian) will be the instructor.

Cabanas said that his great concern is "to provide the most efficient English classes in order that if the Spanish American students want to become regular University students, they would be able to survive and compete efficiently.

Staff Photo/Emmett Schmarsow

Dr. Robert Hill spoke last night in the DVP's continuing series of speakers, on "The Crisis of Black Nationalism and the Tradition of Marcus Garvey." Dr. Hill, from Northwestern University, has written and lectured extensively on Garvey and Pan Africanism.

Staff Photo/Harry Charych

A place to relax - The Faculty Club offers faculty members a quiet, soothing atmosphere in which to unwind. The prices are reasonable and the food quite good.

Merit Pay Held At $400 For Most

By SUSAN R. HUBBARD

Merit pay will remain at $400 for the majority of professional employees at UMass-Amherst according to a statement by Vice Chancellor Robert L. Gluckstern at yesterday's special meeting of the Faculty Senate.

A Fac-Sen vote three weeks ago requested the Board of Trustees to designate merit pay as a fixed sum or sums rather thn a percentage of the recipient's salary.

However this motion was interpreted by some senators, including Chancellor Randolph W. Bromery and Seymour Shapiro, the Fac-Sen representative to the Board of Trustees, as meaning that only one fixed sum and not variable amounts could be awarded to professors and teachers who were recommended for merit increases.

At yesterday's meeting Bromery apologized for his misinterpretation of the Faculty's intent.

When he realized the two possible meanings of the Fac-Sen motion, Bromery talked extensively with President Robert C. Wood about reversing the Board's decision to set merit pay at $400.

Wood refused to relinquish on the merit decision, so the Board policy will stand throughout this school year.

Under the new governance document, Senator Shapiro expressed the hope that merit pay guidelines could in the future be made more flexible.

A Rules Committee motion was passed instructing the Fac-Sen Grievance Committee to formulate and propose a new policy which would allow merit pay a more variable distribution.

Bus Routes Reinstated

By JOAN FASSNACHT

A tentative schedule has been formed for the runs of the newly reinstated Belchertown and South Deerfield bus routes. Service will begin next Thursday, October 25.

Six runs have been scheduled to occur as close to peak times as possible. The times are:

7:15--first bus will leave from Belchertown and South Deerfield for campus.

9:30--bus will leave from campus for a round-trip to Belchertown and South Deerfield.

2:20--bus will leave campus for a round-trip to Belchertown and South Deerfield.

5:45--bus will leave campus for a round-trip to Belchertown and South Deerfield.

10:55--bus will leave from campus for a round-trip to Belchertown and South Deerfield.

11:09--last bus for Belchertown and South Deerfield.

Operations Manager Bob Godding said, "Although we will have essentially the same stops and locations as last year, the service will be express. Busses will not stop at other established bus routes along the way unless there are empty seats for people waiting."

The Student Senate Transit Service and the Commuter Assembly appropriated $300 each at Wednesday's Student Senate meeting for the experimental project.

Godding stressed the word "experimental".

He said, "We will be taking surveys to determine the usefulness of the busses. The service will last either until Thanksgiving or until the $600 runs out. After that we don't know what will happen."

Cincy Coffman, a member of the Commuter Assembly said, "This is an experimental project to see how many people need the service. I am confident that the need is there and the busses will be a success."

More bus drivers are now needed for the expanded service. Anyone with a Class 2 license who is interested in a job should call 5-0056.

Southwest Assembly

Cultural Center Debated

By FRAN BROCK

Southwest Assembly actively debated a proposal to set up a Cultural Center in Kennedy Middle, at the meeting held last night.

The proposal was presented by Charles Johnson and Steve Dropkin of Kennedy Middle, asking for $2---to buy materials for the Center.

The debate, lasting one hour and fifteen minutes, dealt with the question of whether the Assembly should fund House projects. Many believed that the House Government should fund it.

It was Johnson's contention that the Center would help expand people's minds. Dropkin said, "Kennedy needs help and the Assembly is responsible to help."

It was finally resolved, that the Assembly would give $100 to the Center.

Larry St. Cire, president of the Assembly, brought a motion before the group, asking for a change in the Robert's Rules of Order. He asked for a student committee to be set up to write "Courtesy Rules" which would be followed. He believes that the Robert's Rules are not known by too many people and therefore detract from the business that must be handled. The idea was approved.

The Assembly was pleased with the action taken in regard to the security in SW. There will be 7 nights a week protection for dorms with over 300 persons. It is to go into effect October 31 but they are trying to move that up to October 19 because of Homecoming weekend.

Questions were brought before the Assembly as to the whereabouts of the Rathskeller that was approved last year. According to Maureen Mitchell, member of the Hampden Advisory Board, there is a problem of status.

The problem is - who will pay for the rent and to whom. The Dining Commons Food Service pays the rent for the building but the Campus Center Food Service will be operating the bar.

A conference will be held the second weekend in November for Southwest residence. It's purpose is to discuss and reach some solutions to many of the academic and resident concerns. Ms. Mitchell said they hope to get a "blue print of program areas that should be developed."

According to Bill Brown, Director of Services for SW, who spoke before the Assembly, "over the course of five years, (project money will be funded for) lounge furniture."

This year, the main goal is to put accessory furniture in the rooms - such as wastecans, lamps and bulletin boards.

The other three motions that were passed by the Assembly were allocating money for a portable movie screen, buying videotape, and purchasing a reel-to-reel tape recorder.

This equipment will be put in the SW Audio-Visual Center which is a center available to residents of SW. Anyone in the area who can show they know how to use the equipment, can borrow it.

News Analysis

Allen Criticized

By BRIAN COOK

The recent controversy over Dean Allen's appointment as special academic advisor to President Wood has reached such proportions that clarification and analysis of the issues involved is needed.

The Massachusetts Society of Professors and American Association of University Professors (MSP-AAUP), the primary source of criticism, says the appointment "can only be viewed as another unilateral action intended to deny faculty a proper role in academic governance."

MSP-AAUP is presently waging a drive to unionize professors here. An election on the question of collective bargaining has been scheduled for Nov. 15 and 16. As such, it must be taken into consideration that the MSP-AAUP is not yet qualified to speak for all faculty members.

Secondly, there seems to be some misunderstanding concerning the nature of Allen's appointment. As previously reported, the appointment was a routine action in which a member of the faculty is asked to contribute expertise to the University on an advisory basis. Such procedures have been followed frequently in the past as campus administrations have reached out for the part-time advice of faculty specialists. Any recommendations put forth by Allen concerning academic policy would still be subject to full scrutiny and approval by faculty in accordance with campus governance procedures. The new governance document which gives faculty more say in the decision-making process can only be enhanced by the addition of a faculty member to the president's advisory staff. A president of any university needs numerous advisors in many areas to assist him. Simple advisory functions, void of power, are considered a basic necessity, one needn't get involved in bureaucratic procedures over selecting persons to fill such functions.

Third, a recent faculty senate statement requests that Allen's new activities be confined to off-campus issues. Previous news releases have pointed out that Allen's primary role will be to advise the University on external education programs. President Wood's present part-time Academic Advisor, Father Michael Walsh (former president of Boston College and Fordham University), will continue to assist him on regular university business until a full-time Vice-president for Academic Affairs is found.

Fourth, Allen's new assignments are primarily in the field of educational innovation and change, an area in which he has considerable expertise and knowledge. It would be hard to discover another candidate as qualified for the position. Judging from this perspective, it would appear that Wood has made a well thought-out decision.

Fifth, MSP-AAUP members may reconsider the substantiality and accuracy of their claims. A more thorough examination of Allen's new duties will show that his appointment is not really relevant to the MSP-AAUP's function as a faculty union coalition, as it does not interfere with present faculty rights or sensibilities.

All of the parties involved seem to have the best interests of the university at heart, but no progress can be made if they are bogged down in misunderstanding.

Pogo Creator Kelly Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cartoonist Walt Kelly, creator of Pogo, Albert, Churchy LaFemme and Porkypine, died Thursday at age 60, leaving behind him a quarter century of subtle political and social satire emanating from the Okeefenokee Swamp.

The writer and designer of Pogo died of complications brought on by a long battle with diabetes. The strip, which was syndicated in 420 newspapers and sparked about 30 books may continue, however.

Kelley's wife Selby said a group of young artists had been drawing the strip lately, although Kelly had final say over the product.

The Massachusetts Daily Collegian

The office of the DAILY COLLEGIAN is on the second floor of the Student Union on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, zip code 01002. Telephones: 545-2550 (news); 545-0344 (sports); 545-0731 (business).

Second class postage is paid in Amherst. THE DAILY COLLEGIAN publishes Monday through Friday during the academic year except during vacation, exam periods or holidays. Accepted for mailing under the authority of an act of March 8, 1879; as amended by an act of June 11, 1943. Subscription rates are $6.00 per semester or $10.00 per year

GIVE YOUR STOMACH THE TREATMENT IT DESERVES
at DOWN UNDER GREENOUGH
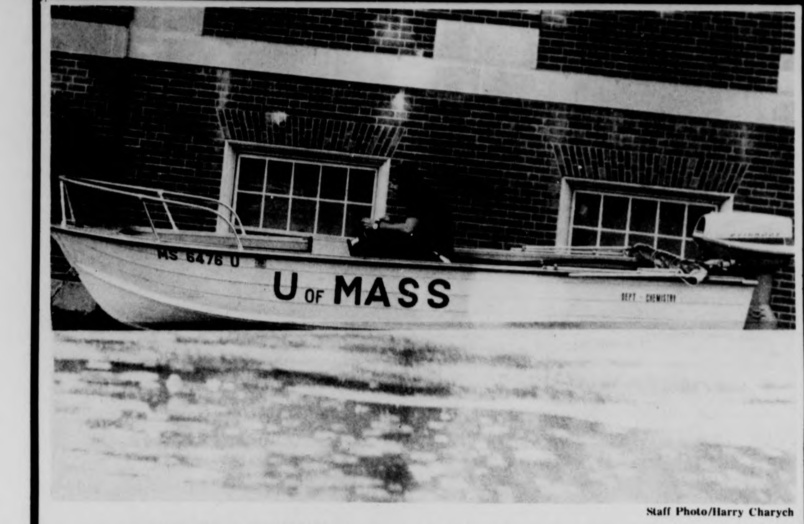
Open Mon.-Fri. 7 p.m.-12 a.m.
Sat. and Sun. 12 p.m.-12 a.m.



Staff Photo/Harry Charych

When the flood hit UMASS, there was only one survivor. What do you say Noah?

Funds Misspent By Error

By STEVE TETREAULT

A simple misunderstanding, plus a case of "bending the rules" on the part of Southwest Administration has resulted in the misappropriation of $500 from the Southwest Black Caucus budget.

The mishap evolved as such:

On September 5th, Ed Donewah, a teacher from Springfield approached Walter Silva, SW Director of Academic Affairs, and inquired as to the possibility of teaching a course on sculpture. Silva recommended that Donewah bring the matter to the SW Black Caucus, which had expressed interest in sponsoring such a course last year.

THe Caucus requested that Silva and Donewah bring the course proposal, along with a budget proposal, to the next Caucus meeting.

At the meeting, Donewah presented a budget which called for $1500 for supplies. The Caucus balked, and asked Donewah to cut the proposal to a more reasonable figure of approximately $500. At no time did the Caucus formally decide to draw the money out of their budget, according to members. Instead, fund-raising possibilities were discussed. Among them was asking dorms to contribute or asking the Southwest Assembly for financial help.

However, in order to permit freer discussion, Donewah had left the meeting earlier, and had no first hand report of the results of the meeting.

Vaughn Jeffries, a Caucus member, informed Silva of the Caucus' decision to re-evaluate the new budget proposal at a future meeting. Silva misunderstood this to mean that the $500 had been approved out of the Caucus' budget. Silva told the Collegian that he did not check further into the matter, nor did he consult with Donewah.

On Friday afternoon, September 20, Silva approached John Hunt, Southwest Area Director, and asked for the $500 so Donewah could purchase the supplies in New York the next day. Hunt had no idea of the mixup, nor did he investigate. He later admitted that he should have checked, but defended his move by saying that it is not Southwest policy to question individual centers as to how they intend to spend their money.

Under normal Southwest procedure, a fund request of this sort would be channelled through the office of Bill Brown, Director of Services, who keeps financial records. The money would then be drawn out of the organization's budget.

However, Hunt thought that, since it was late Friday afternoon, Brown would probably not be around. He decided to give Silva the money out of the Southwest Cultural Enrichment Fund, which contains vending machine profits. This fund would normally be off-limits, but it seems that it was the only money available under the circumstances. "I thought I was helping someone out and being a nice guy," said Hunt.

Then next week, Hunt transferred the $500 from the Caucus budget back into the Enrichment Fund. The Caucus was stunned. Five hundred dollars of their budget had been spent without their approval.

When told of the turn of events, Silva was "appalled". "I was under the impression all the time that the money had been approved," he said. Donewah professed no knowledge at all of the mixup.

As of last night, the situation had yet to be solved. The Caucus was still short $500, but did possess the art supplies. They are asking the Southwest Assembly to pick up the tab. Larry St. Cyr, Assembly President, sees this as a bad precedent. "I don't think the Assembly should have to pay for other's mistakes," he said.

But there is a possible way out. Silva filed a funding request with the Assembly for $500 in order to buy the tools from the Caucus and supply the Southwest Arts Center which is hoped to be established in Berkshire Commons. In effect, Silva is also asking the Assembly to foot the bill.

At last night's meeting, the SW Assembly voted to send Silva's proposal to the Southwest budget committee, which will decide next week where the money would come from.

Whatever the outcome of this situation, it is certain that the Southwest Administration will be a bit more cautious next time in handling the money.

●●●●●

The Collegian apologizes for the page 3 article in yesterday's paper concerning the Hatch. It contained a useless and childish reference to the people who work there. It was an error on our part that that part of the article was printed. We hope that we have not caused any undue discomfort to Hatch workers.

Black Students Attend Conference

By DAVE LETTERS

More than sixty black students from the five-college area left last night for Chicago and the Anti-Imperialist Conference. The three-day conference opening today will consist of speeches, workshops and rallies.

Members of the Amherst Anti-Imperialist Movement (AIM) are scheduled to speak. Ms. Rouchell Chandler will speak on "Education for Liberation in the United States". She told the Collegian she intends to cite the educational system of Tanzanzia as a possible model for education in the U.S. Her husband, Paul, will discuss "Roads of Development of Independence for Countries".

Andre McLaughlin will speak on the necessity for a black philosophy in education and Mfundi Vundla will speak on apartheid, immigration and deportation in the Republic of South Africa.

The conference is in response to a "Call to Action" by a Chicago group for the National Anti-Imperialist Conference in Solidarity with African Liberation.

The Amherst area group has held lectures for the conference and it held a rally attended by more than three hundred at UMass last week. A series of lectures and class is being discussed during the bus ride to Chicago. The group has viewed films to prepare themselves for the conference.

Funds for transportation and lodging were donated and the surplus has been forwarded to African nations for their struggle against imperialism.

A press release from the national headquarters explained the purpose and activities of the conference. "To encourage Afro-Americans, especially working people, trade unionists people in other strata, to become involved in the world-wide anti-apartheid movement and for the U.S. to abide by the United Nations resolution against apartheid; to demand withdrawal of U.S. investments from South Africa, Zimbabwe (Rhodesia), Portugal and Israel; and to oppose U.S. tax monies being used in efforts to expand military assistance to gendarme (police) nations while showing the connection of neo-colonialism overseas to cutbacks in major social programs at home."

The conference, the publicity said, will deal with efforts "to support Africans and Arabs to unify their actions against attempted recolonialization and to clarify to Afro-Americans the schemes of neo-colonialism to engineer a split between northern and southern Africa, Black Africans and Arabs, Muslims and non-Muslims."

The press release further states: "We see this national conference as part of the continuing effort to crystalize the sentiment among Black people into a clear and decisive anti-imperialist movement which will mount petition drives, fund-raising, protest marches, boycott actions and sympathy strikes-forging the broadest anti-imperialist unity."

Included in the sixty Amherst area students are representatives of the Black Psychological Association, Union of Third World, Harambie, Black Scientific Society, Union of Third World Women, Afro-American Society, The Drum Literary Magazine, and Black Mass Communications.

PHOTO COURSE

Alan Chapman, Collegian photo editor, will present a six-part non-credit course in photography and photojournalism, open to all interested.

No. 1-History of Photography

Wednesday, Oct. 24, 7:00 p.m.
Student Union Room 402 (near (Collegian)

Other classes: Oct. 31, Nov. 7, 14, 28
Dec. 5, all at 7 p.m.

Basic through advanced information.

Mt. Toby Riding Stables
Group and Private Lessons
(English & Western)
We'll board your horses, too!
Guided trail rides only.
on Rt. 63, 6 mi. north of N. Amherst, on left 549-1677 stable 549-6945 home

STEAK OUT
ROUTE 9 and UNIVERSITY DRIVE
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS
Proudly Presents
T.V. and Recording Star
BONNIE FLOYD
and his revue.
featuring
GOLDIE LEWIS
Tuesday through Saturday
Coming Attractions: DRIFTERS PLATTERS CHIFFONS

In The Nation And The World

Israeli Tanks Push Across Suez

(AP Wirephoto via cable from Tel Aviv)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SINAI,--ON THE MOVE--Column of Israeli tanks moves through the sands of the Sinai desert Wednesday as fighting along the Egyptian front continues.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

(AP) — Israeli and Egyptian tanks battled fiercely Thursday in the biggest tank battle of the Mideast war. Israel said it drove a wedge into Egyptian forces all the way to the eastern bank of the Suez Canal, and the Cairo command said it had surounded its foes at several points.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin held "three long meetings" in Cairo with President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, the official Middle East News Agency of Cairo said Thursday. The dispatch did not say why Kosygin was in Cairo. Britain's foreign secretary, Sir Alec Douglas-Home, said earlier in London he believed Kosygin was there "on a mission of peace."

Fighting on the Sinai front raged on land and sea and in the air Thursday, a day after Israeli Chief of Staff David Elazar said the Israeli concentration had shifted from Syria to the Sinai.

Barring of newsmen from the Sinai fighting made it difficult to determine who had the upper hand on the 13th day of the war. Neither side said how many tanks were involved.

The Egyptian command said its forces had "encircled the enemy and served an ultimatum on him to surrender or face destruction." A later communique late Thursday night said: "our forces are evicting penetrating enemy forces which have been encircled in scattered locations."

The Cairo command claimed the Sinai fighting was "the most ferocious of all since the war began" Oct. 6.

An Israeli military spokesman said that in addition to splitting the Egyptian army on the eastern bank of the canal, Israeli tanks were floated on rafts across the canal in daylight to help an Israeli task force.

The relief armor sent to the task force squeezed through the wedge, which extended north from the Great Bitter Lake, the spokesman said.

An Egyptian general said Wednesday night that the Israeli task force on the west bank of the canal had been destroyed.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan of Israel, according to a pooled news report, said in an interview in the Sinai that the "critical" battle there would not begin for a few days.

Cairo has not made any specific claims of total Israeli armor losses in the tank battle. U.S. intelligence has considered destruction claims by both sides to be inflated.

Israeli Gen. Uzi Narkis, speaking for the army in Tel Aviv, said 10 Egyptian warplanes, were shot down Thursday-three over the Mediterranean. He said six Egyptian helicopters, some carrying troops, also were blasted out of the sky.

The Israeli command said its ships shelled Egyptian targets at Port Said, on the canal's northern end, and Ras Ghdardaka on the Gulf of Suez at the southern end.

A Cairo communique said its "air defenses repelled enemy planes that tried to attack a number of our advanced airfields on the front." The communique said 15 Israeli planes, including three helicopters, were shot down.

The Egyptians said the toughest battles centered around the Bitter Lakes near the middle of the 103-mile-long canal that had served as a cease-fire line since Israel seized the Sinai Peninsula in 1967.

"It looks as if it will come to a head soon," said Maj. Gen. Haim Herzog, former Israeli military intelligence chief.

Israeli spokesmen told newsmen Thursday night that their forces had the upper hand in fighting on both sides of the canal, suggesting that, according to Israel, Egypt's hold on the eastern bank had been loosened in places.

U.S. officials said in Washington that the United States and the Soviet Union have progressed in their contacts aimed at a settlement but have not yet agreed on a public peace proposal.

Talk of their efforts was fueled by unconfirmed reports in several world capitals that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was heading a Russian mission in Cairo.

Sen. Jacob. K. Javits, D-N.Y., told newsmen in New York that a cease-fire would come "in a period of time numbered in days rather than weeks or months. He reported no specific developments to substantiate his prediction.

The Pentagon claimed Israeli fighter planes ran into Soviet-made MIG jets piloted by North Koreans in a brief dog-fight south of Cairo. Defense Department spokesman William Beecher declined to identify the source of the information or explain how the pilots were identified at the generally supersonic speeds of aerial combat.

But about 30 North Korean pilots were known to be in Egypt on loan to President Anwar Sadat's air force before the fighting began. They had been believed to be training Egyptians.

Other U.S. officials in Washington said the American airlift of war supplies for Israel was continuing without letup. The Soviets also were pressing their supply effort for Egypt and Syria, they added.

Pentagon officials estimate the Israelis have lost about 780 tanks out of an original force of about 1,900, and about 100 warplanes out of their 488-plane air force. Israel-a country of about 3 million with armed forces estimated at 300,000-has suffered 3,000 dead and wounded, they added.

The sources estimated about 13,000 Syrian and Egyptian casualties and hundreds among the Moroccan, Iraqi and Jordanian forces aiding the Arab side. They put the warplane toll at 155 of 250 fighters and fighter-bombers for the Syrians, 110 of 550 for the Egyptians and 21 of an Iraqi force of undetermined size.

Arabs Threaten Oil Cutoff

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arab oil became a weapon in the Middle East war yesterday, with producing nations threatening major cutoffs of supplies as winter approaches users in Europe, Japan and to some extent the United States.

Price increases by Persian Gulf countries and threats from 10 Arab nations for monthly 5 per cent cutbacks in production were followed Thursday by an announcement by Saudi Arabia that it was curtailing production by 10 per cent. Saudi Arabia is the third largest supplier of oil to the United States behind Canada and Venezuela. But the United States' over-all use of Middle East oil amounts to about six per cent.

The tiny sheikdom of Abu Dhabi announced it is shutting off all oil exports to the United States. Its supplies to U.S. ports are minimal.

Saudi Arabia ships 19,794,000 barrels a month to the United States.

American oil specialists have said that the United States could get by without Arab oil imports if necessary by reducing its consumption.

But one U.S. oil expert noted that a reduction in Arab output could seriously affect the international operations of such major companies as Texaco, Exxon, Mobil, Royal Dutch Shell and Standard Oil of California.

The aim of the Arab oil war on the West is to persuade Israel's friends, particularly the United States, to ease their support of the Israeli war effort and to induce those friends to persuade Israel to agree to a peace settlement satisfactory to the Arabs.

The Arabs want Israel to withdraw from all Arab territories it has occupied since the 1967 Middle East war and to assure that the rights of more than a million Palestinian refugees are restored.

Reaction among Western oil users ranged from concern in Britain and France to an attitude of wait-and-see in other countries.

The Japanese also are heavy sers of Middle East oil expressed the hope their neutrality in the Middle East conflict would not mean a cutoff of their supplies.

The un-dormitories.

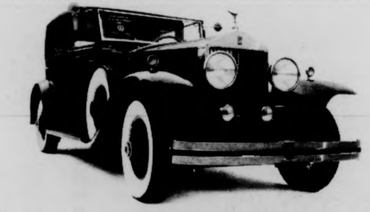
Great off-campus living—indoors and out—at either of two modern apartment complexes, only minutes away by car or bike from Amherst College, downtown Amherst or UMass. Now accepting applications for September.

Brittany Manor
AMHERST
- courtesy bus to UMass and town
- 1, 2, 3 bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- applianced kitchens
- master TV antenna
- laundry facilities
- parking, cars & bikes
- 2 swimming pools with sundecks
- 2 pro tennis courts
- lawns for softball, football, badminton

RENT: $200/MONTH
(utilities included)
Directions: East Dudly Rd. oppos. Grist Mill off Rte. 116

Mount Sugarloaf
SUNDERLAND
- 2-bedrm apts.
- heat & air conditioning
- roomy closets, storage
- wall-to-wall carpeting
- master TV antenna
- modern kitchens
- self-cleaning ovens
- electric ranges
- stainless-steel sinks
- dishwashers/disposals
- 2-door refrigerators
- laundry facilities
- swimming pool

No Lease Required
RENT: FROM $185
CALL [illegible]
Directions: [illegible] Route 47.



Pick Up a Good Second Car at Volkswagen

100% GUARANTEED

The Northampton Way

NORTHAMPTON VOLKSWAGEN, Inc.

246 King St. (Rte. 5) Northampton
Northampton
584-8620
Holyoke
534-0660-534-0791
Open Eves 'til 9

Free Shuttle Bus Service to Amherst Area
Call For Appointments

Administration Warns Of Fuel Rationing

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Administration officials say they are discussing ideas for forced energy conservation if necessary to stave off the threat of all-out fuel rationing.

But they say mandatory conservation is just in the talking stage and there has been no move to start drafting any stand by regulations.

Faced with the prospect of tight fuel supplies this winter, the administration launched on Oct. 9 a public appeal for voluntary energy conservation, and imposed distribution controls at the wholesale level on home heating oil, diesel fuel, jet fuel and propane gas.

It hoped to get through the winter with those limited actions, but it may not be able to hold that line.

The administration's campaign stresses such measures as turning down the home thermostat three or four degrees.

Charles J. DiBona, deputy director of the White House Energy Policy Office, said in an interview that mandatory conservation - rather than requiring individual actions by the public - would seek to cut back energy-consuming activities that can be isolated and controlled.

The Interstate Commerce Commission could alter the traditional regulations that force many trucks to drive hundreds of miles out of their way to touch base in "gateway cities" before going on to their real destinations.

The Civil Aeronautics Board could consolidate airline routes and reduce the number of flights which duplicate the service of other airlines.

DiBona also suggested that the operating hours of large commercial establishments and electric signs could be curtailed. Homeowners and businesses with outdoor gas lamps could be required to shut them off.

And energy could be saved by reducing television broadcasting by one hour daily, DiBona said.

The House passed Wednesday a bill to require mandatory wholesale allocation of all types of petroleum products; the Senate has passed a similar bill. Enactment would extend the present wholesale allocation program to include the products that affect every American - gasoline and crude oil itself.

Adding to the squeeze is the announcement by Arab oil states that they plan to reduce their production every month until they win political concessions from Israel.

Australian Author Wins Nobel Literature Prize

By DICK SODERLUND
Associated Press Writer

STOCKHOLM (AP) - Australian writer Patrick White won the 1973 Nobel Prize for Literature Thursday for his "epic and psychological narrative art" about pioneer life. The prize for economic science went to Harvard economist Wassily Leontief for development of a technique of production analysis in practical use around the world.

The Swedish Academy's choice of White, 61, marked the first time in more than 10 years that the literature prize went to a writer in English. It was Australia's third Nobel Prize.

The last American winner in literature was John Steinbeck in 1962, and the last Briton was Winston Churchill in 1953. Irish playwright Samuel Becket, who took the honor in 1969, writes in French.

The Royal Academy of Sciences honored Russian-born Leontief, 67, for innovating the 30-year-old input-output economic analysis technique, recently used to calculate harm to the environment from industrial pollution.

Nobel prizes carry a $120,000 cash award this year.

The Swedish academy cited White "for an epic and psychological narrative art which has introduced a new continent into literature."

He made his literary debut with the novel "Happy Valley" in 1939. He achieved fame overseas in 1955 with publication of "The Tree of Man," an epic on the life of a pioneer couple.

Leontief, who brought the prize to Harvard for a second straight year, emigrated to the United States in 1931 after doctoral studies in Berlin.

Leontief set up the Harvard Economic Research Project in 1939, and is still directing the program. He became a full professor in 1946.

Israelis Use "Occupied" Oil

TEL AVIV (AP) - The Arab oil nations' decision to cut petroleum production until Israel withdraws from occupied Arab land is expected to have little or no effect on the Jewish state itself. Israel produces about two-thirds of its oil needs from captured Egyptian fields and gets the balance from secret sources.

The Arab producing states decided Wednesday to cut back production by five per cent a month until Israel withdraws from the occupied territories and restores the rights of the Palestinian people.

The main Israeli oil source is the wells at Abu Rudeis, about 80 miles below the southern end of the Suez Canal, in the Sinai desert.

New UFO Sightings Pour In

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

Swamp gas and the changing season, ball lightning and bright stars may all contribute to the cycles of UFO sightings.

For more than 20 years, the Air Force investigated unidentified flying objects, finally concluding in December 1969 that its project Blue Book was no longer justified either for security or science.

But closing the book obviously had little, if any, effect on the UFOs. Sightings continued, as they have in recent days.

The modern flying saucer era in the United States began in 1947 when a businessman-pilot reported seeing nine strange moving objects over Mt. Rainier. A decade later there were a host of reports from Texas, New Mexico and Southern California. In 1965, there were worldwide sightings. In the Antarctic, a sighting coincided with disruption of electromagnetic equipment.

But for all this, some sightings remain unexplained. In the latest rash of sightings, Dr. J. Allen Hynek, Northwestern University astronomer, says all the cases should be thoroughly investigated by a special offical agency.

The case of the two Mississippi men who reported meeting strange creatures in a craft hovering over the water a week ago last Thursday, Dr. Hynek says, supports the view "that a phenomenon exists which is as yet unexplained."

Hynek was a consultant to the Blue Book project, and maintains a private center for UFO reports because, he says, "a mystery still remains."

Despite official explanations for UFOs, a number of citizens continued to report strange objects in the sky. It was reported Thursday that during debriefing sessions the Skylab 2 astronauts said they had seen a mysterious reddish object not more than 30 to 50 nautical miles from their spaceship during their 59-day flight.

Dr. Owen K. Garriott, one of the three astronauts, said the object was brighter than any of the planets, had a reddish hue and was well above the horizon. He said the object was seen one day in mid-September and was never seen again.

Two men working on an offshore oil platform 60 miles south of Crowley, La., reported that a weird oblong object came within 100 feet of them late Wednesday. They said the object, which had colored lights and produced a whining sound, hovered at 1,000 feet before making a descent. The men said the machine cut their electrical power while it was hovering near them.

And in Evergreen, Ala., a police dispatcher said she, three police officers and a deputy sheriff played with a UFO Wednesday night.

Mrs. William Turner said the object was oblong, about the size of a six-room house and had a light orange glow and blinking red lights. She said it hovered over city hall during the night, emitting a "beep, beep, beep" sound.

"We played with it, and it was playing with us," she said.

The Flavor of America

Howard Johnson's
Hadley Rt. 9

Daily Specials $1.99
Monday: Fish Fry
Tuesday: Spaghetti Spree
Wednesday: Deep Sea Dinner
Thursday: Turkey Gobbler
Friday: Clam Fry
Seconds on us

NEW T.O.C. DINNER PRICES

See Tuesday's Paper

Famous for having the CHEAPEST in NEW & USED clothes

OLD WEIRD HAROLD'S

NEW & USED CLOTHING

Rt. 9, Hadley

NEW Male Jeans only $5.00

Get ready for the cold with super-warm

Snorkel Parkas only $20.00

USED FUR COATS & JACKETS $15.00 - $40.00
all kinds

LEATHER & SUEDE JACKETS
as well as
CORDUROY & DENIM JACKETS and PANTS

along with the usual — flannel shirts, pea coats, vests,
reindeer sweaters, etc.

Oil Pipeline Agreement Reached

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-House-Senate conferees reached agreement Thursday on legislation approving construction of a 789-mile oil pipeline across Alaska from the North Slope to the southern coast.

Rep. John Melcher, D-Mont., chairman of the conference committee, said the bill probably will reach the House floor for a final vote in about two weeks. The House and Senate must approve or disapprove it as written. It cannot be amended.

In last-minute action, the conferees approved a plan making each oil company using the pipeline liable for $14 million in damages from marine oil spills. The firms will pay one to five cents per barrel into a pool for additional liability up to $100 million.

An earlier proposal for the government to insure the liability pool until the fund reached $100 million was scrapped.

In another final vote, the conferee approved an amendment requiring the Federal Trade Commission to consult with the Justice Department before bringing any court action. If the department does not act within 10 days, the commission will be free to take legal action on its own. Under present law, the commission must rely on the department to initiate court action.

The pipeline is designed to carry North Slope crude oil to the port city of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska. It will be shipped by tanker to West Coast ports from Valdez.

The North Slope field contains an estimated minimum of 10 billion barrels of oil. The pipeline will carry two million barrels a day. The United States is expected to consume 22 million barrels, of oil daily by 1980.

The bill grants a 25-foot right of way on each side of the pipeline, plus additional footage as needed to accommodate construction, environmental and safety work.

It also contains language designed to block lawsuits by environmentalists seeking to delay the project.

Krough Faces New Charges In Ellsberg Break-In Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — An attorney for Egil Krogh Jr., former boss of the White House plumbers unit, said Thursday his client expects to face new federal charges stemming from the 1971 burglary of the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Stephen Shulman made the disclosure after Krogh pleaded innocent to charges he lied to the Watergate grand jury.

Shulman told U.S. District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell that Krogh probably will be indicted on additional federal charges and he asked the judge to consolidate all the cases if new indictments are returned.

A federal grand jury indicted Krogh last week on charges he lied when asked about the activities of Watergate conspirators E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy.

A government memorandum released earlier this year disclosed that Hunt and Liddy engineered the break-in at the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding in an effort to obtain his file on Ellsberg, who gave the Pentagon Papers to news media. On May 9, Krogh took full responsibility for the incident.

Maximum penalty for each of the two federal charges is five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Florida Woman Sought In Loaded O.J. Incident

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Police were searching for a woman they believe handed out free orange juice drinks spiked with drugs.

Investigators said 15 persons in Lakeland, St. Petersburg, Orlando and Daytona Beach, Fla., were hospitalized after sampling the juice Tuesday and Wednesday.

Lakeland police identified the drug as belladonna, an antispasmodic used for intestinal ailments. St. Petersburg officials identified it as atropine, a derivative of belladonna used to slow the pulse of heart patients.

A doctor said either belladonna or atropine could be hallucinogenic, lethal if administered in sufficient quantities.

All the victims told police they were approached at shopping centers by a woman wearing a floppy white hat and big sunglasses and were asked to test two kinds of orange juice for a market survey.

"We were trying to be good Samaritans and help the lady with her survey," Lee Tatum, 34, said Thursday. Tatum and his wife, Joann, were among eight persons from Lakeland who were treated at a local hospital after tasting the orange juice.

Hospital officials said three persons remained hospitalized in Lakeland Thursday in fair condition and three in Orlando for observation. The other nine were treated and released.

Police said the woman claimed to be working for the International Survey Co., of San Francisco, but a check with officials in San Francisco showed no such firm existed. Investigators said the woman was described as a brunette, about 5-foot-6 and good looking.

Bombs Explode In New York Bank, 10 Injured

NEW YORK (AP)-Two pipe bombs exploded in a savings bank in Union Square Thursday, injuring 10 people, police said.

The bombs went off without warning in the customer area of the Central Savings Bank at 14th Street and Fourth Avenue. There were 40 to 50 people in the bank.

Two telephoned bomb threats were received by police after the bombs exploded. Verne Atwater, president of the bank, said it had received no threatening calls.

Release Sought For Journalist Still Held Inside Cuban Jails

BOSTON (AP) - The out-going President of the Inter-American Press Association says he has been working with the governments of several Western Hemisphere countries and "certain international agencies" to obtain the release of journalists allegedly held in Cuban jails.

Rodrigo Nieto of Costa Rica told some 200 members Wednesday that a confidential report detailing these efforts will be available to his successor.

The managing editor of the newspaper, "La Republica" encouraged newspaper executives not to weaken their struggle to free newsmen detained in Cuban jails.

The Association is holding a five-day conference at the Sheraton Boston Hotel. Some member delegates have come 12,000 miles to attend.

Another speaker, former ambassador to the United States Carlos Mantilla from Ecuador, said American news accounts distorted the truth of the Marxist regime of Salvador Allende in Chile.

He said the situation was not that of a freely elected government overthrown by a military clique but rather the overthrow of an unpopular government about to become communist.

Year after year, semester after semester, the CollegeMaster® from Fidelity Union Life has been the most accepted, most popular plan on campuses all over America.

Find out why.

Call the Fidelity Union CollegeMaster® Field Associate in your area:

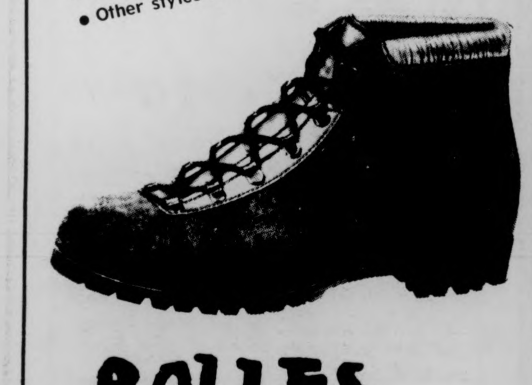
747 Main St., Amherst
Tel.: 256-8351

CollegeMaster®

DUNHAM'S

"WAFFLE STOMPERS"

- For either sex
- Leather $35.00
- Suede $28.95
- Other styles too!

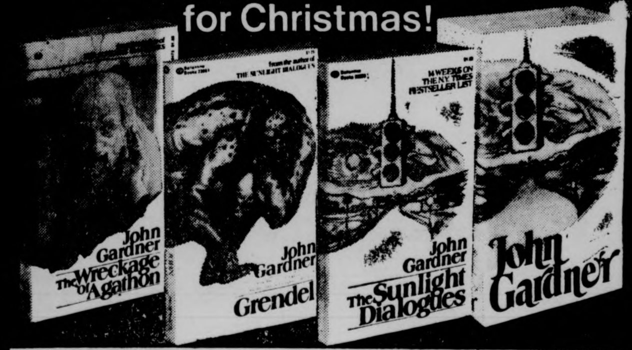


BOLLES SHOES

8 Main St., Amherst

"Home of the Boot Cellar"

Three superb novels by JOHN GARDNER
–now specially gift-boxed for Christmas!



Treat yourself and all the very special people you know to a priceless "package" of entertainment for only $4.15:

THE SUNLIGHT DIALOGUES
14 weeks on the N.Y. Times best seller list.
FIRST TIME IN PAPERBACK.
(Single copy: $1.95)

GRENDEL
"A work of extra-ordinary beauty."
—Saturday Review
(Single copy: 95¢)

THE WRECKAGE OF AGATHON
"Highly original."
—New York Times
(Single copy: $1.25)

ALL THREE BOOKS, HANDSOMELY GIFT-BOXED: $4.15
"Available now at the University Bookstore BB BALLANTINE BOOKS, INC.

A.P.: Get The Lead Out

BULLETIN ELIMINATION

NEW HAVEN - Eliminate Bagels. Health Director Neumann says the idea was presented as a joke. A sub will not be filed.

NEW HAVEN - The story Bagels, reporting that bagels would be used as teething rings to prevent lead poisoning, has been eliminated because the idea was presented as a joke, according to the health director.

NEW HAVEN (AP) - Stale bagels will become part of an attempt by city health officials to reduce blood poisoning among children who nibble lead-based paint.

Acting Health Director Hans H. Neumann has won official approval of a plan to distribute the hardened, doughnut-like bagels along with wooden teething rings to a limited number of poor families, with small children.

Chips of the old lead-based paint in rundown houses and apartments is a chief source of lead poisoning among children. In extreme cases the poisoning can cause mental retardation or death.

Neumann, in a presentation Wednesday before the city's Board of Health, said he hoped the bagels and wooden rings would keep children from swallowing paint chips.

He displayed a month-old bagel attached to a pink ribbon, to be hung around a tot's neck for ever-present use.

At the same time, Neumann said bad-tasting but harmless spray would be tested as a coating for home areas painted with lead-based paint as a way to discourage children from trying out their new teeth on them.

He emphasized that the experiment was not a final solution to the problem of blood poisoning among inner-city children. The health department will continue efforts to eliminate dangerous paint and to locate poison victims, he said.

The department's efforts have been spurred by complaints from a private group called Citizens Against Lead, which has called for citywide screening.

Neumann said limitations on the number of tests the state health department's laboratory can make each month probably would make citywide screening impossible for the time being.

Gilda Aims For Cuba Storm May Intensify

MIAMI (AP) - Tropical Storm Gilda headed toward Cuba Thursday and forecasters said the storm could become a hurricane before reaching the island's coast.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said that at noon EDT Gilda was 55 miles south of the central Cuban coast and 355 miles south of Miami.

In a broadcast monitored in Miami, Radio Havana said dozens of persons were being evacuated from the port of Manzanillo in Cuba's Oriente Province, where Gilda was producing gale force winds and heavy rains.

Forecasters said Gilda's winds were expected to reach the Florida Straits Thursday night.

"Gilda changed to a northerly course early Thursday and poses a threat, but not a direct threat, to the United, States," said forecaster Paul Hebert.

Allegheny To Pay For Bumping Nader

WASHINGTON (AP)-Allegheny Airlines was ordered by a federal judge Thursday to pay Ralph Nader $25,000 in punitive damages for bumping the consumer advocate from an overbooked flight.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles R. Richey acted in a suit filed by Nader after Allegheny failed to honor his reservation on a 1972 flight from Washington to Hartford, Conn.

The airline also was ordered to reimburse Nader for the $7 he spent on long distance telephone calls after the incident and $3 for the additional cost of a ticket to Boston.

Richey awarded $25,000 in punitive damages to the Connecticut Citizen Action Group. Nader was attempting to fly to a rally held by the group in Storrs, Conn., when Allegheny informed him that no more space was available on the flight.

Richey ruled that Nader had been victimized by the airline's practice of accepting more reservations than it has seats available on a flight.

He said the airline's overbooking is substantial.

"We feel that judgement is wrong on the facts and the law and we definitely will appeal it," an Allegheny spokesman said.

"In April 1972...the company bumped 945 persons and from January 1969 through August 1972 some 15,929 persons were not accommodated on Allegheny flights for which they had confirmed reservations," said Richey in his ruling.

He said the airline was "aware that this practice does in fact cause severe distress and financial loss to persons who rely upon confirmed reservations."

Richey said that the airline "and its agents conceal their overbooking practice from the public..."

"The fact that it conceals such practices in its advertising and otherwise...is tantamount to willful and wanton misconduct," said Richey.

VILLAGE INN
DRAKE
LOWENBRAU OKTOBERFEST
ON DRAFT
Restaurant Open 'til 2 a.m.

TEN PIN BOWLING
at Boyden Gym
50¢ per string
MONDAY - FRIDAY
4:30 - 10:30 a.m.
(except during league play)

The Lord Jeffery Inn
proudly
presents

DIRECTIONS IN TASTE

a six-week series devoted to good wine and food wine tastings with emphasis on today's market dinners with selected wines discussions of food and food preparation

DIRECTIONS IN TASTE begins Tuesday, October 30th six consecutive Tuesdays at 7 pm

$65 per person
$120 per couple attendance limited enroll today

★★★

THE LORD JEFFERY INN
ON THE COMMON
AMHERST, MASSACHUSETTS

For further information call (413) 253-2576

CLOSED SATURDAY
OPEN ~ SUNDAY 10am to 6pm
MON. thru FRIDAY 9:30 AM to 9PM

MOULDED PLASTIC
STORAGE CUBES

REG: $8.99
OUR PRICE $3.99
COLORS:
RED-WHITE BLACK-YELLOW

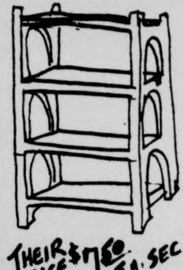
MOULDED PLASTIC
ETAGERES
31"L x 11"W x 17"H



THEIR PRICE $7.50 EA. SEC.
OUR PRICE $3.99 EA. SEC.

THREE PIECES FOR JUST $24.95
UNASSEMBLED

LOVE SEAT + TWO CHAIRS
LEATHER LIKE VINYL - BLUE

CONTACT PAPER 15¢ YD
NAVY PEACOATS $17.50
DUPONT SAYELLE KNITTING YARN $2.00 LB
LADIES NYLON QUILTED JACKETS $10.00 3 STYLES
SHERWIN WILLIAMS PAINT $3.50 GAL.
DENIM JEANS $5.00 PAIR

WALLPAPER 75¢ DOUBLE ROLL
FLIGHT JACKETS $25.00
RUBBER BACK COMMERCIAL CARPET $4.25 SQ. YD.
9x12 LINOLEUMS $5.50
NAVY WORK SHIRTS $2.50
CURRENT PAPERBACK BOOKS 25¢ NO COVERS

HOLYOKE SALVAGE dba
BUILDING 451
449 HIGH ST. DOWNTOWN HOLYOKE 536-5480

Old Ironsides Stays At Home In Boston

By JAMES F. DONAHUE
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — When it appeared this year that the Pentagon might move the frigate Constitution from Boston, the city set up a roar of protest seldom heard since the days of Sam Adams.

The Navy was threatened with militia action by some Bostonians "We'll pick up our muskets again" and with a port blockade by others "A complete line of small boats across the harbor will prevent anyone taking the Constitution from Boston".

The Pentagon, which had started the ruckus by announcing the closing of Boston Naval Shipyard, where the venerable vessel is berthed, quickly gave assurances the Constitution would remain in city waters.

In fact, a national park would be established for her.

The Constitution, better known by her nickname "Old Ironsides," is the oldest commissioned ship of the Navy. She was launched on Oct. 21, 1797 from Hartt's Shipyard in Boston.

Her military career was a glorious one-battles against the Barbary pirates in 1803-04, the famous fight with the British vessel Guerriere during the War of 1812 that earned her nickname.

A British sailor saw cannon balls bounce off her outside planking and cried, "Huzza, her sides are made of iron!"

The Constitution was condemned as unseaworthy in 1830 and ordered destroyed, but Oliver Wendell Holmes wrote the poem "Old Ironsides" that aroused public sentiment to save her.

Several drydockings and repairs and decommissions later, in the 1920's, American children banned together to raise enough money, helped by a $300,000 grant from Congress, to restore her again and send her to a permanent berth in Boston.

Her 176th birthday this year will not be as gala as many in the past. For one thing, she is back in drydock, getting a $4.2 million overhaul and restoration.

Also, her great days of glory seem over. For while the Constitution will remain in Boston, the 1st Naval District likely will not, due to a Pentagon economy move.

That will end the frigate's role as flagship for the district's commandant, currently Rear Adm. Richard E. Rumble, and reduce her to a mere tourist attraction.

There is a touch of bitter irony even in where she is drydocked. It's at Drydock One at the naval yard, one of the first two drydocks ever built in the United States.

In 1833, the Constitution was the first ship to enter Drydock One. She is scheduled to be the last.

Nobel Prize In Economic Analysis Awarded

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) - If you know what every industry in the country sells to every other industry, you have input-output analysis in a nutshell.

For making it work, Wassily Leontief won the 1973 Nobel Prize for Economic Science.

Knowing those sales, you can calculate-in principle- the effect of economic changes. For example, a crop might fail and farmers make less money. Some farmers may postpone buying a new tractor.

The tractor industry will in turn buy less steel and rubber and may lay off workers. And a chain of effects runs through the economy.

Input-output analysis aims at saying just how big those changes will be.

The principles are simple. The practicalities are enormously complex.

The calculations were not even possible until the advent of electronic computers. And the data, always difficult to assemble, must be highly accurate because errors may carry through the calculations and make results worthless.

"Computer technology was my great luck," Leontief told newsmen Thursday.

Leontief drew up his ideas in the 1930s and explained them in his first book, "The Structure of the American Economy," in 1941.

His ideas were first applied to war. Although not yet at war, the United States was sending massive aid to the British, who were, and the government wanted to know the effects on the economy.

"It was typical of President Roosevelt that already he was worrying about what would happen after the war, and he gave the problem to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Their staff came to me after reading my book," he said.

Leontief insisted on staying in Cambridge and gathered a group that labored "night and day" to produce the first input-output table -a listing of interindustry sales-of the American economy.

FACES OF EARTH
NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE IN AMHERST!
NEW JEWELRY DEPARTMENT
Featuring—a private collection of hand-made
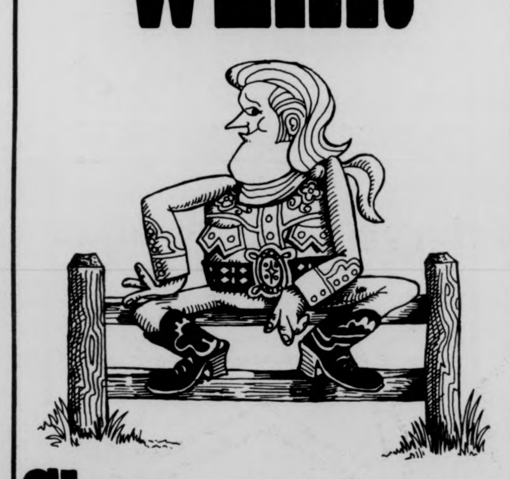
NAVAJO Jewelry
in silver & turqoise
OPEN 9 to 6:30 FRI. till 9

WESTERN WEAR



Shirts
Pants
Coats

denim, chambry, western flannel

corduroys, jeans straight or flair leg

western jackets by Lee & Maverick

201 n. pleasant st.
amherst
Open thurs. & fri.
till 9 pm

WEAR-HOUSE

© REFLECTIONS

"DOWN" PARKA SALE
Starts Saturday Oct. 20th

Men's & Women's
32", two-ply nylon shell, nylon coil zipper. Anchor hardware on belt, knit cuffs

GOOSE DOWN LIFT COAT
Regularly $52.50 Sale Price $39.90

YOKE BACK GOOSE DOWN JACKET
Regularly $55.00 Sale Price $44.90
Two-ply nylon shell, front & back yoke, zip front to top of collar, storm fly; storm cuffs, belted.

Men's & Women's GOOSE DOWN MOUNTAINEER JACKET
Regularly $47.50 Sale Price $37.90
Ripstop nylon shell, snap fly front, 30" patch pockets. Velcro flaps. Drawcord waist, mandarin collar

Also Just Arrived
OUR NEW ROSSIGNOL "PERFORMANCE" SKI PACKAGE
Rossignol GSL 450 Skis, Marker Bindings, Safety Straps, Scott A 10 Poles, $129.95 includes installation.

Plus

JR. 1 PACKAGE
Elan Skis, Marker Jr. Bindings, $39.50 Tomic Poles, Safety Straps, includes installation.

JR. 2 PACKAGE
Volkl "Tiger" Skis, Marker Jr. Bindings, Tomic Poles, Safety Straps, $73.50 100-120 cm includes installation. 130-150 cm. $78.50 160-175 cm. $83.50

OUR METAL/FIBERGLASS PACKAGE
Head GKO 4 Skis, Salomon 404 Bindings, Safety Straps, Tomic Poles, $119.95 includes installation.

OUR BEGINNER PACKAGE
Volkl "VS 100" Skis, Salomon 404 Bindings, Safety Straps, Tomic Poles, includes installation. $89.95

10% discount on all boots regularly valued at less than $100 when purchased with any one of our ski packages.

Free one day or night ticket with and single purchase over $100.00

Skiing is believing at the Mt. Tom Ski Shop... on the slopes at Mt. Tom

Telephone 536-0712

MT. TOM SKI SHOP

Open daily, Monday-Friday noon-9 PM
Saturday and Sunday noon-5 PM
We Welcome BankAmericard and Master Charge Cards

Maine Company Seeks Oil Contract

PORTLAND, Maine. (AP) - Gibbs Oil Co. said Thursday that negotiations were under way with Persian Gulf oil producers to supply crude for a proposed refinery and pipeline distribution network centered in Maine.

The Revere, Mass., company said the Sanford refinery would be capable of meeting 15 to 25 per cent of New England's oil needs upon completion of the $600 million project in 1978.

Gibbs told a news conference that giant tankers laden with crude from the Persian Gulf would unload their cargoes at a proposed $15 million oil pier in Portland.

The crude would be transported by underground pipeline from Portland to Sanford, 30 miles away, with the refined product distributed through a pipeline system serving such points as Boston, Providence, R.I., Hartford, Conn., and Albany, N.Y.

Joining Gibbs in the project are Northern Illinois Gas Co. of Aurora, Ill., and Lovett C. Peters Associates, a Boston-based energy consulting firm.

Peters said negotiations were under way with national oil companies of the Persian Gulf countries. He indicated that these companies may play a part in financing and ownership of the $450 million refinery.

"That subject is on the table with some of these nations at this juncture," Peters told newsmen.

Herbert A. Sostek, Gibbs' executive vice president, declined to identify the nations involved in the negotiations because of the current situation in the Middle East.

Sostek said the refinery would guarantee additional supplies of gasoline and No. 2 heating fuel for oil-hungry New England, and at the same time help in stabilizing prices.

He described the refinery as "extremely clean" and said he hopes to submit a license application to the Maine Board of Environmental Protection by the end of next February.

Gibbs, which claims to be the largest independent distributor of gasoline in the Eastern United States, said financing arrangements for the project would be revealed when the application is submitted.

C.J. Gauthier, chairman and president of Northern Illinois Gas, said his firm would be supplied with 85,000 barrels of naphtha a day for conversion into synthetic natural gas.

Gibbs said the 250,000 barrel a day refinery would be able to meet 25 per cent of New England's current home heating oil needs, 15 per cent of its gasoline and 7 per cent of its industrial fuels.

The company said the project has been in the planning stage for two and a half years, with sites in Sanford and nearby New Hampshire under consideration.

Sostek said Gibbs selected Sanford--a mill town of 16,000 people in southwestern Maine--because "it's exceptionally well located in terms of the market we hope to serve," and "already has an industrial orientation."

Portland, he continued, was chosen as a terminal site because it is an existing oil port with a 45-foot deep channel. Because of the pipeline supplying refineries in Montreal, Portland is now one of the largest oil-handling ports on the East Coast.

The Gibbs proposal is the latest in a series of refinery projects put forth in Maine in recent years. A Pittston Co. plan to build a refinery in Eastport is currently undergoing environmental review, while the others have all been scuttled.

Neither Gibbs nor New England has any refineries. Sostek said completion of the Sanford facility would enable his company to expand its marketing efforts in the region.

He acknowledged that independents were in a bind because of the current oil shortage, but said Gibbs was in a relatively healthy position because of long-term contractual arrangements with an unnamed major producer.

"Independents are feeling the pinch because for years they lived off the surplus refining capacity in the United States," Sostek said.

Gibbs presently supplies more than 100 gasoline stations in Maine, most of which are discount operations under the Tulsa and I-95 brand names.

Sostek pledged that any oil business in Maine that wants to buy its product from the Sanford refinery will have the opportunity to do so.

"If we're going to be here, we're going to be a good neighbor and a good citizen," he said.

Gibbs officials estimated that two and a half tankerloads a week would be arriving in Portland, feeding their crude through a 36-inch pipeline to Sanford.

The cost of the entire pipeline network, both to and from the refinery, was estimated by Peters to be in excess of $100 million.

The state, meanwhile, would finance the Portland port development through Maine Port Authority revenue bonds, and lease the docking facility to Gibbs.

The company said the refinery would provide some 400 permanent jobs, but had no estimate on the number employed at the terminal.

The project has been hailed by municipal officials in both Portand and Sanford, while conservationists expressed no immediate objections.

CUSTOM Black & White film processing and boxframing for working professionals & semipros
Reflections Unlimited
233 n. Pleasant st Amherst
549-0205

ERIC'S GIANT SUBS
FRESHLY sliced cheese & meats on FRESH bread - topped with FRESH lettuce, tomato & onions equals: One SUPERB Sub
(or Grinder or Hogi or Hero)
314 College St., Amherst 253-9521

And now the movie...
"...perhaps the most remarkable film to emerge since Cecil B. DeMille founded Hollywood" VERNON SCOTT UPI Group rates for this and all shows are available. Contact theatre manager in person or call for complete details!
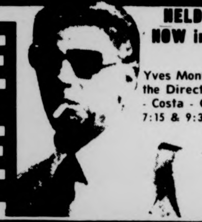
"JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"
NOW! CINEMA I At 7:15 & 9:15 Rated G

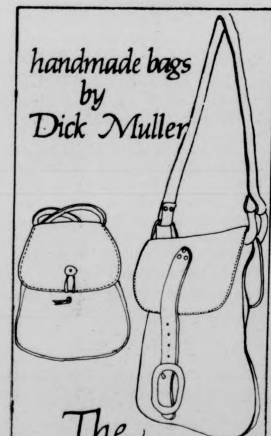


STATE OF SIEGE
HELD OVER! NOW in CINEMA II
Yves Montand in a film by the Director of "Z" - Costa - Gauras
7:15 & 9:30

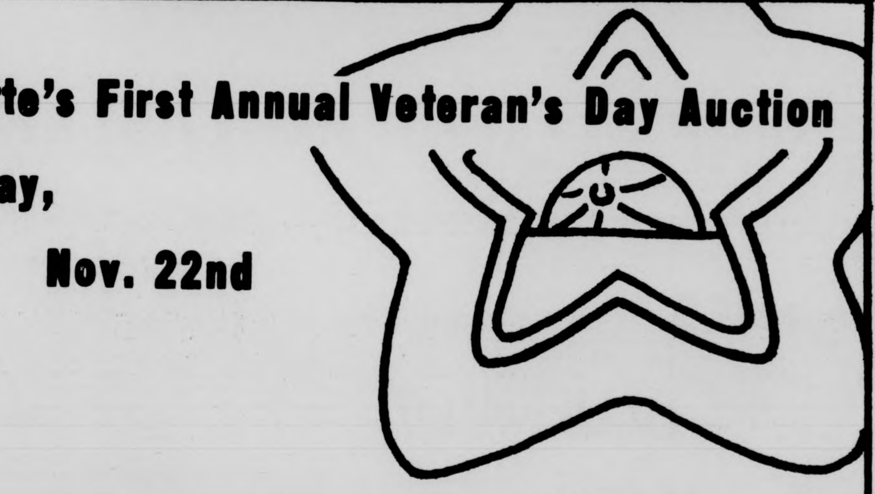
Campus Cinemas 256-6411 AMHERST-HADLEY LINE

DOLLAR NIGHTS!
MON. & TUES
ADMISSION $1.00

WESTWORLD
Starring Yul Brenner Richard Benjamin
BOY, HAVE WE GOT A VACATION FOR YOU...
7:15 & 9:15
...Where nothing can possibly go worng



handmade bags by Dick Muller
The Leather Shed
199 No. Pleasant St., Amherst



Lafayette's First Annual Veteran's Day Auction
Monday,
Nov. 22nd

All merchandise cash & carry, no lay-aways, all credit cards accepted.
1-5 p.m.
Amps, stereo receivers, speakers ... you name it, we're auctioning it!

The Massachusetts
Daily Collegian
A FREE AND RESPONSIBLE PRESS

BOARD OF EDITORS

EDITOR-IN-CHIEF	Stephen G. Tripoli
MANAGING EDITOR	Mary T. Vorderer
BUSINESS MANAGER	Gilbert W. Fullerton
EXECUTIVE EDITOR	Jerald H. Lazar
NEWS EDITOR	Cindy Gonet
SPORTS EDITOR	Stephen W. Crowe
PHOTO EDITOR	Alan H. Chapman
FINE ARTS EDITOR	Patrick Coffey
ADVERTISING MANAGER	Brent A. Wilkes
ASST. MANAGING EDITOR	Geoffrey L. Kurinsky
ASST. NEWS EDITOR	Joan Fassnacht
ASST. SPORTS EDITOR	Steven DeCosta
ASST. PHOTO EDITOR	Stephen A. Ruggles
ASST. FINE ARTS EDITOR	Joyce Kosofsky

TODAY'S STAFF

ISSUE EDITOR	Jim Gold
NIGHT STAFF	Suzan Waihkonen
EDITORIAL	Joyce Kosofsky, Pokey Gates, Lorraine Nicholson, Liz Thompson
DARKROOM	Kevin Mack, Harry Charych, Emmet Schmarsow, Mike Rosenberg, Kevin Erkkila, Joe Martins
SPORTS	Steve Saraceno, John Bock
AD LAYOUT	Deena Strauss

Undergraduate newspaper of the University of Massachusetts. The Staff is responsible for its content and no faculty member or administrators read it for accuracy or approval prior to publication.

Unsigned editorials represent the view of this paper. They do not necessarily reflect the views of the faculty, administration, or student body as a whole. Signed editorials, columns, reviews, cartoons, and letters represent the personal views of the authors.

The Collegian subscribes to the Associated Press and the Liberation News Service. Publication of their material does not constitute endorsement.

Steve Tripoli

A Strong Student Voice

It seems as if the Collegian has had a few problems lately which deserve a little airing. Normally, problems are minor things within the newspaper, but this one relates in a lot of ways to my theory of the Collegian as involves the students at UMass. After all, it's your paper, so in a sense you can consider this column an Editor's report to his publishers.

The purpose of the Collegian in my opinion is something that rises above the secondary goals of bringing you something to read every day. It's a matter of keeping you informed on a higher level than that. We are here to keep students informed so that students will be able to use that information as a means of molding a strong student voice in the running and shaping of our present and future lives that goes on at UMass. Simply stated, we're here so that you'll be taken seriously.

At the present time we're having trouble gaining that acceptance. For one thing, the paper was sliding into a dilemma over taste that prompted us to make the decision to "clean up the act." This means that we felt that we were hurting ourselves and you by engaging in an overbroad acceptance of material in an effort not to shut anyone off.

Again, it was the decision of the editors to clean up because of taste, but it leads into another issue. If we don't watch out, we can lose our acceptance among the people who run this place. If we do, we're ripping you off, because you're losing a major part of your voice in the University. We will not sacrifice our impact here just to prove that we can say fuck, a right which is established anyway. We weren't trying to prove that. Things just got out of hand. And if you think it's easy for the Editor or editors of this paper to stop a snowballing trend, then you'd better think again.

Students are facing a crucial time on campus. It seems as if we're being ignored more and more lately. Maybe the people in Whitmore need thousands of people marching to their doorsteps to be convinced that students want to assume their rightful place in decision making around here. The cases which readily come to mind in which there has been no or token student input and in which students are getting a raw deal are too numerous to mention here.

A little while ago I took Student Government President Nick Apostola to task on these pages for what I considered his lack of judgement in the parking controversy. It appears that maybe I've inadvertently given the impression that Nick isn't really representing us because he made one poor decision (in my opinion.) The fact of the matter is that I was merely pointing it out because I'm not ashamed of an occasional mistake by a student representative. People ought to know about them. They happen, and I'm no less guilty than anyone else of an occasional inconsistency. The point is that students here, their media and their government, are united in the goal of getting our proper voice here. One mistake doesn't negate a concept.

The message here is also the alternatives that there are to marching on Whitmore that will convince the administration of our intent. If students will work for the campus media and governments, which are presently hurting for personnel, we can get to the botton of a few things which we don't have the personnel to investigate now and convince the administration that our concern is real.

What you can do as students is come to the Collegian, WMUA, The Student Government, and any of a number of other organizations which are trying to aid the implementation of programs that will increase the voice of students here. I mention those three specifically only because they are the only ones which come to mind off hand that of themselves are a student voice. The time to move is now, before we find ourselves in a position where we have to bargain for what should be our rights.

Steve Tripoli is Editor-in Chief of the Collegian.

Bob Estelle

U.N. Is Not Needed

To start this off, I will define communism for you. The best definition I've found is on page 21 of Gary Allen's "None Dare Call It Conspiracy." It reads as follows: "Communism: AN INTERNATIONAL, CONSPIRATORIAL DRIVE FOR POWER ON THE PART OF MEN IN HIGH PLACES WILLING TO USE ANY MEANS TO BRING ABOUT THEIR DESIRED AIM-GLOBAL CONQUEST.

Think about what this means. It means that there are men in high places who want to control the world and are willing to use any means to do it. They have used the tactic of patient gradualism to do it. But the structure for their World Government lies was founded on October 24, 1945. The Communists, since the days of Stalin, have supported this world government. It is known as the United Nations.

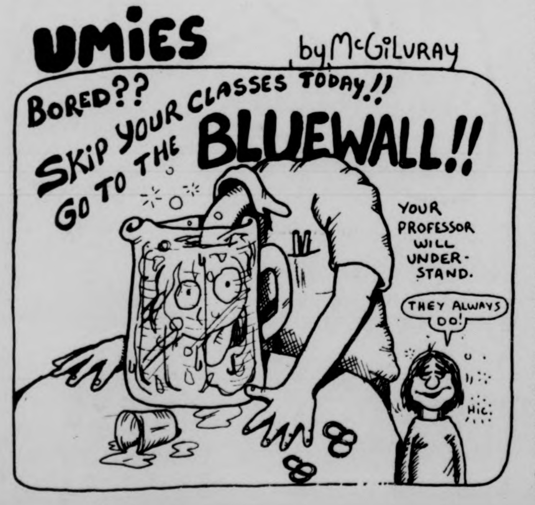
The United Nations was formed to get world peace. But in 1950, the U.N. started the Korean Conflict, and fired General Douglas MacArthur for trying to win that war. Eleven years later, the U.N. invaded Katanga, which had declared its independence from the Congo and a nut named Patrice Lumumba. A strong anti-communist believer in Republicanism named Moise Tshombe was overthrown.

Why would these things happen? Well, let us look at the two top officials in the U.N. The first is the Secretary-General. Kurt Waldheim is a marxist, as were his predecessors. Trigvie Lie, Dag Hammerschold and U Thant. In fact, U Thant once said that the aims of the U.N. were in agreement with the philosophies of Lenin.

The man who controls the armaments in the U.N. is the undersecretary General for Political and Security Council affairs. The man who now holds this office is Arkady N. Shevchenko, a communist from the Soviet Union, who got his post earlier this year. He got it from another Russian Communist, Lenoid Kutakov. Nine other men have held this office. With one exception, they have all been Communists from the Soviet Union. The one exception is a communist from Yugoslavia (Dragoslav Protitch 1954-57). I believe that since this controls the military, it is the most important position in the whole U.N. organization. Yet in his book: "In the Cause of Peace", Trigvie Lie said that this was secretly agreed upon at the founding of the U.N.

The U.N. Charter demand eventual surrender of every nations' sovereignty to itself. This would mean that the United States of America would have to surrender the Constitution and Bill of Rights and merge into a government with the communists. To me, this is surrendering our freedom. In the entire history of the world, no one has ever been as free as Americans. In the entire history of the world, there has never been as cruel a dictator as the communists. I say that there should be no merger. And because the U.N. is what it is, there should be no U.N. The U.N. would dissolve if the U.S.A. pulled out. And it should. For there can be no real world peace until the communist conspiracy is stopped.

Bob Estelle is a Collegian Columnist.



UMIES
by McGilvray
BORED??
SKIP YOUR CLASSES TODAY!!
GO TO THE BLUEWALL!!
YOUR PROFESSOR WILL UNDERSTAND.
THEY ALWAYS DO!
HIC

State Of Siege

By ZOE BEST

Costa-Gavras who directed Z and Franco Solinas who wrote scripts for Burn and the Battle of Algiers combine their powerful skills in State of Siege now showing at Campus Cinema. State of Siege portrays a pre-fascist phase in Uruguay, a state parading as an independent parliamentary democracy while succumbing to foreign economic and military manipulation. In the beginning moments of the film, we see mobilization of the army, the imposition of a state of siege implemented by the interruption of constitutional civil rights by use of road blocks, house and body searches, mass arrests, military occupation of poor aeas, and later in the film, the arrest and torture of political opponents. This military takeover occurs after the Tupamaro kidnapping of Philip Vincent Santore, while in the real historical context, Dan Mitrione was "relieved of his duties". The dual purpose of kidnapping was to force the government to release members of the left and of their own organization and also to create a constitutional crisis which would reveal the machinization of the oligarchy, the U.S. agencies such as Agency for International Development (AID) and its public safety program, which we learn from the film is a front for training in counter-insurgency and torture. State of Siege and importantly, recent history, disclose that the Tupamaros contributed to the crisis which according to their theory hurls the country through accelerated stages of revolutionary development.

The Tupamaros (named in honor of Tupac Amaru who with Micaela Bastidas had their tongues cut out, were garroted, and burned by the Spanish invaders, thus finalizing the conquest of the Incan domain) attempt to carry on resistence to the conquistadores, presently viewed to be the ruling bougeois class and foreign corporate interests. They justify their tactics, "We must recognize that the armed struggle accelerated and precipitates the mass movement. And, we don't just have the example of Cuba. There is also that of the party of the masses in China that was created during the course of armed struggle. In other words, the rigid formula expounded by certain theoreticians--'Create the Party first and undertake the Revolution later'--has known more historical exceptions than examples."

Before the Mitrione kidnapping the Tupamaros avoided indiscriminate "terrorism" and conducted popular actions. Christmas, 1964, trucks from a food store chain were hijacked and driven to slum areas for food distribution among the poor. The robbing of banks to finance their operations have occurred since that time and in one instance after robbing a resort casino of a quarter of a million dollars they returned the amount equal to salaries and tips to the casino workers. The day before Nelson Rockefeller visited Montevideo as part of Nixon's 1969 fact finding tour, the General Motors administration building was struck with a million dollar fire. In support of striking bank workers, banker-publisher, Pelegrini, son of Mussolini's finance minister, was kidnapped in front of the Presidential palace and released 10 weeks later after the strike settlement. On Women's International Day 1970, thirteen women were freed from prison. The Tupamaros won international attention when they conducted three successive prison escapes freeing several hundred in all. Up until 1970 the Tupamaros had not engaged in political assassination. In April secret police chief, Hector Mora Chaquere was machine-gunned. Later in August, his U.S. "traffic advisor" Dan Mitrione was executed after the demands of the Tupamaros were not met by the Pacheco Areco government.

Mitrione, ex-police chief of Richmond, Indiana working for AID shares his expertise in Guatemala. Mano Blanco (white hand) and Ojo por Ojo (An eye for an eye) para-military execution

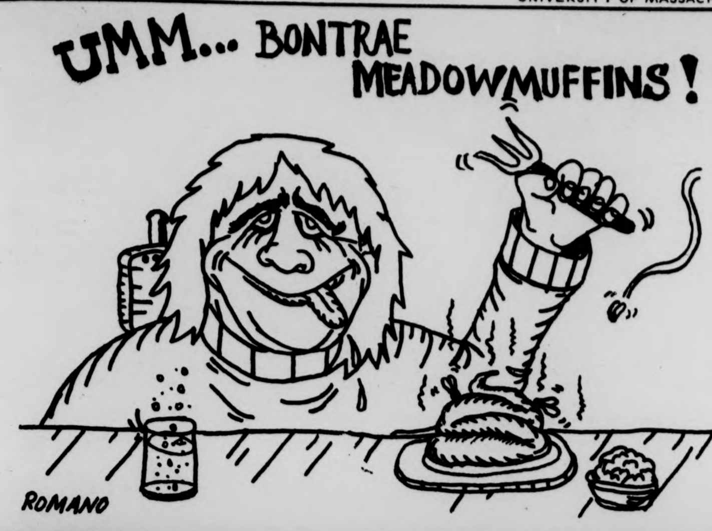
(Continued on P. 11)

Editorial Points

Remember the days when you used to get a haircut if you knew you were in legal trouble? Well, those days are over. H. R. Haldeman is letting it all hang down.

- - -

The Neilsen ratings are out, and now we all know which are the best television shows to watch. We're wondering what the worst television shows are. Why not drop us a letter to the editor and let us know?



Letters To The Editor

Faults In Our Bus Service

To The Editor:

I would like to ask whoever is running the Student Senate Transit Service the following questions:

1. Why is it that NO PRIOR PUBLIC NOTICE was given via a news media (the Collegian, WMUA, etc.) informing the bus-users that the Sunderland-buses would NOT stop at Crestview Apts., Puffton Village, etc. on the afternoon (rush hour?) outward runs? I understand this has been going on quite a few days now. There is nothing more frustrating to work out the schedule, and dash to the bus-stand only to find that the bus arrives and the first sentence that greets you starts off "I am not...".

2. From the standard excuse the user gets when the bus is LATE, LATE..is that "Do you know how hard it is to drive a bus (during rush hours, or any hours for that matter)?", one gets the idea that the drivers and those running the service are doing a FAVOR for the users! Is that it? In which case the information we have that the drivers and some others in the service are paid must be wrong! Come off it. The job, position, post...you accepted carries with it some responsibility. If you cannot bear that responsibility, then drop it, or just make public a notice to the effect that the service IS HIGHLY UNRELIABLE & THE SCHEDULE SHOULD NOT BE HEEDED TO. The money going into this service comes from taxpayers and students fees (& maybe other sources too!), and if it is being thus misused, then you have no right to point your fingers to Mr. Agnew or anyone else for that matter.

3. If there is the possibility that buses may run late, for whatever reason, then has anyone tried to incorporate a "holding, make-up or rest" time at the end of the route, so that some leeway is given for delays, etc.. Or is the policy followed that ten unreliable runs every hour?

Who has the answers to these questions? I am sure there are others in the University community who have questions of their own, awaiting answers!

I, for one, do believe that the busses are providing a much-needed service to the University community. However, I do not see any reason why one should be satisfied with a third-rate merchandise when the best is available. And available at little or no increased cost. The cost could include a little more care and thinking on the part of the planners in an effort to encompass ALL POSSIBLE FACETS AND PHASES to the problem. Just remember how pollution became a problem!

N. Haridasan

Stupid Decisions: What Can We Do?

To The Editor:

As the 5:30 Southwest shuttlebus pulled up to the Central (formerly Worcester) Dining Pit, a student was asked why he was eating so early. He replied that he had an 8:00 exam and that by coming at 6:30 he could not make it. As the inquirer scratched his head, he asked if getting up to eat at 5:00 was not an inconvenience. The kid answered, "Well, I could sleep a little later - it's hard getting up after partying every night - but Minister of Food Bonehead really has our interests at heart.

Why, by closing down the other 3 Dining Commons, he was able to lay off 50 student workers who got $1.85 an hour. You know, that's a big savings in these economy-hurting times. And to help us get up to the Quad in time, they've hired a private bus company and it only costs 10 cents a trip! Once inside, everybody goes through the same door, thus eliminating the costly expense of having two stub collectors. But to speed things up, 6 people are dishing out the entree and vegetables at dinner, so you can be through the line in under an hour and a half!

Also, they've eliminated choices, which took more time to serve. As our beloved Food Minister said, "What's the difference between Bontrae Turkey and Bontrae Sloppy Joe?" Also, they've reinstituted the seconds policy-you can get seconds for only a dollar. I usually don't have time, but those with a 10:10 do. At dinner, you can have all the cake you want. The Minister has said "let them eat cake." Due to these economy saving measures, the food plan only went up $75 this semester!" The interviewer, his mouth hung open in amazement, said "Sorry I asked" and walked away.

Sound farfetched? It's not. The Food Services has repeatedly made stupid decisions all semester. Although they've raised prices, they've decreased services and made more cutbacks than justified, in my opinion, and my opinion is based on the fact that we are paying DOUBLE for our food plan than some other colleges are paying. Granted, we have more overhead, but we also have more students to pay for it. There's no economic excuse for having ketchup, glasses, etc. on one end of Worcester and not on the other. And as long as we have to use the "chit" system, I think it would be wiser having two doors open with two stub takers than having 20-30 minute lines. Enough said. People say, "What can we do?" I'm not exactly sure - that's not the students' job. That's why we have a Food Service Department. If enough people fill out those complaint cards, maybe there will be some action taken. I suppose the mandatory food plan is illegal, but who has the time or money to fight it?

The thing to remember is that we students can exist without a Food Service Dept., but they can't exist without us, so don't be afraid to speak up.

Steve Weitz

Out Of Order

To The Editor:

The MDC article of October 18 on page 3 by Ms. Janet P. Rome illustrates a problem that Food Services management and the Food Services Committee of the Board of Governors are aware of and are trying to eliminate. The interim solutions offered by Ms. Rome is the only reasonable recourse.

I find one particular element of the article to be quite revolting and at least to be irresponsible wording. The description of the cashier is in extremely poor taste and not worth repeating. A formal apology is, I am sure, in order from both Ms. Rome and MDC. Such slips are out of order in a tabloid that bills itself as being both "A free and responsible press".

Donald Sullivan

(Editor's note: We agree. Please see page [illegible].)

State Of Siege

(Continued from P. 10)

squads conduct a campaign resulting in a toll of 10,000 political assassinations of suspected leftists who might dissent or resist the post-Arbenz, U.S. sponsored governments. From there Mitrione goes to the Dominican Republic which suffered the deposing of their elected president, Juan Bosch after the 1965 marine invasion. Soon an organization calling itself "La Banda" claims part in the "pacification" of that island. Onward to Brazil and then to Uruguay where the "Escadron de la Mort" utilizes Mitrione's advice and technical aid (the briefcase torture kit in the film) to combat the Tupamaros. The major focus of the film is devoted to the documentation of the dual role of Mitrione as a "traffic expert", i.e. torture expert and Mitrione's rationalization and justification in training death squads. Franco Solinas summarizes, "We hadn't wanted to make a suspense film. We tried to put our question to the public, not on the classic level--is he going to die?--but rather is he or isn't he responsible? And his culpability was also not the classic sort--as if he had killed or stolen--but much broader a responsibility of a political order. Our point of view is not 'romantic'. We do not make a moralistic speech. We do not try to find out whether Mitrione was 'good or bad'. Mitrione interested us because he represents a system that is bad for the majority of people."

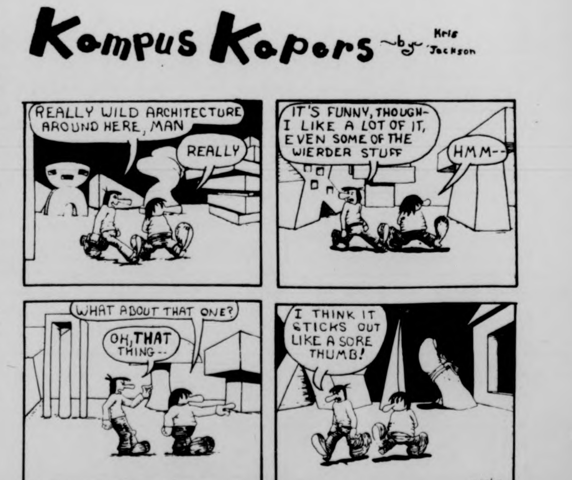
Thus a U.S. audience well schooled by Watergate and Agnew under go a tension over the issue of ethics. Wilhelm Reich perhaps comes close to the film's depiction of Mitrione, "...while subordinate to the top, he is to those below him a representative of this authority and enjoys, as such a privileged moral (not material) position." Defending the interests of his govenment by any means, even by torture, is part of a "moral duty" to uphold the state which at the same time justifies the expendability of Mitrione for the same reason. Within that context, Agnew is another Mitrione, but luckily for him has up to now been delcared only "politically" expendable.

Of interest to any student of political or guerilla movements is the tightly disciplined syncronization of the Tupamaros as shown in State of Siege. They state the reason for this: "The armed struggle is a technical phenomena requiring technical knowledge, training and practice, materials and combat psychology. Improvisation in this field is paid for in lives and defeat." The dedication required from the Tupamaros becomes obvious later in the film when in the collection of votes which would decide whether Mitrione would live or die, the membership of the organization is revealed. Workers, professionals, military and students, clandestinly Tupamaros must take on the responsibility of working overtime, of assuming a second shift on behalf of their struggle. Also in contrast to the army, AID, those with power, the Uruguayan Congress with its one woman representative, the Tupamaros is a people's organization and thus women, old and young take part. Costa-Qavras, in relief to the Tupamaro women, could not have accidentally revealed Mrs. Santore's relinquishing of her personhood in exchange for a passive loyalty to her husband and country. Squeamish when being briefed on intestinal parasites afflicting most of the poor, Mrs. Santore is the common wife with no knowledge and no opinion of the undertakings of her husband or that of her government and appears only capable of bereavement.

State of Siege definitely offers content different from the popular cinema drama depending on blood and sex. Also the excesses available to film technology, close ups, slow motion, panoramic views are never utilized. Tension that is created is partly due to the honest middle range focusing and to the skillful frame rhythm that seems to hesitate long enough to fix each dramatic event in consciousness. The usual documentary style is surpassed and yet never exaggerated. The quality of filming and directing is as much responsible for the creation of the condemnation as the story itself; Costa-Gavras and Solinas accomplish this through a careful designing of the cinematographic image.

History has moved beyond the historical plane of State of Siege but the questions it poses remain. Frente Amplio, like Unidad Popular in Chile, a coalition of liberal and left parties, tried to electorally institute a government and lost, not because of lack of popular support but because of the internal sabotage during their campaign and because Brazil, the military giant with a population of 92 million stationed 60,000 troops near the border of Uruguay at election time. The National Security Council (COSENA) now rules and Pres. Bordaberry ordered the dissolution of the Uruguayan Congress June 27. Since then there have been two strikes and after having been silent and underground for over a year the Tupamaros saluted the passage of the struggle to a new phase which shifted responsibility from them to the people who before had only passively served as electors. They admitted to underestimating the enemy which had "much more power than we had earlier realized and on the other hand we did not give proper evaluation to the tremendous capacity for struggle of the people and confined ourselves too much to our own forces." The lessons of history are important and this film contributes to the recording of a history.

Zoe Best is a Collegian Commentator.



Kompus Kapers
by Kris Jackson
REALLY WILD ARCHITECTURE AROUND HERE, MAN REALLY
IT'S FUNNY, THOUGH— I LIKE A LOT OF IT, EVEN SOME OF THE WIERDER STUFF HMM--
WHAT ABOUT THAT ONE?
OH, THAT THING--
I THINK IT STICKS OUT LIKE A SORE THUMB!
10/19/73

More Letters To The Editor

Changing Times

To The Editor:

We are young. I think that statement is generally accepted as fact. However, even though the time we have spent as part of the human race is small compared to the total amount of time we will (or at least hope to) spend in our lifetimes, and although our experiences are multiplying every day, we, as rational beings, are very able to observe changes which have taken place and are going on even now. Not only can we observe them but we are able also to reflect on them.

What kind of changes? Well, in our lives we have seen our music change. We have gone from the "Tears On My Pillow" era of the fifties to the Dylanish antiestablish-mentarianism of the sixties to the "dream until your dreams come true" era of the seventies. Our ideas have changed. It was once the relevancy of the flavor of chewing gum left on a bed post over night. Then it was revolution; fast and radical change was the thing. Now we say let's give peace an honest chance or are we fooling ourselves with guys like Agnew and Nixon? Even our life styles have changed. We used to ask dad for the car; now we have our own. We used to be Joe College and Betty Coed; now it's Mr. and Mrs. Young American Idealist. It used to be real cool, man; now it's painfully real.

Even history has rushed along at a torrid pace. We have new and different wars, new and different leaders, and new and different public followings and reactions than when we were younger.

However, there is one thing which has not changed. There is one thing which is just as new and different now as it was when it was born nearly 2,000 years ago. That's Christianity. Not religion, or structured church mind you, but a personal, loving relationship with the man, Jesus Christ. He is as He has always been. Jesus is love personified. He offers a life which shares in that love. He offers a life which is full, abundant, joyous, meaningful, directed, and purposeful; the likes of which we cannot experience through any textbook or lecture.

Christ is here, living, right now, waiting for YOU! He offers the best life we could ever have and all we need do is accept His offer. If we will open the door to our hearts He promises He will come into us and bestow all of His gifts on us. Who could refuse an offer like this?

Have we changed? Are we new and different? Can we put away our pride and receive Christ without doubt or fear? Can we admit to Him that we can't handle life successfully on our own?

History has proven that all too few have accepted the truth which is Jesus Christ. The time has come to realize that the truth does not change, so why don't we?

Paul Aganski

Jackson Replies

To The Editor:

In reply to Ms. Diodati's letter of yesterday:

I cannot speak for McGilvray, but I am conscious of sexism, I am opposed to it, and I believe that any sexism appearing in my strip is of a residual nature--I am still discovering and dealing with attitudes I was raised with for 24 years.

The subject matter of the strip in question portrayed an active, speaking male in bed with a silent, passive female. Is this sexist? It would be if I always or usually portrayed men as active, females as passive, or their only possible relationship as sexual. This is not the case, as you would see if you read my other strips.

I portray them in bed, after having had sex. Is this sexist? Only if you see sex as the male getting pleasure from a "hormone-injected fast screw", and the male caring nothing for the female--as may or may not be the case. Is this distasteful, as you suggest? I don't think so; sex can be beautiful, it is often portrayed in literature, and I believe comics to be potentially a viable literary medium. What of the horrid consequences of a person getting his or her first glimpses of Umie life from this strip? Anyone who would stigmatize the UMass community from this strip is beyond hope anyway.

In conclusion, I believe you are a defensive, snivelling plastic feminist who needs to examine her views for reactionary sexism. But I prefer conversation to confrontation, so please contact me thru the Collegian office.

Kris Jackson

We're People, Too

To The Editor:

In response to the article by Janet Rome, I feel the subject of her insensitivity toward the Hatch Cashier was pure ignorance. Although we are listed as numbers at this large institution, the fact still remains that we are people with feelings and emotions. The employee described in the article was in no way responsible for lines or prices, and was dealt an unfair blow. I sincerely hope that the editors will reprimand Ms. Rome and see that injustices such as this do not occur again.

Jack Baron
Student Food Services Employe

Rock & Roll

To The Editor:

As a student at UMass for 3 years I have appreciated all kinds of concerts and dances sponsored by the various organizations that have held them. Recently however I have seen the ads for a 50's revival, FINALLY! This is undoubtedly the most renowned type of concert. It is about time the sponsor of these events realized what the UMass student really wants. We want a rock n' roll type of affair, one where we can wear the traditional white socks and the famed leather jacket, put that good for the hair grease on our heads and really get it on, thanks to whoever is putting on the Bop shoo Bop Revue. I can't wait.

Lou Rydan

Helping Hearts

To The Editor:

We need your help! This year in conjunction with the 3rd annual Heart Fund Walk, Gamma Sigma Sigma is sponsoring the 1973 Heart Fund Cup. This trophy will also be awarded to the Greek house or dorm that accumulates the greatest amount of money thru walkers.

What can you do? Go see your Head of Residence or house president. Ask them to support this competition. Sign up to walk October 19, 23, 24, and 25, CC concourse.

Please, join us on October 27th in the fight against heart disease.

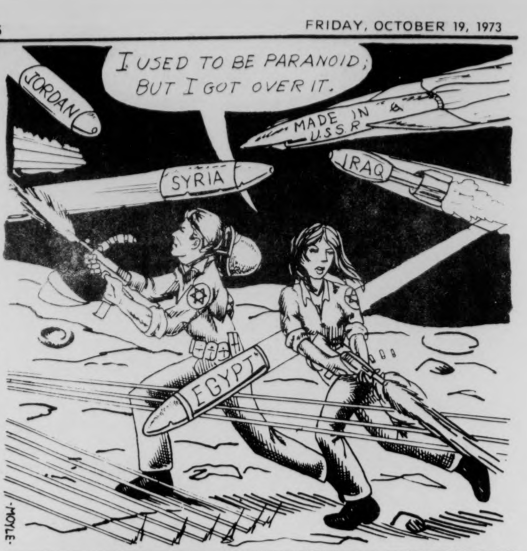
Bobbi Oliver
Gamma Sigma Sigma

Two Errors

To The Editor:

Political hacks may be analogous to hawks, but the 17th line of my Commentary of October 18's Collegian should read "prevailing sentiment of the hacks." While this minute point doesn't amount to much, another typographical error is quite gross. Gerald Ford is "firmly dedicated to the Warfare State and not the "Welfare State" as printed.

Dennis Simkowski



JUMBO COLOR PRINTS 14c each

Developing & Printing
12 exp.
$2.98

Lang's Photo Studio
EVERYTHING PHOTOGRAPHIC

460 W. Street, Rt. 116
South Amherst, Mass.

Eastern Mountain Sports, Inc.

SPECIALISTS IN QUALITY, LIGHTWEIGHT
BACKPACKING, SKI-TOURING AND MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT.

Located on Route 9 at the Amherst-Hadley Town
Line (413) 253-9504

PRE-SEASON SKI-TOURING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973

20-30 per cent off most models of touring skis, boots, bindings and poles. Brands on sale include EMS Asnes, Bonna, EMS Madshus, Rieber, Falk VM poles, Rottefella and others.

MOUNTAINEERING EQUIPMENT SALE
Oct. 11 - Nov. 3, 1973

20-30 per cent off on many models of down-filled sleeping bags, foam pads, frame and day packs, down-filled parkas, tents, gloves, mittens and many other items. Brands on sale include Alpine Designs, North Face, Gerry, EMS, Janus, Camp Trails, Rough Rider, Bergens, etc.

ALL BICYCLE PACKS 20% off

Supply Limited
Store hours: 9-9 Mon.-Fri. 9-5:30 Sat.

The Pizza Revolution is coming!

Top of the Campus
Tuesday
Wednesday
Thursday
Reg. $5.60
Special $2.95
Prime Rib Special

Impending Oil Shortage Boosts Firewood Sales

(AP) -A threatened home heating oil shortage may have oil dealers up in arms, but Connecticut firewood dealers aren't complaining.

Business is up.

"People want to be prepared. They seem worried about the impending oil shortage," said Stanley A. Weston of Weston's Wood Yard in Ridgefield. Business in the last month has been better than ever before at this time of season. He's been selling wood 22 years in the same location.

"In years past, people would get half or full cords," he said. This year many customers are buying two cords. A cord is a pile of wood four feet by 4 feet by 8 feet. Weston had to raise his price to $44 per cord because of higher gasoline and labor costs.

John Dufilie, owner of Maple Dell Tree Service in North Stonington, said his demand has been greater this year. "I think it's the so-called coming oil shortage."

He said he has noticed "quite a run" on wood-burning stoves, especially on broadcast swapshop programs.

Dufilie is receiving early orders for wood because of early cold spells in the area. He will drop a cord of wood off at your home for $25, $5 more than last year.

In the Hartford area, the Open Hearth Association delivers wood for $35 for 96 cubic feet, 32 cubic feet less than a cord. But you'll have to wait.

Supplies are good and "business has picked up tremendously," said Mrs. Virginia Chase.

"We can carry five units on a truck, which is five stops usually," said a dispatcher. "Only this morning we had a good 60 orders. I don't know, it could be the oil scare. I hear people mention it."

Mrs. Chase said Open Hearth is five to six weeks behind in deliveries, unusual for this time of year.

Chandler Bond 40, said he's been selling wood in the Stepney section of Monroe "ever since I was old enough to cut it."

In his area, where winter is traditionally milder than in northern Connecticut, "a lot of people are looking ahead and wanting wood. I sell a lot right here in the yard. I think this year is better than last year."

WMUA To Discuss UMass Growth

Monday at 10 p.m., WMUA (UMass radio, 91.1 FM) will air a discussion on the effects which the growth of the UMass, Amherst, campus is having on the local environment.

The program is being presented as a special feature of "Focus," WMUA's weekly public affairs series moderated by Kenneth Mosakowski.

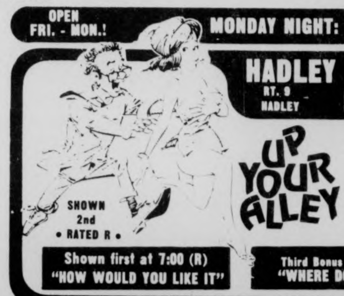
Mosakowski's guest for the live, 60-minute forum will be Ed Miller, president of the UMass Graduate Environmental Engineering Association. Miller recently filed suit against UMass on the grounds that campus expansion in certain locations is causing unnecessary damage to the environment.

Interested listeners are invited to call in questions during the broadcast.

CCEBS To Hold Election Oct. 24

Elections for the CCEBS Board of Directors will be held on October 24, 1973 at the NEW AFRICA HOUSE. In order to be put on the ballot you must pick up your nomination forms October 19, 1973 between the hours of 9 and 5 at New Africa House. You must have them returned to the CCEBS Office no later than Tuesday, October 23 by 5 o'clock. The ballots will be made up and the election will be held on October 24, 1973. The poles will be open the duration of the day.

All Students are urged to participate in the choosing of their CCEBS Student Representatives. Nomination forms will be in New Africa House room 202.



OPEN FRI. - MON.!
MONDAY NIGHT: $3.00 PER CAR
HADLEY DRIVE-IN
RT. 9 HADLEY
584-2645
UP YOUR ALLEY
THE ALL-OUT SEX COMEDY RIOT!
The hysterically funny story of a wild and wacky Mafia gang, the F.B.I., 40 beautiful girls, and how Seymour became the world's greatest lover.
SHOWN 2nd • RATED R •
Shown first at 7:00 (R) "HOW WOULD YOU LIKE IT" Third Bonus Hit — Rated R "WHERE DOES IT HURT"

Contact Lens
Amherst Optical Shoppe
Our Second Location
170 University Dr., Amherst
253-5412
195 N. Pleasant St.
Amherst
Free Parking in Rear
256-6403

NARROW BELT LOOPS WIDE WALES
CUFFS

super pants
Great detailing in 100% cotton corduroy. Many colors.
WEAR HOUSE

DOMINO'S PIZZA
DOMINO'S
(Ovens in Trucks for Hot Delivery)
256-8587
FREE DELIVERY

Our Superb Cheese Pizza
12 - inch Pizza $1.75
16 - inch Pizza $2.95

Our Deluxe Pizza
Pepperoni, Mushrooms, Ham, Green Pepper, Onion
12 - inch Pizza $3.15
16 - inch Pizza $4.95

ADDITIONAL ITEMS
Ham
Mushrooms
Onions
Green Peppers
Pepperoni
Ground Beef
Fresh Sausage
on 12 - inch Pizza 35c
on 16 - inch Pizza 50c

25c Off Any Small PIZZA
(ONE COUPON PER PIZZA)
Name
Address
Expires 10-22-73

50c Off Any Large PIZZA
(ONE COUPON PER PIZZA)
Name
Address
Expires 10-22-73

Hampshire College Holds Science-Society Symposia

The schedule this fall of the first in a continuing series of symposia on Science and Society has been announced.

The first series, supported mostly by Hampshire College, deals with problems in energy and growth and will focus on the ideas of distinguished guests who are major figures on these issues. For the most part they will deliver lectures at Hampshire College on Wednesday nights at 8:30 (note the change from 8 o'clock) in the Main Lecture Hall. We also plan to conduct a question-answer session afterwards, and in most cases, these events will be broadcast live over both WFCR and Valley cable television.

We hope you will be interested in taking part.

The talks are as follows:

October 27* SYMPOSIUM ON ALTERNATIVE ENERGY SOURCES

November 5 EDWARD TELLER, assoc. director, Lawrence Radiation Laboratories ENERGY RESOURCES OF THE FUTURE

November 7 DENNIS MEADOWS, an author of The Limits to Growth GLOBAL LIMITS TO ENERGY PRODUCTION

November 14 SILVIO CONTE, U.S. Congressman ENERGY AND THE CONGRESS

November 28 WILLIAM HERONEMUS, assoc. department head, Civil Engineering, U. of Mass. U.S. ENERGY POLICY: THE NEED FOR GREATER EMPHASIS ON SOLAR ALTERNATIVES

December 5 DONALD GEESAMAN, assoc. professor of Public Affairs, U. of Minnesota ADVERSARY SCIENCE AND NUCLEAR TECHNOLOGY

December 12 DEAN ABRAHAMSON, chairman, All-University Council on Environmental Quality NUCLEAR FISSION ENERGY ECONOMY

* All day, Memorial Hall and Campus Center, U. Mass.

 3:30 P.M., Engineering East Auditorium, U. Mass.

All other lectures will be in the Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire College at 8:30 P.M.

—Lapp's lecture will be at 8:00 in the Main Lecture Hall, Hampshire College

Wine-Food Consultants Lecture At Lord Jeffrey Inn

James and Paula Holsing, wine and food consultants to many area wine shops and restaurants, will be lecturers at a wine-food course at the Lord Jeffery Inn in Amherst, starting October 30.

The Longmeadow residents will take part in the six-week series, entitled "Directions in Taste", held at the Amherst College owned and operated Inn. The series will follow on a total of six consecutive Tuesday evenings ending December 4. Beginning at 7 p.m. each evening will be a wine tasting, featuring wines of the world with the emphasis on value in today's wine market; a five-course dinner with appropriate wines; a discussion of food and food preparation.

Topics to be covered in the wine and food discussions will include: the correct way to open wines; coordinating your menus with the right wines; today's hidden wine values; adding flair to your food by flaming; equipping your kitchen; (varied wines produced from the same grapes in different countries); appetizers - plain and fancy; differences in the wines of different countries; desserts - plain and fancy.

Wine topics covered will include: sparkling wines, red wines of Europe, red wines of America, rosés of the world, white wines of Europe, white wines of America.

The sessions will be directed at the rising costs of food and wine, and ways to entertain at home with style in spite of inflation.

FOR LIGHTNING FAST DELIVERY ON ANY OF OUR DELICIOUS PIZZAS OR SUBS CALL THE HUNGRY-U
PIZZA PATROL
256 6350
THE HUNGRY-U

NO DOUBT

IT'S 'THE GIN MILL'

Rte. 181

Bondsville, Ma.

Free Music, beer only a quarter a glass, or $1.75 for 2 half gallon pitchers.

Cable T.V.

On Sat. & Sun. we feature steamed clams - steamed in beer.

LOONEY TUNES
Quality Audio Components

Open 10-7 Monday-Saturday
Take a right on East St. off Rt. 9 just past Weird Harold's

System No. 1

List
SHERWOOD 7100 - A Receiver $219
GARRARD 95 - B Turntable including base, dust cover and Shure cartridge $225
PROCOM MV 12 3 way speakers, 12" woofer 6" mid-range, 3" tweeter with 5 year warranty $258
Looney Priced at $479

System No. 2

JVC 5511 Receiver with Sea Control $249
BSR 310-X Turntable complete base dust complete base, dust cover & Shure cartridge $79.95
JENSEN 1 8" Flexair full range speakers $66.00
Looney Priced at $279

SENNHEISER HEADPHONES
List $42.95 Looney Priced at $21.95

COME AND SEE WHAT YOU OFFER.

Teaching Positions Open For Southwest Black Caucus

It was announced today by the Southwest Black Caucus that there are teaching positions open for courses to be held next semester.

The Caucus would like the submission of proposals for the teaching of 390 courses. There are two openings available. The 390 courses would deal in the following:

LAW AND THE BLACK COMMUNITY: This course would give basic knowledge in the area of legal rights for blacks. The instructor should have some legal training.

SCIENCE IN THE BLACK COMMUNITY: Dealing with practical applications of scientific knowledge to the needs and concerns of Black Community, especially in those areas related to Biology, Ecology.

BLACK PSYCHOLOGY: A course that would emphasize psychological theory and practice as it relates to the black community. This course would utilize the writings of black social scientists.

The Black Caucus is also interested in soliciting proposals dealing with the following colloquia. These colloquia would be on the theme of "Black Survival."

FOOD PREPARATION AND NUTRITION: In instructing students on how to prepare food, this course would also deal with nutrition and diet, emphasizing economy in menu preparation. This course could possibly lead to the development of a collective food group.

FURNITURE MAKING: This course would instruct students on the making of basic items of furniture, such as tables, bookcases, couches, etc. It would be particularly useful to students living off campus.

SEWING AND AFRICAN DESIGN: This course would instruct the student on sewing skills in order to economize on clothes buying.

SURVIVAL: This course is basically designed to acquaint the student in all levels of beauracracy so that he will know where to go in the University for info on various aspects of campus life such as academic and personal counseling, jobs, financial aid, etc.

JEWELRY MAKING: This course would provide the student with skills necessary in making inexpensive items of jewelry.

BRAIDING: This course will be left open to the instructor's ability to show competence in this art.

CONSUMER ECONOMICS: This course gives the student info which would enable him to cut living expenses during his stay at the University. It should be taught by someone with a wide knowledge of consumer economics.

All course proposals should include the following: A one paragraph description of the course objectives: a course description concerning time and expected material coverage: a reading list of required and supplementary books to be used in the course: a listing of any special needs, such as materials and space: and a resume which describes the qualifications of the instructor in regards to the course

The Caucus reminds those interested that the above should be submitted to the Malcolm X Room in Southwest before 6 p.m., October 29.

TRAIL BIKE SEASON IS HERE AND VALLEY MOTORSPORTS HAS THE FINEST.

MONARK 125 c.c.
KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c.

FROM THE PROFESSIONAL MONARK 125 c.c. TO THE POWERFUL KAWASAKI F-6 125 c.c. WE HAVE THE TRAIL BIKE FOR YOU THIS FALL.

VALLEY MOTOR SPORTS
King St., Northampton

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SYDNEY OMARR

The fixed signs--Taurus, Leo and Aquarius--cannot be forced to do anything. These natives are determined, stubborn and likely to do the opposite of what is expected, if they are taken for granted. Try a bit of flattery here and persons born under these challenging signs will roll over, sit up and purr.

- - -

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Avoid being too quick where changes are concerned. Grass is not necessarily greener elsewhere. In affair of heart, realize disagreement is not a tragedy. You can grow as result of temporary adversity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Obtain valid hint from Aries message. Aspects are such that caution now certainly is better part of valor. Professional superior is in no mood to be chided. Highlight diplomacy. Gain is shown through intelligent concession.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be aware of subtle nuances. Check behind scenes for motives. Pisces, Virgo persons could figure prominently. Avoid wishful thinking. See situation as it exists. Relatives, though well-meaning, may be misinformed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't promise more than you can deliver. Means stop building up pressure for yourself. Take it easy, especially where finances are concerned. Some who push, make demands are only testing--and you really don't have to prove a thing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Study Cancer message. Get rid of burden not rightly your own. Aries, Libra could be involved. Someone apparently wants you to commit yourself to course which is costly, hazardous. Take stock. Review situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Area previously dark will receive benefit of greater light. Strive for creative outlet. You do have right to express views. One who attempts to counsel otherwise is wrong. Know it and act like you know it. Look behind scenes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Friend who comes forth with money scheme doesn't have all the facts. Hold back. Refuse to be "persuaded." Legal green light may not be forthcoming. Aquarius, Leo, Scorpio persons could be in picture. Some wishes are subject to revision.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You may be impatient with what appears to be red tape. Refuse to become involved in petty differences. Steer clear of office politics. Sense of humor now becomes valuable ally. Don't permit pride to deter progress. Friendly gesture can work wonders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Intricacies could dominate. Means when you think way is clear there could be minor flaw. Know it and be willing to review, revise. Ideas need time to develop into valid concepts. Remember diet resolutions, requirements.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Member of opposite sex may be impatient, argumentative. Your role now is to be analytical. Don't be pushed into situation which is costly, even embarrassing. Protect valuables. Don't sell yourself short.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Hold off on trying to expand too quickly. Mate, partner may express differences. Make intelligent concession. You gain if willing to make adjustment at home. Get rid of poor electrical equipment.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What appears to be a big secret may turn out to be a slight deception. Leave others with face-saving devices. Leave room for "honorable retreat." You will receive fine offer. Express gratitude without jumping for joy.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are an original thinker, independent and creative. Many born under Leo and Aquarius seem to play important roles in your life. In November, you may receive surprise announcement from family member. You are dynamic, determined, often considered antiestablishment. You are impatient, talented, relentless in pursuit of goal--and very attractive.

Copyright 1973, Gen. Fea. Corp.

Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1	Siamese native
4	Perfection
9	Remuneration
12	Help
13	Daily journal
14	Native metal
15	Feels one's way
17	Barters
19	District in Germany
21	Epistle (abbr.)
22	Turkish regiment
25	Fondle
27	American ostrich
31	Free of
32	Swiftest
34	Indefinite article
35	Golf mound
36	Nothing
37	Preposition
38	Fell back
41	Study
42	Girl's name
43	Edge
44	Heavy cord
45	News-gathering organization (abbr.)
47	Man's nickname
49	Pertaining to the bride
53	Cuddle up
57	Paddle
58	Remains at ease
60	Organ of hearing
61	Wine cup
62	Cook in oven
63	Reverence

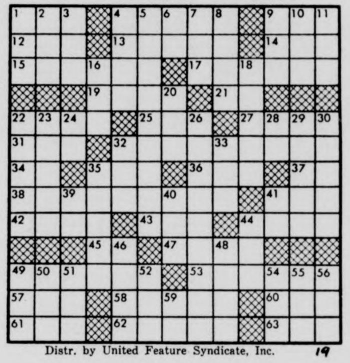
DOWN

1	Label
2	Ventilate
3	Artificial language
4	Mental image
5	Vanish
6	Babylonian deity
7	Skill
8	Ancient musical instrument
9	Seed container
10	Exist
11	Affirmative
16	Greek letter
18	A month
20	Female ruff
22	Macaw
23	Kind of fabric
24	Paid notice
26	Low-cost flats
28	Pronoun
29	Bar legally
30	Make amends
32	Bishopric
33	Performed
35	Walk on
39	Symbol for thoron
40	Gratuity
41	Prefix: with
44	Things, in law
46	Young salmon
48	Trial
49	Neckpiece
50	Male sheep
51	Man's name
52	Sign of zodiac
54	Afternoon party
55	Ordinance
56	Before
59	A continent (abbr.)

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

P	O	M	P	■	B	E	A	D	■	P	E	W
A	R	A	R	■	A	G	I	O	■	E	L	A
C	A	D	E	T	S	■	D	O	■	R	A	G
■	■	■	T	E	E	M	■	R	A	I	N	S
A	T	T	E	N	D	E	D	■	M	O	■	■
F	I	E	N	D	■	T	E	A	■	D	A	M
A	D	■	D	E	F	E	N	D	S	■	P	A
R	E	D	■	D	O	R	■	O	T	H	E	R
■	■	E	M	■	R	E	T	R	E	A	D	S
P	E	T	A	L	■	D	R	E	W	■	■	■
I	R	E	■	E	T	■	U	S	A	B	L	E
E	S	S	■	S	O	T	S	■	R	U	E	S
S	E	T	■	T	O	O	T	■	D	R	I	P

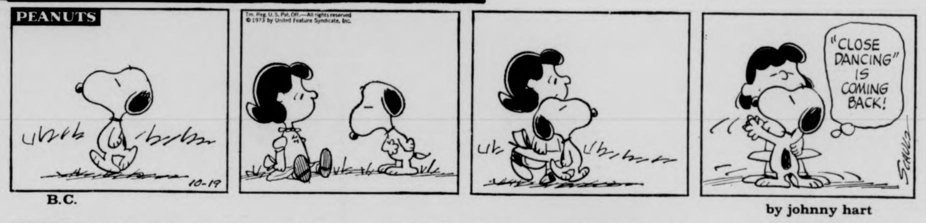
19



Distr. by United Feature Syndicate, Inc. 19

FACES OF EARTH
OPEN 9:30-6:30, FRI to 9
INDIAN cotton shirts
DENIM SKIRTS
NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE IN AMHERST

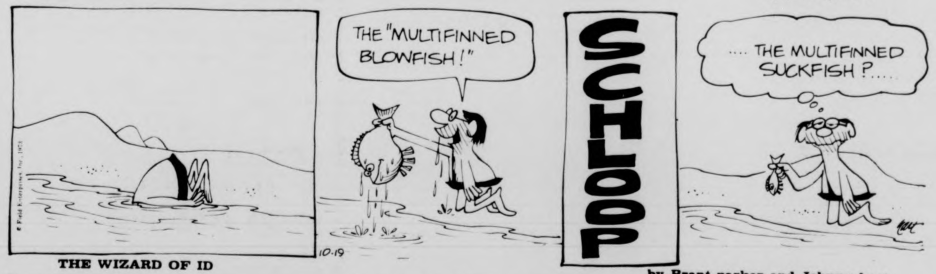
PEANUTS



Tm. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.—All rights reserved © 1973 by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.
"CLOSE DANCING" IS COMING BACK!
10-19
SCHULZ

B.C.

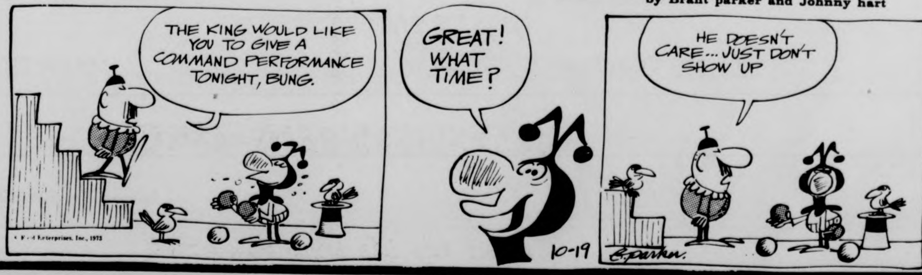
by johnny hart



THE "MULTIFINNED BLOWFISH!"
SCHLOOP
.... THE MULTIFINNED SUCKFISH ?.....
10-19
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973

THE WIZARD OF ID

by Brant parker and Johnny hart



THE KING WOULD LIKE YOU TO GIVE A COMMAND PERFORMANCE TONIGHT, BUNG.
GREAT! WHAT TIME?
HE DOESN'T CARE... JUST DON'T SHOW UP
10-19
© Field Enterprises, Inc., 1973
B. parker

Notices

COME AND DANCE
Clean Living and NRBQ will perform 2 shows tonight in the Campus Center Auditorium - 7:00 to 10:30 and 11:00 to 2:30. Admission is $1.50. Everyone is welcome.

FREE CONCERT
Jeffrey Cain, Bill Staines, and Bob McCarthy will perform in the Student Union Ballroom Sunday evening beginning at 7 p.m. This concert is sponsored by the Program Council and is FREE to everyone.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA
General business meeting for old and new members on Thurs., 10-25 at 4:00 in 169 C.C.

ARCADIA BICYCLE TOUR
Meet in front of S.U.B. at 9:30 a.m. Sunday for a bicycle trip to Arcadia Wildf. Sanct--about 10 miles for the Fall Festival-music, theatre, hay rides etc... Benefit for Sanctuary runs all day 10-4.

BAHA'I ASSOCIATION
A meeting you'll be sorry to miss on Sunday, 3 p.m. C.C. Check schedule for room!! Retreat info and lots other goodies!

BIKE RACE
Sunday, 2 p.m. starts at West End of Mass. Ave. Beginners welcome, call Mark 256-8723 for info.

BULK BIKE PURCHASE
Buying a bicycle? Bicycle Club is getting together a bulk purchase--to get a discount. Write (name, phone, type of bike) to RSO 328, C.C. or come to a Wed. meeting.

COLLEGE CHURCH BUS
Bus leaves Newman Center at 8:45, Waiting Station at 8:46, Hamlin House at 8:48. Evening bus for Vespers' Service begins route at 6:50.

FORMER EXPLORATION PEOPLE
Explorations would like some feedback from former members so that we can find out what you are doing. See us in 104 Montague House.

HOMECOMING PARTY
Thatcher presents "Max" an up and coming boogie band from the Bosstown, Sat. 10-20, 8:30 --? Thatcher Rec. Rm.

PEOPLE'S MARKET
Short meeting Tuesday night at 5:45. Please try to attend.

PHOTOGRAPHERS
Western Mass. Photo Exhibit. Photos needed, for more info call Mike or Marty 665-4926 or leave name and number in Craft Center S.U.B.

SABBATH SERVICES
Oct. 19, 8:15 p.m. Sabbath Celebration S.U. 302. Sat, 10-20 Service and Torah study, "The Creation Story Myth and Reality."

S.A.W. IS OPEN
Bring your car; Tues, Wed, Thurs, 3-11 p.m., Sat. 9-5, Sun. 10-4.

SHABBAT SERVICE
Shabbat Services tonight at 8:15 and tomorrow morning at 9:00. Oneg Shabbat to follow. Shabbat Shalom.

UNITARIAN SOCIETY OF AMHERST
Service at 11:00 a.m. with Jeffrey Campbell, minister, speaking on "Unitarians and Evil". This is United Nations Sunday, part of the service will be a film on this subject.

WHAT'S A PLAY LIBRARY
Come see for yourself in the basement of Farley Lodge. Mon. 4-6 p.m., Wed. 7-9 p.m., Fri. 12:30 - 2 p.m. Toys, games, puzzles etc...for children of University students to borrow.

FOUND
Young cat found 10-18 near infirmary. Medium haired dark with light brown spot on face. Call 323-4025 or 545-2271 and I will bring it to you.

Barbara Loue, your Modern Poetry Notebook in Bartlett. You can pick it up in C.C. lost and found.

LOST
Brown and black striped male puppy lost on Tuesday. Answers to the name of Caleb. If you find or see him, Please Call 546-5300. Lost in vicinity of S.W.

Men's gold watch 10-17 in libary? "Her Block" on face. Please call or contact; Carolyn, 215 Dwight, 5-2304, 5-2305.

Wallet lost in Brown House. Keep the money but please return the wallet to 307 Brown or C.C. Lost and Found.

1 navy blue Ski jacket prob at Bluewall, Tues. night. Call 533-4988

ENGAGEMENT
Ellen Jorgensen of Class '76, 310 Pierpont to Phillip Marshall, Belchertown.

PARTS GERMAN PARTS
WE'VE GOT A PART FOR YOU!
and if we don't, we'll get it.
AT
ALLIED MOTOR PARTS, INC.
BRITISH JAPANESE
319 MAIN ST., AMHERST
256-8341
256-8342
Chilton's Repair Manuals
PARTS AMERICAN PARTS

安城中國飯店
Amherst Chinese Food
Hours: Mon.-Thurs., noon to 10 p.m.
Fri. & Sat., noon to midnight; Sun., 4 to 10 p.m.
62 Main Street, Amherst
Tel. 253-7835
— LUNCH SPECIALS —
Featuring over 100 different Chinese dishes!
Located on the Belchertown bus route, Amherst Town Hall stop.

Halloween Party
at the Top of the Campus a "Beggars' Banquet
Cature/73

MDC CLASSIFIEDS

FOR SALE

Stereo buffs! If you want stereo equipment matched for you and sold at wholesale prices, call Dick 253-2786 after 6. — All Brands!
tf10/31

Charlemont, Mass. — home of five Weimaraner puppies. Top pedigree, A.K.C., cheerful companions for hiking, etc. or quiet enjoyment. 1-413-339-6688.
tf10/19

Handmade sheepskin coat, size 42, with 3/4" pile, triple sewn, one week old, never worn. Coat guaranteed, $160. Robert, 546-5162 around 6 p.m.
tf10-19

Brother DeLuxe portable typewriter, like new, $40; BSR 310 turntable, $45: 50w Lafayette amplifier, $70; two Criterion 50A speakers, $30 ea., all 1 month old. Praktica (Zeiss) camera, Meyer 180 telephoto lens, Takumar multicoated 28mm wide-angle lens, double lens, flash and magnifying lens. Call for Al, 549-1716.
tf10-19

Ski boots, Kotlach, buckle type, size 10, any reasonable offer accepted. Call Dave at 5-0431 days, and 549-6872 after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

Need a clean apartment used vacuum $10., and up. Kinners Vacuum, 19 Park St., Turners Falls. 863-9356.
tf10-23

10 speed Gazelle Tour de L'Avenir, runs like new $90. Includes 3 ft. cable and lock. Call 6-6249.
tf10-19

Gibson Es-335 Semi-Hollow elec. guitar. 2 Humbucking pick ups, custom finish, hard case, exc. cond. $325. Call Dave at 617-544-3520.
tf10-19

Speakers — pair of Hitachi KS-3200R, includes 2-8 inch woofers, 2-2 1/2 inch tweeters, excellent condition, $50 or best offer. 6-6083.
tf10-19

Zenith 21" console color, $150; RCA black & white console t.v., $65. Television Center, 55 N. Pleasant St., Amherst. 253-5100.
tf11-5

FOR SALE

69 Corvette Conv. 4 spd. posi AM-FM well maintained. Mostly new parts, complete serv. rec. $3000, 549-6258.
tf10-19

Must sell my stereo, complete component system, electrophonic, excellent condition. Very rsble. 6-7476.
tf10-19

Kowa six 2 1/4 SLR less than 1 yr. old F1.8 lens, interchangeable-lens hood grip new $400. Asking $200. Call 323-7866 eves.
tf10-19

Guitar - Arla, 6 steel string. Good case $75. Tape recorder - Akai, X-360, 4 heads, 3 motors. Auto reverse. Best offer. Call Mark 253-9517.
tf10-23

Skis, bindings, boot Head 360, 190 cm, Tyrolia, Rieker 8 1/2m, $100. Head 180 cm, Telmat-Marker, Lange 6W, $100. Margaret 545-2348 days.
tf10-19

Winter's coming! Think ahead, rust colored bootlength coat, fur trimmed on hood & cuffs a real bargain. Sz. 15-16. Kathy 545-0344 day.
tf10-19

Gibson B-25, 12 STRG, excellent cond., red sunburst case, 8 yrs. old, hardly ever used. Best offer. Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

Borg Warner electric range, very good shape, best offer. Call Doug, 253-9501.
tf10-19

For sale — 1 Sansui 5000X rec. 2 CS99A Pion speaker, AKAITP DKJVC turntable, ex. equipment, current list price $1,533, will sell for $865. 586-3658, Terry.
tf10-19

Yashica Electro 8 Super-8, Movie Camera; new, used once: Motorized S. 8mm editor: film-all $150. 1-593-9618.
tf10/24

Samoyed (White Huskey) 6 wks. AKC Registered. Asking $125, call Rich 256-0185 after 5 p.m
tf10/25

FOR SALE

Stereo, Ambassador — AM-FM 8-track, air susp. speakers, BSR wood base turntable, dust cover, headphones and many extras. Call 6-6416.
tf10-23

Paul's Oldtime Furniture — best prices on furniture, costumes, bric a brac. What more can I say. In the Alley behind Aubuchon, 253-3511.
tf10-24

Head 360 skis, 205 CM, used only five times, excellent condition. New $150, now $75. 253-5907 after 5:00 p.m.
tf10-23

12 gauge shotguns; Winchester model 1400, auto. 26-inch mod., $90. Also model 370, single 30-inch full, $25. 546-5993.
tf10-19

For sale — Teton goosedown coat, med.; G.E. hot comb & tape recorder. 6-6363.
tf10-19

USD Fujica ST701 55mm 1-8 Mtr. MDS calibration 400, 135mm ins. with c., p.s.t., grp. Kako Fish, acc. sh. 49mm ins. sde. trpd., cam, c.s., $175. 546-7529.
tf10-24

Turntable-BSR 600 Powermatic Base, anti-skate control. Cueing Lever, Micrometer Stylus, pressure adj. $40. Call Paul 549-3677.
tf10/24

Lady Nordica Ski Boots 7 1/2, Studded Snow Tires - Belted, E78-14. Call 665-3422.
tf10/24

Ski Boots!!! 1 pair Lange Standards, size 8 and Kastingers size 11 1/2. Both great condition. Call Keith 6-6414 or Bill 6-6413.
tf10/24

72 VW Bus Converted to camper, excellent condition. Must sell leaving for Europe. Call 546-9256.
tf10/26

Ampex tape deck 3 head, sound on sound, rarely used 275 new, ask 200. Also 20 reels tape — $40. Call 256-0615 after 6 keep trying.
tf10/23

FOR SALE

Zenith Transoceanic 11 Band AM-FM-SW Radio, excellent. Also Bushwell Custom 7x35 Binoculars new. Reasonable 665-1744.
tf10/23

LOST

Buck knife on 10-4 nite, between C.C. & S.W. If found please call 6-7489, reward.
tf10-19

AUTO FOR SALE

68 'Cuda 383 hdrs. Mags, 4 spd. Hurst trac. bars, Tach, exc. cond. Call 253-9034 or 5-2163 leave mess.
tf10-19

Great buy! 1964 TR4. Excellent running condition, body needs work, first $300 takes it away. Wire wheels, call 253-3516 day or night.
tf10-19

1968 Ford Cortina Four Wheel, Disc Brakes, Good Tires, Automatic. $100. Ask for Leslie at "5-2418 or 5-2419".
tf10-19

1966 Olds Toronado, air cond., stereo, power windows & 6-way seat, just inspected, front wheel drive, $500 firm. Call 549-0924, 5 to 9 p.m.
tf10-19

1971 Toyota Corona, standard shift, $600. Call 1-467-3796.
tf10-19

1965 Plymouth 383, 2 BBL, V-8, a.t., p.s., radio, 4D new tires, sticker, good shape, must sell, $225. 253-7941, ask for Bob.
tf10-24

1970 VW, sunroof, excellent mech. cond. See at 401 N. Pleasant St., $1100 firm.
tf10-25

1960 Alfa-Romeo GT Sprint, hardtop, runs very well, 28MPG. Looks fine. Classic, voted top five GT cars in the world. Call 546-7433.
tf10-19

AUTO FOR SALE

1967 VW Bus, excel. mechanical cond., split front seat, make great camper, $550 or best offer. 5-2803 after 5:00, 256-6192.
tf10-19

65 Ford Galaxie 289, 3 standard. New front brakes, exhaust, a little work needed, in good shape. Call John 549-6139. $250, firm.
tf10/23

65 Convt. Mustang, power str., radio, heat, wire wheels, new rear window, battery, starter motor. Very good cond. Jane 256-8323.
tf10/25

65 Galaxie 500. W/sticker, mech., excellent. (I'll prove it!) 4 good tires, body damage. Just tuned, power steer, brakes. 256-0615 after 6.
tf10/23

72 VW Deluxe Bus 25000 m. New brakes, Radial snows, camping equip. Warranty serviced. Excellent cond. 549-6728.
tf10-23

Ford Cortina GT 1968 Michelins, Konis, tach, radio, good gas mileage, runs pretty good. Very reasonable. 549-0894 after 5:30.
tf10-19

1969 MGB, blue, body & roof in good shape, new brake shoes front, rebuilt eng., FM stereo tape deck, runs very well, please call Bill at 549-1809.
tf10-19

MOTORCYCLE FOR SALE

73 Honda 350, low mileage excellent condition, still under warranty, must sell $550 or best offer, 549-6258.
tf10-19

1972 Honda Sl-125, exc. condition, well kept, best Jap woods bike with knobby & shop manual. Call Joel, 665-1477 evenings after 6 p.m.
tf10-19

1970 Kawasaki 350cc Big Horn Street/Dirt. $375, will store for winter. 774-1233.
tf10/26

Dairy Prices Hurt Producers

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — Vermont Agriculture Commissioner Leo O'Brien said yesterday the federal Cost Of Living Council's denial of higher dairy prices for milk producers was arbitrary and discouraging.

The council decided Wednesday night to reject for a second time this fall recommendations for higher prices from the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

O'Brien characterized the council's action as jeopardizing dairy herds and milk availability in New England.

He called the denial, coupled with the importation of milk products, a concerted attack on the dairy industry and a major rebuke to dairy leaders who have made an effort to get higher prices for dairy farmers.

Police
Emergency
5-3111

Got A B? Travel The Sea

The International Program's Office, in collaboration with the Community Work Division of the National Council of Social Service of London, has made it possible for a few University of Massachusetts and Five College students to spend either two months or a full semester working in the social welfare field in Britain.

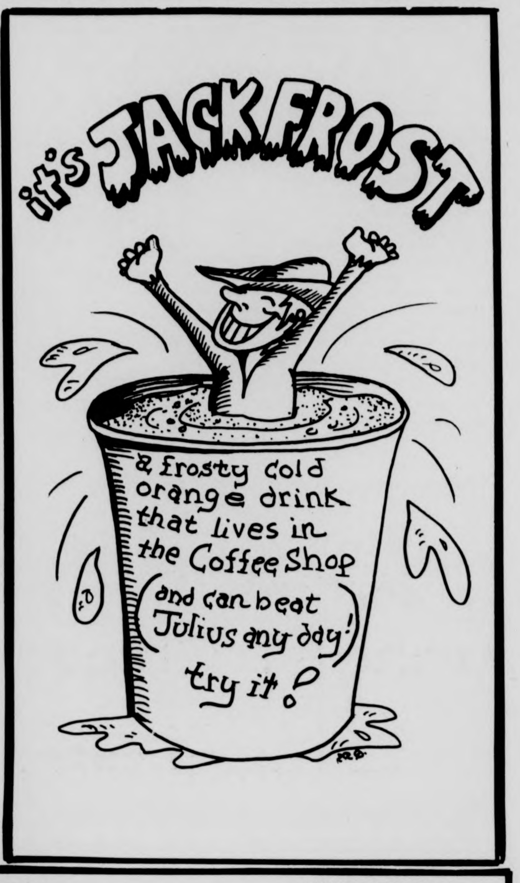
Junior and seniors with at least a B average and a major in psychology, sociology, human development or related fields are eligible for the program. The participants will have the novel opportunity of working in British rural and urban areas (other than London) with organizations for the handicapped and disabled, for the retarded, for delinquents, for pre-school children and for the aged. There are also placement possibilities in centers for legal advising, mental health, alchoholism, drug rehabilitation and prevention and social work. As students will be working full time in these areas with professional supervision and introduction to a variety of kinds of social work in England, preference is given to those applicants with some practical experience in either social work or in community agencies.

It is expected that students who enroll in the program will negotiate academic credit and a means of evaluation with their academic advisor. Such courses as independent study and special problems can be used during this period to meet the normal academic requirements. Special papers and-or a journal are examples of viable substitutes for the regular means of academic evaluation. Each student's British advisor will also prepare a detailed report of the student's performance.

The program is volunteer and no stipends are available. However, the entire cost to the student for a semester will not exceed $100 (including air fare) above the cost of an equivalent period at the Amherst campus. The International Programs Office can advise students on low cost international travel and will also hold an orientation session for the participants. In England, a special consultant to the program will provide initial orientation on arrival and will continue to serve initial orientation on arrival and will continue to serve as liaison between the Council and the International Programs Office. This consultant will give advice on housing and information on other practical and social aspects of life in England.

The deadline for applications is November 15th for the spring semester. To apply, interested students should consult Judy Epstein at the International Programs Office, room 239 Whitmore, by October 26th.

No. 1 in Sales to College Men & Women
CollegeMaster
FIDELITY UNION LIFE INSURANCE CO.
747 Main St.,
Amherst
Tel. 256-8351



MDC CLASSIFIEDS

PERSONAL

To the coaches and players of UM's basketball team — wishing you the very best of luck in the coming season. Iris Frankel.
tf10-19

If you are she whose bike I fixed, Rt. 9, 5:30 p.m., 10-15 — after you hurt your knee. Please call 1-536-2613 any weekday evening.
tf10-24

Person who called about King P's cats — please, Please call me again. 3080.
tf10-19

On Oct. 27 — put on your walking shoes and help Gamma Sig fight heart disease. Sign up Oct. 18, 19, C.C. Concourse.
tf10-19

Gay Commune has farm — now peopling, living and loving together. Box 723, Amherst, Mass. 01002.
tf11-11

Parents — problems with child care? Join the Child Care Exchange — an alternative to sitters etc. Infants to 8 yrs. Call Joan, 586-2224.
tf10-19

Tired of dorm living? 1 bedroom in King Philip, available immediately. Price negotiable. Call 665-3318 after 6 p.m., on bus line.
tf10-19

F Shepard abandoned by evicted owners, needs good home w people w understanding. Call 549-1868, around supper time.
tf10-19

Hey SKINNY — I'm 2 days early but HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Hope you like my idea! Like you lots! Clarence.
tf10/19

E.P.W. Hope the next 500 months are like the last two. All my love.
tf10/19

Polly, I would like to wish you a Happy B'day if you don't trump my trick. Your whist partner M.S.
tf10/19

Hi, Bubbie! I'm glad to be home. Tiger.
tf10/19

HELP WANTED

Wanted - Person to help clean fraternity kitchen at meal times in exchange for Free board. 545-0210 ask for Rick or Olie.
t11

SPEED TYPIST
-In Ware, at Collegian printer.
8:30 p.m.-4:00 a.m.
ask for Charlotte

Supervisor — Direct Sales! You may be one of the three key people I seek to develop and train distributors. High income potential for management minded people. Write: Mr. Weiss, P.O. Box 552, Randolph, MA. 02368.
tf10-30

Need cash? Counting cars pays $2.25/hr. Weeks of Oct. 29 and Nov. 5. Fill out application at 18A Marston Hall.
tf10/23

Student Photographer needed to take wedding pictures, Springfield, Nov. 10. Please call Betty, 665-4709. $$.
tf10/24

Earn $15 for 3-4 hrs. work Sunday AM paper route, must have car must live off campus. Call between 4-5 p.m. Friday only 584-9846, Bill.
tf10/19

Someone needed: To watch small dog. I will pay $10. per month plus food. Prefer close to campus 549-6718.
tf10/24

FOR RENT

Horses boarded, 10 minutes to campus. Box stalls, field jumping, excellent trails. 253-7373.
tf10-27

Rooms — Only a few left. Close, 401 N. Pleasant, free parking, tel. 253-9938, or drop by, ask for Duncan. By day, week, month.
tf10/19

WANTED

Musicians interested in addressing cont. musical problems - cellist - trombone - saxophone - bassist. Call 584-6077, 5-6 p.m. only.
tf10-23

Open minded attractive liberal female likes exotic, for modeling, good pay. Write giving details, K.B., Box 262, Holyoke, Ma. 01040.
tf10-19

Wanted — warm, friendly babysitter with own car, for 11 month old, 9-12 weekdays. 253-3607.
tf10-19

Need actor for serious but fun horror film. Call Mike from 5 to 9 tonite. 467-7999. 3 roles, lotsa fun.
tf10-19

SERVICES

Do not get ripped off! Experienced electronic and electrical repairs. Reasonable rates. Call 545-2308, Bill 401, or Mark 415.
tf11-1

Professional typing, dissertations, theses, etc. 55c for average page. Let my fingers do the walking! Call Tom 546-1165. Save this ad.
tf10-19

Guaranteed rebuilt Volkswagen engines. G & R. VW Rebuilding Shop, 1-232-7051.
tf10-26

Astrologer does birth charts (horoscope) with complete accuracy, interpretation & counseling. Call Jeffrey, 253-5386, keep trying.
tf10-19

Bike repairs — Will do some bike repairs on campus and pick up and deliver others. Cheap and reliable. Call Tom after 5, 584-1985.
tf10-19

Pastel Portraits drawn from photo I take. All ages frm newborns to grandparents. Samples shown in Amherst. Please call 568-1075.
tf10-23

Research — thousands of topics, $2.75 per page. Send $1 for mail order catalog. Research assistance, inc. 11941 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 2, L.A., Calif. 90025.
tf12-12

SERVICES

Thinking of remodeling or adding an addition for the holidays? Free estimates and references available. Call 584-9487.
tf10/24

RIDE WANTED

Would like ride to Springfield on Fridays around 1:00 p.m. Call Sue, 546-6876, will share expenses.
tf10-19

Need ride from Belchertown for 8, back at 4. Quabbin Apts. area. Willing to pay. Call Joanne at 323-4521, keep trying.
tf10-19

APARTMENT FOR RENT

Funky up & down 1 bedroom apt. in Hamp. Large workshop & heat included. Call 1-268-7048.
tf10-19

Country living 4 miles from UMass, 2 bdrm. apt. in farmhouse, on 60 acres. One of the most scenic views in valley, $210. 1-268-7048.
tf10-19

ROOMMATE WANTED

Female roommate own room in 6 room house in Hadley. Please call 586-2815 keep trying.
tf10-19

Female to share room in Brittany Manor Apt. Free bus $150, 256-8173.
tf10-19

Roommate wanted to share Cliffside 2 bdrm. Apt. Own bdrm. quiet, nice location; on bus rte. dw. ac. $85-mo. incl. utilities. Call 665-4314.
tf10-19

Grad. Student seeks mature roommate, share house. Pref. fem. 12 mi. from campus. $75/mo. & util. Call Linda 1-283-3408.
tf10/25

ENTERTAINMENT

Experienced juggler wanted. Call 545-0418.
tf10-19

Experienced Magician wanted. Call 545-0418.
tf10-19

Horse back riding, Running Deer Ranch, 549-3630.
tf10-19

O.K., there's no home football game Oct. 27. Don't sit home; join GSS in the Heart Fund walk. Sign up Oct. 18 and 19, C.C. Concourse.
tf10-19

Top 40's Band needed for Club work. Some fifties & oldies also. Steady work for right groups. Call Music ventures 584-6458.
tf10/26

Nick Brignola Jazz Quintet Sun., Oct. 21, 4 p.m. Stockbridge Inn, Stockbridge, Mass. $2.00. Take Turnpike to Lee Exit.
tf10/19

FREE

Free kittens to give away to good homes they are really fine and box trained. Please call Carlotta 664-3494 after 5.
tf10-24

Free puppy — 8 wks. old, female, must be given away before Friday. Please take her! Call 6-7494 as soon as possible.
tf10-19

SUBLET

M & F need 1 f ($98 & util) or couple ($148 & util) to share lg ctry hse, Shelburne Falls. Must sublet thru 7-31-74. Call 625-6520, 6-10 p.m.
tf10/24

Booters Battle URI In Key YanCon Tilt

By STEVE DeCOSTA

The UMass soccer team hopes to stay in the thick of the Yankee Conference race tomorrow when they take on Rhode Island in a home encounter beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The booters need a win in the homecoming game to remain hot on the heels of Maine and Connecticut, who are pacing the Conference.

But URI will not roll over and play dead for the Minutemen. Rhody is 1-0-1 and are right behind URI in the standings.

The Rams boast one of the top offensive linemen in the Conference in sophomore Tim Fenton, who is tied for third in goals scored with four. He also has one assist to his credit.

The URI goaltender also ranks high in the conference leaders. Kevin Daly has given up only 1.3 goals per game while making an average of 12 saves per contest.

The Minutemen boast a super scoring threat of their own in junior Tom Coburn, who leads the conference in goals scored with nine. Coburn was named YanCon lineman of the week for the second time this season on the strength of his four goals and one assist against BU.

Coburn and his mates will have to be at their best if they hope to crack the Ram defense. In seven games so far this year, URI opponents have only been able to muster nine goals.

Coach Al Rufe said that he is "looking for a more balanced scoring attack." He also indicated that Coburn is the only sure starter on the line with the other two coming from the group of Ken Banda, Charlie Palano, Brian McKenney, and Bill Belcher.

In regard to his defense, Rufe said they could "not tolerate any serious mistakes like we made against BU if we expect to win. I believe the game will be decided by one goal."

KICKING IT AROUND-Maine and UConn, the conference leaders, square off this weekend in Orono, with the winner taking sole possession of first place.

With his five points against BU, Tom Coburn tied a UMass record for points in a game. The record was held by Duane Brown who scored five goals in a game against BC in 1968.

Commentary

Homecoming Tough On Rams

By MARTY KELLEY

The parade won't be that long. The floats will be tattered and few. The marching bands less than that. Some Alumni will be around and the tailgates will be open. But Homecoming 1973 will probably sweep through this small Pilgrim town unheard...unless you're a Rhode Island Ram.

Yes, the significance, the tradition, the nostalgia, the mystique, and the flavor from the definition of Homecoming is now on the same shelf with your letter sweater, raccoon coat and waving pennant. But time can't detract from the meaning of a college football game at the University of Massachusetts. And that's where the Rhody Ram suffers.

Every year since this writer used to shoot paper clips at the barelegged baton twirlers on that eventful Friday night, it's always been the demise of either Connecticut or Rhode Island the afternoon following. Well, the Rams won't get off light today. For the defending East Coast champs will be showcased to perhaps the largest crowd in the history of football at this agricultural institute.

But that's a far cry from the yawn of a week ago. But people fail to realize that Dick McPherson is on his "weak sister" campaign and the Rams of Rhode Island should easily be a boring number two with UConn, Vermont, and New Hampshire to follow before Boardwalk fame and a bid to defend against Delaware that should put what '73 is all about for MacPherson into proper perspective.

So MacPherson will simply go through the mechanics with the Rams as he did against BU (20-6 last Saturday). Boston University will not have a football program in five years. For what they're worth, New Hampshire and Vermont might call a halt as well.

Connecticut will be interesting. At the Heights with BC, well, the joke's on us. But yes Mass. with tall and terrific Peil and Yogi's Son are sure to defend their crown at Atlantic City. And the Rhode Island Rams will have little or no say in such predestination.

Predestination works both ways. For the fate of the Minutemen. For the fate of Homecoming, Where have all those tailgaters gone?

"Head Of The Charles"

(Continued from P. 20)

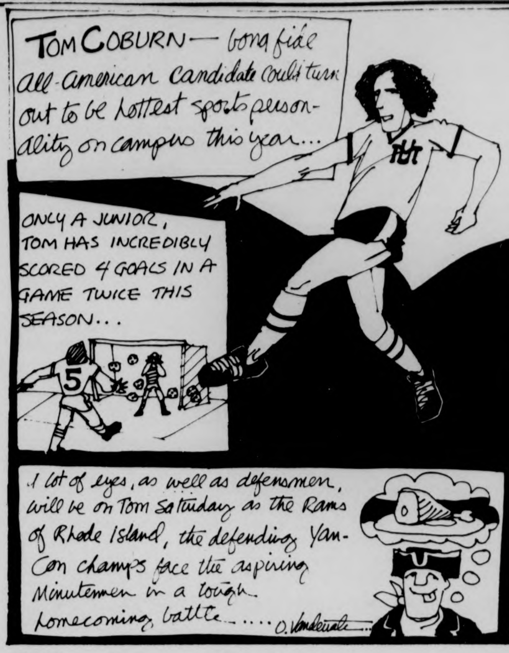
The crew team will travel to the regatta early Sunday morning, so as to observe the course and possibly get in some practice time on the Charles River. Coach Vespoli feels that if his entered boats finish in the top half of the competition in each event, then the crews have done well. I would look for the pair and four boats to do extremely well, and the three eight crews to at least finish in the top half.

Coach Vespoli, a former Olympian, will enter another oared pair boat in which he will row with an acquaintance from Dartmouth named Michelson. This boat will be representing UMass also, and it should be interesting to see where it finishes.

The cancelled Fall Festival Regatta is going to be held on October 27, but the team may not go due to a meet on the 28th. A good way to spend Sunday would be to come and watch the regatta.

CALL
545-2566

HAVING A PARTY
CATER for $1.00 a person —
CLAMS, SHRIMP
COLONEL BURGER
ORDER your CHICKEN
Original recipe or Extra Crispy
Kentucky Fried Chicken®
RUSSEL ST. HADLEY



TOM COBURN— bona fide all-american candidate could turn out to be hottest sports personality on campus this year...
ONLY A JUNIOR, TOM HAS INCREDIBLY SCORED 4 GOALS IN A GAME TWICE THIS SEASON...
5
A lot of eyes, as well as defensmen, will be on Tom Saturday as the Rams of Rhode Island, the defending Yan-Con champs face the aspiring Minutemen in a tough homecoming battle.... O. Vandeventer

Woman Stickers Tie Worcester State

By LORI NAZAR

A definitely underpsyched Minutewoman field hockey team was surprised at Worcester State College as they tied 1-1, to bring their record to 2-0-3. The challenge that UMass prepared for was decidedly different from what they received. The playing conditions were nothing to write home to Mom about either, but environmental discussions aside, Worcester State was ready to play.

They were ready with an undefeated record and an offense marked by scattered breakaways that kept UMass on their feet. The play as somewhat dominated by the Minutewomen but the score did not come until the end of the first half when Kathy O'Neil flipped Linda Lambdims rebound into the top corner of the net.

Second half; same tactics by Worcester State but the results were different - a score fifteen minutes before the final whistle. The play continued back and forth between teams as the field conditions deteriorated with the increasing rainfall.

There weren't too many nice things to say about offense or defense but Coach Jane Farr said them anyway". "Sue Uhl and Donna O'Brien did a nice job on offense." Barb Martell and Kate Stanne were helpful in defense.

The UMass JV's are really building for the club as they brought their record to 4-0-1 with a 2-0 win. Bringing home the bacon for the Minutewomen were Martha Meier and Lisa Gaudet, as they put their scores in the net in the first period. Other standouts were Cindy Hartstone and Mickey Locke on offense and Karen Zimmerman and Sue Lopata on defense.

Tuesday the Minutewomen travel to New Haven, Connecticut to play Southern Connecticut State College, who should prove to be their most able opponents.

JV's Top GGC

The JV boosters got back on the winning track by beating Greenfield CC, 2-1.

The UMass defense was superb, limiting the Greenfield booters to shots on goal that were few and far between.

Though the contest was one-sided, the Minutemen were unable to score until the second half. At the 20 minute mark, Gary Peck converted an Al Johnson corner kick to put the JV's on top 1-0. Only nine minutes later, Jack Kotowski booted home what proved to be the winning goal.

Greenfield was held scoreless until the final minute of the game when they netted their only score to avert a shutout.

The UMass JV's are now 3-1 on the season.

McPhail Rumored To Replace A.L. Prexy Cronin

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Globe reported Thursday that Joe Cronin will be removed as American League president by club owners next week.

The newspaper said it had learned that the owners will name Lee McPhail, the New York Yankees' executive vice president, to replace Cronin at a meeting in Chicago next Tuesday.

Cronin has been league president since 1959. He had planned to retire when his contract expires in 1975.

Cronin an All-Star shortstop with the Washington Senators and the Boston Red Sox, was voted to baseball's Hall of Fame in 1956.

He served as player-manager of the Red Sox for many years. After hanging up his spikes, he was bench manager before moving up to general manager. He remained in the front office until named to replace Will Harridge as league president.

HALLOWEEN AT
FACES OF EARTH
NEXT TO THE POST OFFICE AMHERST
© REFLECTIONS

BART AUTO
Paint & Body Specialists
When you make contact — contact us.
*Foreign & domestic collision work
*Windshields replaced
*State license insurance estimates
Rte. 9, Belchertown
256-8712
2 1/2 miles past Rusty Scupper on the left

SIR MORGAN'S COVE
139 Green Street Worcester, Ma. 753-4376
THIS WEEK:
MOSE ALLISON
Sunday 4 p.m. Matinee
Monday, October 22, One Nite Only
2 Shows
The Man and His Horn
HARRY JAMES AND HIS BAND
COMING:
James Cotton
Muddy Waters
Willie Dixon
Brian Auger
Buddy Rich
This week, Sunday only, Students will be admitted ½ price. $1 off with this ad every day but Sun. and Mon.

Staff Photo/Kevin Erkkila

UMass' Jon Nordby (2) forges past flagging B.C. swimmer as teammate Tom McGinn (7) awaits pass in last night's water polo action.

WP Team Drubbed

By STEVE SARACENO

Coach Bill McCafferty's water polo team lost a very physical match at Boyden Pool last night to Boston College, 17-9. It was the swimmer's fourth loss this year-they have yet to win.

Henry McLean led UMass in scoring for the game, lengthening his team-leading total for the year. Tod Eacher, although he was the losing goalie, shined for the home team, repelling numerous BC scoring attempts.

The match was a rough one, with the aggressive BC players drawing blood from several Massachusetts swimmers. One UMass player even had to retire from the pool in order to have a gash over his eye stitched up.

Although the water polo team has lost all four matches this fall, they have had several overtimes. In fact against Rhode Island, a team they meet at home next Tuesday, they went into two overtimes before they finally sucumbed in sudden death.

The team is a club, like the rugby and crew squads, and they play mostly club teams in their league. However, they are trying to become a fully recognized varsity sport, which would not be too much of a task, since the sport requires little funding.

Their next match is Saturday at New Hampshire. The team finishes the season vs. URI at Boyden on the 23rd.

Homecoming Weekend

FRIDAY, October 19

New England Women's Tennis Tournament in New Haven, Connecticut.

SATURDAY, October 20

Football vs. URI	HOME	1:00
Soccer vs. URI	HOME	10:30
Cross Country vs. UNH	HOME	11:00

SUNDAY, October 21

Crew (Men's and Womens') Head of Charles Regatta at Boston University Boathouse.	AWAY	12:30

Runners Tune-Up Against UNH

By SCOTT HAYES

The UMass Cross Country team will get its last chance to prepare for the important Yankee conference meet when the runners take on an improved New Hampshire squad, tomorrow at the apple orchard.

New Hampshire, probably the third best team in the Yankee Conference, beat Rhode Island earlier this season, 26-29. New head coach John Copeland, formerly an assistant coach at UConn, will be looking for a stellar performance from his top runner, Bruce Butterworth. Butterworth, a 9:10 two-miler who transferred to UNH from Northeastern, is an outstanding individual runner. Although he has been known to have his off days in track, Butterworth is one of the best cross country runners in the Conference.

Freshman George Reed, the number two runner on the UNH team, placed third against Rhode Island. John Madden, one of the premier runners for UNH, reportedly left school two weeks ago, and his loss may hurt the team.

New Hampshire, who will be hosting the Yankee Conference championship on October 27, should be well represented in tomorrow's meet. Junior Dan Forbush was in the top six or seven in the Conference two years ago, and is a talented runner who should be among the top ten tomorrow. John Ring is another top UNH runner, and is fourth man on the squad.

Tomorrow's home meet will be a final tune-up for the Yankee Conference meet. Coach Ken O'Brien stated that he "would like to see faster times than Tuesday," when the harriers faced Rhode Island.

If the weather is good for the meet, the times should be faster and all the runners are shooting for an outstanding performance in order to qualify for the Conference championship. The top seven UMass runners will make up the varsity team, while the junior varsity team will consist of the eighth to fourteenth runners.

Tom Maguire, Paul Segersten, John Scheer, John McGrail and Chris Chambers will lead the UMass squad in its quest for win number six. Coach O'Brien will rest Randy Thomas, Bill Gillin, Phil Broughton, Mickey Hawkes and Tom Wilson. O'Brien is resting the top runners who competed in Tuesday's meet so that the entire team will be ready to go at the championship meet.

The sound of the gun tomorrow will start a race in which all the UMass runners will be fighting for a spot on either the varsity or junior varsity roster. A team that may go down in the record book as the first team to win four straight Yankee Conference titles.

SUPREME-The Daily Collegian football team will be seeking to keep its perfect record intact on Monday when they play the Student Senate in a rematch of last week's disputed game. The contest will be played on the fields behind the North Phys. Ed. Building beginning at 1 p.m.

Pats Acquire QB Shiner

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) - Quarterback Dick Shiner, a 10-year National Football League veteran, was acquired by the New England Patriots Thursday on waivers from the Atlanta Falcons.

"I'd like to see him and work with him before I make any decision on what role he could fill with this club," Coach Chuck Fairbanks said after claiming Shiner for the $100 waiver price.

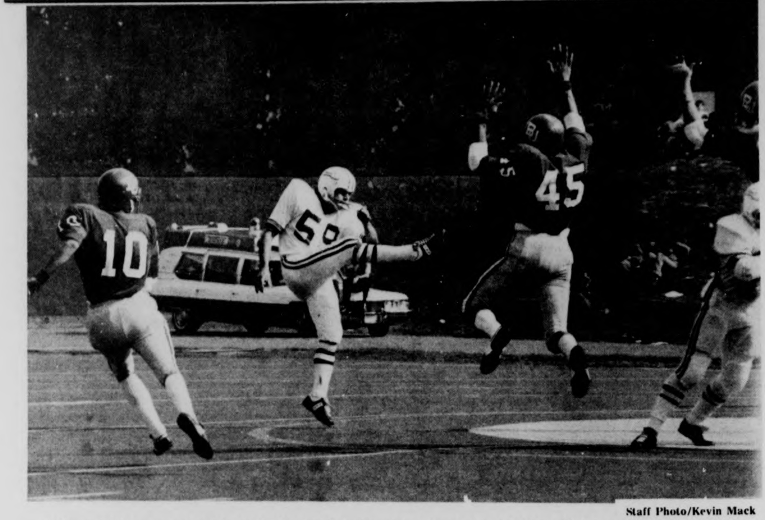
Shiner started for the Falcons this season before being replaced by Bob Lee a week ago last Sunday. In the opener against New Orleans, Shiner broke many Atlanta passing records in leading the Falcons to a 62-7 victory. He completed 13 of 15 passes for 300 yards and three touchdowns.

Basketball

Following tomorrow's UMass-URI homecoming football game, Jack Leaman and this year's basketball team will put on an inter-squad scrimmage for the public at Curry Hicks Cage at 4 p.m.

WUMV-TV Sports
Presents
"BOB ESTELLE"
Live n' In Color Sunday Nite
Bluewall Wide Screen
HOMECOMING SPECIAL —
1.) UMass — Rhode Island Football
9:15
2.) "Meet the Minutemen"
7:45
Basketball Scrimmage
Marty Kelly — Play-by-Play
Earle Barroll — Color Commentator
Bob Estelle — Guest Commentator

CARPENTERS
IN CONCERT
Special Guest Stars
SKILES AND HENDERSON
FRI. - OCT. 19 - 8 p.m.
Springfield Civic Center
1277 Main St. Springfield, Mass. 01 3
TICKETS: $6.50 - $5.50 - $4.50
For further information call 781-7086



Staff Photo/Kevin Mack

UMass kicking specialist Andy Dutkanitcz bombs one away despite a heavy onrush from B.U. defenders at last week's game against the B.U. Terriers.

Rams On Hand For Homecoming

By BILL BALLOU

The last time Rhode Island came to Amherst, UMass suffered one of the worst defeats any Dick Macpherson-coached Minutemen-Redmen team ever suffered.

It was Homecoming, and the 31-3 final was downright embarrassing.

This year the Rams have an offense potentially just as explosive, but the chances of a repeat score are small.

For one thing there are too many seniors around who remember that embarrassing afternoon. For another, MacPherson thinks his men are just about ready to put it all together.

"I get the feeling," he said yesterday, "that this team is finally starting to believe in itself."

They weren't sure after Rutgers, but then they didn't play that well against BU and still won, and they're beginning to believe that they are a good football team."

They'll have to be good to play well. Rhode Island isn't highly touted, but they've got an offense that, with the exception of quarterback Steve Crone, is composed entirely of lettermen.

Crone, a sophomore and the brother of former Harvard star Eric Crone, has been a surprise to this point in the season. He's hit on 33 of 73 passes, and taken over more of the play-calling duties as the season progressed, although head coach Jack Gregory still does most of it.

The Rams also boast two fine running backs in Sylvester "Molly" McGee and Danny Weed, both seniors. McGee has allegedly run the 40 in 4.3 and Weed is supposed to be a fast man himself.

The Rams are not as strong on defense, and a good offensive performance by UMass could result in a high score, possibly along the lines of last year's 42 points.

If you believe in comparative scores, (don't), it'll be interesting to note that the Rams lost to Maine by 20-7, while UMass beat them by 20-0. URI was done in by a 100 yard plus performance by human bowling ball Mark DeGregorio (remember him?) so the improved UMass running game could play a big role in breaking the game open.

MacPherson plans to start Paul St. Onge and Bernie Street at the running backs, and will have Phil Roland back after an injury to serve as a backup. Bob Wolfe, though still hurting a bit, will also be available for action.

Physically the Minutemen should be sound. The only man slated to miss the game is offensive tackle Tom Harris.

For Peil Pennington, tomorrow's game could be the continuation of an incredible streak. Pennington has never played in a Yankee Conference game that UMass lost. The closest he came was his sophomore season when he played a bit in a 3-3 tie with Connecticut.

It is Homecoming, with game time slated for 1:00 p.m. Rhode Island stands at 2-1-1, UMass at 4-2.

Men's,Women's Crew In Charles Regatta

By MARK DLUGOSZ

The UMass Crew Team will journey to Boston this Sunday for the Head-of-the Charles Regatta. The Head is the second largest amateur event in the United States, and the second largest regatta in the world.

The Head is by far the largest and most important meet of the crew's fall season. The UMass Crew Team has a somewhat low-key fall season (as do most schools) in that they are preparing for the spring season, when the main crew events take place.

There will be about 435 boats with several thousand oarsmen entering from all over the country. The event is three miles in length. The starting line is at the Boston University boathouse, while the finish is near Harvard Stadium.

The first race has launch time at 12:30. The race consists of the boat type known as the elite four. UMass will be represented by an "elite four" in that the four rowing the UMass boat rowed in the Dad Vail Regatta year. As most of you know, UMass won the 8 man oared shell event at the Dad Vail. The four oarsmen entered are: Tony Joneck, Peter Berg, Rich Clair, and Bill Fitzpatrick.

The next race is the open pair without a coxswain. UMass will be represented by the boat of Flanders and Gowen, both of whom rowed in the Dad Vail (but not together). Al Flanders rowed with Moran last year and finished fifteenth at the Dad Vail. Paul Gowen had rowed in the novice single and finished tenth. The launch time is at 2:15.

The crew team will launch two intermediate 8 boats comprised of sixteen members from the rest of the crew. Coach Vespoli says that these boats have about equal prowess. Their launch time is at 2:45.

For the first time ever the UMass women's crew will be competing in the Head of the Charles Regatta. The type of boat being entered is an 8 boat. Coming off an impressive multi-team meet on the Connecticut River which saw UMass beat all five teams, the Minutewomen will be facing their toughest competition of the year. Coach Bob Spousta says "his girls will be ready". Their launch time is at 3:30.

(Continued on P. 18)

Inside Sports

- Booters Host URI
- X-Country Vs. UNH
- Women Stickers Tie

WMUA

Continuing in their great American tradition, WMUA will, of course, be carrying the Minuteman-Rhode Island game live tomorrow. Game time is 1:00; air time is 12:50. Join those great American traditions Don Gorski and Larry Convoy as they bring you all the action live from Alumni Stadium. That's WMUA...91.1 FM.

WUMV-TV

If you've wondered what Collegian columnist Bob Estelle really looked like, now is the time to exercise your curiosity. WUMV-TV Sports will present another sports doubleheader bonanza at the Bluewall this Sunday night.

Estelle will join Marty Kelley and Earle Barroll in the broadcast booth during the Rhode Island-UMass homecoming football game to be aired Sunday night at 9:15. But there will be more new looks that night.

Shooting for a fourth NIT appearance in five years, the UMass basketball team makes its first public appearance at the Cage this Saturday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. and UMV-TV will be there to bring you all the plays at the Bluewall in this Homecoming Special starting at 7:45.

Pennington, Berra, Kiernan, Skinner, Murphy, Pitino, and of course ESTELLE at the Bluewall this Sunday night starting at 7:45.

Mets Go One Up, Beat A's 2-0

By BOB ESTELLE

The New York Mets took the edge in the World Series for the first time this year with the tough pitching of Jerry Koosman and Tug McGraw and the clutch hitting of John Milner and Jerry Grote.

